Foad Homra To Underwrite Ball Broadcasts Over WENK

For the first time in the history of organized baseball in this city the thousands of enthusiastic followers who are unable to make the road games with the team will nevertheless be able to enjoy the games sitting right in the easy chair at home. This treat will be accorded local patrons by Foad Homra, avid baseball enthusiast, who with A. B. Robinson, general manager of radio station WENK announced today that all road games of the Fulton Roaders will be broadcast direct from the field to Fulton by remote control.

"Broadcasting out-of-town baseball games has had a tremendous effect on increasing attendance of the home games," Mr. Robinson told the News. He cited the case of Union City whose attendance jumped from 32,000 in 1946 to 63,000 in 1947.

The broadcast will be made direct from the field and will be handled by expert sports announcers from the Union City station.

The program will not be marred by commercials during lulls in the game; the only announcement will be made at the beginning of the program when a Federal Communications Commission ruling will be adhered to by saying "this program comes to you through the courtesy of Foad Homra."

No specific broadcasting time will be set on the games, rather the games will be broadcast in their entirety regardless of the extra innings involved.

Long a civic-spirited citizen, Mr. Homra has scored again in bringing out-of-town baseball games to the local fans, via his courtesy and remote control.

Learn to say "No"; it will be of more use to you than to be able to read Latin.—Spurgeon.

Little Phoebe

Two B's will solve this riddle by far: One a first name, the other a car.

That's the new clue to Mr. Fulton, Little Phoebe will have you know and besides that . . . at the overall dance sponsored by the IC Service Club at Jack Foy's tonight three names will be called to identify that myst-e-ri-o-us question.

Who is Mr. Fulton? Be at the Apollo and Overall Dance tonight and maybe you'll see him.

IC Service Club Thanks Workers

When the judges selected the float entered in the Army Day parade by the Illinois Central Service Club as the best of the lot, they not only rewarded a good looking float but the diligent toil of several railroad men and women who put many hours of tedious work into the project.

Robert Howell, carman on the repair track and H. P. Allen fireman, built the caboose assisted by Mrs. Robert Howell, Mrs. Max McKnight and Mrs. Ivan Brady.

Children who "manned" the mighty engine and caboose were: Donnie McKnight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max McKnight; Johnny Bob Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Watts; Mike Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Taylor; Tommy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith; Bobby Dalton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dalton; Bobby Hyland, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hyland and Tommy Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Morrow.

The IC Service Club wishes to take this opportunity in the News to thank all of those who in any way helped to build the float as well as the judges who saw it within their power to select it as the "best in the show."

OPEN LETTER TO GOVERNOR CLEMENTS

Honorable Eagle Clements, Governor
Commonwealth of Kentucky
Frankfort, Ky.
Dear Governor Clements:

All of us in Fulton County are fearfully disappointed at the outcome of House Bill 485, which you vetoed and which, in the sincere belief of hundreds of your constituents here would have relieved a desperate situation in our local school system. Many of your good friends here worked furiously to seek passage of that bill in the eleventh hour of the General Assembly and it was with a great deal of pride and satisfaction that the bill was pushed through in unprecedented fashion.

On the other hand it was with severe disappointment that we received the news that you had vetoed the bill.

We believe we can say without fear of contradiction that the thousands of voters in western Kentucky played no small part in elevating you to the high office of Governor of Kentucky. Those of us who voted for you have no regret that we did so, for we believe that your qualifications were superior to any other candidate in the race. The vote you received substantiates our belief. These and other facts make it doubly hard for us to realize that you reneged on your promise to do whatever you could for the school situation in Kentucky, and more particularly in Fulton County.

We cannot believe that you used the school situation in our county as a political football, to satisfy a more powerful group . . . perhaps the Kentucky Sheriff's Association, whose fee for collecting taxes in areas such as ours has been increased to four per cent.

We're not sore heads. We're not hard losers. If, in your estimation the situation here would not have been relieved by enactment into law of House Bill 485, we believe it would be to your advantage to give a detailed explanation of your appraisal of the bill.

Knowing as we do the critical ramifications that result when a school's foundation is at stake we would not have wanted a bill whose disadvantages to other areas would far outweigh the advantages to Fulton County. If in your mature judgment this would have happened then your friends here would more than appreciate an answer.

With every good wish for your continued success, we remain,

Cordially your friends,
Paul and Johanna Westpheling,

TVA Gets Shot In Arm When City Council Passes Ordinance

The first step, in a series of many steps to bring TVA power to Fulton, was taken on Monday night at the regular meeting of the City Council when the members voted four to one to pass an ordinance that would authorize the mayor to appoint a power board to open negotiations with Kentucky Utilities to purchase their distribution system here; the plan to be subsequently used by the municipality to distribute TVA power to electrical consumers in the city. Don Hill, council member abstained from voting. These voting for the ordinance were Ward Johnson who made the motion to pass the ordinance, Bill Browning who seconded the motion, Grady Varden and G. B. Butterworth. Voting against the motion was Mansfield Martin, who has steadfastly maintained that the city is not financially able to enter into the costly negotiations to purchase the system from KU.

The motion to pass the ordinance authorizing the mayor to appoint a power board was previously tabled at a meeting of the council on March 1.

Monday's quick passage of the ordinance came as something of a surprise to many who believed that the issue would lie dormant for many months. Bearing largely on the decision of the councilmen to pass the ordinance was an important meeting of influential business men who, after meeting in private session, appeared before the Council to appeal for passage of the measure.

At the meeting the Council also passed ordinances that would:

1. Limit parking to ten minutes on Main street in front of the Post-office from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.
2. Prohibit parking on one side of Mears and Olive street; cars are to park on the creek side of Mears and the east side of Olive.
3. Make Second street a one-way street between Carr and Lake, with traffic moving from Carr to Lake.
4. Install additional parking meters on the east side of Lake street and on both sides of Walnut street from the IC crossing beside Lake to Washington street.

Fields Chosen To Attend Evansville Deep Freeze Plant

Carey Fields, manager of the parts department of the Paul Nailing Implement Co., was among the more than twenty service parts men who attended an all-day refrigeration and milk-cooling system seminar at Union City recently.

The meeting was held at the Union City Country Club where round table discussions and training periods were part of the busy program.

Mr. Fields was chosen from among those present to visit the Evansville plant where the refrigerators and deep freeze units are built.

Fulton's Army Day is Great Success; Thousands Attend

There may have been longer and prettier parades sometimes in the past history of Western Kentucky, but there has hardly been one that was as gala and festive as the one on Tuesday, April 6, when Fulton celebrated Army Day with one of the finest calendar of events ever presented here.

Old Sol, together with Mother Nature, cooked up one of the brightest days of early spring, and with the rays of sunshine teaming down in delightful fashion in every little nook and cranny of the countryside the Army, Navy and Marines decked out in their finest raiment to make Fulton's Army Day a great celebration.

It was truly an exhibition of community spirit . . . there was hardly a man, woman or child in the city who did not in some way participate in the events.

It all started about eleven o'clock when the drone of airplanes was heard over the city. The number was slightly smaller than promised, but just the same the droning was a welcome sound to usher in the bigger events of the day.

At approximately three in the afternoon, with thousands of citizens and visitors standing around the YMBC platform on Lake street the festivities began when Paul Westpheling, News publisher, welcomed the visitors and distinguished guests to the city and told briefly of America's peacetime Army and what it means to the world today.

He then introduced Colonel Tom Elam, prominent lawyer and reserve officer of Union City, who said:

"Broadly speaking, there are two fundamentally sound reasons for an occasion of this nature.

1. "It enables us to pay tribute to the men who and the institutions which have defended, protected and maintained this nation from Concord to Okinawa, throughout 173 years of great and glorious existence.
2. "It enables us to survey the lessons of the past, recognize the problems of the future, and adjust our national program accordingly. Of course, it goes without saying, that in spite of the sentimental value of the first proposition, the latter is vastly more important.

"Let us be constant in our duty to the republic and support and maintain the integrity of our armed forces to the end that freedom and democracy may always find a haven in this troubled world; ever remembering with your distinguished Henry Clay that 'Every act of noble sacrifice to the country, every instance of patriotic devotion to her cause, has its beneficial influence; a nation's character is the sum of its splendid deeds; they constitute one common patrimony, the nation's inheritance.'

Other distinguished guests of the military on the reviewing stand were Capt. Philip Stern, of Paducah; and Col. Francis E. Kempf of Louisville who had addressed an Army Day luncheon in Paducah earlier.

Following Colonel Elam's talk Sgt. R. E. Nicholson, who with Sgt. A. M. Avalon deserve the lion's share of the credit for Tuesday's event, told of the essay contest held in the county schools in connection with Army Day and presented to Colonel Elam the names of the boy and girl who wrote the best essays on "A Strong America is a Peaceful America," thereby declaring them the regal rulers of the day-long celebration. Writing the best letter among the boys was Otha Linton of Fulton who was crowned King Otha by Sgt. Nicholson and Miss Carolyn Carter who wrote

No Place For Eddie

The Evening Banner, of Greenville, Texas, recently told, in an editorial, the sad story of Eddie, an inefficient and discourteous clerk in a store. One day a customer noticed that Eddie wasn't present and asked about him. "He's just not working here any more," the proprietor said. "Got anybody in mind for the vacancy?" the customer responded. "Nope," said the proprietor. "Eddie didn't leave no vacancy."

As the Banner added, "There's no place for the Eddies because the days of competition have returned and customers want to be waited upon . . . they want to see clerks take an interest in their requests, give them courteous, attentive service and tidy to make them feel at home. That's just human nature."

During the war, many a store, from the big chains down to little shops, had to employ poor and disinterested help, because nothing better could be had. But we're getting back to normal now, and we're seeing again that retailing is a career, that it calls for very special talents and mental attitudes and capabilities, and that it isn't a job that anyone can do. Many of the larger stores carry on highly developed training programs for their employees, and these are of service to small stores as well, by raising the standards of retail service in general.

The customer is entitled to interested and intelligent service, whether he's after a pound of hamburger or a complete spring outfit, and retailing is giving it to him. That small percentage of stores which takes no interest in this basic form of public relations won't be in business long. And, like Eddie, they'll leave no vacancy.

Machine Answer To Lewis

(From The Dallas Morning News)

Daisytown is the name of the little Pennsylvania mining community which may provide the answer to John L. Lewis and his everlasting genius for trouble. Daisytown is the place where unpublishing experiment is made with a new contraption vaguely described as the "complete mining machine."

According to carefully generalized accounts, this machine rumbles up to a coal mine "face" and bites off hunks of coal which pass through the machine and come out at the back end as cargo for a string of cars which take it on out of the mine in a continuous stream. There is no blasting, no boring for the blast and no hand labor.

The expert crew takes the machine into a room, cleans that room out and moves on. Nobody has said a word about the number of miners who are put out of a job. But since the number of miners actually working on a given day is pretty low, anyhow, and since youngsters in the mining community tend to find another trade, perhaps it is just as well that progress should take its normal course.

It would be wonderful if coal mining should be converted into a trade that calls for brains instead of backs. When that happens, of course, John Lewis will be out of a job. This is not to say that Mr. Lewis is stouter in his back than in his brains. As a matter of fact, Mr. Lewis is an extremely clever man. But when the Daisytown experiment demonstrates the success of the new machine, miners will be mechanics and safety experts who will be so intelligent that they won't need any John Lewis as their czar and pied piper.

When intelligence comes to the miners, peace will have a chance. The country will say goodbye to Mr. Lewis without regret.

About Farming From Washington

Long-Range Survey

Members of the House Agriculture Committee returned this week from their latest cross-country swing to sound out farmer sentiment on a long-range farm program. They had to skip their scheduled Fresno hearing, in order to return in time to vote on the Economic Cooperation Act. Here are the impressions of some of the congressmen who went along:

Majority of farmers favor increased conservation work, and modernized price supports. Farmers believe supports should be lower than 90 percent of parity, particularly on non-storable commodities such as potatoes. All agreed on one thing: the farmer should continue to receive price supports as long as other groups are supported—for instance, labor, with the minimum-wage program. All farmers questioned showed high regard for the Extension Service. Considerable rugged individualism was evident at the hearings. A few farmers figured that the fellow who benefits from soil conservation should pay the cost, while others favored more Federal aid.

The committee now has about 15 volumes of hearing to plow through before tackling the job of writing a bill. One congressman told this writer: "It's a sure thing that the House will produce an omnibus bill, but it's going to require a lot of thought, and whether or not it'll be done this session—well, you can pay your money and take your choice."

AFBF is scheduled to testify April 13 on the Aiken long-range bill.

Milk Indictment

On May 5, a trial is due to take place which should be carefully followed by all milk cooperatives. This trial, which might have important repercussions on customary milk marketing practices, concerns the alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by a Washington, D. C. co-op.

A Federal indictment was filed in Washington against the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, its manager, and seven Washington milk distributors, on March 8. For sometime, the cooperative and the dealers operated under a federal milk marketing order, and prices to producers were arrived at under the provisions of the order. Prior to the order and since its termination, producer prices have been determined through bargaining procedure customary in cooperative milk marketing, not by government formula. Now the co-op is accused of monopoly practices and illegal price-fixing. It's a highly significant case, since some of the practice condemned are common and long-standing in cooperative milk marketing.

Atomic Fertilizer

Possible use of atomic fertilizers to influence crop growth and maturity may sound like a Buck Rogers fantasy, but it has the serious attention of the Department of Agriculture. Officials announce that a research project on this subject is starting immediately. The long-term study, undertaken by the Department in cooperation with several experiment stations and the Atomic Energy Commission, will attempt to reveal the direct influence on crops of radioactive materials used in fertilizer. Hitherto, isotopes have only been used as tracers, to help determine facts about growth and development of plants, animals and insects. Officials caution that results from the study may be many years in coming. They hope, however, that it may answer several 64-dollar questions about the possibilities of atomic fertilizer. For instance: What effect will additions of radioactive materials have on growth, maturity and yield of various crops? What influence will low activities of alpha, beta and gamma radiation have on seed germination? The eventual answers could lead to some mighty big changes in farming.

ITO Charter

A new United Nations agency was born last week, one which should exert far-reaching influence on world trade. It is the International Trade Organization. The charter signed by members of nearly 60 nations at Havana, Cuba, provides a code for fair play in foreign trade. Signers agree to extend to each other general most-favored-nation treatment and to undertake negotiations directed toward tariff reduction. Quantitative restrictions on imports and exports are basically disallowed. However, there are important reservations. Import quotas on farm products may be used to safeguard this nation's agricultural price-support program. Export subsidies may be employed without prior approval of the organization. Tariff concessions may be withdrawn if they treat serious injury to domestic producers. These "escape clauses" are designed to protect, not only U. S. producers, but also undeveloped nations and countries now experiencing balance-of-payment difficulties. It is clear that the ITO is only a first step toward freer and expanded world trade. ITO does not begin actual operations until its charter is ratified by the U. S. and a majority of other signatory nations. However, if a majority have failed to approve within a year, then it comes into force whenever 20 countries ok it.

Prices

The price prophets are still at it. Some say the recent farm-price drop was the start of deflation and depression; others contend we're in for an even wilder round of inflation. Reliable government economists still hold to a middle view, although cautiously and with reservations. Commerce Department officials say: "The recent change have been in the direction of better alignment." They declared the February drop had comparatively slight effect on business activity. According to the latest Bureau of Labor Statistics index, prices levelled off by March 20 at one percent above the preceding week. However, the general price level is nearly two percent lower than at the start of the year. That can mean a big dent in a lot of farmers' pocketbooks.

Budget Surplus

Treasury coffers are bulging with a record government budget surplus of $6,000,000,000. It looks as though, by June 30, the surplus may grow $7,500,000,000 as predicted by the Administration. That's a lot of ciphers, and it could be used for debt reduction, or military preparedness, whichever way the wind blows. The "bedrock" figure now being considered in Administration circles for military preparedness in 1948-49 is, $13,000,000,000.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

Mrs. Carey Frieleds
Little Freddie Ray McCoy was stricken with pneumonia a few days ago and was admitted to the Haws Hospital.

B. L. Doran reached home Sunday from Excelsior Springs, Mo., where he has been a patient at Ball Clinic for the past four weeks.

Mrs. Grant Bynum is improving and is able to sit up a small portion of time at Haws Clinic.

I wish to correct a mistake in my last week's write-up in stating that the body of Dan Gouldan was in charge of Ferrin and Riggs. It should have read Bowlin and Riggs, Dresden undertakers.

Clifton Gouldan left for Key West, la., Saturday afternoon after attending the funeral and burial of his brother, Dan Gouldan.

Uncle J. Vincent remains about the same as last reported. He sits up some, but remains a helpless, and with the good care of his relatives Mr. and Mrs. Houston McGuire, he rests quite comfortably.

Leander Nelson is in Detroit for a visit with his son, Lopy Nelson and Mrs. Nelson.

Hearts and Flowers by PATRICA LATANE

Miss Latane;

I am a girl 23 years old and have lived a pretty wild life. Now people think that I'm no good. How can I go about changing their minds?

H. G.

My Dear H. G.

I have studied your handwriting very close. I gave it a closer inspection than I usually do. I am very much interested in you. You are a very odd person. You are a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde person. You yourself would like to go right, but there's this other you that is always taking you off into trouble. I suggest you go to a church of your choice. It doesn't make any difference which church as all the roads lead to the same place if you live a good Christian life. Have a talk with the pastor. Pour out your troubles to him and ask him to help you. Be sure and tell him about what happened to you when you were younger, after you have told

Miss Latane;

I am a man 31 years old, single, have a good job and would like to get married. What do you suggest my doing?

J.B.

My Dear J. B.

I suggest your writing again and put your right initials down and also tell the truth. There is something you should know.

Miss Latane,

I am a woman 45 years old, and the man I'm going with wants me to invest my money in a project which he has some money invested in. What do you advise me doing?

S.J.S.

My Dear S.J.S.

Don't do it. If you do, in 5 months from now you will not be seeing him or your money. Take my advice keep the money you have; you will need it to live on. He doesn't care anything about you, all he is after

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Golden Text is: "Israel shall be saved in the Lord with an everlasting salvation." (Isa. 45:17). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Say to them that are of fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense: he will come and save you." (Isa. 35:4).

All are welcome to our services.

4-H Gals Keep Up "New Look" Make Own Dresses

What is the average 4-H Club girl in a small town or on a farm doing to acquire the "new look" in clothes?

She is making her own clothes according to latest fashion trends, and seeing to it that every outfit is becoming to her type and expressive of her personality. She is acquiring the knowledge and skills necessary to make suitable costumes for work, school and social occasions through taking part in the 1948 National 4-H Dress Revue.

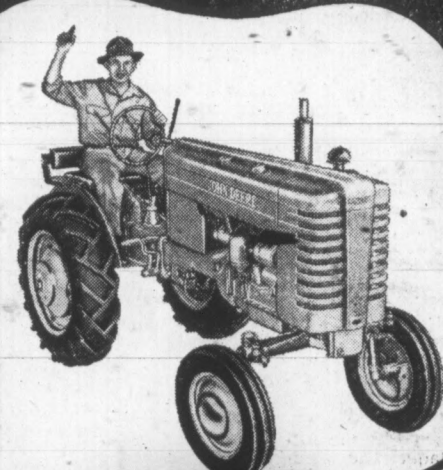

Participation in that program affords the 4-H girl the opportunity to model her "best" dress in her local county revue. If she wins a medal of honor, she may enter the State Dress Revue, the winner of which will receive an educational trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November, provided by Simplicity Pattern Co. Each State winner taking part in the National 4-H Dress Revue Presentation at the Congress will receive a $25 U. S. Savings Bond and an appropriate ribbon.

Last year's State winner in Kentucky was Mary Jo Ridley of Beaver Dam.

WHY must there be 2 kinds of Telephone Dollars?

One kind to keep your service GOING

These are the dollars that are used to run the business—to meet the day-to-day expenses of supplying telephone service. You pay them with your telephone bill and the nickels you deposit in pay telephones. These dollars pay wages to telephone workers and all other expenses of furnishing you service. In addition, these dollars you pay for service must also provide a reasonable return to the people who have invested their money in the telephone business.

One kind to keep your service GROWING

These are the dollars that are used to build the business. They pay for new buildings, switchboards, wires, cables, poles, and other equipment. These dollars do not come from the bills you pay for telephone service because a regulated utility such as the Telephone Company is not permitted to earn enough money to put earnings back into the business. Facilities for improvement and expansion must be financed with dollars from investors, attracted by a reasonable expectation of safety and a fair return on their investment.

In order to keep your telephone service GOING and GROWING, there must be enough of both kinds of dollars. This requires adequate telephone rates—rates sufficient to pay the cost of furnishing you telephone service with enough left over to yield a reasonable return to investors who supply the dollars that make the service possible.

Fulton's Army Day

The best essay among the girls, thus designating her the lovely and gracious Queen of the Army Day Festivities of 1946. Having been duly crowned and introduced to the hordes who crowded the stand the royal couple was whisked away to the outskirts of the city to join and to lead the mile-long parade through the downtown streets of the city.

They were a happy couple and added to the pleasure of the queen was a stunning bouquet of red roses presented by Mrs. Killebrew of the Killebrew Florists.

At approximately four o'clock in the afternoon one of the best organized and longest parades ever to wend its way through Fulton and South Fulton streets started on its march down Fourth street to Lake and then across the railroad, a swing around South Fulton and down Lake street again.

Smartly-uniformed units from Camp Campbell imparted the military air. With cavalry yellow gloves and scarves adding dash to their olive drab, one unit marched on foot while another followed in jeeps and armored cars. Their bearing was all a commanding officer could ask.

But hundreds of Fultonians joined the troops in the fete. Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and school children pounded the pavement in step with the Fulton high and Martin, Tenn., school bands. Members of Marshall Alexander Post of the American Legion under James Warren and Glendale White Post of the VFW kept step with the rest.

More than 50 floats followed the marching throng. The Illinois Central entry—a small locomotive and caboose manned by a crew of youngsters—won first prize. The City Motor Company creation won second prize, decorated with Old Glory and bunting and carrying several veterans, its sign perhaps reflected growing U. S. sentiment regarding Stalin's Russia. It read "Back Up, Joe—Or We're Coming Back."

The VFW presented a splendid portrayal of the famous Iwo Jima flag-raising on its float. A bathing beauty riding a cake of ice was just one of the eye-catching belles in the parade. Others were to be seen on varied floats and some sat on horses—though their riding form was somewhat unusual, to say the least.

Judges for the essay contest were: Walter E. Mischke, James G. Heisner, and Charles Houser, local ministers.

Judges for the parade and who also selected the South Fulton Boy Scout troop as the winning group were: Mayor T. T. Boaz, L. Kasnow and H. H. Bugg.

As a grand finale to the day's events a tremendous street dance was held on Main street.

Big Corn Yield On Tile-Drained Land

Seventy farmers who used tile-drained land in the state corn derby last year made an average yield of 98.8 bushels an acre, according to a summary of contest results, issued by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington. This compares to an average yield of 87 bushels an acre for all 1,125 farmers in the contest. Manufacturers of tile provided prizes for top producers on tiled land.

One hundred and forty-seven farmers who grew corn on the contour had an average yield of 92.3 bushels an acre, which indicates the value of growing row crops on the contour to conserve moisture and prevent erosion, says the college's statement.

SEAL SALES LAG; CITIZENS ASKED TO SEND CHECKS

In spite of the fact that other local fund drives were being conducted simultaneously with the sale of Easter seals for the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children a total of $786.30 has been collected in the county thus far, it was made known by Clyde Williams, Sr., Fulton County Chairman of the 1946 sale. "An early Easter, tardiness in mailing the letters, and other fund drives that ran concurrently worked a real hardship on the Easter seal sale this year," Mr. Williams told the News. "For that reason we are urging those who have not sent in their checks to do so within the next two weeks."

Collections through March 31 are as follows:

87 people with Hickman addresses, $157.00.

309 people with Fulton addresses, $629.30.

Mr. Williams said: "The work of this society is very essential and worthy. Assistance is available only to those children who are not financially able to obtain aid otherwise. You may visualize the results of this work since there are some seventy odd persons in Fulton County who have received the benefits of the society's care. At the present time there are twenty children in this county who are under the supervision of the Fulton County health nurses after having received aid from the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children and will receive further aid should these nurses deem it necessary. Ask any of the children, their parents or the nurses about the society's work."

DEFENSE

By desiring what is perfectly good . . . we are part of the power against evil, widening the skirts of light and making the struggle with darkness narrower.—Eliot.

Evil thoughts, lusts, and malicious purposes cannot go forth, like wandering pollen, from one human mind to another, finding unsuspected lodgment, if virtue and truth build a strong defence.—Mary Eddy.

There is between my will and all offences a guard of patience.—Shakespeare.

Meekness excludes revenge, irritability, morbid sensitiveness, but not self-defense or a quiet and steady maintenance of right.—Theophylact.

FRUITAGE

It is very rare to find ground which produces nothing. If it is not covered with flowers, fruit trees, and grains, it produces briars and pines.—Bruyere.

When tillage begins, other arts follow. The farmers, therefore, are the founders of civilization.—Daniel Webster.

We think our civilization near its meridian, but we are yet only at the cock-crowing and the morning star.—Emerson.

Men are not to be judged by their looks, habits, and appearances; but by the character of their lives and conversations, and by their works.—L'Estrange.

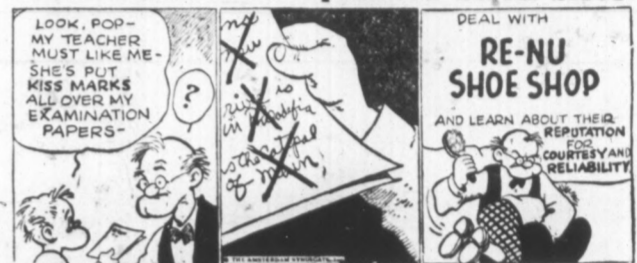

Human merit or demerit will find its proper level. Divinity alone solves the problem of humanity, and that in God's own time. "By their fruits ye shall know them."—Mary Eddy.

The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.—Galatians 5:22-23.
