Poultry Facts

A popular belief is that chickens dig their own holes in the ground to lay eggs. This is not true. Chickens do not have the ability to dig or make holes. The eggs are laid in the nest, which is provided by the farmer. If the eggs are not purchased, they are laid in the chicken coop or in a designated nesting area.

Crop-Bored Hen

When the weather gets hot and the sun is shining, it is common to see chickens挖掘 holes in the ground. This is called "crop-boring," and it is done to cool off and reduce body heat. Chickens do not need a specific hole for this purpose, as they can dig any spot they find suitable.

The banks are all in at once.

As mentioned, the idea of the chicken digging a hole in the ground is a common misconception. Chickens do not need to create a specific hole for this purpose, as they can dig in any spot they find suitable. The process of crop-boring is a natural behavior to cool off and reduce body heat, and it is not related to laying eggs or any other function.

Sales 120,360 in the Last Five Months

show increase of 49,019 or Nearly 50 Per Cent Over 1927

Sales at Oakland and Pontiac were during the first five months of this year reached a record total of 120,360 cars according to figures released at the factory last week.

This total of 49,019 or nearly 50 per cent over the 79,246 Oakland-Pontiac sales recorded during the first five months of 1927, when the Oakland division added automobile production on an up from sixth to fifth place in the automobile industry.

Oakland executives are making no predictions as to what the total for 1928 will be but the recent increase in sales is not expected to slacken in the near future, optimism for a big season being widespread among dealers and company officials.

Mr. C. F. Tracy, vice-president for sales, stated that the company during the entire first five months of 1927, the sales of Oakland-Pontiac cars were reach a total of 11,418 which seems nearly 10,000 new cars over the sales for the same months of 1926; the total of 9,628 which were sold in the year 1926. This increase in sales was the result of increased factory output and sales of higher prices, the total sales for the year 1926 being $11,418.
