BRIEFLETS

In the United States, $550,000,000 has been saved by Christmas clubs this year. A love-inspired fund, and we hope the greater part of it will be spent for useless things, if toys which bring happiness to little hearts can be called useless.

We don't know how many miles a meter is, but Princess Heana has been presented with a 22-meter yacht in Sweden. Perhaps Heana has never been harassed by the upkeep of a yacht, and so doesn't know she has been handed a lemon.

Financial institutions are making the money fly these days. It is estimated that airplanes carry $24,000,000 across the country daily. Probably there will be a flight of low, rakish air schooners from Chicago when that news gets about.

Sometimes the radio listener gets the breaks. The Authors' league has forbidden the use of the song "Sonny Boy" on the air. In another week it would have grown as obnoxious as "She's Mah Baby," and "Bye, Bye, Blackbird," or as "There's a Rainbow Round My Shoulders."

Professor Beebe, naturalist, says the shark is a gentleman. He says, "If there is something kicking on the surface of the water the shark will bite at it. If the same thing sinks quietly under the surface the shark is a bit curious perhaps, but that is all." So if you happen to fall overboard in shark-infested waters and don't want to get bitten don't kick about on the surface; sink quietly beneath the surface. Sounds as simple as if advocated by a simpleton.

It may be that in Groveton the ladies have never had any money, or having had some, never contracted the habit of carrying it in their stockings, carrying their money in their stockings was a secret because the men never looked that way. That would account for the fact that Groveton never heard hosiery referred to as the First National Bank. But since hosiery has become so transparent and skirts so high there is no money carried in the First National; so it will be all right for the men to look the other way.

A St. Louis speeder stopped his car, got out and gave the pursuing motorcycle officer a punch in the nose that knocked him off his bicycle, then returned to his car and his speeding. When again overtaken he got out and disarmed the officer. "After that," explained the officer at the station, "I got rough with him." The speeder is in the hospital and the cop has a bandage around his nose. While the cop is deserving of admiration it would seem that it would have been all right if he had started getting rough a little sooner.

SELLS WORMS

Lacking $3 necessary to attend a 4-H club camp in Nevada, Mildred Cliff, 11, dug 60 dozen long, fat angleworms and sold them to an art teacher at the University of Nevada at 5 cents a dozen. Then she had the money. The art teacher fed the wigglers to her prize ducks.

Santa's Calling

Fulton High School Notes

One of the most enjoyable chapel programs of the year was presented on Tuesday morning. The first part of the program consisted of the following numbers: "Somebody Loves Me," "The Banjo Song," "When Honey Sings an Old Time Song," and "Sonny Boy," sung by Miss Annie Lucile Goldsby, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ivora Cantrell. Mr. R. E. Goldsby then made a short talk to the students, stressing the advantages of an education. The second part of the program was a very unique one. A dummy was dressed in football uniform and set on the stage with placard around his neck, which said, "Must he go alone?" Virgil Chapman, the captain of the football team, made a short talk urging every one who could, to accompany the team to Union City, on Thursday. This game is to be the first of an annual classic between Fulton high and Union City high. Then Mr. Myers announced that Senator Borah was in town and had come up to school to express his views on the Thanksgiving game. Senator Borah, in the person of Randolph Kramer, entered and made a short talk, cross-questioning the dummy, who, in reply to Borah's questions, nodded in the affirmative that he would do his best to win the game, if he had the support of the student body.

FOOTBALL SEASON CLOSES THURSDAY

The football schedule of Fulton high school comes to a close next Thursday when Fulton High School meets Union City High School in the first of a number of annual games between the two schools. This game promises to be very exciting as Fulton and Union City are old rivals. Union City has a very strong team this year, in fact the strongest in her history. Every person who is the least bit interested in athletics should arrange to see this game between the old rivals. The game will be played at 2:30 at the Union City athletic field. The Fulton team is going over there with the determination to bring back Union City's scalp. Fulton's team is in the pink of condition also.

GOSSIP

Gossip is one of the cardinal sins. It is not a single act like murder which stops one life and falls back to punish the offender; it is the breath of the devil, soiling every ear it touches. It is the most deadly of poisons. It blights many lives; it smites the innocent with the guilty.

Recently a mother, estranged from her family, ended her less, vicious gossip, had cut her life, because gossip—ground-off from those who were dearest in all the world to her. Those who murdered first the happiness and then the life of the woman, went scot free. No punishment in this world can touch them. But we believe that when the final judgment comes, those who spread the gossip which killed the good name and happiness—and life—will meet the same punishment as that visited upon the sons of Cain.

A prominent minister in Baltimore tells this story which is an Italian legend: In the old days a peasant confessed to a priest that he had slandered an innocent man. The priest said to him, "For your penance do this now: Take a bag of chicken down. Go to every yard in the town and drop one bit of down into each garden. Do not miss one yard. When you have finished return to me."

The sinner believed his punishment was light. With his bag of down he carefully made the circuit of the town and dropped one soft feather into each garden. Then he reported to the priest, saying: "I have done my penance?" "No, my son," replied the old abbe. "You will not have done your penance until you take the bag, go again on your rounds, collect every feather you have dropped and bring it here to me."

The gossipier protested that it would be impossible; that he could not find the bits of down in a lifetime; many of them had blown far away.

"So it is with gossip," replied the old priest. "It is easily dropped, but never again, no matter how hard you try, can you gather back the words you have so thoughtlessly scattered." — From The Delineator.

WIDELY DISCUSSED IS "KING OF KINGS"

Cecil B. De Mille's Masterpiece Endorsed by Critics.

One of the greatest events of the picture season here will be the premier showing of Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings", at the Orpheum Theatre on Dec. 3, 4 and 5. This picture has enjoyed a sensational success in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, and has been more widely discussed by press, clergy and laity than any other motion picture since "The Birth of a Nation."

The cause of the popularity of "The King of Kings" are not far to seek. Among them are: the world's greatest story, the reverent dramatization of the life of Christ; superb acting of 18 stars; 500 well-known players and 5,000 extra people; the restoring of a historical period in buildings, scenes, properties and costumes exceeding in elaborateness even "Ben-Hur"; and above all a vision that truly realizes the infinite tenderness, humanity and uplift of the New Testament story.

Local theatregoers are looking forward with great interest to its coming.

WAR BUREAU HEADS AC-CORD "WINGS" GREAT-EST PRAISE

Stills from Paramount Film Used in Planning Great National Memorial

The greatest compliment ever given to a motion picture company by the war department has been bestowed upon Paramount for its war epic of the air, "Wings," which will have its 2 days premiere at the Grand Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

A memorial to cost $100,000 and dedicated to the famous Second Division will be erected in Washington. Because of their accuracy, still pictures from the photo-play are to be used as models in constructing the huge memorial.

Paramount constructed an exact duplicate of a sector of St. Mihiel in order to obtain the spectacular battle shots which climax "Wings," and these so impressed war department officials that they asked permission of Jesse L. Lasky to model from the stills.

"Wings" was directed by William Wellman, who was a flyer in the famous Lafayette Escadrille. John Monk Saunders, an instructor in aviation during the war, wrote the story. The cast includes Clara Bow, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Richard Arlen, Jobyna Ralston, Gary Cooper, Arlette Marchal, H. B. Waithall, Hedda Hopper, Claire McDowell, El Brendel and Gunboat Smith.

CORN PICKERS

Last year 32,000 corn picking machines harvested 123,000,000 bushels of corn, at a saving of approximately 4 cents a bushel over hand methods. Despite the rapid increase in the use of mechanical corn pickers in the past year or two, it is estimated that fully 70 per cent of the immense corn crop in the corn belt is still picked by hand. However, the mechanical picker has reached a stage of development where it is accepted as part of the standard equipment of the corn belt farm. Designers are now turning their attention to producing machines of lighter weight and less power requirements, which will pick one or two rows. The first two-row mechanical picker and husker was introduced during the last season. This machine can pick and husk from 10 to 15 acres a day.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

That the civic spirit of a city is the sum total of the spirit of its citizens.

That a citizen is an integral part of a city and it is incumbent upon each one of them to display their own civic patriotism in their individual lives. That the future growth of a city depends entirely on the part that its citizens take in its everyday life.

That to assure better business (and it is by better business that a city grows) a high spirit of loyalty to the home city must be developed and maintained.

That as civic patriotism is the cornerstone of loyalty, cooperation among the citizens for the benefit of all must be had. Cities grow in direct proportion to the way its citizens work together.

All citizens should support the city that supports them.

A great need in many cities is for a lot of grouches and tight-wads to come alive and try to be good neighbors and good citizens.

If slackers would come alive together and boost together they could do wonders.

If the business men of some cities would spend as much time fighting for business as they do fighting among themselves, each individual business would be in better shape, as well as that of the whole city.

NOT A CLINKER IN A BIN FULL

Big Berthas of Industry

Every boy has played with improvised sling shots, and every boy knows that the longer the string and the faster he whirls it, the greater will be the pull of the weight.

In the large steam turbines of the electric power stations, literally tons of steel are kept whirling at a speed of 1,400 miles an hour. The paths which the blades on the rotors of the steam turbine must follow, allow for a clearance of but 1/300th of an inch.

Let these giant rotors deviate two hairs' breadth from their orbits and an entire plant can be devastated—a community plunged into darkness—and business and amusement seriously interrupted.

But things like that do not happen. The electric light and power companies have taken every precaution to safeguard the continuous flow of electric power, day and night, in routine and emergency, in storm and fair weather. Their goal anticipates the day when everyone shall enjoy the fullest measure of electric benefits in a new America that is completely electrified.

Better to Sell Only Fat Turkeys

The department of markets at the Experiment Station at Lexington advises the marketing of only well-finished turkeys at Thanksgiving time, and fattening others for a later market. Contrary to popular belief, prices are often higher after Thanksgiving. The statement says:

"Only well-finished and fat turkeys should be put on the Thanksgiving market. Even when the crop is small and prices high, birds which are well finished and fat, when sent to market are likely to bring the most profit to their owners. Turkeys are a choice product and a luxury in the diet of most people. When luxuries are purchased, quality is often of paramount importance. Many people will buy good beef, lamb or chicken in preference to second quality turkeys meet with keen competition on the market than do those of top quality."

"Producers should bear these facts in mind and attempt to raise turkeys of top quality. Undersized or poor birds, if not sold at Thanksgiving time, can be fattened and placed on the Christmas market, or sold late in the winter. During the last 16 years, the farm price of turkeys in the United States in December has been more than a cent above the November price 9 times. Frequently losses occur in holding finished turkeys, however; so they should be sold at Thanksgiving time if they are fat."

"The urge to market high quality turkeys should not cause producers to forget the necessity of retaining sufficient breeding stock. One of the essentials in producing high grade turkeys is the use of good breeders. Enough good hens should be retained each year to keep up the breeding flock, and one of the best toms should be kept for each 12 or 15 hens."

Among the County Agents

Conty Agent M. P. Nichols gave 10 fall demonstrations in Ohio county in pruning fruit trees and in treating peach trees for the peach tree borer.

Farmers in Garfield community in Breckinridge county are liming and phosphating their land, in an effort to again grow clover. By cooperating and doing their own work, they are grinding limestone for 50 cents a ton.

Fifteen new poultry houses have been built in Morgan county this fall, and many farmers are building brooder houses, preparatory to raising early chicks next spring.

Ten purebred Hampshire rams have been placed on farms in Muhlenberg county this fall. Many farmers are founding small flocks of good sheep.

Marshall county farmers used approximately 1,000 tons of ground limestone this fall, and many new members were enrolled in the lime clubs in the county.

Members of lime clubs in McCracken county are cooperating in the purchase of coal at a saving of $1 a ton and long hauls. One club secured a reduction of 30 cents a ton in freight rates.

Mason county farmers comprise half of the membership in the Ohio Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association, including Bracken, Fleming and Lewis counties.

Trigg county farmers were so impressed by what they saw at the annual field day at the Experiment Substation farm at Princeton that 26 of them went back for another day, in order that they might give further study to the demonstrations and experiments.

THREE CATTLE BARONS MEET

World's Best Known Jersey
Breeders Foregather at Memphis Show

Ed C. Lasater of Falfurrias, Texas, owner of the largest Jersey herd in the world, D. O. Bull, largest breeder of Jerseys in the British empire, and E. C. Perredes, larger breeder of Jerseys on the Island of Jersey, met for the first time at the 1928 National Dairy Exposition, Memphis, Tenn. These three internationally famous breeders were the center of a great deal of interest and were constantly interviewed by other breeders anxious to discuss livestock and dairy matters.

Lasater, picturesque pioneer and cattle baron of South Texas, once owned a 360,000 acre ranch with title direct from the Spanish grandees and stocked with 20,000 head of beef cattle, but has cut this to the more efficient size of 100,000 acres with a herd of 2,000 to 5,000 purebred Jerseys, 3,500 head of beef cattle and 1,000 head of horse stock. Entirely fenced, Lasater's Falfurrias Jersey farm is diversified with cotton, feed crops, and pastures that often reach 2,500-acre size. Going into the dairy business in the face of direful predictions, Lasater now has a daily output at his creamery of a ton and a half of Jersey butter and pays $1,000 daily for additional cream. His product, the butter standard of Texas, sells easily for the top market price.

D. O. Bull, owner of 1,200 acres of the best land in Canada at Brampton, Ontario, 20 miles from Toronto, has a herd of 600 Jerseys and markets about 1,500 quarts of milk daily. He is recognized as the largest owner and breeder of Jerseys in the British empire, and is an active importer of Jerseys, bringing over 350 head from the Island of Jersey since last January. Associated with his brother, Col. Bartley Bull, he has sold over 1,200 Jerseys in Canada and the United States this year, importing many of the most successful animals in the show ring. Eugene Perredes, who came from the Island of Jersey to judge the Fifth Annual Parish show held in October near Philadelphia, is known as one of the best young judges of cattle in Europe. As the largest breeder of Jerseys in the Island he has a herd of 153 head distributed on his three farms and has bred many noted sires in use in the United States.

$2,000 HEN LAYS $5.00 EGGS

Champion Layer Claimed to Hold World Record for Weight of Egg

Mexia, Nov. 28.—Lady Mexia IV, is just a White Leghorn hen, but she's a fortune to J. W. Bradley, for she's the hen that lays the golden egg for her owner.

This hen laid 325 eggs in one year's time at the John Tarleton college, national egg laying contest at Stephanville. That record beat the previous Texas bred egg record by more than a dozen eggs but that is not the reason Lady Mexia IV will lay $5 eggs from now on.

The Bradley farm breeds for size of eggs as well as for quantity, and this hen's eggs weighed 25 ounces to the dozen, much higher than the average champion egg layers. So the hen has laid, by official record, 325 eggs which make a total in weight of 676 ounces.

Bradley claims that this is the world's record for weight of eggs laid in a year, and his claim is thus far undisputed.

The hen is valued at $2,000 and eggs are being sold at $5 each, or $50 a dozen. The hen comes from a line of champions. The first Lady Mexia, great, great grandmother, had a record of 303 eggs a year.

AUXILIARY MEETING

The American Legion Auxiliary held the November meeting at the home of Mrs. A. B. Roberts in Fair Heights, with Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Milton Callihan, hostesses.

Nineteen members and two visitors were present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ramsey Snow. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. A letter was read from Mrs. Lynch, rehabilitation officer, thanking the Fulton unit for a pair of bedroom slippers recently sent by them, and stating that one of the boys who is not confined to his bed was in need of a sweater, and the auxiliary voted to send it at once.

Plans were discussed about sending the unit's Christmas box to this ward. A box is sent each year to the ward of ten boys who have been taken by the Fulton auxiliary, and each one receives several useful gifts. The Fulton Merchants are always glad to help by contributions to this worthy cause, and their help is much appreciated. If there are others who wish to contribute, it will be thankfully received. The boys look forward for the yearly remembrances which brighten their lives on the glad Christmas time.

At the conclusion of the business session the hosts served delectable refreshments.

The Turkey Gobbler

The great American bird is not the hen nor the eagle, but the turkey gobbler. The turkey gobbler is lord of the barnyard and field marshal among the fowls. See him strut in the fullness of his pride, tail feathers spreading, head up, wings trailing, but not ingloriously! His crimson comb and purplish wattles give him the appearance of a red faced and important gentleman who is querulously concerned in everything going on about him. Such pomposity, dignity and swagger is rare. His irritable "gobble, gobble, gobble" strikes terror into the hearts of little children, but its music to the ears of the more sophisticated who envision him trussed up in a roaster and stewing in his own juice.

The turkey has been closely associated with American history from the beginning. It will be remembered that at the famous Thanksgiving feast of the Pilgrim Fathers in November, 1621, in which the friendly Indians participated, wild turkey was the chief delicacy. Once this elusive bird was plentiful but now the wild species is all but extinct. In only a few sections of the country the wild turkey may be found. It begins to look as though the domestic turkey is destined to go the way of its progenitor. Young turkeys are hard to raise and the Thanksgiving and Christmas demand exceeds the supply. No one wants to see the day when the turkey has disappeared from the land and the proud gobbler struts and fumes no more.

There is no substitute for the turkey gobbler in sight. As compared with him the rooster is plebeian and the gander "a lesser breed without the law." The gobbler is a symbol of prosperity and the token of hospitality as well.

APPROACHING.

Advertisements are beginning to appear with decorations of holly and mistletoe and smiling faces of Santa Clause. To the observant these ad frescoes tell their own story, give their own warning, hint at the important business from which none is barred and in which sooner or later everybody will be engaged.

In other words Christmas shopping. The holiday is little more than a month ahead, fewer shopping days than 50 by a good deal. In no time these days will pass. The natural procrastinator will wait until Christmas Eve when the store aisles will be jammed by other procrastinator, stocks picked out, clerks weary, customers in a flutter, clocks ticking time's rapid space, all because the reminders of today have been neglected.

Every year more sensible persons do their Christmas shopping early. They reap all the advantages in variety of selection and leisure of choice and when Christmas eve comes they can proceed about their last minute holiday tasks orderly, while the others fume and sputter.

Kentucky Juniors Win at National Dairy Show

Kentucky junior agricultural club boys and girls won three 1st prizes at the National Dairy show at Memphis, in competition with hundreds of farm boys and girls from other states. Their group of five Jersey calves won top honors in competition with similar groups from 30 states, won 1st place in another class for groups from any one county in the United States, and Perry Harrison, a Kentucky junior boy won highest honors as a showman.

The five calves which topped their classes were owned by Opal Rogers, Emma Brown, Perry Harrison and Yancey Bennett, of Calloway county. They won 1st in a similar class at the Kentucky State Fair, and were then sent to Memphis to enter the national competition, where they led the nation. Their owners received a total of $450 in cash prizes at the national show.

It is indeed gratifying and encouraging to note the progress our junior agricultural girls and boys are making. My heart swells with pride to know they carried off the honors at the National Dairy Show. With such interest manifested on their part, the older and more experienced dairymen should take on new life and determination to improve their herd and help make for Kentucky a record as a Dairy State, second to none in the Union.

In looking over the list of exhibitors I found but very few of the old breeders willing to enter the combat in helping to maintain our prestige, or to make new records for the state. Certainly it seems that the scriptural injunction has come to pass, that "a little child shall lead them."

NEWTON BRIGHT,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

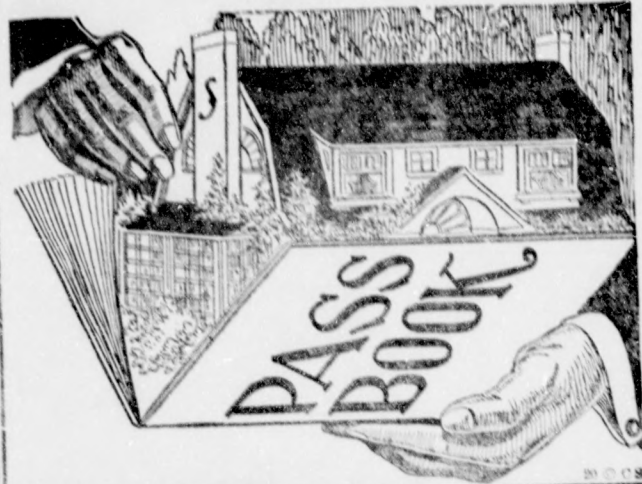

What is the matter with Fulton county boys and girls? Why don't you wake up to your possibilities? Here are a bunch from one of our neighboring counties who have made good. Why can't you? Mr. Motley, our former Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in introducing pure-bred Jerseys into this county before he left here and since that time Mr. McPherson our County Agent has placed 25 or 30 head of pure-bred calves in the west end of the county, and was trying to get that many boys and girls in this end of the county interested enough to place that many with us but I don't think he was as successful as he expected. Again I say, what is the matter with the boys and girls in this end of Fulton county?

I guess one reason is they don't get the proper co-operation of their parents. A man said to me the other day:

"It looks like the farmers are trying to run the boys and girls away from the farms instead of trying to keep them there by the way they are doing."

And it is true. If they can get the boy to go to town and accept a job paying a salary each month they seem to think they have solved one of the greatest problems in their life. Where if they would make the boy a kind of partner in all the farm products they would find out that they were doing better for all concerned at least 50 per cent. How many farmers pay the boys and girls for the work they do on the farm, aside from feeding them and grudgingly buying them a few clothes once in a while? How many boys and girls have any ready money of their own except they work for the neighbors for it?

I knew one farmer who paid his two boys 50 cents per week for their work on the farm and then raised the very old scratch if they spent it for anything other than something to wear How's that for a plan to keep the boys and girls "down on the farm"? I don't think much of it.

As The Editor Sees It.

Some people are inclined to be very critical of our public officials but it doesn't always produce the best results. Men are men the world over, and they are inclined to exhibit a stubborn streak when some other fellow takes it into his head to administer a kick. A quiet talk face to face is readily understood by both parties, and if there are any differences of opinion there is an opportunity to come to an amicable understanding. When we see anything in this town that isn't just as it should be it is our right as citizens to point it out to our officials, but the officials have an equal right to expect that we will talk to them instead of about them. It is the better way.

Country people who go to the big cities are amazed at the shortness of women's dresses. Many seem to consider it indelicate, even vulgar. In reality, however, those short dresses are exceedingly sanitary, vastly more so than the long sweeping ones our mothers used to wear. It is the state of the mind and not the length of a dress that breeds indelicacy and vulgarity. The human race would be in much better condition if the dresses of our women were shorter than they now are. Freedom of movement means better health and greater strength and vitality and without these humanity would soon cease to be.

Most men either have an automobile or wish they had one. But the automobile is rapidly depriving the people of the daily exercise they require to keep their bodies in fit condition. The owner of a car spends most of his time in his machine—that is, his spare time—and while he is thus skimming over the country he is depriving his body of that exercise which the law of human nature demands. The car is a modern necessity and everyone who can afford it should have one, but not at the expense of health. Take your daily exercise before you take your drive. You will be able to live longer and drive more often.

If you feed an engine too rich a mixture of gas it will soon choke it and stop it. It needs more air. If you surfeit the brain continually with heavy reading it will become dulled and clogged for lack of relaxation. It needs a change. A little clean fiction mixed in with the heavy literature will produce a keener mind and a quicker brain and a stronger mentality. This is worth keeping in mind when bringing up children.

We see and read of many queer things in this modern world. Some are amusing, some border on the foolish, while others are downright idiotic. But this modernity.

Apparently a certain young Venus concluded she was not attracting the desired admiration of the male sex. It was unthinkable. Something had to be done—and she did it.

She donned a very scanty bathing suit, skin tight. On one bare leg, midway between the knee and the thigh, she painted a picture of a parrot. Then she posed on the bathing beaches, gloried in the vulgar stares of the men, and promptly had her picture taken.

Of course it is in print.

Life's Big Play Box.

Life offers a great many toys in its great play box. These toys are commonly known as hobbies and few people exist but who pursue a hobby or two.

There is a time in every little boy's life when he dreams of driving a monster locomotive, but if he lives to follow that calling his hobby becomes work. If the things we want to do, really comes to pass, then they cease to be a hobby with us.

The little boy who wants to work in a grocery store when he grows up, because he could eat all the candy and cakes that he wanted, soon changes his mind when he is thrown into the daily grind behind the grocery counter.

Even the older people become faint with too much of anything. They find that too many bridge parties are burdensome and radio every night is wearing. The girl who wanted to get in the chorus would rather do anything else than dance. The professional joker and wise-cracker likes to get away from persons who are aware of his ability.

Teachers away from the school environment talk anything but pedagogy. Doctors on vacation leave their medical journals at home. Cowboys in New York take to the elevated. We know a college professor who recreates by playing tiddledy winks. A great many writers play chess. Tired business men goes in for golf. Family folk like movies that are not concerned with domestic problems. Charlie Chaplin reads serious literature and would like to do serious arts. Once he wanted to impersonate Napoleon another time he considered doing Hamlet.

We know ministers of the gospel who won't talk morality on the street, artists who refuse to talk art, and newspaper folk who won't talk shop outside the office.

All of us have our hobbies, but when our life-work consists in riding them, we prefer spending leisure hours playing with other toys in life's big playbox.

Dr. E. Y. Mullins Passes Away.

Funeral services for Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of Southern Baptist Theological seminary and international religious figure who died at his home in Nashville Friday, were held Sunday in that city. A private service was held at the family residence. Shortly after noon the body was moved to the Broadway Baptist church where it lay in state until 2:15 o'clock when public funeral services were held.

Faculty members of the seminary together with officers of the Broadway church, of which Dr. Mullins was a member, participated in the ceremonies.

Burial was in Cave Hill cemetery. Twenty-five voices forming a chorus from the seminary sang at the grave.

Lesson for December 2

PAUL BEFORE HIS JUDGES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 24:1-26:32.
GOLDEN TEXT—I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul on Trial.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul on Trial.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul on the Witness Stand.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Defends His Life Work.

I. Paul Before Felix (24).

1. The accusation against him (vv. 1-9).
This was made by Tertullus, perhaps a Roman lawyer employed by the Jews.

(1) A pestilent fellow (v. 5). This would indicate a fellow utterly base and corrupt—a plague.

(2) An inciter of rebellion, a lover of sedition (v. 5). This they hoped would bring him into conflict with the Roman power.

(3) That he was ringleader of a sect (v. 5). This was designed to throw contempt and suspicion upon the Christians.

(4) That he had profaned the temple (v. 6).

2. Paul's defense (vv. 10-21).

(1) His frankness and courtesy (v. 10). He gave recognition to the fact that Felix had been ruler long enough to be able to judge justly, as the habits and ways of the Jews were familiar to him.

(2) The charges made (vv. 11-20).
a. The charge of sedition denied (vv. 11, 12). The falsity of this he showed by the fact that the time was too short. Besides, his conduct showed the contrary.

b. The charge of heresy (vv. 14-16). This he made by a confession and a denial. He admitted that he was of this "way," which they called heresy, but denied that Christians were schismatics. He showed that his notions were clearly in keeping with the Hebrew religion, that he worshipped the same God (v. 13), fully believed in the same Scriptures (v. 14), and had the same hope of the resurrection of the dead.

c. The charge of sacrilege (vv. 17-21). This he refuted by saying that he had come all the way from Greece to worship at the feast (v. 17), and had brought alms for his nation.

3. Felix trembles before Paul (vv. 22-27).

Wished as Felix was, Paul's manner won his favor, though he did not release him. His sentence was "indefinite imprisonment," which kept him free from his enemies while under Roman protection. When brought before Felix, Paul reasoned of righteousness, self-control and judgment to come. Felix trembled.

II. Paul Before Festus (25:1-12).

More than two years had elapsed since the trial before Felix, but Jewish hatred did not abate. As soon as Festus, the new governor, went to Jerusalem, he was beset with men who hated Paul. His accusers desired that he be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to kill him on the way. Festus refused their request but agreed to give them an opportunity to go down to Caesarea to accuse him. They were unable to prove anything against him. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice before Festus, Paul made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar.

III. Paul Before Agrippa (Acts 25:13-26:32).

1. The occasion (25:13-27).
This was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. Upon their arrival they expressed a desire to hear Paul.

2. Paul's defense before Agrippa (27:1-27).
He introduced his defense (vv. 1-7) by expressing his delight in now telling his case to one who could follow his line of argument, for Agrippa was an expert in questions concerning the Jews.

He then indicated his manner of life (vv. 12-15) by showing that he had lived in the strictest accord with the most rigid sect of the Jews. He then indicated his supernatural conversion (vv. 13-15). After his conversion he was commissioned by Christ (v. 16-19). As soon as he had received his commission he rendered obedience (v. 19-23). Seeing how thoroughly in earnest Paul was, Festus interrupted him and attempted to account for his enthusiasm by attributing it to the ravings of an unbalanced mind. In spite of this, he made his appeal to Agrippa (vv. 25-27). He courageous by appealed to Agrippa's knowledge of the work of Jesus and of the prophets. Agrippa was so impressed by Paul's appeal that he declared he was almost persuaded to be a Christian.

THE DAIRY COW.

The farmer's best friend is his old dairy cow:
If he owes a debt she will pay it somehow.
She grazes the roadside to eke out her life
And works without wages, the same as his wife.
Though Jersey or Holstein or Shorthorn her breed,
Hard work is her habit and thrift is her creed;
And if when she comes home at night to the barn,
You praise her or blame her, she doesn't care a darn.
She always has something to add to her pelf,
She brings in the coupons, just clip them yourself.
Get out the old milk-stool, sit down with a bump,
Grab hold of her handles and pumty-pump.
She helps with the living and keeps us all fat,
The hired man, the baby, the pig and the cat,
And Dad takes the surplus to town and by heck!
The creamery gives him a wonderful check.
And when she is ready to die of old age,
The butcher writes "Finis" at the end of her page:
Then back to our table she comes I'll be bound,
In prime ribs and steaks that cost thirty per pound.

We can live without satin.
We can live without silk,
But where is the family
That can live without milk?

A SEVERE TEST

"I never had such a tough time in my life. First I got angina pectoris, followed by arterio sclerosis. Just as I was recovering from these I got tuberculosis, double pneumonia and phthisis. Then they gave me by podermis. Appendicitis was followed by a tonsillotomy. I don't know how I pulled through it. It was the hardest spelling test I've ever seen."—Toronto Globe.

A THANKSGIVING

—by W. H. PIERCE

WE THANK thee, thou Most High, for youth,
For, though 'tis fleeting, yet forsooth
'Tis filled with freshness and with hope,
And all unfathomed is the scope
Of pain, of sorrow, or of sin,
And sordid cares ne'er enter in
The bright young years, and naught is seen
Save through the rosy, golden sheen
That shimmers in the summer sun.
He wins the race before 'tis run,
And knows, though skies may weep today,
The morrow's sun will drive away
All clouds. And so we say, in truth,
We thank thee, thou Most High, for youth.

WE GIVE thee, Master, thanks for age.
The whitened hair that marks the gauge
Placed on our brows by passing years
Tells us our weary journey nears
Its ending, and our backward glance
Is keen and searching, lest perchance
Some stumbling block of ours be placed
Aghast the path some soul has traced.
The morrow—that is left with thee,
For we have learned humility;
We know ourselves, this lesson taught
By hard experience, has brought
The weary sojourner his wage.
We give thee, Master, thanks for age.

WE GIVE thee, Father, thanks for death.
Relying on thy word, which saith
"I am thy way," we take thy hand,
And, by thy side, just waiting, stand
Ready the little step to take
'Tween Here and There, to sleep, to wake,
To live again, and so to learn
The lessons from which now we turn
As deep and far beyond our ken,
We blind, unseeing sons of men,
We do not hear, we cannot see
And, helpless, can but turn to thee,
O, Father, and with trembling breath,
We thank thee most of all for death.

FRUIT SHORTCAKES FOR ALL

FRUIT shortcakes! Be your family large or small, here's something delicious for one and all.

There is infinitely more to the shortcake story than mounds of strawberries and whipped cream biscuit pastry. Peaches, apricots, plums and pineapple, and jellies and marmalade make luscious shortcakes that rival in goodness the traditional strawberry shortcake. They may be topped with custard, hard sauce, marmalade whip or liqueur as a variation from the whipped cream.

As the following recipes are for individual shortcakes, it is easy to have as many or as few of them as your family requires. If you will follow the directions given below, your family will tell you that you can't have too many of them. Here is how some of these "little bits of deliciousness" are made:

Apricot and Pineapple

Apricot Shortcake: Drain canned apricots free of their syrup and run through a sieve. Beat cream to a cup of cream, add apricot pulp and sweeten to taste. Serve between biscuit halves. Canned apricots may be substituted for the fresh fruit.

Pineapple Shortcake: Drain canned crushed pineapple from its syrup, spread pineapple over soft shortcake halves and cover with one-half cup of cream as follows: Whip one-fourth cup of cream, add one-third cup of sugar. When stiff enough to hold its shape add...

...illa and a sprinkle of salt. When ready to use, drizzle to desired consistency with syrup from the can of pineapple. Top the shortcake, and serve.

Apple Butter and Currant Jelly

Apple Butter Marmalade Shortcake: Split in half, top two biscuits and spread generously with apple butter, either home-made or canned. Make a nice marmalade sauce as follows: Cut one-fourth pound of marmalades in pieces and melt in a double boiler. Dissolve one cup of sugar in one-quarter cup of boiling water. Add to the melted marmalades, and stir until blended. Cool, spread over the apple butter, and on the top half of the biscuit spread marmalade sauce and one-quarter cup of currant jelly. Pear, peach or plum butter or any fruit preserves or jam may be substituted for the apple butter. The marmalade sauce will be sufficient for six individual shortcakes.

Peach Custard and Strawberry

Peach Custard Shortcake: Make a hot custard as follows: Beat the yolks of three eggs, add one-half cup of sugar, one-half cup of milk and one-half cup of cream. Add one-half cup of peach preserves or jam. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens enough to coat the spoon. Strain immediately, add one-half teaspoon vanilla and chill. Place the bottom half of a biscuit on a serving plate and spread canned sliced peaches generously on top. Pour the custard over the peaches, top with the upper biscuit half and more custard, and garnish with peaches.

Strawberry Shortcake: A new kind of strawberry shortcake can be made by making a sauce of the strawberries as follows: Cream one-third of a cup of butter with one cup of powdered sugar. Add the stiffly beaten white of one egg. Add gradually, beating all of the while, two-thirds of a cup of mashed fresh or canned strawberries. Beat until the sauce is thoroughly blended, and spread between biscuit halves. Garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream.

The advantage of using biscuit dough as a foundation for shortcake is that no special dough will have to be prepared. If you have hot biscuits for dinner, use a few more than you need, split and butter while they are hot and set them aside for your shortcake.

Shortcake Biscuit Dough: Sift two cups of flour with three teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon sugar. Rub in three tablespoons of shortening. Add one-half to one cup of milk and stir lightly with a knife until a soft dough is formed. Remove to a floured board, roll gently to one inch thickness. Cut out biscuits from ten to twelve inches across.
