Changing a century of the party's views, Governor Smith promises a law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon.

Governor Smith himself has pledged himself to high ethical and moral standards, and has made a great many other pledges which have not been fulfilled. The governor in his speech was quoted as saying: "I will never advocate or approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon."

1,000 Juniors Own Good Dairy Cattle.

More than 1,000 junior agricultural club members in 29 or more Kentucky counties are registered dairy cows at colleges. Dairying is being introduced in many counties through 4-H club work.

Club members in 20 counties have entered bacterial pneumonia tests. The winner will receive educational trips to the State Fair or to the National Dairy Show. The Gra-Van Altenburger Sanitary Milk Company of Louisville will give eight trips to the State Fair and each of the following firms will give a trip to the National Dairy Show: Gra-Van Altenburger Sanitary Milk Company, D. H. Ewing's Sons and the Super Creek Creamery Company, all of Louisville, and the South Street creameries, Farnsworth Brothers Creamery, Covington, and the Merchants Creamery Co. and For Fish & Life, Inc., both of Cincinnati. The Blue Valley Creamery Co. of Louisville will give the State champion dairy club member a trip to Memphis. A junior club demonstration team will also go to the National Dairy Show. It will be composed of Ethel Odhner and Winnie Hamlar, of Pendleton county, who will demonstrate the careful crop of the essential plants. The State fair will be represented at the National show by a dairy cattle judging team, which will be selected after the State Fair. Several counties will exhibit junior club owned cattle at Memphis.

Many livestock clubs and banks are encouraging dairying by sponsoring the ownership of purebred stock by junior club members. Taylor county has more than 50 purebred boys and girls owning registered dairy cows and heifers, and in many counties club members own the only purebreds in the counties.

Farmers Are Advised to Have Hogs Vaccinated at Once.

Farmers are advised to have their hogs vaccinated with both the serum and virus at once. The figures are approximate.

Among the losses were: Ben W. Letts, 6; W. J. Bollinger, 7; C. G. Stowns, 10; O. W. Mattox, 6; C. G. Posherson, and preformed autopsies were made of several hogs to make sure that the deaths were caused by the virus. Mr. Carter stated that it was only effective, while the don't treat the symptoms is usually effective and lasts much longer.

Some 100 hogs have died in the past few weeks and many others are ill and expected to die, unless the epidemic can be controlled. Among the losses were: Ben Letts, 86; Ernest Johnson, 15; Tom Rose, 15; Omer Lane, 36; Ben Davis, 10; B. A. Workman, 15; Dick Foster, 15; Forrest Huntington, 40; F. J. Root, 6; E. G. McQuire, 6; and a few others.

Mr. Carter states that the only protection is to have all hogs vaccinated with both serum and virus at once. The serum only lasts about 30 days, but the virus lasts four to six months. Mr. Carter also states that it is more important to have the hogs vaccinated with both the serum and virus at once.

Senator Walsh Visits Gov. Smith.

After his visit to Gov. Smith in New York last week Senator Walsh of Missouri declared that the election of Gov. Smith would introduce into our national councils something of the humor, element usually lacking in the rep-ondent of Coolidge and Mellon."

"I believe a Republican sweep a responsive check when he said he was going to vote for Smith because he wanted to see a man in the White House," and the Trenton Dome prosecutor after a conference with the Democratic committee at the executive council.

"Tell a lie," intimated them.

The man for the presidential race, said Mr. McManus.

Mr. Smith, issued a statement in which he and the governor somewhat widely contrasted, but it was easy to look for a candidate with convictions rep-resenting millions of colors who likewise have convictions, and agreeing with them on all the issues."

The most that can be hoped for," his statement continued, "is that he shall be with them on fundamentals; that on the whole, he shall be found more sub-ordinate to them than independent."

The Democratic senator said at the outset of his statement that he had handled just fairly with Gov. Smith, "but neither of had ever found opportunity to orienteer the other."

His personality is irresistible and his intellectual processes re-spectably clear," he declared, adding that the governor's quick response to problems of state signifies a genius for such.

The Democrats' chances of winning the presidency in 1920 depend largely on the outcome of certain border states. These states, including Maryland, Missouri, and Oklahoma, are crucial because they have a significant number of electoral votes.

Maryland, a traditionally Democratic state, has been a battleground in recent elections. In 1916, it was ignored by both parties. In 1920, it is expected to be contested intensely.

The Democratic ticket, led by Al Smith, is favored in these border states due to the popularity of prohibition. The state of New York, for example, is considered a probable Democratic win. However, other states such as Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois are expected to remain Republican.

The prohibition issue is particularly significant in the Southern states. Prohibitionists, who support the Democratic ticket, are strong in these regions. The Southern states, with their considerable electoral votes, could determine the outcome of the election.

To win the presidency, Al Smith must capture at least three of these border states. The outcome of these states will be determined by the election in the Southern states, particularly in Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

In conclusion, the 1920 election is uncertain, and the outcome will depend on the performance of the Democratic ticket in the border and Southern states. Al Smith's campaign strategy will be crucial in determining the results.
