City Financially Embarrassed

STREET IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM HALTED

The city council met in adjourned session Monday night, with Mayor W. O. Shankle presiding and all councilmen present.

After the regular routine of business was disposed of, the street improvement program was the outstanding feature of the meeting. A large number of property owners were in attendance with the expectation of hearing the street ordinance read, but was disappointed when it was announced that the city was financially embarrassed and unable to carry on the work as contemplated and announced at a recent meeting.

After considerable discussion with suggestions, the council went on record as favoring the improvement of all streets upon which water mains would be installed provided property owners on the streets to be constructed would or all intersections, relieve the city of all costs of said improvement.

Ed Thomas, who was at, filed a protest against improvement being made.

The street petitions will be filed again and all property owners given an opportunity of resigning same with the city.

It was decided that the city be paying any part of the cost of sections.

The council adjourned to meet again Monday night, May 21, at which time the street project will be featured and it is hoped that the improvement program can go forward uninterrupted.

We understand that the law provides that the city cannot spend money exceeding its revenue and the money the city contemplated securing to finance its part of the street improvement when it announced that it was "ready to go," fell flat.

STREET IMPROVEMENT BOND ISSUE DEFEATED BY 6 VOTES IN UNION CITY

Union City, Tenn., lost its street improvement bond issue on May 10 by 6 votes. Evidently those in favor of street improvement were to confident and slept on the job and now that city will have to continue its patch work.

High School Notes

The annual commencement exercises for Fulton High school opened Sunday morning at the First Methodist church, with the Rev. C. H. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist church, preaching the baccalaureate sermon. It was said to be one of the most inspiring addresses ever delivered to a class in Fulton and of unusual interest to all in attendance.

The Senior class is composed of fifty members this year, the largest in the history of the school and it was a beautiful sight to see them all in line as they entered the church Sunday morning with the High school orchestra.

The musical program under the direction of Mrs. Chas. Brann with Mrs. Maddox at the organ was a delightful feature of the service. More than twelve hundred were in attendance.

All during the week the school has been alive with activities and the various programs have been greatly enjoyed.

The following are the members of the 1928 Senior class:

S. A. HAGLER ENTERS RACE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

In this issue of The Advertiser we are authorized to announce the candidacy of S. A. Hagler for the remainder of the term of the office of Judge of Fulton county, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, to be held on August 4, 1928.

Esq. Hagler is too well known to the voters throughout Fulton county, to need an introduction through this medium. The people know him well for the excellent services he has rendered as their public servant the past six years as a county official, and hail with delight the opportunity of supporting him in his race for Judge. He hesitated at first on making the race, but his friends insisted that they be given an opportunity of showing their appreciation for the untiring efforts he has put forth in county affairs to elevate him to the office of Judge and he is well qualified to fill the office.

No public official of the county has worked harder for the interest of the taxpayers than Esq. Hagler during his six years as magistrate. He has sacrificed his personal business in order to devote close attention and see that the road program was carried out uninterrupted and every cent expended reach as far as possible. Truly he has been faithful to the trust imposed in him as the people's servant and his sole ambition is to be placed in a position where he may render even greater service.

He is well acquainted with county affairs, the needs and desires of the people, and if elected, says he will do his utmost to give the people a sound business administration. He asks that the voters, both men and women, consider his claims with assurance of his appreciation for their support in the August primary, election August 4, 1928.

HALF CASTE GIRL DOLORES DEL RIO'S NEW STARRING ROLE

The alluring Charmaine of "What Price Glory," and the madcap cigarette girl of "Loves of Carmen," Dolores Del Rio, will be seen here at the Orpheum theatre in a new role, that of Toni in "The Gateway of the Moon," when this latest Fox feature comes here for Monday and Tuesday.

This production in which the beautiful Del Rio is starred is a colorful drama of the South American jungle where white men are building a railroad at the cost of many native lives. Passion primitive and relentless is shown in strong contrast to the overpowering greed of civilization.

It is a question as to whether Fulton is to go backward or forward and every loyal citizen and property owner is urged to attend the meeting. Tell your neighbors to attend with you tonight at 8 o'clock at the City Hall.

MISSISSIPPI FLOOD BILL SIGNED BY COOLIDGE

Task of Curbing River Assumed by Government

Washington, May 17—The task of curbing the flood menace of the Father of Waters was taken over Tuesday by the federal government with the signing by President Coolidge of the Mississippi river flood control bill.

The president's signature transferred to the statute books a solution for one of the biggest domestic problems ever to confront a Congress—a problem of such magnitude that it brought a distinct departure from the long standing policy of dealing with flood control projects.

Government Responsible

Heretofore the federal government and states have cooperated in an effort to control the Mississippi, but as a result of the disastrous flood of a year ago, Congress decided to make federal authority alone responsible for checking the waters that 31 states pour into the bottleneck of the lower Mississippi valley.

For nearly five months Congress wrestled with the problem with but slow progress. Finally the Senate whipped the Jones bill into shape and then dispatched it to the House in record time. House leaders also speeded up machinery and after a number of conferences with the president, the measure was approved by an overwhelming vote.

Coolidge intends to appoint as soon as possible the civil engineer, who, with the chief of army engineers and the head of the Mississippi river commission, will constitute the board which will be in charge of planning the engineering part of the control work.

WOMAN IS INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Machine Catches Fire; Eight Other Occupants Escape Serious Injury

Union City, Tenn.—Mrs. Harry Lee Watson, 19, was painfully injured when her auto, which she was driving on the Union City to Reelfoot Lake Highway about one and one-half miles below Troy, struck some loose rock and skidded, turning completely over and landing in the field.

By some means while the car was turning over it caught fire and was completely burned. There were nine occupants of the car at the time of the accident, but all escaped without much injury except Mrs. Watson. She was rushed to a local hospital, and physicians think she will fully recover.

PHIL WARREN'S GARAGE AND SERVICE STATION OPEN FOR BUSINESS

The opening of Phil Warren's garage and service station on Carr street last Saturday was a brilliant success and hundreds of friends accepted his invitation and attended the opening, enjoyed his hospitality. Flowers and souvenirs were liberally distributed and all who purchased five gallons of gas were given a gallon of oil free.

The new garage and filling station is a beautiful structure equipped with all modern conveniences.

Mr. Ivan Brady is in charge of the repair shop where the very best of service is rendered.

The latest models of Chrysler cars ornament the beautiful show rooms which are being admired by all who see them.

Mr. Warren is specializing on the celebrated Cooper tires and auto accessories.

Phil Warren is not a stranger in Fulton business circles and no man in Fulton stands higher in the esteem of the home people generally. For some years he has been connected with the automobile business in Fulton and his new place of business is a credit to the city. His many friends wish for him every success in his latest venture.

LESSONS IN GETTING YOUR MAN GIVEN BY COMEDIENNE

The present day flapper will be given the opportunity of witnessing a new bundle of tricks next week when Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, comes to the Grand Theatre in her latest screen comedy, "She's a Sheik."

What the dashing comedienne does to men who deign to give her the cold shoulder is the foundation for one of the best photoplays Miss Daniels has ever made.

The setting of "She's a Sheik" is in Algeria, home of the Foreign Legion and intrigue and the popular star squeezes every possible bit of romance and color out of these picturesque surroundings by taking the offensive in the game of love.

Richard Arlen, now making such a success in a principal role in "Wings" is the object of this offensive and is perfectly cast as the handsome captain of the Foreign Legion who finally succumbs to Miss Daniels' tactics and charm.

The story was written by John McDermott and adapted for the screen by Lloyd Corrigan. Many say that it is even better than "Sénorita" and the production of the star, "Swim, Girl, Swim." It was directed by Clarence Badger.

ENTERS RACE Judge Walter McMurry Announces for County Judge

To the Voters of Fulton County, Kentucky:

I take this means to publicly announce my candidacy for the nomination for the office of County Judge of Fulton county, to fill out the remainder of the unexpired term of the late Judge, The Hon. Chas. D. Nugent, deceased. I am aware that during his administration, as County Judge, a standard of progressiveness was set in the administration of the county affairs, especially in a road building program, that will be hard for a successor in office, to maintain. I believe in good roads all over the county, and having as many hard surfaced roads as we can build, taking into consideration the financial condition and the current needs of the county.

connecting routes with the view of finally getting state maintenance for them, and thus relieve the county of this expense. I believe in practicing economy in public affairs, as well as in private affairs. Living within our income is not a new slogan, but is a sound business proposition. The financial system of the county should be so adjusted as to maintain the integrity of the outstanding obligations of the county and make our county warrants one hundred cents on the dollar, and the indebtedness of the county should be reduced as speedily as possible. Perhaps there are many things of interest to the tax payers of the county that should be mentioned in an announcement for public office, but I cannot go into a minute discussion at this time, and as occasions arise, will express my views on all county problems.

I have been engaged in the practice of law for twenty years in this county, and from the experience I have had, I believe I am qualified for the office for which I aspire. I have never held a county office. Eight years ago I made the race for the nomination for county judge and was defeated by a narrow margin. I have no direct promise to make other than if nominated and elected I will do my very best to give you a progressive, economical administration of your county affairs, and on these principles I submit my candidacy to you, trusting that you will give me your endorsement at the Democratic primary election in August.

Yours truly,
WALTER J. McMURRY.

EDITOR GIVEN A TREAT

Mr. A. T. Conley generously thought of the editor last Monday and presented us with a box of his luscious home grown strawberries, the first of the season, and we will also add that they were the largest ever grown in this vicinity. Some of them measured 2 1-2 inches in circumference and were of delicious flavor. We thank you for the treat, Mr. Conley and can safely recommend your berries as being the finest grown in the state.

With special sport equipment, no smarter car than this Smart as a racing craft to begin with. Long and low... with rakish, youthful lines. But with special sport equipment... it's even smarter. The peer of any car in its class.

Six wire wheels... their colors contrasting with body shades. Spares carried jauntily forward in special fender wells. A trunk rack behind... suggesting a series of week-end journeys. There's real style, if you ever saw it. There's swank... snap... personality.

Add to all this the charm of bodies by Fisher. The deep-cushioned comfort and luxury that Fisher bodies provide. Then you'll find the All-American Six leagues ahead of any rival. And you'll marvel again at its truly remarkable price.

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—He taught them as one having authority.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Answers Some Hard Questions.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaches Great Duties.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Answers His Critics.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Love, the Law of the Kingdom.

1. The Parable of the Husbandmen (vv. 1-12).
Having put the scribes, chief priests and elders to confusion by a skilful counter question when they demanded to know His authority, Jesus by means of a story lays before them His claim of divine authority and charges them with betrayal of trust and with plotting to murder the very Son of God. His teaching cut them to the quick, and they sought to lay hands upon Him, but desisted for fear of the people.

2. The vineyard (v. 13), represented Israel (See Ps. 80 and Isa. 5).
3. The husbandmen (v. 1) represented the rulers who were charged with responsibility for the spiritual interests of the people.

4. The Son (vv. 2-5) represented the prophets whom God sent to Israel, even including John the Baptist.

5. The judgment of the Lord of the vineyard (v. 9). This represented the time when the Jews shall be brought to account for their treatment of the servants of God and of Jesus Himself.

6. The Tribute Money (vv. 13-17).
They already would have gladly taken Him by violence and killed Him, but they feared the people. In order to destroy Him they seek to discredit Him among the people (v. 13).

1. Their question (v. 14).
"Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" The Pharisees contended that since God was the real King of Israel, it was not obligatory, yea, it was even sinful to give tribute (taxes) to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod; with flattery on their lips, they put this subtle question. For Him to answer "Yes" would have discredited Him with the people, and to have said "No" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17).
He asks that a coin be brought and inquires whose image and superscription it bears, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. In this reply the Lord escapes their trap and enunciates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government.

3. The Resurrection of the Dead (vv. 18-27).
The Pharisees and Herodians being silenced, the Sadducees came with a question which involved not only the mortality but the resurrection of the body. They denied the reality of the resurrection, and believed not in angel nor spirit (Acts 23:8).

1. The case proposed (vv. 19-23).
The law of Moses made it not only legal but morally binding in the case of a man dying without children for his brother to take his wife (Deut. 22:5). They propose the case of a woman married successively to seven brothers. They ask whose wife she will be in the resurrection.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 24-28).
By a quotation from the Mosaic law (Ex. 3:6) He proves the resurrection of the dead, and their continued existence after death as glorified beings. He shows that marriage is for this present life. He points out that their great error was due to two things.

(1) Ignorance of the Scriptures (v. 24). In the very Scriptures which they professed to believe was positive proof of the resurrection (Ex. 3:6).

(2) Ignorance of the power of God (v. 24). God is able to provide a life where there is no death, no births or marriages.

IV. The Great Commandment of the Law (vv. 28-34).
Christ's answer shows marvelous insight. He sums up man's whole duty in one word—love. The first and great commandment is supreme and undivided love of God. The second is like unto it in that love is its center, but love for our neighbor in the measure that we love ourselves. Having put His questioners to silence, Jesus now puts to them a question which involves the central doctrine of the Christian faith—the person of Christ (vv. 35-40). Is He human or divine, or both?

Some Good Advice
There is nothing more that I can say. Christ is before you to take freely; accept Him; trust Him; believe what He says; assume that you are His and behave as if you were.—Alexander Whyte.

Without Love
Without first love we may retain ceaseless activity, immaculate purity, severest orthodoxy, but there will be no light shining in a dark place.—G. Campbell Morgan.

To His Dear Annabel

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

"MY DEAR ANNABEL—"
Foster Deming paused a moment to consider the three lies he had just penned. The girl wasn't his, she was decidedly more annoying than fear, and her name wasn't Annabel. It was Susan. Then he resumed his task determinedly.

"My Dear Annabel:
"I am sorry that you are sick of school but it would have been your father's wish, I know, that you remain there until you graduate. Put out of your mind any such thought as running away. You are too old for that sort of thing.

"As for this boy you frankly say you are infatuated with—cut it out. In the first place, he is undoubtedly just amusing himself, and in the second, you are too young for that sort of thing.

"This is a rather brief letter, as I am up to my neck in work. My treasure of a stenographer left me to get married and I haven't replaced her.

"Be a good girl and study so as to be a credit to the memory of your father.

"Sincerely yours,

"Foster Deming"

Slipping the letter in the envelope he felt the pleasing sensation that a man knows with a deferred duty performed. By the way, how old was the child, really? It had been four years ago that her father, given but a few weeks to live, had confided his daughter to his junior partner's interest.

"Her mother will be her guardian, but my wife is a busy woman and—well, I would like to think that Susan, I mean Annabel, would once in a while get the sort of advice or friendly letter that a father would give her."

Foster had known intuitively the things his friend would have liked to say. That his wife, good woman though she was, was so involved in this civic duty and that social obligation that her daughter would get but a very casual supervision. A good school, liberal allowance, and a generous gift each birthday and Christmas would largely comprise what she saw as her parental duty.

Four years ago Annabel had been—well, say twelve or thirteen—maybe fourteen. That would make her—oh, somewhere between sixteen and twenty. But he ought to know, really, before he advised her as to being too young for this and too old for that. He might take a run down some time and see her, he supposed.

Three days later the telephone rang on Mr. Foster Deming's desk. He hoped it would prove the applicant he was looking for, but it didn't. The agitated voice of a woman struck his ears.

"Is this Mr. Deming? It is? Well, Susan, or Annabel Wentworth has simply disappeared. She left a note saying she had eloped, but we can't think with whom. She knew simply nobody to elope with. I've tried to get her mother, but they tell me she is at a convention in St. Louis. I'm so upset and I do need a man's advice. In these days—"

He simply had to break in on the flow of words. "Don't worry. It's not your fault, I'm sure. I'll see what I can do."

But after he had hung up he sat for some minutes in irritated meditation. If the girl's mother had been dead he would have resigned himself to his trust. As it was, he had no authority in the matter. No right to interfere, other than the right any man has to protect any young and ignorant person.

"An applicant, Mr. Deming," the assistant broke in on his thoughts. "Send her in, please."

She was the last looking one so far. Slender, of excellent carriage, well-bred in manner.

"Please sit down, Miss—"

"I heard you needed a stenographer," she said quietly, ignoring the opportunity to give her name. And because her interviewer was so attracted by her low and charming voice, he let the question of her name go for a minute.

"Can you—er—spell?" he asked.

"Try me," she said.

"Have you had any experience?"

"That is my weak spot," admitted his caller frankly. "But you might try me out. If I don't make good, the remedy is in your hands."

"When can you begin?" he said.

"At once," and for the first time she smiled. She took off her coat, her little felt hat, fluffed up her hair with her fingers, took a pencil out of her bag with a business-like air.

"Where is my desk, please? My name—or, that—Susan used to be Annabel Wentworth."

It was months later and Foster Deming was penning an advertisement for a stenographer. "All my best ones get married," he complained to the young lady who was leaning over him with her arms about his neck.

"Well—I did fill in, didn't I?" asked Annabel. "I bet you would have kept me in that old school till I was thirty if I hadn't run away the day I was twenty-one! Why, I took those business subjects just because there was nothing else to take. I hadn't any idea of ever using it, until you suggested I be your stenographer."

"I, darling?"

"Why, yes. Your letter. That was what made me think of it."

"My dear Annabel—" But this time he meant every word.

(Chestnut Glade)
Baccalaureate sermon at Chestnut Glade First Sunday afternoon was preached by Elder Lee Murray, of Nashville, Primitive Baptist, brother of Mrs. Reeds and Mrs. Martha Nix.

Elder Bun Ross introduced the speaker, who is a long time friend with an appropriate talk. The subject "Life and its Purpose," with especial emphasis on service, was ably discussed. The music was rendered by the high school.

The graduates and their friends in the reserved area were dignified and proud as the case may be. All seemed to enjoy this service very much.

Graduation Wednesday night was largely attended. A musical number by Thelma Golden, song by Clay McConnell, salutatory, Miss Rachel Hagler; valedictory, Mr. Maynard Reed. All acquitted themselves nobly. The Hon. Jesse Cooper presented the graduation address, stressing "service and honoring God in all things."

Mr. Lowe presented the diplomas to the following graduates: Miss Helen Hall, Miss Mamie Ridgeway, Misses Rachel and Rebecca Hagler, Mr. Maynard Reed and Mr. Melton Counce. High School play, Friday evening closed the exercises at Chestnut Glade for this season.

MIXED

From head to heel she was exquisitely modern, and the shop walker to whom this fair young thing had beckoned felt his heart beat all the faster at the honor due him.

She asked him where she could get "pencils for the eyebrows."

The shopwalker was inclined to deafness, and he misunderstood her.

"The stationery section is upstairs, madam," he began.

"But I want them for eyebrows," interrupted the slim young woman, somewhat puzzled.

"Oh, highbrow stuff! Better ask them at the book counter."

How Much Electric Service do you get For Your Money?

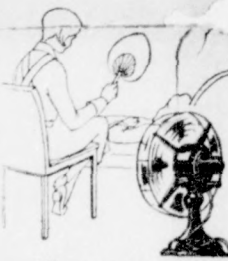

*You can operate a Washing Machine 3 hours for 10c

*You can operate a Vacuum Cleaner 5 1/2 hours for 10c

*You can operate a Sewing Machine 12 hours for 10c

*You can operate a 12-inch Oscillating Fan 15 1/2 hours for 10c

*The figures above are based on an average rate of 11c per kilowatt-hour.

Most of you housewives who read this advertisement are overworked. Washing, ironing, sweeping, sewing, preparing meals, caring for the children, and doing a thousand and one other duties in the home, keep you hurrying from morning till night.

These household labors wear you out, ruin your health, steal your good looks, make you old before your time. Most husbands don't realize that housework is drudgery—although they are quick to grumble if things don't go smoothly.

But you can banish the hardest and most tiring of your housework by using electrical equipment and electric power to do it. The pictures at the left tell just how much electric service you can get for one dime. Consider these examples:

A week's wash for a family of five can be done in an hour and a half. At the average rate of 11c per kilowatt-hour for electricity, you can operate the washer three hours for 10c.

A five-room house can be properly vacuum-cleaned in an hour and a half (once or twice a week is often enough). At the 11c rate, you can operate the vacuum cleaner five and a half hours for 10c.

And remember, if you use more than a very moderate amount of current, your rate per kilowatt-hour is reduced.

Compare the average cost of living today with what it was fourteen years ago—just before the World War began.

Taxes have more than doubled. Food costs 62% more. Clothing costs 57% more. Fuel costs 88% more. Furniture costs 108% more. Rents are 64% higher. These are government figures.

But the highest residential rate for electric service is 12% less than it was in 1914. Only the most careful economies have made it possible for us to reduce and keep down the rate in spite of the large amount we spend for improvements every year.

We aim to give our customers the lowest rates consistent with satisfactory service, the use of first-class equipment and steady growth. Please do not hesitate to let us know if your service is not satisfactory.

If you wish to learn to read your own meters we shall be glad to send an instructor to your home to teach you. Just telephone or call at our office.

30,000 BERRY PICKERS NEEDED

Paducah, Ky.—Growers should make arrangements at once for obtaining approximately 30,000 berry pickers to handle the 1928 strawberry crop, E. S. Barger, sales manager of the McCracken County Growers' Association, said Monday.

It is necessary to know the needs of each berry grower to obviate possible danger of crop loss by reason of failure to get the berries out of the field. The total acreage pledged to the association this year is 4,700. There are 2,285 growers who expect to ship their crops thru the association. About 600 carloads are expected to be shipped.

It is likely that a joint meeting of growers and prospective berry pickers will be held this week to make definite arrangements. The shipping season probably will start about May 24 or 25, and continue from two to three weeks.

FULTON ROAD BONDS ARE SOLD

$50,000 Issue Disposed of By Fiscal Court to Nashville Firm

The $50,000 additional road bonds which the fiscal court voted to advertise last week in order to buy modern maintenance machinery and complete the roads started last year have already been sold and the money will be available shortly to start work on the county roads.

Obtaining an offer from James Moran, representative of Rogers Caldwell & Co., of Nashville, the court rescinded its action in ordering the bonds advertised for sale, and sold them to Caldwell & Co., for par at 4 1/2 per cent interest. Other county bonds have carried 5 per cent interest.

These are the last road bonds the county can sell for some time as this practically takes up all the road bonds authorized at the road bond election a few years ago and also puts the county at about the limit of its bonded indebtedness under the state constitution, which is 5 per cent of the assessed valuation.

This last money will permit the county to buy machinery necessary to maintain the roads already built and other roads to be built, and finish the gaps left open the past year, thus connecting the network of roads started throughout the county.

Great progress has been made in building roads in Fulton county the past four years. There was not a single hard road in the county prior to two years ago. Now there is a hard road through the entire length of the county, which is a state road, and many other roads graveled, leading in to this main highway, giving hard roads to every district in the county and built where they reach the greatest number of people and do the most good.

Concrete Pavements "Stand the Gaff"!

The Bates Road, built by Illinois Highway Officials to test pavements, contained 63 sections of three principal paving materials in various combinations and thicknesses.

At the end of the tests, after 377,460 tons had passed—motor trucks gradually loaded until each rear wheel carried 8,000 pounds—only 13 sections remained undamaged.

Ten were portland cement concrete; the other three had heavy portland cement concrete foundations.

Concrete pavements are always level, smooth and rigid—safest in all weather. Remember these facts when roads or streets are to be paved in your community.

THE TYPE WHICH IS NEEDED TODAY

It takes all kinds of people to make a community, but some are more indispensable than others.

There are those who go thru life with a smooth serenity that is seldom if ever disturbed. They are never ruffled because they do not exert themselves enough to go thoroughly into a condition of affairs that demands their attention. They scarcely ever do any harm in the world and rarely trouble themselves enough to do any good. They are generally popular, but they command little admiration.

Then there is a kind who never let their minds be spread at their feet. They are fair students of men and affairs, they are willing to make an effort to get the facts, reach a conclusion after a careful study of the situation, and then stand by their convictions whatever the consequences. They give praise where it is due and they are not afraid to criticize, where criticism is necessary. They are constructive citizens of the community, and right or wrong, they are very much to be desired, because they are honest in their opinions.

And the third kind—need we mention him at all—the chronic kickers who see no good in anything, who question others' motives and who never were known to compliment any good deed or any public-spirited movement. They came into the world kicking, go thru life with one perpetual kick, and raise an awful kick when they have to leave. They are a destructive force in society, but more destructive to themselves.

TEAM WORK IN BUSINESS

Team work in business is an essential today, just the same as team work in any line of sport is necessary for a victory, and following this example the United States Chamber of Commerce is adopting a policy whose ultimate purpose is expected to be "Team Work for Prosperity."

At the national convention of this organization that subject was the general headline for all meetings, in which there was a feeling expressed for cooperation of business interests in promoting local and national prosperity.

Prominent executives talked on new problems of mass production, group buying and selling, and the increased competition between industries. Only by working together locally and within industries and nationally through the organization, American business men are helping the country to achieve and maintain prosperity, according to the decision based by the executives of that organization.

They also reached the following conclusion: "American prosperity is organic. Do injury to one section of the country or one branch of economic endeavor and it is felt throughout the organism. For example, the adverse effects of the Mississippi flood ramified throughout the country."

The all importance of team work as applied to big business, would work just as successfully for the smaller business dealers today, and there is a general tendency along that line now in all communities for better feeling and cooperation, instead of the jealousies and petty squabbles that prevailed a few years ago.

PROVIDING SUNSHINE

Is the War over? Yes, the war is over for most of us, but is it over for everyone? How about the men in the hospitals? Many of them have been there ever since the war, many of them will never leave the hospitals. These men enlisted in the prime of life—they had their aspirations, some were in the midst of college courses when their country called; they were studying to be doctors, lawyers, engineers; others had just started out in business for themselves; most of them were wage earners, and now they spend their days in the hospitals throughout the land. They are not downhearted—the atmosphere of cheer pervades the Government hospitals, and facing this disappointment in the fulfillment of their dreams, they still can smile.

These are our heroes! Must we have the tread of marching feet, the cheers of the watching throngs to recognize them? We cheered them when they marched away, we cheered them when they came back to us—who cheers them now?

The American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary and other service organizations are cheering them through their service programs. The Government is doing a great deal for these men—good hospitals are provided, and excellent care given them, but the moral pat on the back, the Government is not in a position to give—that must come from the outside. And thus the army of those who have not forgotten provides the sunshine of thoughtfulness for the service men and women in the hospitals.

Each year the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary holds a poppy sale with its double mission—to remind the public that the war is not yet over for many, and to raise funds for local relief work for the service men and women and their families. All over the land the little red poppy of the American Legion and Auxiliary will breathe to you its message: "BUY ME—I stand for service. I enabled one cent to be earned by a disheartened service man in the hospital who needed it, and all you pay for me goes for service for those for whom the war is not yet over. BUY ME!"

"WEAR ME—I represent the sacrificial blood of the men who fell on Flanders fields. I am a memorial to all who died in service. In reverence and understanding WEAR ME!"

These poppies will be on sale here Saturday, the 26th.

A FEW LOOSE FEATHERS

By J. T. Watkins

Now is the best time of the year to begin your battle with the mites and lice that are beginning to show up on your poultry.

Paint all roosts with a good coat of coal oil, or any of the creosote dips, being sure to fill all cracks and knot holes with a good share of the oil.

If scaly-leg is beginning to show up on your older fowls, dip their legs in coal oil up to the feathers, repeat this in about two weeks. This is the best way to get rid of scaly-leg.

Go over each fowl thoroughly with sodium-fluoride, rubbing it well into the skin under the feathers, especially around the vent. It will kill every louse that comes in contact with it.

Clean out the poultry house and dropping boards, burn all the nesting material, putting in new straw powder good, with any of the insect powder, and see how contented the hens will be when they go on the nest to lay. They will not be fighting lice all the time, but can tend to business.

Push your young stock during the next two months so that they will be in their prime by show time. Remember, condition counts quite a bit with the judges.

Last year we had twenty-three breeds of poultry at the show this year we expect over thirty. There will be entries of Kiwi, Speckled Sussex, Old English Dorking and possibly others that have never been shown in Fulton.

STAND BY YOUR TOWN

If you think your town is best, Tell 'em so.

If you'd have it lead the rest, Help it grow.

When there's anything to do, Let the fellows count on you— You'll feel bully when it's thru.

Don't you know.

If you're used to giving knocks, Change your style;

Throw bouquets instead of rocks.

For a while, Let the other fellow roast, Shun him as you would a ghost.

Meet his hammer with a boast And a smile.

When a stranger from afar Comes along,

Tell him who and what you are— Make it strong.

Needn't flatter, never bluff, Tell the truth, for that's enough;

Join the boosters—they're the stuff, Sing your song!

POULTRY

MAKE PROFIT IN RAISING TURKEYS

Most people consider that it is practically impossible to raise turkeys. However, the results of some breeders as well as those of the experiment stations show that it is not only possible to raise turkeys, but it is also possible to make a profit at the work.

When turkeys are being raised a producer has only one thing in mind, namely, keeping them alive and healthy so that they will grow into marketable poultry. With chickens there are two propositions to watch, eggs and market poultry.

Turkeys are subject to many of the ailments that bother chickens, but the chief trouble has been a disease known as blackhead. This disease affects turkeys of all ages, but is particularly disastrous when poulters are just nicely feathered.

There has been a reason for these losses in many cases. Chickens are affected with blackhead, but it does not usually kill them. In many cases chickens have acted as carriers of the disease to the turkeys. In view of this many people have found it advantageous to raise the poulters away from chickens and on fresh ground. This has encouraged the use of incubators and brooders for turkeys and, where properly managed, they have proved very satisfactory.

When young poulters are reared with chickens they usually get worms. Worms seem to help the parasites that cause blackhead, as it makes an opening for the parasite to enter the system. People who raise their young turkeys on fresh ground, away from other poultry, are not apt to be troubled with blackhead. Turkeys will even stand confinement, if plenty of green stuff, good sanitation and adequate protection is provided. The Minnesota experiment station raised turkeys in confinement for the last three years. It is not necessary for the young poulters to catch grasshoppers, as animal protein needed in their ration can be supplied with meat scraps.

First Feed of Poults of Much Importance

The first feed of the poults is very important. The second day they should be given a little clean drinking water and have access to some fine sand.

The third day they will show signs of hunger. Feed them about five times each day for several days. Hard-boiled eggs, clabber cheese, corn bread and pinhead oats are all good foods for the baby turk.

Give only what they will clean up quickly. Keep them hungry and looking for more. As they develop they may be given cracked wheat, corn meal and hulled oats. Good results will be obtained by keeping bran before them at all times. Sweet skim milk and buttermilk may be given in the early morning. Green feed and grit should be given, if it must be purchased from the poultry supply dealers.

When the hen is allowed to range, the turks will get plenty of exercise and pick up lots of bugs and worms as well as weed seed and green material. One must be careful to drive the mother in before a rainstorm and put her and her brood in a house that does not leak.

The hen should not be allowed to roost away from her coop a single night while poulters are small. Rats and skunks may steal her young and a storm may come up during the night and destroy the young. Keep a watchful eye on the flock and success will be assured.

Late Molters

The most desirable of the late laying hens which molt as late as September 15 or later should be mated with the best males of the flock or preferably with males secured from a breeder of a good strain of production-bred stock. A small pen of 15 to 25 breeders will produce cockerels for the flock matings the following season and, furthermore, will help to lay the foundation for a flock of high producing birds.

Giving Eggs Air

Cooling the eggs gives them an airing and replaces the stale air in the egg chambers. It also slows down the hatch. The early hatches need no cooling except the amount received while they are turned. If the eggs are cooled too much twice a day it is evident that it will take some time to bring them back to 103 degrees. It often means that three or four hours out of each twenty-four the eggs will be developing at a temperature below 103 degrees.

Kill Weak Chicks

This advice given by the Ohio College of Agriculture seems a little bit cruel, but it is probably worth following: Do not under any circumstances help chicks out of the shell. Chicks which do not have enough vitality to get out of the shell, either because of a lack of vitality in the egg or because of faulty incubation, are not worth having. "Kill and burn all weak or crippled chicks as soon as the hatch is over. Weak chicks are always a menace to the flock."

Clean heat

No black kettles to scour!

How much pleasanter cooking is, when there are no black pots and pans to scour afterward! Every woman who cooks with a Perfection Oil Stove is spared that horrid nuisance.

There is never a speck of soot. For in the long chimneys, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the cooking.

Perfection flames stay at the height you set them, so you need never fear they will "creep up" and make the kitchen sooty.

Soot, as you know, is half-burned kerosene—just wasted heat. With Perfections you have real fuel economy, as all the oil is changed into cooking heat. They burn only kerosene, the safe household fuel.

Miss Allen says—

"Utensil bottoms are free from soot when cooking is done on the Perfection Stove."

MISS LUCY G. ALLEN
Principal, Boston School of Cookery.

With Perfection you will have wonderful cooking results, and your utensils will stay shiny as new. See the newest Perfections at any dealer's—1 to 5 burner sizes. Priced from $7.25 to $130.

BURRUS SAYS FISHING IS FINE AT REELFOOT

Veteran Sportsman Makes Annual Survey of Conditions; Is Enthusiastic

Fishing for sport on Reelfoot Lake is constantly growing better, according to Tom Burrus, veteran sportsman of the Reelfoot Lake country. The past three years have been ideal for breeding bream, perch, crappie, black bass and other fish that inhabit the waters of the lake and today most any novice can take a catch from the shimmering blue waters that would be a delight to the eye and heart of experienced fishermen of less favored regions.

Burrus was born and reared on a dome overlooking Reelfoot Lake where Reelfoot River (now known as Blue Bank Bayou) crosses Highway No. 21, just east of Tiptonville, Tenn., and has lived there all his life. He is the dean of the Reelfoot Lake sportsmen, an authority on the fish and game that abound in Reelfoot Lake and along its shores, a duck hunter and fisherman par excellence.

In the early spring of each year Burrus makes a survey of fishing conditions of the lake. This year's survey was made a few days ago. Tying up his boat on Lamb Bar, just off Donaldson's Point, on the southwestern shore of the lake, with 15 minnows in his minnow bucket, he caught 11 No. 1 crappie weighing 25 pounds, two catfish weighing eight pounds, a total of 33 pounds of fish within 25 minutes' fishing. The two missing minnows died in the minnow bucket and could not be used.

Such an authoritative statement as this of Mr. Burrus will be welcomed by the many thousand sportsmen who make their annual trek to Reelfoot Lake, the Sportsman's Paradise in Nature's "Wonderland."

NATIONAL COTTON SHOW AT MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—In recognition of the great importance of the cotton industry to the Southland, "King Cotton" is being given a prominent place among the features of the Tri-State Fair and National Dairy Exposition at Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 13 to 20, as the greatest agricultural show ever held in the South.

Under the auspices of the National Cotton Show approximately $10,000 in prizes will be awarded for the best single stalks of cotton grown in Dixie in 1928. The show is being organized to include the entire cotton growing section, and affords open competition to all growers. Preliminary shows will be held at Atlanta and Dallas, with the final and championship showing at the Tri-State Fair.

A big feature at Memphis will be the great display of cotton products and by-products that will be exhibited by the manufacturing interests, with particular emphasis on the many products now being manufactured in the south.

With a cash prize of $1,000 for the grand champion stalk of cotton and twenty other cash prizes at each of the three shows, ranging in value from $500 to $5, this show is sure to meet with an enthusiastic response from growers in all sections of the South, and its influence will not fail to greatly stimulate the economical production of better cotton.

This is the first time that a cotton show of this magnitude has ever been attempted, and it is made possible through the interest and cooperation of Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation and the Southern Division of the National Fertilizer Association.
