Bulldogs Win In Close Battle With Gleason

Fulton High Bulldogs won a close battle with the Gleason, Tenn., grid-ers last Friday afternoon, the final score being 14 to 12. Fulton scored the first touchdown in the first quarter as Gleason kicked off to the Bulldogs, with Cooke receiving the ball to plow seven yards for the first touchdown. Nanney scored the touchdown, and then dropped-kicked for the extra point.

As Fulton kicked off to Gleason, the receiver of the pass lateraled to a teammate as he was tackled, and the ball was passed twice more by the Tennessee to bring it sixty yards to Fulton's 12 yard line. But the Bulldogs repelled the efforts of Gleason to crash through the line, taking the ball on downs.

Fulton attempted to pass, only to have the ball intercepted and bring a touchdown for Gleason. In the second quarter neither team was able to score, with each squad put up strong offense and defense fights. The score remained unchanged in the third quarter.

Then early in the fourth, Bell, Gleason's quarterback, scored another touchdown on a wide end run. In possession of the ball Fulton marched to Gleason's 11 yard line, only to be heavily penalized for holding. Bulldogs scored as Nanney passed to White. The extra point was made as Nanney passed to Thomas.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

We urge the people of this community to give their help to the American Red Cross by joining it and pay their $1 a year membership dues between now and Thanksgiving Day, when the annual roll call in Kentucky will end. Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots. Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly. Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

tucky. This newspaper has consistently supported Red Cross campaigns in Kentucky for many years, giving freely of its space to news of what the Red Cross is doing—and it is always doing something for somebody in need. Its service has been intended for those who were unable to help themselves and not only in Kentucky but all over the United States and in many parts of the world outside it has been an angel of mercy in time of disaster and flood and famine to millions of sufferers.

When the Red Cross workers, all of whom are giving their time without compensation to the annual roll call, call on you give them your dollar with a smile and tell them how proud you are to have a part in such a great work as the Red Cross is carrying on.

THE HEART.

The human body is very much like a piece of machinery and deep in that machine is an engine, the heart, which makes possible a smooth, steady progress through life. Only when the heart ceases to do perfect work do we appreciate what a wonderful piece of equipment it has been. Though only about the size of a man's fist the heart does an astonishing amount of work. It pumps about 50 gallons of blood an hour, 1200 gallons a day and 438,000 gallons a year. The heart never sleeps never loafs, never takes a vacation from the beginning of life to the end. The only rest it ever gets is between beats. And yet, with all the work it has to do, the strong heart does not give out suddenly, unless it has been injured or ill-treated. It cannot, however, be expected to withstand the strain of continuous over-exertion or the repeated attacks of germs and poisons and the weakening effects of diseases. Under pressure of his work the average man neglects his heart and unwittingly abuses it.

The chief cause of heart trouble aside from the natural deterioration of old age are:

1. Rheumatic fever—Even a mild attack which passes as "growing pains" may result in serious heart damage.
  2. Acute infectious diseases—Scarlet fever, diphtheria, tonsillitis and pneumonia are among the heart's worst enemies, and they may leave the heart impaired even when their attack is not severe.
  3. Syphilis—Syphilis may affect the heart muscle, causing weakness or death even years after the disease itself is no longer apparent.
  4. Chronic Infections—These may be in some part of the body distant from the heart, such as tonsils or teeth.
  5. Incomplete convalescence—Too abrupt a return to active life after serious illness.
  6. Sudden indulgence in unusual exercise—Placing a sudden strain on the heart.
- Overweight—Which often accompanies heart disease, and may well be a factor in its cause. Heart disease is frequently preventable. In order to protect and care for the heart one should:
1. Go to the doctor every year for a health examination, and follow his advice. This applies to both adults and children.
  2. Look after infected teeth and tonsils.
  3. Go to the dentist regularly.
  4. Keep your weight near the average, for a person of your age, sex, and height.
  5. Have a well balanced diet and do not over-eat.
  6. Do not take headache medicine unless under a doctor's advice. Advertised headache medicines often contain drugs harmful to the heart.

7. Consult a doctor about the use of tobacco and stimulants.
  8. Live a well rounded life. Exercise regularly, but stop before you are over-tired.
  9. Children should be seen by a doctor when they have leg aches or joint pains.
  10. Watch your child after he has had one of the children's diseases or any serious illness, especially rheumatic fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, or measles. Have your doctor examine him before he goes back to school. Care at this time may prevent serious trouble later.
- If you have heart trouble:
1. Your play and work should be approved by your doctor.
  2. Get plenty of sleep. During sleep, the heart has less work to do, since the beats are less frequent and the rest period between beats is longer.
  3. Stay out of doors as much as you can.
  3. When your doctor prescribes a diet follow it exactly.
  5. Do not use alcohol, tobacco, coffee or other stimulants without your doctor's consent.
  6. Avoid all intense emotional disturbances.
  7. Watch your habits, not your heart.
  8. Find out what you may do and what you may not do, and live according.

Some people make a determined effort to have heart disease all their lives and then die at a ripe old age of some other disease. Many of the signs which the average person believes is due to heart trouble may be caused by indigestion, lung trouble and nervousness. Do not try to diagnosis the condition yourself, but go to your doctor for advice. He will find out what is actually wrong and may be able to assure you that your heart is sound. Give your doctor a chance.

Capitol Comments

A. B. Chandler, now governor of Kentucky, has been the chief helmsman of the ship of state for approximately two years and he intends to remain at the head of it for the remaining two years despite reports to the contrary. It is generally believed that the Governor will resign to take Mills Logan's Senate seat, if and when Mills Logan is appointed to a federal judgeship. The Governor declared from a public platform in Covington recently that he was elected to be governor for four years and it was his intention of doing just that. There are ways of remaining governor until the end of his term and still getting into the next senate race, if he is so minded.

Some months ago, soon after the presidential election, there was some talk that Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky's Senior Senator, would resign his seat and become a member of the President's cabinet. This interesting bit of information was handed around by those supposedly in the know, and from it many far flung conclusions were drawn. One conclusion was that if Barkley went to the Cabinet, Gov. Chandler would resign and have Keen Johnson, who would automatically become Governor, appoint him to the Barkley seat. At that time this column happened to go on an excursion with the Governor into the western section of the state. The subject was broached and he brought it to quick close by stating that the people of Kentucky had elected him for a period of four years and that he was sticking with them for the full term. So, the speech made at Covington is just a repeat of what he said late last winter.

At the last sitting of this corner a group of six men, all prospective candidates for Governor of Kentucky when the race starts in August 1939, was named. At that time we promised to make mention of any other possible candidates as their names were mentioned. The list included Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson, Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys, Treasurer John Buckingham, Secretary of State Charles Arnett, Welfare Commissioner Fredrick Wallis and Adjutant General G. Lee McLain. Now add to the list the Neville Miller, who has just outlived his term as mayor of Louisville and Reed Wilson, who likewise outlasted the mayoralty calendar at Lexington. This column does not predict that these two men will even be in the primary in August, however, they would be prepared if the bolt should strike in their general direction.

Down in the western section of the state the Congressmen are at home riding range on their own particular herd. They are looking over the fences before going to the post for another race. Noble Gregory, Congressman from the First Congressional District and Beverly M. Vincent from the Second are meeting the merry villagers in the smaller places and a hieing hither and yon looking over WPA projects and making a few speeches. Neither of these Congressmen were original choices. Gregory ran after being named to succeed his brother Voris Gregory, who died before the last Congressional election. Bev Vincent filled in for Glover Carey, deceased. Vincent resigned his post of Attorney General to take the Congressional job.

Kentucky's Legislative Council, a most willing state organization, which will sit, listen and do any amount of research work on legislation which is likely to be brought before the General Assembly, has several small matters coming up. A bill is now being drawn for presentation to the Council where it will ask that the Legislature take some steps to eliminate a large number of roadside signs. At present there is no law against placing of billboard advertising on the roadsides. It is unlawful, how-

Governor Asks Support Of Red Cross Drive

Governor Albert B. Chandler issued a proclamation last week directing attention to the annual roll call of the American Red Cross in Kentucky, November 11 to November 25, and urging the people of the state to support the organization's work by becoming members or renewing membership.

"Keenly conscious," says the Governor, "of our debt to the American Red Cross because of its extensive flood relief work in our own state during the year, the fact that this organization was responsible for bringing to the aid of our stricken people trained workers for the alleviation of suffering and funds to the extent of more than nine million dollars for food, shelter and rehabilitation—I am glad to urge upon my fellow Kentuckians that they become members of the American Red Cross during the membership campaign between November 11 and Thanksgiving Day."

MOUNTAIN OF DISHES WASHED EVERY YEAR BY AVERAGE HOUSEWIFE

IF ALL the dishes, pots and pans that the average housewife washes during the year were piled in a heap they would make a mountain several hundred feet high. This tremendous task is not only a burdensome duty, but many beauty experts claim that it is the cause of most red, rough and old-looking hands.

As a result of widespread investigation it was discovered that housewives desire a soap that makes suds energetic enough to get rid of every trace of grease in double-quick time, yet gentle enough to keep hands smooth, soft and white. Millions of women have discovered that the New Improved Rinso combines these two important qualities. It gives richer, livelier suds that get dishes, pots and pans sparkling clean. And it is as kind as ever to the hands.

You can safely bet on the success of a Fulton girl's wedding if she starts her married life with more kitchen aprons than lounging robes.

THE RURAL CHURCH

Writing in a national farm publication an Iowa church official issues a note of warning to the congregation of rural churches throughout the U. S. It is a warning that fits right in with conditions in quite a few rural church congregations around Fulton in many respects, and one that the members of those congregations will do well to ponder over.

He says many things have appeared in recent years to weaken the militancy of the average rural church and that instead of seeking ways and means to combat these conditions, they are sitting idly by, doing nothing and thereby hastening the day when it may be necessary to disband the congregation through lack of interest. He mentions the auto, the Sunday picture show and numerous other attractions. Insofar as the older members are concerned, he points out, these have little tendency to cause non-attendance. It is among the younger generation—the generation to which the church must look for its future membership and strength—that the new interests are proving most dangerous. He cites figures to show that young people in the rural districts are losing interest in church affairs more and more each year and he also offers statistics to show that the annual increase in membership of the rural church is not in proportion to what it was 20 years ago.

But, and this is also interesting, he says there is a remedy. "Rural churches must cater more to the young folks," he declares. He suggests the organization of more boy and girl clubs within the church, and an increase in interest on the part of older members in youthful activities; more social affairs in which the young can participate; more life and "pep" in the church organizations already functioning. That, he contends, will save the rural church when nothing else will, and it would be a good idea if the officials of every rural church in the country to give his argument a little study.

WATCH YOUR LAND

If all farmers in Kentucky could be persuaded to watch carefully this winter the land on their own farms and that of as many others as the opportunity may afford, they would be in an attitude of mind next spring to start the most effective program of soil improvement and conservation the State has ever known.

Some things that should be observed are: First of all, the difference in the amount, speed and color of water running off from land well covered with grass and land of similar slope that had corn, tobacco and other tilled crops on it although some of it may have a cover crop on it.

Second, the difference in erosion of tilled crop land with and without cover crops.

Third, the difference in the amount of erosion where the cover crop was drilled with the slope and drilled across the slope on the contour as nearly as possible.

Fourth, the difference in erosion on bare land cultivated with the slope instead of on the contour.

Fifth, the vast acreage without any cover crop.

Sixth, the acreage on which cover crops were sown and made such poor growth that they did not effectively prevent erosion, because the soil was so depleted it would not nourish the crop.

Seventh, after making these observations, then look at lands that were once badly exhausted and have been restored through the use of lime, phosphate and legumes and the use of farm manures.

By PERCY CROSBY

After such observations as these those who are not sure of exactly how to proceed to improve their worn lands should call upon the county agent for information and obtain from the College of Agriculture at Lexington circulars on soil management, cover crops and engineering methods of erosion control. Even many gullied lands can be restored to a profitably productive condition, particularly for pastures.

WHY JUNK IT?

This day in time when it's stylish to be thrifty and the practice of economy is among our greatest virtues it's hard to understand why so many are wasting when there is no occasion for it. For instance, take the housewife who hauls out perfectly good furniture, a stove or other pieces of household goods that are still serviceable and stacks the same away in cellar, attic, garage or barn when someone in the community would be glad to have it at a reasonable price. Or the farmer who does the same thing when he replaces old implements with new. Is that economy? There are folks right around here who would be glad to get such things if you would tell them about it. And it would cost but a few cents to tell them—and sell them—through the columns of this paper.

You would not only be doing a real service to someone who could not afford to buy the articles new that you are practically throwing away, but it would net you a few dollars at the same time. It certainly will beat junking the things that are still serviceable to someone.

NOT A MIND-READER

Whatever he may be, the editor of your home-town newspaper is not a mind-reader. If you have visitors, if you are going visiting or if you have recently returned from one, he has no means of knowing it unless you tell him so. And the same is true of other happenings in which you and members of your family are directly interested. If there is sickness, or a marriage or a birth, a family reunion or a family celebration of any kind around your home it is of interest to your neighbors, but the editor of the paper cannot tell them about it unless you first tell him. He can't hire high-priced reporters to contact you, as do the big city papers. But he does meet you on the street occasionally, he does open his mail as fast as it arrives and he is always willing and anxious to answer his telephone calls. So bear these things in mind. Always remember that a lot of things that happen at your house are of interest to your neighbors but that, since the editor is not a mind-reader, the neighbors must go without such information unless you are thoughtful enough to see that the editor is informed.

BACK-SEAT DRIVING.

If you are among those Fulton citizens who contend that men drive autos better than women and that the back-seater driver is a nuisance that ought to be eradicated, here is food for thought.

"Next time the Missus leans over the back seat and says: 'John, don't go so fast,' or 'Charlie you almost hit that truck,' don't let it get you" says Dr. Harry DeSilva of the Harvard University Traffic School. "Back-seat driving is really a help and not a hindrance," asserts this safety expert. He cites as proof the fact that there are more accidents among cars which do not have back-seat driver than in cars that do, his figures being based on tests made among 150,000 cars in fifteen different parts of the United States. He also asserts that while the survey reveals that women may not be as good drivers as men, they have fewer accidents because while women drivers have some bad characteristics they are, on the whole, more careful than men when operating a car.

The expert's decision may not be generally accepted by the male drivers of this community, but it will certainly give the female drivers cause for doing a little crowing. The question as to whether or not women drive as well as men in all probability will never be settled. But the Harvard safety expert has settled it so far as the women are concerned, whether he was trying to do so or not.

THIS MAY SPREAD

Commissioners of St. Joseph county, Indiana, have recently tried a novel stunt and one that could be used around Fulton to good advantage. They have given every road in the county a name, with signs at each intersection bearing the names of the highway intersected. Then they have numbered each farm house along each road, painting the number on the farmer's front gate, above his front door or on his mail box. Now when one sets out to find a farm house in that county all he needs to know is what road it is on and the house number. No more asking for directions and getting information about like this: "Go down the road about three miles, turn right at the second road, not counting the dirt lane just beyond the foundation of the old school house, then go about half a mile, turn left, pass a farm with a windmill," etc. The new system promises to do away with all that, and since it can be worked out in one county just as well as in another there is hope that, eventually, it may become general all over the United States.

LITTLE LIVES

More than twenty million children lives should be our first consideration, and upon that part of our adult population driving motor vehicles there has been placed the responsibility of guarding the lives of these boys and girls as they travel to and from school. The wise motorist, as every citizen of Fulton who operates a car should already know, is one who exercises the utmost care not only in the vicinity of school buildings, but along the route taken in school attendance. Immature minds cannot realize the extent of the danger existing on our highways today. The motorist must do the thinking both for himself and the children. The safety of those little lives should be our first consideration. Always drive as if it were your own child on the road somewhere in front of you.

There may be plenty of ways to make a living without working, but most of them won't work.

It sometimes turns out that when a Fulton citizen is "acting like a fool" he really isn't acting.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves wear, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three eras of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

TWO newly-landed Irishmen—let us call them for the sake of conformity Pat and Mike—paid their first visit to an American theatre. They had examined the posters in the lobby and after pooling their finances decided to take a chance.

As purse-bearer and spokesman, Pat approached the box office. "How much to get in?" he asked. "Prices are two dollars, one-fifty, one dollar and fifty cents a piece," said the treasurer.

"Gimme two of them fifty-cent wans." "Here you are. That lets you into the gallery. That's upstairs, understand. Go outside into the alleys and go in that way." When the performance was nearing its conclusion, Pat appeared at the wicket and demanded the money back on the ground that he and his partner had not been able to secure admission. "Go chase yourself," said the ticket-seller. "The entrance was there for you and if you fellows didn't use it that's no fault of mine." Pat went away and returned with a policeman. After he had made his complaint and the theatre-man had told his story, the officer said: "It sounds peculiar. I'll look into this thing. Where's this pal of yours?" "Still out in that dam' alley." "Let's go out there, all three of us." All of them went. Sure enough, there was Mike, wearily but patient and leaning against the side wall. "How long have you two boys been standin' out here?" asked the policeman. "Ever since 8 o'clock." "Well, why didn't you walk in and see the show?" Together the two aliens pointed out to where a fire-escape ladder sagged down the high wall and ended, one flight above the earth. "They wouldn't let down the steps for us," stated both complainants in chorus.

Armor for All

JESUS of Nazareth came bringing to the world a new concept of brotherhood, co-operation, reciprocity. He taught that no longer should mankind render "an eye for an eye," and bade his followers love not only those who loved them, but all. He said (Matthew 5:44), "Love your enemies. . . do good to them that hate you." Some might think this an infirm law—that the expression of love and forgiveness is weakness. Some are afraid to show leniency, lest another take advantage of them. Others are hesitant to arbitrate, lest conciliation be one-sided and partial. Yet no one can study the life of the master Christian without recognizing his power and authority. There was nothing faint-hearted about him, although he used no worldly weapons, but practiced and preached the law of Love.

In commenting on the commandment, "Love one another, as I have loved you," the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, writes (Message to The Mother Church for 1902, p. 18), "No estrangement, no emulation, no defeat, enters into the heart that loves as Jesus loved." Then she asks, "Beloved, how much of what he did are we doing?"

Wars have been common because men have allowed material sense, greed, egotism, selfish ambition, and fear to prevail. Much progress has been made since the olden days when Deity was known as "a man of war," a tribal god to be worshipped with fear. A wise man proclaimed (Proverbs 20:3), "It is an honor for a man to cease from strife." Love only can liberate the world. Desire for tranquil, amicable relations with one another is becoming widespread. It is a joy to see the prayer for peace taking possession of families, communities, and nations. World peace will be the far-reaching result of individual love for God which is so deep and pure that it includes all mankind. Indeed, one cannot rightly worship God without practicing love-kindness to his brother.

Paul, who had himself been redeemed and completely regenerated from a life of strife, narrowness, and persecution of innocent persons, stated definitely that our weapons "are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds." Later, reminding the Ephesians of the nature of their equipment "against the wiles of the devil," he told them to put on "the whole armor of God." One of the captions at the top of the chapter in one Bible reads: "The complete armor of a Christian."

Wearing "the breastplate of righteousness," we find that right thinking is always more effective than wickedness, that love is greater than wrath and will eventually be victorious, regardless of how domineering or influential error seems to be. To be "shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace" is to put God first. It requires self-improving qualities—resolution and self-discipline, relinquishment of material desires, aims, and fears. Faith by which to quench "the fiery darts of the wicked" is an essential quality. It includes trust, confidence in good, hope, love. Who would not exchange the carnage of material warfare for this equipment, this armor of Love, with its untold power and dominion, and have the world transformed by the renewing of individual thought?

"The helmet of salvation" may be regarded as the understanding of God and of man as His reflection which is able to demonstrate Truth as supreme over the clamor of evil. Paul mentioned as the last item of the Christian's equipment "the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." What better, more dynamic weapon can we have than this? What adequate protection, what friendly living, would result if every world citizen lovingly wielded this "sword"? World peace would be an assured fact.

Quarrels and strife result because we have believed in enemies. Evil is false belief, and wrong thoughts are our only enemies, for they would attempt to deface the Christ-image. Matter and evil beliefs are inseparable. Greed, dishonesty, human will, and hate are the inevitable result of choosing evil, material thoughts. Rejecting these scientifically, we come into our rightful heritage, expressing the perfection of the perfect Maker. When Spirit is understood to be infinite Love, just, ever present, "no respecter of persons," then men will experience health, progress, and normal living, for this is the birthright of the children of God.

All that Paul had counted as gain was laid aside, and what victories were his through the power of Christ! If every person on earth today were to arm himself with "the whole armor of God"—the understanding of Truth and Love—there would be no need for other armaments, and reciprocity, co-operation, and peace would be established. Funds formerly used to finance wars could be diverted to education and improvement, for the only cost of these armaments would be the relinquishment of hate, pride, and fear, and the exquisite reward—the Kingdom of heaven on earth! Mrs. Eddy writes (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 210): "Good thoughts are an impervious armor; clad therewith you are completely shielded from the attacks of error of every sort. And not only yourselves are safe, but all whom your thoughts rest upon are thereby benefited." —The Christian Science Monitor.

Most Fulton girls want to marry an economical man but few of them like to be courted by that kind.

Every man knows how a wife should be managed but few seem able to act on the knowledge.

Week's Best Recipe
SPICE CAKE—1 cupful sugar; 2 eggs; 4 tablespoons butter; 1-2 cupful sour milk; 1-2 cupful strong coffee; 1 teaspoonful soda; 1 teaspoonful baking powder; 2 1-2 cupfuls flour; 1 teaspoonful cinnamon; 1 teaspoonful nutmeg. Cream sugar and butter and add the milk, coffee, soda, baking powder, flour, spice, cinnamon and nutmeg. Bake in a medium-sized pan, and frost with powdered sugar mixed with cream.

The Beauty Shoppe:
 If hands are constantly moist from too free perspiration, bathe them frequently either in salt water, which acts as a stimulant or tonic, or in a solution of vinegar or lemon juice, which acts as an astringent. Another good remedy is to rub them with a mixture of powdered alum and tannic acid, both of which have astringent properties.

About the House:
 To fill up cracks or holes in furniture, make a thick glue size by boiling water to the consistency of milk or thin cream. Mix with fine wood sawdust from wood the same color as that of the furniture to make a stiff paste. With this fill the holes and cover deep cuts and rough places. When dry, thoroughly scrape down with an edge of broken glass. Then polish.

Kitchen Kinks:
 The liquid in the jar from spiced fruits and pickles may be used to good advantage in home-made mince meat. Muffins should be just slightly stirred together and baked rapidly. They are not so good if beaten as much as is necessary for a cake. Leftover meat will keep better if the gravy is not poured over it. The gravy often sours more readily and may spoil the meat.

This method eliminates the necessity of removing jelly from the glasses and reboiling. A small bag of grated carrot placed in the kettle when boiling fruit juices for

POOR CROPS ON POOR LAND MAY BE ROAD TO POORHOUSE

Planting poor crops continuously on poor land may eventually lead to the poorhouse, according to Soil Conservation Service men. Soils subjected to continuous cropping of corn, cotton, tobacco, and other clean cultivated crops are impoverished by erosion, become thin from the standpoint of fertile topsoil, and often are unable to produce a profitable yield.

When this happens, farmers are apt to try the next best thing.

They choose a less desirable crop and try to make at least something off the land. Usually this is the first step in a downward cycle. Usually it is not long before the impoverished soil fails to produce anything.

That's when farm lands are abandoned and when soil erosion is allowed to complete the ruin. The remedy for excessive cropping is to retire the badly eroding areas to grass before the damage has gone too far.

What you get for what you pay is a lot more important than what you pay for what you get.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

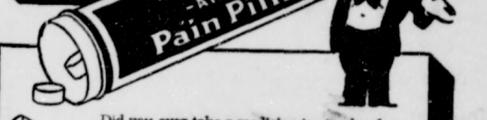

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

BETTER TIMES NEAR FOR DAIRY FARMERS

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture sees better times ahead for dairy farmers. A comparison of prices for dairy products and feed indicates that prospects for profitable operations are more favorable than a year ago.

From mid-June to mid-October the price of butterfat rose about 10 percent. During this same period the price of feed grains and the wholesale prices of by-product feeds declined about 30 percent. This adjustment in prices makes for the most favorable relation in five years for this time of the year, declares E. A. Johnson of the department of markets and rural finance. Thus it seems established that the coming winter will be one of relatively high prices for livestock and livestock products but rather low prices for feeds, much like two years ago.

Since early July the price of butter has been going up slowly, about in line with the usual seasonal rise. It was only in recent weeks, however, that prices reached a level higher than a year ago. Consumers demand for butter continues satisfactory and indications point to a favorable demand situation during the winter.

Considering the favorable relation between feed prices and prices of dairy products it seems that heavy feeding of good dairy cows is advisable so as to get as large production as possible under ordinary farm conditions. Even low producing cows may show a profit for a short time this year, says Mr. Johnson, but it would seem wise to take advantage of present high cattle prices by disposing of cows that would not be profitable producers for more than a few months.

SPARKS of WISDOM

Ever notice how much quicker a job is done when everybody connected with it minds his own business?

After all, gold is a useless metal. About all it is good for is to plug teeth and torment fools.

Beloved of all citizens is the Fulton man who can admit he is wrong without gloating over it.

Another trouble with the world is too many people make their joys mere incidents and their sorrows great events.

You may not know it, but many a Fulton man wishes he knew as much as his wife thinks he does.
