PROSPERITY STARES FULTON IN THE FACE

Fulton Logical Point For Big I. C. Terminal

The Illinois Central railroad yards at Fulton, the southern terminal of the Fulton-Edgewood cut-off and crossing of the two great trunk lines of the I. C. System is a lively scene of railroad activities. The huge locomotives coming in over the new line entering the yards pulling trains of ninety to one hundred and forty-five loaded cars marks a new history-making epoch in railroad circles and sounds the keynote of untold prosperity in Fulton, destined to be one of the greatest terminal points on the I. C. between Chicago and New Orleans with trains entering and going out five directions.

The following is an interesting article by A. F. Blaess, chief engineer, published in the May number of the Illinois Central Magazine:

EDGEWOOD CUT-OFF COMPLETED

The opening of the new constructed line of the Illinois Central System from Edgewood, Ill., to Fulton, Ky., now ready for use, not only marks an engineering achievement worthy of note and a definite step forward in the improvement of this railroad's service between its northern and southern cities, but is touched with a romance that savors of the early days of railroading. The 169 miles of the "Edgewood cut-off," as it has been called, run for a great part through country in which the whistle of the locomotive and rumble of trains never have been heard. Some of this region is broken by the foothills of the Ozarks so that the work of location and construction offered problems that tested the metropolis, the railroad is assured of uninterrupted through traffic even in the event of trouble at either crossing.

Like most of the railway systems of the United States, the Illinois Central lines have been built up by the purchase or consolidation of various railroads and, as a consequence, it has come into possession of sections of railroad that were built without considering the volume of traffic to be handled in later years. That portion of the Illinois Central System north of the Ohio River between Cairo and Chicago was constructed in the early fifties and from the time of its construction until the acquisition of the line south of the Ohio River in about 1882 it was operated independently, with its southern terminus at Cairo.

The topography of the country is such that it was comparatively inexpensive to get straight alignment and easy grades between Chicago and Centuria, but that part of the line from Carbondale to Cairo traversed rough and hilly country, making it costly to obtain easy grades or curvature, so this portion of the line was constructed and has been operated since with maximum gradients of .8 per cent northbound, and maximum curves of 5 degrees.

Growth of Southern Lines

While the Illinois Central before 1882 maintained its southern terminus at Cairo, there was being constructed and operated by different corporations, several railroads which later formed a continuous line north out of New Orleans, having its northern terminus on

Loyal Citizens Take Notice

Much has been said recently about Fulton going out to the industries, offering such inducements and concessions sufficient to attract attention. This is a laudable movement and every encouragement should be given the ones sponsoring the undertaking. Other towns are securing industries and some are making sacrifices to get them, and in some instances large bonuses are paid. For instance Union City landed a branch of the Brown Shoe Co., and planked down $100,000.

The editor of this paper is anxious to see new industries coming in our direction and we believe reasonable inducements and concessions should be made to locate them, but we are not in favor of buying any institution, unless we are holding the majority of stock. But listen, gentle reader, we earnestly believe with all our might that the industries we already have in Fulton should be treated with due courtesy before we expect outsiders to set up and take notice that Fulton is a good town in which to locate.

No wonder we are slow in procuring industries when we patronize every peddler coming along with a chunk of ice, up. Do these peddlers contribute anything to the welfare of the community? Do they help pay for educating your children and supporting your churches? Will they extend to you the courtesies of credit when you are in need? Will they assist in building streets? We answer, NO. Absolutely nothing will they contribute to bettering the city's interest, and wouldn't attend your funeral if you were dead.

We can hardly believe any loyal citizen will patronize these peddlers infesting the city after thinking the matter over seriously, because we know you want every legitimate business in Fulton to succeed.

LARGE PLATE GLASS BROKEN

The large plate glass show window at Little & Read's garage on Fourth street was broken Saturday night when the upper wall above the window pressed too hard upon the glass casing. The structure is being reinforced and a new glass ordered.

BIBLE CLASS ATTENDS MEMORIAL SERVICES

About fifty members of the Mormon B. Daniel Bible class drove to Mt. Pleasant church Sunday to hold memorial exercises over the grave of their former teacher.

Upon arrival at the church the regular routine Sunday School service was held, the lesson being taught by City Attorney Heber Finch, who supplied for the regular teacher, Joe Davis, who could not attend.

The Sunday School of Mt. Pleasant Church held memorial services at eleven o'clock. Upon invitation the class attended in a body and assisted in the singing.

State Senator Garth Ferguson gave the Memorial address, which was well received. In several instances he touched upon the life of Mormon Daniel, which brought tears to the eyes of many of his friends.

Mr. Ferguson's address was a masterpiece, as a memorial. After dismissal the congregation adjourned to the cemetery, where the graves were decorated while the Bible Class held their memorial to their departed teacher.

Here Mr. Finch eulogized Mormon Daniel in a very fitting tribute. The class placed a large wreath on the grave.

When the decoration services were over the crowd gathered around a large table erected in the grove where the best banquet the writer ever attended was spread.

The boys from Fulton showed how they appreciated country style cooking and before the spread was near over they had all "lost their appetites."

A friendly feeling was cemented between the congregation of Mt. Pleasant church and the Bible Class.

We were invited to come out at any time we could, while a standing invitation was given any or all to visit our class in Fulton.

W. J. MOSS OPENS REAL ESTATE OFFICE IN FULTON

W. J. Moss, well known real estate agent, has recently returned from Florida, filled with renewed energy and ambition to place Fulton prominently on the map as an ideal place in which to live and prosper. Few men are better acquainted with Fulton and surrounding country, than Mr. Moss, and he is honest in saying that we are located in the garden spot of America with every environment for the making of a good city or agricultural development worth while. He has opened an office in the City National Bank building, on the lower floor, where he will be glad to impart valuable information on any real estate deal you may have in mind. He is making a specialty of improved grain and stock farms, dairy farms, truck farms, timber lands, business property, residential property, vacant lots and rentals. His telephone number is 305. If you are in the market for real estate, tell him about it. If you have real estate to sell or rental property, see him at the City National Bank.

"SPARROWS" CALLED MARY'S GREATEST

Famous Star Seen As Impish Hoyden And Tender "Little Mother" In New Film

Mary Pickford, who has made a score of screen masterpieces and brought pleasure to millions, has just completed a picture which is said by many critics to be the best of her career. The picture is "Sparrows," a United Artists Corporation release, and it comes to the Orpheum theatre Monday and Tuesday.

The role of Mama Mollie offers to Mary Pickford a splendid opportunity. At times she is an impish, mischievous little hoyden, and yet again the tender mother heart yearning over the sorrows of the babies and comforting them with stolen dreams and magic kisses.

There is no fine raiment for this picture, no gorgeous costumes nor fairy princes.

Quainter than Annie Rooney sweeter than ever, until the very end of the picture, she is tattered and torn, barelegged, ragged, but radiant.

There is not a dull moment in the story, and the picture is brimming with comedy. It has punch and thrills and suspense—everything, a successful picture needs, and in addition it has the one and only Mary Pickford.

WILLIAMS ADDS NEW GRAHAM TRUCK TO HIS FLEET OF CARS

B. J. Williams, the well known and progressive transfer man, has added a new ton and a half Graham truck to his large fleet of transfer cars and is better prepared than ever to render unexcelled service. His business has grown to such an extent until it was necessary to make the addition. He not only enjoys a large business in the city, but is often times called upon to move an entire household on short notice at a distance. It is indeed pleasing to note the care in which he handles furniture. No wonder his phenomenal success in the transfer business.

REEL PERSONALITIES

Billie Dove Has Multiple Screen Lives.

Billie Dove believes she has had about as varied an assortment of personalities on the screen as it is humanly possible for one person to picture and the one in which she is introduced to screendom as a First National star, she bears the title of Countess. "The Stolen Bride" will be here at the Grand Theatre Monday and Tuesday, May 28th and 29th.

In "The Tender Hour," a recent First National picture, she was a grand duchess, and in "An Affair of the Follies" she was a lady of the chorus.

In "The Marriage Clause" she was an actress; a western heroine in "Wanderer of the Wasteland"; the sweetheart of a crook in "The Lone Wolf Returns"; a captive on a pirate ship in "The Black Pirate," and a wild and reckless society girl in "The Sensation Seekers."

A GIFT WORTH WHILE

Foremost in the way of a charming graduation gift for the girl graduate was the gift presented to Miss Agatha Gayle, a mid-year graduate of Fulton High School, by Mr. S. G. Rosson, of Baltimore, Md., who is related to the family.

The gift was twenty-five shares of General Motors preferred 7% stock, which came as a complete surprise and is to be used to complete Miss Gayle's college course.

Mr. Rosson is a retired capitalist and interested in education. He was present at the graduation exercises of Fulton High School when Miss Gayle received her diploma and has great hopes and plans for her. He and his wife will sail from New York for Norway and Sweden on June 20th.

Miss Gayle was an A pupil; salutatorian of her class. Besides being a bright pupil in literary work, she is also an accomplished musician.

Miss Gayle will enter Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., in September.

skill of the engineers. How well this test was met is indicated by the fact that on the entire line there is no grade exceeding .3 per cent, that is, a rise of three feet in a thousand, nor a curve of over 1 degree 30 minutes. Three tunnels were constructed, 12,657 feet of trestle were built, 16,111,000 cubic yards were excavated, including 4,680,000 cubic yards of rock, 6,366 tons of pipe and 12,035 cubic yards of masonry were laid. The work was done by contract under the supervision of the company's own engineers.

By means of the cut-off, the through north and south haul is shortened by twenty-two miles, traffic will be moved more rapidly because the new line has fewer grades and curves, and another regular crossing of the Ohio River has been obtained. By use of the bridges at both Cairo and Methe Kentucky shore of the Ohio River just across from Cairo. This railroad encountered many obstacles in its construction and as the territory south of the Ohio River to Fulton, Ky., and Jackson, Tenn., south was hilly, the grades were steep and the curvature excessive.

About 1882 the Illinois Central obtained control of this line, giving it a continuous railroad from Chicago to New Orleans; cars at that time being ferried across the Ohio River. The business increased to such an extent that it became necessary to provide better means of crossing the Ohio River, so that in 1889 the Cairo bridge was constructed, being at that time one of the most expensive and modern bridges and adequate, it was thought, to handle the business for the life of the structure. It was a single track bridge connecting two single

WALTER J. McMURRY AN- NOUNCES FOR COUNTY JUDGE

In this issue of The Advertiser will be found the announcement of Walter J. McMurry, announcing his candidacy for the office of County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, August 4, 1928.

Mr. McMurry was born and reared in Fulton county, near Jordan, where the best part of his life was spent on the farm, but for the past 20 years he has practiced law and stands high in the profession, not only in his home county, but throughout this great commonwealth. In 1916 he represented Fulton and Hickman counties in the State Legislature, also during a special session in 1917. So well pleased were the voters of the two counties with his representation they elected him again and he represented the two counties in 1924 with distinction. Today his friends are working to elect him Judge of Fulton county to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Chas. D. Nugent.

Having been reared on the farm he is naturally in sympathy with the problems confronting the farmer. He is a good roads enthusiast and is anxious, he says, to see every road improved and brought up to the highest standard, and if elected, to use his best efforts to give the people a progressive and business-like administration.

In his modest announcement Mr. McMurry failed to state that he was a Spanish-American war veteran and a volunteer in the World war. In fact, he has never shirked his duty whenever his country needed him, and he will not shirk his duty if elected county judge.

He asks that you consider his claims and solicit your support in the August, 1928, primary.

DECORATION DAY, MAY 27

At a meeting of the City Council, Monday night, Decoration Day for 1928 was discussed and May 27 was finally decided upon as the date for Decoration Day in Fulton. It was thought by that time yard flowers would be in full blossom.

L. S. Phillips, chairman of the cemetery committee, will make every effort to beautify the cemetery and have it in readiness to receive the lovely blossoms that always add to the natural beauty of Fulton's city of the dead. Those who attend other towns say our cemetery is the prettiest in this entire section of country, and just here we will add that much credit is due Chairman Phillips for his painstaking effort in making Fairview the beauty spot of Fulton.

THANKS!

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Fulton Poultry Association held a business meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last Monday night.

This was the regular election of officers and for the year 1928 the following were elected: President, Thos. Exam, Vice-President, Norman Terry; Treasurer, Fred Hudson; Secretary and Show Superintendent, J. T. Watkins; Board of Directors, Dr. Horace Lutten, Chairman, Mrs. D. J. Perry, A. M. Nugent, Mrs. Weidon King, Hunter Whitesell.

The Secretary was authorized to secure permit from the A. P. A. to conduct the show under their rules and regulations. This will entitle the local association to all the special ribbons medals, etc.

By a unanimous vote the following rule was adopted: "To compete for the special cash prizes offered by the association, the entry must be a member in good standing."

(Note—This does not bar any person from competing for all prizes offered by the fair association, nor other special prizes offered by individuals.)

It was decided to offer a season ticket to the Fair to the Boy Scout who would secure the most members for the association.

The Secretary was authorized to conduct the show along the same lines as last year, to solicit and collect all funds, and to incur such expenses as necessary.

The financial report for the last year's show was read and approved.

It was the opinion of all present that the show for 1928 would be the biggest and best poultry show ever held in Fulton.

The premium list will call for approximately $400 in cash, besides cups, ribbons and other specials.

There will be two new and distinct classes this year. The 4-H clubs will compete for special cash prizes, ribbons and certificates, while members of the Junior S. B. P. A. will compete for special ribbons offered by the National S. B. P. A.

These two classes will also compete for all specials offered by the Fair Association. After an enthusiastic "round table" talk the meeting adjourned, subject to call.

Lesson for May 27

THE WICKED HUSBANDMEN

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:1-12; 13:1-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Some Wicked People Punished.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Wicked Husbandmen.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Playing Fair With God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Misuse of National Privilege.

I. Demanding the Fruit of His Vineyard (Mark 12:1-12).
1. The man (v. 1).
The certain man who planted the vineyard is God Himself.
2. The vineyard (v. 1).
This means Israel (See Isa. 5:1-7; Jer. 2:21, Ps. 80:8).
The Lord went to particular pains to make this nation separate. He bestowed peculiar favors upon it.

3. The husbandmen (v. 1).
These were the rulers and teachers of Israel, even members of the Sanhedrin. They were the spiritual guides of the people.

4. Servants sent for the fruit of the vineyard (vv. 2-5).

These were the various prophets whom God sent to the nation. The maltreatment and rejection of the prophets are fully set forth in the Scriptures.

5. The well-beloved son sent (vv. 6-9).

The son here is the Lord Jesus Christ, God's only and beloved Son. He came into their midst.

6. Their punishment (vv. 9-12).

Jesus now asked them for their own verdict upon such villainous ingratitude. He took the place of a judge and pronounced judgment upon them on the basis of their own verdict. They not only rejected the kingdom but the Son who was King; there fore the kingdom was taken from them and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

II. The Son of Man Coming in Glory (13:1-37).

This is part of the well known Olivet discourse. It gives a prophetic view of the course of time from its utterance just before the crucifixion to the second advent of Christ. Two great facts are before us in this prophetic utterance, the destruction of Jerusalem and the second coming of Christ. The one was near, having taken place within forty years of the crucifixion of Christ; the other is still future. The order of events as outlined are:

1. Moral condition of the world during Christ's absence (vv. 1-13).

This pictures the present age and the result of preaching the gospel. In this age many shall come saying, "I am Christ and shall deceive many." There shall be wars and rumors of wars. Nation shall be pitted against nation and kingdom against kingdom, with earthquakes in divers places, accompanied with famine and pestilence. The witnesses of Christ shall be persecuted and arraigned before rulers and kings. Brother shall betray brother to death and the father the son. Children will rise up against their parents and cause them to be put to death. The preachers of the gospel shall be hated for Christ's sake.

2. The days of the tribulation (vv. 14-23).

In this time the Antichrist will appear according to the prophecy of Daniel. So severe will be the persecution that except the Lord shorten the days no flesh could be saved, but for the elect's sake the days shall be shortened.

3. The great advent (vv. 24-31).

This shall be preceded by great physical disturbances in the world. The moon shall be darkened, the stars of heaven shall fall. "Then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory and He will gather His elect from the uttermost parts of the earth and heaven."

4. Instructions in view of the coming of the Lord (vv. 32-34).

The day and the hour of His coming are unknown to man. In view of this uncertainty we should watch and pray.

III. Warnings.

Running through the thirteenth chapter is the exhortation to take heed. In teaching the lesson it would be well to gather them up in their order.

1. Take heed against deceivers (v. 5).

2. Take heed to yourselves (v. 9).

3. Take heed against the time of the Lord's coming (v. 23).

The one command to all is "watch."

The Cross and Discipleship

The cross is the pattern of service and suffering for the disciples of Christ. The great demand of Jesus was and is for people who can suffer. It is of no use trying to get the cross out of discipleship. They go together and will, until the world has been redeemed.—Charles Brown.

Belief is the acceptance of a map. Faith is the taking the voyage.—Rev. J. H. Jowett, D. D.

track railroads, and while consideration was given to the possibility of constructing a double track bridge, that feature was dismissed because of the great cost and the inability of the engineers and operating men at that time to foresee the enormous volume of traffic that eventually would be handled in the Mississippi valley. Upon completion of the Cairo bridge, the Mobile and Ohio Railroad was given privilege to use the bridge and uses it at the present time.

In 1897 and 1898 the business had reached such a volume that it became necessary to construct a second track between Chicago and Fulton, Ky., the Illinois Central about that time acquiring the line of railroad between Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn., and crossing the original main line at Fulton.

In the construction of this second track the grades between Fulton, Ky., and the south bank of the Ohio River were reduced from 1.1 per cent to .8 per cent. The grades on the north side of the Ohio River from Cairo to Carbondale were not changed, the second track also being constructed on a maximum gradient of .8 per cent.

Bridge Traffic Increases

not have to be done in case the new line was constructed between Edgewood and Fulton, as this line passed through the coal deposits of southern Illinois.

This was the situation that confronted the management of the railroad before the time a decision was reached to construct the Edgewood line.

In 1917, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad constructed a modern double track bridge over the Ohio River at Metropolis, upstream from which point at Brookport, the Illinois Central had been maintaining for years a transfer service. This bridge was not used intensively, and during the World War arrangements were made to abandon the ferry service between Paducah and Brookport and utilize this bridge for Illinois Central trains.

The problem confronting the engineers was whether it would be better to reduce grades to .3 per cent on the existing line between Edgewood, Ill., and Fulton, Ky., involving in many cases a relocation of the railroad and providing a third track for part of the distance, involving also the rebuilding of the Ohio River bridge at Cairo, or to construct a new line using the C. B. & Q. bridge at Metropolis.

Surveys were made and de-lin, Williamson, Saline, Pope, Johnson and Massac counties in Illinois and McCracken, Graves and Hickman counties in Kentucky. The north part of the line in Illinois presented very few difficulties in securing a maximum gradient of .3 per cent with 1 degree 30 minutes curve. The south part beginning in Pope county, however, presented a very different problem. The topography is much rougher, being in the Ozark mountain region of southern Illinois. The main line of the Illinois Central from Chicago to Fulton runs in a southwesterly direction, leaving the main line of the Illinois Central at Edgewood, Ill., using the bridge at Metropolis, Ill., thence approximately due south to Fulton, Ky.

The outstanding features of this location are a tangent 63 miles long, a maximum grade of .3 per cent and a maximum curvature of 1 degree 30 minutes. The southern part of Illinois presents a difficult problem in location and in order to hold to the .3 per cent grade and 1 degree 30 minutes curves it was necessary to construct three tunnels 800 feet, 6,985 feet and 2,600 feet in length, respectively. Grades were separated with five railroads and 146 public highway crossings.

Following the studies after the surveys were completed, authority to proceed with the construction was given and actual work started in the early part of 1925. General contracts were let in eight sections as follows: Section 1, Shugart and Blythe, 31.2 miles; Section 2, John Marsch, Inc., 31 miles; Section 3, M. L. Windham, 6.0 miles; Section 4, States Corporation, 27.5 miles; Section 5, A. Guthrie & Company, 19.5 miles; Section 6, Flick Construction Company, 10.2 miles; Section 7, Dominion Construction Company, 21.6 miles, and Section 8, H. W. Nelson Company, 21.1 miles, a total of 169 miles. The engineering was handled by an assistant engineer in charge of the work in Illinois and one in Kentucky, both reporting direct to the engineer of construction. Their respective divisions were divided into residences about ten miles in length in charge of a resident engineer, having a field party consisting of instrumentmen, rodmen, chainmen and axemen in sufficient numbers to handle the work. Each party was provided with automobiles to handle the work. Due to the unsettled country it was necessary to provide some of the resident engineers with camps and where necessary sectional houses were provided, equipped for field office and for cooking.

After the line was located, descriptions for right of way were prepared and options were taken by right of way agents. A total of 3,622 acres was purchased in Illinois and 1,249 in Kentucky for right of way and 690 additional acres were purchased for the construction of reservoirs near Edgewood, Xenia, Blufford and Thompsonville. Extensive surveys were made and rainfall data assembled prior to the construction of the reservoirs. Concrete and earth dams were erected to impound the water.

The actual construction work was carried on simultaneously at all points by the usual methods, and during the peak of construction there were forty-two steam and gas shovels varying in size from 3-4 yard dipper to 4-yard dipper; also 1,231 narrow and standard gauge dump cars; 110 locomotives, fourteen elevating grading machines; 220 wagons and outfits with 950 head of livestock; also 62 trucks and tractors; 12 hoisting derricks and pile drivers; also 61 pumps, together with 20 air compressors and 8 Diesel engines with full complement of drills and other machines needed on the work.

Construct Three Tunnels
Section 5, involving 921,000 yards of common excavation, and 2,300,000 yards of rock excavation, is about 19.5 miles long. In this section are three tunnels, 800, 6,985 and 2,600 feet in length, respectively. Tunnels No. 1 and 2, the 800 and 6,985-foot tunnels, are in Pope county, 4 miles east of Ozark, Ill. Tunnel No. 3 is in Johnson County, 2 miles north-east of Grantsburg, Ill.

Each tunnel presented an individual problem in construction. Tunnel No. 1—800 feet long. The north portal cut is 73 feet high and 250 feet long. The south cut is 74 feet high and 400 feet long. The tunnel was excavated by the trapping method, the excavation being made by station men using the top heading method. The material in this tunnel, consisting of sandstone and shale, when first excavated appeared to be self supporting, and did not need immediate lining. After exposure for several months a large amount of spauling was noted and a permanent reinforced concrete lining with a minimum section of 12 inches with concrete portals at each end was installed.

Tunnel No. 2, 6,985 feet long, presented an entirely different problem in construction. The portal cuts are approximately 85 feet deep on the north end and 4,200 feet long, 72 feet deep and 4,000 feet long on the south end, necessitating the removal of 600,000 cubic yards of rock and earth.

Owing to the time required to excavate the portal cuts, it was decided to sink a 7 by 14-foot shaft 200 feet deep near the center of the tunnel. The center heading method of construction was followed and a 10 by 10 foot heading was driven simultaneously in both directions from the shaft, using air drills and air operated shovels with electric locomotives hauling the excavated material to the shaft where it was hoisted to the surface and then wasted.

In the three tunnels alone 236,000 yards of rock were excavated and 3,200,000 board feet of timber was used in the tunnels for permanent and temporary lining, or enough to build 600 houses of five rooms each.

There was used about 700,000 pounds of dynamite in the tunnels alone, or enough to fill a solid train of 80 cars.

Upon completion of grading, track laying was started and creosoted ties were used thru-out. The ties are protected by ties plates punched so that the 90 pound rail when relieved could be replaced with new standard 110-pound rail without changing out the tie plates.

Ties were placed 18 to a 30-foot rail and track was ballasted with cementing gravel ballast on the south 40 miles in Illinois and on that part in Kentucky. This gravel is obtained from Gravel Switch, Ky., and about 3,000 yards per mile was applied. The track on the north end in Illinois was ballasted with gravel ballast from Riverton and Palestine, Ill. This is not a cementing gravel, but is rather a small loose gravel.

Rail anchors were applied in both directions, since this is a single track railroad. Sidings were located about six miles apart and were built to hold 100 cars each.

About midway between Champaign and Fulton, Ky., the two present termini on the Illinois Central, it was decided to establish a yard and engine terminal. A roundhouse having 12 stalls 125 feet in length was constructed, with room for future expansion to 48 stalls. A small brick machine shop and car repair facilities, a blacksmith shop, etc., and a 500-ton concrete coal chute was constructed.

The yard facilities consist of 10 miles of main yard track, each 100 cars in length. The yard is graded so as to permit of further expansion to 20 miles of track.

In order to handle the business at Paducah, Ky., the yard was extended and a new connection built between the Illinois Central and the Paducah & Illinois Railroad to facilitate the movement of trains departing from Paducah yard either to Fulton, Ky., or Edgewood or Cairo, Ill. In all, there was constructed 169 miles of main track, 34 miles of yard tracks and connections, and 21 miles of sidings. That part of the new line in Kentucky was placed in operation in April, 1927, and a substantial reduction in the number of trains has been made.

Looking through Tunnel No. 2 toward the south end

Since 1902, when the second track, Chicago to Fulton, Ky., was entirely completed, the tonnage passing over the Cairo bridge has increased over 200 per cent. The number of trains on the double track between Fulton and Centralia was such that some improvements would have to be made in the way of building additional main tracks or providing larger motive power. This was accomplished in part by strengthening the Cairo bridge so as to permit of the operation of heavier engines.

The freight terminal on the north side of the Ohio River was at Mounds, where a large yard was maintained, and it is necessary to push tonnage trains out of this yard, the northbound trains requiring a pusher to Anna, Ill. It was also necessary to use pusher service southbound from Makanda to Anna. The pusher service naturally increased the train density, and during the peak business the two tracks in this territory were inadequate properly to handle the business.

Likewise, the traffic moving between Fulton and Paducah, Ky., over the steep grades and single track railroad was such that relief was necessary; the business being such that the savings would pay the fixed charges on the improvement.

There was other construction work on certain branches in the coal fields that would have been necessary for economical operation, all of which would tailed estimates prepared over both routes and careful analysis made as to volume of business that could be diverted to this new route. The matter was further complicated by the fact that the line to Louisville between Fulton and Paducah had grades in excess of 1 per cent and in order to economically handle the business would have to be rebuilt. As a result of this analysis and investigation a decision was finally reached to build the new line.

One of the outstanding reasons the new route was adopted was a saving of twenty-two miles in distance and the ability to obtain a crossing of the Ohio River that was comparatively free from the possibility of being damaged by high water during the spring floods.

The investigation showed that the volume of business present and problematical was such that we would be justified in building on a .3 per cent grade, the grade adopted.

Accordingly preliminary surveys were started in 1916, parties being put in the field in Illinois and Kentucky and work continued intermittently until final location was adopted in 1924. Preliminary survey and trial location lines were run on 899.83 miles before final location 168 miles long was adopted, the field parties living in farm houses near the work and in camp cars.

"I can get more pasture from four 10-acre lots than from one forty," says G. W. Hower, Cape Girardeau, Mo. "Grass is fresher, cattle eat more." Floyd Newman, Crighton, Neb., crossed fenced into 15-acre fields for hogging down. He writes, "Hogs did better, corn lasted longer, no waste, pasture was left on the field and I saved picking expense." For fencing hog-tight we recommend

MONARCH Hinge Joint

With it you can hog-down corn, run stock, after harvest, rotate crops, keep weeds down, fertilize the land, etc. Its hinges give under shock and strain but springs right back again. Copper lined in the steel plus a heavy zinc coating keeps rust out for longer than ordinary galvanized wire. Come in and look this "Red Brand" fence over.

STREET IMPROVEMENT
WORK MAY START
WITHIN 60 DAYS

The citizens' mass meeting called by the Chamber of Commerce at the City Hall last Friday night for the purpose of discussing the street improvement program was largely attended by Fulton property owners. The city council at a previous meeting had announced that the city was financially embarrassed and could not pay its part of the improvement.

It was announced at the meeting that money could be procured by the city for any amount up to $100,000 if the city could legally accept the loan, bonding the water plant. The legal department of the city is now at work on the proposition and will report as soon as possible.

The law provides that the city cannot spend more money during the year than its revenue, and we understand, has already gone the limit. However, the matter is being investigated and the general consensus of opinion is that Fulton will start improving its resident streets this year.

The mayor and city council are anxious to start the work as soon as possible, but are also determined to obey the law.

Some have suggested that the city sell the water plant outright and apply the proceeds to street improvement.

The editor of this paper, for one, is not in favor of selling the water plant as we know the revenue derived from this source has often tided the city over many rocks of financial embarrassment.

It is firmly believed by many that a way will be provided for the city to finance its part of the street improvement project and that work will start within the next sixty days.

POPPY DAY, MAY 26

In France and Belgium, the countries you have heard so much about, the people lived happily, enjoying the freedom of their beautiful countries, when one day came vast numbers of German soldiers who laid waste their land. The huge guns of the Germans did not spare anything, homes were wiped out, families separated, and thousands gave their lives at this time. The United States entered into this conflict, sending our boys across to help turn the enemy back that liberty might prevail in the world. As we all know, many of our men and boys were killed or died in service "over there" and now lie buried in the soil they helped to save.

In the spring of 1919 after the war, on Flanders fields, where the firing had been terrific and thousands of soldiers had fallen in battle, in the midst of complete devastation, the poppies came up in abundance. The French women tell you today that the poppy is significant of the sacrificial blood of the boys who fell on Flanders fields. Those who have traveled through France since the war, tell us it is peculiarly true, that where the battle was the fiercest and the bloodshed the greatest, the poppies to this day grow most profuse.

From this superstition comes the true message of the poppy—the message from the boys who fell, as expressed most beautifully in Col. John McCrae's verse, WE SHALL NOT SLEEP:

In Flanders Field the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt
dawn, saw sunset glow,

Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Field.

Take up your quarrel with the foe,
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch—be yours to hold it high;

If ye break faith with those who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Field.

MOTLEY ISSUES
DAIRY BULLETIN

The editor was favored recently with a very nice and interesting bulletin issued by S. S. Motley, who is now preaching the dairy gospel in Arkansas. Mr. Motley is a full convert to the diversified system of farming and always recommends the cow as the basis for successful diversification.

His bulletin treats upon the importance of milk to the physical welfare of the human body. Mr. Motley's voice is like the missionary of old whose voice was heard in the wilderness. His work in the interest of dairying is a great contribution to the happiness and general prosperity of any community and we certainly miss him in the Fulton community, but wish him a full measure of success wherever he goes.

CARR-BONDURANT

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed in this vicinity was that of Miss Myra Belle Carr and Mr. Morris Bondurant which was solemnized at the Methodist church last Thursday evening, May 17, the Rev. W. F. Cooley officiating.

The church was decorated with ferns and tall baskets of cut flowers. Long stemmed white peonies fastened at the entrance to each pew formed a lovely aisle to the altar which was banked with white roses and lighted by tall white tapers.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. V. Buchanan sang, "I Love You Truly," with violin obligato by Mr. J. V. Buchanan and Mrs. A. W. Fowler at the organ. The bridal party entered to the thrilling strains of "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin's "Trauerlied," was played very softly during the ceremony and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was used as the recessional.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white taffeta and veil of tulle which was held cap-fashion with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. She entered the church on the arm of her mother, who wore a model of dark georgette with accessories to match.

Miss Ruth Wade, as maid of honor, attended the bride and was gown in green taffeta. The bridesmaids, Misses La Verne Roper and Anita Fowler wore soft pastel shades of georgette. They wore picture hats and their flowers were roses and sweet peas.

Little Miss Sara Catherine McClellan, the flower girl, was dressed in white georgette lace trimmed. Master Horace Franklin Cooley, the tiny ring bearer, was also dressed in white and carried the rings in the heart of a white lily.

Mr. Truman Bondurant, brother of the groom, was best man and Messrs. Harvel Bondurant and Roper Fields were groomsmen.

The bride is a most charming and talented young woman and is the only child of Mrs. Clara Carr.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bondurant. Both were reared in this community and have a host of friends who wish them well.

After an informal reception at the home of the bride, the happy couple left for a short motor trip to Memphis.

Great Progress In Junior Club Work

Great work has been done in creating new fanciers with the junior club and the hundreds of new S. B. P. A. members will make their initial bow at the fall show. Just to give the poultry world an idea of what has been accomplished wish to state that twenty-three members, representing eight different breeds, will be in line all coming from Chemunge County Fair. These boys and girls are under the direct supervision of Frank C. Essick, who will supervise the hatching, ranging and showing of the chicks of these junior members. Another great piece of work accomplished was also in Fulton County, Ky. Here between thirty and forty junior members will make an exhibit at the Fulton County Fair. The Junior Club work here is under the direction of J. T. Watkins, Secretary of the poultry department of the Fulton County Fair and Secretary of the Fulton County Poultry Association. This will give the poultry world but a faint idea of the great work accomplished in creating new poultry fanciers and it proves beyond all reasonable doubt that the S. B. P. A. has hit the right track in creating more interest among the older ones. As above stated, many hundreds of junior members will be exhibitors at the fall shows in all parts of the country.

The above clipping from the Poultry Press, a weekly paper printed at York, Pa., and devoted exclusively to the latest news of the poultry world, shows the eyes of the "chicken people" are on this end of State. Our show has begun to be looked upon as one of the principle shows in this district. We want to enlarge it so when our show is spoken of it will mean something. We can add our show until it will be the Jackson show if granted, every poultry reader in this community should come to the front and be a BOOSTER, enter as many birds as you can, and we will soon outgrow our present quarters.

We should have at least 72 or a 100 birds entered of the following breeds, Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, Black Minorcas, Buff Orpington, White Orpingtons, with at least two pens each from all other breeds.

The premium list will soon be out, study it carefully make up your minds how many birds you wish to enter, go thru your flock carefully, pick out the BEST and begin NOW to prepare them for the show. If there are any points you don't thoroughly understand come in and see us or write and we will do our best to put you right, we wait to help you, we want a BIG show and will do all in our power to have it, but we want your help, so make up your mind to be a BOOSTER. If you haven't any to put in the show you can help us by joining the Poultry Association on and paying one year dues which is only a dollar, and we can make that dollar do 100 cents worth.

SOUTH TO HAVE A HARD JOB BUCKING SMITH

Reed, His Only Strong Rival, Not Popular

By Mark Sullivan.
Washington.—As a practical matter, and in every way, it is difficult for the South now to stand out against the nomination of Governor Smith. He has more than a majority of the delegates, and to deny him the necessary two-thirds would cause a justified sense of grievance among the millions of voters who are plainly loyal to him. It is true there is one precedent, in Democratic conventions, for denying the nomination to a man who had more than a majority of the delegates. That was the case of Champ Clark in 1912. The principal reason for refusing to let Clark have the 1912 nomination was the suspicion of the rest of the country toward New York. Not that Clark came from New York—on the contrary, his state was Missouri. But the mere fact that the New York delegation supported Clark was used by William J. Bryan as an excuse for attacking him and defeating him.

Conditions Different

The present conditions, however, are different in at least one vital respect. In 1912 Bryan had an outstanding man, Woodrow Wilson, to put forward against Clark. It is clear that this year there is no analogy to that. The opponents of Smith cannot put their fight on the ground that they have an alternative to him who is anywhere near so popular or so fitting. The failure of the South and of the Democratic Party anywhere to develop a leader has been a conspicuous fact in the campaign and constitutes their fatal impediment now. They experimented with one leader after another, ending recently with Senator Walsh of Montana; but for one reason or another, none of the dry choices developed anything approaching Smith's strength, or, indeed, any measurable strength at all. As it was put by Walsh when he retired, it is clear that a majority of the Democrats want Smith. Under that condition, such fight as is made from now on can be only a fight against Smith—not a fight in behalf of some one else. That psychological distinction is important, and is probably fatal to the opponents of Smith. The only candidate left who is making a fight against Smith is Senator Reed of Missouri, and Reed is as objectionable to the South as Smith on the points upon which the South can raise defensible objections. Reed is as wet as Smith, and on another issue important in the South, immigration restriction, Reed is one of only five or six senators who have opposed immigration restriction.

South Must Give In

The surrender of the south seems called for by the facts, and by the sense of sportsmanship. Yet the surrender will be so remarkable that it is difficult to envisage it.

The defensible case of the South against Smith does not rest on anything in Smith's personality, nor on his religion. Omitting that altogether, the issues and conditions associated with Smith are enough to make his nomination hard for the South to accept and enough to make it almost a political miracle if, in the November election, the solid South remains solid. Everything claimed for Smith's ability and personality can be admitted; every argument made for Smith as a man can be conceded. The sum of that would seem to picture a candidate for whom the South or any other portion of the country could vote with pleasure.

But it is when Smith is looked upon as a symbol, when he is viewed in the light of his background and the forces associated with him, the principles which presumably would become dominant in the government if Smith should be president—in that light can be found the reasons why the South will find it extremely difficult to accept Smith at Houston in June, or vote for him in November.

Clean heat

No black kettles to scour!

How much pleasanter cooking is, when there are no black pots and pans to scour afterward! Every woman who cooks with a Perfection Oil Stove is spared that horrid nuisance.

There is never a speck of soot. For in the long chimneys, every drop of oil is completely burned before the heat reaches the cooking.

Soot, as you know, is half-burned kerosene—just wasted heat. With Perfections you have real fuel economy, as all the oil is changed into cooking heat. They burn only kerosene, the safe household fuel.

Perfection flames stay at the height you set them, so you need never fear they will "creep up" and make the kitchen sooty.

200,000 Buyers Can't Be Wrong

When the Pontiac Six was first introduced less than two and a half years ago, immediate buying enthusiasm was aroused. The public accepted the statement of General Motors and Oakland that here was a new car offering six-cylinder value never before enjoyed at such low price. 75,000 Pontiac Sixes sold in 1926 established a world's record for a new make of car. Sales for 1927 carried the total of satisfied Pontiac owners beyond the 200,000 mark.

And now, even if its unrivaled value could not be proved by comparison with other cars in its field—even if its superiority could not be demonstrated by scores of advanced features combined in no other low-priced six—even if all its claims to leadership were based on generalities—you could still buy the Pontiac Six with confidence... for 200,000 buyers can't be wrong!

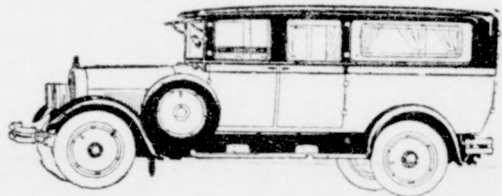

If you want to know the truth about the Pontiac Six, go to any owner in town. And if you hear praise almost too enthusiastic to believe, remember that 200,000 owners will tell you substantially the same story!

2-Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4-Door Sedan, $825; Sport Landau Sedan, $875; Oakland All-American Six, $1045 to $1265. All prices at factory. Check Oakland Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Leadership?

We hear much about leadership, and people are always looking for some great leader to get us out of the Egypt of ignorance and indifference. So much has been said on this subject, that we have tried to give it some study, both from the standpoint of reason and observation. Our deductions are that the greatest Leader always proves to be the greatest Servant. In politics, there are two kinds of leaders, the political boss and the political servant. The former soon passes off the stage of action without regrets from his constituency, while the latter usually has a long run of public service, and he only loses his influence when his personal ambitions get the reins of action, and he is no longer a servant of the people.

Moses was known as the man of meekness, and a great leader, but his leadership consisted in a great service to the people and his sincerity of purpose was well demonstrated when he offered himself as a sacrifice for the sins of his people, asking Jehovah to lay it all on him and let him depart a sufferer for the folly of his beloved followers whose sins had been most aggravating.

At no time nor on any occasion did the man of Galilee suggest leadership to His disciples and believers, but constantly reminded them of their duty as servants of the people. He served constantly, cheerfully and set a great example to His followers by His every act and deed, going so far as to wash their feet and prove His teaching of service.

Usually our idea of leadership is someone who is a great speaker, whose speeches are filled with pretty sounding phrases, a little sentiment and a few good jokes. This is usually the kind of leader we seek after, and the ideas offered in this way usually die a-borning.

The farmer who cares for the best cow, the finest chickens, the best cultivated, sprayed and cared for orchard, together with the greatest diversification of products on his farm is the greatest leader of his community unless there is another farmer who is doing yet more along the same line, though neither of them ever spoke a word in public or sat in at a banquet. We have not found real leadership among the after dinner speaking tribe, but the quietest say-nothing but always doing man who takes pride in his products to make them the best possible, for his leadership will be patterned after by every one in the community who have any ambition to succeed.

Kentucky is famed for its public speakers, and there has been enough said on all subjects during the last half century relative to Kentucky and its greatness to fill the world with books, but from this source there has been very little constructive leadership developed, and now what we need is to drop the word leader, and take up until we threadbare the subject of service. The Bulletin.

Brieflets

A person conscience is sometimes rarely consulted until the day after.

There is no question but that Eve had the best husband in the world—at that time.

To be possessed of the faculty to remember is a great thing, but to be able to think ahead is worth much more.

Remember the old-fashioned boy whose heart used to swell with pride over his rubber-tired rig with red running gears?

Everything that we have has a tendency to wear out unless it is taken care of—especially is this true with our reputation.

What is needed for traffic is an automobile with an airplane motor that can jump over the jay-walkers, and the safety zone.

In school we learn that the Canadian border is an imaginary line—however there is an occasional leak in that line now and then.

The hotel that advertised that it was just like home, probably meant that was one reason why it was always empty.

A FEW LOOSE FEATHERS

By J. T. Watkins

As the weather becomes warmer do not overlook the fact that the chickens and fowls require an increased amount of water supplied twice daily.

It is none too early to make preparations for some green food for your next winter layers. Cabbage are good, but mangels or stock beets are easier to raise and keep and are fully as good.

Keep the poultry house clean. Dirt is synonymous with lice, and now is the time to use that "ounce of prevention." Poultry houses become very dusty during the winter season, but now as the hens are outside, the house can be cleaned thoroughly.

In case the flock has roup to a greater or less extent each year, it means that the premises should be thoroughly disinfected and the entire flock cleaned out, disposed of, and healthy birds procured elsewhere and put in their place. It is by only thorough painstaking clean-up that roup can be completely eradicated.

Burn or bury all worthless chicks and eggs. Never allow them to accumulate about the cellar or poultry house. Neither throw them in the fence corners near the buildings. Such refuge is a menace to good health and a bid for the patronage of hawks and crows. The latter are excellent scavengers, but undesirable as visitors about the buildings and yards. Count your chickens when letting them out in the morning, crows, cats, rats or thieves may be getting them before you suspect it.

GOOD NEWS FOR FULTON

Hickman, Ky., May 23.—A telegram has been received here from Congressman Voris Gregory stating that the bill appropriating federal money to restore roads and bridges damaged by the floods of last year had passed the House and that relief for Fulton County was now assured as the appropriation was in the form of a rider to the agriculture appropriation bill.

As the State Legislature has already appropriated a similar sum to match the federal money for the counties in Eastern and Western Kentucky, Fulton county will shortly receive $17,600. This money will be spent under the supervision of state and federal highway engineers, it is understood. The Dyersburg road and the Henry addition road will be repaired with some of this money and the rest will be spent in the upper and lower bottoms and places nearby that were damaged by the waters.
