JUDGE CONSIDERS MAYOR'S ELIGIBILITY

Arguments were presented Tuesday before Judge L. L. Hindman the Fulton Circuit held here this week, in the case of J. E. Melton vs. C. N. Holland, county Court Clerk, in which the eligibility of Mayor Paul DeMyer was contested. Steve Wiley was the attorney in behalf of Paul DeMyer while Jess F. Nichols represented J. E. Melton. After Judge Hindman had heard arguments pro and con, he took the case under advisement to render a decision after due consideration of the legal points.

Mr. Melton, as citizen and taxpayer, filed suit against C. N. Holland to enjoin him from placing Paul DeMyer's name on the ballot as a candidate for mayor of the city of Fulton in the November election. It was contended that Mr. DeMyer was nominated at the Democratic primary in August, but was unqualified because he had not resided in the city of Fulton for at least six months prior to the election.

Steve Wiley contended that such action should have been taken before the primary, and alleged that Mayor DeMyer was not ineligible basing his argument on similar cases.

TRAINING UNITS AT FACTORY PROGRESS

A reporter for the News interviewed Mrs. Pete Greybill, supervisor of the Fulton Unit of the Henry I. Seigel Company, which is operating a factory at Dickson, Tenn., also, with general offices in New York City.

Much interest has been manifested in the new factory here by the citizens and merchants. Mrs. Greybill stated. Girls are being hired from time to time, just as fast as those now in the training unit on the first floor can be advanced to the main unit on the second floor. New machines have been installed on which those girls who have received their initial training will work. There are thirty-six machines to a unit, with a pressing table adjoining. Equipment for another unit is now on the floor, and will be installed just as soon as the have been ordered but have not accessories can be obtained, which arrived from the manufacturers. Four units are to be installed on the third floor of the new building.

At the present time approximately 100 persons are employed at the garment factory, with most of them women. Others are to be added as fast as classes can be advanced, and the sooner the better Mrs. Greybill stated, for orders are being delayed in shipment on account of insufficient competent help. Opening a new factory and training workers is at best a slow process, but every girl is given a distinct job, or portion of work, on each pair of trousers, which is the principal item of manufacture at the present.

The first floor of the factory is to be used as a stock room, while the second floor a long cutting table has been installed, which runs the entire length of the new annex of the building. The heating plant and the sprinkler system to be used in the case of fire are yet to be finished in installation, and the fire escapes are to be innovated from the upper floors. In order to complete this work, those owing balances on their subscriptions to the building fund are urged to make payment as this money is needed for the work.

Display Booth At Fair Of Interest

Those who took the time to inspect the exhibits in the WPA and NYA booth at the Fulton County Fair, are now more familiar with the activities of these organizations.

In the booth were numerous articles made by the women in their WPA program, and those made by youths in the NYA work.

During the past few years, thousands of women throughout the nation have received training in the arts of domestic science which will be helpful to them and their families. Not only has this training been helpful to those who have taken advantage of it, but it has aided them in finding themselves in a period of great national stress. Youths of the land have been occupied in suitable training that has been of definite value in building character, besides the completion of numerous projects that have been of benefit to the community.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT HICKMAN FRIDAY

Leon Choate, 32, former Wingo Resident, is being held in the Fulton County Jail at Hickman for shooting and wounding his father, J. Ernest Choate, former Wingo mail-order tobacco merchant and livestock dealer, at Hickman about three o'clock Friday afternoon. Sheriff John Thompson and his deputies at Hickman captured young Choate about seven o'clock that night near the Canning Factory at Hickman, where he fled after the shooting. He offered no resistance to arrest.

According to the story of the shooting affray told by Sheriff Thompson, young Choate went to the home of his grandfather, Sabe Choate, one mile east of Hickman about two o'clock Friday afternoon and said that he was hunting his father. As trouble was indicated, the grandfather and two uncles, Paul and Lila Choate, pleaded with young Choate to leave the house and not cause any trouble.

About three o'clock, after the father had returned to the house and young Choate had been gone about an hour, the son came through a garden near the house and levelled a gun at his father, who was standing in the yard. The first shot, grazed Choate's face and he fell to the ground. Two more shots were fired over him.

The wound was not regarded as serious, and Choate was given medical attention in Hickman Friday afternoon. County Judge Walker ordered the defendant held without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Bobby Matthews Must Retire From Ring

A message was received here this week by the editor of the News, that Bobby Matthews, well-known middle-weight fighter, must retire from the ring due to serious eye injuries. Matthews has been located at Rockford, Ill., training under Sammy Mandell, former welter-weight champion of the world, after having fought his way up to middle-weight champion of Kentucky and the South.

Matthews was popular while he was fighting in this section, and had a bright future ahead of him. In his numerous fights he suffered cuts over his eyes, which weakened those organs, and his retirement came upon the advice of physicians who believe that blindness would result if he continued his ring career.

Little's Store Fire Stopped Before Danger Increased

About 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night the Little Clothing Store was slightly damaged when a fire broke out due to a shortage in the wiring system between the ceiling and the upper floor.

It was first discovered by a member of the Elk's Club and was reported to the fire department which rushed to the scene and tore off the ceiling to extinguish a small blaze before it could spread. The shortage was probably caused by defective wiring connections at the rear of the building where the system had been renewed during the process of the construction of an addition to the building.

If the flame had not been discovered in such short time the result would no doubt have been much greater and would probably have consumed several business buildings on Lake Street.

The good old days in Fulton were those when on Sunday night a man carefully folded his clothes and carefully laid them in a bureau drawer where they remained for a whole week.

OUR WAR VETERANS IN FULTON VICINITY

After twenty years, America's veterans of the World War in their annual convention, returned last week to New York City, the port from which most of them embarked upon their great war experience, but as citizens, a fact made possible by the great gift of victory and peace they bestowed upon an always grateful nation.

Twenty years ago America turned millions of young men into soldiers and sent them to war on a foreign soil. When they returned home they were turned loose to shift for themselves as best they could. They were a bewildered lot, young men who just had two precious years plucked out of their lives.

They came home not to find the things as they had left them. Nothing can be the same after two years, especially if the two years have been spent at war. They took up the loose ends of their normal life and started making new places for themselves.

What have these veterans done in twenty years? Looking over the leading citizens of any community in America, one can find the answer. They are the doctors, the bankers, the lawyers. They are the artisans, the tradesmen, the workers—the best citizens of every town.

They play vital roles in the activity and enterprise of every community. In short, they are running many of the home towns in America. They are leaders in their communities, exerting great influence for good. But these American veterans brought home only hatred of militarism, hatred of war. They have organized, but only to keep America free and safe.

Fulton, too, has its veterans who have labored through the years along with other civic leaders, in building for the future. We have them in practically every walk of life—we have operating businesses of their own. But everyone is vitally interested in the welfare of their community, state and nation. They are a priceless asset.

KEEP WELL WITH CHIROPRACTIC

By Dr. A. C. WADE
HOW CHRONIC AILMENTS DEVELOP

Chronic disease generally requires years of wrong living for its incubation. It nearly always is preceded by a sequence of simple ailments which ought to restore our health, or give timely warning of health-destroying errors, if only we recognized their purpose and significance. Thus the simple cold prematurely stopped by medicines, fails to carry out nature's plan of thrusting out acid wastes through the mucous membranes of the throat and nose. As a natural consequence, a feverish cold. A bout of influenza, or an attack of bronchitis, or even pneumonia, may be nature's next attempt to normalize our systems. If we do not permit these to run their natural course; if, for instance, we do not allow fever the necessary time to burn up accumulated systemic wastes, or if we stop coughs before the bronchial tubes or lung tissues have been fully rid of pus or mucus, we may get that chronic lung inflammation which bears the awesome name of tuberculosis—How much simpler and safer it would be to work with NATURE instead of against HER. Do you take cold easily? Consult your Chiropractor.

by the Louisville District Office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, based on rural chain store and mail-order sales. Sales increased 8 per cent from July to August or less than the usual seasonal amount. Total sales for the first eight months of the year were about 11 1-2 per cent above those for the same period of 1936, there being the same number of working days in August for both years.

BOOKS AND PLAYTIME

Not all of the old-time schools are gone, but the few that remain are bordering on extinction. The same old buildings of thirty, forty, or fifty years ago be found, but the old-time teacher has died of old age, and few younger ones have arisen to fill vacant places. The maximum education of a rural teacher of a generation ago was hardly equivalent of a good eighth-grade diploma; theoretically, at least, no one can teach now as a beginner without two years of college. Since the old-fashioned school is decidedly a passing institution, I want in a few articles to recreate for the younger generation the school we in the forties, fifties and sixties knew and loved. Before I start, I must explain the title: "books" meant the time spent in the school room, presumably time spent in studying and reciting; "playtime" meant the morning and afternoon recesses and the long period at noon. If you will go back to the old one-room school with me, where there are children from five to twenty-five years of age in attendance, all under one teacher, I will first introduce you to books and then give you a long diversion in the form of playtime.

All schools had to be called to begin. The most primitive way, the one my mother remembered, was for the teacher to come to the schoolhouse door and call sonorously: "Come in to books," much as the officers used to do, and still do, call people to court. One such teacher used to rap on the wall of the schoolhouse with a stick as a signal that it was time to start. The way of calling books for most of us was to ring a hand bell; I still have the one I called my first school in with thirty years ago. It was a proud day in the lives of the children of our school, forty or more years ago, when a big bell was installed, a bell like those that summoned the farmers from the fields. We put it on a post by the side of the door and nailed it securely to the wall. This gave us a sort of a ladder to climb to the roof when we lost our ball playing any over. Nearly every child of the school district could hear the bell, for the schoolhouse was on a good-sized hill near the center of the district. It had only one other rival in the community, the bell on the union church on a neighboring hill, a bell that still sounds out in the neighborhood as a part of the county high school that succeeded the union church.

Now we are in the old school house. It was not a prepossessing place in looks. At one end was a platform where the teacher sat. Behind her and to the sides of her stage were the blackboards, ceiling planks painted black. Near the front was a large wood stove, with its mate at the rear of the room. Behind the doors at the end opposite the teacher's desk were the dinner buckets and baskets, with the water bucket half-way between. Equipment as we know it now was practically lacking. The crayon was usually provided, rather stingily, by the teacher. Sometimes we brought it from home. Erasers were chiefly made from sheepskins. As my father killed several sheep every year, I was always provided with erasers for myself and my best girls. If I remembered correctly, there were two rows of double seats and two rows of single seats in our schoolhouse. We were a bit naughty over the fact that those desks were store bought rather than home-made; some of the neighboring schools were not so fortunate. There may have been other supplies and bits of equipment, but I cannot remember anything to add to the rather bleak picture.

SILLO SIMPKINS SAYS

Civilization is threatened when the soil is robbed of its fertility.

The best "rest" a farmer can give his land is to make it "work" growing legumes.

Time spent selecting seed corn from stalks in the field is worth ten dollars per day, say crop experts.

Year in and year out, few features of the farm enterprise will yield a larger margin of profit than a flock of good sheep on many farms.

Good feed and plenty of fresh water is necessary to produce the best hogs. "You can't starve a profit into any animal."

Agriculture is the backbone of the nation made up of three vertebrae—a fertile soil, an active brain, and an active body.

The longer you put off terracing, the deeper the gullies, the poorer the soil, the lower the yields, the cheaper the land will become and the harder it will be to build up again.

Entering a farm silo while it is being filled, or shortly after, is dangerous because of the possible existence of carbon monoxide, a suffocating gas generated during the fermentation of ensilage.

year must depend on to a greater extent than in previous years to provide grass and legume seed

The seed crops harvested this needed for the 1938 crop year, due to small carry-over and increased demand for legumes, grasses and green maturing crops.

The commodity credit corporation will 1937 cotton producers 9 cents per pound on cotton classing 7-8 inch middling of better. Growers who cooperate in the 1938 soil program will be paid the difference between selling price and 12 cents per pound.

Maybe its because he's made of dust that some Fulton women object to having their husbands hanging around the house.

It seems to be the rule that the more insistently the telephone rings the less important the call.

A woman can't tell when she begins to seem old to others because people are too polite to tell her.

Every Fulton girl should remember that there are just so many kisses in a case of love and the more she gets before marriage the fewer there are left after marriage.

It quite often happens that flaming youth often cooks its own goose.

The ordinary pins, so commonly used today, were once so expensive that only the wealthy people could afford them. The term "pin-money" dates from the time referring to the allowance a husband gave his wife to purchase pins.

The highest and lowest places in the United States are both in California and only eighty miles apart. Mt. Whitney is 14,496 feet above sea level; Death Valley is 276 below sea level.

It has been estimated in a day the average farmer walks twenty-six miles, a letter carrier twenty-two, policeman fourteen, boys, fifteen, girls eleven and a half, and housewives eight.

A frown demands a greater expenditure of energy than a smile, fifty muscles being brought into action when frowning, while only thirteen are required for a smile.

Indianapolis is the largest city in the world not located on navigable water.

If all the land in the United States were to be equally divided, there would be between sixteen and seventeen acres for each inhabitant.

The word "news" originates from the letters that stand for the four directions of the compass, North, East, West, and South.

The average height of men in America is five feet and eight inches, and of women, five feet and four inches.

Approximately three hundred words make up seventy-five per cent of all the words used in ordinary speech and writing.

It would take more than nineteen hundred years to spend one billion dollars at the rate of one dollar per minute.

The word "cleave" has directly opposite meanings. It means to adhere closely, and also means to cut apart.

The average curvature of the earth is two inches per mile.

GETTING THEIR SHARE

With our national income having risen to $62,000,000,000 last year, an increase of about 40 per cent over the dark days of 1932 and 1933, it ought to be of interest to everyone around Fulton to note that the workers of the nation are getting their share of these mounting billions.

Anilizing figures issued recently by the Department of Commerce it may be said that labor's share of our national income last year amounted to $41,250,000,000, or about 66 1-2 per cent of the total, compared to less than 60 per cent in 1932. These figures answer rather effectively the charges made by certain malcontents that industry is engaged in piling up huge profits for itself without passing on to the workers a fair share of the mounting wealth. The facts in the matter are that labor is now receiving a larger share of our national income than at any time since the boom year of 1929.

The wide distribution of this increasing national income among the workers in factories, mines, stores, utilities and farms means additional buying power to the millions, and this in turn makes for better business all round. We are adding to our national income by increasing wealth, not merely attempting to divide what we have. And we are bolstering our purchasing power by seeing to it that this new wealth finds proper distribution among those who create it. That way lies national prosperity—the thing that America has been praying for.

THE CONUTY FAIR

The county fair has staged a comeback. Reports covering every section of the county are to the effect that not only have hundreds of defunct institutions of this kind been revived but those that have continued to operate have actually shown nice profits this year.

If you would know the American people as they really are, visit a county fair. No fancy clothes will you see, but rather the serviceable, comfortable styles to which America clings. You will learn that it is still possible in this modern age for folks to enjoy themselves by inspecting the harvests of the fields, the products of the homes and the inventive genius of the nation as displayed in the labor-saving devices and agricultural machinery. You will find as much interest shown in horses, hogs, cattle and chickens as you will in streamlined trains dirigibles or many cy-lindrical autos. You will overhear men and women talking about the weather conditions and coming and going of their neighbors, instead of fan-dancers, finger nail polish or movie star divorces.

Other American institutions may come and go but the county fair remains. It does so because it fills a need and meets a want in American life as it exists outside the large cities. The county fair is not only an educational set-up, it is a social oasis for those in whose lives the green spots are infrequent. The county fair has established itself as a fixed part of our American life. It will remain such just as long as it affords a cheerful holiday to those who anticipate its pleasures for months in advance, as many millions of people now do, a majority of Fulton citizens among them.

CAUGHT SHORT

The statement that the American people are faced with a "railway crisis" is not mere rhetoric. It is an ominously evident fact.

With the expectancy of a heavy increase in passenger and freight business during 1937, the I. C. C. shaved railroad freight rates 4.6 per cent. The boom did not materialize, but rising operating costs did. Prices of railway equipment, material and fuel have increased about 12 per cent within the last year, adding $125,000,000 annually to railway costs. In addition, 1937 wage increases thus far to the non-train service employees (the lower paid workmen) amount to approximately $98,000,000 annually. If the present demand of railroad train service employees (the highest paid railroad labor in the world) for 20 per cent wage increase is successful, it will mean another annual expenditure of $116,000,000. Finally, the bill now in Congress, and which has Senate approval, would limit the length of freight trains to 70 cars, and add still another $150,000,000 to annual railroad operating expenses.

Faced with falling revenues on one hand and rapidly rising costs on the other, the American railroads will suffer from impaired transportation service, if something is not done immediately to balance income and expenses. Not only must the railroads be able to avoid the rates to earn reasonable return on property investment, over and above necessary operating expenses.

It is not as if the railroads are ever allowed to accumulate reserves with which to meet the next depression, it should be now, when business is above depression levels.

Picked Up About Town

Willie Homra says the old-fashioned man who had a good head for figures now has a grandson who has a good eye for them.

"Maybe what's wrong with this generation," says Herman Sams "is that too many parents' slippers are being worn out on the dancing floor."

It used to be that they would outfit to wmm m m m m mmm sit out the evening and gas on the steps but this day in time they spend the evening stepping on the gas.

As Harry Reeves has figured out the secret of success in writing is to show the right key on the typeset in time," declares Harris Russell, "girls who wear cotton stockings are either over-confident or just don't give a darn."

Nowadays when a woman's skirt reaches the ankle the general belief is that it's falling off.

"Straw shows which way the wind blows," says Victor Cavender, "and knees show when the wind blows."

Clarence Pickering says times have changed a lot. In the old days a woman's first object was to find a man. Now it's the only one.

"It has been my observation," asserts Gene DeMyer, "that when a woman goes up in the air she usually lands on her husband."

Maybe a Fulton man would also spend an entire afternoon buying a hat if he merely wanted other men to see it.

Would you call the fellow who writes obituaries for monuments a monumental liar?

In early days an Indian painted his face and set out to win a squaw, but nowadays it's the other way round.

They say that everything that goes up must come down but citizens who pay taxes have their doubts about that.

Fortune only knocks once, but Misfortune isn't so particular. She just walks right in and sits down.

As a general rule, little remains to be said when the Ladies Aid adjourns.

Middle age is that period in a Fulton man's life when he would enjoy having a good time if it wasn't so hard getting over it.

FULTON COUNTY HEALTH DEPT.

Saturday, September 25th, the Health Department was notified that a two-year-old child in Madrid Bend was seriously ill with diphtheria.

The Health Officer and a Public Health Nurse visited the home and found that forty persons had come in contact with the sick child. Fortunately most of the contacts had previously been protected from diphtheria by receiving an injection of diphtheria toxoid.

The parents of the sick child stated that she had not been away from home during the past three or four weeks and it was impossible to determine the source of the infection.

As a precaution each contact with the case was given an injection of diphtheria toxin-antitoxin to secure temporary immunity from the disease, since due to close contact with the patient, the toxoid may not have conferred sufficient immunity in all of these persons. Thanks to the promptness of the family physician in reporting this case to the Health Department was able to take immediate steps to quarantine the persons involved and give them added protection of diphtheria toxin-antitoxin. As a result, what threatened to be a major epidemic of diphtheria will probably be controlled without further spread.

Two cases of scarlet fever have been reported in Hickman during the past week. An attempt has been made to isolate all known contacts with these cases. One patient became ill at school and a close watch is being kept to find any new cases that might develop. It is considered inadvisable to close a school under such circumstances since the children in attendance have already been exposed and in school they can be kept under close observation.

"BULLDOG DRUMMOND COMES BACK" SUNDAY AT ORPHEUM

The fortunate gent in the center of this galaxy of beauty is William Frawley, one of the comedians responsible for the laughs in the Bing Crosby comedy, "Double or Nothing" opening Saturday night 11:15 P. M. at the new Malco-Fulton theatre and running through Sunday and Monday. Martha Raye, Andy Devine and a list of famous vaudeville and radio entertainers assist while the girls surrounding Frawley supply beauty and melody.

The public is urged to cooperate with the Health Department in keeping children who are known contacts at home until released by the Health Department. The laws and rules of the Kentucky State Board of Health regulating these cases are based on long and extensive experience. In refusing to comply with such regulations parents are likely to cause the spread of contagious diseases to the children of friends and neighbors. Any parent who persists in sending children to school who are ill or who are contacts with one of these diseases may be responsible for the death of one or more children if they contract the disease as a result of their indifference or carelessness.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

Like most everybody else in Fulton, I have been watching the progress being made at the new factory. So I dropped in there this week to see what was going on. A news story on the front page will set these facts out. But I want to point out here a fact that, to train girls to operate the machines it takes a lot of patience and time. And in order to build up a competent corps of workers it takes many months of training. This process is now going on, and sufficient help must be trained before the factory can swing into full operation.

But I would like to point out the importance of hiring local girls for the jobs. The committee which worked on the plans for construction of the building has not tried to dictate the policies of hiring help, but naturally it is important that people residing in this community be hired. The purpose of the factory was to provide work for women and girls in this vicinity who wanted to work, and I am sure the management of the factory can appreciate the interest of local citizens and merchants in this matter. So the more persons hired who reside in Fulton and immediate territory the better pleased the entire community will be.

Merchants of Fulton are interested in a trade drive, and plans are being made toward that end. The great problem seems to be to get everybody together on an idea and carry it out.

My attention has been called by numerous business firms to the dirty and unsightly condition of the downtown streets and alleys. Trash, garbage, loose paper and other foreign matter gathers on the streets, which mar the attractiveness of our city. Authorities in charge of this department should do something.

I am a great lover of sports. And football is one of my favorites. But I was unpleasantly impressed by the lack of sportsmanship in the Paducah and Fulton game last Friday. I mean by that, that it was no match at all. It was like watching a bantam weight fighter against a heavyweight. The two teams by rights should never play together, for Paducah always has the advantage in recent years, because of that city's ability to draft more and better players. It seems to me that true sportsmanship comes by properly matching a contest. It is all right to lose, but I see no reason to place a team on the spot by putting them entirely out of their class.

PHELPS REUNION

The Phelps Reunion was celebrated at Wesley Church Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Phelps of Detroit. Those present were, Mrs. J. J. Phelps, Judge and Mrs. E. J. Bennett of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hornsby of Hickman, Mrs. R. L. Bushart and daughter, Mary Swann Bushart, of Fulton, Mrs. Cora Ringo of Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Randall McAlister, Mrs. Auzie B. Phelps and son, David, Mrs. Nora Byrn, Mr. and Mrs.

Emmett McAlister and daughter, Regina, Mr. and Mrs. Byron McAlister and children, Durard, Joseph Forest, Jettie, Glenda Sue and John Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Backman and daughter, Celia, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pharis and children, Davis Lee, Joe Boris and Dale, Mrs. Katie Pharis and daughter, Helen, Billie Wright, Mrs. Jewell England and daughter, Shirley Jane, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bostick and children, Bernard, Carl and Dorothy, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Howell. After lunch boxes were emptied and put away, all went to the auditorium and sang a number of old-time songs with Miss Mary Swann Bushart and Mrs. E. J. Bennett as pianists and two solos were rendered by Mrs. Ray Pharis which were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

I. C. Adds New Passenger Service

A dream of many years, the establishment of through sleeping car service between New York City and New Orleans via Louisville and Memphis, will be made a reality Sunday, September 26, by the Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio Railroads. The through sleeping car will be handled on the Baltimore & Ohio's crack train, The Diplomat, and the Illinois Central's Panama Limited and The Creole.

In addition to the terminal cities, this new service will connect the important centers of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis and Jackson, Miss. It will provide Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Columbus, Detroit, and Dayton with connecting service to and from the South and West.

Increased travel has made the improvement possible in time to prove highly popular with winter vacationists. Travellers via this route will leave New York City at 2:55 p. m., arriving at New Orleans at 9:20 the second day. Departure from New Orleans will be at 8:30 p. m., with arrival in New York at 4:50 p. m. the second day.

daily through car service over this. The new plan provides double route, as an extra car-to-car change enroute between Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio trains will be available.

Effective the same day additional through sleeping car service will be established between Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans, thus affording double daily service also between these important cities.
