THE NEWS WEEKLY SCRAPBOOK

Week's Best Recipe
MACARONI AND HAM—1 medium size can cooked macaroni in cream sauce; 1 cup ground cooked ham; 1/2 cup bread crumbs; 1 tablespoon melted butter. Place a thin layer of macaroni in a buttered casserole and top with a layer of ham. Repeat layers until all are used. Mix bread crumbs with butter and sprinkle over top. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 30 minutes, or until well heated through and crumbs have browned. Serve four.

A Style Hint
The vogue for white influences many materials this year. The new trends have white, cream, mingled with pink or darker shades. White suits of all sizes are still very smart. Check and plaid material show a lot of white and white stripes, ranging from the shadow to the thick bar stripe. White stitching and white braiding are also largely used on dark tailored suits.

In The Kitchen
The flavor of hot prune juice may be improved if a little spice and lemon juice are added. A little mustard ground over chops or steaks to be broiled or baked will greatly improve the flavor. Leftover cooked ham blends well with veal, pork and beef in salads, sandwich mixtures, potages and hash.

Flower Lovers
If you are bothered by cats or dogs in your garden spray with nicotine solution as the odor is distasteful to them. Use 1 1/2 teaspoons of 40 percent nicotine sulphate in a gallon of water. Book gardens are desirable, but keep in mind that much of the charm depends upon its

Good Things To Know
An easy way to stamp hooked rugs is to draw design on paper, then trace all lines on design with wax crayon. The more wax you can get on the better. Then lay wax side down on burlap and go over it with a hot iron. This will stamp the rugs as good as any you can buy.

GOOD NEWS
As a general thing the kind of news sent out by the weather bureau isn't good news. But now and then there is an exception, and a forecast regarding a repetition of last year's drought is an example. It is the kind of weather news everybody around Fulton will enjoy reading.

According to this new prediction the country will witness a more moderate summer than the last one. The experts say temperatures will be more normal; there will be no long, record-breaking hot spells such as we went through in 1936. While there has been more than the usual amount of moisture already this year, the weather men think there still be a sufficient amount to meet all needs and vegetation will not suffer as it did during last June, July and August. In other words, the Sam's weather bureau does not believe that the country is in for another drought year.

Along with this cheerful forecast comes one just as rosy from the Department of Agriculture to the effect that while many sections are below normal crop conditions owing to excessive spring moisture, the general outlook is good and warrants the prediction that bumper crops of all kinds will more than make up for the shortages caused by a lack of it last year. Putting the two reports together it makes the kind of news every reader likes to get hold of, and the kind of news every newspaper likes to print.

Our Graduates— And the Road Ahead

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

As this is written thousands of young Americans—sturdy descendants of the hardiest breed of pioneers and nation-builders the world has ever seen—are being graduated from high schools, colleges and universities throughout the country.

What awaits them in the years ahead? There are critics who will say that the road to opportunity is blocked; that the world no longer has room or need for the personal courage and initiative which carried our fathers across a continent; that certain tired and crowded and despairing populations of the Old World have claimed a better source—the surrender of all rights, all opinions to dictators, in return for promises of economic and political guardianship. To such cynics, the energy and the enthusiasm of youth merit only a sneer.

But there are others who will tell them that the real joy of life is in achievement, that the American ideal still remains one of self-reliance, self-reliance, open opportunity, and full freedom of religion, of speech and of thought.

The first idea is foreign both in spirit and in origin. The second is outstandingly American. Here is how one great American, Theodore Roosevelt, expressed it:

"It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done better."

"The credit belongs to the man who strives valiantly; who errs and may fall again; who does not stop at defeat, but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat."

There is a message spoken for an earlier generation of young Americans. It remains a ringing message to youth today.

Spectacular increases in the speed of trains, freight as well as passenger, are evidences of railroad progress that everyone may see.

Less apparent have been the years of constant improvement that made this high speed possible with ever-increasing safety.

Improvements not only in the trains themselves, but in the rails, road-bed, bridges, signals—in everything that goes to make a railroad.

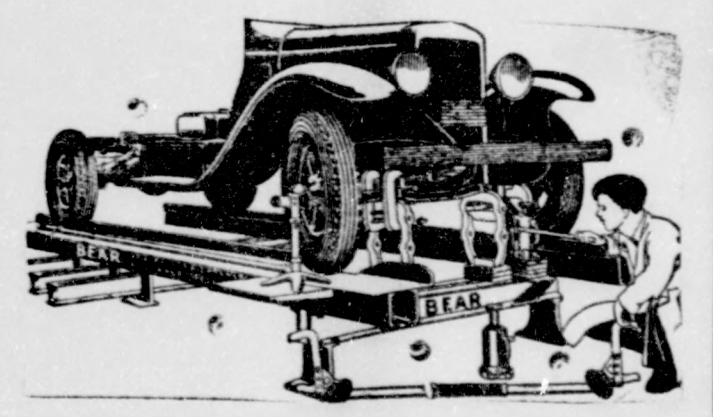

Great as the achievements of the past have been, the progress of the railroad goes on—devising further improvements that will provide still faster and safer transportation.

Much of the responsibility for the safe transportation of passengers and freight on the Illinois Central System is borne by the track men. Day in and day out, they carry on their work, adding human intelligence to modern devices for safety and comfort.

The army worm already is attacking small grain in other parts of the state and a timely warning was issued in the bulletin received in Western Kentucky. Williamson said no reports of damage to grain crops have been received at his office.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Fulton County News is authorized to announce the following candidates for the various offices, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in August, 1937.

For County Attorney
WOOD C. TIPTON, Jr.For Sheriff
WARD McLELLANFor Representative
W. L. HAMPTON
(Re-Election)For Magistrate of First District
C. J. BOWERSFor County Court Clerk
CLARIE L. HOLLANDSPEED MANIA

While there is nothing in the way of evidence at present to justify the assumption that in some dim future date the human race will become intelligent enough to regulate the speed of automobiles and thereby save thirty to forty thousand lives a year, it is possible that day will come. There is no reason for the speed at which the modern day machines are operated. There is nothing of such pressing importance as to call for traveling 75 to 80 miles an hour. The car manufacturers have placed a dangerous plaything in the hands of drivers and there are too many who are unable to resist the temptation to "step on it." Since the drivers are unwilling to observe safe speed, and inasmuch as speed laws seem to have been made to be broken in disregard to all rules of safety, it might be that the only method of control left is to require speed regulators on all automobiles.

THE TIMID DOLLAR

Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock Exchange, recently said:

"The government is, or should be, of the people, by the people, for the people. To me this means just one thing—all the people. If government, through legislation, favors one class as against another, a vicious circle is created around which class pursues class in an effort to secure advantage. For the worker it must create means to guarantee the right to work, the right of the individual to work out his own destiny. To the business man it must guarantee freedom, subject to considerate and just regulation, to continue to make his contribution to the upbuilding of the country, the maintenance of that high standard of living which has been our pride, and to realize adequate profits."

"To capital it must guarantee the right to seek employment in productive enterprise subject to fair taxation but not confiscation. Capital is timid; it is elusive. Representing the savings laid up against the 'rainy day' it may not take undue risks and if through too great taxation the 'game is not worth the candle' capital will disappear into hiding and thus restrict the productive efforts of business and worker."

The most dismaying development of recent years has been the promotion of class feeling and class hatred, which has found its reflection in dangerous and malicious class legislation. Should this feeling spread far enough, democracy would be doomed. Private enterprise would be doomed. And the United States as we know it, would be doomed.

Fair laws, fair taxes, the maintenance of individual rights—these are the proper concerns of government. They are essential to the maintenance of our traditions and our institutions. If we take any other course, the worker, no less than the employer and industry, will face a bleak future.

MAILING MISTAKES

Uncle Sam put $230,000 in his pocket in 1936 because the public was careless in addressing mail. Exactly 12,250,000 pieces of mail went to the "Dead Letter Office" because of insufficient addresses, and 108,454 of that number contained money. Since there was no return address on the envelopes, and it could not be returned, the government got it. All of which should impress Fulton citizens with the importance of having a return card in the upper left-hand corner of every envelope they mail. This day in time when printed return cards on envelopes are so inexpensive, and the only guarantee of a letter's return if it is improperly addressed, there is no excuse for mail going to the "Dead Letter Office." Whether it is a business of a social letter, make sure your name and address is in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope in which it is mailed. Then if it isn't delivered you will get it back, and have the satisfaction of knowing why it came back.

THE PREACHER

Someone is always writing about doctors and lawyers and teachers, but seldom can you find space devoted to that humble servant known as the preacher. Maybe if it hadn't been for the recent thoughtfulness of a Missouri editor you never would have had a pen-picture of the preacher. But he has thought to write one, and in the belief that citizens of Fulton will enjoy reading it, we take the liberty of re-producing it—and "The preacher has a great time!"

If his hair is gray, he is too old. If he is a young man, he has not had experience enough. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he is setting a bad example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming, and if she does not she isn't interested in her husband's work. If the preacher reads from notes he's a bore, and if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he has a home in his study, he doesn't mix enough with people; if he is seen around the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a sermon. If he calls on the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if he calls at the homes of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat.

"Whatever he does, someone could have told him how to do it better. Yes, the preacher has a great time!"

"BUY AMERICAN"

Probably not one Fulton citizen in a hundred ever looks to see where the article he is purchasing was produced, though if more would do so, and more would refuse to buy products shipped into this country from abroad, conditions over here would quickly improve. In China and Japan a wage equal to 15c a day in our money is considered fair; Germany is not much better and Russia and Belgium are not far behind. How can an American workman compete with wages like that, or how can living conditions over here be kept at their present standard if he has to? If more Americans would look to see where the merchandise they are about to buy was produced, and then refuse to buy it if it came from a country where starvation wages, long hours, sweat shops and unsanitary conditions are the rule it would go far toward solving this country's employment problems, and do much to prevent future depressions. "Buy American" should be every loyal American's slogan from now on.

Picked Up About Town

Bob Davis says there was a time when it was uncomplimentary to call a young woman a "corn fed" but that was before the stuff began selling around a dollar a bushel.

"Life is at best just a zig-zagging affair," declares Walter Evans. "Most of us are zigging when we ought to be zagging."

One of the best ways to attain success is to find a location where everyone is dumber than you are.

Chas. Walker says maybe the reason why women spend millions every year for cosmetics is they want to improve the face value of things.

"How some women can even pretend to be proud of their husbands," asserts Lynn Askew, "is a mystery that other women can't understand."

This day in time the woman with a worthless husband goes out and gets a job instead of starving to save her pride.

As Doran Colley sees it, the clothes that make the woman are the clothes that break the men.

"The hen with one chick," declares Elvis Myrick, "has nothing on the girl with one pair of silk hose when it comes to being fussy."

Ben Doolittle says June is the month of brides, the other eleven being devoted to divorcees.

A TRIBUTE

Fulton has lost another good citizen, this time in the person of "Mack" Roach, and we pause to pay our respect to his memory.

Mack as he was so familiarly known by his friends, was one of the most likable personalities we have ever known. Cheerful and willing in disposition, and always ready to help a friend or some one in distress, his deeds of kindness were never-ceasing. He will be missed by all who knew him, and his place in the community will be hard to fill.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to bereaved ones. May he rest in peace and tranquility in that great and beyond.

PASSING INSTITUTIONS GOING TO TOWN

No globe-trotter can ever know the thrill of travel that we experienced when we used to go to the county seat. Measured by modern standards, the town was not far away, ten miles or so, but it was a major event in the farm home when we decided on making such an adventurous trip. If we were going in the wagon, it was necessary to rise before day, like the virtuous woman of the Proverbs, and make our preparations. Sometimes we would a mile or so from home when the sun rose, eager to get into the strange lands beyond the range of hills that formed our usual boundaries.

The actual going was an adventure, though it seemed small in comparison with the arriving. There were strange people and horses along the way, there were crops to inspect, there were woods to drive through, where we might see and hear a wild grouse. We always stopped at the spring at the foot of the big hill to water the horses or at the church halfway to town to get a drink from the cistern. After a few miles we were in strange territory; from there on it was like traveling in another world. Six or eight miles from home we could hear the "cars," as older people called the train; the horses picked up their ears and pranced along like the war horses of the Bible that sensed battle from afar. By and by we topped the last hill and saw the county seat sprawled over a series of small hills, with the railroad at their base. How we wished an "old train" would come by while we were near it, though it scared us as badly as it did the horses. The dog, if he had ventured along with us, discreetly got under the wagon as we drove across the rutted road where we were to leave our horses and up the street to the wagon and team. No brass band turned out to welcome us, but just such groups kept the town going, for every farmer and his family sooner or later drove in to buy necessities and luxuries as the farm could not produce.

Now the big day began. We un-none at all, is being shown for suits as well as coats. Skirts probably will be straight and quite short, approximately 14 inches from the floor. Some fashion houses are cutting the skirted suit with one button and a definitely longer jacket, but this style is to be avoided by any except the very slim-bodied woman.

Colors to be noticed by the thoughtful buyer are tobacco brown, rust and dark beige, blue-green, weeds for travel coats, black, or black combined with green or some bright color.

Day time dresses will not be greatly changed. For morning and early afternoon dresses will be very simple and casual. The greatest difference to be expected is the slim straight skirt. The more simple neck line and modified sleeve fullness will continue. Emphasis will be placed on better quality fabrics of interesting texture and color. Light weight wool fabric will find an even greater acceptance, as lighter, more attractive and more comfortable woollens are being manufactured.

For the late afternoon and early dinner, we find the "Dress-for-dinner" dress which is an interesting development. Of beautiful fabric and a bit more elaborately trimmed than the day-time dress, it will be a length of the knee. The short evening dress is being worn this summer, but as it has not been very favorably accepted in the upper price brackets the style may not last. However, dinner dresses are still formal wear may be ankle length, or short in one place and long in others. Two silhouettes are being shown for evening: the full skirted garment, and the softer, more closely draped style. Many evening skirts may be seen by fall.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Dr. Charles G. Baker, Health Officer

Milk is an excellent food, which applies vitamins, mineral salts, and early every other needed element in a healthful diet for child or adult.

No other food lends itself to such a wide variety of uses or ease of preparation. Compared to meats, eggs, or vegetables it has a high food value and in these days when the cost of living is rapidly going up it's cost is relatively low. Most people eat fancy foods and delicacies which,

if not actually harmful, may possess little nutritive value and are expensive. Few persons drink enough milk.

Just as clear, sparkling, sweet-tasting water may be lacking in healthful organisms, milk which looks and tastes good may be swarming with disease germs. Seventeen diseases, including tuberculosis, septic fever, undulant fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, dysentery, and typhoid fever are commonly spread through filthy milk.

In communities having grade A milk, which receives its rating because it is produced and sold under strict regulations insuring cleanliness and low bacterial counts, lethals from intestinal disorders, especially in infants and children, have undergone a marked decline in occurrence. Adequate supplies of pasteurized grade A milk and raw grade

A milk are now available to more than supply the needs of this county.

Such milk is clean and healthful and must be kept that way. Careful inspections are made regularly to see that this milk comes from well-fed, healthy cows, is properly cooled and placed in bottles labeled correctly as to grade, and handled by persons who are free from contagious disease.

Dirty buttermilk is as dangerous as sweetmilk of doubtful quality.

Drink milk freely, but be sure that it bears a grade A label. Other grades are not just as good and a slight saving can't justify taking chances of serious illness or even death in your family.

Farmers of Fulton County realized approximately $126,000 in 1936 in total payments for their co-operation with the federal soil building program, including the diversion of land from soil-depleting crops to soil-conserving crops and other soil building activities.

Last year 83 carloads of lime were shipped on farms in Fulton county during 1936, and already more than half this amount has been used this year. It is estimated by County Agent J. B. Williams that 100 cars will be used in 1937. In 1936 a total of 22,000 could have been earned while only 64% or $12,000 was earned. It is estimated that a like amount will probably be earned this year, with 90% of the $13,000 being earned by use of phosphate, lime and sowing of seed.

S. S. President at Hickman, Wed., June 9

The all-steel, oil-burning Streckfus excursion Steamer S. S. President will arrive at Hickman Wednesday, June 9, for local excursion. The steamer is enroute from New Orleans to St. Louis for its summer operations.

During its stay here, the President will make a moonlight outing leaving Hickman at 8:30 p.m. and returning at 12:00 p.m. The excursion is sponsored by the Elks Lodge No. 1294.

On its northward journey this spring, the President is introducing a sensational new 14-piece dance band, Tommy Trigg's "Streamliners" and Ellen Claire, popular radio and night club "personality" singer. Utopia Clubs Try Hybrid Seed Corn In 23 Counties

The launching of a program to increase corn yields through the use of hybrid seed is announced by the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Through the agency of Utopia clubs, which are made up of older boys and girls on farms, hybrid seed is being used this year in 23 counties both to demonstrate its superior qualities and to start production on a commercial scale.

One hundred and eighty-four boys are co-operating in the work. Each is growing an acre of hybrid corn, usually in the same field with other corn, in order that farmers in the community may make a direct comparison between it and common kinds of corn.

Then one Utopia club in each county, as a club project, is growing an acre of hybrid corn in order to start its commercial production.

At the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, where many years have been devoted to corn breeding, it is said that the hybrid corn yields 15 to 25 percent better than other kinds, that it is drought and disease resistant, and has superior strength in its roots and stalks. That is, it stands up better against winds and storms.

The production of hybrid seed corn is said to be one of the most interesting recent developments in agriculture. It was made possible by the practical application of science to corn breeding, and it is expected to materially increase corn production when applied on a wide scale.
