FULTON, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1937.

NUMBER THIRTY-NINE

LIONS HELD DISTRICT MEETING IN FULTON

The Fulton Lions Club was a host Friday night to a group of visiting Lions from Mayfield, Hickman, Paducah and Clinton. The meeting was held at the Rainbow Room in honor of the new District Governor Sam Sloan of Paducah. Dr. J. L. Jones, president of the Fulton club, acted as toastmaster for the occasion, introducing presidents of various visiting clubs.

District Governor Sloan was the principal speaker of the evening, who reviewed a nine-point program to be carried out during his term of office, including: Adoption of a budget system; increased membership; delegates to all Lions conventions; payment of International dues; monthly reports from clubs; installation of five new clubs.

Roy Evans, president of the Mayfield club, and Henry Alexander of the Clinton club, made brief talks. Deputy District Governor Warren Graham was introduced. T. M. Franklin, Dr. Seldon Cohn, and James Warren were guests of the local club.

A fine program of entertainment was carried out. Two Fulton girls Misses Dorothy Ann Pearce and Ruth Knighton gave tap dance performances. Lions Evans and Jones of Mayfield gave a duet, "The Old Gray Mare," with the assembly joining in the chorus. The John Polk Quartet of Paducah gave several renditions.

To The Point

Dropped in at the Coca-Cola plant this week, and Mr. Sanford showed me the new bottling machine, which is modern and up-to-the-minute in style and operation. Starting the bottles through the washer, they come out clean, to the machine which fills them with a refreshing drink. The bottle is not touched by human hands until it is filled, capped and ready for the case.

Down at the Little Clothing Store, W. M. Hill & Sons, local contractors, have built a new addition at the rear, and installed a new front.

Got a letter today from C. W. Fowler of Los Angeles. I am always glad to hear from him, because he always tells me something interesting about the Golden Gate, like The News keeps him informed about Fulton and vicinity.

And another surprise came by mail today—a complimentary dinner invitation to the New S. S. Tango, the world's largest pleasure ship, anchored off Long Beach, Cal. This is the play boat of the Pacific. I am told that it is a gambling casino, located beyond the three mile limit, thus escaping taxation. Last year it was robbed of many thousands of dollars. Needless to say, dinner on this expensive pleasure boat has been known to cost many thousands of dollars.

Dust, dust everywhere. In the homes, and in the business places on East State Line. Something should be done about the continuous fog of dust that rises from this street. People living along it should get behind a movement to have it oiled or something. This dust is not only a bother, but unhealthy.

K. P. Dalton, members of the police and fire departments, were busy this week, getting the parking zones marked off in the downtown business district. Now, everybody park right.

Fall is here again, and nothing has been done about the cleaning of Harris Fork Creek. With it filled up with tin cans, car fenders, rubbish and bermuda grass, the heavy fall rains should have an easy time running through the downtown streets of Fulton.

Merchants of Fulton are taking deeper interest in their window displays. Many improvements have been made in windows and interior of stores, but there are still a lot of store fronts here that could stand modernizing. An attractive store pulls more customers, as long as been accepted as a true saying.

This Is National P. T. A. Week

Although nothing is planned in Fulton in observance of National P. T. A. Week, the local organizations go quietly about their work in interest of the schools and the children who attend them. There are two P. T. A. organizations in Fulton, Mrs. E. R. Bell is president of the East Fulton division, and Mrs. K. R. Lowe president of the West Fulton unit.

Among other plans being pushed by the P. T. A. here is that being fostered by the West Fulton association to place at least 100 more books in the school library. Parents and teachers are urged to co-operate with the P. T. A. in their efforts.

FULTON TO DECORATE DURING YULE SEASON

Preliminary plans were made this week by the committee, composed of A. G. Baldrige, Bert Newhouse, Tom Goldsmith and Abe Thompson, for decorating the downtown section of Fulton during the approaching Yule season. An entirely new method of decoration will be adopted this year, if plans can be carried out.

On each side of the principal downtown business thoroughfares, streamers of vari-colored lights will be strung. Each whiteway post will be decorated with holly, cedar and evergreen to take on the appearance of Christmas trees, if plans of the committee can be carried out. It is hoped that much of the holiday materials for decorations can be saved after being used this year, and again be installed in future years.

An effort will be made to offer prizes for the best decorated stores, and a Christmas parade is planned.

FULTON COUNTY TO GET REA SERVICE

Through the leadership of their Farm Bureau heads the farmers of Fulton and Hickman Counties have secured the approval of $100,000 appropriation for the purpose of bringing electric power and lighting to their homes. This will be the first REA project to bring TVA power across the line into Kentucky.

A temporary committee composed of Roscoe Stone, Chairman; J. B. McGehee Secretary, and T. E. Wilkerson of Fulton; E. C. Whayne and Grover Wyatt, of Clinton has been appointed to assist in the preliminary organization of the local co-operative association. Within a few days an attorney and engineer for this project will be approved by the Washington Office, and they will direct the work of forming a permanent organization for the administration of the project, and get the construction under way.

Members of the local committee were in conference with J. E. Van Hoose, Field Director for the REA and Mr. Penstone, attorney for the REA while in Louisville last Saturday, and were told by Mr. Van Hoose that the field office was ready to start work as soon as the local organization is set up.

When the Farm Bureau made its preliminary survey to sound the farmers out in regard to getting this rural electric power, 895 individuals were listed who indicated their willingness to join a co-operative organization and use the electric power. Two hundred and twelve miles of lines were included in the proposed mains and branches necessary to carry the current to the farm homelists.

The local committee expressed the belief that the organization would be completed within a few weeks after the engineer and attorney are named and that the construction of the lines will be started without delay.

Central City Beats Bulldogs Here 13 To 6

Playing the first home game here Saturday, the Fulton high school Bulldogs, lost to Central City 13 to 6. The Bulldogs had a bad break in the first quarter of the game, when the ball was fumbled. Central City immediately worked a forward pass which resulted in the first touchdown. The extra point was added in a line play. Fulton scored in the second quarter. A spectacular play brought the score, as Parker passed to Edwards for 15 yards, and he switched the ball to Nanney in a lateral pass, and Nanney dashed 22 yards for the touchdown. A try for the extra point failed.

After Fulton had outplayed them in the third quarter, threatening to score several times, the Central City squad scored the final touchdown in the last quarter as Captain Duncan ran 38 yards to put the game on ice.

Demand For Blue Grass Farms Continues Keen

Although construction permits in Louisville during September were slightly down as compared with the same month of 1936, new building of business and home structures continues with apparently little let-up all over the trading area of the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. A feature of its reports for the past week is the strong demand continuing for good Blue Grass farms in that section of Kentucky.

The general trend of retail trade during the first week of October did not vary, to any appreciable extent, from the course followed during September, according to reports to the Department from 36 key cities. The tendency was toward better results than were scored at the same time last year, but the margin of increase was narrow. The whole situation might be summed up briefly with the statement that progress continued, although at a slower tempo than had been counted on. It was to be noted in the reports that wherever weather conditions favored fall shopping, there was a fairly brisk volume of trade. Wholesale apparel markets were rather spotty, but in other lines, shipments continued high. Here, however, as in retail, the flow of business, while in good volume, was not showing the advances over a year ago that were evident in earlier months of the year. It was apparent that the stock market situation was proving more and more of a retarding influence and was fostering a hesitant tone in many lines. The New York report pointed out that lack of strong support in the stock market was having its repercussions on all branches of trade.

The Louisville office reported retail sales continued 15 to 20 per cent above same time year ago, despite unseasonably warm weather. Radios, refrigerators, hardware and home furnishings led demand. Although flood periods is included, first eight months of this year show 10 per cent gain over same period 1936. With drygoods in strong demand wholesale trade averaged 25 per cent above last year.

National and State Employment Service reported 4,614 placements since the money is coming out of those who listen in to the week year ago.

Rains have greatly benefited late potatoes and early sown grain. Factory and machine shop schedules in Louisville higher than August and about 20 per cent above this time year ago.

Liquor, tobacco and other Federal taxes increased $1,977,579 in September over same month 1936. Two state banks at Edmonton, Metcalfe county, Ky., effect consolidation with $50,000 capitalization.

Former bank building at Richmond, Ky., sold by receiver for $14,500.

Paducah to have new Methodist church at cost of $20,000. $10,000 annex to church at Elizabethtown, Ky., completed.

Building boom at Bardstown, Ky., featured by construction of four grain elevators, two truck garages, two store houses and numerous residences.

Contract let for overpass on Southern railroad at Williamstown, Ky., to cost $130,000.

Owensboro, Ky., announces plans for new $150,000 hospital.

Contract for new $200,000 hospital let at Frankfort, Ky. $227,847 value of new buildings erected in Ashland, Ky., so far this year.

R. J. Reynolds Company, building three new tobacco warehouses in Louisville.

Work resumed at shipyard and dock company at Jeffersonville, Ind.

125-barrel oil well drilled in McLean county, Ky.

Traffic on Kentucky river showing keen revival, many barges loaded with coal or railroad ties, consigned to creosoting plants, coming down from mountains.

Loss of $3,000 occasioned by burning of cheese factory at Elizabethtown, Ky., and $5,500 in destruction of barn on prominent Fayette county horse breeding farm.

Doctors say breathing through the mouth is harmful. Quite a few people around Fulton have also found out that talking through it also results seriously sometimes.

Smart young men should seek government jobs since it is becoming the most popular method of escaping income taxes.

Adversity Strengthens American Farmers

Today agricultural marketing co-operation is accepted and highly regarded phase of agricultural life. Yet the farm cooperative movement had a long, hard row to hoe before it reached its present high state of development.

As late as 1917, officials of farmers' cooperatives in many states were indicted for conspiracy in restraint of trade, and it was necessary for the Dairyman's League Association of New York to petition the legislature for laws making it legal for farmers to organize co-operatives. Not until 1922 was a Federal Law legalizing cooperatives passed. And only this year the state of New York has passed a law which in effect, eliminates political dominance of agriculture and gives farm organizations greater opportunity for service to members and the consuming public.

The difficulties attendant on the growth of the cooperatives probably did the movement a great service. In the face of obstacles, farmers had to stick together, they were to get results—and so farm marketing cooperatives were strengthened.

"THE NEWS" WEEKLY SCRAPBOOK

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

STUFFING FOR GREEN PEPPERS—Chop a small onion and cook in one tablespoon of fat until yellow. Remove from stove, add one and one-half cups of ground cooked meat, one-third cup dry bread crumbs, one egg, slightly beaten, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons chopped parsley, and tomato juice to moisten. Fill par-boiled peppers with this mixture, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a 375 degree oven for 30 minutes.

A BEAUTY HINT

The small, light summer freckle clears away with the summer's passing. Large, dark, disfiguring freckles are slower to go, and some just won't go. Lemon juice is often used to make public. Maybe it will speed the removal of stronger ointments and bleaches. Be very careful with freckle cream. Your best protection is the complete reliability of the manufacturer.

FOR THE KITCHEN

Any leftover bits of chicken meat or vegetables can be added to scrambled eggs and served for supper. Stale cake can be freshened by dipping into cold milk for an instant and rebaking slowly. To freshen celery, place it in water containing a little baking soda.

THE FLOWER GROWER

Leaves, strawy manure or other safe litter may be used for winter protection to perennial beds. Light fertilization in the fall is helpful to plants, but plants are always in better state to absorb fertilizer in the spring. If the upper leaves of your dahlia plants are wilted, look for borers.

1938 CONSERVATION PROGRAM IS SET

The 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program will be based on the attainment of national, state county and farm "goals" for soil depleting crops, and for soil-building crops and practices, as a part of the effort to restore soil fertility and stabilize agricultural production, states Secretary Henry A. Wallace.

Central Region and elsewhere in the country, and was finally put into shape at a conference of farmer committeemen and others with Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials and Secretary Wallace in Washington September 14 and 15. This conference was attended by C. E. Brehm, Knoxville, Director of Extension; F. W. Colby, Nashville, State Executive Officer, and J. H. Shoulders, Gallatin, chairman of the State Agricultural Conservation committee.

While aims and objectives of the program are much the same as last year, the term "Goals" will be used in connection with acreages of crops and practices under the 1938 program.

"The Goals" for soil depleting crops are the acreage which would usually be required to meet national needs for consumption and exports of such crops. The soil-building goals will include the crops and practices which will help in restoring and maintaining the soil resources of the nation.

Farm Goals to be Set

The national goal, in each case will be broken down to state, county and individual farm goals for soil conserving crops and practices. In general, the classification of crops is about the same as 1937.

As in past farm programs, establishment of goals and other administrative work will be carried out through state, county, and community committees of farmers.

National goals for soil depleting crops under the 1938 program are: cotton, 29 to 31 million acres; corn, 92 to 96 million acres; flue-cured tobacco, 840,000 to 880,000 acres; Burley tobacco, 480,000 to 500,000 acres; fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco, 170,000 to 185,000 acres; cigar leaf tobacco, 88,000 to 93,000 acres; peanuts, 1,500,000 to 1,600,000 acres; potatoes (if voted by a producers' referendum), 3,100,000 to 3,300,000 acres; all other soil-depleting crops, 135 to 155 million acres; a total of 275 to 295 million acres of all soil depleting crops.

Under the previous program separate rates were established for diversion from soil-depleting to soil-conserving crops and for the carrying out of each soil-building practice. Under this plan a producer calculated his payment at the end of the crop year by applying these separate rates to each acre diverted and to each practice performed. In 1938, however, the maximum payment for each producer will be calculated at the beginning of the crop year and the attainment of the soil-depleting and soil-building goals will be set as conditions of full payment. Each producer will know what to do on his farm for complete cooperation. This change should result in a greater degree of compliance and in consequence make the program more effective.

How Program Will Work

It was made plain that the 1938 program is dependent upon appropriations by Congress and possible future legislation. From the standpoint of the farmer, the program would work about as follows:

The County Agricultural Conservation Committee, composed of farmers, would establish for the farm a total soil-depleting goal, where applicable, a separate goal for cotton, tobacco, peanuts, or for commercial potatoes; and a soil-building goal.

In setting the soil-depleting goals, the committee will consider the acreage of such crops usually grown, acreage of food and feed crops needed for home use, good soil management, tillable acreage on the farm, type of soil, topography, production facilities, and crop rotations.

The maximum payment for the farm will be computed by applying the specified rates to the acreages in the soil-depleting goals, and to the soil conserving acreages.

It is expected that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration would make phosphate and lime available in lieu of payments in areas where this is practicable.

Small farms of the subsistence type would have goals for soil-depleting crops established at the farm's usual acreages of such crops which are needed primarily for food and feed on the farm.

The payments for performance will be divided among the producers on the farm on the same general basis as the proceeds of the crops are divided.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Peach Tapioca—Soak one cup of tapioca in cold water and drain. Peel one dozen peaches and cut them in halves. Cook with a little sugar for 100 minutes and take them out of the syrup. Add to syrup 1-4 cup of powdered sugar, pinch of salt; add 1 cup boiling water to tapioca and cook until clear. Line a mold with peaches, pour in tapioca and bake for 1-2 hour. Let cool and serve with whipped cream.

FOR THE CANNER

Windfall apples make delicious apple sauce. If put in jars while boiling hot and sealed air-tight, sauce will keep all winter. Most housewives are careful in canning fruits and vegetables, but occasionally a faulty sealer may cause the food to spoil. If canned fruit or meat looks suspicious, if the ends of the tin bulge or the liquid is cloudy looking, do not use it. It may contain bacteria.

GOOD TO KNOW

To pack a summer coat away lay it on a flat surface with the outside up. Fold the sleeves back at the elbows and draw them straight down at the sides. Turn the fronts back over the sleeves and then take up the coat at the armholes and fold it wringside out lengthwise. Lay the coat out on the trunk flat.

KITCHEN KINKS

Cake should be cold before boiling icing is put on. Uncooked icing may be spread on either a slightly warm or cold cake. To remove the odor of fish from a frying pan fill the pan with water, add a little vinegar and let the water come to a boil. It will not be necessary to grease the griddle, if when making griddle cakes two tablespoons of shortening is added to the batter.

Longer Staple Adds To Cotton Income

One thirty-second of an inch is hardly discernable to the eye, but just that much added to the average staple length of cotton should mean in excess of $8,000,000 more in the pockets of growers in one year.

No accurate record of cotton quality was kept in this country before 1928, reports the United States Department of Agriculture. From 1928 to 1933 the average increase in staple length amounted to about one thirty-second of an inch. It is estimated that the increase in staple length of one thirty-second of an inch added more than $8,000,000 to the value of the 1934 cotton crop.

THE SCHOOL FLAG

Starting this fall, school teachers in Georgia who do not display the Stars and stripes a this school each day they are in session will not be paid the salaries recently voted them under a new system of state school support. The state board of education has ruled to that effect, though it ought not to have been necessary. School teachers in every state in the union should have enough love and respect for their country to want to display its flag before the future citizens whose minds are entrusted to their training. There is room for one flag in this country despite the fact that a radical element scattered in all parts of it are constantly trying to hoist a substitute. The school houses of this country are the foundation upon which the future American citizenship rests. For that reason alone the American flag should have a place within the walls or above the roof of every one of them.

A RADIO PROBE

While the country has managed to get along fairly well for the past few years without a spectacular congressional probe it does not appear at this time that it is to escape one very much longer. The demand of certain members of congress that the affairs of the big broadcasting corporations be investigated, and the spotlight turned upon them, will probably bear fruit at the next session.

The claim that there is a monopoly of the air, with the radio business in control of two broadcasting companies, isn't news to anyone. Everyone who owns a radio or who listens in knows that. Even if these corporations are waxing rich, they are not interested, since the money is coming out of those who listen in to them. The average radio owner around Fulton feels that he is getting mighty fine entertainment over the air waves free of cost—and that it is about the only thing he is getting for nothing. In almost every other country there is a tax on radio sets. Americans have so far escaped that, though the time isn't far off when revenue seeking politicians will see that it, too, is included in the long list of taxable articles.

Since almost every American home boasts a radio, the probe expected to be launched in a short time will be watched with nationwide interest. Just what good it can accomplish, however, remains a mystery. But as the average radio owner views it, the probe is unnecessary. He feels that he is getting something for nothing now but that if congress takes a hand there is certain to be a tax slapped on somewhere and he will, as usual, be the one who will have to pay it.

IT WON'T WORK

Motorists around Fulton will learn with more than the usual interest that after a trial in several states of "no speed limit" on the highways, the experiment has proved a failure. Michigan, one of the first of the few states that let down the bars and permitted drivers to use their own judgement on the open road, raises their hands in horror at a 15 percent increase in fatalities over last year, and is planning to return to former speed limits. The motorist it seems, cannot be relied upon to stick to a safe and sane speed; it requires a law, strictly enforced, to make him do so.

With the death toll in America so far this year the highest in history, it is obvious that something must be done, and done quickly, to make highways safer. With almost 1,000 killed on Labor Day alone the necessity for fixing laws at a lower rate of speed is apparent. However, at the same time that new speed laws, and laws with teeth in them, are being enacted, some attention should also be given those drivers who idle along the highway at the rate of 15 or 20 miles an hour. Hundreds of accidents occur when drivers turn out to pass those slow-moving machines, for as a rule they are not hugging their side of the road. The need for regulating the slow-poke is as great as the need for regulating the speeder.

This year's death toll is getting to be a ghastly one when the figures are made public. Maybe it will speed the enactment of some sort of legislation that will make human life a little safer in America.

IT WON'T BE LONG

Old King Winter is headed this way, and it won't be long now until he'll be camping on your front doorstep. With him he will bring the long nights when time is apt to drag along and hang heavily on the hands of those who have not learned the value of the radio and the home-town paper. Nothing has been invented that helps the ordinary family to put in its winter evenings more pleasantly. The radio you already have, but if the home-town paper has been overlooked, right now is a good time to see that its regular visits are started. There is no need to lose touch with the outside world so long as you have a radio, and no need of being in ignorance of what is going on here in your own neighborhood if you have a home-town paper. There is a combination unbeatable, and the best investment you can make if you want to make this a short winter, and an agreeable one.

WORTH TEACHING

The fact that there are no regular courses in the public schools of Fulton and surrounding territory covering the conservation of and natural resources does not mean that it is not worth teaching. No better instruction can be given by any teacher than the simple methods of protecting trees, birds and small animals of the neighborhood in which his or her school is located. A few moments now and then devoted to the value of planting trees and protecting those now growing, will serve to impress the youthful mind with the value and importance of conservation. The same is true regarding our outdoor life. Children may be destructive by nature, but leading them into new paths is an easy matter. Tell them, so their childish minds can understand why this country must conserve its natural resources such as timber fish and game, and they will grasp the meaning and carry it with them through to maturity. The teacher who realizes the value of such instruction is more to the community he serves than the one who never mentions the subject simply because it does not happen to be a part of the regular school course.

A PROUD RECORD

It is a proud record that American railroads have set in the past few years. Although the number of accidents have increased slightly this year over last, only two passengers were killed during the six months ending June 1. When it is considered that passengers on railroad trains in the U. S. now travel nearly 19,000,000,000 miles each year, that is a remarkable record. Most Fulton citizens can recall when it was almost impossible to up a daily paper that did not tell of some terrible railroad accident. Now it is unusual to read of one, so few have they become. The railroads have achieved this new record by the use of protective equipment—and by insisting upon carefulness and sobriety of their employees. There is no drunk or reckless driving of passenger trains. As a result only 18 people were killed in railroad accidents during the entire year of 1935, and this year will find even fewer fatalities. It is a great record, and one that the American railroads are justified in taking pride in.

SILLO SIMPKINS SAYS

Few Tennessee farmers ever lost money on sheep.

The first consideration of the farm should be a good home.

One advantage of a scrub cow is that it doesn't take long to milk her.

Lumber, posts and firewood make proper woodland management a profitable enterprise.

Spinach and mustard may still be planted for winter use. They are highly successful and have exceptional food value.

Damp or wet cotton should be allowed to dry before picking, or else it is advisable at least to sundry the morning dew-ladened pickings.

Gardners having tomatoes, egg plant and peppers containing many green fruits should be prepared to give them emergency protection when the frost comes.

Farmland often seems as stable as the rock of Gibraltar. Yet, within the memory of men now living in Tennessee land has been cleared, tilled, ruined by erosion, and abandoned.

The 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program will be based upon the attainment of national, state, and county farm "goals" for soil-depleting crops, and far soil-building crops and practices, as a part of the effort to restore soil fertility and stabilize agricultural production.

Picked Up About Town

Gyp McDade says falling in love seems free, but its only nature's way of making you get a job and amounting to something.

"It's hard to understand," declares Clarence Stephenson, "why the U. S. Navy should be expected to protect Americans in places where they have no business being."

Most sick people would call the doctor before nightfall but they don't get scared before dark.

"The pen may be mightier than the sword," asserts Gus Bard, "but the weapon that still rules the world is the tongue."

J. T. Powell says another funny thing is how cute a baby can show off ten minutes after the company has departed.

Blessed are the kicked-around. Their feelings are hurt every time somebody is impolite to them.

"We all hate quarrelsome people," says Joe Kanow, "It's much easier to live with those who give in to avoid a row."

Charles Terry says still another trouble with the country nowadays is that the hand that rocks the cradle often gets cigarette ashes in the baby's eyes.

As J. C. Wiggins sees it, the meanest man in the world is the one who has it in his power to give someone a chance to grow and succeed, and refuses to give it.

Walter Ferguson says if you will weave your car like a drunken driver the fellow coming toward you will be pretty apt to give you your side of the road.

When Japs in China say they don't want war, it sounds funny. But our ancestors didn't want trouble with the Indians either.

Guy Duley says a lot of young folks these days don't know where they are going apparently haven't the time to stop and inquire.

A girl who would like to be seen in something that nobody else wears might try a pair of cotton stockings.

As Ernest Fall sees it, the only man who makes a cleanup in Wall Street and gets away with it is a janitor.

"A raise," asserts H. L. Hardy, "is the increase in pay you get just before going into debt a little deeper."

IF YOUR PRODUCT IS SOLD NATIONALLY

IT CAN BE SOLD IN THIS COMMUNITY

Come on! Let's do the town!

Across the street from that filling station (selling a national brand of gas) is a big food market. Shelf after shelf of national brands—cereals, canned goods, specialties, biscuits, coffee, tea, California oranges, Florida grapefruit—everything!

Next door an auto sales-room displays a popular make of car. Up the block, across from a movie, a hardware merchant shows a window of radios and refrigerators—all national makes. A tobacco shop sells nationally advertised cigarettes, drug stores sell national drugs, beauty shops recommend national-known cosmetics.

A thriving, busy, nationally-minded community of people who are well dressed, prosperous—eager to buy. They know values—products. Why? They read their local community newspaper and heed the advertisements listed in its columns.

If your product is sold nationally it can be sold in this community. And the best way to sell it is to advertise it in this local community newspaper reaching a majority of the substantial families, reaching them consistently, week-after-week, in their homes.

Books and Playtime

Arithmetic gives us a chance to shine in practical ways. In fact, the old-time school was gauged almost wholly on the three R's. The slate and the blackboard shared honors in this daily showing off. The multiplication table looked good on the painted ceiling planks; so also did long columns of figures to be added and such high-brow things as mensuration, percentage and square root. One teacher, still living and teaching, challenged me one day by asking me how much the stove pipe would hold. That was not in the book, but I accepted the challenge, brought a tape-line from home measured the pipe. When I solved the problem satisfactorily I felt that mensuration had some meaning. Most of our arithmetic was hardly practical, however. The most famous problem in Ray's Third-Part Arithmetic was the Jones Estate. It probably got more great financiers started than all other forms of cyphering.

Geography was almost pure memory and was about as unreal as anything could be. We bounded all the states and countries, nam-caples, rivers and bays and lakes, but knew nothing about people, their industries and their ways of living. "What ocean east of North America? What Gulf and Sea South? What Ocean West? What Cape at the Southern extremity of Greenland? Name all the Tributaries of the Mississippi." About ten thousand such questions we could answer, absorbing but little learning in spite of ourselves, the teacher, and the book. We could name all of the states and their capitals and even all foreign countries. (This was before the World War and its resultant communications in European geography.) The Negroes of my time were still teaching countries and capitals in a series of rhymes given in a sing-song. The state lines looked as real as the rivers and mountains. When I crossed the line into Tennessee for the first time, I was surprised at not seeing a line fence at least. Mother's old geography used to amuse us, for many of the states we knew were listed as territories. One book was called an "Atlas"; the reading part bore the strange title of "A Grammar of Geography." We drew maps galore. I liked the Western states, for they were cut out on rather straight lines. Without exactly knowing why, we liked Geography, even though we rather doubted many of the things it said.

We learned many abstruse facts in history. We could fill the blackboards with dates, explorers, casualties in battles, names of presidents, and other detached facts. Sometimes we had head-marks in history and geography and had to work hard to keep our records and those of the others, for we trusted no one, the teacher included.

Facts were our stock in trade, all the officers in state, county, and in civil government we could name. In physiology we could name the bones, the muscles and both sets of teeth, though we knew nothing about a tooth brush except one made from black gum or from hickory bark. In grammar we memorized rules galore, twenty-two of them in Harvey's text. The strange thing about grammar was that no amount of study seemed to make our daily language better. We could diagram and parse the longest summer's day, but we said with no compunction of conscience: "Miss Eunice, can me and Jim go get a bucket of water?" Facts as such seemed the big thing, not an application of facts.

When a Fulton man is longing for the good old days he is merely wishing he could again get excited about everything.

Apple Crop Brings Problem of Storage

Many Kentucky farmers, as well as commercial fruit growers, have the problem of storing at least a part of the big apple crop this year. This usually means keeping the apples cool instead of warm for a month or more.

In many instances the apple crop is so large that it would probably pay to spend money on a storage place. The problem is to cool the storage at night and then to close it to hold the cool air in during the warm part of the day. This means providing ventilation to let the warm air out and the cool air in and then insulation that will hold the cool air.

Cellars without furnaces often can be used. Cellars with dirt floors usually have about the right amount of humidity, but concrete floors may require sprinkling at frequent intervals. Unless the humidity is about right the apples lose their crispness and tend to shrivel.

Ventilated crates or baskets are preferred to tight boxes as storage containers. The use of bins that hold several bushels is not recommended.

Cabbage, onions and other products with strong odors should not be stored with apples. Some fruit men sprinkle the walls and floor of storages with Bordeaux mixture to destroy the germs that cause rotting.

Prof. A. J. Olney, head of the department of horticulture at the Kentucky Experiment Station, points out the need of keeping apples cool as soon as picked. Apples allowed to remain at a temperature of 85 degrees for two days after picking will ripen more than they would stored three months at a temperature of 33 degrees, he said.

SPARKS of WISDOM

Anyhow, the country seemed to get along pretty well back in the days when men ate their peas with a spoon.

The Fulton man who boasts down town that he is a he-man is usually a "Yes, Ma'am" when he is at home.

Think of all the labor the machine age has saved us by slicing our bread and baloney.

Maybe the reason the League of Nations has been so quiet lately is because it has switched jobs from umpire to scorekeeper.

As a rule, the drink a Fulton man takes that makes him feel rotten is the one he takes to make him feel a little better when he already feels good.

The average American is easy to recognize. He is the one whose conscience is bothering him.

The income tax forms have been simplified and now the only thing to worry about is getting the income.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)
