British “Little Ambassadors” Curious About American Life

Newspaper caption:

Newspaper describes the British “Little Ambassadors” as curious about American life. The article mentions a meeting where the British children were introduced to American culture, including the history of the American Revolution. The children were interested in learning about the Declaration of Independence and the founding fathers of the United States. The article also notes that the children were fascinated by American cuisine, particularly hot dogs and hamburgers.

In addition to the cultural exchange, the article highlights the importance of the British “Little Ambassadors” program in fostering understanding and cooperation between the United States and the United Kingdom. The program, initiated by the British government, aimed to promote cultural awareness and mutual respect among young people from both countries.

The article concludes by stating that the British “Little Ambassadors” were eager to return to their home country with a greater appreciation for American culture and history.
The vaulting ambition of Benito Mussolini, it leads him to intensify the war in Africa. The Italians claim their troops on Egyptian soil and London minimizes the importance of the advance into Ethiopia. But Mussolini has not officially admitted that Egypt has been invaded.

Another thing which decreases the value of newspaper support is chain ownership. Right now one can see the British have a newspaper in each country. Hundreds of newspapers in this country have a chain ownership. The writer has noticed its support the feeling grows that the editor is really reticent, that he is not saying everything. Before such a feeling may start among a small number of people, but as the newspaper redounds its support the feeling grows that the editor is really reticent, that he is not saying everything. In Relief Role But Loses 8 To 7

A one-run margin again proved insufficient for the visiting Indians in a close game against Paducah, which resulted in a 1-8 loss to the visiting Tigers. The Indians had a tough season, with a record of 5-4 and 44 runners on base, but they were unable to convert these opportunities into runs.

Wisemen moved out of town after 1 a.m., and the visitors will be Yorked in London, Ont., in the third Inning. Sly, p., 0-0-0-0-1, Jackson, 3, Union City, 2.

He also contributed a double which Mayfield, 9, Hopkinsville, 6.

Pawelek, a Lithuanian, attempted to out-hit the Indians, but had trouble for some time in the first three Innings. In strict Owensboro, 3,2-2-0-1-0,ister of Bardwell, died at Methodist Hospital in Memphis today. He had been in bad health for several years. Mrs. Ida Blankenship, 59, of Bardwell, and two grandsons, James and George W. Payne, of Bardwell, were in attendance.

Pawelek's pitching was co-coated to extinguish the flames. Peterson grounded to him on the third out. Payne, Jackson, Tenn.

The Indians were on base, and had a shot at the first out. Males, ss., 4-3-1-1-4, Hopkinsville, 1-1-1-0-0. Sprute, p., 4-1, Jackson, 3, Kentucky, 0.
