MISSING GIRLS RETURNED HOME.

Ethel Vinson and Mary Blalock, of the East Side Found Near Kuttawa.

Ethel Vinson and Mary Blalock, daughter of R. S. Blalock, both about fifteen years of age and residents of the Brandon Mill section, who have been employed here in town for some time, left last Tuesday on the noon train supposedly for Paducah but were later arrested by the Police of Kuttawa near that city and returned to this place Wednesday of this week. A warrant was issued for George Tidwell, who is accused of enticing them away and he was arrested today at Hardin and brought here and bond was fixed at $1000. An examining trial was given the accused Thursday afternoon and he was held under $500, in default of which he was sent to jail. His attorney, F. F. Acree, will secure the release of accused under a writ of habeas corpus, and expects to prove that the charge under which Tidwell is held was not committed in this county.

The Paducah News-Democrat of Thursday contains the following account of the girls leaving and their arrest:

With tears streaming down their cheeks, little Ethel Vinson and Mary Blalock, of Murray, were found in the woods along the shores of the Tennessee river below Grand Rivers about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police W. H. McCollum, of Kuttawa, and were taken back last evening to their home from which they ran away last Thursday morning. As an explanation of their actions, they revealed to Chief McCollum and the police officials at Murray a story that may result in holding George Tidwell, a married man residing at Hardin, on extremely serious charges—probably that of enticing the 14-year-old girls from their homes with a view to selling them into houses of ill fame in St. Louis. Federal white slave statutes also may be invoked.

Every town in western Kentucky has been in a "state of more or less excitement since the first reports of the disappearance of the Misses Blalock and Vinson were issued by their parents. It was first thought that the girls had left home to visit for a few days with friends somewhere in the country, but when they failed to return home on Sunday, the police in Paducah and Louisville, as well as intermediate towns, were advised to be on a sharp lookout for the missing maids. Scores of clues were soon placed in possession of the officials but on investigation these were proved to be of no value. The distracted parents of the two girls had about come to the conclusion that the girls had wandered off in to the woods and met with foul play and were considering the institution of a posse for the purpose of making a rigid search throughout the territory surrounding their home when the glad news of the finding of the runaways was reported to them.

"I happened to be up the Tennessee river in the neighborhood of Birmingham, Ky., when I received information that the two girls had been seen near Grand Rivers, in company with a man about 15 years of age, and Chief McCollum to a News-Democrat representative in relating the story of the girls' discovery last evening. "I immediately decided that I had better drive down the river and was rewarded by finding the girls living in an old deserted house not far from the shore of the river. They were scarcely hidden from view and were extremely surprised when I told them that I was a policeman and intended taking them to Murray."

"Little by little I succeeded in piecing the entire story from them—how their leaving home had been prearranged and how they had been met near Hardin last Thursday morning by the man with whom they had made the trip to Grand Rivers. They refused at first to tell me his name, but finally acknowledged that it was George Tidwell, a man over three times their own age, whom they had met at several dances in the neighborhood of their home."

"George and Mary and I were going to St. Louis and live there," little Miss Vinson told Murray police officials last evening. "We didn't know that he was a married man or we wouldn't have gone with him. We had an awfully good time—but we are mighty glad to get back again," she added.

As soon as Chief of Police McCollum secured the name of the man who had planned their outing he dispatched a telegram to the police of Hardin and had Tidwell taken to Murray to wait the arrival of the train on which he and the two girls were due to arrive.

Tidwell was at loss, when arrested, to understand how his connection with the case had been discovered, and was unable to talk for several minutes after the girls were brought into his presence to identify him as their companion.

According to police records, Tidwell is a "grass-widower," with a wife and family of grown children, some of them as old as the two misses with whom he planned to escape to St. Louis, residing along the Tennessee river. The peculiar infatuation held for him by the two little girls is inexplicable, and residents of Murray declare that although Miss Vinson and Miss Blalock were in the company of other young men a great deal, Tidwell seemed to be the prime favorite and held the girls under a mystic spell, which they, at least, did not seem to wish to break.

UTLEY'S HOME PRECINCT RE- PUDIATES CHRISTMAS ACTION.

Eddyville, Ky., Oct. 17.—A precinct mass meeting was held here today of the Democrats of the East Eddyville precinct to elect a precinct committeeman to serve out the unexpired term of Hugh Lyons, who recently resigned. C. C. Jones was elected. After the election had been held G. W. Setberry moved the adoption of a second resolution protesting against the call of a convention to nominate a candidate for Senator by the Democrats of the Third Senatorial district fourteen months in advance of the election. The chairman put the vote on the resolution and it was supported, five votes being cast for it and none against it. The convention was harmonious.

TOBACCO POOL FALLS THROUGH.

Failure Affects Forty Thousand Growers in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 17.—After three attempts at the organization of a pool for 1910, the 40,000 burley tobacco growers of Kentucky, representing approximately 200,000,000 pounds of tobacco today declared the pool off, through their district board, which assemble here in session extraordinary Saturday night. The session lasted until after midnight, when a resolution declaring the pool off was finally passed.

This means a race between the growers to get their tobacco on the market at whatever price they can get, and it is expected that the prices will rapidly fall to rock bottom.

Within the past few days the American Tobacco Company has rushed hundreds of buyers into the Burley belt to buy all the tobacco in sight at 12 to 14 cents, without in many cases ever seeing the growing crops or uncured crop. These tactics demoralized the already weak pool organization, and the result has for several days been almost inevitable.

The action of the trust in placing many buyers in the field also helped to rush the action of 100,000,000 pounds of the 1909 burley pool, now being held here, and the bids by independent buyers have had to be rejected on thousands of hogsheds.

Further outbreaks of night riding because of the failure of the pool and consequent low prices are feared and freely predicted. The result of the failure of the 1910 pool is expected to be financial stringency, as the tobacco industry is by far the most important of Kentucky.

The entire responsibility for the failure of the pool is with the farmers as its failure was made possible only by their refusal to pool their tobacco, which was encouraged in every possible way by the trust, which paid high prices to dumpers and absolutely refused to bid on the 1909 pool, now being offered here at auction to the independent buyers by the Burley Society.

CHARLEY WELLS ESCAPED, IS FOUND IN PADUCAH.

Charley Wells, who has been confined in the Western Kentucky asylum at Hopkinsville for sometime, having been sent there from this county, made his escape from the institution and was found in Paducah. He was arrested one night after entering the Presbyterian church where he expected to spend the night. When arrested he told the officers that he entered the church because it was cold and that he had no other place to sleep and did not suppose any objections would be raised to his sleeping on the floor of the church. At the time of his arrest he gave the officers an assumed name but his identity was afterwards established and he was returned to Hopkinsville.

WHAT IT MEANS TO THIS DISTRICT.

Situation in Black Patch Shows Growers and Buyers Far Apart.

While dark tobacco growers will realize a good price for their product this year, the break of the burley pool is bound to react on the Black Patch market, according to dealers in western Kentucky. With the season only about two weeks off the growers and buyers are far apart and there are just now small prospects of heavy early deliveries. Farmers are holding their product for nine and ten cents around. Some sixty or seventy thousand delivered last week at Paducah and Mayfield brought approximately six cents for leaf and four for lugs. The discrepancy between what the farmers are demanding, and what speculators are paying on the loose leaf market for early deliveries indicates the unsettled condition of the market. The speculators don't know yet what the season will bring fourth. However, the most competent observers predict that the planters will receive an average of seven and a half cents a pound, which they say equals 15 cent cotton and dollar wheat as a paying product.

Last year after the holidays tobacco in the western district went up approximately a dollar a hundred and the farmers who sold early last year, though they received a good price, are a little off about taking the first money offered them this year.

Crop and market conditions are both to be considered in estimating the price to be paid. Just as matters stand, there is little activity on the part of buyers. They think the farmer is asking too much and they are waiting for him to come down. Speculators can't touch the price asked. But the next two or three weeks, when other work is out of the way and the farmer has stemmed his tobacco and is anxious to get it off his hands may make a wonderful difference in the situation.

The crop is better and larger than last year. This is the testimony of all buyers who have been over the district. It should command a higher average than that of last year on the same basis of prices; but buyers say the price basis will be slightly under last year's and the farmer will average about the same, probably.

The English market is disturbed by the new tariff. The Lloyd-Gorge budget has put on a tax that practically eliminates the independent dealer from the market. There is an agitation for a revision of the tax, and consequently, buyers are staying off the market in anticipation of the change. This is felt in the Black Patch more particularly in the Henderson stemming district; but the western district sells a considerable quantity in England, and the demand for that weed is seriously abated. Buyers for other markets are taking account of this factor.

Then the break in the Burley pool, throwing 200,000,000 pounds of the 1910 pool is bound to effect the whole tobacco market according to the wise ones. It seems that banks were tired of holding all that tobacco as collateral, and the farmers were tired of waiting for their money and broke of its on weight. There is no doubt that when the burley growers pooled their tobacco and cut out one crop, it materially boosted the prices of dark tobacco, and the same reasoning leads buyers to believe the dumping of the pool will effect the price the other way.

At the same time no one can be found to say that the price will materially decline below that of last year. Farmers, who are forced to throw their tobacco on the market for what they can get, of course, will be taken advantage of by speculators, but those who can afford to be independent will get a good price. Buyers are frank in saying that farmers are holding their product too high now. This is their side of the question. The farmer has his, and he desires to get all he can for the tobacco, and the buyers' side is here given for his benefit.—Paducah Sun.

A Good Merchant.

The Paducah Sun of the 10th inst. gives the following account of a former Murray merchant who seems to be very successful in his new location:

"In the arrest of two negroes last night the police believe they have caught two bootleggers who have been operating extensively in Paducah and neighboring points for months."

Crate Gardner is in jail, charged with selling liquor without a license, and Charles White is being held as an accessory. Gardner was caught at his home on Kentucky avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets, last night by Patrolmen Kirk and Dunaway. A search of Gardner's house revealed a suit case filled with quarts, pints and half pints of whiskey, and this will be used against him as evidence."

Selling Low in Graves.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 18.—There were probably 50 loads of tobacco in Mayfield Wednesday being sold on the streets. The prices for lugs and leaf are about the same as they started out, but are $1 per hundred in advance of the prices sold at a year ago. The prevailing prices are now $3 to $4 for lugs and $6.50 to $8 for leaf.

FORMER CITIZEN PASSES AWAY.

H. E. Holton, Sr., Died Last Week in Los Angeles, Cal.

H. E. Holton, Sr., father of Mrs. T. P. Cook, M. D. and H. E. Holton, Jr., of this place, and Mrs. R. K. Ward, of Hopkinsville, Ky., died last week at the summer home of his sister, Mrs. Julia Fisher, of Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Holton was about 72 years of age and is well known here where he taught the public schools for five years, coming to this place in 1882. He was one of the brightest men ever in our city. He was a graduate of West Point and served with distinction in the Confederate army, enlisting in the 8th Arkansas regiment. At the battle of Chickamauga he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant colonel for bravery displayed in the memorable fight. He was afterwards captured and held a prisoner on Johnson's Island for nineteen months before the close of the war.

He was a native of Pendleton county, Ky., and was married to Miss Harriet Diltz, of Augusta, Ky. He is survived by one brother, who lives in Boston, two sisters and four children as named above.

The remains will be shipped to this place for burial and are expected to arrive here next Monday afternoon and will be laid to rest in the City cemetery by the side of his wife, who died in 1891 at Paducah and was brought to this place for burial.

Little Ethel Marelle Pullen.

On the night of the thirteenth of August 1910, the black-robed angel of death visited the home of Tom and Letha Pullen, and laid the icy finger upon the heart of their darling little daughter, Ethel Marelle. She was eight months and twenty-nine days old.

It was indeed hard to give her up, knowing that never again in this world can we see her sweet little face. But the Lord knoweth best. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord." We cannot call her back, neither should we wish to, for she has a better home than could have ever been given her here, but if we live as the Master has directed us, we may meet her in that beautiful home where there will be no more good-bys, and where no more farewell tears are shed, but where all is peace and love. Weep not for her who is now at rest. Where care and pain no more annoy. She has reached the home of the blest. And realized immortal joy. Her spirit smiles from that bright shore. And softly whispers, "weep no more."

Revival of Lace

Family Treasures That Have Been Laid Aside for Years Make the Wearer Look Like Old Pictures.

THE Moyer age effect, noted on new costumes, is achieved in several instances by a long, straight fitted corset of brocade silk, to which is attached a slightly gathered, plain silk or velvet skirt. A twisted triple cord cinchure loosely winds the waist. The top of the corset is cut in a severe round or small square and filled with a glimpse of unlined white mouseline de soie, while short chemise sleeves fall over long, plain undersleeves that match the guimpe. The fine old house that launched this fascinating costume showed tailored costumes built on the same Moyer age model. To the edge of the straight, long body part the short skirt was attached, laid at each side in a few flat pleats, closely held to preserve their form. The coat was a tiny affair, reaching to the edge of the skirt yoke and close fitted, buttoning straight from bust to hem. The open side seams were held close together by double lines of small gunmetal bullet buttons; the seam at the back of the coat sleeves was finished in the same manner, and buttons with cord loops trimmed the flat collar and revers.

There is no end to the variety of buttons used in the greatest quantities as trimming on costumes of every description. On a tailored costume of dark blue serge tiny gold ball buttons were counted by hundreds. In lines and clusters they followed the curve of the collar and revers; they trimmed the sleeves, and they peppered narrow bands used in the decoration of the skirt. On a tailored costume of rough wool in mixed shades of gray this lavish array of buttons was in gunmetal; on deep cream serge they were in shaded pearl, but always large or small, the bullet shape is the one preferred.

Soutache braiding also holds an important place in the decoration of street costumes. About a hand of fur it edges the skirt. It clusters in corners of the coat, it trims the coat sleeves, covers the plastron that fills the open front of the coat, and shapes a half belt line at the waist. These masses of rich raised work are especially effective, whether carried out in self colors, as they generally are, or in pale, delicate contrasts. Large cable cords, and cords covered with heavy silk and with velvet, are twisted into every form of ornamentation for both tailored and afternoon gowns. Effective, such decorations are also individual; for, applied on the costume after shaping, the taste of the worker determines the design. A most elaborate trimming of this sort was noted on an evening gown of gold striped gauze. Two big cords, covered, one with gold tissue, one with silver, were twisted together to frame a band of yellow fur, dyed the shade desired. A band of cream lace laid over gold trimmed the corset and fell at one side of the back into a long sash end, weighted with a long fur ball. The short sleeves of striped gauze were hemmed with a two-inch band of fur—a pretty fancy which is seen as often on sober afternoon gowns as on those for evening wear. Often this is the only bit of fur on the entire garment. Long tassels and gold and silver fringes are used in the most amusing manner to finish the three-cornered or pointed bits of drapery that are called trains. When left free of the underskirt they fall with picturesque grace; when held close to the underskirt they bob and dance oddly with every movement. Skirts cut shorter back and front leaving the side breadths to hang a couple of inches longer, are coquettishly pretty, wholly exposing the well shod feet; but this fashion, like many others, is one well left to the young, slender and graceful woman, and she should be prepared to discard so extreme a mode the moment it becomes vulgarized, as this is sure to be. Still more extreme was a short, scant skirt of dark blue satin, overhung with several narrow panels that fell two inches longer than the underskirt. This skirt was topped with a tight fitting jacket of dark blue velvet, with a wide sailor collar and deep flaring cuffs with black caracul fur. Costumes designed for early autumn wear are built on lines of extreme simplicity. The materials, though in trim, are semi-transparent and light in weight, are coarse and heavy in appearance, and except for collar revers and cuffs of velvet, they are quite without trimming. The short skirts, fitted closely over the hips are laid in single box pleats in the middle of the back and front, and these pleats are stretched to the depth of the knees. The coats, half long, hang in smart, straight lines and close with one line of buttons. The hats worn with these gowns are smart in shape but simple in trimming, a bunch of feather pom-poms, a delft tied knot of wide ribbon is all good taste permits.

Lace is decidedly "in" again, and the woman wise on the subject of gowning is bringing out her old lace collars, berthings and fichus. The hostess at a recent evening reception looked indescribably elegant and graceful in a soft, close-hanging gown of black meteor crepe, cut slightly low at the throat, and with no trimming save the ermine fur which edged the short, transparent sleeves, and a wide flat collar of lovely Venetian lace, a collar not worn for years previously. Another costume, all soft, trailing breadths of cream white silk voile, was completed by an old fichu of ivory white net, wide frilled, with white of the point d'esprit, while wide frills of the same lace edged the close elbow sleeves. The charming black-haired woman who wore the latter go-a looked like an eighteenth century trait just stepped from its frame.

Fichu to Be Popular. From the looks of things at the neckwear counters now we shall all be wearing fichus with our house frocks this winter. It is easy to make a picture of one's self with a charming white fichu draped over the bust and shoulders, and the simplest waist may be dressed up amazingly in this pretty fashion. The fichu is fastened at the breast with a rose or with a bow of black velvet ribbon, and the ends fall to the waist or below. Fine white net with platings of Val lace make the prettiest fichus, and there are others of soft white mull with platted frills at the edge which are lovely over little house gowns or gray or lavender silk mull.

Some of the newest scarfs for evening wear are fringed with gold coins. Flat-jeweled collars are worn at the base of the neck now, the high dog collars not seen. Some of the new fall hats are to be brimless. It is said, and peaked like a witch's crown. A twist of rose pink tulle wound through the collar finds favor with many of the younger women. Black velvet hat facing is, so report has it, to be seen more popular on autumn hats than it has been in summer millinery. Nearly all the French women wear, in the evening, silk flowered, big roses, colored or silk braid in some form or other in the hair. Black chantilly applied to a satin slip and veiled in chiffon or other gauzy material is a motif favored by the fashionable dressmakers. Rainproof automobile veils, it is said, will protect the most delicate hat ever conceived by a milliner from a storm of huge proportions.

TARIFF REVISION LOOKED AT IN NEW LIGHT.

Necessity for General Changing of Schedules is Not Apparent to the Thinker—Proposition is an Argument of the Crafters.

In his speech at Council Grove, Kan., Senator Cummins said that one of the objects of the progressives was to make a rule "whereby any schedule of the tariff bill may be revised at will without going through the whole of the tariff schedules." He said further: "This would eliminate the intolerable vice of the present system whereby combinations with other members and will vote for many schedules that he believes are absolutely wrong in order to get a schedule that he believes is right."

This theory of tariff making is not new. In 1824, when Daniel Webster of Massachusetts made his famous speech on the tariff of that year, he said: "I deeply regret the necessity which is likely to be imposed on me of giving a general affirmative or negative vote on the whole of the bill. I cannot but think this mode of proceeding liable to great objections. It exposes those who support and those who oppose the measure to very unjust and injurious misapprehensions. There may be good reasons for favoring some of the provisions of the bill, and equally strong reasons for opposing others; and these provisions do not stand to each other in the relation of principal and incident. If that were the case, those who are in favor of the principal might forego their opinions upon incidental and subordinate provisions. But the bill proposes enactments entirely distinct and different from one another in character and tendency. Some of its clauses are intended merely for revenue, and of those which regard the protection of home manufactures, one part stands upon very different grounds from those of other parts. So that probably every gentleman who may ultimately support the bill will vote for much which his judgment does not approve; and those who oppose it will oppose something which they would very gladly support."

This condition has existed in regard to every tariff bill that has been passed. Undoubtedly there were features of the Payne bill which the insurgents and progressives would have supported enthusiastically if they could have done so without giving their approval to others which they utterly condemned, and the same is true of the Democrats. More and more people are reaching the conclusion that the bogey of general tariff revision is created for a purpose, and that it is no more necessary to disturb all by revising the whole of the tariff schedules at the same time than it is to revise our whole criminal code every time a change is made in the statutes. There need be no consideration of what to do with hides because conditions require the reform of the wool schedule. There is no reason why, when it is proposed to reduce the outrageous tariff on lead, a fight should have to be made to keep the crafters from putting a tariff on coffee.—Indianapolis News.

Democratic Opportunity.

The Democracy of Maine has won a great victory, a victory of national import. It is now for them to make the results of that victory permanent, instead of a flash in the pan. In the first place, they must strengthen and perfect their party organization throughout the state. The work must be thoroughly done in all its ramifications. The incentive that has been lacking for this they now have. Organization is essential, but what is still more essential is a clean and good record. The Democratic party will be judged by its fruits, as the opposing party has been judged: its opponents now will be on the watch for Democratic blunders and evidences of the "incompetency" they sneeringly allege. They must be disappointed completely. The Plaided administration, the phidict, will fully justify the confidence of the Republicans as well as the Democrats who have placed it in power.—Portland Argus (Dem.).

Roosevelt Always to the Fore.

About two-thirds of Mr. Roosevelt's platform at Saratoga is given up to national questions. Of these the tariff is most important, and the action of congress as to the tariff is warmly, extravagantly, and very far from truthfully praised. The tariff as it is and as it ought to be is thus made the chief issue of the campaign, always keeping in mind the exception in regard to the personality and ambitions of Mr. Roosevelt himself. It is made so by Mr. Roosevelt.

Party Cannot Be Trusted.

In tariff revision the Republican party cannot be trusted. The cheat that they did in 1905 will be done again and again, just as often as the chance is given. The motive to cheat is continuous. The interests that changed and paid for the treachery of last year have the same needs now, and are equally ready and able to buy their satisfaction, and this will be just as true as to the reform of one schedule as it will be with regard to a general revision.

APOLOGIZING FOR HIS PARTY

President Taft Driven to Extremes in Defending the Policies of the Republicans.

President Taft's references to the "bargain-counter" tariff of the Payne-Aldrich combine in his recent speech showed natural and creditable embarrassment. He had made promises as to tariff revision which congress would not carry out. He had laid down a principle of action which congress utterly scouted. He had labored anxiously all through the special session for decent treatment of party pledges, particularly with reference to the materials of industry and to goods needed by the poorer classes, and his efforts had been entirely vain. Now he has assumed the character of a general apologist for his party, and has devoted strength and time required for his executive service of the whole nation to the work of advocate in chief in a congressional campaign. In that campaign the tariff is the dominant issue. He cannot ignore or wholly evade it. It bothers him greatly. He is by nature an honest and candid man. He is "by training an acute and thorough lawyer. He has had long and honorable experience as an impartial judge. He is well equipped to detect the truth in a complicated question, and his impulse and habit prompt him to stand by the truth.

But the truth is very, very bad for his party. It is to some extent bad for him, too, for he has not done all that he could have done to compel the observance of pledges made by him and by his party. But we think he would own up to that man fashion and appeal for confidence on the ground that he would do better in the future, if he had himself only to think of. He cannot, however, take that course as to his party, for its leaders are not frank, nor repentant. He must for his party make a wretched, hypocritical, treacherous and vicious course seem at least partly decent.—New York Times (Ind. Rep.).

TAFT AND VACATION TIME

Chief Executive's Ideas in the Main Are All Right, But There Are Obstacles.

Men on small salaries, and men who cannot leave their affairs to others even for a day, highly appreciate President Taft's assertion that every man should enjoy three months vacation each year. Unfortunately, the average citizen cannot command a warship with a $50,000 bathroom and a brass band at public expense for his vacationing. By the time he has paid for his living expenses, which the Aldrich-Taft tariff permits Mr. Taft's New England friends to charge, the ordinary man, who depends on his earnings, and is forced to keep his expenditures within his income, is lucky if he has the price of a car ride to the park.

Still Mr. Taft's suggestion is worth considering. If Uncle Sam keeps on increasing his navy at the present extravagant rate, there will be warships enough to go around by the time universal peace is declared.

By way of excuse for keeping them in commission and spending tax money in tens and hundreds of millions, congress can establish a local three-months' vacation for everybody, to be spent aboard a warship at public expense.

Every taxpayer is just as much entitled to expensive junketing, paid for out of taxes, as is the president of the United States.

By all means let us have the three months' legal holiday, and give everybody a chance to enjoy brass bands, $50,000 bathrooms and a beautiful life on the ocean wave aboard a warship.

Limit of Rooseveltism.

We now have the official interpretation of the New York Republican platform from the man who made it, Theodore Roosevelt. Here is his view:

No "New" Tariff.

The protected manufacturer pitifully asks that the "new" tariff shall be given time to prove its usefulness. We have no "new" tariff. It is the same old bungling inquiry, with a nominal redistribution of the burden, but without the correction of a single vice. The more you change it, the more it is the same thing, and as the electors have shown all over the country already, to claim any mercy for it on the ground of experiment is childish.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of these peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only; or, in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

Old Lady's Advice

"If you had seen me, before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person," writes Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main Street, Knoxville, Tenn. "Six doctors failed to do me any good, and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed, or walk a step. At last, an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and since taking it, I can go most anywhere."

Cardui is the medicine you need, for weakness, loss of appetite, tired feeling, irregularity or distress, etc.

TAKE CARDUI

CC 57

The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is a natural remedy, and one that you can feel confidence in. Its long record of more than half a century of success, proves that it has real merit behind it, since it has stood the hardest of all tests—the test of time. A few doses of Cardui at the right time, will save many a big doctor bill, by preventing serious sickness. You are safe in taking Cardui, because it is a gentle, harmless, vegetable tonic, that can do you nothing but good. It has helped a million women. Why not you? Try it. It is for sale at over 40,000 drug stores.

Shaking! Aching!! Shivering!!! Quivering!!!!

THAT'S malaria. Malaria is murderous. It kills the vital powers. To cure malaria you must do more than stop the shaking and aching. You must stamp out the last spark of disease and put back into the body the strength and vigor that disease has destroyed.

OXIDINE

—a bottle proves. does this so quickly and surely that it stands alone among malaria medicines as a perfect cure. It drives out Chills and Fever, and then begins its tonic action, rebuilding and revitalizing the entire system.

The tonic body-building properties of OXIDINE make it the most effective of all remedies for disorders of Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels when these organs are failing in their functions. If you want to cure malaria, get OXIDINE. If you are weak, get OXIDINE and be strong.

SHOOTING SKIES FOR RAIN

Uncle Sam Has Lost Faith in Rain-Making Schemes, but Italians Are Still Sanguine.

Washington.—Recently when fire was sweeping over the mountains of the west, leaving death and destruction in its wake, the despairing people appealed to the war department to bombard the skies and bring a much-needed rain. For obvious reasons their request was refused. Uncle Sam, a few years ago, spent large sums of money experimenting along this line, sending up bombs and firing cannon at the skies to produce rain by artifi-

"Cloud-Shooting" Guns of Italy.

cial means. It was no use, for the clouds refused to "break" in satisfaction of man's tiny tickling. Since then the government has been without faith in any scheme for rain-making. It is now held that the reason why rain usually follows is the great battles of history is because whenever possible the commanders moved their armies and began battles when the weather was fair. Rain falls on an average of one day in three, so it is no amazing matter that the clouds should spill their contents about the time one of those famous slaughters would be over with.

Of course, the great men of science know that it is useless for man, with his puny implements, to undertake to bring about those stupendous changes in nature necessary to produce the phenomenon of rain. It would be necessary to lower the temperature of a vast area of the heavens, or saturate such a region with moisture to obtain results, and our means of accomplishment are too limited.

Though our government has lost faith in rain-making, however, the Italians seem to be quite confident that in one way, at least, bombarding the clouds is productive of good results. In all the vineyards of that sunny land there may be seen curious funnel-shaped guns pointing to the sky. Hail storms form one of the chief dangers to the grape crop in that country, and the Italians believe that the firing of these guns prevents such destructive visitations by dissipating
the clouds which give them birth.

Chicago.—"We are going around the world on our own endeavors and money for educational purposes and to see if two women can work their way in such an undertaking," said Miss Olive Adair and Miss Orville List, two young women from Tulsa, Okla., who arrived long journey. They wore broad white satin sashes, with the words, in black letters, "Around-the-World Girls From Tulsa, Oklahoma," and their suitcases and traveling bags were decorated in similar manner. They wore light tan traveling gowns and black turbans.

"We are going to make a tour of the world," they said, "and will earn our passage." Miss List is a composer of music, and Miss Adair is a singer and a writer of short stories. "We start-

BANKERS KNEW THEIR MAN

In His Customary Condition, and No Further Identification Was Necessary.

One day a big city bank received a check from one of its country correspondents. "Pay $25 to John Smith, who will call today." The cashier's curiosity became suspicion when a man came into the bank a drunken "faro" who shouted that he was John Smith and wanted some money. Two clerks pushed, pulled and plied the belligerent individual into a private room away from the sight and hearing of regular depositors. The cashier wired the country bank.

"Man claiming to be John Smith is here. Highly intoxicated. Shall we await identification?"
The answer, read: "Identification complete. Pay the money."—Success

HIS HANDS CRACKED OPEN

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the inside for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticure Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mile sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies."

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticure Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. Ef-ingham, N. H., Mar. 5, and Apr. 11, '09."

Poor Prospects.

"Yes," said Miss Passay, "I found a very nice boarding house today, but the only room I had to offer me was a folding bed in it, and I detest
those things."

"Of course," remarked Miss Pert,
"one can never hope to find a man under a folding bed."—Catholic Stand-

GETTING EVEN WITH MAMMA

In This Case, Child's Punishment Certainly Failed to Have Salutary Effect.

A little girl had been so very naughty that her mother found it necessary to shut her up in a dark closet—in that family the darkest punishment for the worst offense.
For 15 minutes the door had been locked without a sound coming from behind it. Not a whisper, not a sniffle.
At last the stern but anxious parent unlocked the closet door and peered into the darkness. She could see nothing.

"What are you doing in there?" she cried.

And then a little voice piped from the blackness:

"I thipt on your new dress and I thipt on your new hat, and I'm waiting for more thipt to come to thipt on your new parasol!"

Childlike Ignorance.

Laura Jean Libbey, discussing in Brooklyn her successful appearance on the stage, said:

"I talk in my monologue about love, marriage and the other interests of the heart. On these subjects women, especially young women, are strangely ignorant."

"They really make me think, you know, of the little girl who was asked by her teacher:

"What can you tell us about Solomon?"

"Solomon," replied the little girl,
"was very fond of animals."

"And how, my dear," said the teacher, "do you make that out?"

"Because," answered the little girl,
"the Bible says he had 500 porcupines."

Prudent Bridegroom.

"The uncertainties of life in New York are reflected in wedding rings," said the jeweler. "Of all the wedding rings I have sold this season more than half were brought back after the ceremony to have the date put on. The rest of the inscription was engraved when the ring was purchased, but in order that the date might not be correct it was cautiously omitted until after the knot was tied."

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. BARBER, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia, pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 84 1/2 Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Today I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1890 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable

Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE MURRAY LEDGER,

O. J. JENNINGS, EDITOR.

Entered at the postoffice at Murray, Kentucky, for transmission through the mails as second class matter.

THURSDAY, OCT. 20, 1910.

After all the Murray women are not wearing quite so outlandish hats as are pictured in the Sunday newspaper magazine sections.

Wonder who wrote that long thing Newt Chrisman had published in one of the district papers last week purporting to be a call for county mass conventions? Newt Utley or Rainey Wells? To say the least it was a hum-dinger and the daddy of it would be more at home in some little red school house than he would be in the Kentucky senate.

It is announced at Colorado Springs, Col., that Miss Lucy Hayes, grand-daughter of Jefferson Davis, is to wed George Bawsey Young, son of the late Harvey Young, the famous painter of Western landscapes. No date for the wedding has been set. Miss Hayes' mother, Mrs. Margaret Howell Jefferson Davis Hayes, was the daughter of Jefferson Davis.

The dear old friend of our boyhood days made its appearance in our town this week. The red-meat watermelon, with black seed. — Benton Tribune.

Don't forget to get a bottle of paragoric. — colonel. — Carlisle News.

Our days of setting up, with a squalling baby in one hand and a bottle of paragoric in the other, are over, bless the Lord. Our baby is six years old and while we would not take a "million" for him, we would not give a penny for another. — Benton Tribune.

Pity 'tis, 'tis true, but we'll be a darn if we aint yet got enough manhood to refuse to own up to it.

The weak point in the Smithland Banner's defense of the action of the chairman of the Third district senatorial committee, in calling a convention without the assistance of other committee-men, is that it makes no difference whether Henry Lawrence has been guilty of the same thing or not. This as we take it, is not a question between Henry Lawrence and somebody else, his is a question of right and wrong. If the chairman did wrong, it makes no difference what Henry Lawrence or any other man may have done. — Paducah Sun.

Looks very much like the Sun is unable to get anything correct any more. The real point of weakness in the Livingston Banner is George Landrum.

PAYS TO ENCOURAGE BIRDS

Assertion Made That Farmers Would Find It to Their Interest to Protect Songsters.

What may be done in the encouragement of naturally migratory song birds to remain north during the winter has been demonstrated at the farmhouse of George B. Hosie during the last winter, where a colony of 11 bluebirds have contentedly lived and apparently enjoyed their quarters in the bird houses where they were reared last summer.

It is quite interesting to watch their modes of living, as their habits of procuring food have to be entirely different from what they are in summer.

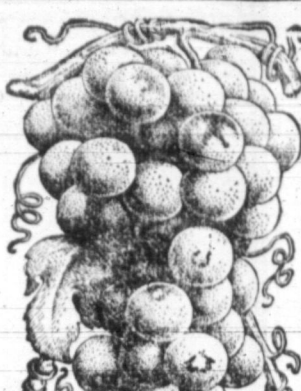

Every fairly pleasant morning by the time it is light they fly away and are not seen again until near sunset, when they return individually and go into the bird houses, several occupying one house, and all on the same building.

Mr. Hosie has about his place 22 bird houses, all of which were occupied last season, there being two nests of bluebirds and 20 nests of stump swallows.

Besides these there were raised about the buildings four nests of barn swallows, one nest of chimney swallows, and several nests of cave swallows. As these would average four young birds to each nest, the farmer raised, with the old ones added, would make approximately 200 birds.

Then there were within 500 feet of the house ten robin nests, one oriole, one warbling vireo, one house wren, two chickadees, two group sparrows and one king bird, making in all 18 nests, and with these young and old added would make a total of 200 insect destroying songsters that were not only a continual joy, but a source of very profit in the great number of gnats, flies, bees and worms daily consumed.

Mr. Hosie attributes a big yield of apples last season to the destruction by the birds of the insect pest that infests the apples from bloom to finish. If every farmer would put up a few suitable bird houses it would soon make a vast difference to the raising of farm products. — Western Sun.

CAPT. MELTON DIES IN MEMPHIS.

Former Callowayian Passes Away at Advanced Age of Eighty Years.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 12. — Capt. J. F. Melton died Tuesday at the home of his son, John Melton, in Memphis after a short illness.

Capt. Melton was well known in Graves, Calloway and McCracken counties as an old Confederate soldier who distinguished himself many times for his daring, bravery and gallantry.

He lived a long time in Calloway county, some time in Tennessee and several years at Wingo in this county and a few years in Paducah. He had a large connection in this county and many relatives in other parts of the country. He was a dear lover of the South and a man whose heart was ever with the old Confederate soldiers. He was about 80 years old and has all his life been a stout healthy man, in fact, the last time he was in Mayfield he was hale and hearty and looked to live many years, but the ravages of time told the tale and finally he was called to cross the dark river.

He was a man who was ever fearless in the discharge of his duty and in doing this he has been forced to kill two or three men during his life, in self defense. He was an honest man, always so conducting himself, as not to fear to meet any man face to face. He was buried in Memphis. Many people will be sorry to hear of the death of Capt. J. F. Melton.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Cures.

The active medicinal ingredients of Rexall Orderlies, which are odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes, 25c and 50c. So kindly at our store. — The Rexall Store, Dole & Stubblefield.

Obituary.

Mattie G. Miller, wife of Robert Miller, and daughter of C. F. and Sarah Paschall, born November 23, 1879, and died September 23, 1910, aged 30 years, 9 months and 23 days. She professed faith in Christ when quite young and united with the church at Sinking Springs where she lived a true, devoted and consistent member until the Angel of Death claimed her. She leaves husband, four children, father and mother, five brothers and three sisters to mourn her untimely death. She was sick for a long time, but bore her sickness and suffering patiently, saying she was ready to meet death at any time that it was the good Lord's will to call her home to heaven above, and we should all feel thankful for such a consolation as that and should strive to meet her there where there will be no more parting.

We desire to thank the neighbors and community at large for their kind sympathy and assistance during her sickness and death. Robert Miller, C. F. and Sarah Paschall and brothers and sisters.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Murray People Know How to Save It.

Many Murray people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but their is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

H. M. Parker, of Wiswell, Ky., says: "For twenty years I was a victim of kidney complaint. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells during which my sight became blurred and I felt tired and languid. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and I was forced to arise several times at night. Whenever I caught cold it settled on my kidneys and aggravated my trouble. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and after using them a short time, I notice great relief. The contents of three boxes completely cured me. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Dale & Stubblefield's Drug Store, and am always glad to recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

What better investment for good reading now that the winter is coming on can you make?

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys must, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The unit and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Hingham, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

IT GROWS HAIR.

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "33" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course, in none of these cases were the hair roots dead, nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

Rexall "33" Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed, and will not gum or permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "33" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair, and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Dale & Stubblefield.

Good News from The Youth's Companion.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers want to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 or the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what is in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in twelve colors and gold a beautiful water-color garden scene.—The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass.

Per-na the Remedy.

Dr. J. W. FULLER, Scientific Optician, 301 North Main St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the head for many years. It affected my sense of smell, hearing and sight."

"I spent lots of money with doctors and the use of local applications to relieve me, but to no purpose until my attention was called to the wonderful effects of Per-na."

"I must say that I met with most surprising and satisfactory results. Per-na took hold of the complaint and drove it entirely out of my system."

"Although I well along toward the allotted span of man's life, I am as pleased as a child over the results, and feel like a young man again."
