THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1897.

The farmers of Davies, the home of Tom Pettitt, and one of the Populist districts of the state, are holding their corn for 40 cents a bushel, and here's hoping they will get it.

Populist Jo Parker says that the rise of wheat and the fall of silver is due to the operation of the law of supply and demand. Evidently Jo thinks that free silver as an issue is no longer "up."

The manner in which Bryan and his pet theory of free silver is being figured by many of the county Democratic conventions is indeed startling. Upon what is Shackelford going to make his race?

Let the campaign begin. We are anxious to see what the silver Democrats are going to talk about. They will have to hatch up a first interesting topic to get the farmers away from their harvest fields.

The Populists are hard up for speakers when they import Congressman Howard, of Alabama, to aid the campaign. Howard's chief and only claim to notoriety is his blasphemous book, "If Christ Came to Congress."

In Kansas the country banks are keeping open until 9 o'clock at night in order to give the farmers a chance to deposit their money, and 1000 gold dollars at that. Bryan could not scare up an audience in that state now.

It is said that Amarraga, the newly appointed Premier of Spain, is satisfied with General Weyler's campaign in Cuba, and will retain him in his present position. If this be true, the United States ought to hesitate no longer, but some effective measures should be taken to end a war that has become a disgrace to civilization.

It may be necessary in a year or two to define the word "plutocrat" when it is used—that is, to say whether it meant agricultural plutocrat or manufacturing plutocrat. Five hundred million bushels of wheat and 10,000,000 bales of cotton at the prevailing prices, with all the enormous amount that the farmers of this country will get for their other crops, is likely to build up a plutocratic agricultural class. Our Populist friends should bear this in mind.

One of the first fruits of the new tariff is the establishment of a beet sugar factory at Chillicothe, Ohio. The factory will cost $300,000 and will be erected in time to handle next year's crop of sugar beets. Contracts have been made with the farmers to purchase all their beets at four dollars per ton, providing three thousand acres are sowed. It is said that beets can be grown at that price at a net profit of fifteen dollars per acre.

It is urged occasionally by the Democratic press that free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 is obsolete as an issue, and that it should not be injected into the coming campaign. Such may be the case, but the sound money people do not propose to take any chances. Kentucky has been the hot bed of free silverism and populism and it is proposed by the sound money forces to administer to those two issues such a crushing defeat, that there will not be enough left of them even to talk about after the election. Good times are here and no disturbing element is wanted.

The stickers seem to be determined to turn public opinion against them. It is to be hoped for the sake of their cause, that the outrages reported yesterday from the Pittsburg district were not the work of the miners. The public has no sympathy with lawless violence in any form or in behalf of any cause. The great struggle between labor and capital must be settled by peaceful means. The presence of such notorious agitators as Debs does the strikers no good. His record is too well-known and the public has no confidence in him whatever. The attempt of Ratchford, the President of the United Mine Workers and the leader in the present strike, to secure a general strike is the most unwise movement that has yet been made in the whole two months since the strike was inaugurated. The idea of tying up the railroads at this time, when millions of bushels of grain are rushing to market, the bare suggestion of such an act, with all its attendant loss to farmers and merchants, is enough in itself to disgust every thinking man with such men as Ratchford and Debs and the other leaders of the strike.

No Cause for Alarm.

The fears that the United States Government will lose something in its silver holdings on account of the drop in that metal are baseless. All the silver bullion which was obtained under the Sherman law will ultimately be converted into coin under the existing ratio. Much of it has been transformed into Bland dollars in the past four years. All these pieces, as well as the fractional coin, can easily be kept at the 100c line, even though the metal in the dollar drops to 20c or 2c. The strength of the government's gold fund, the extent of its credit and the demand in business channels for the limited quantity of the coin now in existence will insure its maintenance at its face value.

FIFTEEN CENTS A DAY

Working Under Silver Rule.

Louisville Times.
Mr. Henry F. Embury, of the firm of Tatum, Embury & Co., owns a ranch of 53,000 acres in Mexico, situated about 150 miles from Vera Cruz. Two hundred and fifty men are employed there and they receive fifteen cents a day in American money, a striking example of Mexico's career under silver rule. Up to last January $1 minted by the United States was worth two of the dollars minted by Mexico. The decline in silver has depreciated the money to such an extent that for $100 worth of New York exchange Mr. Embury gets $300 Mexican dollars. The men are paid fifty cents a day in Mexican money, and on this ratio the Mexican laborer only gets fifteen cents per day in American money.

The General Strike Project.

The present is an excellent time for the labor leaders to display some of their present wares. All the indications show that the country is about to enter on a period of industrial activity and prosperity such as has not been seen since 1879 and the two following years. If this promise is borne out the advance in wages which the labor societies desire, and which they ought to have, will come without a strike. A general labor disturbance, however, would delay prosperity, and consequently destroy all chances for the wage advance, and even endanger, for a time, the chances for retaining the present wages. Caution, conservatism and foresight will be in urgent demand in the St. Louis conference. If these qualities are lacking that gathering may do great injury to the country and incalculable harm to the labor cause. Wild threats of insurrections and incendiary attacks on the courts are things which the St. Louis meeting should scrupulously avoid.

The State Campaign.

The Republicans never had a better chance to carry Kentucky than now. They stand for the policy of sound money and protection, which has brought prosperity to the country, and such personal dissensions as have appeared among them in the past are giving way to a loyal and patriotic purpose to help along the policy and principles best for the country. Their adversaries are divided. The sound money Democrats who opposed the destructive fallacies of the Chicago platform of their party are in the field with a candidate, and will be reinforced by many who were led to support Bryan on the plea of regularity. The free silver Democracy which adhered to Bryan and the Chicago platform have their candidate, but the stars in their courses are working against them. Their free silver policy, being spoiled by the logic of fact, and their bids for anarchistic and communistic forces are losing effect in the returning prosperity of the country. The Populists in Kentucky and everywhere are making an independent fight and separating themselves from the Bryan cause, and have their own candidate to fight for.

Way to Deal With Anarchists.

Spain has set an object lesson to her sister states in dealing with the anarchist problem. She put to death the murderer of her Premier just twelve days after the crime was committed. With admirable good sense the assassin was deprived of the glorification so dear to the heart of such cowards. He suffered an ignominious death, in private, and if he raised his voice for anarchy, his brothers will search the newspapers in vain for his words. This is because the government, profiting by observation of criminals of his stripe, forbade the dissemination by telegraph of descriptions of the execution. The result has been that the life of the viper was squeezed out and the world knew little more than that he was dead. There is now no opportunity for these enemies in society to add his name to the same they have already canonized in barrooms. They have no material to work with. It is not even known whether he met death with equality or mounted the chair with craven step. The moral advantage of this system is too apparent for further comment. When criminals, or men on the verge of becoming criminals, learn that the dramatic scenes in court, with themselves as the heroes; the newspaper interviews and pictures, and visits of hysterical women, and the long march to the scaffold, and all the trappings that have hitherto attended the trials of felons—when all these are taken from them—great hope to the assassin will have been removed.

America may well pattern after Spain in this matter. In the desire to give a full and free hearing to every one, the courts of this country have sometimes gone to extremes. That foul wretch Durrant still suirks in prison, and sells to sentimental misses his photograph, secure in the hope that still one more loophole in California's battered wall of justice will save him from the halter. Prendergast posed and ranted in the courtroom like a barn-storming Macbeth, and no way was found to suppress him, while Spies and Parsons succeeded in impressing many well-meaning persons with the conviction that they were martyrs.

That perverted vanity that nerves the Gutierrez of the world to foul deeds demands this courtroom egotism and newspaper notoriety. Take it away and send the felon to his death like a sheep to the shambles, or a mad cur to the dungheap for execution, and much of the charm which incites the assassins of public men will vanish.

This holds equally true whether such deeds are conceived in sheer sin and diabolism, or as distinguished alienists believe in the case of Prendergast and Gutierrez, are the offspring of that mental disease which in plain English may be called "notoriously insane."

NOT IN IT

Is What Joe Parker Says of Sam Shackelford.

Parker Has a Clear Idea Why Silver Goes Down.

The "Courier-Journal" of the 25th inst. contains the following:
Mr. J. A. Parker, the Populist nominee for clerk of the court of appeals, returned to Louisville yesterday afternoon, after campaigning in the second and third Congressional districts. Mr. Parker is sanguine of polling a big vote at the November election. He ridiculed the boubastie claim of Shackelford, the silverite nominee, who pretends to believe that he will poll more votes than Bryan received last year. This week Mr. Parker will speak in Oldham county. Congressman M. W. Howard, of Alabama, the author of the book entitled "If Christ Came to Congress," will arrive next week to speak in behalf of Mr. Parker.

"I made the assertion last fall," said the Populist leader, "that Bryan could do well to carry the state with the aid of the Populist vote. He got practically all of it and yet lost the state by 281 votes. How does the silverite nominee, Shackelford, expect to carry the state this year without it? He can't do it. His claim that he will get more votes than Bryan got last year is preposterous. The total vote will be much smaller this year when there is but one small office to be filled. The Republican vote will be less, too, because many sound money Democrats are giving away to McKinley, but the silverite vote is bound to show even a greater falling off."

"I was much disappointed to hear that Bailey, the Republican nominee, refused to debate with me unless the other candidates consented to join. Of course, Shackelford won't debate with anyone. Mr. Bates, the chairman of our State Central Committee, asked for a division of time with 'Rockefeller' two weeks ago, but has never received a reply. My letter to him asking if it was true that a deal was made in the Frankfort convention whereby Mr. Gus Richardson was to be his chief deputy in return for the support of Richardson's friends, has met with the same fate. No answer has been received. I am sure, though, that such a deal was made, and say so in my speeches."

Mr. Parker was asked how he accounted for the rise in the price of wheat and the fall in silver. He replied: "I was asked by an Edmonson county farmer the other day to explain that. I just told him that the supply of wheat was below the demand and so wheat went up. The supply of silver exceeded the demand and silver went down. That's all there is to it."

A TIE VOTE.

In the Mayfield's Marshal's Race.

—Another Primary.
The Democratic executive committee met last night to investigate the primary of last Saturday. The race between W. H. Draffen and C. H. McNutt, for chief of police, was found to be a tie, each receiving 212 votes. An error was discovered in the Third ward, which made the result as above. A new primary (for this office alone) was ordered for Friday, Sept. 3, to be by secret ballot, as before. Both candidates will submit to the decision of the committee and be in the contest Sept. 3.—Mayfield Monitor.

The third of the big $800 window frames for the new Broadway M. E. church was delivered at the building, corner of Broadway and Seventh this morning. It is for the west side of the structure.

OWENSBORO'S NEW POSTMASTER.

Van Rannasler Will Doubtless be Recommended by Senator Deboe.

A special to the Louisville "Times" under date of Aug. 25 says: It now seems pretty certain that the object of Senator Deboe's visit to Owensboro was to provide himself with certain facts preliminary to asking the immediate appointment of Fred Van Rannasler as postmaster here. Franks has recommended Van Rannasler, and his appointment is but a question of time.

THE CITY

Does Not Own the Street Property.

Hence the Ordinance for Improvement Will Not Be Drawn.

A petition was filed with the city council at the last meeting asking that Eleventh street be repaired to Trimble, from Harrison.

An ordinance was ordered drawn providing for the improvement of the street, but City Engineer Wilcox has discovered that the city does not own the street, and the property will have to be purchased or condemned before the council can order it improved.

HARDIN NOTES.

UNDER THE WHEELS.

Narrow Escape of a Steamboat Rouster.

Passengers Thought He Had Been Killed and Turned Their Heads.

A rouster on the towboat Iron Age, which laid up here last night on account of low water, had a narrow escape from death at the Union depot this morning under the 2 o'clock "cannon-ball" train. The rouster attempted to jump on the train before it had stopped backing, and fell under the wheels. He was jerked out by another rouster just in time to prevent his being crushed to death. Several people on the platform witnessed the incident, and turned their heads, thinking the man would be killed under the wheels before he could be rescued.

SAYS HE IS DONE.

Dr. Hunter Announces His Intention of Retiring From Politics.

Denies That He Is Campaigning to Succeed Senator Lindsay—Herd Not in His Employ.

Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter will probably retire permanently from politics, says the Louisville Times. He made this important announcement yesterday in discussing the reported employment by him of A. T. Herd, late deputy marshal, in his interest for United States senator to succeed Senator Lindsay. A morning paper stated that Herd was now traveling over the state in the interest of Dr. Hunter, and that the young man was booming the doctor's candidacy for senator.

"I wish you would say for me," said Dr. Hunter to a "Times" reporter, "that Mr. Herd is not in my employ and was never my private secretary as stated. I am not a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Lindsay, and am not now in politics at all. Unless my mind changes I am done with politics forever, for I have been treated very shabbily."

"The only time Mr. Herd was ever employed by me was in getting up some evidence for me in my contest with Mr. Rhea, but to say that he was or is my confidential agent is a mistake. I am in Louisville strictly on private business. I have not been in consultation with any one about politics, and have not been near the Republican headquarters. I hope the newspapers will let up on me, as I am in private life, and not a subject for discussion."

Is What the Ben Boyd Assault Case Was.

The Two Drivers Scrapped Over Their Respective Rights.—Both Fined.

The principal case in Judge Sanders' court today was the malicious assault case against Ben Boyd, the colored driver, charged with attempting to kill, S. F. The evidence showed that when Boyd attempted to drive past Buchanan at the freight depot, the latter struck Boyd's mule because the animal ran into his mare. Boyd then struck him with his whip lash.

THEY COMPROMISED.

Ballard County Man Has His Goods Seized.

G. W. Buckman came to the city from Ballard county yesterday afternoon. He had his household goods and live stock with him, and intended to go to Wichita, Kansas to locate.

The Paducah Banking Co., learned of his presence in the city, however, and attached his goods, which were seized at the freight depot. When the attachment was served the arrival was at the depot awaiting the arrival of the train. The attachment was on a note for $500.

This morning a compromise was effected by the defendant leaving enough of his property to satisfy the plaintiff.

PADUCAH MAN.

Elected to a Prominent Office in the K. & L. of H.

Mr. C. W. Morrison, of the city, who is in Louisville attending the Grand Lodge K. and L. of H., was yesterday elected Grand Guardian of the order. The "Times" says:

MYSTERIOUS BLOW.

"Stella," an inmate of Pearl Wilson's, was struck and knocked off the porch at the latter's establishment last night by an unseen hand. She was picked up unconscious and carried into the house, but was not badly injured. The porch is about six feet high, and she claims she does not know who struck her. There is no doubt about her being struck by some one.
