THE LISTENING POST

Well, the election tomorrow presents some things which I never expected to see in my lifetime. Not many times have I expected a Democrat to win. In fact, only three times have I really expected to see this happen. In 1912 everybody knew that Woodrow Wilson would win, for the first Roosevelt had hopelessly split the Republican party, and everybody knew Wilson was a practical certainty to win. Taft, the regular Republican nominee, had no chance, for Roosevelt had taken the bulk of his support and yet it was readily apparent that he did not have enough to win for himself. Therefore, there was no element of surprise in Wilson's victory. The election was along strictly party lines, with the Republican party hopelessly divided, and Democrats voting the ticket straight in anticipation of the first victory in many years.

In 1916 I did not expect Wilson to win, and for days it appeared that he would not. California finally turned the tide with a small lead which gave the war president the electoral majority. After that I did not expect any Democrats to win until the first Roosevelt victory. That year it was clearly apparent, and it was also very plain in 1936. This year, so far as I am any judge, the results are also clear, for I cannot see any chance whatever for Mr. Willkie. Here is where so many things I never expected to see come in.

I never expected to see a man running for a third term. I never expected to see a man on the Republican ticket who only two years ago was a Democrat. Those things represent a decided change in the national political picture. For years and years it was traditional that no man could even win a third term nomination, let alone winning such an election. From time immemorial, the faintest tinge of not being a dyed in the wool Republican was enough to damn a man in the eyes of all true blue Republicans.

The old time tariff question on which I grew up long ago lapsed into the discard. During this campaign there has been no talk of the tariff whatever. It appears that all parties are now united on that question. Strangely, too, the two dominant parties are almost in agreement on most of the policies which the nation carries on. About the only question which has brought up argument concerns fiscal policies and dictatorships. The Republicans charge that we are on the road to ruin to dictatorship; Democrats claim that to make a change now in the face of world conditions would be fatal to the Republic. On those issues the battle has been fought.

Well, tomorrow we will settle those problems for the time being. We will either elect Mr. Roosevelt, or we will vote him out and place Mr. Willkie in charge of matters in Washington. In this I can see no danger. For all the years of life the Republic has enjoyed we have allowed the majority to decide our problems, and as long as we can do this and accept the result in perfect good humor we will be all right. I am hoping that this will come about from the election tomorrow. No matter who wins, our problems will remain, and they are most pressing problems. Democracy and our philosophy of life are on trial, and in days to come the testing will become acute. So, after the election is over we must put aside all partisan thoughts and unite ourselves as Americans and as free citizens. We must give unwavering allegiance to whatever Administration we may have after this election, for only in this way can we meet the test which is coming from across the seas.

Candidates Plan Final Pleas Tonight

Roosevelt and Willkie Will Make Last Minute Addresses

Washington -- Nineteen-forty's hard-hitting Presidential campaign reached a breathless pre-election pause Sunday, with an armistice in major speechmaking and both candidates preparing last-minute appeals to the electorate.

Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee, rested in New York City. He planned to remain in the city, cast his vote and receive the election returns there.

Both Plan Speeches Tonight President Roosevelt journeyed to Washington, for an interval at his desk before proceeding to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., where he will vote and await the returns.

Both candidates planned radio speeches for Monday night, the eve of election day, with Willkie preparing what was understood to be a summary of what he considers the outstanding issues involved in Tuesday's voting.

Democratic Speakers Listed In 1932 and again in 1936 the President made election-eve speeches, confined in each instance to urging that there be a big turnout at the polls. There was speculation, however, that this time he would say something more intimately connected with the campaign.

The President, who will speak shortly after 10 p. m. C. S. T. will highlight a two-hour program of speaking and entertainment starting at 9 p. m. It will be carried in its entirety by the Mutual Network and both NBC chains. CBS will pick up the second hour.

PASSAGE TO PORTUGAL REQUESTED BY CAROL

Seville, Spain -- Carol, exiled ex-King of Rumania, personally solicited an interview today with Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish Foreign Minister, to seek permission to proceed to Portugal. No reply has been received.

Carol and his two companions, Mme. Magda Lupescu and Ernst Urdareanu, one-time Minister of the Palace in Bucharest, have been under a polite form of arrest here more than a week.

Draft Appeal Board Is Named By Johnson For First District

Frankfort, Ky. -- Six district boards to which men registered for military training may appeal rulings of local draft boards and county appeal agents were named by Gov. Keen Johnson late Friday.

The district boards constitute the final "Courts of Appeal" in the state and any exceptions to their rulings must be taken to Washington. Each is composed of an attorney, physician and representative of labor, industry and agriculture. They serve without pay. Each board elects a chairman from its membership and the latter appoints a clerk.

Appointment of an attorney for each local draft board to whom men registered may go for free legal advice, expected to be made in a few days, and replacement of a dozen or more local draft board members and county appeal agents who resigned will complete the selective service set-up in Kentucky.

Plans Are Made For Banquet Of American Legion

The committee for the Armistice Day Banquet of Marshall Alexander Post No. 72, The American Legion, has completed all arrangements for the Banquet, which will be held at 7:00 p. m. November 11, 1940, at the Rainbow Room, Lowe's Cafe. This Armistice Day Banquet has been made an annual affair by the Legion Post and the Legion Auxiliary, and the committee is putting forth every effort to make this one as big a success as the ones in the past have been.

Legion Members and Auxiliary members and their families are invited to attend, and tickets may be secured from any of the Banquet committee, which is composed of the following members of Post No. 72, Harry Potter, Robert J. Lamb, and L. T. Bugg, or the tickets may be secured at Lowe's Cafe up until the hour of the Banquet.

Britons Told Deep Shelters Impractical

London. -- Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, told Britons in a nationwide broadcast Sunday that deep air raid shelters for all are "beyond the bounds of practical possibility" and appealed to them to maintain the will to "take risks in freedom's cause."

Morrison excused himself for reaching the same decision after three weeks in office as his predecessor, Sir John Anderson, on the grounds of time, expense and the need for materials in "active defense."

Subways' Extension Planned A certain amount of deep shelter will be provided by extending the tunneling of London subways and elsewhere in the country where the terrain makes digging relatively easy, Morrison disclosed. This, he added, will constitute but a fraction of the total shelter and in any event it cannot be finished until the end of the winter.

Quoting a favorite phrase of his predecessor, who was moved to the Lord Presidency of the Council after hot public criticism of measures taken to shelter Britain's millions, Morrison declared "in practice there is no 100 per cent safety."

MINIMUM PRICE FOR CIGARETTES FOUGHT

Cleveland -- Abandoning a Federal Court fight here, counsel for Lane Drug Company of Toledo said they would seek reversal by the Toledo District State Appellate Court of a Common Pleas Court decision upholding a 16-cents-a-package minimum price for popular cigarette brands.

Believes Japan Has Bigger And Better Air Force Than America

New York. -- Charles Healy Day, aircraft plant manager who has lived through 25 Japanese bombing raids in China, has brought back to the United States a belief that the Japanese air force is better than America's "in quantity and quality."

"We have consistently underrated the Japanese in the air," he said today in an interview. "They have splendid airplanes and lots of them. In China alone they are operating between 800 and 900 first-line planes."

He added he had no doubt the United States has better designs on drawing boards than the Japanese actually have in service.

"Americans are too supine in their belief that the Japanese copy Occidental airplanes," Day said. "I examined one Japanese pursuit plane shot down in the Chinese

Reeves Says Tobacco Tax Being Abused

Frankfort, Ky. -- Numerous Kentucky cigarette smokers are being charged an extra penny for "10-cent" brand cigarettes through "illegal practices" of some retailers, the State Revenue Department reports.

Revenue Commissioner H. Clyde Reeves said several retailers were selling such brands for 12 cents with only a 1-cent State tax stamp affixed to the packages. The State tax on each package of cigarettes is 1 cent for each 10 cents or fraction of 10 cents of the retail selling price.

Prosecution Is Threatened "The retailers have a perfect right to sell the 10-cent brands at 11 cents, State tax included, but if the smoker pays 12 cents, the State is entitled to 2 cents tax," Reeves said. He suggested that smokers check their packages of "10-cent" brands and not pay over 11 cents unless a 2-cent State tax stamp is on the package.

"Criminal prosecution will be resorted to if necessary to enforce this phase of the Kentucky cigarette tax law," Reeves declared. He said Revenue Department field agents were "constantly checking" retailers in an effort to "protect the public" and to collect any taxes due.

New Baptist Pastor In Home-Coming Messages

Sunday, November 3, proved to be a day long to be remembered by the members of the First Baptist Church, this being the Annual Homecoming Day. The auditorium was well filled in the morning by members of the church, former members and friends to hear the new pastor, Rev. A. E. Autrey, and to take a part in the Love Offering which was laid on the altar for the church building indebtedness.

After words of introduction by J. O. Lewis, the pastor preached a powerful sermon, using as his subject, "God Still Lives," reading Acts 4:23-30. Rev. Autrey said that "God has all authority and that authority has been given us to carry the message to the uttermost parts of the earth. This God, our God, is a Universal God. He cares as much for one nation as another, one people as another. He is a seeing God, looking down on this world of trouble with pity and is as much concerned for one people as another. This God, our God, is all powerful. He looks down on us as a protector. He knows our sorrows and burdens. If God lives, God can help us. He is a hearing God. There has never been a Christian that has uttered a prayer that God did not hear. We need to pray more. He will hear us. God is alive and will hear the sinner who calls upon Him."

Our God is a speaking God. He spoke to the people through prosperity and hundred of thousands plunged headlong into eternity not hearing. He then spoke through the depression, still many went on without heeding his voice. Now He has turned loose the sword. Nations are crumbling but God's people are still under banner. Let us listen to the voice of Him who never retreats. We have a living God who offers the invitation, "Whosoever will let him take the water of life freely."

There were seven to unite with the church at the close of the message. At 7:30, Rev. Autrey preached another soul stirring message, using as his subject, "The Faultless Christ," and using Luke 23:4 as his scripture. There was one addition to the church in the evening.

O. C. Croft's Grandson Is Killed In Crash

William D. Croft, Jr., 21-year-old student Army pilot and grandson of Oswald Croft of this city, was killed early Saturday morning, when his training plane went into a tailspin near Randolph Field, Texas.

He was making a night solo practice flight by instruments when his plane crashed. Young Croft, who had aspired to be a flier since his grammar school days, was nearly ready to enter the final stage of training at Kelly Field. He was graduated from Purdue University in aeronautical engineering June 9 and entered the basic air course at Tulsa, Okla., June 26. He was a former valedictorian and football star at Millington High School.

Born in Hickman County, he moved to Millington in 1929. For four years he was on the Millington High School football team, two of them as captain, and his last year he was named to the Commercial Appeal "All-Shelby County Team."

He was also editor of the student newspaper at Millington High, won a statewide extemporaneous speech contest and took part in school plays. At Purdue he had placed second and third in a speech contest. He is survived by his parents. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at National Funeral Home. Military services will be held at the grave in National Cemetery.

Young Croft's parents are well known in this section, where they resided for a number of years and the sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved parents in the loss of their only son.

Spain Seeks Closer Ties With America

Madrid -- Spain has created a "Council of Hispanicism" to tighten her ties with Latin-America and the press says it will show Latin-America "that they are our brothers--by the grace of God."

Formation of the council was announced after a cabinet meeting Saturday night. Its purpose was described officially as direction of Spanish policies so as to assure continuity of "works of Spanish thought."

Little more is known about the council but the Falangist newspaper Arriba says it will represent "Spain's ambitious foreign policy in its most vital sense."

Arriba says Spain "drained herself of her own blood to give blood to America and it has taken her three centuries to feel her pulse strong again."

New Spain feels a fatherly love for America and "in the vast field of Chile, Argentina, Peru and Mexico they understand and love us--sometimes without realizing it."

Report Nazis Fail In Effort To Capture Greenland Station

New York. -- A German-language broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corporation today said a German expedition of 50 men had been captured in an unsuccessful attempt to seize the meteorological observation station at Greenland. The Norwegian patrol boat Fritjof Nansen made them prisoners, it said.

The broadcast was heard by CBS in New York. After Germany occupied Denmark, the mother country, the United States established a consular office there. The 736,515 mile-square island is in the Western Hemisphere.)

The broadcast, quoting a report from Stockholm, Sweden, said "for a long time the German air force has been experimenting the lack of exact weather forecast, hindering

Henderson Says Nation Arming Swiftly

Calls U. S. Progress Speediest In History Of Entire World

Washington -- Leon Henderson, a member of the defense commission, expressed the opinion Sunday that the United States had progressed more rapidly in setting up machinery to rearm itself in the last five months than any other country ever had done in the same period of war or peace.

"In some circles," he said in a radio address, "it has been, shall I say 'fashionable' to belittle the letting of eight billion dollars of contracts within a few weeks. By the sheer volume of empty sound and sarcasm these same persons have sought to drown out the actual physical production of defense items."

"But the fact remains that tanks, semi-automatic rifles, warships and bombers are being delivered currently and constantly. Last week the political din was so great that the country couldn't even hear Knudsen (Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen) talking about plans for 12,000 additional bombers. I'd be willing to bet that certain chancelleries in Europe and Asia heard--and understood--Knudsen's statement, for 8,000 two-motor bombers and 4,000 four-motor bombers are more bombers than any country in the world possesses at the present time."

Mrs. Sullivan Dies Last Night

Mrs. Mattie Bard Sullivan died last night in Hopkinsville after a long illness. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hornbeak Funeral Home with the Rev. Lowell Council, pastor of the Palestine Methodist church, conducting the services. Burial will be at the Palestine cemetery.

Mrs. Sullivan, who was a member of one of the pioneer families of this section, was one of nine children, only one of whom survives. Jim Bard of Fulton is the surviving brother, Dick Bard, another brother, passed away several months ago. Mrs. Sullivan was a faithful member of the Palestine Methodist church and was active in church work up until ill health prevented. Besides her brother, she leaves a host of nieces and nephews.

SAVE LIVING COSTS

The indexes which deal with commodity costs at retail and wholesale all show a rising trend. In other words, the cost of living generally is going up. So far, the advances have been small and are nothing to get excited about. They are an inevitable result of current conditions, with demand for many articles at least temporarily in excess of supply.

The fact that the trend is upward, however, no matter how small the scale at present, is something worth thinking about. It is a very easy matter for such a trend to get out of hand—and thus to result in unnecessarily severe jumps in the cost of living, to the detriment of the health and welfare of millions of American families.

Income, as the records of the past prove, almost invariably rise more slowly than living costs, and when that happens the great army of people to whom the personal budget is a difficult problem under the best of conditions, are in serious trouble.

One way to protect ourselves against unjustified jumps in costs is to encourage the freest play of competition in distribution and in retailing, no less than in manufacturing. Distribution is already serving the Nation well—the chain stores and other organized retailing groups are working hand in hand with consumers' representatives and government officials in an effort to keep prices as stable as possible, and to prevent and ferret out profiteering.

But work of this kind is hampered by laws and punitive taxes, now in effect in more than half the states, whose tendency is to restrict competition—and it would be further hampered by the still more extreme laws which are periodically proposed. When the legislatures meet next year, there should be a general housecleaning of any and all statutes which in any way prevent maximum efficiency and economy in the retail field.—Exchange.

BREAKING THE FALL

It takes no genius in strategy to see that Hitler, with his hour rapidly passing to prove his power to invade England, has only one chance of breaking his fall coming from the collapse of his blitzkrieg boast. This one chance is that of spreading the risk of his prestige over more territory.

Therefore the forecasts that imminent infantry assault on England, the march toward Suez and the attempt to take Gibraltar are to be simultaneous should not be dismissed as fanciful. The attempted capture of Gibraltar by German-Italian-Spanish attack can be planned to detract attention from the England invasion failure.

Or, Gibraltar not proving feasible, advance to Alexandria and its seizure, with the menace to Suez, also may have been pulled out of the grab bag at Brenner Pass as a device for obscuring the collapse of the conquest which was Hitler's one big objective in his unconscionable conflict.

From the first all the roads of Hitler's war plans led to London; the alliance with Russia, Italy, Japan, Spain; the capture of Poland, Norway, Denmark, the Low Countries and France each in its turn was a stage in an advance to the single definite goal

WHY BOMBERS NOW?

Many readers were startled on Thursday to read of new War Department plans for production of 12,000 additional bombing planes, with the aid of the automobile industry, at an estimated cost of $2,000,000,000. The plans call for tripling the number of bombers which have been ordered to date.

The announcement came as a surprise to many, because it was assumed that the vast defense appropriation already passed by Congress filled out in large outline the rearmament picture as conceived by the Army, Navy and Air Corps. That was not quite the case with aircraft, however.

Most of the 20,000 planes already on order are trainers and fast pursuit, interceptor and fighter planes. Half of the total are trainers, needed early to school the new flying personnel which must man fighters and bombers. It takes some time to train flying crews for military service.

So the trainers were ordered while the pilot training program got going. As this program proceeds, combat ships for which there were no crews a few months ago are now needed. This need will grow, and since it takes time to build four-motored bombers, the Army is preparing to order the big ships now so they will be ready when the flying personnel is built up.

That this huge number of additional planes planned for the Army specifies bombers indicates that U. S. military men have not given up the notion that the best defense is a good offense. Bombers are built for attack, and American bombers for attack at extremely long range. There is no inclination among Army men, in case they are called upon to beat off an enemy, to wait for that enemy to reach our own shores.—Sun-Democrat.

DIPLOMATIC WAR

The recent conversations in Washington between Undersecretary of State Wells and the Soviet Ambassador are significant.

This government is trying to persuade the Soviet to keep on with its pro-Chinese, anti-Japanese policy.

Fear is of a Soviet-Japanese peace pact which would release the 400,000 Japanese troops now in Manchuria, for action elsewhere—Hongkong, the Straits Settlements, Singapore, Indo China, and the Dutch East Indies.

Reports say that Hitler is trying to bludgeon Stalinal into making such a pact. Reason: it might pave the way for a U. S.-Japanese war, which is precisely what Hitler desires. All our effort then would be devoted to our own protection, at the expense of the great material aid we are now giving Great Britain.—Dyersburg State-Gazette.

A Day In The Army

(Contributed)

Life in the army at Fort Jackson, S. C., or just life in the army takes on a new view of interest to the public now that every man between 21 and 35 must serve. This thing called "army life" touches in interest practically every mother, father, sister and wife in the country. The future of our country must be guarded not by some unseen army, not by some mystical array of professional soldiers but by every mother's and father's son of them. When we, at Fort Jackson, arise at five o'clock and journey to the mess-hall on a cold morning casting sleepily eyes upon the glow of a rising sun upon a free country, we realize that our eating upon the cold ground out of a mess-kit is probably worth the effort. After mess, which time will not permit to last more than thirty minutes of ground policing, we move on to the drill field at 7 o'clock for four and one half hours of hard drill, of one kind or another, with a nine pound rifle on our shoulder and a three pound cartridge belt and bayonet around the waist, along with this, as often as not, a forty pound pack slung on our backs. The reader may rest assured that when 11:30 arrives the soldier is exceedingly ready to be moved back to the company street where he receives his mail from home, and don't think he is not glad to get it. 'Tis the one bright spot in the routine life of a soldier.

After noon "chow" which very much resembles breakfast except for the temperature, which is about twice what it was at breakfast time, we are started either on a ten mile hike for the afternoon or to the rifle range where the 30 caliber rifle pounds away at our shoulders like a ten gauge shotgun except much harder because approximately the same amount of powder is being forced through a much smaller bore. However, five o'clock comes rather quickly for the job is interesting. The hikes are interesting in that no talking is allowed and one finds himself imagining his company is moving up to engage the enemy and wondering how many of his comrades will come back. Discipline is stressed in the army, and necessarily so. Our company has changed uniforms at least three times in thirty minutes several times. After about the third change the soldier begins to realize that "it is not his to reason why, it is only his to do and to die." That the King can do no wrong and wrong though he may be nothing can be said about it.

Night comes, chow is enjoyed, and the soldier salutes the flag that he has pledged his life to protect, as he winds his way to the cot and three blankets that means renewed hope with the rising sun for his country and his loved ones, and renewed energy for a tomorrow just like today.

CAMPAIGN BUTTON TRADE ENJOYS WHIZ OF A BIZ

New York. —Just to add to all the confused pre-election statistics, the subject of campaign buttons came up today.

Republican headquarters guessed that 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 Willkie buttons were extant; Democratic headquarters said 21,000,000 Roosevelt buttons had been issued.

A reliable authoritative source suggested that if each button were worn by one person and each button wearer placed his or her particular button in a straight line the row of buttons would stretch from New York to Kansas City and that it would be a pretty silly proceeding.

City Tax Officer Drew The Line At This Request

Dallas, Texas. — Even a public servant can be pushed just so far. Dallas City Tax Officer Fred Cullum finally said "no" when he got this request—

A citizen had purchased a one-dollar dog tag. Before he got to put it on his pet's collar, however, his wife sued him for divorce and obtained an injunction to prevent him from communicating with her for any reason.

Since the man had the dog, but his wife had the tag, and he couldn't get the tag without violating the injunction, he asked Cullum to go out to the wife's residence and ask for it. That was when Cullum finally said "No" to a taxpayer.

Next Tuesday, he says, he's going to vote Republican.

Scientists' Bombs Endanger Airport In Argentina
