FEEDING SCHOOLS

H. A. McPherson, County Agt.

The dairy department of the University of Kentucky, cooperating with the county agent, will put on a series of three feeding schools, which will be held on November 26 and 27. The first school will be held in the Fulton courthouse on Monday 26. The school will open at 9:30 and close at 12:00 and take up at 1:00 o'clock for a short session. On Tuesday morning at 9:00 another school will open at Cayce. It will be held in the high school auditorium. This school will close at 12:00 o'clock. The last school will be held at Sylvan Shade Tuesday afternoon beginning at 1:30 and closing at 4:30. These feeding schools are of vital importance and every farmer in reach should make an effort to attend. The business people, bankers, civic clubs, creameries, etc., are urged to cooperate in making these schools a success. In some meetings they have had more than 100 farmers present, and wonderful results are reported from these meetings.

We would like to have a sample of all feed sold in Fulton, also tags showing the analysis of the feed, would also like to have samples of hay that is being fed to dairy cows.

This school is probably the most important piece of work that can be done for the farmer who is selling cream or whole milk and it is essential that you attend one or more of these meetings. I am hoping to have the largest attendance at Fulton than any place in Kentucky. Now help us make this hope come true.

WELL KNOWN IN FULTON

In the Sunday edition of the pictorial grave section of the Houston Post-Dispatch, there appeared a splendid picture of Miss Mary Louise Rucker, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rucker, former residents of Fulton. Miss Rucker was one of the pages for the U. D. C. convention which convened in Houston, November 18 to 24.

The Post-Dispatch says: "More than 1,000 delegates were in attendance to keep alive traditions and plans for the future."

FORMER FULTON CITIZEN DIES IN NASHVILLE, TENN.

Sunday morning at 9:30, Mrs. Lillie Green Tyler passed away at her home in East Nashville. She had been critically ill for several months and almost at the beginning of her illness those who loved her best despaired of her recovery. During the entire time, after she was stricken until she fell asleep, her condition baffled medical skill and good nursing.

Mr. and Mrs. Green, parents of Mrs. Tyler, were born and reared in England. When quite young, they decided to come to the "new country across the sea" and cast their lot with a number of relatives who had preceded them here.

A sea voyage in those days was long and perilous and it required brave hearts and undaunted courage to bid loved ones goodbye to try one's fortune in a far distant land. The family joined relatives in Mayfield, Kentucky and after living there several years, moved to Water Valley, Mississippi, where they resided until they decided to make Fulton their home. Mr. Green had a sister, Mrs. Joe Wade, living here. Each had several children and the families grew up together. Mr. Green was in the jewelry business and owned a home on the lot now occupied by the handsome residence of Mrs. Smith Fields.

Miss Lillie Green was first married to Mr. Fred George, and Mrs. James Stalkup, who survives her, was born of this union. After Mr. George's death, Mrs. George, with her little daughter, Julia, moved to Bradenton, Florida, where she met and married Mr. Tyler. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler were the parents of two children, Miss Carrie Tyler, who survives them, and a son, who died in infancy. After Mr. Tyler's death the family moved to Nashville, Tenn., and have since made that city their home.

Mrs. Tyler was one of nature's noblewomen. She was cultured and refined above the average and her gentle, sweet disposition won friends for her in every walk of life. She was a splendid daughter, a devoted wife, a fond mother and a loving and affectionate sister. What a wonderful heritage to leave to those who are left to mourn her loss!

She was reared in the Episcopal church and continued a devout, consistent member until the time of her death. She is survived by her two daughters and a sister, Miss Coralie Green, of Nashville.

"We think the gates of Heaven stood ajar when her gentle spirit took its flight."

Funeral services and interment were in Nashville, Tenn.

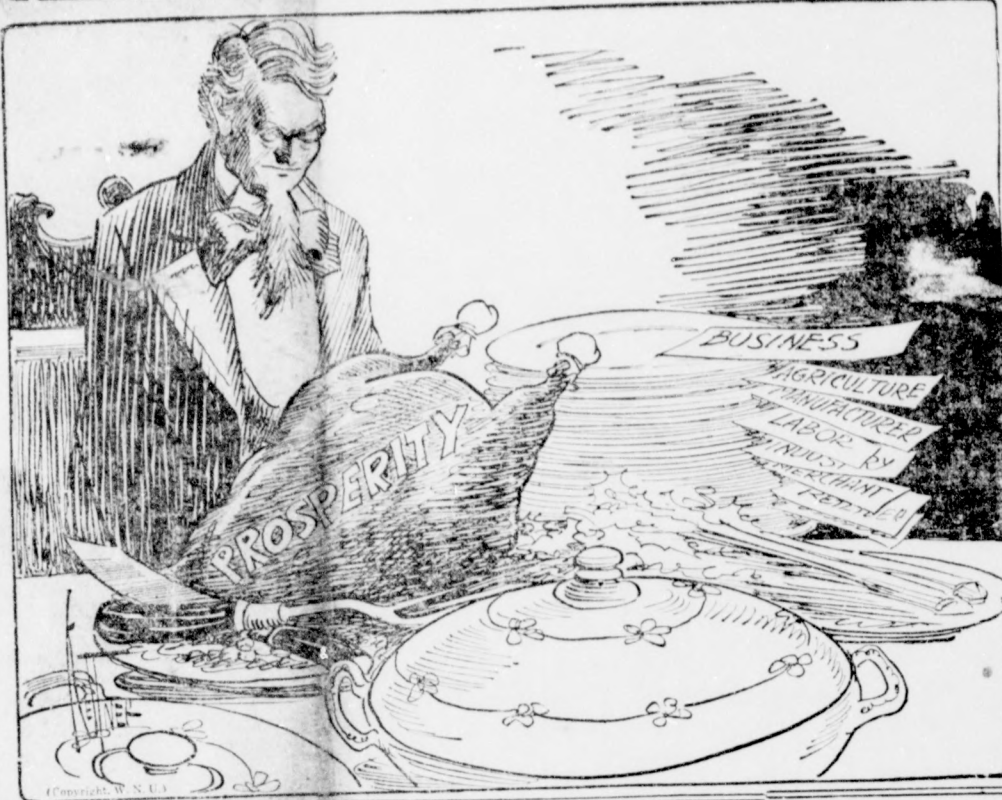

Active Vice-President of City National Bank Breaks Arm

Friends of N. G. Cooke will be glad to learn that he is recovering from the injuries sustained when he accidentally fell off a plank while attending the cornerstone laying at the First Christian Church Sunday, breaking his arm just above the wrist and cutting a small gash on his head.

Methodists Close Meeting

Assignments by Bishop DuBose Return H. B. Vaughn to Fulton

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 20—The eighty-ninth session of the Memphis Conference of Methodist churches, South, closed here Sunday afternoon following the assignment of pastors to the 204 charges of the conference by Bishop H. M. DuBose, who presided over the session.

The Rev. T. F. Lewis will continue to serve as pastor of the Broadway Methodist church during the ensuing year. The Rev. A. N. Goforth was returned to the Fountain Avenue church. The Rev. Syl Fisher will continue to act as presiding elder of the Paducah district.

The announcement of the appointment of ministers to the various charges during the ensuing conference year, marked the close of the annual conference session, which began at the Broadway Methodist church last Tuesday and continued through Sunday. Memorial services were held Sunday afternoon with the conference body adopting the report of the committee on memoirs. Brief talks were made in tribute to the ministers who died during the past year. Ordination of elders and those elected to deacon's orders by Bishop DuBose took place Sunday afternoon.

The following is a list of assignments announced by Bishop DuBose following a meeting of the bishop and the cabinet for this district:

Happy Occasion for Members of the Christian Church

Sunday afternoon was a great occasion for the Christian church. With many friends from the other churches the congregation gathered in the basement of the Sunday School annex, filling it to its capacity, for the purpose of conducting the services of laying the cornerstone of the new church building. The pastor, B. J. Cantrell, presided. After a short, simple devotional service he presented Bro. H. L. Patterson of Dyersburg, Tenn., who gave the address of the occasion. His address was a masterpiece. He pointed out to the audience the necessity of the cornerstone of ancient buildings from which we have received the custom. But that while we lay a cornerstone in our church buildings today that there is the spiritual building of which we are a part, Jesus Christ being the chief Cornerstone. That we must be living stones in this spiritual building, completing a structure that is far more valuable, useful, and more beautiful than any architectural design of a temporal building. He admonished the church to make sure of the spiritual building, keeping it pure and unblemished in their lives. At the close of the address the audience passed out into the auditorium of the new building where various articles were placed in the box by the pastor, including a copy of the bible, a silver coin, pictures of the building as it has appeared in its different forms, copies of various church periodicals, and a copy each of the Advertiser and Leader. A copy of the Leader published in 1902, edited by the ladies of the church created quite a bit of interest. This issue contained pictures of the original building and of Bros. R. A. Cook and E. M. Waits. This was also placed in the box. Clarence Pickering, chairman of the building committee sealed the box and placed in the cornerstone. Bro. Patterson offered a very fervent prayer and the audience was dismissed.

RED GRANGE PLAYS TRICKS ON TRIXIE

She Gets Bad Break When Red Shakes Cake

Red Grange may be rough on the gridiron, but he's rougher yet at the wheel of an automobile, says Trixie Friganza, who took one of the wildest rides of her career in an old limousine with the star in the driver's seat during the filming of "The Racing Romeo," which is to run at the Orpheum on Monday and Tuesday, November 26th and 27th.

Trixie rode for several miles in the back seat while Red raced another car over an extremely bumpy road. Her rotund figure rolled all over the tonneau, and as she was carrying a huge wedding cake, it was difficult to tell where the cake left off and Trixie began after the race.

This sequence forms only one of many exciting moments in "The Racing Romeo." Walter Hiers also provides many laughs, and petite Jobyna Ralston plays the feminine lead opposite Grange.

Byron Morgan, author of "Rookies," is the writer of "The Racing Romeo," which, like the aforementioned screen play, was produced and directed by Sam Wood.

BUY-AN-ACRE DRIVE FOR CAVE PARK OPENS

COUNTY ORGANIZATIONS AT WORK SELLING ACRES FOR NATIONAL PARK

During the current week members of county organizations in several counties in the state are actively carrying on the Buy-an-Acre campaign of the Mammoth Cave National Park Association for funds with which to complete the project for a national park in the Mammoth Cave region. The campaign opened Monday and will continue through Saturday.

In the Buy-an-Acre campaign those who have not already subscribed will be asked to buy one or more acres of land in the area designated by Act of Congress as acceptable for the park, at an arbitrary price of $100.00 per acre, and deed the land so bought to the Federal Government for park purposes.

Leaders of the campaign, under whose direction it is being carried on are: state chairman, Mrs. B. M. Starks, Louisville; vice chairman, Mrs. Elmer D. Sampson and Mrs. James Brecht, Jr.; chairman, State Advisory Board, Mrs. Joseph E. Warren, Mayfield. The drive is being carried on with the cooperation of the various women's organizations throughout the state.

"LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH," A VIVID, GRIPPING FILM

Intimate glimpses of life behind the scenes in a theatre are blended into vivid and gripping drama on Lon Chaney's latest screen sensation, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," which comes Monday to the Grand Theatre.

The picture is one of the most pretentious Chaney productions in years. Chaney, as the clown, making his great sacrifice for the happiness of the woman he loves, has a role which runs the entire gamut of acting. In the theatre scenes he is a comedian in grotesque antics, acrobatic tricks, and lifting laughs—then, in the dramatic scenes behind the curtain he plumbs the very depths of human misery.

A notable cast surrounds the famous star. Loretta Young, newest "discovery" of the screen, plays the heroine, and Nils Asther, who recently scored in "Surreal and Son," is the male juvenile lead. Bernard Siegel, Gwen Lee, Cissy Fitzgerald and others of note are among the players.

Elaborate reproductions of European theatres, in which entire vaudeville shows ranging from tight-rope acts to trained elephants are seen, are spectacular details. Brenon, who directed the new picture, is famous for such productions as "Beau Geste," "Surreal and Son," "Peter Pan," "God Gave Me Twenty Cents," and many others.

ADULTS HOSPITAL TO OPEN IN NEAR FUTURE AT MEMPHIS

Is Gift of B. B. Jones Formerly of Fulton

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Boasting equipment equal to that of any similar institution in the United States and with a present capacity of 60 beds, Memphis Hospital for Crippled Adults, under construction at 1248 LaPaloma Street, since last March, will be ready for occupancy before Christmas, John R. Flippin, president of the board of directors, stated yesterday.

The new hospital, completed and equipped at a cost of approximately $200,000, is a gift of B. B. Jones, well-known Washington capitalist and philanthropist, and as a result of his generosity the board of directors will begin operations not only free from debt, but with an endowment fund.

For a short time we will accept subscriptions to The Advertiser and Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal, both papers one year, for $1.25. This is a splendid opportunity to get your home paper and city pa-

EXPERIMENT STATION
HEN LAYS 303 EGGS;
NEW KENTY RECORD

A Barred Rock hen owned by the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky has finished a year with a production of 303 eggs, a new official record for Kentucky, and a new high mark for this breed in the entire South.

The former official high record for Kentucky was held by a White Leghorn, which laid a total of 300 eggs in a year. She also was a member of the Experiment Station flock. The former high record for Barred Rocks in the South was held by a hen in the Experiment Station flock which laid 299 eggs in a year.

The new Kentucky champion was hatched in March, 1927, and laid her first egg on Sept. 1 of that year. In the following 365 days she missed laying but 62 days. In addition to producing a record number of eggs, her eggs are extra large in size, averaging 26 ounces to the dozen.

The new record layer is the product of a long line of breeding for production. She traces back for five generations to 200 egg blood. All her ancestors were bred at the Experiment Station. Her great-great-grandma laid 267 eggs in a year at the Experiment Station poultry plant seven years ago, which was a record for the breed at that time. Her sire is now at the head of one of the breeding pens at the Station.—Poultry Press York, Pa.

The above article clipped from the "Poultry Press" of York, Pa., tells a wonderful story and one that can be duplicated by almost any one who has the room and time to breed their flock scientifically. It has only taken ten years or five generations to go from 200 to 300 eggs. The eggs from this pullet next year should be worth $5.00 each to her breeders. Every chick hatched from the eggs laid by this hen can be guaranteed as having 300 egg blood in their veins, which will make them valuable as breeders. A cockerel from an egg laid by this hen bred to a high producing cock should be worth $25.00 to $50.00 as a breeder, and if he should come up to the standard as a show bird, $100.00 could not buy him.

I have run this story and comments for the sole purpose of showing it pays to breed good stock. If you have a flock of good laying hens they can be made better by careful breeding. Pick out the best layers that conform closest to the standard and hatch only their eggs and you will increase their laying considerable and at the same time have show birds good enough to show anywhere.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Grymes announce the birth of twins a boy and a girl, Saturday morning at their home in Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. Grymes formerly lived in Fulton and have many friends here who will offer congratulations on the happy event.

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals.

The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

POULTRY WORK

H. A. McPherson, County Agt.

If you are in the poultry business, why not start the Poultry year off right by keeping a daily egg record, feed cost and labor spent looking after your flock.

I will be glad to furnish you a nice poultry calendar that is put out by the Poultry Department of the Extension Division of the University of Kentucky. If you keep a daily record on your poultry flock you will be surprised to know how your account balances up at the end of the year.

The poultry year began November 1 but probably you know how many eggs your hens have laid up until now. The first of each month I am going to publish the high five in the county.

If you want one of these books be sure and let me know at once.

EAST KENTUCKY FLOOD TAKES THREE LIVES

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 19.—The wrath of the Cumberland and Kentucky rivers tonight had cost the lives of three men, driven approximately 1,000 persons from their homes, flooded the low-lying sections of five communities, and caused untold property damage in Eastern Kentucky. Reports from the flooded areas tonight indicated that the torrent had not reached its crest, and at Pineville the water still was rising at the rate of eight inches an hour.

FARM ACCOUNTS

H. A. McPherson, County Agt.

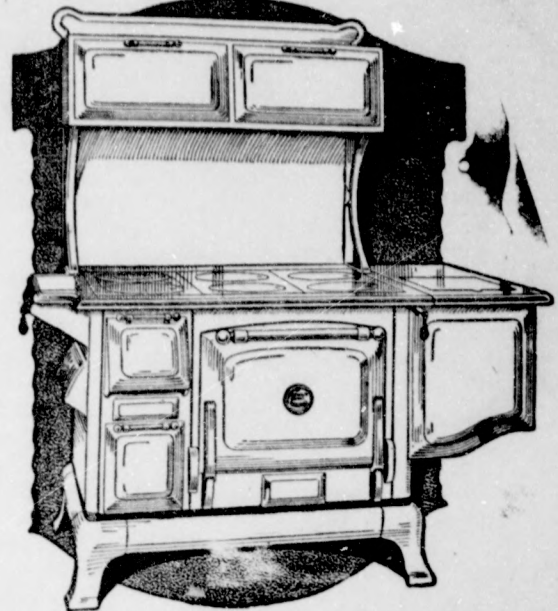

If we were to pick out the best farmer in Fulton County, we would probably find he keeps a farm account and take an annual inventory of his farm and farm equipment.

The Department of Farm Management of the Extension Division of Kentucky, has a farm account book they have been putting out for a number of years. The books are self explanatory and are easily kept. The price of the book is twenty-five cents (25c) and can be had by letting me know any time between now and Christmas.

I am very anxious to get as many farmers as possible to keep farm accounts. You will be surprised to know how easy it is with such a suitable account book.

BEELERTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, our County Agent, Mr. Edge, came out to discuss a few problems which the farmers have to deal with. We are very sorry that such little interest was taken among the farmers of the community.

Last Friday morning we were very fortunate in having with us during our Chapel period, Rev. E. S. Hicks. The scripture reading for the morning was Luke 18:1-24. His subject for discussion was "Up." We are either going up or down. The word "up" has a pull or fascination to it and we all want to go up a little higher than we are at present, to accomplish this, we must think a little higher every day. An example he gave was: Do not always tend to fish in the creek by your home for there is a larger place somewhere for you. You must "work up" if you do not wish others to surpass you. In your educational life you can also learn to "Lift Up." Put in your everyday life what you learn from day today and at the end you can say not boastfully that "I have observed all these things from my youth up. He supported us in our athletics by saying that he was especially interested in our victories, and said for us to use the athletic pledge, "For when the one Great Scorer comes to write against your name, He writes—not that you won or lost—but how you played the game. And our motto is "Play Fair."

Friday afternoon the Wingo Basketball teams came over and played our teams on the home court. Both teams played good ball and lots of pep was shown by the people on the sideline. We want to thank the people of the community for coming out and taking such interest in our athletics. There were more people out to see the games last Friday afternoon than there has been up to the present time.

Several of the high school boys gathered here on Saturday morning to work on the school campus, as it rained they did not accomplish as much as they had hoped to, but will probably be finished this week. The high school girls are working very hard on their declamations and have made wonderful improvement on them.

Saturday night Beelerton boys and girls met Bardwell's teams on the latter's court. The girls game was of much interest but the Bardwell girls won by a hard fought victory. Although we did not win, we have a record that no other school has up to this date. Our girls scored two field goals while Bardwell's entire first team was playing. Our boys game also proved to be very interesting. They played excellent ball and the score was in our favor until the latter part of third quarter, after which the head work on the part of our team was lacking, and the game ended with a victory for Bardwell.

The Loudest Kickers.

It is an old established rule that what's everybody's business is nobody's business, and as long as everybody pays no attention to nobody's business and everybody pays no attention to nobody's business, there will continue to be high tax rates, inefficiency in government and all of lesser attendant evils.

The fellow who kicks the loudest about the way things are being run is always the last to volunteer to help, or even offer constructive suggestions.

Then there is the type of citizen who is so ingrossed with his own affairs—which consists of the gentle art of making money—that he never has time to think of his own community or the welfare of others.

Other types we see daily, engaged in this or that hobby, wholly oblivious of what is going on about them. They never give a thought to the betterment of things about them.

The public good deserves consideration from every individual. Everyone should make it a point to reserve a little time for that duty and never refuse when we are called upon to do something that we don't have to do, but which will be for the betterment of the whole community.

A High School Education.

A recent survey of five widely separated states shows that 3.15 per cent of the farm population is enrolled in high schools, compared with 3.55 of the non-farm population going beyond the grades.

This should give pause to the people who regard the farm as a "back woods" area where education is not rated very high.

Such a taste of affairs is rapidly passing in most rural communities due to the centralization of high schools and the realization upon the parts of parents that their children should have, at least a high school education in order to make their way in the world.

It has been proved beyond all argument that a high school education is valuable to the tiller of the soil, just as it is to the pupil who goes into the mercantile business or takes up one of the professions.

A survey of three representative areas in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa shows that tenant farmers with a high school education receive an average annual labor income of $526 a year more than the men with only a common school education.

A college education will add to this average $435 a year, making the income of college graduates $979 more a year than the labor earnings of the men with common school education.

With the preponderance of the evidence on the side of education every thinking boy and girl will endeavor to go as far as it is humanly possible for them to go in acquiring knowledge.

Belief in Signs.

People who do not believe in signs, particular road signs, in this day and age are as a rule of few days on earth.

Road signs are put up for a purpose, a wholly commendable purpose—to save people's lives. When their warning is disregarded, it is ignorance of the rankest sort.

A sign reading "Dangerous, Bad Curve," means just what it says. If there were no danger at the curve, motor clubs and highway commissions would not have put one there.

A warning sign signifies that there have been accidents at that point—probably fatal accidents, and for one to disregard a friendly effort to save lives and property is unpardonable.

There may be occasions when warning signals seem superfluous, after they have been obeyed but if the motorist who has such an idea will go back and travel over the same path at normal speed, he will find ample excuse for the sign, if he escapes unscathed.

Road signs require too much time, energy and money for them not to be taken literally and seriously. They are on the road to protect you and others who are driving. Use them, believe in them and you will never regret it.

Pedestrians Should Watch.

Pedestrians have an equal responsibility in crossing streets, with those of motorists, as many persons take too much for granted as they dart across a street, trusting to the oncoming car to be carefully driven.

Many motorists operate their car in a manner grossly lacking in courtesy and rational caution and for that reason those who walk should not leave too much for the other fellow. They often cross streets in a comfortable easy-going way, expecting the motorist to look out for them.

Many times a person walking does not consider all of the things that a driver has to keep in mind. If there are traffic signals, the driver must watch for them and he presumes also that the pedestrian is watching and will not disregard them. Many walkers go, when they see an opening, and do not consider the danger they place the motorist to in dodging them, and other traffic in the street.

People have to learn in these times to manifest a higher degree of care than was necessary a few years ago. Fewer accidents would result if people would be more cautious and practice a little more courtesy in walking and in driving automobiles.

Democrats Are Shy

New York, Nov. 21.—The Democratic party faces a deficit of approximately $1,600,000 in meeting expenses in the recent campaign totaling about $5,300,000, James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, announced today.

Contributions to date, he said, total $3,736,000 and continue to come in. More than 87,000 contributions, he said in a statement have been placed on the committee's books, 24,000 of them since election day.

"We have many thousands of contributions yet unrecorded," continued the statement, "and it is safe to say that before we get through we will have in the neighborhood of 125,000 to 150,000 contributors to our fund."

"The activity of the treasurer's office is far more pronounced than at any time during the campaign. Every mail brings in hundreds of contributions and I might say that a great many thousands must come in if we are to pay off the indebtedness in which the committee finds itself."

The bulk of the contributions have been in amounts from $1 to $25. Mr. Gerard considered the inflow of contributions as testimonials to the popularity of Gov. Smith and Sen. Robinson, the vice presidential candidate "among the masses."

BUY-AN-ACRE DRIVE FOR CAVE PARK STARTS 19th

Plans Complete for Drive in Selected Counties

All is in readiness for the Buy-an-Acre campaign of the Mammoth Cave National Park Association which will commence November 19, according to announcement from association headquarters in Louisville. At the same time announcement is made that instead of a state-wide drive, as originally planned, it has been found more practicable on account of the election, to concentrate the Buy-an-Acre campaign in a selected group of counties for this fall, and later on to continue the drive in other groups of counties until the entire state has been covered.

Chairmen have been appointed in the designated counties and have been actively engaged in perfecting their county organizations, appointing city chairman, captains and team members. Advance reports indicate that a favorable response will be made to the efforts of the campaign workers, due to a general feeling that the creation of a national park in the Mammoth Cave region will be of great benefit to the state as a whole, and that it is a matter of state pride to see that the project is completed.

The Buy-an-Acre campaign has for its purpose the raising of the additional needed funds for the park project. Those who have not already subscribed will be asked to buy one or more acres of land in the designated park area at an arbitrary price of $10.00 an acre, and donate the land to the Federal Government for park purposes.

JOHNNY APPLESEED

Unknown Pioneer Who Planted Apples
Along the Western Trail

It is not known who Johnny Appleseed was, where he came from, nor whether he went, but it is said that many of the apple trees he planted are still bearing fruit to this day. All that is known is that he came westward with a group of early settlers and unselfishly planted apple seed along the trail.

Without care or attention many of the seedlings he planted matured and have borne fruit in season for several generations to those who passed by.

Johnny Appleseed, probably never saw the result of his planting along the highway, he probably never tasted one of his own apples, but the results of his vision, his simple, inexpensive effort, have been enjoyed by thousands. Yet many of his companions thought him crazy.

There ought to be other Johnny Appleseeds in Kentucky who will gladly plant trees, shrubs, fruits or flowers along the highway, without thought of immediate profit.

The Result in Florida

Some years ago, a man from rural England, broken in health, moved to Florida. He bought some acreage consisting mainly of sand, palmetto, and an occasional pine tree, and went into the business of truck farming. He did not make any money at this occupation but fortunately regained his health. A country road, now a Federal highway, skirted his property.

Familiar with England's rural highways and country lanes, he decided to beautify this road which passed his place. First he planted a mango tree, then a guava, here and there an oleander. As he had opportunity he set out a lime tree, a Royal Poinciana, or an Avocado Pear. He planted Hibiscus, Allamanda and Bougainvillea around his shack. He managed to cover the sand with grasses. Since that time these luscious fruits and lovely flowers have had ample time to mature and develop and this spot is now one of the most beautiful in Tropical Florida. It is said that this man paid less than a dollar and a half an acre for his land but he sold it recently at a profit of over a thousand per cent. He only made a living growing garden truck but he made a fortune by beautifying his neighborhood.

This Englishman was the Johnny Appleseed of Florida and his example has been followed by other neighboring Johnny Appleseeds, none of whom are thought to be crazy. The results can hardly be imagined. These plantings have grown and multiplied into a hower of beauty that surprises every one who motors through this section.

Kentucky Offers Opportunity

There are very many good people in Kentucky who are interested in this idea of neighborhood beautification. They appreciate the accrued financial value of lands with good and beautiful highways and shady country lanes.

All that is needed here in Kentucky is intelligent planning and planting. To this end it has been suggested that a non-profit, non-political organization called the Highway League be formed to which anybody is eligible as member who will agree to plant one or more trees or flowering shrubs along the highway.

The idea is to form this league, whatever it may be called, with chapters in every village or community in Kentucky. Each chapter to be led by an organized committee to see that plantings be properly and intelligently performed.

Governor Flem D. Sampson is heartily in accord with this project and has promised to back it up with all of the facilities of the Commonwealth. The Kentucky Progress Commission, through C. Frank Dunn, Executive Secretary, has also unanimously approved the idea.

All that is now needed are ambitious volunteers with State pride to effect an organization and get things started. Mr. Dunn reports that following the article in the Progress Magazine on this subject, several communities have voluntarily offered to co-operate.

Plans are now being made to perfect this organization. Governor Sampson will appreciate any voluntary suggestions or assistance that will be offered towards Beautifying Kentucky Highways, and would be glad to hear from any or all of the Kentucky Johnny Appleseeds that are interested. He can be addressed at Frankfort, Kentucky.

It is believed that valuable co-operation can also be secured through civic clubs, boy and girl scouts, schools, local chambers of commerce or other trade organizations.

Thomas H. Stark, Louisville business man and enthusiastic amateur gardener, has been selected by the Progress Commission to head this movement as State Chairman. Mr. Stark has accepted and will also appreciate co-operation and sugges-

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Did you ever stop to think how utterly helpless and useless one would be, if he could be independent of fellow men, the people that live in a community. Each individual is but a part of a large number of persons making up a community, each and all having common interests in, common duties and common responsibilities for the many human problems the community has to solve and care for all of the time.

Then the person who attempts to live in a community, getting out of it what he can and contributing nothing to it, is a parasite. Such person is selfish and selfishness is the mother of failure.

Unselfishness, giving time and money to community problems, brings rich reward in self-happiness and self-growth.

The sum total of human happiness is measured by the degree of helpfulness and unselfishness of the members, individually and collectively, of our community, our state, our nation.

Did you ever stop to think that you cannot enjoy success in a community unless the community enjoys success? Others must be successful before you can expect to individually succeed. Do you ever ask yourself, "what am I doing to make the community in which I live, a better place for my family and my fellow men?"

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

That here and there can be found a store that is a good place in which to rest.

That tranquility, repose and calmness characterize the daily life of its owners and clerks. No one seems to have any desire or inclination to get business—just satisfied to take what comes along.

That these good people just wait for something to happen. They seem to be well satisfied if no one disturbs their siestas.

That none of them seem to do a thing to attract business—just sleep along; won't wake up and fight for business.

That this is the day of keen competition; the store that will not fight for business soon goes out of business.

That a fighting force for business is needed by every store—one full of life, and with a solid front to go after it.

That business comes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated. Those who want enough business so they can stay in business, and get enough to make a profit, invite it by newspaper advertising.

Anything worth having is worth advertising. The public knows that fact. The stores who do not invite business by advertising find that it goes to the stores who do invite it.

Ever increasing sales by the stores that are continuous advertisers are convincing testimony that the majority of the people buy from the stores who invite their business through newspaper advertising.

COMMON PURPOSE

Anthropologists tell us that man in his early state lived apart with his own little family, and archaeologists say the first communities were formed by confederated families brought together for a common purpose—protection against man's natural enemies. Today, man is distinctly a gregarious animal attracted more and more to community life. And men still build cities for a common purpose, or common purposes.

In the city one finds protection against fire, disease and the enemies of society. One goes to the city for good schools and monumental churches, paved streets, employment, art, entertainment, the society of other men and comforts of life denied the rural citizen. There is found the front rank of civilization.

The people of Fulton have a common purpose. It is the advancement of the community as a whole. That common purpose is hardly distinguishable from the purpose of each individual. That which benefits the individual usually benefits the entire community and that which benefits the community reacts to the benefit of each of its citizens.

Prosperity and progress come to those communities whose citizens have their eyes upon the largest number of common purposes. Success crowds the efforts of the man of purpose, and the city with a common purpose works as one man.

"Common purpose" creates new industries, increases business, minimizes unemployment, makes cities better places in which to live and performs miracles in community betterment.

LONG LIVE THE DAIRY COW

"The cow is the foster mother of the human race. From the day of the ancient Hindoo to this time have the thoughts of men turned to the kindly, beneficent cow as one of the chief sustaining forces of human life.

"No nation or people has become highly civilized without her. Without her, agriculture is not permanent or prosperous, people are not healthy or happy. Where the cow is kept and cared for, civilization advances, lands grow richer, homes grow better, debts grow fewer.

"Starting with neolithic man in the dim vistas of the far-distant past, she has been man's friend and companion adown all the ages. Her effigy and that of her brother, the ox, were used to adorn the earliest coinage of the world, because 'omnis pecunie pecus fundamentum'—the herd is the foundation of all wealth; and in such esteem and veneration were they held that they were worshiped as symbols of Deity in the dawning religious consciousness of humanity.

"The cow has accompanied man in all his migrations and wanderings as he has multiplied and replenished the earth, nursing her own offspring and his also. In times of famine she has been man's preserver, his comfort and aid in times of prosperity, the bearer of his burdens and the cultivator of his fields, the bread-winner of the poor and the pride of the well-to-do.

"She consumes the vegetation of field, mountainside, meadow and prairie, otherwise unavailable as human food, and in the marvelous laboratory of her digestive structure converts it into the most essential, the most assimilable, the most nourishing of foods.

"The dairy cow was the first animal necessary to the pioneers in the settlement of new regions of the earth; and in the complex civilization of the present day she is a vital factor in human welfare as the producer of an indispensable, and the only perfect food.

"From the dawn of history she has been associated with the conquering and dominant peoples; she is the most ancient, the most universal, and the most used and the most useful of all animals domesticated by man."—W. D. Hoard, Former Governor of Wisconsin.

THE PRAYERS OF PAUL

LESSON TEXT—Acts 20:36-38; Rom. 1:8-10; Eph. 1:15-23; 3:14-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Rejoice always, pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Prays for His Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Prays for His Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul as a Man of Prayer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Prayer in Paul's Life.

His prayer life most really reveals the character of a man. Paul's prayers explained the power and efficiency of his wonderful ministry. The careful study of these prayers will give us strength, guidance and peace as we go about life's duties. The prayer meeting, believers getting together to pray, has characterized the Christian church throughout its history.

I. Paul's Prayer with the Ephesian Elders (Acts 20:36-38).

Having met with these elders and pointed out to them the perils which confronted them and set forth their responsibility, he knelt down and prayed with them before going to Jerusalem, where bonds and afflictions awaited him. They all wept sore and fell on Paul's neck and kissed him, knowing that this was to be the last sight of him. When believers pray and weep together, they will definitely work together.

II. Paul Praying for the Romans (Romans 1:8-10).

1. He thanked God for their world-famed faith (v. 8). The true minister has no greater occasion for gratitude than the knowledge of genuine faith possessed by followers of Christ.

2. He prayed for them continually (v. 9).

Knowing the far-reaching influence of the church at Rome, he unceasingly prayed for them that their influence might be most widely felt.

3. His supreme burden in prayer was for a successful journey to Rome (v. 10).

He desired to visit Rome in order that he might impart some spiritual gift to the believers there and also to receive some spiritual help from them. The true minister receives a reflex blessing from those to whom he ministers.

III. Paul Praying for the Ephesians (Eph. 1:15-23).

He besought God that the believers at Ephesus might know (1) The hope of their calling (v. 8). Unfaithfulness on the part of believers is frequently due to their lack of a true understanding of their calling. The right understanding of the Christian's hope will make steadfast the lives of believers. (2) The riches of the glory of God's inheritance in the saints (v. 18). It is marvelous to know that the saint has an inheritance in God but it is more marvelous that God has an inheritance in the saints. (3) The greatness of Christ's power to us (vv. 19-23). This mighty power was demonstrated in the resurrection of Christ from the dead. The same power which gave the victory over the grave is available for believers.

2. For strength (Eph. 3:14-21).

This prayer was made to God who is the Father of the great family in heaven and in earth. He prayed that the believers might be strengthened with might in their inner man, with the object of being indwelt by Christ. If Christ is to be entertained, the temple needs the divine strengthening. Where the house is strong enough Christ will come and abide. Likewise that they might be rooted and grounded in love (v. 17). This establishment in the love of Christ is needed by all so as to prevent them from being turned aside by every wind of doctrine. Also, that they might comprehend the love of Christ (v. 18). This love is wonderful in its dimensions—in its depth, breadth, width and height it transcends human understanding—the object being that the believer might be filled unto the fullness of God (v. 19). This does not mean that the believer can hold God, but that he can be so related to God that the infinite resources are at his command.

Pet Milk Company Issues Statement of Receipts at Mayfield Plant.

Mayfield, Ky.—The Pet Milk company, operator of the condensation plant just north of the city limits, on highway 45, has made an announcement regarding the income to farmers, through delivery of milk to the plant during the last ten months. The total for the ten months is $580,083.81. This represents an average of 25½ cents per gallon, and was paid for 21,901,563 pounds of milk.

The company has opened a sub-receiving station for this plant at Martin, Tenn., and will open one at Lynn Grove, Calloway county, early in December.

The largest number of patrons serving the plant in any one day is reported as 1,828. The highest receipts at the local plant alone in any one day totalled 98,920 pounds, on May 30. With the Martin station, opened July 30, a total of 100,439 pounds of milk was received, being the largest single day's receipts in whole.

The local plant is the largest of the company, which operates a number of condensaries throughout the United States.

Young Hunter Victim of Gun

Louis B. Shaffer, 20, Killed When Gun is Accidentally Discharged.

The first accidental death in Western Kentucky as the result of the November hunting season occurred Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when Louis Brenton Shaffer, 20, a resident of the old Mayfield road, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun.

Young Shaffer and two companions had been hunting and had stopped at the store of Charles Hopkins on the old Mayfield road to purchase cigarettes. They placed their guns against the side of the store and were on the porch when one of the guns was accidentally discharged. The shot struck Shaffer in the middle of the chin, pierced his brain and emerged back of the left ear. He was killed instantly. No one was able to explain what caused the gun to discharge.

VETERAN RELIEF IS BIG RED CROSS TASK

Service to Disabled in Ten Years
Since Armistice Has Cost
$65,800,000.

In this year of the tenth anniversary of the Armistice, which ended the world war, the American Red Cross still finds a great army of disabled and sick veterans requiring assistance, and whose families also must be aided according to a statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations of the Red Cross at Washington. In the ten years since November 11, 1918, the Red Cross has expended approximately $65,800,000 in veteran relief work, Mr. Fieser said.

There is a daily average of 25,500 disabled and sick world war veterans enrolled in Veterans' Bureau and other government hospitals which care for these men and women, and about the same annual average of veterans succumbing to wounds and illness, for whose dependents the Red Cross is pledged to give required assistance, Mr. Fieser pointed out.

In addition, the Red Cross, under its charter granted by Congress, has a definite duty towards service men of the regular establishment of Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and follows them to all foreign ports or duty. The expenditure in this work for the year ending June 30, 1928, was $307,458, the annual report states.

"Upon the Red Cross rests the sacred obligation of carrying on relief work for the disabled service and ex-service men and women and their dependents, taking up the work where the Government is not able to carry on," Mr. Fieser said. "The Red Cross has 349 trained workers, serving either full or part time in the field, in station work, camps and hospitals, who are always in personal contact with the sick and disabled in hospitals, with the men in the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and who stand ever ready to serve veterans back in civil life, who need the help of a friendly agency to aid in establishing their rights and claims."

"To maintain this staff and to support the practical services they render, the Red Cross made expenditure of $1,169,795 for the year ending June 30, 1928. In addition 2,709 Red Cross Chapters, in that number of communities, who have established special work for the disabled service and ex-service people, expended during the past year $1,732,000."

The annual report states that the number of death claims alone of veterans which are handled through the War Service at national headquarters of the Red Cross, has increased from 12,019 in 1927-28 to 23,602 in 1927-28. During the year ending June 30, 1928, War Service assisted Chapters in adjusting Government claims amounting to benefits to veterans or their dependents, to $633,285.72 in awards for compensation, insurance, adjusted compensation, burial expenses, etc. In addition to this amount, which represented lump sum payments, awards were obtained for $153,289 in monthly installments of insurance and compensation and in quarterly adjusted compensation payments.

Mr. Fieser points out that Red Cross Roll Call comes once each year, and that it is the only occasion upon which the Red Cross asks for funds with which to carry on its activities, of which War Service is one. From Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, the American people are asked to support this work through their Red Cross memberships.

GOAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL 5,000,000 MEMBERS

Disaster Relief and Work for Veterans Cause Heavy Drain on Resources.

In order to enable the American Red Cross to carry on its broad activities, ranging from service to the world war veteran to instant response in time of disaster, a membership of 5,000,000 should be enrolled, and in this year of 1928-1929 that is the goal set for the twelfth annual roll call, to be held from November 11 to 29, Armistice to Thanksgiving Day.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross at Washington, in calling upon the nation for 5,000,000 adult members, directs attention to the great expenditures required of the Red Cross for disaster and veteran relief work, and for its many other activities devoted to health preservation and improvement and to cutting down the number of accidental deaths, through life saving and first aid courses.

"The Red Cross should at all times have a large reserve fund," Judge Payne stated, "because when disaster strikes, and this organization is called into instant action, there is no time to stop and raise funds. Dollars may mean lives, so we should have at all times a good reserve. We have been forced each year to draw upon our reserves, and we find that the demands are increasing annually."

Judge Payne pointed out that in the fiscal year of 1927-28, the Red Cross had extended aid in 66 major catastrophes in the United States and its insular possessions, and in 22 nations abroad. This does not include the West Indies hurricane disaster in Porto Rico and Florida, which occurred after the close of the Red Cross fiscal year, June 30, 1928.

The Red Cross expenditures for disaster in that period were $16,544,238.7, of which approximately $13,000,000 was expended in the Mississippi Valley for the flood relief work, which came from a fund contributed by the public. More than $1,000,000 was expended in the St. Louis tornado disaster, and more than $1,000,000 in New England. In both cases public relief funds were raised, although in New England the Red Cross contributed in excess of $500,000 from its own funds for the relief work. In the majority of the other 66 disasters, and in all of the 22 foreign catastrophes in which the Red Cross extended aid, the money came from its own resources.

The largest item in the annual budget of the Red Cross is for its veteran relief and work for disabled ex-service and service men, upon which it expended in this year $1,169,795.

Every man and woman is asked by Judge Payne to join the Red Cross during the roll call period, to aid in these humanitarian enterprises.

Ten years after the Armistice, the American Red Cross still carries on for the world war veteran, providing comfort and entertainment for him in hospital, aiding his family where necessary, preparing and following through his claims for insurance, compensation or disability.

America holds the Red Cross emblem sacred because it represents a universal helpfulness—a service to all citizens—without regard to race, color or creed.
