Yours respectfully,
J. T. PHILLIPS

The bride was lovely in a tailored gown of new basket weave. Her French hat was trimmed with shaded wings. She carried three year old mules. They are a beautiful pair and Mr. Bridges is justly proud of them. When Mr. Bridges entered the show ring the crowd yelled themselves hoarse for Uncle Joe and he says that he did not think that any person there knew him.—Mayfield Messenger.

Frank M. Lupton, president of the F. M. Lupton company, incorporated publishers of the People's Home Journal and a millionaire, killed himself by cutting his throat in the bathroom of his home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

United States Senator Robert L. Taylor, three times governor of Tennessee, and whose term in the United States senate does not expire until 1912, was nominated for governor by the regular Democratic convention in Nashville. Gov. M. H. Patterson was nominated several months ago to succeed himself, but the nomination caused a split in the party and he withdrew from the race, hoping thereby to unite the party.

Providence of orders is the verdict reached by members of the Illinois railroad commission who investigated the head-on wreck of two McKinley interurban cars, with the loss of 36 lives, near Stanton, Ill. After an inquiry General Manager Chubbuck issued an official statement in which he said that Motorman John W. Lierman of the northbound car was alone responsible for overrunning a siding.

A Wabash freight train left the track at the curve near Wright City, Mo. Twelve cars were derailed and the track badly damaged.

Jim Hatfield, a member of the famous Hatfield feudist family, was shot to death in a saloon in Henderson, Ky., by John Puckett, a fisherman. The men quarreled over the payment for drinks.

Dr. Haldane Clemenson, recently sentenced to the penitentiary for life for the murder of his wife in Chicago, was granted a stay of sentence by the state supreme court.

Florian Kengerski, a clerk, was arrested on a charge of taking rings from the fingers of his dead sweet heart, Stella Palmer, with whose body he sat up at night.

The celebration of high mass by Archbishop John M. Farley, head of the archdiocese of New York, was the beginning of a two days' religious festival for the dedication of St. Patrick's cathedral in New York to the uses of religion, unencumbered by debt.

The consecration of the great Catholic place of worship at 17th and Avenue of the Americas, brought together an assembly of prelates only a little less notable than that which marked the recent Eucharistic congress in Montreal.

The Standard Oil company, through its official publicity representative, J. C. Clarke, has announced that the company has inaugurated a campaign to increase the world's consumption of refined oil, and is lowering the price of refined oil in Europe and the far east. This action follows that of August last, when the Standard Oil company reduced refined oil in this country to 1 cent a gallon from 2 cents.

The level of prices for refined oil in tanks from 6 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents a gallon. In part the statement reads: "The Standard Oil company has inaugurated a campaign to increase the world's consumption of refined oil, and is lowering the price of refined oil in Europe and the far east. This action follows that of August last, when the Standard Oil company reduced refined oil in this country to 1 cent a gallon from 2 cents."

A trifle more than 440,000 shares of stock were represented by proxy at the meeting, which includes the 206,000 shares of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co. held in the main offices of the company, at New York, and in the hands of the stockholders present to transact the official business of the conference.

Only a few shareholders of the company attended the meeting, and prominent among these was H. Walters, of New York, chairman of the board of directors, who held proxies representing a controlling interest in the company.

The only business transacted was the reading of the annual report of Milton H. Smith, president, devoted to the operations and earnings of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co. for the year ending December 31, 1910. The report was read by the president, who was elected to a full staff of directors. All the old directors were re-elected without change.

Twelve persons were injured when an outboard traction car on the Lehigh Valley division of the Lehigh Valley Traction company turned over in taking a curve near Broad Ripple, a suburb of Indianapolis.

In a pistol duel Mrs. Temple Smith, wife of Dr. Temple Smith of Lake Charles, La., proved quicker on "the draw" and slew her husband, according to the statements of witnesses at the coroner's inquest.

Seventy persons escaped in a miraculous manner, several were injured, and it was reported that at least one fireman was caught in the ruins when fire destroyed a five-story factory building in New York. It was estimated by Chief Croker the damage resulting from the fire was between $200,000 and $250,000.

Pearl Jones, a 17-year-old negro student at the Holy Rosary Catholic school, Galveston, Tex., was shot and instantly killed rolling into church by Robert Grant, a young negro, who then turned the revolver on himself, being a shot which caused his death. The two were sweethearts, the intentions of another man causing the tragedy.

Federal officers in New York are making strenuous efforts to locate some part of the $500,000 cash brokerage-firm of H. B. Scheffels & Co. is said to have liven from its customers on its many western mining schemes.

A bold attempt was made to rob the bank of McClelland, Iowa. A man giving the name of Tom Kirby, whose home is said to be at Oakland, Iowa, entered the bank and, presenting a revolver, demanded that the cashier, Walter Julius, turn over the bank's money. Julius, after a brief struggle, complied with the demand, and the robber was slightly wounded in the arm. Julius was not hurt.

At least 60 people were injured, many seriously, when a reviewing stand for the Priests of Pallas parade at the northeast corner of Eleventh and Troost streets, Kansas City, collapsed.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Forty-Fifth Annual Meeting Held at Winchester.

Winchester.—The 45th annual convention of the Kentucky Union Sunday-school association, convened here today. The convention was held at the Winchester Hotel, and was the largest ever held in this city. The association is composed of about 1,200 churches, and delegates are here from at least 100 counties.

The sessions were held in the spacious new building of the First Christian church, with a seating capacity of 1,200. The music was under the direction of E. O. Excell, the great musical composer of Chicago, and the accompanist was Alvin W. Roper, one of the world's greatest pianists, who was the pianist at the world's convention at Washington.

Two of the world's greatest secretaries were here. W. C. Pearce, who is at the head of the great adult Bible class movement, and Dr. Franklin McKelvey, who has charge of the teachers' training work of America.

The exercises on the opening day consisted of the written prescription of a physician and without satisfying himself that the poison would be used for legitimate purposes. Attorneys for Katzman contended that the words "retail" and "legitimate purposes," as used in Section 2520 of the Kentucky statutes, were too indefinite and uncertain, and, therefore, the statute is invalid. The court here in an exhaustive opinion by Judge Carroll says the language of the statute is sufficiently specific and upholds the fine imposed on Katzman.

The state board of pharmacy won a victory in the court of appeals when the case of Katzman vs. Commonwealth from Jefferson was affirmed. The effect of the decision is that a druggist can not sell morphine or other poisons to anyone except upon the prescription of a physician. Katzman is a druggist and he was indicted upon information furnished the Commonwealth through the state board of pharmacy, for selling morphine to a man without the written prescription of a physician.

Miss Myra Burdick, a prominent young woman of Louisville, stationed herself at the door of one car, kicked every man in the face with her pointed shoes when they tried to board the car and herself reached out and took babies from the arms of their mothers. When the train started there were five babies aboard whose mothers were left behind. They are being cared for in the hospital here.

Villages Are Wiped Out.—The fires have wiped out the villages of Beaudette, Spooner, Graceton, Pitt, Myron and Malcolm. The last two named places are small settlements in Beltrami county, south of Warroad.

The greatest property loss occurred at Beaudette and Spooner, which is practically a dry community, being separated by a narrow river. The other consisted of only a few small buildings. There were hundreds of homes destroyed, and as there are no roads in the district save for the trails through the bush, it is feared that many lives have been lost that will not be reported for weeks.

The state of Minnesota is sparing no expense to check the fire. The state fire warden is monitoring every man he can procure and he is instructed to use every possible means at command, regardless of cost. Every man available is fighting the fires, but because of the moss which covers the ground to a depth of from one to two feet, agents almost impossible to do anything.

Sweeping Toward Manitoba.—Where the blaze is fanned by a breeze, all efforts to check it are futile and it is only where it is creeping along the ground that any attempt is made to head it off. To do this it is necessary to dig wide and deep trenches. The fires are almost on the boundary of Manitoba, burning over the Sprague Timber company's lands around Sprague, Manitoba. The fires are making steady progress toward the wooded district of southeastern Manitoba and from the north is another fire coming to join them.

There were 2,000 residents of Beaudette, Spooner and adjacent territory, some of whom are dead, but most of whom are safe on the Canadian side of the line. Among the missing are the homesteaders and farmers of the bush, about whom nothing can be learned for some time as searching parties do not dare venture into the still smoking forests through which the cyclone of fire has swept.

State's Attorney Burke of Sagamon County, Illinois, Makes Final Preparations.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—Final preparations for the trial of bribery cases in the Sagamon county circuit court are being made by State's Attorney Burke.

The case against Senator John Goodrich of Chicago, charged with bribing Senator D. W. Rutledge, of Ill. to vote for Senator William Lorimer will be set for trial Tuesday. The case against Senator S. C. Pemberton and Representative Joseph Clark, charged with conspiracy, will be tried Monday, October 17.

The trial of Minority Leader Leo O'Neil Browne, Representative Robert E. Wilson, Frank J. Trout and Louis D. Hirschman will follow the Hirschman case.

Choked to Death by Shirtband.—Hartford, Conn. Oct. 11.—A badly scorched shirt bosom and a blackened shirt collar were the only remains of a man who died in a fire here. The man was found in a room which had been used as a bedroom. The fire was caused by a gas stove which had been left burning.

Lexington.—The 12th session of the Grand Jurors of the 12th circuit of Kentucky is in session in the Auditorium here. There are at least 500 representatives from the 120 subordinate judges throughout the state in attendance at this session of the Grand Jurors.

FRANKFORT NOTES.

Frankfort's population this year is 11,598, according to the estimate made by the Caron Directory Co., which has just issued its first directory of Frankfort. The actual number of names in the directory is 5,709, and using a multiple of two, as is done in other cities, gives Frankfort the population stated. It is usually customary to use the multiple three, that is, estimate that for every person whose name is in the directory there are two whose names are not in it, being children, married women or names not recorded. If this multiple was used Frankfort would have a population of nearly 15,000.

Salaries of teachers in the schools of the state will not be paid until October 15, instead of October 8, but they will be only one week late, thanks to Capt. Ed. Parley, state treasurer, who has stretched every effort to get together enough money to pay all the teachers. Capt. Parley notified Prof. Elsworth Reggstein, superintendent of public instruction, that the money would be on hand on October 15, and to notify county superintendents that pay day must be on that date, instead of a week earlier. The amount that will be distributed will be half a million dollars.

LOSS OF LIFE IS HEAVY

Many Towns Are in Ashes and Flames
Are Sweeping on Toward Man-

Farmers Missing.

Warroad, Minn., Oct. 11.—Estimates of the loss of life in the forest fires which started Friday, wiped out several small towns and are still burning. The range all the way from fifty to two hundred.

The property loss will mount well into the millions. The fire zone covers an area of 85 miles in length from the gravel pits west of Warroad to Stratton, the fourth station east of Rainy river, and in with about thirty miles, covering all the territory between Red Lake and the Lake of the Woods.

When the refugees fled in panic for the freight train that bore them from Rainy River to International Falls, the men crushed down women and children and in spite of the fact that the cars were choked so that standing room was at a premium, they insisted on crumpling themselves in.

HIGH TRIBUNAL ENTERS UPON MOST IMPORTANT TERM AT NATIONAL CAPITAL.

JUSTICE HARLAN PRESIDES

Tobacco Trust, Standard Oil, Corporation Tax, Virginia Debt and Other Cases of Great Significance to Be Heard.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The supreme court of the United States, presided over temporarily by John M. Harlan as senior associate justice, opened the October term and prepared for what is likely to go down in history as one of the most important years in the record of that judicial body.
Charles Evans Hughes, former governor of New York, took the oath of office and was seated at the right of the bench in the place customarily occupied by the last commissioned of the justices. When this impressive ceremony was completed, the court heard motions. Justice Harlan thereupon announced the death of Chief Justice Fuller during the recess and the court adjourned out of respect to his memory. The usual practice of adjourning to call upon the president was dispensed with, as President Taft was not in the city.

Associate Justice J. M. Harlan.

When the court adjourned last May there were 585 cases on the docket which had not been disposed of. Since then 106 cases have been filed with the court, thereby making the total number of cases on the docket today 692. The last October term of the court was ushered in with 587 cases for the supreme body to act on. The total this year is the largest in the history of the court. In this connection the docket shows that there has been a steady increase each year for the last half century.

Virginia Debt Case Is Up.

Although the tobacco trust, Standard Oil, railroad and the corporation tax cases are regarded as the most important ones now before the supreme bench, there are a number of other cases of considerable national significance. One of the latter is the original act of the state of Virginia against its next door neighbor, West Virginia, in which several million dollars are involved as the result of the division of Virginia. In its original state, the suit consists of an attempt to compel West Virginia to shoulder part of the debt that existed in Virginia at the time of the division.

Big "Trust-Busting" Cases.

The tobacco trust and Standard Oil cases are to be argued and the clerk of the court has placed them on the docket for November without any definite date. In each of these cases the government has assumed the role of "trust-buster," because of its attempt to dissolve what it deems a trust operating in violation of the Sherman antitrust act.

The case against the American Tobacco company, generally known as the "tobacco trust," is one in which the supreme court must determine if the company is a combination in restraint of trade. Several lower courts have held it to be such, while on the other hand some of the courts have decided otherwise. Attorney General Wickersham is expected to personally appear before the supreme court during the arguments in this suit, although the government will be represented the greater part of the time by its solicitor general.

The contention of the government in the Standard Oil case is grounded under nine separate heads. Among them are: that the company is a combination in restraint of trade, that it obtained rebates and discriminatory rates in the transportation of its products, as against its competitors, and that it is engaged in oppressive methods of competition, thereby destroying the small manufacturers and dealers throughout the country.

Possibly what is considered to be next of importance are the corporation tax cases, which have been assigned for argument at such time as a full bench will be present. No definite date for a hearing has been set.

SEEK IMPRISONED MINERS

RESCUERS WORK DESPERATELY AT EXPLODED MINE.

Portable Fan Drives Out Black Damp
and Search of Works
Is Renewed.

Starkville, Colo., Oct. 11.—When dawn broke it found mine officials, state mine inspectors, helmet men and other expert-mining men, faithfully working to reach the 32 miners entrapped in the Starkville mine by the explosion of Saturday.

Word came out of the mouth of the mine at midnight that the portable fan, near the entrance to the east slope, or short cut of the mine, was working steadily, and the deadly after-damp, which threatened the lives of rescuers and drove them from the slope, had been driven away. The belief was expressed that the interior gradually would be relieved of this menace.

Renewed efforts to rescue the imprisoned men were made, part of the plan being, it was announced, to find a path to where they are believed to be huddled together in death, or perhaps, if still alive, enclosed in a small space selected by themselves and quickly shut off by them when the explosion came, to protect themselves from the black damp which invariably follows explosions in coal mines. The latter hypothesis is based upon the probability that the men were not immediately killed by the explosion, or suffocated afterwards by deadly gases.

Every plan that the ingenuity of experts can summon is being put into use to penetrate the black depths of the mine and reach the imprisoned men.

MAKERS OF CITIES MEET

American Society of Municipal Improvements Opens Its Seventeenth Annual Convention in Erie.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 11.—Experts in the methods of building up modern cities are in session in Erie today, and will be here until Friday evening, hearing and discussing papers on many topics that pertain to the especial work in which they are interested. They are members of the American Society of Municipal Improvements and have come from many states. The president of the society is Julian Kendrick of Birmingham, Ala., and this morning in the Chamber of Commerce he delivered to an address of welcome delivered by the mayor of Erie, M.
Liedt, Jr., and made his annual talk to the organization. The rest of the morning was devoted to routine business.

This afternoon George C. Whipple of New York reported for the committee on sewerage and sanitation.
Prof. H. N. Oden of Cornell told about the use of the septic tank; R.
Winthrop Pratt talked of municipal sanitation in Cuba, and Joseph O'Neil of Elmhurst, Kan., read a paper concerning the largest sewer of that city. Several illustrated talks will be given this evening. Many of the members have brought their wives and the local committee has arranged for their entertainment with automobile rides, theater parties and other affairs.

ARIZONA CONVENTION ON

Delegates Gather in Phoenix to Make a Constitution for the State.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 11.—Almost all the members of the constitutional convention which convened here on hand and caucuses of the various county delegations were held.

While the pledged delegates are divided by geographical lines, the ultimate division probably will be between the progressives and conservatives among the Democrats, who have a majority of 30. A warm contest is expected.

Negroes Kill Deputy Sheriff.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 11.—In a fight between Deputy Sheriff Charles Stamps and a crowd of negro gangsters at Dawson, Stamps was killed, and three negroes were shot, probably fatally.

COAL GRAFT PLOT EXPOSED TO TAFT

PROMOTERS OF SCHEME TO CON-TROL FUEL SUPPLY
TO SHIPS.

PRETTY SCHEME AT CANAL

President is Aroused and Will Go to Panama in November, Instead of Waiting Until March
of Next Year.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 11.—Information volunteered as a warning to the administration that a combination has been formed for the purpose of using the Panama canal for purposes of rich graft, has been received in Beverly.

The information is guarded with the utmost secrecy and none in authority will discuss it, but it can be stated that a plan of conspiracy has been laid out. President Taft has reconsidered his plan to defer his trip to Panama until next March. In fact, President Taft will leave Washington during the first week in November on a long cruise for Panama.

A monopoly of coal to ships passing through the canal is said to be one of the planned activities of the combine.
The administration's informant in the present situation is known to be completely convinced of the menace confronting the canal. His position is such that the facts in his possession compel attention.

The matter is of such widespread importance that a statement is certain to issue from the executive's office here within a day or two announcing that the president will probably leave for Panama early in November.

Those who control this coal concession, said one of the high officials of the Lathrop, friends of Taft, 90 per cent of the coal in the canal zone is now in the hands of a few men. The city of taking on is that I positively know it is a graft scheme.

"Unless under government a great conspiracy is being hatched up by favoritism with competing interests there are several lines of belief did decide to investigate the matter. I am not sure if this is the Hamburg American, owned and operated by German capital. And there are many others."

Wants Government Control.

My certain knowledge, Col.
Goethals has been bitterly opposing the letting of this important concession to any private individual or to any corporation. He has made a close study of all the complications that might follow the private ownership of coaling stations, and his stand is that the United States government should own and operate the stations.

This is only one of numerous other matters, which according to information, requires the personal attention of Mr. Taft.

Head of Rebellion Pleads Guilty.

Manila, Oct. 11.—Simon Mandat, at one time governor of Ilocos Norte, was at the head of a rising in Nueva Vizcaya, and who was captured recently by the constabulary, pleaded guilty before the court at Iloilo.
He placed the burden of the blame on his co-conspirators and promised to reveal all the details of the plot. Sentence was reserved.

Los Angeles Victims Buried.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—Seven teen of the twenty or more men who lost their lives in the explosion that wrecked the Times newspaper plant were buried today by side in Hollywood cemetery. The funeral service was held for all in Temple audium, which was packed by 2,500 men and women.

WILL HOLD DEITZ FAMILY

CABIN NEARLY WRECKED AFTER SURRENDER.

Mother Tries to Save Son, but Authorities Go Back to Affair of Four Years Ago.

Hayward, Wis., Oct. 11.—District Attorney J. C. Davis will decide whether to place John Deitz, the defender of Cameron Dam, on trial for the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp, or for the assault on Bert Horst, which led to the loss of the Deitz cabin. Harp was shot by Deitz when he ventured from cover during the fighting Saturday, during which two other deputies were wounded.

For the first time in his life, Deitz is completely within the power of the authorities.

Hundreds of souvenir seekers nearly demolished the little cabin when he so stubbornly defended. A swarm of people were constantly about the place, digging into the logs in hopes of extracting some of the bullets fired by the posse. Many bullets from the high-powered rifles passed entirely through the little cabin.

Charges are also to be made against Mrs. Deitz, the oldest son, Clarence, now in jail, and Leslie, who was in the cabin Saturday with his father. Myra, the oldest daughter, is still confined in a hospital here, but as soon as she has recovered from the wound inflicted by deputy sheriffs she will be arraigned with the others.

Mrs. Deitz asserted that Leslie did not fire a shot during the fighting Saturday, so that nothing can be proved against anyone but Deitz in connection with this trouble, but the authorities are going back four years for a charge to place against the mother, daughter and two sons.

In 1906 a party of deputies led by John Rogich and John Heft sought to storm the Deitz home, and serve him with papers in the injunction suit started by the lumber syndicate over the dam which Deitz was defending.
Rogich and Heft were wounded, and the prosecutor alleges the entire family aided Deitz in resisting the attack of the deputies.

GIRL'S STATUE ON LAWN

Miss Natalie Barney of Washington Poses in Altitude for Sister, and Result Is Seen.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The life-size figure of a woman reposes in the garden at the west of Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney's residence, North Sheridan circle.

Naturally, lovers of the beautiful among Mrs. Barney's neighbors, are manifesting intense interest in the figure. Mrs. Barney's lovely daughter, Miss Natalie, was the model for the statue. This interesting information comes from Paris, where Miss Natalie has an apartment.

Mrs. Barney's older daughter, Miss Laura Alice, was the sculptor to whom her sister posed "in the attitude."
When Mrs. Barney had the statue shipped here from Paris she intended that it should be placed inside the house. But when it arrived it was discovered that the doorway was not large enough to admit it.

oners were set at large.

Simple Expedient.

An American student at a German university tells of a professor who was reading about in a classroom, appears on a celebrated living German novelist, which had been written by the members of the class. After reading one he commented upon its excellence. "You show an exact comprehension of the matter," he said, addressing the student who had written the paper; "tell us what method you used." "Oh," replied the student,
"I just wrote to X—stating what I wanted to know, and that was what he sent back."

DAME NATURE HINTS

When the Food Is Not Sued.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food. The old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried various kinds of breakfast food, but they were all soft, starchy messes which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating."

"A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice. I began using them three months ago."

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way."

"Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

"There's a Reason."

THURSDAY, OCT. 13, 1910

At a meeting of the Confederate Veterans' Association of Kentucky, held in Lexington last Friday and at which four of the States camps were represented, it was decided that the organization was to exist as long as a single member survives, and that all funds in its control should continue to be held by the association, and left to the last surviving member with which annually to celebrate the memory of his dead comrades. This decision was taken in view of the fact that some of the members of the association are now getting old and feeble, many of them becoming unable to attend the meeting, or pay their dues, the association be dissolved and the money in its treasury be distributed.

The Calloway county water carnival opens today at Murray. —Paducah Sun.

You narrow, infernal, one-gal-loused gallout, aint you got no respect for a people deep in sorrow and disappointment? No body realizes more fully than did the Calloway folks last Wednesday morning that it was water, water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink.

It was suggested by some chap with an eye to eternal fitness of things that the horse show and fair had been called off and a more pleasing exhibit, that of a calf show, inaugurated instead. To say the least a good looking bunch was parading the show grounds.

Reaching the Top.

In any calling of life, demands a vigorous body and a keen brain. Without health there is no success. But Electric Bitters is the greatest health builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies and invigorates the whole system and enables you to stand the wear and tear of your daily work. After months of suffering from kidney trouble, writes W. M. Sherman, of Collins, Mo.: "Three bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man."

Mrs. Bessie Bourland died Tuesday night of infirmities of age, at the home of her son, Nat Bourland, about two miles north of town. Mrs. Bourland's home was in Alto but she was visiting her son at the time of her death. Mrs. Bourland was about 75 years of age and was a daughter of Nathan Bowman. She leaves two sons, Nat and Orlander, and a sister, Mrs. Josie Holt, of this place. Rev. Radd conducted the services and interment was at the family grave yard north of town.

All men who have torpid liver, weak digestion or constipated bowels look out for chills. The sea on is here and the air is full of the disease germs. CALLOWAY CITIZEN PASSES AWAY AT HIS OLD HOME.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 8.—Mr. Jim Willingham, whose home is in Calloway county, came over to Cuba this county on some business and while there took sick with dropsy and died Tuesday and was buried at Dodson graveyard Wednesday.

This is the Mr. Willingham who killed his brother a few years ago near Cuba, after which he left his home and moved with his family to Calloway county. He was never arrested or tried for the killing of his brother, because it was always understood that it was done absolutely in self defense.

It is reported that while on his death bed the other day he was conscious of the fact that the killing had been done to save his own life, that he said that if the whole thing had to be done over again he would do as he had done. The only regrets that he had was that he was forced to commit the deed in order to save his own life.

Mr. Willingham left a wife and several children and was always a man highly respected in that section. He died at the home of Joe Taylor.

James Willingham shot his brother, Foster Willingham about 5 o'clock on the morning of August 17, 1908. It seemed that the shooting was the result of some family trouble. James Willingham and wife and Foster Willingham slept in the same room. The weapon used was a shot gun and he was shot through the nipple while in bed. A pistol was found by the side of Foster Willingham and the facts that were brought out at the inquest were that Jas. Willingham fired the shot to save his life. After the shooting Willingham escaped and had never been back to Graves county until last week when he returned. It is said that he had been living in the edge of Calloway county in the mountains near the Tennessee line. It was also learned that he never told any person in that section where he was from or imported any information regarding his past life.

Foster Willingham was about 20 years old at the time he was killed.

Before and After.

She had been invited up town to take lunch with a friend for the first time. The entrance was imposing. She began to wish she had put on her gown. She came near going home to put it on, when the girl at the desk mentioned her to the rear of the lobby to the flat of her friend. She was ushered into the smallest hall she ever saw. She squeezed through it into the smallest flat she had ever had eyes on. Her friend showed her around it.

"Isn't it the limit?" she asked. "I could put the whole four rooms into one room of the house I lived in in Pennsylvania."

"It is a fine sample of a flat," said she. But she didn't tell her that the entrance had been so imposing she had come near going home to put on her finest togs.

Queen's Curious Peroulette.

The Welsh captain who caught a staron in Pawtucket harbor and offered it to King George was doing no more than his duty. His majesty is entitled to every staron landed in the United Kingdom, and one of them landed in the Thames, against the festive board at Queen Victoria's dining banquet. The king also has the right to staron the heads of every state embassador, the heads of his kingdom, the chief of the police, the judges, the officers of the army, the division being that her majesty shall always be well supplied with whalebone, although singularly enough the whalebone is the king's half. Among other things which the king is entitled to are a pair of white doves, a pound of cumlin seed, a pair of scarlet hose and a silver needle from the ruler.

LOOKED LIKE A REVOLUTION

Staid Old Philadelphia Aristocrats Eared the Results of Recent General Strike.

Since the Philadelphia strike was settled and the old Quaker town has relapsed into its customary breeding quiet it has come out that a considerable portion of the staid old aristocracy, in which Philadelphia takes such pride, was in a state of nervous prostration the whole time.

At the beginning of hostilities, when the street car operatives went out on strike, it was thought the trouble would soon blow over, but when the general strike was called and it appeared as if the entire working class of the city was going to quit work and throng the streets several fidgety old dowagers decided that it was going to be nothing less than a French revolution in duplicate. Forthwith they prepared for a siege. Cellars were stocked with barrels of flour, cases of canned goods and stores of provisions of all kinds, to be held against the day of want and starvation. In some cases street doors were battened down and watchmen were placed on guard of sight. Now that the troubles have subsided and the city has resumed its wonted aspect of peace and sobriety, several prominent Philadelphia families find themselves overstocked with food stuffs, and are now wondering what they became so scared about anyhow. It is doubtful if such a piece of absurdity would have been possible in any other city in the country, but Philadelphia is an exception to all rules, especially Philadelphia's aristocracy.

PEOPLE THAT PAPA HEEDED

Little Daughter's Ingenious Plea Put a Stop to the Piano Playing at Once.

A Philadelphia man who finds much amusement in playing rag-time melodies on the piano received a rude shock one evening recently at the hands of his daughter, a sweet little miss of some fourteen years.

It was warm and the house was wide open when the fond parent sat down at the piano and began "pawing the ivories" with unusual ardor. While he was playing his daughter came into the room with a companion.

"Daddy, stop playing," she said.

Somewhat surprised, the father wanted to know why she should cease entertaining herself. The little girl was not inclined to explain.

Finally she said: "Why, the neighbors have a lot of company."

"Is that all?" commented daddy, with fine scorn. "Well, if they don't like my playing they can close their windows," and he attacked the piano with renewed vigor.

"Yes, but daddy," pleaded the daughter, as she elided over to her parent and put her arm over his neck, "they'll think it was I playing."

That settled it. He stopped.

Snowdrift Hogless Lard

has snowed them all under!

Snowdrift is made of highly refined cotton seed oil and lard. It is the most economical shortening you could select, goes one-third further than lard, and in contrast with hog grease, is absolutely healthful in result and effect. It produces the most beautiful pastries and delicacies, and is as rich as butter for frying. It is sold by leading progressive dealers everywhere. Be sure to call for Snowdrift Hogless Lard, and emphasize the fact that you will not tolerate substitution. Made by

Queer Questions.
Queer questions come over the telephone to the newspaper offices. Here was one that the man who chanced to answer the phone had put up to him the other day.

"Say," began the unknown seeker after the truth, "do you—do you remember who it was that killed Abel?"

"Why, Cain, of course," replied the newspaper man, who put in several years at Sunday school. "Who'd you suppose?"

"Well," observed the man at the other end in an annoyed tone, "doggon if I ain't gone and made a fool of myself. Course it was Cain, now that you mention it, but I made a two to one bet with a fellow that 'twas Gollath, and now I'll have to go without a new overcoat. I reckon, this next winter."

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Telephonic Reply.
The elderly stranger, by invitation of the superintendent, was addressing the Sunday school.

"How many can tell me," he asked, "which is the longest chapter in the Bible?"

Many hands went up.

"This little boy may answer," he said, pointing his finger at an urchin in one of the seats near the front. "Which is the longest chapter in the Bible?"

"Psalm double one nine!" shouted Tommy Tucker.

He Came by It Honestly.
"Lend me your pencil, Johnny," the small boy handed it over and teacher continued to correct the exercises of the class. When she finished she suffered a sudden lapse of memory, and laid the pencil away in her desk. As she stood up to excuse the class she encountered the scornful gaze of Johnny's eyes. Rising in his seat he fixed her with an accusing forefinger and uttered the single word "Graft!" Johnny's father writes for a current magazine.

Hints For Hostess

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS
for Those Planning Seasonable Entertainments

A Boating Dinner.
This dinner was given by a coterie of four couples who had passed a great part of the summer together yachting on the great lakes. The occasion was in the nature of a little farewell to the one they called "commodore." The table was lovely and had for the center a lake made first by the tinsmith, who concocted a circle about three feet in circumference, which was surrounded with a border of ferns, vines and pond-lilies. In the water, two sail boats and a toy launch floated as natural as life, manned by cute doll sailors. To add to the festive appearance there was a huge Japanese umbrella over the table, from which small lanterns hung from every rib; they were lighted by electric lamps. At each place there was a tiny canoe, with a very small Jap lantern at the bow. The name of the guest was lettered on the side. Wee paddles painted white were stacked layonnet fashion at each place and held a small pair of bon-bons. The name flag of the boats were around the room with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes. The guests were asked to come in flannels and it was just the jolliest kind of a time. The menu was as nautical as the market could afford, beginning with oysters, fish, lobster salad, etc.

A Wild Aster Luncheon.
The lovely wild aster furnished the key note to one of the prettiest luncheons I ever attended. This dainty flower is very common, and really it is very beautiful. With it always comes the golden rod, as they grow usually in close proximity. For a table centerpiece there was a low green pottery bowl containing a flower holder, so that the blossoms branched out in a charming manner. The dillies were white, with finger bowl and tumbler dillies having embroidered designs in lavender. First we had lead grape juice in tall glasses resting on dillies of grape leaves. Then there was the usual luncheon menu with a delicious grape juice sherbet for dessert, decorated with candied violet leaves, the plates set in a wreath of asters. The rooms were lavishly decorated with golden-rod, and the combination of lavender asters and the brilliant yellow was very effective.

A Novel Amusement for Children.
At a recent party for youngsters from nine to eleven they had a soap bubble contest. First the hostess gave each child a sheet of colored crepe paper and a needle and thread. A grown-up took each pipe and quickly drew a face on the back of the bowl and the children were told to make dolls of them. A couple of prizes were offered and it was surprising what attractive creations were turned out. The boys did just about as well as the girls. The pipe babies were taken home as souvenirs. There were favors for the soap bubble contest, too.

A Vegetable Race.
It is best to play this out doors, unless there is plenty of room inside. Take vegetables and lay in two rows about six feet apart. In each row have six assorted vegetables, like carrots, beets, turnips and potatoes. Place them a foot and a half apart. At the end of each line have a large tray or basket. Start two players at a time, each at the near end of a row. The game is to lift with a table spoon one vegetable at a time and carry it to the basket. The one who makes the best time wins. Of course there must be a judge and a time-keeper. Vegetable candy boxes make excellent prizes.

A Pillow Shower.
This was not given for a bride, but for two girls who were going away to school. To furnish their joint sitting room was the idea of the home girls who gave it. The result was a fine collection of useful and ornamental pillows or cushions, from those for the couch to dainty confections of dotted awais and ribbon for the dressing table. There were also cushions filled with pins of all sizes and with needles. There were denim cushions large enough to sit on when placed on the floor, and what girl does not adore sitting on the floor in front of the fire and dream long, happy dreams of the days that are yet to come? A bride-elect who heard of the affair said she thought such a downpour would be very acceptable, so the readers who have been asking for something new in the way of showers may adapt this to their needs.

MADAME MERRIL
FANCIES OF FASHION

The low lying effect in hats still prevails. Everything tends to smaller collars. Shawl collars are still a feature of coats. Egyptian embroideries are in high favor. New handbags are perfectly square. The bag tied in effects are even seen in coats. The longer cigarette is in high favor and is beautiful. Heavier hats with enormous rosettes of tulle are worn. Some of the richest opera cloaks have kimono sleeves. Metallic, beaded and Persian effects are popular in lacodons. Large wings are in demand for tail-coats and semi-dress hats. The chenille dot is going to have another inning in velvets. White fox and ermine continue to be the leading evening furs. A late fad is the use of a shadow. Chantilly under white chiffon.

A Veiled Gown.
Rather effective and equally unusual is the gown of two-toned silk veiled with chiffon or other shimmering material. The combination is intensified if the under dress is itself trimmed with hand-work or done in the Persian colors or metallic threads.

Useful Writing Table

A VERY good scheme for constructing a rough but useful kind of writing table—for the room, perhaps, that is set aside for carpentering and other amusements—is shown in our sketch. It may be quickly arranged and easily taken down again, when not required, and it can be made at a very small cost. It consists of two strong wooden boxes, or packing cases, placed on either side of one end of a table. The lids have been removed and curtains hung in their places, fastened on to the upper edges of the boxes with ornamental brass and small brass-headed nails. The two boxes are finished off at the top with four little brass balls, screwed into the corners, and the exterior of the cases can be either painted or stained. The pigeon-holes in the center consist of nine clear boxes. One end of each has been removed, and they are fitted together in the manner shown. Small labels can be affixed at the center of the upper edge of each box to indicate its contents. There is a narrow cloth arranged across the front part of the table, and here a blotting pad, pens, ink, etc., may find a place. On the top of the pigeon-holes a fork-in-a-pot, with perhaps photographs, or vases of flowers on either side, would add greatly to the appearance of this rough but convenient "dope of furniture."

STATUE OF DOC. OR JOHNSON

Unveiled at Night and Said to Be the Worst in a City of Bad Statues.

London.—Postponed on account of the death of the late King, the ceremony of unveiling a statue of Dr. Johnson in the precincts of St. Clement Danes church was performed the other night with nothing of the parade and display customary on such occasions.

Recently the Rev. J. J. H. S. Pennington, rector of St. Clement Danes, where Johnson had his pew, and who devoted the green plot behind the apse of the church as a site for the statue, died suddenly. While the Rev. Mr.

Statue of Dr. Johnson.

Pennington was lying in state in his church, the statue was unveiled at night by the donor and sculptor, Percy Fitzgerald.

Today the bronze image of the worthy doctor may be seen looking down I's beloved Fleet street. The strongly-marked features and burly form, from the full-bottomed wig to the firmly-planted shoes, have been faithfully suggested by Mr. Fitzgerald, with the air of Sir Joshua Reynolds's portrait and the bust by Nollekens. Howell and Mrs. Thrale have their place in the bas-reliefs on the pedestal.

Why Dr. Johnson would have said about this statue of him can be imagined by any one who has seen it. As a work of art the statue is an atrocity; and it seems most appropriate that it should have been unveiled at night.

Furthermore, even the best examples of the sculptor's art, Johnson was apt to disparage. The labor consumed in painting, he once said, was not disproportionate to the result; but a fellow might hack half a year at a block of marble and only produce something that hardly resembled a man. The value of statuary, he argued, depended solely on its utility.

On the other hand, it might have pleased Johnson to know that posterity would in a special way associate his name with a place of worship that he so regularly attended.

MECHANICAL BALL PITCHER

Baseball Battery May Soon Have to Go Up Against This Machine Proposition.

Melbourne.—Human baseball pitchers and cricketers have been up against the machine proposition before now, though perhaps they have not encountered quite so formidable a mechanical rival as in the invention of Doctor Venn of the Royal Society of Great Britain, here vividly illustrated. Doctor Venn's machine is a bowler, which looks something like an allround switch, and the world, as far as Australia is concerned, is a much favor for a machine that can bowl any length, pace, direction, and break required, and that it will teach school boys and others to play cricket scientifically without the aid of a professional coach.

Danville, Pa.—A unique but effective method of trapping out who was stealing his cheap sweet corn was employed by W. V. Grimesby. At the portion of the field where the depredations have been most frequent he liberally dosed a number of emptying ears with creosote oil. He investigated and found three young men rolling about in great pain.

FROLIC WAS COSTLY HER DEAREST WISH

ROYSTERERS PAID FOR IT WITH HIGH POSITIONS.

Unfortunate Series of Incidents the Result of Future King of Westphalia's Desire for Just "One More Night."

Previous to his elevation to the sovereignty, Jerome Bonaparte had formed a friendship with some young authors-at that time in vogue for their wit and reckless gaiety. On the evening after his nomination to the crown of Westphalia he met two of his jovial companions just as he was leaving the theater. "My dear fellows," said he, "I am delighted to see you. I suppose you know that I have been created king of Westphalia." "Yes, sire, and permit us to be among the first—"

"Oh, what! You are ceremonious, methinks; that might pass were I surrounded by my court, but at present away with form and let us be off to supper."

Upon this Jerome took his friends to one of the best restaurants in the Palais Royal. The three chatted and laughed, and said and did a thousand of those foolish things which when unremediated are so delightful. It may be supposed that the conversation was not kept up without drinking. When the wine they had drunk began to take effect, "My good fellows," said Jerome, "why should we quit each other? If you approve of my proposal you shall accompany me. You, O—, shall be my secretary; as for you, P—, who are fond of books, I appoint you my librarian." The arrangement was accepted and ratified over a fresh bottle of champagne.

At length the party began to think of leaving, and accordingly called for the bill. Jerome produced his purse, but the king of Westphalia could only find two louis, which formed but a small portion of 200, the amount of the bill. The new dignitary, by clubbing their wealth, could only muster about 25.

What was to be done? At one o'clock in the morning where could resources be found? They determined to send for the master of the house and acquaint him how matters stood. He seemed to take the frolic in good part, and merely requested to know their names. Having told him, the restaurateur set his customers down as shaggers and threatened to send for the commissary of police. This alarmed Jerome, who, seeing that the restaurateur doubted them, handed over his watch in payment. This watch had been a present from Napoleon, and on the back was the emperor's cipher in brilliant.

On examining the watch the restaurateur concluded that it had been stolen, and took it to the commissary of police. The latter, recognizing the imperial cipher, ran with it to the prefect. The prefect flew to the minister of the interior, and he in turn went to the emperor at St. Cloud.

Next morning the Minister contained an ordinance by which Jerome was ordered to establish at once, and publish in a position more or less confidential, and then when I come to speak I always find myself, as you might say, shouting into the telephone. It is my experience that I make myself heard more surely when sitting, and telephoning as I do then, easily and in a low tone.

Best Way to Telephone.

"When I telephone while sitting," I frequently hear a woman say, "I telephone as good as dead, I habitually speak in a low tone, and my husband says I am a shaggy dog."

Now, a shaggy dog, when I telephone, I don't speak exactly, but I find myself always speaking in a low tone. I suppose this is because I am sitting down, and my voice is not so loud as when I am standing.

When I am sitting, I am comfortable and my voice is not so loud as when I am standing. I am sure that I can hear my voice better when I am sitting than when I am standing.

Wrong Name for a Card Sharp.

When John A. Strohsneider was arraigned before United States Commissioner Morie in Brooklyn, charged with aiding young Coleman to rob the National City bank of Cambridge, Mass., of a large amount of money, a policeman of German extraction said: "That's the first time I've heard a card sharp called by that name. The name was surely Strohsneider once on a time and was Americanized into what it is now. Strohsneider is German for straw cutter, but whenever Germans play cards they have only one name for the man who makes unpardonable mistakes, who trumps his partner's ace, who can't count 2, and who disregards rules, and that name is Strohsneider." If I were in the card business I'd never have any confidence in a man with that name.

Breaking It to Him.

"Mr. Winton, the last time you were here you forgot your watch chain and went away without it."

"Oh, I can get that any time, Miss Nona."

"Perhaps you'd better take it now, because you're going to be late, you know, before you come again."

TOT'S HEART SET ON POSSESSION OF A PONY.

And Though It Wasn't a Very Elegant Animal, the Little Girl Was Delighted.

"If I only had a pony," began the little girl. Then she stopped. That pony had been the subject of her dreams and her waking thought for weeks. It had become so much of an all-absorbing subject that it had been frowned upon in the family circle, but suppression only made it more important.

"If I only had a pony," the little girl had planned it all out. She had told father and mother the plans. Father had looked troubled and mother had seemed sorry. The little girl couldn't understand this, for to every little girl a father always has money, for he has means of earning it that little girls lack.

"Some day," father had said, and on this foundation the little girl had built the dreams and the plans. It was all arranged. There was a nice shed to keep the pony in, and she had gathered grass and put it in a soap box in the stall in case the pony should come.

She would drive to the office for father every day of the world, and when mother wanted something from the grocery in a hurry all she would have to do would be to jump on the pony or get into the little cart that comes with all ponies and get it in no time.

How the other little girls would envy her as she drove past! Some of them she would let ride with her, but some of them—no, they were mean and shouldn't even come near the pony.

Mother told father all these things at night, and father would do some in mental arithmetic in the dark and postpone till solution to another time, for all sums cannot be worked out right away.

Then mother took a hand. "John," she said, "can't we get some kind of a pony for her? Anything will do. She doesn't need a fancy pony and cart or anything like that—just something she can drive." Father said he would see.

A few days later he drove home behind a small and very tame appearing animal that might have been called a horse by courtesy. The buggy was old and rusty, but a coat of paint would settle that, and it would look fine.

"My pony!" said the little girl. That was all. She could say nothing more for at least an hour, not even when she was taken up to the buggy and allowed to drive all by herself.

"It cost only $20," father told mother when they were together that night, "and the buggy is about to fall to pieces, but she will have just as much fun out of it."

"You're a dear boy," said mother. "Nonsense," said father, gruffly. "She had to have it," said mother.

Back in the Field.

"Fandly, fandy, fandy, fandy," said the little girl, as she sat in the saddle of her pony, and as she rode up and down the field.

"Well, say, Robert," said the little girl, as she sat in the saddle of her pony, and as she rode up and down the field.

"What is it, dear?" asked her mother.

"Why, when you let me go to heaven," explained the little girl, "you'll be a fiddle again!"

Edward's Interest in Medicine.

In particular, the late King Edward was interested in the promotion of everything that might tend to bring the best aid of medicine and surgery within the reach of all, and in the wide employment of any scientific development which might mitigate or, happily, prevent the spread of dangerous disease. He was saved from typhoid fever death by the great Dr. William Jenner in 1872. In 1902 Dr. Frederick Treves, the great Scotch surgeon, operated on the king for an abscess around his appendix. In 1896 the king saved Guy's hospital from financial collapse. King Edward was Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of London and Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of England and was the intimate friend of a number of doctors.

Trusting the Situation.

"I want to exchange these," said the customer, handing a leather bag across the counter to the saleslady. "I never could wear anything that compressed me so, here," placing her two hands just above her waist line. "Oh," responded the saleslady, after dettily examining the customer's waist with a tape measure, "you need a larger size. These are too tight across the diagram."
