STREET IMPROVEMENT WILL GO FORWARD

Fulton Has Found Herself

Monday night's session of the city council was featured by pleasant surprises from every angle imbued with a spirit of doing things on a gigantic scale worth while in an earnest attempt to benefit every citizen in the corporate limits.

In Fulton civic morale has gathered increasing impetus with street improvement in the foreground, to say nothing about the much needed water plant improvement. It was imperative that every shoulder get behind the wheel, and team work has resulted in a spirit of progressiveness not dreamed of months ago.

It might be said that civic pride is almost aborning. Fulton always has been rightly impressed with the ascendancy of her civic star, but the filing with the city clerk of fourteen city streets—Third, West, Fourth, Pearl, Jackson, Second, Jefferson, Norman, Vine, Maiden, Walnut, Eddings, Maple and Browder, all signed up, asking to be included in the street improvement project at Monday night's session of the city council, was so sudden as almost to leave the natives breathless. It is likely that the assembly was the most surprised of all, however, at the action of the council passing an ordinance appearing in this issue of The Advertiser, providing for a loan of $35,000.00, with which to improve the water plant, install new water mains and service pipes on all streets to be improved.

Fulton in the past has accomplished wonders, and is on the threshold of achieving general recognition as a city that has found herself. The downtown section has all the aspects of a real city with its reinforced concrete streets and many evidences of a good volume of business.

The residential section is far above the average with beautiful homes and well kept lawns, and new streets soon to be added.

Where there is a will there is a way, and the city council has found a way not only to install water service pipes and connections on streets to be improved, but to make needed improvements at the water plant as well as install and extend new water mains. This improvement has been under consideration for some time, and the council is to be congratulated on the steps taken to make said improvements without burdening the people with an extra tax.

As little as we may think about it, the contemplated improvement at the water plant is of vital importance to the entire citizenship of Fulton and is a step in the right direction.

GRAND THEATRE

The finest picture of many years—

"7TH HEAVEN."

With Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in the stellar roles—

This is the protodrama of which the New York American said, "It is packed with beauty, romance, thrills."

And of which the New York Telegram spoke as leaving no "moment free from episode that swings the heart 'twixt tears and cheers."

While the New York Times proclaimed, "This picture grips you from the very beginning," an opinion backed up by the New York Graphic with the statement, "Its two leading players mesmerized an audience that sat spellbound throughout."

AMERICAN LEGION WORKING FOR 1929 CONVENTION FOR FULTON

The members of the American Legion of our city are making a strenuous effort to land the 1929 American Legion Convention for Fulton. A large delegation from the local organization will attend the Annual Convention which meets this year in Bowling Green, August 20, 21, 22. Let every citizen cooperate in this work and encourage the Legion organization in the splendid efforts they are putting forth in obtaining the 1929 convention and placing Fulton prominently on the map.

POPULAR PLAYER

Miss Louise Redmond.
(Mrs. Irwin Dubinsky)

Miss Redmond is with the Irwin Dubinsky Players, which will open a week's engagement in their big tent theatre located on the lot near the cigar factory on Fourth St. next Monday, June 18th, under the auspices of the Spanish-American War Veterans, with a program of new plays and vaudeville acts. The opening play will be Monday evening and is announced as "Man Handled," a comedy drama in three thrilling acts. Feature vaudeville acts will be introduced each evening.

The three Klogging Karley Kids, Miss Louise Redmond, Harry Pamplin, Paul Pal John and Mona Repeat, the funny dancer, are all billed for specialties.

This is not the first time the Irwin Dubinsky Players have visited Fulton and they are always received here by large and enthusiastic crowds. The company has been added to since its last engagement and many new pieces of equipment have been purchased until the show now boasts of one of the largest dramatic companies playing in this section.

A feature of the opening night and of each night during the week will be the Little Louisiana Ramblers, a red hot orchestra that will play each evening for 30 minutes before the performance.

Ladies will be admitted free Monday night; one lady with each paid adult ticket. Doors open at 7 o'clock and the music starts at 7:30 o'clock.

NOTICE, ODDFELLOWS!

Members of Frank Carr Lodge 206, I. O. O. F., will hold their Annual Decoration on Sunday, June 17. Meet at the hall at 2:30 p. m. and march to the cemetery.

Fulton Captures 1929 Lions Convention

The delegation of Fulton Lions that attended the Annual State Convention at Lexington last week made a roar that woke up the natives and landed the 1929 convention for Fulton.

The members of the local organization are to be congratulated on their splendid efforts and the entire citizenship should begin planning now to make Fulton shine like a diamond in the sky to the eye of every visiting Lion next year.

Attending the convention from Fulton were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Vodie Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Atkins, D. W. Smith, W. G. Shirley.

CANNOT HAVE A THIRD PARTY WITHOUT LEADER

All eyes are now turned toward Houston, Texas, where the Democratic convention will convene June 26.

Anticipating the probable nomination of Gov. Smith for president, some of the dry Democrats vehemently assert that that action will be followed by a bolt and the organization of another Democratic party with its own candidates for president and vice-president.

It has been said and superlatively it is true, that you can not have a third party without a leader, that the dry Democrats have no outstanding leader to nominate as their candidate for president, that if they had such a leader they would already have used him in the fight within the party to oppose Smith, and that the lack of such an outstanding leader is a fatal impediment to the idea of the dry Democrats having a party of their own.

It is true, ordinarily, that a leader is most important to a third party. But there can be a third party without an outstanding leader in this sense. What happened in 1896 is evidence on this point. Palmer, who served the gold Democrats as their candidate for president was no more outstanding in his generation than any one of the several well known dry Democrats who could serve that faction as their candidate if they should organize a party this year.

To this statement there is one limitation. No really active or important dry Democrat, especially if he is comparatively young, would consent to serve the dry Democrats as their candidate for president. The reason is obvious. Whoever fills this role will, by that fact, be forever barred from participation as a leader in the regular Democratic party. If the dry Democrats undertake to organize a party, they must seek their candidate for president among one of two groups: among older leaders willing to give up future hope within the regular Democratic party, or among younger leaders so intense in their convictions as to be willing to sacrifice hope. For as long as the present generation lives, the followers of Governor Smith would never forgive any man who leads a bolt.

But there is an impediment to the dry Democrats having a third party. That impediment, existing and fundamental today, is directly related to the 1896 bolt of the gold Democrats. By a process rather frequent in history, something that was done by the Bryan Democrats in 1896 as a measure of revenge and protection, makes it practically impossible today for some of those same Bryan Democrats to organize the bolt which they in turn now contemplate.

In 1896 the Bryan Democrats were strong in the South, and Bryan carried every Southern state (omitting the border ones of Maryland and Kentucky). They felt outraged at the action of the gold Democrats in departing from the party tradition and having a third ticket. To prevent such a performance from ever happening again, the regular Democrats in the South dedicated themselves to writing election laws designed to make departure from the party forever impossible or impracticable.

Since 1896, in practically every Southern state, either a new constitution has been adopted containing new provisions about voting or else new laws have been passed rigid in their purpose of obliging Democrats to vote the Democratic ticket. In South Carolina, for example, a Democratic voter, before participating in the Democratic primary, which is the all-important election in that state, must take an oath that he will support the successful contestant in the primary. Under a law such as that, it would seem as if a dissatisfied Democrat could not vote either a third ticket or the Republican ticket, and would be obliged to limit his expression of resentment to not voting at all. Variations of this provision, or other provisions similarly drastic, exist in the election laws of nearly all the Southern states. The consequence is, it would be impracticable for the dry Democrats of the South to set up a third ticket that should give them an opportunity to call themselves Democrats still, but at the same time vote against Smith.

It is in the Southern states chiefly that this impediment exists. In some of the Northern states it would be quite simple for the dry Democrats to vote for a third party.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The Orpheum has an unusual line up of good attractions for the next few weeks.

On Friday, June 15, the Colonial Girls, quintette, with their assistants, 8 beautiful girls, will appear on the stage in late songs, instrumental music, imitations and Spanish dances in conjunction with the picture program, which is also a good attraction. It's Reginald Denney in "That's My Daddy."

On Saturday, June 16, will mark the opening of one of the best serials of the year, "Haunted Island," also a good western drama, "The Little Buckaroo," with Buzz Barton in the lead. You can't fail to thoroughly enjoy "The Sharpshooters," which has its initial showing on Monday, June 18, for a two days' engagement. This is one of William Fox's best picture of the year and features Geo. O'Brien in the leading role.

This is followed on Wednesday, June 20, with "Come to My House," which tells a story of life's temptations and the price that one pays by yielding, with Olive Borden and Antonio Moreno in the leads.

Calvary—A Death Men Cannot Forget

The story of the Cross is engraved upon the heart of the world.

Calvary was the scene of a tragedy unsurpassed by any known event in human history. Cruel bodily torture, sneers, taunts, insults of the worst sort.

At Calvary the inmost thoughts of men are revealed—it is impossible to keep them hidden. Men sentence themselves to their proper place. We are all at Calvary today. Do we mock and taunt as some did? Do we gamble for the discarded garments as some did? Do we sympathize as some did?

So great was the meanness of men, so dastardly the crime, that nature threw a mantle of darkness over the unnatural scene.

Let us consider some of the lessons of this great occasion at Sunday's meeting.

Harmony of Republicans Called Bunk.

(By Tom Hutton)

It is increasingly possible though not probable that the Democratic National Convention at Houston may be obliged to mark time for two or three days, if the promised dog-fight in the Republican National Convention at Kansas City runs into a deadlock and a long-winded jam. The Republicans meet June 12. That allows 14 days before the opening of the Democratic convention at Houston. Republican conventions do not last 14 days because if they develop difficulties those difficulties are settled in the back room or the front room of a hotel at 2, 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning or afternoons, as the case may be. In 1912 that precedent was broken—disastrously.

Conversely, however, there are observable in the promised fight on the floor of the Republican National Convention at Kansas City several factors which are new to Republican quadrennials. So it is possible that the 1928 convention of the G. O. P. may run considerably beyond its allotted time. If it should, it will tread closely on the time of the Houston convention. Observe some of the conflicting factors, which may make for long-winded trouble at Kansas City.

The conflict between progressivism and reactionary influence which broke out at Chicago in 1912 and which brought about the formation of the Bull Moose party, was not settled then, nor four years later, and as far as the Republican party is concerned, it is not settled yet. The record of the Republican party is the best proof on that subject.

Progressivism bolted the G. O. P. at Chicago in 1912. In 1916 it returned to the fold, to endorse Charles Evans Hughes, a conservative progressive who was defeated by Woodrow Wilson, the progressive, because Hughes was too much the conservative and not enough the progressive. He was talking in political terms 20 years old as far as the progressive West was concerned and the progressive West went to Wilson.

In 1920 the Republican party made not the slightest gesture toward progressivism in the selection of its nominee. It might have had Wood or Lowden. It chose Harding, a standpatter, who harked back to the Hanna school for his text-book of political service. The party fell into the hands of reactionary pillagers, as demonstrated by the scandals of Teapot Dome, and became again the party of special and predatory interests with which cabinet officers and understrappers bartered.

Know Their Onions.

It is a matter of fact, that no Republican year has been like this one. The circumstances may precipitate unprecedented developments unindexed in the Republican book of political etiquette and so quite dangerous.

For one thing, there are ranged on the side of the protesting forces in the party this year three of the most astute veterans of G. O. P. politics—Curtis, senate floor leader, Lowden and Watson. None of them is known as a political progressive. All of them learned the game in the school of Jim Sherman, Elihu Root and Tom Pratt. They not only know their political vegetables, but how to grow them, boil them and eat them. Senator Charles Curtis has forgotten more about politics than Calvin Coolidge ever knew. He is of the old guard of Republicanism. For the first time in his political history he finds himself outside the breastworks, fighting with the progressives. And he seems to enjoy it. To the assault on Hooverism and perhaps on Coolidgeism he totes a hefty pack of well-tried weapons and a full portfolio of battle plans.

Nobody can accuse him of being a political bolshevik or a wild-eyed amateur of political reform. He, too, has had his feet under the mahogany at 2 o'clock in the morning when presidents and deals were made.

In him, as in Watson and Lowden, the latter twice cold-shouldered by Republican national conventions, the farm block have leaders whose ability in political maneuver is unquestioned. No such situation has arisen since the days of Roosevelt. If all three of them are disposed to "go the route" to enforce the demands of the farmers (and incidentally to block Hoover) it seems likely that, lacking compromise, Kansas City is in for a political dog fight which may stack up well against the kilkeny cat fight of the Democrats at Madison Square Garden in 1924.

"MINUTE A DAY" MAKES MILKING PAY

Creamery Institute Finds Time Spent Weighing Out Each Cow's Milk and Feed Compensated Owner.

The 30 seconds twice a day that makes milking cows pay, explains the Blue Valley Creamery Institute, is the time spent weighing each individual cow's milk and the time spent weighing out the same cow's grain ration in order to know the exact number of pounds of grain she needs to produce that amount of milk.

The Institute cites two nearby farms in Steele County, Minn., where accurately kept records showed a labor income of 7 cents an hour on one farm and 77 cents on another. A careful study of these records show that the practice of feeding each cow in the herd in proportion to her production was one of the most important factors in securing the much greater profits, which, in this particular instance was 11 times greater on a "re turns per hour of labor" basis.

Dairy experts employed by the Institute to promote better feeding, better breeding and better management on farms from Pennsylvania to Oklahoma report an average saving of over 9 cents a pound on the cost of producing butterfat through the simple method of feeding each cow according to her daily milk production. These educational experts who have helped hundreds of farmers make more money agree almost unanimously that the easiest, quickest, least expensive and most practical way to increase profits from the average cow is for the men milking cows to follow the practice of weighing each individual cow's milk production, morning and evening, and then feeding each cow according to her production.

PLENTY OF HAY IS REQUIRED BY COW

Institute Recommends Feeding All She Will Eat Daily With Grain.

Feed dairy cows all the hay they will eat each day, in addition to the grain ration, says the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. In its recommendations for feeding cows for greater profits, the Institute says that nature has adapted the cow by nature for consuming bulky feeds, bulkiness in her ration is required to keep her in good health as well as

FEED HAY ACCORDING TO COWS WEIGHT

1 lb. hay a day for each 100 lbs. of cow's weight when silage is available for feeding her most economically. Therefore, the place to start in planning a dairy cow ration is always the roughage, hay and a succulent feed because this part of the feed is usually home grown. Experienced dairy men make it a practice to give the cows all the roughage they will eat regardless of their milk yield and then vary the grain feed with the amount of milk each cow produces.

Generally cows will eat hay each day at the rate of about one pound to each 100 pounds of their live weight. Without silage the amount of hay a cow should eat daily is about 1 1/2 pounds for each 100 pounds of her weight. The best hays are those rich in proteins, called legumes, the most common of which in the Mississippi Valley states are made from alfalfa, soybeans and the clovers. Such hays, being rich in protein, require lesser amounts of protein in the grain mixture to supply the nutrients needed for making milk. As protein is the most expensive nutrient in feeds, it pays to grow as much of it as possible on the farm. Its cheapest source for winter feeding is legume hay.

The construction and equipment of a surface reservoir and overhead tank, and strainer for well.

Section 2. For the purpose of defraying the cost of the construction of such extensions and appurtenances to the said water works, the said City of Fulton, Kentucky, shall borrow the sum of Thirty-five Thousand ($35,000.00) Dollars and shall issue its negotiable bonds therefor, under all the terms and provisions of this ordinance.

Section 3. Such bonds shall be in the principal sum of Thirty-five Thousand ($35,000.00) Dollars, and shall be in denominations of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars each, and such bonds shall bear interest at the rate of 5 1/2% per annum, payable semi-annually, such interest to be represented by interest coupons attached to each of said bonds. All of said bonds shall be dated June 1, 1928, and two of such bonds in the total sum of Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars shall be due and payable on June 1, of each successive year thereafter for sixteen successive years, and on June 1 of the seventeenth year, three of said bonds in the total sum of Three Thousand ($3,000.00) Dollars shall be due and payable. Said bonds, together with interest coupons thereon, shall be payable to the First National Bank of Paducah, Kentucky, trustee, at its banking house in Paducah, Kentucky, or to bearer, and all installments of principal and interest shall be payable at the said First National Bank, of Paducah, Kentucky.

Section 4. Said city shall create and pay into the said First National Bank of Paducah, Kentucky, trustee, a sinking fund which shall at all times be sufficient to pay all installments of principal and interest on said bonds as such installments become due and payable, and to that end the said city shall pay to the said First National Bank of Paducah, Kentucky, trustee, immediately upon the issuance of said bonds an amount of money sufficient to pay the accrued interest on said bonds for the first three months after their date, and also one-fourth of such amount as is necessary to pay the principal of said bonds maturing one year after date thereof; and three months after the date of said bonds the said city shall pay to the said bank such sum of money as shall be sufficient to pay one-fourth of the interest due on the entire issue during the latter nine months of the first year thereafter of date of the issue, and also one-fourth of such sum of money as shall be sufficient to pay the principal of such bonds maturing one year after date thereof; and quarterly in advance thereafter said city shall pay to said bank for the purpose of said sinking fund one-fourth of the amount of money necessary for payments of principal and interest on said bond issue for and during the then current year of such bond issue, it being the intention of these provisions that said city shall pay, quarterly in advance, to the said bank for the purpose of said sinking fund sufficient amounts of money to take care of the entire principal and interest of said bond issue.

Section 5. Said bonds shall be callable by said city at any time after adoption of an ordinance to that effect by the mayor and board of council of said city, and the publication of such ordinance in one newspaper published in Fulton, Kentucky, and in one newspaper published in Paducah, Kentucky, such publication to be published twice a month, and the first insertion thereof to be published sixty days before the call day. After such ordinance and notice by publication has been given, said bonds will be callable at par and a premium of 2 1/2% or 102 1/2% at their next interest paying period and no interest after such interest paying period shall be owing or payable thereupon by said city.

Such bonds and interest coupons thereon shall, in the hands of bona fide holders have all the qualities of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and shall not be subject to taxation.

Section 6. In no event shall said bonds be negotiated by said city on a basis to yield more than 6%. Such bonds when issued shall be payable solely from the revenue funds derived from such water works as hereinafter more particularly set out, and such bonds shall not constitute an indebtedness of said city within the meaning of the constitutional provisions or limitations. It shall be plainly stated on the face of each bond that same has been issued under the provisions of the Act of the General Assembly of Kentucky, of March 20, 1926, Chapter 133 thereof, and that it does not constitute an indebtedness of such city within the meaning of any constitutional provisions or limitations.

Section 7. All monies received from all bonds issued pursuant hereto shall be applied solely for the erection of such extensions, and necessary appurtenances thereto, to the said water works. Provided, however, such monies may be used also to advance the payment of the interest on bonds during the first three years following the date of such bonds. And there shall be and there is hereby created a statutory mortgage lien upon the water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances, of the said city, in favor of the holders of said bonds and of each of them, and to and in favor of the holders of the coupons of said bonds. The water works and appurtenances and the extensions and appurtenances of the City of Fulton shall remain subject to such statutory lien until the payment in full of the principal and interest of said bonds. Any holder of said bonds or of any of the coupons may, either at law or in equity, by suit, action, mandamus or other proceedings, protect and enforce the statutory mortgage lien, hereby conferred and may by suit, action, mandamus or other proceedings enforce and compel performance of all duties required by this act, including the making and collecting of sufficient rates, the segregation of the income and revenue, and the application thereof.

Section 8. If there shall be any default in the payment of principal and interest of any of said bonds, any court having jurisdiction of the action may appoint a receiver to administer said water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances on behalf of the city, with power to charge and collect rates sufficient to provide for the payment of any bonds or obligations outstanding against said water works, and for the payment of operating expenses, and to apply the income and revenues in conformity with this ordinance and with the Act of the General Assembly of Kentucky, of March 20, 1926, Chapter 133 thereof, and the proposed extensions and appurtenances thereto are to be made pursuant to the provisions of said Act of March 20, 1926, of the General Assembly of Kentucky, Chapter 133.

Section 9. There is hereby set aside and pledged the income and revenues of such water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances into a separate and special fund to be used and applied in payment of the cost of such extensions, and in the maintenance, operation and depreciation of such water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances. The amount of revenues which shall be necessary and shall be so set apart and applied to the payment of principal and interest of said bonds is hereby definitely fixed and determined as follows:

$3,925.00 for the first year;
$3,815.00 for the second year;
$3,705.00 for the third year;
$3,595.00 for the fourth year;
$3,485.00 for the fifth year;
$3,375.00 for the sixth year;
$3,265.00 for the seventh year;
$3,155.00 for the eighth year;
$3,045.00 for the ninth year;
$2,935.00 for the tenth year;
$2,825.00 for the eleventh year;
$2,715.00 for the twelfth year;
$2,605.00 for the thirteenth year;
$2,495.00 for the fourteenth year;
$2,385.00 for the fifteenth year;
$2,275.00 for the sixteenth year;
$3,165.00 for the seventh year;

and 10% of the balance of such income and revenues is hereby definitely fixed and determined and shall be set aside as a proper and adequate depreciation account, and the remaining portion of such balance shall be and is hereby set aside for the reasonable and proper operation and maintenance of such water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances. The rates to be charged for the service from such water works shall be sufficient to provide for the payment of interest upon all of said bonds and to create a sinking fund to pay the principal and interest thereof, in the manner above provided for, and also to provide for the operation and maintenance of such water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances and an adequate depreciation account. Such rates shall be fixed and revised from time to time so as to produce these amounts.

Section 10. Said city hereby binds itself not to sell, lease or dispose of said water works or appurtenances or extensions or appurtenances until all the bonds authorized hereunder shall have been paid in full as to principal and interest, or until there have been made arrangements for the payment of all such principal and interest, which arrangements shall be satisfactory to the holders of all of said bonds and coupons. Said city hereby agrees to maintain and operate said water works and appurtenances and extensions and appurtenances, until said bonds have been paid.

Section 11. The form of all the bonds and coupons issued hereunder shall be substantially as follows:

(Form of Bond)

When death enters your home you want a service that is complete; and you want that service rendered by those who are competent, and who hold the confidence placed in them, as a sacred trust.

Our ambulance service is the best that can be had, and has been for the past four years. Our hearse is the most modern in this community. Our funeral home, located at 218 Second Street, is by far the most beautiful and complete in this section, with ample sleeping rooms for family of deceased should they be needed.

Our embalming is done by Paul Hornbeak, with Mrs. J. C. Yates as lady assistant.

We answer ambulance and death calls for any distance.

FOOD LIKE YOU GET AT HOME

This is truly a home-like restaurant because it has endeavored to break down the prejudice based on the theory that restaurants could not serve food like you get at home. Many patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they come here so frequently to eat.

Years of catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve appetizing meals.

The next time you want to eat away from home, bring your family here.

The Poultry Cycle

We are governed by cycles in most everything we come in contact with in life, it seems. In other words, we go from one extreme to another and in so doing we travel in a circle, or cycle, as learned folks choose to call it. We are told that it takes five or six years from one period of high prices in beef cattle, for example to the next. The pork cycle is shorter. The past few months has found pork prices the lowest since 1923 but already the cycle has started to swing upward.

What has happened in poultry? In 1927 there seemed to be a general impression that there was an overproduction of poultry and eggs. Butter and egg men sent up a cry that there was entirely too many eggs in storage, too many fowls. Yet by the end of January, 1928, the cold-storage eggs had dwindled to 20,000 cases less than one-tenth as many as one year previously. Still the general poultry raising public entered the spring of 1928 feeling that possible the thing was being overdone. Hatcherymen, in their ambition for business set thousands upon thousands of eggs in January and February and hatched millions of chicks for which the public was not ready. This added to the impression gained by the general poultry raising public that there was an overproduction. So these chicks went begging for buyers and I am suspicious that the large per cent of them died an untimely death thru' one cause or another, principally because not one farmer out of five hundred is equipped properly and knows how to rear late winter chicks. So reports from all sections of the country showed that there was a disposition this year on the part of the general poultry raising public not to buy the extremely early chicks that the state experiment stations have been advocating. The stations had figures to prove how profitable early chicks were, but the general public is not so fully equipped with knowledge and equipment to make early chick raising as profitable as it appeared on paper.

So we entered April with fewer chicks than usual. This will create a shortage of fowls during the coming season and since there already were so few eggs as compared with a year ago and the five year average, we can expect a rather sudden and violent turn upward on the poultry cycle during the latter half of 1928 and early 1929. There will, of necessity, be a very brisk demand for early pullets, and few pullets to supply that demand. Fall pullet eggs will be fewer than usual, too, which will help things along. Poultry raisers, who are farsighted, will look well into the season of 1928-29 for a brisk demand and an opportunity to make good profits. The general poultry raising public will not take heed until it is too late and that sudden demand, after it is too late, is what makes cycles in this and that and what not.—Whandotte Herald.

Dukedom, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Conley Roberts are the proud parents of a baby girl, born Sunday night.

A large crowd attended the singing Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church in Dukedom. A number of people from Mayfield, as well as Dresden, and other neighboring towns were here. Everybody is invited to attend every second Sunday of each month.

Several people of this vicinity had planned to go to Paris last Saturday in the interest of having a hard surface road from Paris to Fulton, but on account of so much rain it was impossible for them to go. We are in hopes of having a good road, especially from Dukedom to Fulton before the end of the year.

Miss Flippo, of Fulton, who has a music class here, is progressing nicely. Her number of pupils are increasing and everybody likes her so well.

Several people of Dukedom went to the ball game at Fulton Sunday afternoon. It was a very interesting game, although Jackson won.

Father of Mrs. Ira Dixon Dead.

Mr. G. W. Allison passed away Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, June 3, 1929, at the home of his son, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Allison at Avon Park, Fla. Mr. Allison had been in declining health for some time but for the last three weeks, had been confined to his bed. Everything that loving hands could do for his health and happiness was done but God saw best and called him home to his loved ones over there. Mr. Allison was born June 18, 1852. Age 75 years, 11 months and 16 days. He was married to Josephine Wimberley in 1873.

To this union was born five children, two having gone on before, and three living who bow their heads in sorrow at giving up father, and just so short a time as 10 months ago Mother bid them farewell which makes us doubly sad.

Those surviving are W. N. Allison of Avon Park, Fla., Mrs. Ira Dixon of Fulton, who also was at his bedside when the end came, and Mrs. Sank Owen, of Tiptonville, also six grandchildren and one sister to mourn the loss of father and brother. He was converted years ago and joined the Methodist Church and lived a Christian life, until earthly work was done. He was a true and devoted companion, a faithful and loving father, a kind, good neighbor and a friend to all. His home was always a place of peace and welcome to his many friends. Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church at Crossland, Ky., Thursday June 7 at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. P. Pigue with Kelly Undertaking Co. in charge. A large concourse of friends, neighbors and relatives were present to pay their last respect. Floral offerings were beautiful.

Children's Day services were held Sunday morning at Wesley church. A large crowd was present and enjoyed the very successful program, which was rendered by the very smallest children of the community. To our regret, the pastor, Rev. A. N. Walker, was unable to attend on account of services at Palestine, but he was here for afternoon services.

Mr. Harold White, who has been in State University, Lexington, has returned to spend the summer vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip White.

Mr. M. D. Hardin, who has been quite ill for several days, is slowly improving. We hope he will soon be able to be out again.

Mr. Enoch Walker and Mrs. Jaretta Stahl, of Water Valley, were united in marriage last Saturday evening at Fulton, Esq. S. A. McDade officiating. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Hicks and son, James.

A FEW LOOSE FEATHERS

By J. T. Watkins

This is "Swat the Rooster"

Egg prices go up this month. Be sure that the quality of your egg crop improves also. Inferior eggs bring the premium from now on. Remove the males from the flock and kill them; or if they are especially valuable, pen them up together in a corner of the range.

There are several more cents in every dozen eggs, if you market them properly. Marketing is one of the biggest problems that the poultryman has.

An egg is graded according to the interior and exterior qualities. Its interior qualities are tested by candling, when the condition of the yolk, air cell and white are noted.

A fresh egg has a very small air cell. You can hardly see it.

The white of a fresh egg is firm. It does not appear watery before the candle.

The exterior qualities of an egg are easy to see. The five things to consider are: firmness of shell, cleanliness, size, color and shape.

The attention given the poultry house governs the degree of egg cleanliness. Size, color and shape are influenced by breeding.

Gather the eggs twice daily and keep them in a dry, cool cellar.

There will be fewer dirty eggs if you keep a light layer of straw on the poultry house floor. You will notice that the ordinary hen walks around considerably before she chooses her nest.

NOTICE

The third quarterly conference for the Fulton Circuit will be held at Wesley church, Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17. The presiding elder will be with us, and preach both days. We will have the business session of the Conference Saturday evening. We want all of the officials present and make the conference a great occasion.
A. N. WALKER, Pastor.

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals. The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

Extensive Highway Development Speeds Southern Progress.

One of the greatest aids to the rapid advancement of the South in recent years has been the extensive building of good roads systems. They have opened up hitherto almost isolated districts and have been a factor in the commercial and industrial growth of many sections. During the last several years nearly $400,000,000 annually has been invested in Southern road building operations and in improving existing highways, connecting up missing links on thru' routes and widening those arteries in the more highly developed sections which have been found inadequate to properly care for the increasing motor vehicle traffic.

Altho' less money was spent on good roads throughout the country in 1927 than in each of the previous 3 years, the South, with an expenditure of almost $390,000,000, accounted for over 31 percent of the total in 1927. In fact, the South that year invested $150,000,000 more in the improvement and expansion of its highways than the whole country thus expended in 1914. No other region of the United States comparable in wealth and population has done as much in creating and enlarging highway transportation facilities as has the South. Located in a more favorable climatic belt, Southern highways offer open communication the year round and for that reason are of greater value to the people they serve than the roads which are blocked by ice and snow during the severe Northern winters. In increasing numbers, motor tourists are traversing the South's good roads, enjoying the attractive scenery and wonderful climate, and discovering for themselves the new, progressive South with its modern cities and humming industries.

Kentucky spent approximately $15,000,000 for 1076 miles of roads in 1927. The type and mileage of highways built included 63 miles of reinforced concrete, 17 miles of native rock asphalt, 70 miles of bituminous macadam, 60 miles of water-bound macadam, 179 miles of traffic bound macadam, 267 miles of gravel surfacing and 420 miles of grade and grain surfacing. In addition to the road mileage, the department built a number of bridges, the most important being: Camp Nelson Bridge over the Kentucky River, structures over Tygart Creek, the Levisa fork of the Big Sandy River, Licking River and Tradewater Creek. About $2,500,000 was spent for maintenance.

Berry Shipments Probably to go to 550 Carloads.

The total number of cars of strawberries shipped by the McCracken Growers' Cooperative association probably will reach 550 cars, it was predicted Monday night, following a shipment of 18 cars. Eight of the cars were shipped from the Paducah shed, six from the Kevil shed and four from the Benton shed.

The cool, rainy weather has prolonged the ripening season and many later berries are still to be picked. Shipping will continue until the supply of high quality fruit is exhausted, according to Barger and Golightly, sales agents for the association.

Good News

The sheriff's office has received the tax lists from the state for next year and it will be good news to every tax-payer in the county that the assessment and thus the taxes will be the same next year as this year.

Assessments in many counties were raised by the state this year and Fulton was slated for a 10 per cent raise on many items, including live stock but thru' the efforts of Miss Effie Bruer, efficient county clerk, this was not put thru' and the Fulton assessments were left unchanged.—Hickman Courier.

Road Work Held Up in County.

Some weeks ago the fiscal court of Fulton county decided to sell an additional $50,000 worth of road bonds. At that time it was informally agreed by a bonding house that the bonds would be purchased, but after a thorough investigation of the matter, representatives of the bonding house notified Fulton county officials that it had been found the securities were not legal, owing to the fact that other claims were already ahead of it. The county can only issue a certain amount in bonds, and at this time the limit has been reached.

The bond issue had been issued for the purpose of completing some of the roads that were started last fall and for building a few new ones in various sections of the county. However, according to present indications, it seems that no more work can be done on the road project in the county at present.

I. C. R. R. News.

In line with its policy of keeping in touch with up-to-date developments in all features of railway work, the Illinois Central System was represented by 124 officers and employees at the recent annual convention of the International Railway Fuel Association in Chicago, according to the June issue of the Illinois Central Magazine.

With a strawberry crop totaling approximately 2,500 carloads and bringing to the sellers a revenue of approximately $7,000,000, the Illinois Central System's famous strawberry district around Hammond, Ill., this year has excelled all previous records, according to the June issue of the Illinois Central Magazine. The rapid refrigerator car transportation furnished by the Illinois Central to the markets of the North has been an important factor in the development of this business.

"Not the oldest, nor yet the youngest; not the richest, nor yet the poorest; not the largest nor yet the least; but take it all in all, for men and women, for flocks and herds, for fields and skies, for happy homes and loving hearts, the best place outside of Heaven the Good Lord ever made."

A Happy Decision

The Dairy Farmer of Des Moines, Iowa, believes the National Dairy Association has made a "happy decision" in returning to Memphis, Tenn., with the National Dairy Show for 1928 and so states in the following editorial in which The Advertiser concurs:

"The National Dairy Exposition is returning to Memphis next fall. President Charles L. Hill, Secretary S. H. Anderson and the entire committee are to be commended for their action in returning the show to this southern city where it enjoyed such remarkable success in 1927. The dates selected for the 1928 exposition are Oct. 13th to 20th inclusive, which gives exhibitors who also plan to exhibit at the Dairy Cattle Congress five full days between shows.

"A goodly measure of credit is due the officials of the Tri-State Fair and the business men of Memphis who arranged to provide added facilities to take proper care of all the exhibits. A new judging pavilion, 250 feet long with liberal seating space around it, will be erected before the show opens. Permanent barns for 300 additional cattle will also be provided as well as enlarged accommodations for 4-H club boys and girls. Space will also be set aside for exhibits of dairy farm and barn equipment.

"Such increased facilities are but a natural response to the outcome of last year's show when crowds came from all over Dixie. They packed the grounds, the building, and the ringsides. The south showed its interest by almost undreamed of support both in attendance and in exhibits. We are looking for her to repeat, or even better last year's enviable record."
