Going Home from a Homecoming

LOYAL DEMOCRATS!

Your Votes will Help Us Win In November. So Do Not Fail To Register September 10 or 11.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 6—The largest vote ever polled in the history of this country is predicted in the coming Presidential election. The reasons for this are obvious: the strong personalities of the candidates, the hotly debated issues and the tremendous effort that each party is making and will continue to make to elect their respective candidates.

The Democratic leaders of Kentucky are confident that the State will go for Gov. Smith by a good majority if the party's full voting power goes to the poll. In the last Presidential election only about fifty percent of the qualified voters of the United States cast their votes. Kentucky in that election cast an actual vote of 815,332 against a potential voting power of 1,278,418 votes. While it is true that Kentucky's percentage was better than that of a country as a whole the fact remains that the huge number of 463,086 eligible voters did not cast their ballots.

Comparing the above number eligible but non-voters with the number of votes received by either President Coolidge or John W. Davis it can be seen that the non-voters of Kentucky outnumbered by many thousands those who cast their ballots for either of the two candidates of the 1924 election. In many Kentucky cities and towns Democrats who wish to vote in November must register Monday or Tuesday, September 10 or 11. In the event of illness or unavoidable absence from the city voters will be given an opportunity to register later at the county clerk's office. But please remember: If you would VOTE you MUST REGISTER!

"WE AMERICANS" AMONG THE GREAT PICTURES

"We Americans," one of the great motion pictures of the year, will be at Orpheum Friday, September 7. It is unusual picture in many ways. In the first place it brings George Sidney in a dramatic role. Sidney is too great an actor to stay always in the comedies which have brought him to so many screens.

He portrays his role in "We Americans," with rare discrimination; he never overacts, and proves himself capable of rare emotional depth, including honest tears.

But a little about the story: Three families emigrate to New York, from Russia, Germany and Italy. The parents retain all they loved of the old country, making no effort to become Americanized, while the children grow up to be typical young Americans, incapable of understanding their parents who, in turn, are incapable of understanding their children.

But the War comes along for a brief moment and their children enlist. To go further would spoil your enjoyment of this masterpiece but you can see the possibilities. The ending is of rare beauty and happiness, raising the picture to the heights of art.

GRAVELING ALLEYS

The street committee is doing some splendid work, graveling the alleys throughout the city, using the old street surface material taken from streets now being improved and paved with concrete.

NEW FIRM FOR FULTON

Mitchell Machine & Electric Company Opens Business at Walnut Street

A new firm that is creating much favorable comment in Fulton today is the Mitchell Machine & Electric Company located on Walnut street. They are electrical contractors and carry in stock a complete line of motors, radios, fixtures, Fairbanks-Morse products and all kinds of electrical appliances. They have a beautiful show room filled with the very latest in their line, artistically arranged for demonstrations.

Carl Mitchell, son of S. E. Mitchell, of Paducah, is manager of the new firm, assisted by Mrs. Jess Nichols.

Under the careful training of his father in Paducah, who has successfully conducted an electrical business in that city for twenty-two years, Mr. Mitchell comes to Fulton well prepared to take care of the new business in a most satisfactory way. He is a young man of pleasing personality and will be glad to have you call at his new place of business on Walnut street, and get acquainted with his line.

We now have a permanent registration law. Register September 10th or 11th and you will not have to register again unless you change precincts. You must register at this time in order to vote for president on November 6th and also this will be the only regular registration before the Primary Election in August next year, at which time the county officers will be nominated.

HEALTH OFFICER FINDS SANITARY CONDITIONS BAD

The health of a city is one of its most valuable assets, therefore it is the duty of every loyal citizen in Fulton to make sanitary conditions as near perfect as possible.

It is indeed to be regretted that Dr. Prather, county health officer, has found sanitary conditions in the city so serious as to cause him to appear before the council and ask that steps be taken to force residents to do their duty—cut the weeds, clean up vacant lots and obey the city ordinance regarding the emptying of "wet" garbage in covered containers.

This is not the first time Dr. Prather has appeared before the city council regarding Fulton's sanitary condition. It is not his desire to create any undue disturbance in the city, but as a health officer it is his duty to see that the citizens keep their premises and vacant lots in a sanitary condition and this he is determined to do, even if more drastic measures must be taken.

They will be assisted in the operation of the hotel by their son, Albert Favre. Mr. and Mrs. Favre have been operating hotels during the past 15 years.

SOUTH FULTON SCHOOL

South Fulton Grade and High School opened Monday morning with a large attendance. The program was begun by singing "America," in concert. Short and inspiring addresses were made by Rev. H. B. Vaught, pastor of the Methodist church; V. C. Myers, superintendent of the Fulton city schools; Rev. B. J. Cantrell, pastor of the First Christian church; Prof. H. J. Alexander, of Centre College, Danville, Ky.; and Mr. Frank Fowler, of Union City, county superintendent of schools. Miss Cantrell sang a very sweet solo and Miss Mary Katherine Bondurant gave a reading which was much enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Moss, the new superintendent, made a brief and pointed address. He insisted on the cooperation of the parents as well as the teachers and pupils.

South Fulton is looking for and expecting a fine school this year. There are several new teachers who have come highly recommended, and with the cooperation of the parents and everybody who is interested in the school, there is nothing to hinder and hold any school down. This year South Fulton opened with a larger number than usual. Mr. Holland is back and of course the boys are going to win many ball games.

The faculty consists of: Mr. W. L. Moss, Supt.; Mr. Lawrence Holland, Principal; Miss Ruth Taylor, Home Economics; Miss Cecil Rhodes, Math.; Mr. Orvin Moore and Miss Lena Stokes, 6th, 7th and 8th grade teachers, classes as Junior High; Mrs. John Smith, 5th grade teacher, Miss Ruth Alexander, 4th; Mrs. Noble Butterworth, 3rd; Miss Lola Valentine, 2nd; Mrs. Will Morris, 1st.

DEMOCRATIC HEAD APPEALS FOR FULL VOTE THIS YEAR

Election Offers Opportunity
Register Views on Many Important Issues.

ALL SHOULD PARTICIPATE

Deplores Fact Only Half of Electorate
Usually Goes to Polls—No Excuse for Absentees.

(This is the first of a series of statements on campaign issues by the chairman of the Democratic National Committee.)

By John J. Raskob

Nothing is more important to the future of America than that our citizens manifest their own interest in its future by voting. We must deplore the fact that in the last presidential election, of fifty-four million qualified voters, only about fifty per cent cast their votes. This year, it is anticipated that there will be fifty-six million qualified voters in the country, and I hope and urge that the great proportion of these will take advantage of the Voting Right. It is a sad commentary on our democracy that Germany, with only half of our population, saw two million more votes cast at its election for president than the United States in 1924. We are generally behind other countries in the voting regard, although in foreign countries the voting franchise has been a comparatively recent exercise of sovereignty by the citizens. It is commendable that both parties this year are making earnest endeavors to have enrolled a very large vote. If an administration is to function well and to decide wisely on important issues, it should be governed by public opinion. We certainly do not get the public opinion of the United States when only fifty per cent of the qualified voters appear at the polls. The time to record either satisfaction or disapproval of officials is on Election Day. Grumbling about our public servants on other days of the year is largely a waste of time.

Minority Government

We do not want to see here a government of all the people by fifty per cent of the people. We have having a government by only a minority within the fifty per cent, which is far less than the actual majority of the qualified voters.

This coming election will afford the people an opportunity to register their views in no uncertain way on some fundamental issues. Neither of the candidates, if elected, would feel primed for acting as Chief Executive if only a portion of fifty per cent of the voters is responsible for his certificate of election.

In 1924 Mr. Coolidge received fifteen million, seven hundred and twenty-five thousand and sixteen votes. Mr. Davis received eight million, three hundred and eighty-six thousand, six hundred and twenty-four votes. Mr. La Follette received four million, eight hundred and thirty thousand and four hundred and seventy-eight votes. And there were scattered one hundred and fifty-seven thousand votes. The total vote was only twenty-nine million, ninety-nine thousand, one hundred and thirty-one. There were qualified to vote in 1924 fifty-four million, one hundred twenty-eight thousand, eight hundred and ninety-five. So that Mr. Coolidge, who was elected President, only received a little more than one-fourth of the qualified votes of the country. Research into the neglect of voting by the people of the United States has led our legislative bodies into taking action in order to develop a greater vote. The principal measures in this line have been the various laws made by the states for "absentee voting." Forty-five of the forty-eight states have made provisions for that absentees from those states may cast their ballots.

For every one hundred votes cast for President in 1920, there were ninety-six who could vote but did not. This is no way to elect a President of the United States, who, under our Constitution, is given more power than any one human being in the world.

Remember, this campaign will be the most stirring in the history of American politics. There is no American who does not want to take part in it. In many instances heretofore the race has been very close. Under our Electoral College system of selecting a president, one state may decide the result. In that state, a few votes either way may determine the entire election. One man's vote is as good as another man's vote. The quality known as Americanism is demonstrated to a mathematical certainty at the polls. Your vote is valuable. Do not throw it away. If a debtor owed you money, and you were away on the due date, you would make arrangements for him to transmit your money to you wherever you might be. You can make a similar arrangement in regard to the vote.

Absentee Voting Simple

Voting under the absentee voting laws is made simple and requires but little effort. Let your government hear from you no matter where you are on Election Day.

The candidates will struggle incessantly in making an appeal for your vote. They are at least entitled to expect you to exercise your franchise. Strong men are running. Great issues fill the air. It will be up to you to pass judgment and you cannot do it if you fail to register. The American vote has a background of bloody sacrifice by the Great Americans of all our Wars. If you hope to be voteless, they have succeeded, to that extent, in vain. After a terrific struggle, the franchise was granted to the women of America. In the 1920 election it is estimated that the women cast thirty per cent of the total vote, and forty-three per cent of the women qualified to vote actually voted. In only a few of the states did the women cast fifty per cent or more of their voting strength.

The issues presented at the coming election will be of intense interest to the women of the land. The cost of living, employment, freedom of conscience, religious liberty and equal opportunity should attract a great majority of the women to register and to vote.

Cast Portion of Vote

Every man and woman who votes and does not encourage the other members of their families to do like wise only casts a portion of a vote.

Working women have a vast interest at stake in the election. Governor Smith stands as the champion of human rights and welfare of the working women. Of no other accomplishment is he prouder than of the success attending his efforts in the State of New York to better the conditions of women in industry. As President, he would have a tremendous influence on national legislation towards the same end. I trust the women will appreciate his services in this respect by their registration and vote.

REMEMBER, YOU CANNOT VOTE IF YOU DO NOT REGISTER.

Strenuous Week Ends

"Fatigue is the speedometer which tells when you are exceeding the speed limit in this high tension age of telephones, dictaphones, conferences, interviews committee meetings, luncheon club engagements and 'go-go' signs," says a bulletin issued by the Publicity Bureau of a Medical Association.

This particular bulletin issued especially for the business men, discusses the exercise problem and the habit of strenuous week-ends.

For twenty-five years the tendency has been to increase speed until we have reached the age of little rest for nerve, brain or muscle. This rising tide of mental and physical tire is interpreted by the business man as a need for more exercise. As a result he tears away from his office Saturday noon, rushes forth for his Saturday-Sunday vacation and crams himself so full of exercise that he is totally exhausted when Monday morning arrives and he is back once again on his job.

If his exercise is golf, it is too often thirty-six holes instead of eighteen; if it is tennis it is five sets morning and afternoon; if it is walking, too often it is a strenuous cross country hike with much climbing of hills. Even if it is merely motoring, the trip too often develops into a 'record run' at breakneck speed.

In fact, the average American has a tendency to go in too much for spasmodic and not enough for regular normal exercise, and hence his "fatigueometer" too often is registering at its highest point.

Telephone Visiting

Once upon a time "neighborliness" included conversations across backyard fences and little jaunts from house to house in the course of which the wives of the nation exchanged the latest news concerning mutual friends or acquaintances.

In these days one frequently can find a person who remembers those days and bemoans their passing, sometime giving rise to queries as to why such neighborly visits have passed.

The answer is the telephone. A large telephone company recently completed a series of observations, the results of which are basis for the conclusion, that the old-fashioned backyard talk-fests now are carried on by phone.

Equipping its central stations with devices which measured the length of each call made, without "listening in" on the conversations, one company found that there is a wide variation between the length of telephone conversations between offices and those between homes.

The tests showed that in all large centers of population the average call lasted only a fraction more than two minutes. The average residence call was approximately four minutes.

Comparatively few business conversations, it was found, are longer than five minutes, but conversations from residence telephones extending over an hour are not at all rare.

The biggest silent partner in the country's business is the weather.

Now they're trying education by radio. Its funny they don't try it in the class room.

Character and Carefulness.

The world demands character and carefulness. Schools, churches, magistrates, the printed word and the best efforts of fathers and mothers are striving to develop the finest traits of human character in children and to inculcate carefulness into their everyday life. "Watch your step" and "Look out for the cars" are admonitions familiar to every child.

Character is a part of our education and it is on a different basis from the way it was viewed when the old Colonial Governor Berkeley complained way back in 1671 that he "thanked God that there are no free schools, no printing" because "learning has brought disobedience and heresy and sects into the world, and printing has divulged them, and libels against the best Government."

Growing children should strive to respect the laws and obey them as one of the pathways to development of character.

There is a world of difference between the spirit for legitimate adventure and a class of recklessness that borders on the edge of lawlessness. Character may be developed by the child who refuses to deceive his, or her parents, or to embarrass or bring pain or shame upon a solicitous or indulgent father or mother. Even if our parents may be "old-fashioned," why not humor them? It is a safe thing to do.

Character and carefulness developed in youth will enable the child that grows to manhood and womanhood to avoid the tremendous dangers of gambling and speculation.

It is a violation of the laws and of the rules of society to endanger the public by reckless automobile driving. The youth who "puts his foot down hard" should remember the warning of the cop who advised a young lady to wear lighter shoes because those she had on bore down too hard on the gas.

J. Ray Graham Appointed Chairman County Campaign Committee

Senator Alben W. Barkley, chairman Democratic State Campaign Committee has appointed J. Ray Graham Fulton county Chairman in the campaign. O. C. Henry will be the chairman at the west end of the county. Sen. Barkley suggested that a good, live working organization be perfected, naming committeemen for each precinct.

The first task for the county organization is to get the voters in Hickman and Fulton registered for the coming election, and also for the county primary next year. A permanent registration law is now in effect, and when the voters have registered at the regular registration period it will not be necessary to register again unless the voter changes precincts. The registration period is Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 10 and 11, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. Voters will go to their regular voting places and register on those dates.

Remember that you cannot vote in the presidential election or in the county primary next year unless you are properly registered.

Juniors Preparing for the State Fair

Hundreds of junior farmers and homemakers are working diligently in preparing their animals and other products to be exhibited in the Junior Club Department at the Kentucky State Fair.

Junior Agriculture Club members will show dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, canned fruits and vegetables, home-baked breads and cakes, dresses and other articles of clothing that the girls have made.

Twenty-five hundred dollars in cash and four educational trips will be awarded on exhibits and in the livestock and poultry judging contests at the Fair.

Junior club members own more than 1,000 registered dairy cows and heifers, according to J. W. Whitehouse, State club leader. Boys and girls from 53 counties will exhibit dairy animals at the State Fair. The State champion club member in dairying will receive a trip to the National Dairy Exposition at Memphis, with all expenses paid.

Eighty-two county teams have been entered in the junior livestock and poultry judging contests which will be held in the pavilion on the fairgrounds Wednesday, Sept. 12. Five hundred and fifty dollars and two trophy cups will be awarded to winners. The county team making the highest score in judging all kinds of livestock will be sent to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago, and the team scoring highest in judging dairy cattle will go to the National Dairy Exposition at Memphis, Tenn.

In Loving Memory of Mrs. Dawes

On Friday morning August 31, death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Cavender and claimed our dear mother, Mrs. Mildred Elizabeth Dawes. She was born in Trigg county, Ky., Oct. 19, 1853.

She leaves one daughter Mrs. S. P. Cavender, and one foster child, Eph Dawes, Jr., of Paducah, her husband, J. F. Dawes passed to his heavenly home two years ago.

Mrs. Dawes was a member of the Christian church in this city and lived a christian life and we know our loss is her gain, she has left this world of ad and sorrow and gone to dwell with her Savior in that home High.

It was so hard to let her up, but God's will, not ours, be done, and we bow in humble submission to His will. One precious to our heart has gone, the voice we loved is stilled, our Father in His wisdom called the boon His love had given, and though in earth the body lies, the soul is safe in heaven.

Written by one who loved her. Funeral service was held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the funeral home of the Fulton Undertaking Company conducted by Rev. B. J. Cantrell and burial followed in Fairview.

FRESH COFFEE IN CANS!

IT is often the morning cup of coffee that makes the day bright or gloomy. Nearly everyone wants to start the day with the aroma of a steaming fresh cup of delicious coffee at breakfast. The aroma! That's the point! For the aroma is a great part of the lure of coffee. A cup of coffee isn't coffee without the aroma.

When green coffee is roasted, a change takes place in the coffee bean, and certain vegetable oils are developed. Every pound of fresh, roasted coffee contains one ounce of these oils. It is really these aromatic oils, abstracted from the coffee by hot water, that make coffee. But these oils are very volatile, and they will vaporize and escape before the coffee reaches the coffee pot. Great care is not taken to imprison them until they are needed.

How the Aroma Escapes

If freshly roasted coffee beans are exposed to the air, the coffee aroma will escape completely in about twelve days. Twenty-five per cent of the aroma will escape in the first twenty-four hours. But the grinding of coffee makes it easier for the aromatic gases to escape. When freshly roasted and freshly ground coffee is exposed to the air, fifty per cent of the gases will leave in the first ten hours, and all will have made their escape after nine days.

The substance of the coffee that is left will, of course, look like coffee, but the cup that comes to the table will lack its tempting aroma and flavor and the coffee will be stale and tasteless. It is the oxygen in the air that effects its vegetable oils. If the morning cup of coffee that is served in your house is not full and brimming over with aroma and flavor, the fault may not be in the making of the coffee, and it may not be in the quality or brand of coffee that you are using. It is more than likely that the fault lies in the fact that the coffee that you use is not freshly roasted, or that, after being roasted, it is not preserved properly from the air. In which case most or all of the aroma will have escaped before the cup of coffee is served at your table.

How to Buy Good Coffee

In order to have good coffee, if you buy coffee loose, go to a store where you know that roasted coffee beans are never kept for more than a day or two in the bins. Buy just one week's supply for your family, and have it ground while you wait. Then hurry home with your package and place the coffee in an airtight container as soon as you reach your house. A glass preserving jar with a rubber ring is a very good receptacle to use. Screw the top on the jar tightly and remove it only long enough to transfer your coffee to the coffee pot.

Fortunately fresh, aromatic coffee may be purchased in an airtight, vacuum packed tin. Under this method of packing, every bit of the aroma is preserved. As soon as the coffee is needed it is placed in your cans are put into a hood, and air is drawn out of the hood, and out of the open cans, thereby creating a vacuum. The cans are sealed securely while they are in this vacuum. Since there is practically no air remaining in the sealed vacuum packed can, it is impossible for oxygen to reach the coffee.

Secrets of Success

The gas and aroma of the coffee fill that part of the can that was emptied of air, and accordingly the vacuum packed coffee remains surrounded only by its own aroma. Therefore, it keeps its flavor and freshness indefinitely. Coffee that was packed eleven years ago in a vacuum packed can was recently tested out by experts and was pronounced as good, as fresh and as aromatic as freshly roasted coffee. Many of the best coffee roasters now use this method of packing so that they can be assured that their produce reaches you absolutely fresh.

When you get home with your can of vacuum packed coffee, after the can has once been opened, keep the contents as nearly air-tight as possible.

Here are a few hints for making good coffee: keep your coffee pot clean and absolutely free from all brown sediment; use coarsely ground coffee for boiling, finely ground coffee for percolating, and pulverized coffee for tricolor or table use.

Mr. Tilmon Oliver had quite a serious accident last Wednesday. He had been working on his Chevrolet car and when he started to crank it, it suddenly started up, running over him and into a big post, which stopped it. His wife was in the car and his eldest son on the fender, but neither were hurt. Dr. Jones was called at once and found several cuts and bruises, and perhaps three ribs broken. He is suffering quite a good deal but we sincerely hope for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. Moore received a telegram Sunday that her sister, Mrs. Ellen Melton was operated on Saturday for appendicitis and ruptured intestines, with small chance of recovery. Since writing the above Mrs. Melton is very much better and has been able to be moved to her home near the hospital.

Mrs. Ellis met with the Welfare Workers at the home of Mrs. John Coffman, August 23. The usual number of club ladies was augmented by quite a number of visitors. All of whom were greatly interested by the demonstration on "Table Service" given by Mrs. Ellis. A business meeting was called for Wednesday, September 5 at the home of Mrs. Noah Wilson.

The protracted meeting at Oak Grove ended last Tuesday night. Bro. Colson of Valdosta, Ga., conducted the services. Brother Colson is now holding a protracted meeting at McConnell.

Mt. Moriah meeting was postponed till the second Sunday in September.

School opened at Chestnut Glade, Monday, August 28, with many patrons present and quite a bunch of high school pupils. Enrolled to date, 37 in high school which practically insures the quota needed $5 credit, provided they hold faithful. Clay McConnell and his sister, Katherine, who spent part of the summer in Chicago came home in time to enter school Monday.

Burford Lamb and wife, and Mrs. Orton Oliver of Chicago spent several days with home folks here, returning to Chicago last week.

Mr. Floyd Watts and family of Detroit spent a few days with relatives here last week.

Mrs. C. E. Edwards spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. Ruth Finch.

Mrs. Dean Terrel and little son of St. Louis are visiting relatives here.

POULTRY SHOW AT FAIR BIG SUCCESS

Well it's all over, the largest and best poultry show ever held in Fulton is past history now.

For the benefit of those who did not attend our show, I will try and give you a good story of the show. There were six hundred and ninety-birds cooped up for five days in quarters that were much too small for them, but thanks to disinfectants and the perfect sterilization of all drinking water. There was not a single case of sickness during the show.

There were several large classes of birds entered, White Leghorns leading with 90 birds, Black Minorcas came second with 80, closely followed by Barred Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, White Plymouth Rocks and Buff Orpingtons, while scattering breeds of lesser number each filled the entry number.

There were 22 different breeds of poultry, five breeds of ducks, 2 breeds of turkeys, 1 of geese, 2 of bantams and 1 of guineas entered.

The judge, Mrs. Ada Morris, of Waverly, Tenn., spent two whole days placing the awards and told the writer there were a smaller amount of disqualifications in our show than any show of equal size, that prevailed.

The grand champion pen was a young pen of White Wyandottes owned by Miss Mattie Vincent, who, by the way, has won this honor two years in succession, and it is getting too regular to suit me and I am going to improve my stock to see if I can beat her next year. How 'bout the rest of you breeders? Miss Mattie also won grand champion pullet. Grand champion hen was a superb White Wyandotte owned by Mrs. Ben Nanney. This bird should be in the money at shows as large as the Tri-States.

Grand Champion Cockerel was won by a White Leghorn, entered by William Duncan. This bird attracted quite a lot of attention by his magnificent carriage and style, also by his extreme friendliness. Grand champion cock went to a Rhode Island owned by the writer, who is too modest to brag on his stock, but will enter this bird in the Jackson fair next week to see how he will stack up against the outfit down there. Here's hoping he wins. In the production class, Joe Bowers won almost everything in sight with his White Leghorns. His winnings included sweepstakes pen. In the boy and girl club work there were seven who entered, and the money was very equally divided, although little Irene Bowers with her White Plymouth Rocks headed the list with seven dollars to her credit and a half dozen ribbons.

In looking back over the season's work, which culminated in this wonderful show, we see some real enjoyable days and some not quite so.

Many of the merchants of Fulton responded to our appeal for funds with open purse strings. The list printed in the premium list shows who were friendly to our efforts and all who subscribed made their payments when called upon, with the exception of one firm who reneged their promise.

Another feature not so pleasant was when the writer would ask a man to join the association and pay us a dollar for a year's dues, to have him turn us down, especially when he happened to be a stockholder in the Fair Association.

But now that the show is over, and was a grand success, we can forgive all the little unpleasant features and forget them, for taken as a whole, the people of Fulton showed me they had confidence in my ability to put over a big show, and that they appreciated my efforts, and I thank you.

There were several firms and individuals who made us donations after the premium list was printed and of course the list did not show their names, but we want you to know we appreciate all you did for us.

We also wish to publicly thank the Hon. W. V. Gregory and Hon. Finis Garrett for the two silver loving cups donated for the best birds entered from their respective districts. These cups were won by Mrs. D. J. Perry from Kentucky and Mrs. Ben Nanney, from Tennessee.

As secretary of the Fulton Poultry Association, I again want to thank everyone who helped make the poultry show the main feature of the fair.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Logan County farmers have organized a sheep breeders' association and secured assistance from the State Department of Agriculture in enforcing the dog law.

Small quantities of limestone and superphosphate, tested on the farm of Stephens Fraley in Lee county, increased the yield of oats by a third. Oats on the treated acre were 12 inches taller than those on untreated land.

Leslie Nugent, a Fulton county farmer, plans to lime his entire farm for the second time in 10 years. J. P. Maddox, another Fulton county farmer, is growing alfalfa successfully on limed land.

Simpson county farmers recently inspected orchards owned by Paul Gomer, G. O. Perdue and George Button, who have been following improved practices in fruit growing.

Four hundred to 500 farmers from nine counties attended the Ohio Valley purebred sheep sale at Maysville, where 58 rams and 20 ewes averaged $40.

Many Perry county farmers are interested in grape growing. The county agent has taught 35 men how to propagate vines by the layering method.

A special train of 15 carloads of limestone, or approximately 900 tons, was dumped along the right of way for the benefit of 15 Graves county farmers.

A Russell county farmer is so well pleased with the results from spraying that he is offering purchasers of his fruit cents for every peach containing a worm.

ROBINSON ASKS CONTEST BE ON ETHICAL PLANE

Vice Presidential Nominee Finds "Political Serpents Hissing;" Would Arouse Hatreds.

SEES FARM PROBLEM AS MAIN CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Accepts Nomination Stressing Need of Real Law Enforcement and Honesty in Government—Scores Hoover Stand.

Hot Springs, Ark., August 30.—Senator Joe T. Robinson of this state accepted the Democratic nomination for vice president here tonight in an address pledging his party to adequate farm relief, an honest endeavor to enforce prohibition, the maintenance of a merchant marine and the eradication of corruption from the national government.

Claude G. Bowers of New York, the temporary chairman at the Houston convention delivered the notification address as chairman of the notification committee. The ceremonies took place at the Arlington Hotel before one of the largest gatherings in the history of Arkansas.

The nominee made a plea for a frank discussion of all the issues of the campaign without bitterness. Public attention has been concentrated on political affairs to a degree of intensity never before known, he said. In this campaign, he said, voters are interested not only in the issues, but in the personal characteristics of the candidates.

"The preliminary events of the contest indicate that in order to avoid bitterness, the leaders on both sides must display a sense of justice and fairness by refusing to become the beneficiaries of political influences and processes which they themselves are unwilling to employ," he continued. "In this way, and in no other, may the poisons of slander and libel be counteracted and overcome."

Arouse Prejudices

The quadrennial contest presents an inspiring spectacle when conducted with high standards of ethics, Senator Robinson said. But, he continued:

"Numerous political serpents are hissing in the dark and striking from afar, and with venomous malice seek to arouse the thoughts and arouse the passions of those who will decide the far-reaching importance."

A spokesman of a party has a duty to tell the whole truth, he added, but he proves himself unworthy if he knowingly accepts advantage from falsehood, even though not uttered or inspired by himself."

Senator Robinson characterized the attitude of the two parties with respect to the agricultural problem, the outstanding issue of the campaign. Both platforms recognize the distressed condition and hold out promises the relative value of which is apparent, he said.

The Republican party in 1924 gave virtually the same promise it gives this year, "to take whatever steps are necessary to bring back a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor," Senator Robinson asserted. However, the McNary-Haugen bill, prepared under the direction of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had just been defeated and to regain the confidence of the farmers President Coolidge, in the 1924 campaign promised to call a conference to consider legislation for the next Congress.

The doctrine which Mr. Hoover has adopted originated from the conference which followed, Senator Robinson said. This doctrine provided that agricultural production should be limited to the demands of the domestic market "and with only such foreign markets as may be profitable."

The Capper-Williams bill followed the general lines of this recommendation. It was supported by Mr. Hoover, Senator Robinson said, but was opposed by the farm organizations and defeated.

As further evidence of Mr. Hoover's stand, Senator Robinson quoted from a statement by Mr. Hoover in the Pacific Ruralist of February 7, 1924:

"Generally the fundamental need is a balancing of agricultural production to our home demand."

The 69th Congress passed the McNary-Haugen bill, with a vote of 57 per cent of the Democrats and 52 per cent of the Republicans, he said. President Coolidge vetoed it. In the last session after it had been modified to meet some of the objections to it, the bill was passed again with increased majorities. Again the President vetoed it.

"These facts prove that the Republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers of the nation," Senator Robinson declared.

Mr. Hoover now asserts that "an adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief," that inland waterways must be developed to assist the farmer and co-operative marketing must be stimulated by the extension of federal credits, Senator Robinson continued.

Increased tariffs can afford no relief, he argued, and the farmer will scarcely wait for the development of waterways. If co-operative marketing is the solution why has the administration failed to apply it, he asked.

In contrast, he said, the Democratic party recognizes the principle of distributing the cost of control of surplus crops over the marketed units whose producers are benefited. The party further recognizes "the right of farmers to lead in the development of farm policies," and "that adequate credit facilities and better administration of the farm loan system" must be assured in the interest of the farmers, Senator Robinson said.

"We repudiate Mr. Hoover's proposal to limit farm production to the domestic demand, as calculated to be little, rather than to encourage the great industry of agriculture," he said.

"If a more equitable and executive plan than that comprised by the equalization fee is discovered, it should be adopted," Senator Robinson continued. "The time has come, however, when an economic advantage is justified in behalf of the millions who struggle in that industry without which civilization could not survive. The Democratic nominee for President has committed himself to prompt and decisive action in accordance with the principles outlined in our platform."

Senator Robinson declared there had always been room in the Democratic Party for a difference of opinion as to the best means of promoting temperance and suppressing traffic in alcoholic beverages. He pointed out that a proposal for changes in the existing system was submitted to the resolutions committee at Houston but was rejected. The convention rebuffed the utility of attempting to secure unanimity on the proposal, he said. The platform provision as finally adopted condemns the Republican party for insincerity in promising

STRIKING EXCERPTS FROM SENATOR ROBINSON'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

"The leaders on both sides must display a sense of justice and fairness by refusing to become the beneficiaries of political influences and processes which they themselves are unwilling to employ."

"Numerous political serpents are hissing in the dark Sound public policy encourages full, frank and fearless discussion of issues and records."

"The spokesman of a party has the duty to tell the whole truth. . . . He proves himself unworthy if he knowingly accepts advantage from falsehood even though not uttered or inspired by himself."

"The Republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the (agricultural) question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers of the nation."

"If a more equitable and effective plan than that comprised by the equalization fee is discovered, it should be adopted."

Governor Smith's statement "is an unqualified acceptance of the obligation to enforce the law to the best of his ability."

obedience to the Eighteenth Amendment, "after having flagrantly disregarded for eight years that amendment and the law for its enforcement," he declared.

"The convention recognized," he said, "that the Democratic party is neither a prohibition nor an anti-prohibition organization but if entrusted with power its duty would be to enforce all laws."

"To one who for twenty-five years has uniformly supported measures for prohibition, it has been disappointing to note the methods and agencies employed by the Republican party in the enforcement of the national prohibition laws," Senator Robinson continued.

He said the question should be treated as moral and economic rather than political and that many claimants to be reformers have clouded the subject with confusion and misunderstanding. These people, he said, have discredited the motives of those who display moderation and fairness in the discussions on the subject and of those who are dissatisfied with present conditions.

"President Wilson vetoed the Volstead Act," said Senator Robinson. "The integrity of his purpose was not questioned; his good faith was generally conceded."

Senator Robinson then referred to Governor Smith's telegram to the Houston convention in which he pledged himself to enforce prohibition "to the limit of my ability without reservation or evasion."

"This language is an unqualified acceptance of the obligation to enforce the law to the best of his ability," declared Senator Robinson.

The vice-presidential nominee pointed out that the enforcement of prohibition under the last two Republican administrations has been under the Treasury Department, "whose head, prior to national prohibition, was largely interested in the liquor business." He referred to the fact that Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, whose action in swinging to Mr. Hoover at Kansas City was largely responsible for the nomination of the Republican candidate, was elected on a platform containing a single plank, the repeal of national prohibition.

"Can it be said that because Governor Smith believes that, without returning to the old evils of the saloon, temperance and respect for law can be promoted through changes in the existing system, he is a nullificationist and an enemy of the Constitution?" he asked. "Such arguments impeach the intelligence of their authors," he declared.

Senator Robinson pointed out that only such modifications as meet with the approval of public opinion are possible no matter who is President.

Senator Robinson continued: "Having in mind that the law for enforcement of prohibition has been discredited because good faith efforts have not been made for its enforcement, the conclusion is asserted that a breakdown is not threatened by mere proposals for modification, but rather by indifference of the public to proper execution and by corruption and inefficiency of many enforcement officers. It is recognized that the people constitute the reservoir of all political power and have the right, in the constitutional manner to call for changes in either or both the Constitution and the law. The executive has no power to modify either. It is in no sense an attempt at nullification to suggest changes in the Constitution or the law. Nullification exists in refusal or willful failure to enforce."

Honest Enforcement

"To summarize, the Democratic platform does not commit the party for or against modification. It does pledge the nominees to an honest effort to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and the laws enacted pursuant thereto. Governor Smith has promised his best efforts to enforce prohibition. His personal opinion should be changed to make certain better observance and enforcement, does not affect his disposition or ability to perform that duty."

On the subject of the Merchant Marine, Senator Robinson asserted: "While the necessity for Government ships continues, and until they can be transferred under satisfactory conditions for private operation, the service should be kept efficient and should be improved to meet competition with foreign lines and to provide for the expansion of our commerce."

He said the Democratic party recognizes that an adequate merchant marine is essential to the safety of the nation and the independence of its commerce. However, he said, Democrats have never advocated a permanent policy Government ownership and operation of shipping. The party has refused to approve "reckless sacrifices and favoritism in the sale of vessels," he declared.

The platform makers of the Republican party recognized that the corruption at Washington was a major issue of this campaign in their effort to anticipate the declaration on the subject by the Democratic party, Senator Robinson said.

"While rare cases of fraud may be regarded as unavoidable in the business comparable in volume to that of the United States, it becomes a matter of general political concern when the party in power proves so derelict as to fail to prevent shocking and repeated departures from standards of common honesty in the transaction of the public business," asserted Senator Robinson.

If the principle enunciated in the Republican platform had been applied by the Republican administration it would have been unnecessary for the Senate to advise the discharge of an Attorney General "who had flagrantly disregarded the obligations of his office and contributed to the pollution of the fountain of justice," Senator Robinson continued. "The country would have been spared the spectacle of an executive sustaining this faithless officer until public sentiment compelled dismissal, and the dismissal would have been made without expression of confidence in the faithfulness of the chief executive," he said.

Smith's Record

Likewise, he went on, there would have been no necessity for the Senate to urge the retirement of a Secretary of the Navy who had approved the contract by which the oil reserves were given to private interests through the agency of a fellow cabinet officer, the Secretary of the Interior.

"Throughout almost four terms the Democratic nominee for President has served as chief executive of New York," Senator Robinson said. "During all his service the searchlight of hostile scrutiny has been thrown in full glare on his administrations. That Governor Smith's record has stood the test is evidence of that extraordinary executive ability and fearlessness required in a President of the United States who is expected to safeguard the Government against such thieves and crooks as have plundered it during recent years."

In conclusion Senator Robinson said: "The safety of our political institutions depends on fair elections and honest government. You may never expect clean government if nominations or elections are to be bought and sold. Of course, such methods do not meet with approval by the majority of the Republican party. Many Republicans condemn the indifference of their leaders to the ignominious record mentioned—a record which never could have been made if the watchmen on the towers had not fallen asleep."

"The Democratic party invites the cooperation of all who desire the administration of national affairs reformed in accordance with the principles set forth in its platform."

"Mr. Chairman Bowers, and ladies and gentlemen of the Committee, the nomination for Vice President is accepted with sincere appreciation of the honor and the responsibilities that are associated with it."

MAJ. GEN. ALLEN LEADS VETERANS

Accepts Post at Head of Soldiers' Bureau in Smith Campaign.

Major General Henry T. Allen, commanding General of the American Army of Occupation in Germany, a popular national military figure, directing the activities of the Veterans' Bureau of the Democratic National Committee, Major General Allen agreed to head the bureau following a talk with Chairman John J. Raskob.

"I know the soldiers would have a very good friend in Governor Smith," said General Allen. "Moreover, I think Governor Smith appeals to them in a very striking manner by reason of his personality and record. I think the soldiers haven't had a very large say in the affairs of the country as compared with what they ordinarily have had after every great war, but, of course, it would be impossible to keep down all the husky men who were organized during the great war and they will be heard from during the coming years."

"The Veteran's Bureau is a division of the campaign which is of very great importance," Chairman Raskob said in announcing the appointment, "but veterans are entitled to know all about the candidate, what he stands for, and the policies of the party, and we are keenly anxious to have an opportunity of telling the veterans what we know about Governor Smith's record and character."

Major General Allen served as Commanding General of the Army of Occupation in Germany for three and one-half years. He was later advisor to the American Ambassador to Great Britain at the conference of Ambassadors in Paris during the Harding administration.

After a distinguished military career, General Allen was promoted to Major General just before the United States entered the World War and organized the Ninetieth Division, which he led in the major offensives at St. Mihiel and the Argonne-Meuse. As Colonel he was a member of the Inter-Allied High Commission.

FARM HEAD DEFENDS BOLT TO GOV. SMITH

Peek Tells Gov. Hamill Democratic Party's Pledge is Ample.

The Democratic party endorsed the equalization fee in principle in the Houston platform. George N. Peek, of Maline, Ill., the chairman of the Committee of Twenty-two of the North Central States Agricultural Conference, declared in a letter to Governor John Hamill of Iowa.

Mr. Peek challenged Governor Hamill to call another conference of Governors of the states represented in the North Central States Agricultural Conference to sit in judgment upon his action in declaring his support of Governor Smith. The letter was in reply to one from Governor Hamill to Mr. Peek in which the Iowa Governor accused him of having gone beyond the power vested in the Committee of Twenty-two in bolting the Republican party.

Governor Hamill in his letter to Mr. Peek said farm relief legislation had been blocked by "politics." Mr. Peek in his letter to Governor Hamill asserted the legislation was blocked by an "unsympathetic" President, with the approval of Mr. Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

"You say that the Democratic party failed to endorse the equalization fee," wrote Mr. Peek. "To be sure, it did not by name endorse the equalization fee or the McNary-Haugen bill, but it very definitely endorsed the principle of the equalization fee when it said: 'We pledge the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance. The solution of this problem would avoid government subsidy to which the Democratic party always has been opposed and will be a prime and immediate concern of a Democratic administration.'

"These principles have formed the basis of farm relief that twice passed Congress in legislation, that would have furnished the opportunity for the farmers to get the benefit from tariffs on crops of which we export a surplus—legislation that was passed only to meet twice with the veto of an unsympathetic President who never advanced a constructive proposal himself addressing the problem. And this in the face of the platform pledges of his party upon which he was elected, to take whatever steps are necessary to bring about a balanced condition between agriculture, industry and labor."

HEADS WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

Agnes Hart Wilson of Blossburg, Pennsylvania, running for Congress in the sixteenth Pennsylvania District asserted her support of Governor Smith by saying that she believes he will aggressively enforce the Prohibition law until it is repealed or modified.

Unseen Costs

The railroads appear at first glance to be undersold by certain other means of transportation. Bus fares are frequently less than railway fares, and freight is often carried at lower rates by truck and barge than by train. But these differences do not prove that railway service really costs more. The explanation may lie in the concealment rather than the absence of part of the costs that are included in railway rates.

Railroads pay their own way, and their rates cover all the costs of railway service. That is not the case with common carriers on highways and inland waterways. They use rights-of-way which are built and maintained at public expense. These costs, while they are not covered in bus, truck and barge rates, are nevertheless paid for. The money comes out of the public treasury, to which everyone contributes, and therefore the saving to the public is more apparent than real.

The subsidy is larger than may be realized. Something like 57 per cent of the Illinois Central System's investment is in its track structure. The cost of maintenance plus the return earned thereon amounted in 1927 to nearly $36,000,000. That was almost exactly 20 per cent of this railroad's freight and passenger revenue.

No wonder the railroads appear at first glance to be undersold! So would any merchant whose competitor set up to do business, rent free, in the county courthouse or the city hall.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
