Editorial

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

It was somewhat refreshing to find a metropolitan newspaper making what might be called a newspaper declaration of independence a few days ago. For it can be nothing else. John S. Knight, editor of the Akron, Ohio, Beacon-Journal, and likewise president of the Detroit Free Press one of the really great newspapers of the nation, is the author of the declaration of independence, and his words are quite timely.

Mr. Knight gives it as his studied opinion that political columnists are now on the way out after having dominated the scene mightily for the past few years. He adds that it is also his belief that newspaper editors will resume the position which they have relinquished to these syndicate columnists for several years and believes that this will result in greater good to more people than has been the case. Occasion of this declaration was a recent editorial in the Detroit Free Press which belabored newspaper editors as a class for regarding syndicated copy as something holy and sacrosanct, while journalistic stars on their own staff were mercilessly blue-pencilled by a tough copy desk, where nothing is sacred, according to the editorial, "save a deadline."

Mr. Knight says that he does not entirely agree with the Free Press editorial, but finds enough truth in it to cause discomfort. However, he agrees that newspaper editors should cease worshipping at the hallowed shrine of syndicated columnists and begin to evaluate this canned output by the same standards which are used by alert managing editors in producing a good newspaper every day.

The growth of the political columnist has been remarkable, and it occurs to the writer that newspapers have hurt themselves seriously by not challenging this problem sooner. During the past few years, particularly since the New Deal began, newspapers have weakened themselves tremendously by depending upon the Hugh Johnson, the Dorothy Thompsons, the Westbrook Peglers, the Jay Franklins, the Paul Mallons, the Frank Kents and the Pearsons and Allens to furnish the reading matter which may or may not affect public opinion, and at the same time being content to take second place with their own staff work. As a natural consequence the general public has come to depend upon these men and women for what they like to believe is real inside information. No check is ever made on the accuracy of many of these columns, and when they announce a startling piece of news the average reader believes it implicitly, although subsequent events may prove it to be false.

The radio, too, has developed the same condition. The air is filled with the music voice of Lowell Thomas, the harsh, hard hitting tones of Boake Carter, the confidential Kaltenborn, and a host of others. None of these men are universally correct at all times. In fact, if a working newspaper man happened to be as careless as some of these radio commentators are at times he would not last very long on a metropolitan newspaper staff. Lowell Thomas has a flair for being dramatic in his portrayal of news, and one of his critics said once that "Lowell

WITHOUT ENGLAND, THERE CAN BE NO IRELAND

To the man who loves Ireland it is becoming increasingly plain that the differences which have blighted Anglo-Irish relations in the past are nothing besides the menace which threatens both nations today. Much has been suffered that Ireland might be free, but all of that agony has gone for nothing unless England can survive.

We are inclined to think, therefore, that many of the Irish-Americans who have inherited and cherished a romantic hatred of all things English must be feeling very much as Michael Griffin, himself a descendant of Irishmen, describes his own attitude on this page today.

Irishmen must know, Mr. DeValera must know, that Ireland's claim to neutrality is purely academic. It exists only because the fiction of neutrality is an aid to the Nazi cause. If Irish neutrality should be chance have been as helpful to the British as it now is to their enemies, it would have been crushed without a thought, with the same tons of steel, the same creeping treachery, as ended the lives of all of Ireland's companions in the realm of small nations which felt that they had a right to neutrality.

Mr. Griffin's suggestion of a plea from this side is worthy of consideration by those whose concern is for Ireland. The history of Irish freedom has been written in large part through the help and support of Irishmen in the United States. Their united voice would have powerful weight with the man who so successfully pleaded with them for Ireland in the days when men still had time to argue over the rights and privileges of freedom.—Courier-Journal.

could dramatize a shoe buttoner." Next time you happen to hear him in the news reel try analyzing his remarks and see how much he really depends upon his dramatic voice and little he really says. Or try him on a news broadcast and apply the same test. It might be surprising.

Mr. Knight says that the campaign of 1940 is going to be hard on many of these political commentators, for many of them got very far out on a limb and had the limb cut off behind them. They may not be able to live down some of their wise words. Also Mr. Knight expects to see newspapers again calling on their own staffs for work which they should do, and work which they can really do better than the syndicate group.

CURTIS HANCOCK IS MARRIED IN WINCHESTER

The following from The Winchester Sun is of great interest to Fulton people:
 "Miss Virginia Dell Baber, daughter of Mrs. Walsa Shearer of Winchester, became the bride of Mr. Curtis Rayford Hancock, Winchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hancock, Fulton, in an impressive Thanksgiving Day ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Billeter, West Hickman street.
 The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon by Dr. Will B. Campbell, pastor of the First Methodist church.
 The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, was lovely in a brown crepe frock with accessories to match and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.
 Miss Jane Baber, Winchester, was her sister's only attendant. Mrs. Richard Foy, Fulton, served the groom as best man.
 Mrs. Ida Walden Hardin, pianist, presented a program of wedding music and Miss Martha Sudduth sang, "O Promise Me."
 The home was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums, ferns and candles. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Billeter entertained with a reception for which the bride's table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake, chrysanthemums and lighted tapers.
 The attractive bride was graduated from Eastern Teachers' college and for the past two years has held the position as teacher in the Becknerville school.
 The groom was graduated last

February from the University of Kentucky at Lexington where he was a member of Alpha Zeta, a national honorary agricultural fraternity. Mr. Hancock is now assistant county agent in Clark county.
 After a wedding trip south, Mr. and Mrs. Hancock will reside at 407 South Maple street.
 Among out-of-town people attending the wedding was Wendell C. Binkley, Lexington, formerly of Fulton.

CAYCE AND LODGESTON HOMEMAKERS CONVENE
 Mrs. H. C. Brown and Mrs. Reginald Williamson were hostesses to the Lodgeston Homemakers Club at the home of Mrs. H. C. Brown last week-end, the meeting having been called by the president, Mrs. Williamson. The opening song was "God Bless America," led by Mrs. J. R. Powell, program conductor. The president expressed deep sorrow at the loss of the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Howell, who passed away recently, and asked Mrs. Powell to fill that position for the day.
 Roll call was answered by ten members, giving reasons why "social life is essential for all." Four visitors were present. Mrs. Cecil Burnett was then elected secretary and treasurer. The meeting was adjourned for dinner and while the meal was being served Mrs. Myatt Johnson, foods leader, directed the lesson emphasizing the importance of setting the table correctly and the hoppiness gained in gracious table manners. The menu consisted of deep sea delight, a finger salad, baked apples with popcorn and caramel sauce, rolls and coffee.
 After dinner the meeting was again called to order and Mrs. Robert Thompson, Home Agent, reviewed a lesson on "The Family Meal Hour," stressing table manners and setting. Mrs. Thompson also gave the minor project, "Social Graces," prepared by Miss Iris S. Davenport.
 The program conductor, Mrs. J. R. Powell, presented a puzzle game in which Mrs. Williamson won the prize, the gift being a miscellaneous shower which had been planned as a surprise to her.

 Those attending were Mesdames Robert Thompson, H. C. Brown, Reginald Williamson, Myatt Johnson, Charlie Hill, T. E. Williamson, Henry Walker, Herman Roberts, Park Wheeler, Donald Mabry, Cecil Burnette and J. R. Powell; Misses Jeanette Inman, Katherine Williamson and Elizabeth Williamson.
 The Cayce Club met last week at the school building at ten o'clock in the morning. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Mae Hampton, and the song, "God Bless America," was sung. The secretary called the roll with 16 members answering by giving "why is social life essential for all of us." The minutes were read and a treasurer's report was given.
 Following reports by the leaders, lunch was prepared by Mrs. A. G. Campbell, Mrs. Fred Bondurant and Mrs. Thad Verhines. A deep sea food, baked apples, raw salad and rolls with coffee were served.
 Mrs. Ammons, who is food leader, gave the major project on the "family meal hour," followed with the minor project, "Social Graces," given by Mrs. Thompson.
 The recreational leader, Mrs. Lowe, had a Thanksgiving orchestra on the program and she also read a poem and songs were sung. Plans were made for an oyster supper for Tuesday night, November 26, at the school building. The meeting then adjourned to meet in December with Mrs. Jim McGehee at which time the annual Christmas party will be enjoyed.

MRS. HERSCHEL JONES HOSTESS TO BUNCO CLUB
 Mrs. Herschel Jones, Jefferson street, was hostess to her bunco club last night at her home and entertained ten club members with two visitors, Mrs. C. McCrite and Mrs. Kemp of Chicago.
 After a series of bunco games Mrs. McCrite, with first score, was given a purse as prize. Mrs. Will Coulter, with second high, received towels, and Mrs. W. B. McClain, with booby, was given candle holders. Mrs. J. L. McClain of Union City won the consolation gifts, a pyrex dish.
 Mrs. Jones then served a party plate with coffee to her guests.
 The club will meet next week with Mrs. Roy Barron at her home on West State Line.

of the class. Rev. E. A. Autrey, pastor, talked informally to the group. Musical selections were given by Mrs. J. E. Manley and little Miss Peggy Adams, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Walter Voepel.
 Dr. Rudd then called on various members of the group for impromptu talks, creating much merriment. This was followed by a contest on what Thanksgiving meant to each present.
 At the close of the program, Mrs. G. N. Frey presented a gift from the class to the president, Mrs. Alred.
 There were about thirty-five in attendance.

MISS HYDA HICKS, who is attending State Teacher's college in Memphis, will spend Thanksgiving with friends in Fulton.
 Miss Carbilene Gardner, a student at Lambuth College in Jackson, Tenn., will arrive here today to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gardner, Commercial Avenue.
 Mrs. W. H. McClain and two children, Wilson, Jr., and Marcla, of Vicksburg, Miss., will arrive this afternoon in Fulton for a Thanksgiving visit with Mrs. McClain's mother, Mrs. S. R. Mauldin, Third street.
 Mrs. R. A. Blackstone left yesterday for her home in Water Valley, Miss., after a visit here with her son, Billy Blackstone and family.
 Mrs. Edith Elece Connell and little daughter, Patricia, are spending several days in Cades, Tenn., with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carl Bailey.

SPINAL NERVE INTERFERENCE

The Chiropractor sees thousands of persons trying to stimulate lazy body organs that are perfectly normal except for not being timed properly by nerve force. Thus, the real cause is due to spinal nerve interference. It is this mechanical and other interference with the functions of the nerves that Chiropractors adjust which in turn enables the body to correct most of its ills.

Shower Perks Up Florida Berries, Rainmaker Lady

Plant City, Fla., —Miss Lillie Stone, who claims to be able to bring rainfall by sitting near a body of water, threw two strikes at South Florida's drought Wednesday from her bleacher seat beside Lake Walden, and most of the Plant City area perked up under a generous shower.

It wasn't a full-blown rain, as rains go, but the dark rolling clouds opened enough to encourage the imperiled strawberry growers, and to allow Miss Lillie to strengthen her claim as a rain-maker.

"It's the beginning," said the 69-year-old Mississippian, who came here at the request of strawberry growers to end a drouth. "I'd rather see it come this way than in torrents."

Cincinnati Paper Fires Translator Accused By Dies

Cincinnati, —Ludwig Schmitt, translator employed by The Cincinnati Free Press, German language daily newspaper, who was named in a Dies Committee report for his efforts to obtain free use of an alleged German propaganda service, was fired Monday because of what his paper termed his "un-American connections."

Schmitt, one-time Mayor of a German community under Adolf Hitler, admitted writing a letter two years ago to the German consul at Cleveland asking that the latter use his influence with Trans-Ocean News Service of New York on behalf of the paper, then published by Schmitt's uncle.

3,667 Qualified For Defense Jobs Idle In Kentucky

Washington, —Kentucky has 3,667 workers qualified for employment in occupations essential to defense production who are registered in the State-operated offices of the U. S. Employment Service, and most of whom at present are unemployed.

This is shown in a tabulation made public Monday by the Social Security Board. Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt announced that a check of available labor in more than 500 occupations essential to defense production revealed that about 218,000 qualified workers, most of them unemployed were registered in the 1,500 State-operated employment offices of the U. S. Employment Service on September 28. A considerable number of these workers were equipped for jobs in more than one of the occupations listed.

Thirteen of the forty-seven other States had higher totals on the list than Kentucky.

COMMERCIAL APPEAL MISSES FIRST EDITION IN 100 YEARS; STRIKE

Memphis, Tenn., —The century-old Commercial Appeal missed its first edition tonight at the result of a strike called this afternoon by the two local of the International Typographical Union.

The edition, first of four, usually is published at 9:30 p. m.

Earlier, the Memphis publishing company announced C. M. Baker, president of the International Typographical union had issued a "mandate" to the striking printers to return to work immediately.

The statement was made by Frank Ahlgren, editor of the Commercial Appeal, following a telephone conversation with Baker who is attending the AFL convention in New Orleans.
