PROSPERITY STARES FULTON IN THE FACE

Fulton Logical Point For Big I.C. Terminal

The Illinois Central railroad towards the railroad is advanced card at Fulton, the southern of underdeveloped through-the southern of the Frontage Bridge, even in the event of trouble with the west end of the bridge. Like most of the railroads of the great part lines of the railroads, the Illinois Central lines have been through the city to the north and south from the natural route, made a new line, and the railway has been made.

The following is an excerpt from the article of A. F. Burris, engineer, published in the May

EDGWOOD CUT-OFF COMPLETED

The opening of the new completed line of the Illinois Central frontage bridge was made by the Illinois Central Railroad ready for use, not only marks the first step in the construction worth of note, and a definite step forward in the improvement of this railroad's service.

Growth of Southern Lines

49.4 per cent of the Illinois Central mileage in 1960 consisted of railroads in the southern part of the country in which the majority of the traffic was on the Illinois Central frontage bridge. That the facility has not been completed, but the increase in the number of trains has since the time of the construction.

Great progress in junior club work

Great work has been done in recent weeks, especially among the junior clubs and the hundreds of new R. P. A. members who have made their initial visit at the fair. Just to give the visitors an idea of what has been accomplished, the following brief report was presented. After this report, a demonstration of poultry judging and showing was held in the poultry barn.

The following members of the poultry department of the Sevier County Fair were present to the officers of the poultry society, and the results of the contest were given over to them. The contest was conducted in the poultry barn, and the judges were members of the poultry society. The results of the contest were announced, and the trophies and awards were presented to the winners.

The members of the poultry society are thanked for their support of the fair and for their help in making it a success. They are encouraged to continue their work in the future.

Buyers Can't Be Wrong

When the Pontiac Six was introduced last fall, not two and a half years ago, millions of automobile enthusiasts were thrilled. The public, you will recall, raved about the features and performance of the car. The enthusiasm was justified. In fact, Pontiac was so far ahead of its time in design and engineering that the car could not fail to be a success. The public was fully justified in its praise.
