High School Notes

Wednesday a tryout contest was held during the regular band period, under the direction of R. H. Rettew. Hand Prett was the winner, earning the title of Marching Band Captain for the current year. The school band presented their program Thursday. Glass and other fine bands played beautiful selections. Prett, a preliminary, preceding contest, was held. The contest was represented by Anonymous, the Sophomore and Junior bands, and the Mystique by Mary Fowers and the President by Mary Z. Powers. Jesse Band was the winner of the contest.

One of the items of the program is the announcement of the program of the band. A special feature of the evening is the presence of the Misses White, who will enliven the program with their music. The program will consist of five of the finest programs of the season.

Tuesday, May 1st, the students will appear on the program. They are graded in speech and music and will be interesting. They are the grand opera we should of the high school and the program this week consists of five of the finest programs of the season.

for Americans who love to get up and go!

You know the feeling. Wandering... the way to get up and go. To see new places and new faces. To drive as far and as fast as you like. And to keep the feeling of freedom that's when you'll most appreciate this 1929 Model A. No... this steamless, powerful machine that doesn't get out of gear. The engine stands the hardest pace... With its blue, insulated, double-walled radiator, it gives dependable and durable service. Gives you the freedom and the whirlwind speed that you've been longing for. The engine that can stand up to the toughest job... that's when you'll most appreciate this 1929 Model A.

TON LITTER WORK

The loathings of our little hens have done much to make production profitable that would otherwise have been unprofitable. The hens, as well as their eggs, will be sold for a profit in the fall.

We have already noticed a considerable amount of trouble and would like to have the hens returned to their accustomed feeding habits, which are more in accordance with the time of the year than with the season of the year.

In our area, it is probable that if Kentucky farmers could be advised to return to the methods of feeding and care of hens, we would be able to produce a larger supply of eggs for market.

LAMBS LIVER

The sheep and the hog are the livestock of the county. The hog is the one that produces the most meat and the sheep produce the most wool. The hog is the one that produces the most meat and the sheep produce the most wool.
