Fulton Rents Are Reasonable

The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was well attended Tuesday night considering the hot weather. The meeting was lively from start to finish. A number of splendid talks were made on various projects, but the keynote address of Secretary Davis was inspirational. Mr. Davis gave out many valuable pointers with a brief review of some of the things the Chamber is attempting to accomplish. He said a report had been circulated among railroad men contemplating moving to Fulton that rents were high here, but after a thorough investigation he found that the report was without foundation and that rents in Fulton compare favorably with other towns and in some instances much less. "The Chamber of Commerce extends a hearty welcome to all new comers and especially the railroad folk," Mr. Davis said, "and we hope that no citizen of Fulton who has rental property will attempt to extort on any one."

Since the opening of the new Fulton-Edgewood cut-off a large number of employees of the Illinois Central System have been transferred to Fulton. Many more will locate here. They must be housed and housed at a reasonable price and the editor of this paper, after some investigation, finds that rents in Fulton are much less than in many places on the I. C. System.

More Houses Needed

What we need in Fulton now is more houses to rent. After a while some of the newcomers will build their own homes to live in, especially after they become acquainted with the Fulton Building & Loan Association, a million and a half dollar institution ready to lend assistance to all who desire to own their own home.

"What has the Building & Loan Association got to do with the Chamber of Commerce?" you ask. Well it is just this: Millions of persons in the United States, figuratively speaking, are marching under the "Save for a Home First" banner. Some who are coming to our city are imbued with the spirit of thrift and home ownership. The Chamber of Commerce recognizes the fact that the home owner is more contented in his own domicile and the Building & Loan Association stands ready to make his fondest dreams come true.

Our citizens have not fully realized the true significance of what the new cut-off means to Fulton. It will not be long, however, before many improvements of a substantial nature, and perhaps on a gigantic scale, will take place here as a climax to plans forecasted.

Our secretary of the Chamber of Commerce is to be commended on the keen interest he is taking on every movement being made, especially the welfare of the railroad people, and deserves the backing of every loyal citizen of the town.

VAUGHN GIVES HIMSELF UP AT UNION CITY

Escaped Slayer Forced Out of Hiding by Urge for Food

After hiding for five days among the Reelfoot Lake section of northwestern Tennessee hunger finally drove Johnny Vaughn, 21, under death sentence for murder, who escaped from county jail at Union City, Tenn., July 5, from his seclusion Monday night and he was captured without any resistance by Sheriff J. R. McClain Tuesday morning.

Sheriff McClain received information yesterday that

Vaughn was at the home of his father, John Vaughn on North Ninth street. The sheriff went alone to the house yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and placed Vaughn under arrest. Vaughn said that he had eaten but one meal during the five days that he was a fugitive in the lake hills.

All efforts to locate Vaughn since his escape through a hole, freshly made, in the rear of the jail, had failed. Vaughn killed Roland Bell, a rival in love, and after a sensational trial was sentenced to death. His case is before the supreme court.

JOHN FORD MAKES NEW MASTERPIECE, "HANGMAN'S HOUSE"

Donn Byrne's Great Novel Produced for Fox Film With Outstanding Cast of Players

John Ford, creator of magnificent screen drama, has another masterpiece to his credit in "Hangman's House," which comes to the Orpheum Theatre next Monday for a 2 days run with Victor McLaglen, June Collyer, Hobart Bosworth, Larry Kent and others in the outstanding roles.

Ford, who is still receiving congratulations as a result of the world acclaim given his recent productions, "Four Sons," and "Mother Machree," has made a thrilling picture from Donn Byrne's unforgettable novel of Irish life. It is a dramatic story woven around the love of a girl for her father who is forced to marry a man she abhors. In the gripping situations which follow she loses her father, discovers that her husband is a scoundrel, and is forced to flee in order to save her life.

EVANGELIST SMITH DELIVERING INSPIRATIONAL SERMONS

The revival meeting at the Church of Christ is growing in interest with each service. Five were baptized Tuesday night and two joined the church when the invitation was given. Evangelist Smith is an inspirational talker and his sermons are greatly enjoyed by all who attend the services.

The singing, scripture reading, prayers and sermons are all interesting and inspirational, instructive and truly worshipful "as it is written." No creed but the Bible, no plea but the gospel.

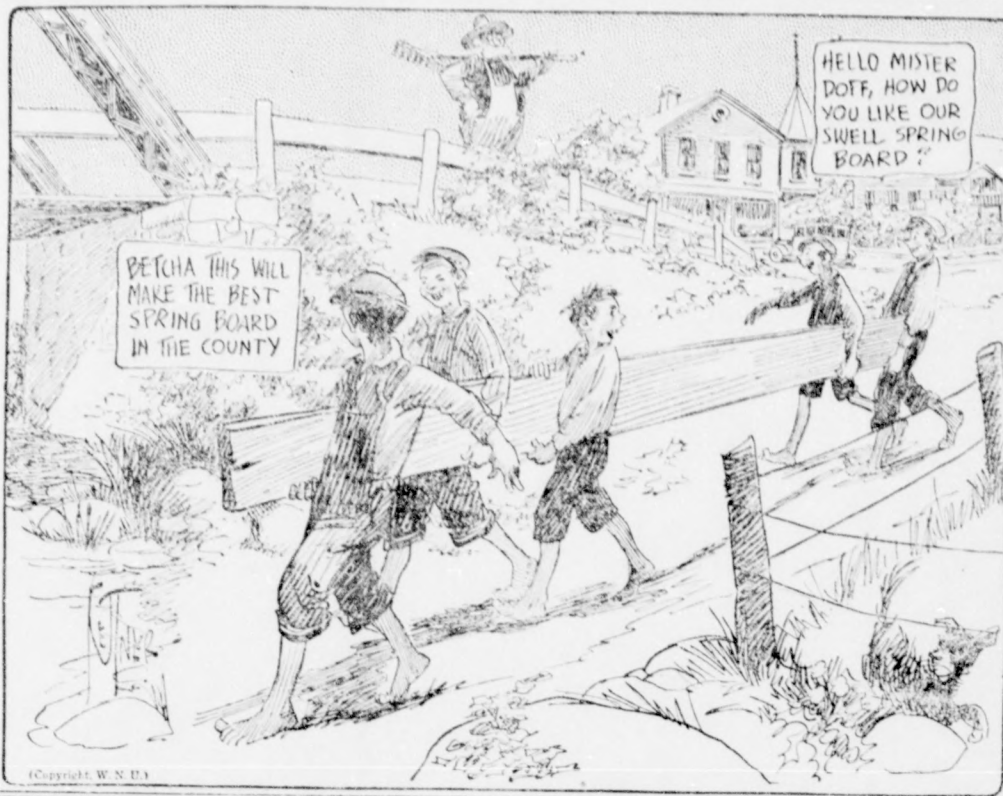

A cordial welcome is extended to the public to attend the services.

BILL BOOSTER SAYS

"I AIN'T GOT MUCH TIME TO WORRY OVER THE WAY PEOPLE ARE BUYING AUTOMOBILES, BECAUSE THE AUTO IS ADDING YEARS TO THEIR LIFE. MIGHT AS WELL BE BUYING CARS AS CEMETERY LOTS, I SAY! THE AUTO PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS IN HEALTH AND HAPPINESS!"

LOYALTY TO HOME

Nothing will make a man fight quicker than to tell him that he is not loyal to his country, or that his country is not worthy of his loyalty.

What is true of one's country should be equally true of the place we call home. It is hard to imagine anything more inconsistent than a man or woman living in a community to which they do not prove their undivided fealty by their daily practices.

Most everyone thinks of a town or city that has grown and developed into a prosperous community because every inhabitant pulled together and worked together for its up-build.

Every such city is a lesson that each one may appropriate and think over as an example that might well be emulated. The lesson of pulling together can always be studied to the benefit of the individual as well as a collection of individuals making up a community. When divided, we weaken and tear down our own interest, making the business of building up the most logical one, even from a purely selfish standpoint.

This community is most happily situated, and people who call this home need only to look about them and count the advantages that are to be found here. With such a setting there is no reason why the community should not be prosperous.

And it will be prosperous and contentment will abound just in proportion as we as individuals make it such by pulling together; by standing for home institutions; by supporting those enterprises that enlarge community life by enlarging wholesome activities. This is loyalty to home—loyalty to our merchants, to our schools, our churches, our industries and our farms. These are the things that make life in every community worth while. Loyal people will support them.

GEORGE BANCROFT USED TO BE SONG AND DANCE MAN!

George Bancroft, who sang and danced his way around the world three times, recently experienced a difficult time shooting his way through one small city.

He would much rather have sung and danced his way through than blaze a path with a six-shooter. The pistol work was demanded by his role in "Underworld," Paramount's picture-ization of Ben Hecht's crime story, which reaches the Grand Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Before he became a leading man on the stage or had any thought at all about the screen, Bancroft was a song and dance man in musical comedy.

He has won an even more brilliant reputation as a screen actor and has perhaps his biggest role to date in the crook story which Josef Von Sternberg directed. Co-featured are Evelyn Brent, Clive Brook, Larry Semon and Fred Kohler.

BONDURANT-ARRINGTON

Marked by simplicity and beauty was the wedding of Miss Hazel Bondurant and Mr. Ernest Edgar Arrington, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Bondurant, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, in the presence of the members of the family and a few intimate friends. Rev. W. F. Cooley officiated. The ring ceremony was used.

The home was prettily decorated in bridal tones of pink and white. Preceding the entrance of the bride party, Miss Lucile Bondurant sang, "I Love You Truly," with Miss Clarice Bondurant at the piano. The Bridal chorus from Lohengrin's Traumeri. The Flower Song was played softly during the ceremony and the Bridal Chorus was used as recessional.

The bride was lovely in a gown of beige crepe. Miss Ruth Wade as maid of honor attended the bride and was gown in a tan georgette. Mr. Lonnie Roper was best man.

The bride is a most charming and talented young woman, being the second daughter of Mrs. Mary Bondurant.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Ella Cutshall of Macey, Ind. Both were reared in this community and have a host of friends who wish them well.

An informal reception was held following the ceremony, an ice course being served.

After a few days visit with friends and relatives, they will leave for Akron, Ohio, for their future home.

Beloved Woman Passes Away.

The death angel entered the Hagler home on Maiden street, Wednesday morning and carried away the spirit of Mrs. S. A. Hagler, beloved wife of Esq. S. A. Hagler, member of the fiscal court. Today friends and neighbors are bowed in grief with the bereaved loved ones.

Mrs. Hagler passed away after a brief illness at the age of 54 years. She was a faithful member of Sandy Branch Primitive Baptist church. She was not only faithful to her church, but just as faithful in believing that it was her duty as a Christian to do the will of her Master at all times. In her passing, Fulton has lost a good citizen and while she will be sadly missed by friends and neighbors, it is in the home her absence will be more keenly felt by the beloved husband, she having been the sunlight of his life the past thirty-three years.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elwin Coffman and little Nell Dawn, also two sisters, Miss Mattie Vincent and Mrs. J. O. Vincent; two brothers, Jim and Albert Carter, of Mayfield.

MOTLEY RESIGNS SECRETARYSHIP AT MARIANNA, ARK.

Accepts Position at Cape Girardeau With Sugar Creek Creamery Company

(Marianna Courier Index) S. S. Motley, who came here three months ago to become secretary and manager of the Chamber of Commerce, has resigned to accept a position with the Sugar Creek Creamery Company, of Danville, Ill. Mr. Motley is a man of much ability and unbounded enthusiasm and during his short stay here he had laid the foundation of much constructive work. Members of the executive board of the Chamber of Commerce and the public generally regret very much his decision to leave.

Mr. Motley will be stationed at Cape Girardeau, Mo., and will supervise several counties in that section of Missouri for the Sugar Creek Creamery. This company is a large manufacturer of butter. It has thirteen manufacturing units in that many states.

Mr. Motley expects to leave here within the next ten days to take up his new work. In the meantime the executive committee will meet and consider applications from those who wish to take over the work here.

"It is with a spirit of genuine regret that I make the announcement of my resignation as secretary of the Marianna Chamber of Commerce," said Mr. Motley yesterday. "During my stay here of a little more than three months, I have fully enjoyed the friendly relationship with what I truly consider one of the most congenial communities I have ever lived and worked in. The daily spirit and character of the people of Marianna is symbolic of the highest ideals of American citizenship, and only for a bigger field and greater future would I consider the change which I am now contemplating."

"May I use this opportunity of expressing my high appreciation of the very courteous and affable spirit of fellowship which has been mine to enjoy while in your midst."

"The possibilities for continued advancement for Marianna and Lee county are outstanding and I have faith in you as a people to continue to carry on to a successful culmination."

The above item appeared in last week's issue of the Courier Index which is a weekly paper of Marianna, Ark., and we are glad to say that it is one of the editor's good privileges to rejoice with old friend Motley in his upward climb. The Sugar Creek Creamery is one of the largest and most popular exclusive butter manufacturing firms in this country and they do not claim credit for their success, but say that it is all built around the power of personality found in their employees, they have the distinction of employing the highest type of character that is available, and judging from what we have previously observed here in our own city, we are convinced that this statement rest upon a firm foundation, and Motley's recent connection will be no exception to their rule.

During Mr. Motley's stay in Fulton as secretary of our Chamber of Commerce, he contributed much of his time in developing the dairy interest in this vicinity. We have never known a man more suited to this class of work and the Sugar Creek Creamery Company is indeed fortunate in procuring his services.

In the early morning of June 28, 1928, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Sam Conner at Paducah, Ky., and claimed as its victim his loving wife, Minnie Austin Conner.

She was born July 26, 1893; died June 28, 1928, aged 34 years, 11 months and 2 days.

She was a member of the Johnson Grove Baptist church where she lived a consistent Christian life until she was called home. Weep not, loved ones, and friends, for your earthly loss is her heavenly gain.

Your hearts are sad and lonely Without that one you love; But by and by you can meet her In that happy home above.

The golden gates are open, The gentle voice said "Come," The farewell words are spoken, For she gently entered home.

Insuring Good Service

Because the past, not the present condition of railway earning power determines the quality of railway service available at any given time, it is essential, as an insurance for business, that railway rates be adequate at all times. Such is the assertion of President L. A. Downs of the Illinois Central System in a letter to the public.

The growth of the country in both population and economic activity calls for a continuing expansion of railway capacity. Mr. Downs points out. In recognition of this fact and in response to an improvement in earnings, the railroads in the six years 1922-27 invested approximately $5,000,000,000 in new facilities. The result of this investment is apparent in the quality of railway service today.

On the other hand, warns President Downs, a deterioration in the quality of railway service may be looked for in the future if the recent downward trend in the net return earned by the railroads should continue. The railway expansion already attained might help to postpone this effect, but traffic will soon outgrow the capacity of present railway facilities. Recovery from the embarrassment of such a situation, even in the event of improved earnings, would be slow, for it takes time to raise money, to obtain delivery of cars and locomotives and to make additions of new trackage and other major improvements.

RILEY KNOCKED
OUT BY BOLT2 Cows Killed, Men Stunned by Lightning on Graves
County Farm

Mayfield, Ky., July 7.—A. E. Riley was knocked unconscious by lightning in the electrical storm Friday afternoon in which William Earl Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Shelton, was killed. A bolt of lightning also killed two cows and badly injured a third one on Mr. Riley's farm four and a half miles west of Mayfield. Philip Shell and T. A. Clapp, who were working in nearby fields, were stunned by the lightning.

Information reaching Mayfield today indicates that the storm was not general. In the Sedalia section, south of the city, and some distance east, the downpour reached the volume of a cloudburst, and lowlands where the farmers were hoping to work next week were again inundated. In Mayfield the rain was heavy, but at Folsomdale the roads were dusty. It is reported that at Lone Oak and south of there the roads were filled with water, while before the county line was reached, the dust was flying.

Farmers are in need of dry weather for a time, and the heavy rainfall will greatly retard crops beyond the lateness already developed.

A FEW LOOSE FEATHERS

By J. T. Watkins

Hurrah for the clear hot weather. Chickens doing well now, thank you. My, but it was a hard pull for the little fellows.

We have received a copy of the latest Standard of Perfection. It can be seen at any time at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. We bought it for your use, and if there is anything you want to post up on, come and look it up.

We have secured the services of a licensed poultry judge to place the awards at the fair this year.

Write in for your copy of the premium list, we have one for you, or if you are in town come by the Chamber of Commerce rooms and get one. Look it over. The best one ever put out by this Fair Association.

In culling it's just as important to know the history of the flock as it is to know culling characteristics. The best flock of laying hens can be thrown into an early molt by improper management.

If you are culling your own flock and are familiar with its history, then the job is relatively easy. If your birds have been well fed and properly cared for, the hens that quit laying now will be the naturally inferior hens. You can tell them by the shriveled comb, the yellow pigment in the skin—if they are yellow skin breeds such as Leghorns, Anconas, Rocks, etc.—the dry vent and the closed up condition of the pelvic bones. Such hens will usually have a few pin feathers on the neck and an examination of the wings will show that they are molting wing feathers.

Sometimes lice and mites are the culprits that cause flocks to molt early.

If you haven't gone over the flock for lice, make the first culling a combination job. Cull the hens first and then apply a commercial louse powder or dip them in sodium fluoride.

A sodium fluoride dip is made by dissolving one ounce of sodium fluoride in a gallon of lukewarm water. Use a nine or ten gallon earthen jar, because this chemical reacts with metal. Dip the hens in the solution and work up well in the feathers.

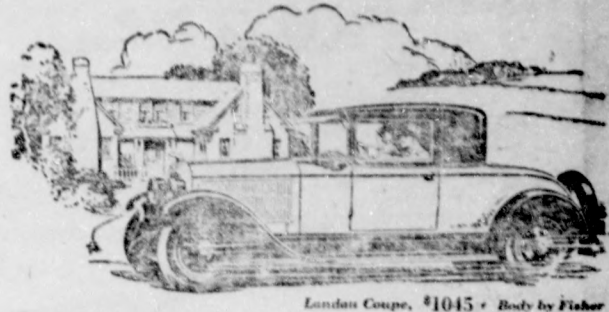

Lice live on the hens and mites live in the filth, among the roosts, nests and crevices. Don't forget that.

Mites gnaw and lice suck. Lice must be fed a stomach poison to kill them, but mites offer another problem. They get their food from the blood, consequently they must be attacked through the body pores. Strong chemicals dissolve the body and suffocate them.

A good coal tar disinfectant is the best remedy for mites. Paint the roosts and nests and your troubles will be over for six months to a year.

INSURING GOOD SERVICE

Good railway service is a matter of long planning ahead. Traffic requirements must be anticipated, and facilities must be developed to meet them. It takes time to raise money, to obtain delivery of cars and locomotives and to make additions of new trackage and other major improvements. That is why the character of railway service at any time is a reflection of the past condition of railway earning power.

The present excellence of railway service is an illustration. Between 1921 and 1926 the net return earned by the railroads as a whole, although short of the officially designated fair return, showed in the main a steady and encouraging improvement. On the strength of this improvement and the faith of investors that it would continue the railroads were able in the six years 1922-27 to invest approximately $5,000,000,000 in new facilities. Users of railway service are now reaping the cumulative benefit of these investments. In the same way the future adequacy of railway service depends upon the present adequacy of railway earning power.

If the recent downward trend in the net return earned by the railroads should continue, it is virtually certain to have a corresponding effect upon the quality of railway service. The railway expansion already attained might help to postpone this effect, but traffic will soon outgrow the capacity of present railway facilities. The growth of the country in both population and economic activity calls for a continuing expansion of railway capacity. Hence railway earning power must at all times be such as to encourage investment in railway securities and thus enable the railroads to maintain their progress.

Rates which insure the ability of the railroads to meet prospective demands for transportation are the cheapest premium for the best insurance the business of the country could have.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

Beelerton News

On Sunday, July 8, the friends and relatives of Mrs. Philip White surprised her with a birthday dinner, it being her forty-fifth anniversary. Ninety-six were present and a bountiful dinner was spread out in the shade under the beautiful trees. About 4:00 o'clock all bid her goodbye, wishing her as many more happy days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pharis had as their Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Floyd, of Fulgham, and Mr. and Mrs. Everette Gardner, of near Water Valley.

Mr. Pal Richmond left for Detroit Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Bockman had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hicks and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Hicks, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vaughan.

Sunday brought our Sunday school contest to a close between the reds and blues. The blues won by 17. Many are looking forward to the picnic which will be sometime soon.

Much interest has been shown in Sunday school during this contest and lots of new members have joined. So let's not fail to go on and continue to make our Sunday school grow.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robey and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fite spent Sunday with Mrs. Ed Bryan.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Pharis and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lenward Pharis, Sunday.

Mrs. Leon Wright and son, Billie left last Wednesday for a week's visit with her brother, Rev. Earl Hamlett and family, in Paris, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Moore and Miss Laura Everette were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Fate Byrd, Sunday.

Dukedom, Tenn.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the leadership of Mr. Hermie Roberts, an official superintendent. We hope to have new members every Sunday. Some of our regular members were absent last Sunday, but let us all who are members and those who are not members also be there next Sunday.

The revival meeting begins at New Salem, near Austin Springs, the third Sunday in July. The pastor, Rev. T. T. Harris is to be assisted by Rev. J. H. Miller, of Hazel, Ky.

Messrs. Jimmie and Hubert Jackson, R. C. Murray, Earl McClain and Chesley Morrison motored through to St. Louis, Monday, to see a few games of the National and American league ball teams.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Benedict of Clinton, Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Dennington, of Fort Myers, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Edwards, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Finch were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gwynn.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Irvine and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Irvine spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Evans near Fulton.

Mrs. John W. Howell, while preparing dinner Monday, was the victim of a stroke of paralysis and at once lapsed into complete unconsciousness. A local physician was hurriedly summoned and later Dr. Stevens of Mayfield was called and all that human aid could render was done in an effort to save her. But at 2 a. m. Tuesday, the remaining tiny spark of life went out and the gentle spirit returned to God who gave it. A beloved wife and mother, a good neighbor, one who never failed to respond to the need of a friend, and a true Christian has gone from us to the Great Beyond where peace and joy abound, leaving our hearts bleak and desolate. She leaves a husband, several brothers, one sister and children as follows: Mrs. Mertie Lewis, Mrs. Eunice Hicks, Mrs. Delma Binford, Mrs. Sarah Barkley and Messrs. Earl, John, Claud, Thurman and Roy Howell. Also several grandchildren. One daughter, Mrs. Cora Woodard, preceded her in death several years ago. At the time of writing burial arrangements have not been completed.

It Was Lucy's Audit Week

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

LUCY LATTIMER, INC., was beginning to be a very successful firm of interior decorators—the firm being solely and entirely the fair-haired, bright-eyed Lucy.

"And I'm not pinning any ribbons on myself," Lucy was wont to say when friends made flattering comments on her artistic ability. "If dad hadn't taught me to keep books in so simple a manner that I know just exactly where I stand financially I could not have done it. My books are always written right up to the day."

Lucy was standing chatting with the owner of a charming restaurant—charming because Lucy herself had decorated it in the alluringly warm shades of a summer sunset—when she noticed a most attractive young man sitting in a perfect sea of books and bills and receipts.

"What hat?" said Lucy, "who is your friend?"

Mrs. Le Mar laughed. "That," she said a bit chestily, "is my auditor. Since Lucy Lattimer, Inc., made my tearooms so lovely business has become so overpowering that I had to resort to help in the way of book-keeping. Friends recommended me to Donald McLean as being a very discerning accountant just rising to success, so—behold Donald!"

Lucy smiled softly. She had got the information she wanted without even asking for it. "Saves a pile of worry, too, doesn't it?" she commented, and turned away from too much interest in Donald.

However, when she returned to her big office Lucy took up the telephone book before she removed her sea-green hat which would release her glorious curls of red gold to their own sweet way. Among the McLeans she found the one she wanted. After that she typed a most businesslike note and went straight out to post it.

Having heard, in the course of a mail or two, that Donald McLean would take over the auditing of her books, Lucy proceeded with a strange course.

Most carefully she put away all her books and every evidence of a well-conducted business—at least as far as bookkeeping went—and got together just her statements, check stubs and as little as she felt expedient for the success of her idea.

And when on the Monday morning sharp at nine o'clock Donald arrived to audit the books of Lucy Lattimer, Inc., he wondered just how he was going to manage to sit beside Lucy for perhaps a full week and keep his mind fixed to the auditing business.

His heart quaked at the task, but he went bravely at it.

Lucy herself was more than pleased at having a full week ahead when upon coming into her lovely office she could gaze upon her auditor and realize that the presence of a man in the place was for once, well—rather thrilling.

"Have you kept no books at all?" questioned Donald.

"Not a book," Lucy told him and gazed most innocently back at him.

"Then you don't even know whether you are making or losing?"

"No," said Lucy, and hoped she might be forgiven for yawning so easily, "but I kind of think I'm going to be successful." And if there was anything behind what Lucy said as she continued to gaze in that clinching vine fashion at Donald, he did not for the moment know it.

So audit week went on happily. Lucy, of course, could not be in her showrooms all the time and must needs be out among clients and whole sale houses. She did, however, rush things a bit while out, and each time the door of the office opened and admitted the firm of Lucy Lattimer, Inc., Donald tried his best not to look up with the feeling of joy that entrance gave him.

"I think you are going to have a fairly big income tax to pay this year," he told her; "things are looking up well for you."

"Oh, I'm so glad to know I'm muddling through some way—you're such a help," she added, and cast a glance at Donald which necessitated the adding of an entire column all over again.

Another day passed and Donald gave her exact figures, and, in spite of herself, Lucy's thorough business head sprang into its own. It was not to be put out of business by this bluff idea she was trying to put over on Donald.

"Oh, I'm so glad—that's exactly what I made it out. My books show the identical figures."

"What's that—your books—yo: told me—" but he was speaking to himself for Lucy had fluttered quickly out and into the big showroom.

She returned a second later and deposited a number of books on the desk beside Donald.

"I—I wanted them all verified," she told him. "And if you aren't doing anything this evening and would like to stay and have dinner with me—no—no—not now, Donald—I must see an important client right away, and I mustn't give him crimson cushions for his yacht when he decidedly wants green which I will do if you make my heart turn upside down this way."

But before he released her Donald said swiftly, "You fraud, you know you owed me one at least for all this work you have given me for nothing."

"It won't be for nothing, Donald," said Lucy softly.

POULTRY

KILL PESTS IN POULTRY HOUSE

How would you like to sleep in a bed with bedbugs? The hen likes to move to sleep with mites, lice, fleas, etc., than you do with bedbugs. These pests are not so prevalent in the winter as in the summer, but if they are not properly eradicated they will make it very uncomfortable for the hen in winter. The general public has the erroneous idea that these pests of the hen go into hibernation in the cracks and crevices of the buildings and never bother the birds in winter. This does take place to a small extent, but what better place does the pest want to better place than the good, nice, warm, feathery body of a hen?

These pests may be destroyed by careful and vigilant methods throughout the year. The buildings must be sprayed or dusted frequently with some good insecticide. Common old whitewash is a very effective spray or wash for the poultry house if carefully applied so as to fill all cracks and crevices, as well as cover the smooth surfaces. Then, too, it is very practical to apply one of several good commercial disinfectants. All such applications should be made at intervals of three or four months if no pests are seen, but in case some are noticed, apply immediately.

Then comes the treatment of each individual bird. This may be done by either dusting or dipping, but preferably dusting, especially in winter. There are several good commercial powders for the eradication of these pests. In applying the powder hold the bird head downward with left hand, dust powder down into feathers, rub the feathers the wrong way and rub powder into skin.

Mash Used in New York Egg-Laying Contest

At the New York state egg-laying contest the following ingredients were used to make 1,000 pounds of mash:

300 pounds yellow corn meal$7.14
250 pounds wheat bran5.00
100 pounds red dog flour2.83
100 pounds ground rolled oats4.15
100 pounds alfalfa meal2.83
100 pounds dried meat scraps (50 per cent protein)4.29
50 pounds dried milk4.75
5 pounds salt07

This makes the cost per hundred pounds about $30.8, and in the contest the best laying pens returned a profit of more than $1 above feed cost for each pullet. At the end of the forty-ninth week the best pullet had laid 283 eggs. The scratch grain used with the above mash consisted of cracked corn.

Crop-Bound Hen

Soon after the poultry are on range watch for the laying hen which has become cropbound from eating too much dry grass. The bird will show a lack of appetite and the crop will appear bulgy. Sometimes the material can be loosened by kneading and removed through the mouth. A lot of cropbound cases die because they are not located until the bird has about starved to death through the clogging of the digestive system.

Poultry Facts

Some poultrymen use the incubator for hatching turkeys, but the turkey or chicken hen is better.

Dirt, wet and darkness breed lice, mites, mange and other parasites. And these things are drains on your profit. Cleanliness and sunlight save losses—make you money.

In extremely cold weather it is a good plan to hang a burlap in front of the chicken roosts, as it helps guard against drafts, and also raises the temperature several degrees.

A hen throws off about a teaspoonful of moisture in her breath every three hours. This means a damp house, and probably roup or chicken pox, if the house isn't ventilated.

The hen's crop is small and the winter nights are long, consequently the heavier feeding should come near the close of the day.

Each hen should have four square feet of floor space; this can be made more possible by raising all fixtures two feet above the floor.

The ventilation problem in the poultry house is much easier to solve if the hens are given enough floor space. Three and one-half square feet of floor space should be allowed for each hen.

Sprouted oats is the handiest substitute for out-door green feed. You can sprout the oats in pails.

Hundreds of successful poultrymen are now feeding cod liver oil in the winter to their layers and feel that this is a paying practice.

If the hen must go out of her way to avoid drafts, or walk around wet places in the litter, or if her working hours are cut short by a lack of light, or if she is crowded her egg production will be lowered.

BANKERS PROVIDE STUDENT LOANS

American Bankers Association Completes Plan to Award 167 College Economic Scholarships Throughout Nation.

AWARDS TO START THIS FALL

Students in Agricultural Economics to Be Helped in Farm States—Will Also Facilitate Entry Into Business Life.

One hundred and sixty-seven collegiate loan scholarships will be provided by the American Bankers Association, 95 of which are now being offered to 71 selected colleges and universities in 34 states, it has been announced by John H. Puelicher, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Association's Foundation for Education in Economics. The foundation fund of $500,000 was started in 1925 to commemorate the Association's fiftieth anniversary and its aim is to stimulate and aid worthy men or women students to pursue courses in banking and economics in collegiate institutions throughout the country.

The scholarship awards will be available for the scholastic year beginning this fall and will provide recipients with unit loans of $250, to be repaid on easy terms following their entry into earning business life. In several farm states, it is provided, scholarships shall be specifically awarded in agricultural economics.

A special feature of the plan in addition to its educational advantages is that scholars, upon discharge of all their financial obligations connected with their loans, will be given certificates of honorary membership in the foundation signed by the members of the board of trustees, which will be available as evidence of financial reliability for their use in starting their business careers.

Colleges Awarded Scholarships. Profers of one or more scholarships have been made to the following institutions:

Alabama, University of Alabama, Birmingham-Southern College, Arizona, University of Arizona, Arkansas, University of Arkansas, California, University of California, University of Southern California, Stanford University, Connecticut, Wesleyan University, Yale University, Delaware, University of Delaware, District of Columbia, Washington University, Georgetown University, Florida, University of Florida, University of Miami, Hawaiian Islands, University of Hawaii, Idaho, University of Idaho, Illinois, University of Illinois, University of Chicago, Knox College, Northwestern University, Kansas, University of Kansas, Kansas State Agricultural College, Washington Agricultural College, Louisiana, Louisiana State University, Tulane University, Maryland, Johns Hopkins University, University of Maryland, Michigan, University of Michigan, Michigan Agricultural College, Minnesota, Carlton College, University of Minnesota, Hamline University, Mississippi, University of Mississippi, Montana, State University of Montana, Nebraska, University of Nebraska, University of Nevada, New Jersey, Princeton University, Rutgers University, New Mexico, New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, North Carolina, University of North Carolina, North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering, Oregon, University of Oregon, Oregon State Agricultural College, Pennsylvania, University of Pennsylvania, Dickinson College, Lafayette College, Gettysburg College, Franklin and Marshall College, Allegheny College, University of Pittsburgh, University of Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania State College, Rhode Island, Brown University, South Dakota, University of South Dakota, Tennessee, University of Tennessee, University of Chattanooga, University of Utah, Vermont, University of Vermont, Virginia, University of Virginia, Washington, Washington and Lee University, University of Richmond, William and Mary College, Washington, University of Washington, State College of Washington, West Virginia, West Virginia University, Wisconsin, University of Wisconsin, Lawrence College, DePaul College.

Plan of Operation. The general plan allots scholarships to higher institutions of learning in states where the banks have completed the subscription quotas assigned them in the foundation fund.

Institutions are selected on the basis of type of school, educational standards, geographical distribution and desire to co-operate in the plan. A scholarship committee is to be created in each selected institution, to consist of members of the faculty and a prominent banker. All scholarship applications must be made formally through the college committees and not direct to the foundation. Three home-town references are required of each applicant, at least one of whom must be a banker. Only students of junior or higher grade in banking and economic courses are eligible and those who have also attended American Institute of Banking courses will be given preference.

Easy Terms

Scholarship payments will be given only to those whose means of education are dependent in whole or part upon their own efforts and will continue only during satisfactory scholastic standing or conduct. The loans are at five per cent beginning the first day of the second January after the date the scholar leaves school, with no interest on repayment made prior to that time. Loans may be paid off in monthly installments of $10 or more. After three installments have been promptly met payments may be placed on a quarterly basis until the loan is wiped out which must occur within three years. In cases of delinquencies, consideration will be given in special circumstances, such as ill health or unavoidable unemployment.

TEMPERAMENT IS REFLECTED IN EYE

Nervous temperament, or an unborn desire to work, to eat food, and to digest and convert every available ounce of it not required for maintenance into milk, says the Blue Valley Creamery Institute, is a good standing characteristic of a good dairy cow. Dairy men agree that nervous temperament does not imply that the cow is nervous, excitable, fretful or hard to manage, but that she is alert, active and responds to all surroundings, whether they be favorable or unfavorable. It is this nervous temperament that enables the dairy cow to endure for a long period greater work than her form, appearance and size would indicate.

Nervous temperament is always reflected in the eye of an animal, dairy men believe. A large, bright, prominent, placid, alert eye with an intelligent expression gives assurance of nervous temperament. The dull, sluggish, receding eye, even though it may or may not have an intelligent expression denotes a sluggish temperament. From the brain the spinal cord passes backward through the back bone where open-jointedness and freedom from fat indicate a well-developed nervous temperament.

Prominent ribs and hips and freedom from beediness over the entire body denotes that the nervous temperament has stimulated the conversion of feed into milk and butterfat rather than into beef. These points with style, activity and freedom of carriage, alertness and consciousness of all surroundings indicate that the cow is a hard worker. Dairy experts say that a cow possessing nervous temperament, together with a strong constitution, big capacity for feed, good blood circulation and a natural ability to make milk from the feed she eats, when given the opportunity, is a sure source of profit to her owner.

COW'S ABILITY IS SHOWN IN UDDER

Look to the cow's udder if you'd know whether or not she'll make a good dairy animal, cautions the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Since the important work of manufacturing milk is believed to be carried on in the cow's udder, this organ, together with its accessories, furnish a rather dependable guide to the cow's ability or lack of it.

Size, form and texture are the points to keep in mind in looking for a good udder. Size should be sought in length and breadth of udder rather than in depth. Of all forms, the most desirable udder is the one which is symmetrical and uniform in the development of each portion. Dairy men want each quarter to correspond with the others and be so closely connected as to make the juncture almost invisible. With size added to the udder of this form, there is ample room for the placement of four easily milked teats of medium size set far apart, one on each that have udders complying quite closely with the description given for size and shape that are light producers and unprofitable. A careful examination shows that their udders lack quality and texture. Instead of being made of milk-making cells they are composed of fatty tissues, hard and resistant to the touch and equally as large and well formed, after milking as before. Udders of this character always indicate that a cow is worthless as a dairy animal.

The udder that is pliable and soft, yet firm to the touch, covered with hide that is soft and elastic, covered with short, fine, silky hair, is of proper quality. Then, if large in the beginning, it collapses during the process of milking, and the covering falls together in folds that are plentiful, loose, soft and oily, all quarters of equal size and shape, there is no indication of poor quality.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC
SALES 128,305 IN THE
LAST FIVE MONTHS

Show Increase of 49,019 or Nearly 62 Per Cent
Over 1927

Sales of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes during the first five months of this year reached a record total of 128,305 cars according to figures released at the factory this week.

This volume of sales shows an increase of 49,019 or nearly 62 per cent over the 79,286 Oakland-Pontiac sales recorded during the first five months of 1927 when the Oakland Motor Car Company was moving up from ninth to fifth place in the automotive industry.

Oakland executives are making no predictions as to what position the company may attain by the end of the year. They merely point to the figures. One illuminating bit of data shows that when the year 1928 was only three months old the sales of Oakland—and Pontiac Sixes had reached a total of 74,118 which very nearly equals the sales registered by the company during the entire first five months of 1927.

W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales, states that recently increased factory facilities now are adequate to take care of the growing volume of orders.

ONLY CURE FOR A TENNESSEE RIVER CHILL

Dr. T. J. Hendrix & Son, Newburg, Ky., write: "We carry in stock Mendenhall's Chill Tonic, black label without arsenic and red label containing arsenic, and are having big sales of same. Mendenhall's is the only Chill Tonic that gives a complete cure for a Tennessee River Chill." Chill Tonic, black label, is a pleasant substitute for quinine and should be given for malaria, chills and fever, colds and grippe. The properties of arsenic are set down in medical books as follows: "Most successful agent in the treatment of chronic malaria, malarial or bilious fever, intermittent fever or chills, low sugar, neuritis, headache or rheumatism due to malaria or general bad health. Increases the appetite, digestion, weight and strength of the patient and has great power to improve the condition of the blood. It is one of the few substances which deserve the name of a general tonic. Inactive liver and spleen, functional nervous disorders with mal-nutrition and anaemia are benefited by its use."
