NEW YORK TICKET IMPRESSES NATION

Candidates Named by Governor Smith—Not One Affiliated With Tammany.

ROOSEVELT SUPPORTED BY REPUBLICAN PRESS

A distinctly favorable reaction to the nomination by the Democratic party of Franklin D. Roosevelt for Governor of New York State is perceived by political observers in almost every State of the Union. Nobody in New York has any doubt that he will be elected. One of the most able and most highly respected figures in the history of American politics, he is said to be sure of the largest majority ever received by a candidate for Governor. His presence on the Democratic ticket, coupled with the fact that he is one of Governor Smith's closest friends, leaves the Hoover forces without hope in the Empire State.

But what is of greater significance, since no well-informed person has ever doubted the Governor's ability to carry his own State, is the reaction to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy in the West and South. His consent to become the nominee, at Governor Smith's request, has made ridiculous the "Tammany cry" with which Republican campaign managers have attempted to induce voters in the districts unfamiliar with the Governor's record.

Tammany Not Represented

Mr. Roosevelt has never been affiliated with Tammany Hall, nor any other political machine. In fact, not a single candidate on the State ticket, which was steadily named from top to bottom by Governor Smith, has any connection with Tammany.

New York Republican leaders acknowledge that, since their own candidate who is linked with the big power interests, Mr. Roosevelt is vulnerable to attack. A distinguished official of the Wilson Administration, in which he served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and the Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1920, he consistently refused to run for Governor until pressed to do so by Governor Smith.

One significant reaction to Governor Smith's choice of a man of such character and reputation to succeed him at Albany is the defection of two strong Hoover newspapers in New York, the Sun and the Telegram, both of which announced editorially that they would support the Democratic candidate for Governor.

To Preserve Smith Ideals
WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—Explaining why he had consented to be drafted by the party leaders of New York State, after his previous refusal to accept the nomination for Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt said:

"It was because they felt and I felt that the whole splendid structure of government built up by Governor Smith and all the high ideals of service to the people which he had established were in peril that caused me to accept the nomination."

"That is something too important to let any personal considerations weigh in the slightest. I am in this fight not to win personal honor, but for the carrying forward of the policies of Governor Smith."

WILSON URGED KIN TO SUPPORT SMITH

War-Time President Scorned Cry That He Was Tammany Candidate.

WASHINGTON.—President Woodrow Wilson in 1918 urged his relatives to vote for Alfred E. Smith, who was then a candidate for Governor of New York, and to work for his election.

The incident was described to friends by Mrs. Rolfe E. Bolling, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Wilson, who now resides in Washington.

"Mr. Bolling and I called on President and Mrs. Wilson during a Red Cross drive in the late summer of 1918 when we were living in New York," President Wilson asked if I had registered. I replied in the negative, explaining that we had not done so because we thought Mr. Smith was the candidate of Tammany Hall.

"I will never forget how he looked at me and said in a very serious tone: 'Go tomorrow and register and both work and vote for Mr. Smith.' 'We did,' added Mrs. Bolling, 'and I feel that in voting for him again this year we are obeying almost a solemn injunction.'"

Protestants Lead Smith Appointees

Conclusive proof that Governor Smith has never been controlled by political or religious influences is found in his appointments as Governor of New York. Statistics made public by Secretary of State Moses reveal that a great majority of the Governor's appointees are Protestants and that there are twice as many Republicans as Democrats in his Cabinet.

Governor Alfred E. Smith

The Governor's Cabinet is comprised of 10 Protestants, 3 Catholics and 1 Jew. Of these 8 are Republicans, 4 are Democrats and 2 are Independents.

Of 25 State Department heads, 14 are Protestants and 11 are Catholics. Eight are Republicans, 3 are Independents and 14 are Democrats.

Of 156 other State officials whose appointments require the approval of the Governor, there are 105 Protestants, 33 Catholics, 11 Jews and 7 undesignated.

In every case, regardless of all other considerations, Governor Smith appointed the person he thought best fitted for the office.

PLEA TO BIGOTRY A COSTLY BLUNDER

Hamilton Fish, Jr., Warns Hoover That Republican Success Is Jeopardized.

WASHINGTON.—Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican representative from New York, has warned Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee, that the injection of the religious issue into the campaign by accredited Republican speakers will result in a clean sweep of New York and the Eastern states by Governor Smith on that issue.

Calling on Mr. Hoover, Mr. Fish told the Republican presidential candidate that he was "so disgusted with such political blunders" as are being committed by the Hoover campaign managers that he contemplates abandoning his speaking tour in New York State.

The Republican representative said he "informed Mr. Hoover that Republican leaders committed a stupid political blunder by forcing the nomination of Ambassador Houghton," which "would endanger the entire ticket and alienate labor and the World War veterans, and jeopardize the entire Republican ticket. The failure of the Republicans to nominate a single World War veteran will be resented by the rank and file."

Mr. Fish advised that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt and all others who are appealing to bigotry, be silenced "before irreparable harm has been done to the Republican ticket."

GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA ATTACKS BIGOTS

RALEIGH, N. C.—A vigorous campaign for the election of Gov. Smith is being made throughout North Carolina by Governor A. W. McLean. At tackling religious intolerance, he said:

"I am ready to defend the right of Governor Smith and every other man or woman, whether Catholic or Protestant, to worship God in his own way."

"I am for Gov. Smith because I believe he is in every way qualified to fill the office of President."

CHURCH DECRIES BIGOTRY

The Rev. Dr. Hugh K. Walker, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, is censored in an editorial in this week's Presbyterian, national church paper, for his call upon Presbyterians to support Hoover. His church position gives him no right to give political advice, the editorial states.

Gov. Smith Convinces Big Business Men That Farm Prosperity Will Aid Industry

That Governor Smith, in his determined stand on behalf of agriculture, has already accomplished great things for the farmer becomes apparent every day.

Governor Smith is convincing important business men of the fact that prosperity of agriculture means as much to them as it does to the farmer himself. The indifference of the East to farm legislation is disappearing. For eight years the business interests of the East in general have accepted Herbert Hoover's belief that agriculture's gain would be industry's loss.

Governor Smith has undertaken to show them how essential it is to increase the prosperity of the farmer, and thus to increase the buying power of one-third of the national population for manufactured products.

Announcing his support for Governor Smith, Owen D. Young, Chairman of the General Electric Company, said:

"On this farm problem, we must affirmatively move, because staying there will spell disaster. I believe in Governor Smith's capacity to lead the American people to action."

"I am supporting Governor Smith because I believe in his willingness and his capacity to put the farmers of this country on an equality with its industry. I am tired of hearing of farm relief as though the farmers of this country, as a class to whom all my people belonged, are the kind of men who stand with their hats in their hands begging alms in the shape of Government dimes."

"They are for an equality of economic opportunity, and they are entitled to it. Not only must they be given it politically because it is right but they must be given it from an economic standpoint if the prosperity of this country is to continue."

"I say that Mr. Hoover used every effort in his power to keep down prices and I submit in proof of this assertion Mr. Hoover's own words."

Held Prices Down

"Early in April, 1919, Mr. Hoover from Europe addressed a cablegram to me, from which I now quote:

"If the control of wheat were removed during the next two or three months in the face of the world situation, prices in this commodity would advance materially beyond the present level. I wish to repeat that unless some superior force intervenes, we intend to hold the price of wheat to the figures it has stood at during the entire war under Congressional guarantee."

"On May first, 1918, Mr. Hoover, then Food Administrator, in a public address declared:

"I agree with the contention of some farmers that they would be getting $5 and perhaps $10 a bushel for their wheat if it had not been for the restraint imposed by the government."

"I repeat that either Senator Borah and other Republican leaders are wholly ignorant of the 'record' which Senator Borah so persistently quotes, or he or they are guilty of fraud."

"I insist that you and other Republican leaders inform Senator Borah, other speakers and the public whether the cables from Mr. Hoover in 1919 or the claims of Republican leaders now as presented in the campaign text book and in the public statements of Republican speakers are a fraud."

"Somebody is not telling the truth. The public will be interested in knowing who it is."

In a speech in New York City, on April 22, 1920, reviewing the work done by his Food Administration, Mr. Hoover said:

"The Grain Corporation was successfully managed by Mr. Barnes. In 1917 the wheat price was $2.20 per bushel. The farmers could have obtained $5 per bushel."

The quotation, from the Republican New York Tribune, proves conclusively that Hoover restricted the price of wheat, while other prices were permitted to go sky high.

New Firm For Fulton

The Rhodes-Burford Furniture Co., one of the largest furniture dealers in this section of country, now has a store in this city, having purchased the S. P. Ethridge Furniture Co., stock and business this week located at 452 Lake street.

Mr. Paul Hornbeak, formerly of the Hornbeak Furniture Co., and one of Fulton's prominent young business men, is manager, and in his selection to manage the Fulton business, we congratulate the Rhodes-Burford Co. We also congratulate the company in their selection of Mr. S. P. Ethridge for their Union City store.

It is not necessary for us to attempt an introduction of the Rhodes-Burford Furniture Co. to the people of this city and vicinity because they are too well known to every inhabitant. It is an old established firm that has won the esteem and admiration of the people by their fair and honest dealing with their fellowman wherever they have opened up for business and we welcome them to our city.

Mr. Ford Taken to Memphis Hospital

Friends of Mr. P. C. Ford will be glad to learn that he made the trip to Memphis nicely in the Fulton Undertaking Company's ambulance and is now under the care of experts at Campbell's Clinic Hospital. Messrs. Amos Stulfield, R. B. Beadles and Dr. L. L. Major accompanied him. The trip was made in three hours and 30 minutes.

TALKING PICTURES AT THE GRAND, TUESDAY, OCT. 30TH

STANLEY THRILLS CROWDS WITH ENTHUSIASM

Denounces Rev. Billy Sunday; Given Ovation

Speaking to an audience that packed to overflowing the City Hall here, former Senator A. O. Stanley Tuesday brought "tidings of good cheer" to the Democrats of Fulton and Fulton county. In his plea for the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith, as president of the United States, Senator Stanley bitterly denounced what he termed "the cowardly attacks of the bigot, who opposed him on account of his religion, the fanatic because of his stand on prohibition, and the snob because of the poverty of his youth."

Briefly relating the qualifications of the two candidates, the former senator said that notwithstanding Gov. Smith's having been "slum born," he had raised himself "unblemished and untarnished" to the highest honor that his party could bestow.

Pausing briefly to pay his respects to the Rev. Billy Sunday, who spoke in Paducah Monday afternoon, Senator Stanley said that "no clerical hiring of the Republican party" had a right to use God's livery to assassinate the character of honest men. "Mr. Sunday," he said, "refused to say more than Calvin Coolidge at Paducah, until he had been paid $300, cash in advance."

The multitude that packed the city hall here burst into a tremendous and prolonged applause when he said that he had been raised a Protestant, had learned Protestantism from his mother's knee, and if need be would lay down his life for the privilege of worshipping the God of his mother, and added that "and today, at this very hour, I am willing to lay down my life if necessary to accord Governor Alfred Smith that same privilege."

Judge Herbert Carr introduced the speaker.

The message delivered by Senator Stanley was received with open hearts filled with love and esteem for the man whom they had honored to the highest gifts in this great commonwealth.

"WIN THAT GIRL," AMUSING FOOTBALL COMEDY, COMING

Another delightful comedy, "Win That Girl," will open a two-day run at the Orpheum next Monday. Sue Carol and David Rollins have the leading romantic roles.

"Win That Girl" is a fast-moving story based upon a Saturday Evening Post tale by James Hopper. It has a football background and is said to be packed with action and chuckles.

John Stone, who adapted the story for Butler, has done some fine work for Fox, but is said to have eclipsed previous efforts in this production.

In the strong supporting cast are Tom Elliott, Roscoe Karns, Janet MacLeod, Sidney Bracey, Maxine Shelly and Betty Reeklaw.

GREAT OVATION GIVEN SMITH IN KENTUCKY

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 18. — "He came; he saw; he conquered!" This, in short, was the accomplishment of Governor Alfred E. Smith when he came to Louisville and Kentucky last week to address the Democracy of this State and the Nation on the subject of the tariff. In his address he gave his famous prescription for agricultural relief and charged that his views had been "wildly, maliciously and cold-bloodedly" misrepresented by Secretary Jardine. Likewise, Gov. Smith said, his views and that of the Democratic platform on the subject of immigration had been the basis for a widespread falsehood that he intended to "let the bars down." Nothing, he said, could be farther from the truth.

The ovation given the Democratic standard-bearer was the most spontaneous greeting ever extended to any public man by the City of Louisville. No less than 100,000 persons saw or heard the candidate at some time during the day. From the time he arrived at Louisville when he was greeted by a multitude until the time of his departure Sunday night his every appearance was greeted with the wildest acclaim. Men, women and children stood for hours outside the Seelbach hotel (it was all but impossible to get inside) in order to get a glimpse of the man whose personality and genius have made him one of the most outstanding figures of this political generation.

At the Jefferson County Armory where Governor Smith addressed a throng of 20,000 men and women the spectators denied standing room in the balcony, clung to rafters for the entire period of the address. Another 20,000 listened outside as the speech was broadcast by radio. Other thousands, unable to get within hearing distance, were turned away.

After Governor Smith's departure, U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley, state campaign chairman, said:

"The effect of the speech was unquestionably visible and its influence immense. The enthusiasm and the ovations with which he was greeted throughout the State all during his visit show that the people of Kentucky are sickened with the campaign of misrepresentation waged throughout the country by the Republican organization and that campaign has collapsed and the people everywhere are going to decide the campaign on issues and the man."

"Governor Smith took a dry subject Saturday night and a subject in which few are really interested, and so dramatized it and in such a way that every hearer understood it in a way gratifying to Governor Smith, and the Democrats of Kentucky."

Newspaper men who have accompanied Governor Smith at all of his other speaking appointments said the greeting in Kentucky was the most impressive they had witnessed anywhere. "We had been told," they said, "that there was some doubt about Kentucky. After what we have seen we will never be impressed again with any similar statement."

The Correspondents of the metropolitan dailies aboard the Governor's special train also gave it as their opinion that there is a decided trend to the Smith Bandwagon. They have never known a candidate to make such tremendous gains, they said, in the comparatively short period of two or three weeks. Virtually all of them predicted a record breaking vote in the presidential election and a majority of them said it was their belief that Governor Smith would benefit through the piling up of extra millions of votes by men and women who are not in the habit of participating in elections.

"The masses of our people," said one of these newspapermen, "recognize that Governor Smith is a real leader. They believe that he thinks straight and that he talks straight. They like his forthright honesty, his unswerving devotion to public trusts. He talks in their language and they understand him. And these things convince me that he is going to be the next President of the United States."

MANY FAVORITES APPEAR IN "THE LAST COMMAND"

The greatest motion picture favorites of America and Europe have been assembled for the cast of "The Last Command," the Paramount picture which comes to the Grand Theatre, Monday and Tuesday with Emil Jannings as the star.

Heading the European representation, is, of course, the star himself, Jannings, whose two American-made pictures, "The Way of All Flesh," and "Variety," have given in this country the same preeminence he enjoyed abroad.

Evelyn Brent, "the girl of mysteries," so-called because she has starred in more mystery and crook dramas than any other actress, is Jannings' leading woman, and with her in the American contingent is William Powell, arch-villain of the screen, who adds to his long line of sinister portrayals the part of a rabid revolutionist who provides menace in generous and convincing quantities.

Also in the cast is Nicholas Soussanin, the Russian actor, whose work as "the waiter who wept" was such a sensation in the Adolphe Menjou pictures, "Service for Ladies," and "A Gentleman of Paris."

POPULAR RAILROAD MAN KILLED IN YARDS AT BLUFORD, ILL.

Thursday night of last week, Harry Drewry, well known freight train conductor, of Fulton, was injured so badly in the yards at Bluford, Ill., that he died at a hospital in Mt. Vernon, Ill., early Friday morning. Just how the horrible accident happened no one has been able to say. He was found near the tracks with both legs severed and his head badly bruised. He was unconscious and died in the hospital without being able to tell of the tragedy. The remains were brought to Fulton and taken to Greenfield, Tenn., his old home town, for interment.

Harry Drewry was well known in railroad circles. He had been in the employ of the Illinois Central Railroad Company a number of years, and only recently removed to Fulton from Jackson, Tenn., with his wife to make their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Drewry occupied an apartment in the Snow bungalow on Third street and while they had only been in the city but four months, had made a number of warm friends who deeply sympathize with the surviving widow and bereaved ones.

MISS COSTELLO STARS IN DRAMA OF UNDERWORLD

"Tenderloin" Comes to Orpheum Next Mon. & Tues.

No more interesting announcement has been made lately than the one to the effect that Dolores Costello is to be seen at the Orpheum next week in her latest de luxe picture, "Tenderloin." There is probably no more alluring figure on the screen of shadows than the gorgeous Dolores, and for this reason everything that she elects to do is of importance to the vast movie public. The young woman's admirers have seen her in many roles, some romantic, some rippling with comedy, others gay with youth and buoyancy, and still others dramatic. In "Tenderloin," which is frankly melodrama, she has a role in which she runs the gamut of human emotions. It is a part full of opportunities and its great effectiveness lies in the ability of the talented actress to play with the emotions of her audiences.

The story unfolded in "Tenderloin" concerns a coterie of high class crooks. These fellows are not pikers or cheap skates in the world of gangdom. They go after big stakes with the knowledge that if they are apprehended they will "go up."

Smith Fights Way Through Thousands to Board His Train

Crowd At Kirkwood Station Attempts To Raise Him To Shoulders.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

A common man—Alfred E. Smith of New York—received the acclaim of tens of thousands in the streets and on the sidewalks of St. Louis Monday, ate a hurried snack at the Coronado Hotel, and after fighting his way through a crowd at Kirkwood Station, was off to campaign in out-state Missouri.

Echoes of the tumult and shout that greeted him in downtown St. Louis and East St. Louis, during a 20-mile parade, followed the Governor of New York, Democratic candidate for the presidency of the U. S., on the long jaunt from the Coronado to Kirkwood Station. Thousands of persons cheered the Governor and Mrs. Smith in University City, Clayton and finally Kirkwood. Dozens of bouquets of flowers were literally thrown at him.

Bob Buckner Victim of Death

The friends and relatives of Robert Buckner in Fulton were grieved to learn of his death which occurred in his home in Nashville, Monday. Mr. Buckner was formerly of Fulton and a popular salesman at the Franklin store. He married Miss Hattie Eddings, a sister of Mrs. Arch Huddleston. Mr. and Mrs. Buckner left Fulton a number of years ago. Besides his widow he is survived by five children.

The Latest Oakland All-American Six on Display Here

Completely new and original in appearance, with a host of advanced engineering features, the latest Oakland All-American six went on display here today, at the showroom of Pickle Terry Motor Sales Co.'s local Oakland and Pontiac dealer.

Smarter, roomier than a year ago, with bodies of distinctive design, and a chassis said to be the last word in mechanical refinement, the latest All-American model bears only a passing resemblance to its famous predecessor—the first All-American six brought out by the Oakland Motor Car Co. a year ago.

Briefly, the new line offers a bigger, faster, more powerful engine; new Oakland type internal expanding 4-wheel brakes; masterful body creations by Fisher; new Duco color combinations; higher cross-flow radiator with grill front; adjustable driver's seat; chrome plated lamps of new design; sturdy ten-spoke wheels; Lovejoy shock absorbers and spring covers as standard equipment; new steering gear; sturdier frame and a host of other improvements that are destined to make the car a distinguished addition to the aristocratic motor car family of America.

Many months have been spent in developing the car to a point where it offers everything that a discriminating public has learned to expect in the way of style and performance. Every detail has been subjected to exhaustive tests that the car might represent the crowning achievement of 22 years of successful automobile building by the Oakland Motor Car Co.

Into the perfection of power plant and body lines have gone the pooled resources of Oakland and General Motors engineers, General Motors Research Laboratories, General Motors Proving Ground, and craftsmen of Fisher Body organization. For months have been spent developing and proving every detail, change to bring the finished product up to the rigid standards called for on the specification charts.

Already a million miles have been piled up by test cars on the General Motors Proving Ground. Although brand new to the public, it is a thoroughly seasoned product with the equivalent of many years of owner service already to its credit.

7 passenger types comprise the line: sport roadster, sport phaeton, coupe, 2-door sedan and a new landaulet sedan and convertible cabriolet.

Artisans of the Fisher organization with Oakland engineers have achieved a new grace of body lines and a symmetry and proportion exclusive in the Oakland field. The new landaulet sedan, with its fabric covered rear quarter section which may be quickly raised or lowered, has an air of custom-built distinction.

The rear seats of all five passenger models are two inches wider this year to provide increased elbow room and to add to the comfort of passengers. This change has been effected without increasing the tread.

Closed bodies all have adjustable driver's seats, reveals around side windows set off by a narrow bead, single belt moulding starting at radiator and completely encircling the body, smart side cowl ventilators, new type military sun visors, and hardware designed exclusively for Oakland. On individual body types are walnut finished door panels, Axminster carpet in tonneau, embossed leather smoking sets, package space, luggage room in rear deck and many other popular features adding to the luxury of the interiors.

A new instrument panel finished in black imparts a dignified touch to the front interior. Instruments are individually mounted on the dash and directly illuminated by two soft shielded lights. On the dash are an 80-mile speedometer, gasoline gauge, oil gauge and ammeter mounted on a raised panel on the center of the board. On either side are the ignition lock and lighting switch button, and the choke and throttle control buttons. The windshield wiper control and light buttons are below the speedometer. All instrument dials are black with white figures.

A strikingly new outside appearance is provided by the head on view of the car. The chrome plated radiator has been raised so that the line from the base of the cowl to the new flat radiator cap appears practically level. The shell is high and narrow with an unbroken outside curve line.

A new grill, or radiator front louver effect, is of chevron design with a vertical chrome plated bar extending the full height of the front in the center of the grill.

The Oakland emblem has been redesigned this year in the form of a shield. Red, white and blue enameling bear out the All-American motif. The famous Oakland-pioneered cross flow radiator is retained with the cooling capacity increased.

Flanking the radiator are new full-crown fenders, larger and wider than a year ago, of seamless one piece design with a beaded edge and a 71 inch spread. Rear fender ends have been extended lower than the hub cap to assure increased protection and added beauty.

The newly fashioned hood has a chrome plated top hinge and vertical louvers in five groups of four each on either side to achieve a swagger air. Parking lamps are mounted on a chrome plated cowl bar.

Small diameter wood wheels are standard equipment of all models. Ten heavy spokes, eight-inch flanges and large hub caps stamped with the new Oakland shield offer a picture in line with current mode. Tire size remains at 29 by 5.50, oversize for Oakland weight.

A powerful new engine, offering flashing performance at every speed range, has been achieved by stepping up the cylinder displacement to 228 cubic inches as against 212 in the earlier model. This, in conjunction with other engine changes, results in a top speed of well over 70 miles an hour and quick acceleration of from 10 to 25 miles an hour in high gear in six seconds flat.

Increased displacement was brought about by enlarging the cylinder bore from 3 1/4 inches to 3 3/8 inches. The improved engine develops 68 brake horse power at 3,000 r.p.m.

A new and exclusive Oakland feature is the four-point rubber engine mounting adopted on this model. By means of special rubber "biscuits" which insulate the engine from the frame, there is no metal-to-metal contact, a feature which eliminates noise and engine vibration.

Other features contributing to better performance are permanent mould type semi-steel pistons combining lightness with long wear; an improved oiling system to assure better lubrication of cylinder walls, pistons and pins; larger carburetor and manifold; more rigidly supported transmission housing, and latest improved AC air cleaner consisting of a chamber filled with copper shavings dipped in oil.

Increased braking power with a minimum of pedal pressure is achieved by new Oakland designed brakes, of the mechanical 4-wheel type, self-energizing, with internal expanding shoes on all 4 wheels. Individual adjustments are located at each wheel, and equalization has been entirely eliminated. The brakes operate on large 12-inch drums and provide 290 square inches of braking surface. The parking brake on the transmission also has been redesigned for increased safety.

Teaching You Thrift

Practice makes perfect. Schoolmasters of today as well as yesterday constantly repeat that truth. Pupils learn by applying it.

Application of that principle to our everyday habits proves its practical help. We learn by practicing, whether it be a good habit or a bad habit.

This bank teaches you thrift by leading you to practice it. The lesson is easily learned once it is begun. To become perfect in it requires constant practice. A savings account is the most consistent method of practicing thrift.

High School Notes

The High School was very fortunate last Thursday in having with us, Misses Relma Reed, and Velma Golden and Mr. Clay McConnell, all of Chestnut Glade high school, who presented an unusual program at Chapel time. The program consisted of several vocal selections, both solos and duets and several piano numbers, and was thoroughly appreciated by the students.

Mr. Moss, superintendent of the South Fulton school, delivered one of the most inspiring addresses of the year on Monday morning. The subject of his address was "Get Your Bearings." Mr. Moss is a speaker of unusual force and personality and we wish to invite him back soon. Mr. Myers then made a short talk, expressing a desire that this year there be more visiting between the students and faculties of neighboring high schools.

The new gymnasium is nearing completion and is expected to be finished in about ten days. With this splendid new building we feel that Fulton High will have more school spirit and pep this year than ever before. This building is quite an addition to our campus and we feel justly proud of it.

The senior class of 1928 presented to the high school, two busts of our country's prominent men, one of Daniel Webster and one of Horace Mann. Wednesday morning in Chapel, Mr. Myers very interestingly told the story of the life of Mr. Mann, who did so much to foster the cause of public school in America, and who may be called the Father of public school education.

The Bulldogs leave Friday morning for Princeton where they will play against the Princeton high school in one of the closest games of the season. We feel sure the Bulldogs will do their best for Fulton High and have great hopes for victory.

HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The Homemakers' Club met Monday, October 15, 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. N. P. Roberts. On account of rain only a few were present, however, four new members were added: Mesdames John Knighton, Cecil Burnett, Elbert Bondurant and Eugene Bondurant signed enrollment cards.

Miss Jackson, home agent, and Mrs. E. A. Mayfield, of Cayce, gave an interesting lesson on selection and alternation of patterns.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Burnett, Friday, November 23, 2 p. m.

The Club was glad to welcome these new members and hope to have several more. Interest was expressed in the November project, when begins the study and making of the dress form.

MAN KILLED IN

GRAVEL SLIDE

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 20.—Lyman Boyd, 36, employee of the West Kentucky Oil Company, was killed at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon in a gravel slide on Highway 45 about mid-way between Wingo and Water Valley.

Boyd, with Will Waylot and a Negro, had hauled an oil tank from Water Valley to Mayfield. They went to the gravel pit, from which the gravel for Highway 45 was obtained to get a load of gravel to fill the hole in Wingo from which they had removed the tank. As they were leaving the wagon, the side of the pit caved in, throwing Boyd on his shovel and covering him above his hips. His companions, seeing that he was turning pale, went for water to revive him. When they returned he was dead.

J. T. WATKINS ATTENDS MEMPHIS FAIR

Wow, what a fair. I was fairly swept off my feet. Strange to say this is the first fair I ever attended where I didn't go to the poultry house the first thing. I went down with the Fulton bunch and was unloaded at the back gate, and of course the first place on the map was the dairy barn. I had read so much about the Brown Swiss cattle I wanted to give them a good once over, and believe me, they are some cattle. They look to me like they are the Rhode Island Reds of Cowdom. In other words they are the dual purpose cow—they are big bodied, give lots of milk and are good to look at. I was told they could stand a great deal of rough treatment and still be wonderful producers. There was one bull that was a magnificent animal, weighing 2,400 pounds, although a Holstein bull outweighed him 200 pounds, he looked as large.

There were also large strings of Guernseys, Jerseys, Holsens and Ayrshires, these are also beauties, and wonderful producers. I wish the county agent would organize some Ayrshire and Swiss Clubs in this county to go along with the Jerseys, give us a variety. You know variety is the spice of life.

I did not take in the sheep, hogs nor goats, so can't tell you anything about them. County displays certainly are up to date and way above par. The one that attracted my attention most was the Fulton, Kentucky display. I stood in front of this booth and figured out there is no reason anyone in Fulton county should go hungry. There was a sign which read, "Everything Grows in Fulton County," and dagdummed if I don't believe it, and after you have filled yourself on the good things to eat, you can top it off with a good pipe full of mighty good smoking tobacco. County Agent McPherson certainly had a good display booth and should be one of the winners.

Now—the Poultry Show. Oh, boy, 2,600 chickens, comprising 45 breeds, 129 waterfowl of 25 varieties, 21 varieties of bantams, with about ten turkeys, made up the 128 different exhibitors ranging from Minnesota to Louisiana, and from the Atlantic to the Rockies. The show is staged under the supervision of the Tri-States Poultry Association, which accounts for the large showing. It is a foregone conclusion that where a poultry association has charge of a show it is bound to be a big one.

One entry that attracted my attention was an entry of the old fashioned buff cochins, and I believe this is the first cochin exhibit I have seen in a show room for 25 years. There were also several of what is called the off breeds entered: Old English Dorkings, Sumatras, Houdans, Polish and Hamburgs were shown, and they were all of good type and shows they still have their backers. The Fulton Poultry was well represented by Mrs. D. J. Perry, Mrs. Ben Nannie, E. E. Travis, William Duncan and there may have been others, but I did not meet them.

WILL CAMPAIGN
ANOTHER WEEK

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22. — Failure of many county organizations to function properly and adverse weather conditions have made it necessary for the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children to continue for another week its statewide campaign to raise $100,000 so that the State Crippled Children's Commission can carry on its work, Julius G. Ellis, chairman of the drive, has announced. "In this final appeal to the citizens of Kentucky to help make this campaign a success, we want to reiterate the fact that hundreds of helpless boys and girls are dependent on this fund for alleviation of their sufferings," said Mr. Ellis. "At Madisonville recently 100 crippled children of whom we had no record, made their appearance at the clinic. They had heard that examinations of crippled children were to be held there and they hurried in from the surrounding counties to seek aid for themselves. All of them are anxious to get into hospitals and have their deformities corrected.

"We want every individual and organization of every creed and color to help us to put this drive over. A fine example of the spirit of workingmen was shown by members of the Armco Association of the American Rolling Mills at Ashland during the campaign. They subscribed $2,500 to the fund. Of course the big gifts are greatly appreciated, but we are also thankful for the small ones, too."

Mr. Ellis said the society's headquarters here is anxious to get a campaign report from county and district chairmen. So far reports have been lacking from many districts especially those on the proceeds obtained on Tag Day, he said. These reports should be sent in at once, he said.

In view of the fact that many citizens and organizations have not been solicited for subscriptions by campaign workers, Mr. Ellis said the society would be grateful if contributions of this character are mailed directly to headquarters in Louisville. If possible, he said, contributions should be sent by check, money and express orders and should be made out to the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children, 532 West Main Street, Louisville, Ky.

A determined effort is being made in Jefferson county to raise the quota of $40,000 there while the rest of the state is completing its quota of $60,000 during the final week of the campaign, Mr. Ellis declared.

Yo-Pe-Mis-So.

The Yo-Pe-Mis-So met Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at the church with Mrs. R. E. Pierce and Miss Mary Milner, hostesses. The meeting was called to order by the sponsor, Mrs. W. L. Joyner, and after a short business session was turned over to the leader for the afternoon, Miss Luella Wood, who gave an interesting talk on Christian Stewardship. She was ably assisted by Miss Lucille Greene, who read a little biblical questionnaire, and Miss Jane McAdams who told the story of The Golden Age in Egypt. The meeting was closed by the singing of a hymn and the Yo-Pe-Mis-So benediction. Hot tea and sandwiches were served to eleven members and three visitors.

Spring squeaks have been largely eliminated by the inclusion of fitted spring covers as standard equipment on all models. By the retention spring grease and the protection of springs from outside dirt and grit, the covers eliminate the necessity of oiling the leaves except at extremely long intervals.

Greater steering ease is achieved by an improved type steering gear incorporating the worm and half-nut principle. The new 18-inch steering wheel is of ebony finish with flat spokes and a small wood rim with convenient finger grips. Horn button and the cap on the shift lever also are black to harmonize with the instrument board.

The frame has been strengthened for increased ruggedness and safety. A heavy corrugated rear plate completely covers and protects the oval gas tank, which has been increased in size this year to 15 gallons.

Running boards are of all metal construction of new design, with distinctive rubber mats and aluminum moulding on all edges. Lovejoy shock absorbers are standard equipment.

Among other refinements of the chassis are an improved universal joint; larger muffler; and new fender tie rods, front license support and spare tire carrier.

Special sport equipment consisting of six wire wheels is available for all models. Spares are carried in front fender wells and are provided with tire locks and chrome plated hub caps bearing the Oakland emblem in colors.

The interior of all bodies is finished in pleasing harmony with the smart new exterior Duo combinations. Heavy mohair upholstery material in plain colors is used for the interior of all models except the new convertible coupe, where trimming is of leather. The form fitting cushions and backs are deep and luxurious.

The driver's seats on all closed bodies are quickly adjustable, forward or backward, by an easily operated control located at the side of the seat. A foot control conveniently opens or closes the smart side cowl ventilators.

All bodies are slightly wider also across the dash to make for increased comfort of passengers in the front compartment. The semi-coincidental transmission lock is retained this year, as it is the theft-proof door lock which will not yield to the application of a wrench to the door handle.

Production on the new line is going forward as fast as precision manufacturing methods will permit. Cars are being shipped to dealers with the upmost dispatch so that they may have on hand models for prompt delivery.

The striking new beauty of this latest All-American and the better stamina and performance built into the sturdier engine and improved chassis, lent substance to the confidence of Oakland officials that the car will prove the most successful Oakland brought out since the organization of the company more than 22 years ago.

HUMANITY

A New York State Supreme Court Justice was recently summoned unexpectedly by Governor Smith to the Executive Mansion. "There's a man in the death house awaiting execution," said the Governor. "No one has written a line in his behalf. No one has come to see me to plead for his life."

"That man must be mighty friendless, judge. You'd better look into the records and see if something ought to be done to save his life."

No President in American history, except Abraham Lincoln, has possessed Governor Smith's deep sense of humanity, his tender, spontaneous sympathy for even the lowliest of men.

When Brown Is a Bright Color

WHEN is brown a bright color? The answer to this conundrum is when brown appears in chocolate drinks and sauces. Most certainly! The face of every member of the family brightens when a chocolate drink or sauce appears upon the table. No dark looks greet it because chocolate flavor is an almost universal favorite.

If you have any doubts on this score, look into the next box of candy that you are fortunate enough to meet. Blondes, in candies, are distinctly not preferred either by the gentlemen who pay for the packages, or by the ladies who receive them.

Add to Your Repertoire

The following recipes will tell you how you can add to your chocolate repertoire by using chocolate malted milk. This comes in cans, and there are several excellent brands from which you may choose.

Chocolate Egg Nog: Make a paste of from three to four teaspoons of chocolate malted milk powder with cold water. Pour this into a cocktail shaker which contains one raw egg, one glass of milk, a little cracked ice, and a dash of nutmeg. Put the lid on the cocktail shaker and shake thoroughly. Serve at once. This is an excellent drink for invalids or undernourished children.

Frosted Chocolate: Make a paste of three teaspoons of chocolate malted milk powder with cold water. Pour into a cocktail shaker one glass of milk and one serving of ice cream. Pour the chocolate paste in last, put the lid on the shaker, and shake briskly until the drink is well blended and frothy. Pour into tall glasses and serve with individual drinking straws.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for October 23

PAUL'S LAST JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 20:1-21:17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Remember the words of the Lord Jesus how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells His Friends Good-by.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Pastor Does for Us.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul, Shepherd of the Churches.

I.—Paul's Visit to Greece and Miletus (20:1-10).

Two incidents marked this trip:

1. The Jews laid wait for him (vv. 1-5). This plot obliged him to retrace his steps through Macedonia instead of choosing a more rapid sea voyage.

2. Fellowshiping with the disciples at Troas (vv. 6-16). He met with them around the table of the Lord and spoke words of encouragement. While preaching here, Eutychus in a deep sleep fell from a window and was killed. Paul restored his life, thus giving to the disciples a sign of divine power which was greatly needed at that time.

II.—Paul's Farewell to the Ephesian Elders (20:17-35).

1. Review of his three years' ministry (vv. 18-21). (1) The spirit of his ministry (v. 19). He was humble, tender and faithful in spite of the many trials which befell him. (2) The faithfulness of his ministry (vv. 20-21). He made known unto them everything which was of profit, taught them both in public and in private. He neglected no class, Jews or Greeks. He was impartial in all his ministry. (3) The theme of his ministry (v. 21). Repentance and faith. Men and women need to repent of their sins and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.

2. The present state of things (vv. 22-27). Having reviewed his ministry he now points out clearly, (1) His immediate purpose was to go to Jerusalem (v. 22). (2) Bonds and afflictions were lying across his path (v. 23). Despite these he went forward with undaunted courage, knowing that God was leading him. (3) His fixed purpose (v. 24). He was determined to complete his ministry at whatever cost—even giving up his life. (4) His consciousness of obligation discharged (vv. 25-27). Knowing that they should see his face no more, he called them to record that he had not shunned to declare the whole counsel of God, therefore was free from the blood of all men.

3. His charge to the elders (vv. 28-35). (1) The ground of (v. 28). The flock for which they must care was purchased by the precious blood of Jesus and they had received their commission from the Lord. (2) The impending evils (vv. 29, 30). False teachers would arise from their own number. Grievous wolves would devour the flock. The most deadly foes of the church are those ministers and Sunday-school teachers who are unfaithful to their trust. (3) Incentive to faithfulness (vv. 31-35). His own example of watching night and day for three years is held up before them.

III. Paul Tarrying Seven Days at Tyre (21:1-6).

His destination was Jerusalem. He was pressing thitherward with all speed, but on account of the unbelonging of the ship he was obliged to wait at Tyre for seven days. During this delay he searched out the disciples who lived in that city. While here certain disciples said Paul should not go to Jerusalem. The information which these disciples received by the Spirit was doubtless the same as that given to Agabus (vv. 10, 11). Agabus told exactly what the Spirit said, which set right what the Tyrian disciples seemed to say. We should give heed to prophesying, but should give heed to their utterances. Let all who claim to speak with the Holy Spirit give the exact word so that they can be subjected to legitimate tests. The same Spirit which showed to these disciples the suffering awaited Paul, revealed unto him the same suffering and sent him forward into it.

IV. Paul Tarrying in Philip's House (vv. 7-14).

Resuming their journey they pause briefly at Ptolemais to greet the brethren there, after which they went to Caesarea. Here they took up their abode with Philip who had so successfully wrought in the early days of the church. His four daughters doubtless are mentioned to show that the Spirit's gifts are not confined to one sex.

V. Paul at Jerusalem (vv. 15-17). The brethren at Jerusalem, gladly received him and his companions. Paul's lodging place was with an old disciple.

Little Things

Little foxes that spoil the vineyards. Little compromises with the world. Disobedience to the still small voice in little things; little indulgences of the flesh to the neglect of duty; little strokes of policy; doing evil in little things that good may come; and the beauty and the fruitfulness of the vine are sacrificed.—J. Hudson Taylor

The "Zero" Hour

Shadows lengthen! The city's lights begin to glow. A call comes through from the load dispatcher's desk and the man at the generator control board knows that the "zero" hour is at hand.

Deftly, skilfully, he "floats" one generator after another—each a giant as strong as a million men—through increasing speeds until they come within 1/500 of a second of absolute synchronization with the generators carrying the day load.

Then the great switch is thrown. The strength of four million men goes "over the top"—over the wires to homes, to theatres, to transportation lines—in answer to the city's call for the electricity on which modern life depends.

As you make fuller use of the potentialities of electric service, that service is enabled to increase its usefulness not only to you, but to every department of our civic, social and business life.

GOVERNOR SMITH AND EDUCATION

A group of distinguished educators, headed by Professor John Dewey of Columbia University, said of Gov. Smith's record on public education:

"His whole attitude on education has been one of foresight and progress. Whether it was the extension and strengthening of the system of special classes for exceptional children or supporting the program for continuation schools, and schools for vocational training, or maintaining the standards of state training schools for teachers, he has always been ready to take his position with the most advanced thought on the subject."

He aided and developed by adequate appropriations public education.

Sponsored equal pay for equal work.

Developed Normal Schools for teachers' training. Increasing enrollment from 1,900 in 1919 to 7,783 in 1927.

Increased appropriation for public education from $8,000,000 to $86,347,855.

BIGOTRY

Herbert Hoover regards in silence the most malicious and un-American demonstration in our history: accepting apparently the support of the bigots, the fanatics, the ignorant and the hired slanders. What would Theodore Roosevelt have done?

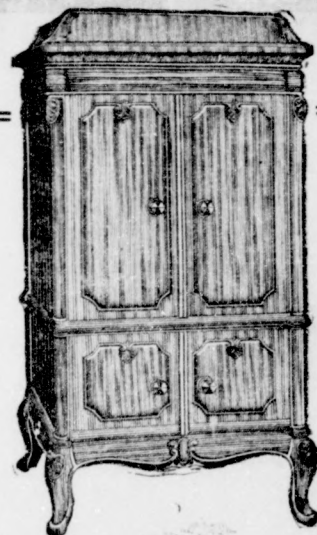

Writing to J. C. Martin of Dayton, Ohio, in 1908, Roosevelt, a Republican President, a true American, declared:

"You say the mass of voters will not support a man for office, especially for President of the United States, who is a Roman Catholic. I believe that when you say this you foully slander your countrymen. I do not for one moment believe that the mass of our fellow citizens, or any considerable number of our fellow citizens, can be influenced by such narrow bigotry."

CHAPTER XI

Gradually, since the drama in Madison Square Garden, the disaster in November to the party, and Smith's marvelous record in the same November and his nomination this year at Houston, the other forty-five states have settled down to make a closer estimate of the New York Governor. The hostile questions asked about him on the whole are two:

1. What would be the effect on his own administration, and thereafter, of having a Catholic in the White House?

2. Exactly what is his conception of the right way to handle the liquor evil?

No responsible person can be found in the whole state of New York who can charge that the Governor has favored Catholics. Plenty of Catholics, on the other hand, can be found who feel that he has not given them an even chance in his higher appointments. There is no doubt whatever that he has sought to bring his own administration into the highest state of efficiency by ignoring religion and racial differences, on the same ground that he has sought to ignore party differences in his appointments.

If his cabinet contains thirteen Protestants, one Jew, and two Catholics, it is not because he preferred to have it balanced that way. It is for the same reason that it contains a number of Republicans. It is because in every case he selected the person who, in his opinion, would best do the work.

Fortunately, this unworthy issue was brought to a sharp focus in the spring of 1927, when the ATLANTIC MONTHLY published an article in its March issue from a New York lawyer, Charles R. Marshall, who is a high church Episcopalian, much troubled about doctrinal matters, and often inclined to feel that he himself would go over to the Catholic Church if he were convinced on the matter of temporal power.

He contributed to the ATLANTIC an energetic demand that Smith make himself clear on temporal power, and he showed much learning, and quoted from many encyclicals. Smith had never heard of an encyclical. He had never heard of an encyclical. He had never heard of an encyclical.

As he had never paid any attention to the elaborate logic of the theologian, he had nothing but an instinct on that subject, and said so. On the abstract doctrinal points he confessed his complete ignorance, although he stated his instinctive disbelief that his church made any claims inconsistent with the duty of an American citizen. He invited a Catholic priest, Rev. Francis P. Duffy, with a very distinguished war record, to furnish an answer to this part of Marshall's attack, and then he summed up at the end with a personal statement of his own religious and political faith.

At the time the article was written, the most acute test in the mind of the public was Mexico. It was mentioned as a test by Marshall. The Socialist government of Mexico was in a sharp controversy with the Catholic Church. There had been atrocities, and these atrocities had been exploited in the American press. Various forces were urging President Coolidge to intervene in one manner or another.

Among those forces were persons who had economic and financial interests in Mexico. Others were merely pillars of society, who thought it nonsense to allow such goings-on. Others were American Catholics, who felt the church was being persecuted.

When, therefore, in his reply, Smith definitely took up the question of our right of intervention in the affairs of foreign countries, he took up the sharpest issue that at the moment existed. In doing so, he used language which committed him, with no attempt at evasion, not only on our relation to Mexico, but (in the opinion of those who were watching him closely) on the whole question of financial imperialism in the western hemisphere. He said:

"My personal attitude, wholly consistent with that of my Church, is that I believe in peace on earth, good will to men, and that no country has a right to interfere in the internal affairs of any other country. I recognize the right of no church to ask armed intervention by this country in the affairs of another, merely for the defense of the rights of a church. But I do recognize the propriety of Church action to request the good offices of this country to help the oppressed of any land, as those good offices have been so often used for the protection of Protestant missionaries in the Orient and the persecuted Jews of eastern Europe."

The last part of his ATLANTIC MONTHLY letter was as follows:

"I summarize my creed as an American Catholic. I believe in the worship of God according to the faith and practice of the Roman Catholic Church. I recognize no power in the institutions of my Church to interfere with the operations of the Constitution of the United States or the enforcement of the law of the land."

"I believe in absolute freedom of conscience for all men and in equality of all churches, all sects, and all beliefs before the law as a matter of right and not as a matter of favor."

"I believe in the absolute separation of Church and State and in the strict enforcement of the provisions of the Constitution that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

"I believe that no tribunal of any church has any power to make any decree of any force in the law of the land, other than to establish the status of its own communicant within its own church."

"I believe in the support of the public school as one of the cornerstones of American liberty."

"I believe in the right of every parent to choose whether his child shall be educated in the public school or in a religious school supported by those of his own faith."

"I believe in the principle of non-interference by this country in the internal affairs of other nations and that we should stand steadfastly against any such interference by whomsoever it may be urged."

"And I believe in the common brotherhood of man under the common fatherhood of God."

"In this spirit I join with fellow Americans of all creeds in a fervent prayer that never again in this land will any public servant be challenged because of his faith in which he has tried to walk humbly with his God."

Three-quarters of a century ago there raged a similar disease of religious intolerance. At this time, the Democratic party was nearer Jefferson

In every case he selected the person who in his opinion would best do the work regardless of religious or party differences.

than it is today. In its platform of 1856 it said of the Know Nothing Party, which was the anti-Catholic organization of the time: "A political crusade in the nineteenth century, and in the United States of America, against Catholics and foreign born, is neither justified by the past history nor the future prospects of the country, nor in unison with the spirit of toleration and enlightened freedom which peculiarly distinguishes the American system of popular government."

Smith himself, on the few occasions when he has felt compelled to mention this subject, has expressed himself with the same dignity and moderation shown in this article in the ATLANTIC MONTHLY. Speaking at Syracuse on October 24, 1924, he said:

"After my speech last night in Ithaca was concluded a fiery cross was seen burning on what is called West Hill. In the very center of education and culture, in a territory that harbors a great university of the State, the spirit of bigotry and intolerance appeared upon the horizon."

"Several weeks ago I read in the newspaper of a Klan christening, and the details show that the baby was held against the sheeted breast of a Klansman. A minister of the Klan pronounced the ritual. Here was a disciple of the Christ of love and peace breathing into the heart and soul of an infant child the spirit of hate and war, dedicating the infant to a hatred of millions of its fellow men, and doing it in the name of Christ."

"To my mind the whole movement is out of line with the spirit of our free institutions; it is so out of tune with the history and purposes of this country; it is so abhorrent to intelligent thinking Americans of all denominations, that it must in time fall to the ground of its own weight."

"The Catholics, the country can stand it, the Jews can stand it; our citizens born under foreign skies can stand it; the negro can stand it; but the United States of America cannot stand it; nor can they countenance a policy of silence in regard to it on the part of the man who has a special commission to speak for the heart and conscience of the American People."

That leaves us one more large and difficult question precipitated beyond the State and into the nation. If left entirely free, Smith would have paid less attention to the liquor question than he was forced to pay.

"The gulf between one element of the party and me," the Governor once said in conversation, "is that the radical dry element looks upon drink as a moral question. I look upon it as an economic question. It was solving itself. Now that the amendment has been passed the only practical way of improving the situation in this State would be for us to have the privilege of putting lighter drinks on our side in an attempt to destroy the habit of strong drink. If it were possible for us to permit light wine and beer it would be easier to concentrate against strong drinks. Probably, though not certainly, we could win the fight against them even in the State of New York under these conditions."

"If we did, a generation would grow up that either did not drink at all or took only the lighter drinks, and when that time came we could decide two questions: first, whether we cared to go on and abolish also the lighter drinks; second, whether such a step had become possible."

In his speech accepting the Presidential nomination Governor Smith said:

"The President of the United States has two constitutional duties with respect to prohibition. The first is embodied in his oath of office. It, with one hand on the Bible and the other hand reaching up to Heaven, I promise the people of this country that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, you may be sure that I shall live up to that oath to the last degree. I shall to the very limit execute the pledge of our platform to make an honest endeavor to enforce the 18th Amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

"The President does not make the laws. He does his best to execute them, whether he likes them or not. The corruption in enforcement activities which caused a former Republican Prohibition Administrator to state that three-fourths of the dry agents were political ward heelers named by politicians without regard to Civil Service laws and that prohibition is the 'new political pork barrel' I will ruthlessly stamp out. Such conditions can not and will not exist under any administration presided over by me."

"I believe in temperance. We have not achieved temperance under the present system. The mothers and fathers of young men and women throughout this land know the anxiety and worry which has been brought to them by their children's use of liquor in a way which was unknown before prohibition. I believe in reverence for law. Today disregard of the prohibition laws is insidiously sapping respect for all law. I raise, therefore, what I profoundly believe to be a great moral issue involving the righteousness of our national conduct and the protection of our children's morals."

"Certainly, no one foresaw when amendment was ratified the conditions which exist today of bootlegging, corruption and open violation of the law in all parts of the country. The people themselves should after this eight years of trial be permitted to say whether existing conditions should be rectified. I personally believe in an amendment in the 18th Amendment which would give to each individual State itself only after approval by a referendum popular vote of its people the right wholly within its borders to import, manufacture or cause to be manufactured and sell alcoholic beverages (light wines and beer), the sale to be made only by the State itself and not for consumption in any public place."

"There is no question here of the return of the saloon. When I stated that the saloon 'is and ought to be a defunct institution in this country' I meant it. I mean it today. I will never advocate nor approve any law which directly or indirectly permits the return of the saloon."

"Such a change would preserve for the dry states the benefit of a national law that would continue to make interstate shipment of intoxicating beverages a crime. It would preserve for the dry states Federal enforcement of prohibition within their own borders. It would permit to citizens of other states a carefully limited and controlled method of effectuating the popular will wholly within the old borders of those states without the old evil of the saloon."

"Such a method would re-establish respect for law and terminate the agitation which has injected discord into the ranks of the great political parties which should be standing for the accomplishment of fundamental programs for the nation. I may fairly say even to those who disagree with me that the solution I offer is one based upon the historic policy of the Democratic party, to assure to each State its complete right of local self-government. I believe it is a solution which would today be offered by Jefferson, or Jackson or Cleveland or Wilson, if those great leaders were with us."
