Summer park program off to great start

 Staff Writer
 It was only a few minutes past 11 a.m. and kids were already lining up for a free lunch and an afternoon of activities. As Michelle Hansen greeted the children and parents filing through the Playhouse in the Park deck, a gentle breeze blew through Central Park and another day of Summer in the Park was off to a great start.
 Hansen, coordinator of the program, said the program combines fun with education.
 "By offering the program, educational processes can continue into the summer," Hansen said. "Subjects such as nutrition, literacy and bullying have been covered. We also offer programs on careers, and that gives some kids who would never otherwise be exposed a chance to have their interests

A giant United States Flag hangs from the Calloway County Courthouse this week in downtown Murray. Hundreds of flags displaying the red, white and blue "stars and stripes" can be seen throughout the community as Murray prepares to celebrate the 25th anniversary of its Freedom Fest activities.  It's going to be a hot one this year, but the many Freedom Fest activities are prepared to go off without a hitch.
 Stephanie Butler, director of Marketing and Communications with the Murray Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there is no reason for the extreme heat to deter the public.
 "We are taking provisions to make it as comfortable as possible," Butler said. "We have spoken with the fire department and emergency management, so they will be on call this weekend. Our staff is trained in first aid, and they know what the symptoms of heat exhaustion are and how to treat someone if something were to happen."

 Butler emphasized the importance of staying cool and avoiding the heat as much as possible.

"There will be cooling stations at 5th and Main and in front of The Cake Lady, where we will have tents and tables," Butler said. "We will also have misting fans, and the Lions Club will be giving away free water. We're going to have a sprinkler on Maple Street to help cool people down. It's been hot in the past, but it's never been dangerously hot. We're trying to take precautions. We're not necessarily outside during the hottest parts of the day, either."

 The heat has so far caused one major change to a scheduled Freedom Fest event. The Town & Gown Community Band concert scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday has been moved from Murray State University's Roy Stewart Stadium to inside Lovett Auditorium, according to Town & Gown coordinator Mark Welch.

RV FIRE: Calloway County Fire-Rescue responded to an RV fire on Ky. 80 near the intersection of Peach Orchard Road at approximately 1:15 p.m. Thursday. CCFR Chief Tommy Morgan said the cause of the fire was unknown, but that the vehicle caught on fire while heading east on Ky. 80 after leaving a repair shop in Mayfield. The debris also caused two spot fires nearby, but firefighters were able to douse them fairly quickly. The road was shut down for a total of approximately 90 minutes. It was opened after the fire was extinguished, but had to be closed again for a tow truck to haul away the destroyed vehicle, Morgan said. CCFR responded with four trucks and around 11 personnel. No one was injured in the blaze, Morgan said. AUSTIN RAMSEY / Ledger & Times

 Murray Fire Chief Eric Pologruto and other officials assured the Murray City Council on Thursday that the city would be taking extra precautions to allow the annual Briggs & Stratton fireworks display to proceed as scheduled Saturday night while ensuring public safety.
 The fireworks display is scheduled for 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and Pologruto said MFD employees would be teaming with Calloway County Fire-Rescue, to make certain that no fires are caused by the display. He said he had been discussing the issue with Police Chief Jeff Liles and pyrotechnician Steve Trask - who oversees the show - and was con-sparked." The program, formerly held in Chestnut Park, is being held in Central Park this year due to need. According to Julie Stone, Murray Family Resource Center director, there has to be a substantial need in the particular area, and based on the last census there was not a need in the former location. Hansen said the location change appears to have boosted attendance this year. "The move introduced it to some kids who may not have known about the program before," Hansen said. "We owe a big thanks to Playhouse in the Park for letting us use their deck every day, and it's great. We know they don't have to do that, and we're very thankful for that." The program has a different activity each day, Monday through Friday. Stone said that while the heat and other camps that occur during the summer can decrease attendance, many people have attended. "Swim day has been very well attended, and that's on Wednesday. We work with the parks and they're very gracious to give us a discounted rate for that, and the parents are included in that. We split the cost with the partners."

The only stipulation for attendance is that you must be a student under the age of 18. Home schooled students are included, and participation is not based on income.

Statistics provided by Hansen prove attendance is on the rise, and the program has two-and-one-half weeks remaining.

In 2011, 420 youth attended and 1547 meals were served. In 2012, 551 youth have attended and 1763 meals have been served. Volunteers are welcome to attend to aid in serving lunches and supervising activities, as the success of the program is a collaborative effort.

The program will continue until July 13, though it will not be held July 4. Stone and Hansen emphasized that everyone is always welcome to attend, whether it is their first time or they have attended multiple times.

"Some kids come because it's a connecting point," Hansen said. "We recognize that kids come for that reason, and parents come to connect with other parents. There are a lot of different needs that are filled."

ident that they could handle the situation.

Pologruto said the biggest threat to public safety was the approximately 10-acre field west of Bee Creek behind Culver's, Applebee's and Burger King. He said city officials had decided to bar vehicles and spectators from the area for their safety. About an hour before the fireworks display, firefighters will saturate the ground with water to reduce the chances of a brush fire, and personnel will also be standing by at several nearby locations with tankers as a contingency, Pologruto said.

Pologruto added two caveats, however. He said that if Saturday turns out to be windy, the show would probably have to be postponed for another day. He said if wind speed reached 10-15 mph as it did on Thursday, conditions would not be conducive for fireworks.

Also, if firefighters have to respond to a fire in the city or county near or during the scheduled time for the show, the fireworks would have to be delayed or possibly postponed, depending on the severity of the incident.

In addition to the 10-acre field, the city will be closing several other areas for public safety from 3 p.m. Saturday until after the fireworks are over. Erin Carrico, executive director of the Murray Convention and Visitors Bureau, said the additional closures included the east side of Frontage Road at Goodwill, the access road behind Culver's and the access area behind Kroger.

Pologruto also addressed the countywide burn ban issued earlier this week by Calloway County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins. He said the burn ban prohibits the public from setting off fireworks of any kind. He said Kentucky statute allows fines of $250 for violations.

"I guess we're just saying, let's leave the fireworks to the experts this year," said Mayor Bill Wells.

Pologruto said he had also fielded questions from fireworks vendors and had instructed his staff to give them copies of Elkins' executive order if they call the station.

In other city business, the council:

- approved the second reading of an ordinance amending the transient business regulations.

- approved the second reading of an ordinance amending the sewer ordinance to comply with streamlining regulations from the Kentucky Division of Water.

- approved an amendment to an ordinance that recently annexed property owned by Paul and Vicky Garland at 190 Utterback Rd. to correct the property description and plat.

- approved a $62,244 bid from Neptune Equipment to purchase 300 radio read water meters.

- recognized graduated Murray High School track team members Cammie Jo Bolin and Catherine Claywell for their recent successes at the state track tournament. Bolin won first place in the long jump competition, and Claywell was runner-up in the high jump competition after previously winning the state championship five times.

approving the plan. However, Republicans quickly indicated they will try to use the decision to rally their supporters against what they call "Obamacare," arguing that the ruling characterized the penalty against people who refuse to get insurance as a tax.

Obama declared, "Whatever the politics, today's decision was a victory for people all over this country." GOP presidential candidate Mitt Romney renewed his criticism of the overhaul, calling it "bad law" and promising to work to repeal it if elected in November.

Breaking with the court's other conservative justices, Chief Justice John Roberts announced the judgment that allows the law to go forward with its aim of covering more than 30 million uninsured Americans. Roberts explained at length the court's view of the mandate as a valid exercise of Congress' authority to "lay and collect taxes." The administration estimates that roughly 4 million people will pay the penalty rather than buy insurance.

Even though Congress called it a penalty, not a tax, Roberts said, "The payment is collected solely by the IRS through the normal means of taxation."

Roberts also made plain the court's rejection of the administration's claim that Congress had the power under the Constitution's commerce clause to put the mandate in place. The power to regulate interstate commerce power, he said, "does not authorize the mandate." < /P>

Stocks of hospital companies rose after the decision was announced, while shares of insurers fell sharply. Shares of drugmakers and device makers fell slightly.

The justices rejected two of the administration's three arguments in support of the insurance requirement. But the court said the mandate can be construed as a tax. "Because the Constitution permits such a tax, it is not our role to forbid it, or to pass upon its wisdom or fairness," Roberts said.

The court found problems with the law's expansion of Medicaid, but even there said the expansion could proceed as long as the federal government does not threaten to withhold states' entire Medicaid allotment if they don't take part in the law's extension.

The court's four liberal justices, Stephen Breyer, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Elena Kagan and Sonia Sotomayor, joined Roberts in the outcome.

Justices Samuel Alito, Anthony Kennedy, Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas dissented.

Kennedy summarized the dissent in court. "In our view, the act before us is invalid in its entirety," he said.

The dissenters said in a joint statement that the law "exceeds federal power both in mandating the purchase of health insurance and in denying non-consenting states all Medicaid funding."

In all, the justices spelled out their views in six opinions totaling 187 pages. Roberts, Kennedy and Ginsburg spent 51 minutes summarizing their views in the packed courtroom.

The legislation passed Congress in early 2010 after a monumental struggle in which all Republicans voted against it. House Majority Leader Eric Cantor, R-Va., said Thursday the House will vote the week of July 9 on whether to repeal the law, though such efforts have virtually no chance in the Democratic-controlled Senate.

House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, said the health care law makes it harder for small businesses to hire workers. "Today's ruling underscores the urgency of repealing this harmful law in its entirety," he said.

But Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, D-Nev., heaped praise on the court's decision, and the 2010 law, in a Senate speech. "Passing the Affordable Care Act was the greatest single step in generations toward ensuring access to affordable, quality health care for every American, regardless of where they live or how much money they make," he said.

After the ruling, Republican campaign strategists said Romney will use it to continue campaigning against "Obamacare" and attacking the president's signature health care program as a tax increase.

"Obama might have his law, but the GOP has a cause," said veteran campaign adviser Terry Holt.

Democrats said Romney, who backed an individual health insurance mandate when he was Massachusetts governor, will have a hard time exploiting the ruling.

More than eight in 10 Americans already have health insurance. But for most of the 50 million who are uninsured, the ruling offers the promise of guaranteed coverage at affordable prices. Lower-income and many middle-class families will be eligible for subsidies to help pay premiums starting in 2014.

There's also an added safety net for all Americans, insured and uninsured. Starting in 2014, insurance companies will not be able to deny coverage for medical treatment, nor can they charge more to people with health problems.

A look at the ruling upholding Obamacare

By CONNIE CASS

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) —

THE RULING:

The Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of President Barack Obama's health care law, including the most disputed part: the mandate that virtually all Americans have health insurance or pay a fine. The mandate was upheld under the federal government's power to levy taxes.

The ruling put some limits on the law's plan to expand the Medicaid insurance program for the poor, a joint effort of the federal government and states. It says the U.S. government cannot threaten to withhold a state's entire Medicaid allotment if it doesn't participate in the expansion.

Chief Justice John Roberts sided with the court's four liberal justices — Stephen Breyer, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Elena Kagan and Sonia Sotomayor — to form the 5-4 majority.

THE CONTEXT

The decision affects nearly every American and marks a major milestone in a century of efforts to make health care available to all. The law is President Barack Obama's signature legislative achievement and perhaps the most polarizing issue of his re-election campaign. His Republican rival Mitt Romney and GOP lawmakers have promised to repeal Obamacare.

WHAT NOW?

The 2010 health care law will continue phasing in as planned. It's expected to bring coverage to about 30 million uninsured people, so that more than 9 in 10 eligible Americans will be covered.

Some parts are already in effect: Young adults can stay on their parents' insurance up to age 26. Insurers can't deny coverage to children with health problems. Limits on how much policies will pay out to each person over a lifetime are eliminated. Hundreds of older people already are saving money through improved Medicare prescription benefits. And copayments for preventive care for all ages have been eliminated.

WHAT'S NEXT?

Starting in 2014, almost everyone will be required to be insured or pay a fine. There are subsidies to help people who can't afford coverage. Most employers will face fines if they don't offer coverage for their workers. Newly created insurance markets will make it easier for individuals and small businesses to buy affordable coverage. And Medicaid will be expanded to cover more low-income people.

Insurers will be prohibited from denying coverage to people with medical problems or charging those people more. They won't be able to charge women more, either. During the transition to 2014, a special program for people with pre-existing health problems helps these people get coverage.

An assortment of tax increases, health industry fees and Medicare cuts will help pay for the changes.

IS THE ISSUE SETTLED NOW?

Not necessarily. Although the court found it constitutional, the health care law still could be changed by Congress. Romney and Republican congressional candidates are campaigning on promises to repeal it if elected in November.

Some parts of the law are popular, but others — especially the mandate that virtually everyone have insurance coverage — are not.

Also, an estimated 26 million people will remain without health coverage once the law is fully implemented, including illegal immigrants, people who don't sign up and elect to face the fine instead, and those who can't afford it even with the subsidies.

Fest...

From Front

The opening ceremony begins at 5:45 p.m. on Friday, and according to Butler the heat will be less intense at that time. The Block Party, beginning at 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday night, will also avoid the hottest time of the day and will feature the country duo Aly'an and the 80's cover band Rubiks Groove. On Saturday, the parade begins at 9:30 a.m., and Butler said there are 78 entries in the parade, up from 58 last year. Bark in the Park, which will take place from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., has a new event this year — the Ultimate Air Dogs jumping dock. On Friday from 5:30-10:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., the CFSB mobile zipline, one of only four in the country, will be available to ride for $15, and it will be a good way to cool off, according to Butler.

The burn ban that was issued earlier this week will not affect the Briggs & Stratton fireworks, it was reported.

"Anything done by a controlled pyrotechnics company is exempt, and we are working closely with the City and fire department to make sure everything is done safely," Butler said. "The fire department is putting some extra precautions in place, so the show is still planned for 9 p.m. after the Town and Gown Community Band performs."

Sunday is Family Day in the park and everything will be free. This includes hot dogs and drinks, a petting zoo, pony rides, inflatables and airbrushed tattoos. Grilling will take place near the Playhouse in the Park pavilion where people can sit at the picnic tables and stay out of the sun.

County Health Department OKs $1.6M 2012-13 budget

By AUSTIN RAMSEY Staff Writer

The Calloway County Health Board met Thursday and unanimously passed a $1.6 million budget for the 2012-13 fiscal year.

The budget, compiled by Stephanie Hayes, district financial officer, comes after a series of four regional meetings hosted by the Kentucky Department for Public Health, in which officials restructured the guidelines for core public health services at the local health department level.

Health Department Director Linda Cavitt said the meetings, hosted by state Commissioner Steve Davis centered around seven services required by statute or regulation, while others are discretionary as funds exist. Cavitt said Davis' presentations centered around the unstable financial status that most local health departments state and nationwide find themselves. She said he told attendees that past structures at local levels were not sustainable in the present state, and that budgets should reflect that moving into the upcoming fiscal year.

The budget also took into account a restructuring of state funding to the local health department into a public health block grant.

Hayes said the major expenditures for next year will include salaries, which make up $1 million of the total budget. Other major costs include medical supplies, office operations and miscellaneous costs.

Cavitt updated Davis' presentation on said core services also included an announcement on the operating guidelines for local health departments. The once 1,000-page document has been condensed to around 350 pages.

"They're working hard to eliminate the fluff," she said.

Board members turned their discussion then to the staffing of the health department. Both Cavitt and Hayes said other clinics around the state were eliminating positions or cutting hours to balance budgeted costs, but because Calloway's department has been able to maintain balanced costs, no cuts will be required. Board member Charles Tucker did ask if the board could address possible lump sum raises at a later date, and it was unanimously passed to address the issue in November.

House votes to hold Attorney General Holder in contempt

LARRY MARGASAK Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has approved a precedent-setting resolution to hold Attorney General Eric Holder in criminal contempt of Congress. It was the first time a sitting Cabinet member has been held in contempt.

A number of Democrats boycotted Thursday's vote.

Republicans pushed through the resolution because Holder did not turn over documents related to a botched gun-tracking operation known as Fast and Furious.

The House Oversight and Government Reform Committee wants Justice Department records from a 10-month period after February 2011. That month, the department initially denied guns were allowed to be purchased in Arizona and be taken to Mexico. In early December that year, the department acknowledged the assertion was wrong.

A separate vote will be held to hold the attorney general in civil contempt.

SW Elementary council discusses principal goals

By AUSTIN RAMSEY Staff Writer

Southwest Calloway Elementary's site-based decision-making council met Wednesday to designate public goals teachers and parents sought in replacing the principal at the elementary school.

Calloway County Schools Superintendent Ken Bargo, who chairs the SBDM council said the district had received 19 applications for the position, but Heath Walls was announced as the new principal at Calloway County High School, eliminating him as a candidate for the elementary school position. Before the close of the meeting, 18 applicants were considered, but in an executive session near the close of the meeting, it had been announced that several more applicants would be disqualified.

The council's meeting comes after the Southwest's principal of five years Dennis Fisher retired earlier this year, leaving officials to move quickly to fill the vacant position before, or soon after, school resumes in August.

Council members said they needed to find a candidate that brought both the experience and expertise that Fisher was able to offer as principal. Many qualities they mentioned included the ability to solve problems quickly, approachability and resilience countered by a kindheartedness. Bargo said those goals were good, but difficult to determine without interviews. As the council is still in preliminary work to replace the principal, he said qualities should be more resolute, so as to be used in eliminating candidates that day during the executive session.

Members then said they preferred a candidate with elementary education experience, impressive accomplishments, curriculum knowledge and a professional application.

There was no word as to the number of applicants left after Tuesday's meeting.

Officials: Hoax calls reference jury duty

By PAIGE GRAVES Staff Writer

Local residents have been dealing with new hoax calls, lately, according to local officials.

The claim, which has been circulating through texts and calls, is one in which people are told they will be arrested if they do not report for jury duty.

Kim James with the Circuit Court of Calloway County said the office had been aware of the calls locally since Tuesday, but it has reached as far as North Carolina.

James said upon receiving the calls, she looked up the number online and saw the 407 area code and knew it was not a reliable message.

"We have confirmed with the Calloway County Sheriff's Department that this is indeed a hoax," James said. "People call and as soon as they tell me the number that is contacting them I can tell them that they are receiving false information."

When a person is called for jury duty in the United States, it is required they attend unless they wish to face strict penalties. However, being excused from jury duty is possible at the discretion of the court based on individual explanations of hardship.

"The quickest way to know for sure if you are called for jury duty is to call us, but the out of town number should alert you as well," James said.

James said that if a person has received the call or text, they can call the Clerk's office for true confirmation of jury duty.

Kentucky News in Brief

Williams, Stumbo order payment of legal fees

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Senate President David Williams and House Speaker Greg Stumbo have ordered payment of some $19,000 in legal fees incurred during this year's court battle over legislative redistricting.

The redistricting issue made its way to the Kentucky Supreme Court, which ruled earlier this year that the newly drawn legislative districts were unconstitutional because their populations were out of balance. That means lawmakers have to tackle the contentious issue again in next year's legislative session.

Redistricting occurs every 10 years to account for population changes found in the U.S. Census count. The latest count found that the state's overall population had shifted and grown from 4 million to 4.3 million between 2000 and 2010, requiring new legislative district boundaries.

Lawmakers had been divided on using tax collars to pay the legal fees.

Officer rescues man from house fire

RICHWOOD, Ky. (AP) — A deputy sheriff in northern Kentucky pulled a disabled man from a burning home, saving his life.

Boone County Sheriff's Deputy Greg Tanner was called to the home in Richwood early Wednesday when he got a call that a wheelchair-bound man was trapped in a fire. He saw smoke coming out of the bedroom window and kicked down the front door to get inside.

The Kentucky Enquirer reports Tanner went into a room and saw a bed on fire. He heard a moan coming from the floor and saw a foot sticking out from a blanket. He dragged the man out of the bedroom.

The man, 66-year-old Michael Mallory, who is paralyzed, was conscious and taken to a nearby hospital.

Man wanted for slaying returned from Ill.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A Lexington man has been returned to Kentucky to face a murder charge after being caught in Illinois.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies brought Gerardo Turcios-Rodriguez to Lexington from St. Clair County, Ill., where he was arrested on a murder warrant about two weeks after 66-year-old Doug Saylor was killed.

The Lexington Herald-Leader reported that no bond had been set for Turcios-Rodriguez Wednesday afternoon. He was scheduled to be arraigned Thursday in Fayette District Court.

Friends found Saylor dead in his Elsmere Park home June 2.

Nature plates being reissued in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Reissued license plates sponsoring the Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund will be available starting next week.

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet says the fund is reissuing plates depicting a bobcat on a rhododendron branch, a viceroy butterfly perched on a goldenrod stem and a cardinal landing on a Kentucky coffee tree branch.

It costs $10 extra to purchase one of the plates. The cabinet says the fee is used to purchase natural lands such as state parks, wildlife management areas and nature preserves. Funds raised from the plates have helped buy more than 77,000 acres in 62 counties since 1995.

There is Goodness in the world

Sometimes, when we are reading the newspaper or watching the news on television, we may think that everything happening in the world today is bad. Perhaps all the good things that are happening around us are just not that exciting and therefore not very newsworthy. I imagine that if the daily newspaper had a headline that read "Mr. Jones Takes Children To Ball Game," it wouldn't sell many papers. In the Bible, Jesus gives us an example of "goodness" by telling the story of the good Samaritan who helps a man who was robbed and beaten. We may not encounter anything this drastic in our own daily lives, but there is still goodness in the world today. Good things occur every day, and may involve many different situations: a store clerk who was extra helpful, a driver in another car who was courteous to us, or the coworker who brought in cookies to share. Goodness is one of the gifts of the Holy Spirit, and it is joined with love, joy, peace, patience, kindness and faithfulness. Spreading God's love and goodness is contagious, and the good things we do on a daily basis are blessed by our Heavenly Father. For this very reason do your best to add goodness to your faith; to your goodness and knowledge.

Is America the chosen nation of God

Question: Do you think that there is any sense in which the United States is God's chosen nation?

Answer: As much as we may love our native land and enjoy the freedoms and blessings of U.S. citizenship, we must be cautious of any attempts to claim that God favors us above the peoples of other nations on earth. The often-quoted golden text of the Bible says: "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16, italics for emphasis only). Jesus came into the world to bring salvation from sin and new life to

What Would Jesus Do?

Minister of University Church of Christ people from all nations on earth (Mark 16:15; Matthew 28:19).

However, to say that God does not favor one nation above another does not mean he is not provisionally working in the history of the United States or any nation to accomplish his divine purposes. The prophet declared that "the Most High God is sovereign over the kingdoms of men and sets over them anyone he wishes" (Daniel 5:21). To the proud Athenians, the apostle Paul said: "From one man he made every nation of men, that they should inhabit the whole earth; and he determined the times set for them and the exact places where they should live" (Acts 17:26). God's hand is involved in the life of every nation.

Christians in the U.S. or in any nation on earth have a dual citizenship. As citizens of an earthly kingdom, Christians have a God-given responsibility to respect and submit to governing officials, to pay taxes and to pray for their governing authorities (Romans 13:1-7; 1 Timothy 2:2-3). But they are also citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven seeking to bring about the doing of God's will on the whole earth as it is in heaven (Philippians 3:20; Matthew 6:10). The Kingdom of God transcends all national boundaries and political affiliations. The United States is not the Kingdom of God. Therefore, she should not be expected to take on the mission of God's Kingdom. It is the mission of God's Kingdom people, not the United States, to proclaim Jesus as the means to salvation and new life, to oppose evil and injustice and to help people maintain freedom from sin.

Many of our nation's founding fathers were devout Christians, and references to God were written into the historical documents of our country. But, we have not always acted in ways consistent with Christianity. At the time of the Declaration of Independence, a sizable portion of the population was made up of captive slaves in forced labor. Much of our land was acquired by dispossession of the previous population.

But making a distinction between our nation and the Kingdom of God does not mean we should be unpatriotic. Give thanks to God for America and the principles of liberty, justice and individual dignity upon which our nation was founded. Joyfully celebrate our annual Independence Day. Work to maintain these great principles as best we can in a fallen world. But also know that our devotion to justice and abhorrence of prejudice and other evils grows out of a knowledge of God and a relationship with our Lord Jesus Christ. Honor America, but also remember that America is not the Kingdom of God. Only the Kingdom of God is destined to stand forever (Daniel 2:44; Luke 1:32-33).

Free boating class promotes lake safety

Special to the Ledger

Most recreational boaters are well into the season, fishing, cruising, skiing, tubing and other fun water activities. Having a boating accident is the last thing on the minds of boaters as they zip through the water. Yet, there are hundreds of boating fatalities across the nation each year. Human error is a primary cause of boating accidents, according to Mary Husfield, Flotilla Commander for the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary's Kentucky Lake Flotilla.

"Taking a safe boating class reduces the probability of being a boating victim or statistic," said Husfield. "Even experienced boaters can benefit from a refresher class."

The U. S. Coast Guard

Auxiliary and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will offer a free Boating Safety class Saturday, June 30, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Glendale Road Church of Christ, Murray.

Experienced, qualified Coast Guard Auxiliary instructors will conduct the class at no cost to the students. A spokesman from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers will also be present to address the dangers of waters below dams. In the past two years, almost a dozen fishermen have lost their lives at dams in the Corps' Nashville District, said Husfield.

The eight hour class is approved by the National State Boating Law Administrators and recognized by the U. S. Coast Guard. The Auxiliary urges anyone who operates a boat or is usually a passenger on a recreational boat to take advantage of this opportunity to learn safe boating techniques, state and federal boating laws and required safety equipment.

Most insurance companies offer discounts on boat insurance to boat owners who successfully complete this course. In addition, the course meets Kentucky standards for young boaters (ages 12-17) who must acquire certification before operating solo on personal watercraft and other boats.

To register and receive a textbook before the class, contact Beale Canon at 753-4934 or bscanon@newwavecomm.net; Bill Husfield at (270) 354-9966 or cdpd01@mchsi.com or Fish and Wildlife Officer Scott Barrow at 227-6121.

Murray State University's Regional Business and Innovation Center (RBIC) was a sponsor of the inaugural Christian County E12 Business Plan competition held earlier this month. The winner of the contest was announced at the Christian County Chamber of Commerce annual dinner.

Business plan presentations were given to a panel of expert judges who chose three finalists. The winner, Tangy Roots Frozen Yogurt, received a cash prize and support services for business start-up costs. Other finalists were In Fitness Wellness Center and Cake Box.

"We were very pleased with the quality of the entries we received in the inaugural year of this contest. All finalists displayed a tremendous amount of work and thought in developing their plans," said Loretta Daniel, director of the RBIC at MSU. "Each business has the potential to grow into a valuable job creator for Christian County."

The E12 Business Plan Competition promotes entrepreneurial activity and greater awareness of the resources available to grow entrepreneurs in Christian County, and offers prizes for the best new venture plan to be located in that county.

MURRAY STATE BASKETBALL

Murray State's Isaiah Canaan, Ed Daniel shine in summer roles

SOON-TO-BE SENIORS TURNING HEADS AT DERON WILLIAMS AND A'MARE STOUDEMIRE ACADEMIES

By RICKY MARTIN
Sports Editor

If their performances this past week in Chicago are any indication, the Murray State Racers are going to be just fine in the hands of Isaiah Canaan and Ed Daniel.

Canaan, who returns to Murray State for his senior season after minor flirtations with the NBA Draft stemming from his All-American season, was a hot topic at the Deron Williams Skills Academy, where he not only impressed the gathered media, but also several NBA scouts.

The 6-foot point guard from Biloxi, Miss. arrived on the radar of scouts and executives alike after leading the Racers to a 31-2 season last year, averaging 19.0 points per game and shooting a blistering 45.6 percent from three-point range in the process.

While trying to cement his name as sure-fire NBA prospect at Williams' camp, Canaan told ESPN.com's Reggie Ranken that his priority in returning to Murray State was to help the Racers win games first and foremost, adding that the things he is learning this summer are only going to make his team better.

"I just want to learn, get better and take it back to share it with my teammates," Canaan told Ranken. "(Ed and I) are the leaders of our team, and we take this serious."

Williams' camp isn't the only one that Canaan has turned heads at either.

Earlier in June, Canaan shined at the Chris Paul camp, where he actually took down the NBA All-Star in a game of one-on-one.

As for Daniel, the 6-foot-7 forward was impressive in his debut at the A'mare Stouemire

Skill Academy, which hosts the top ten big men in the nation.

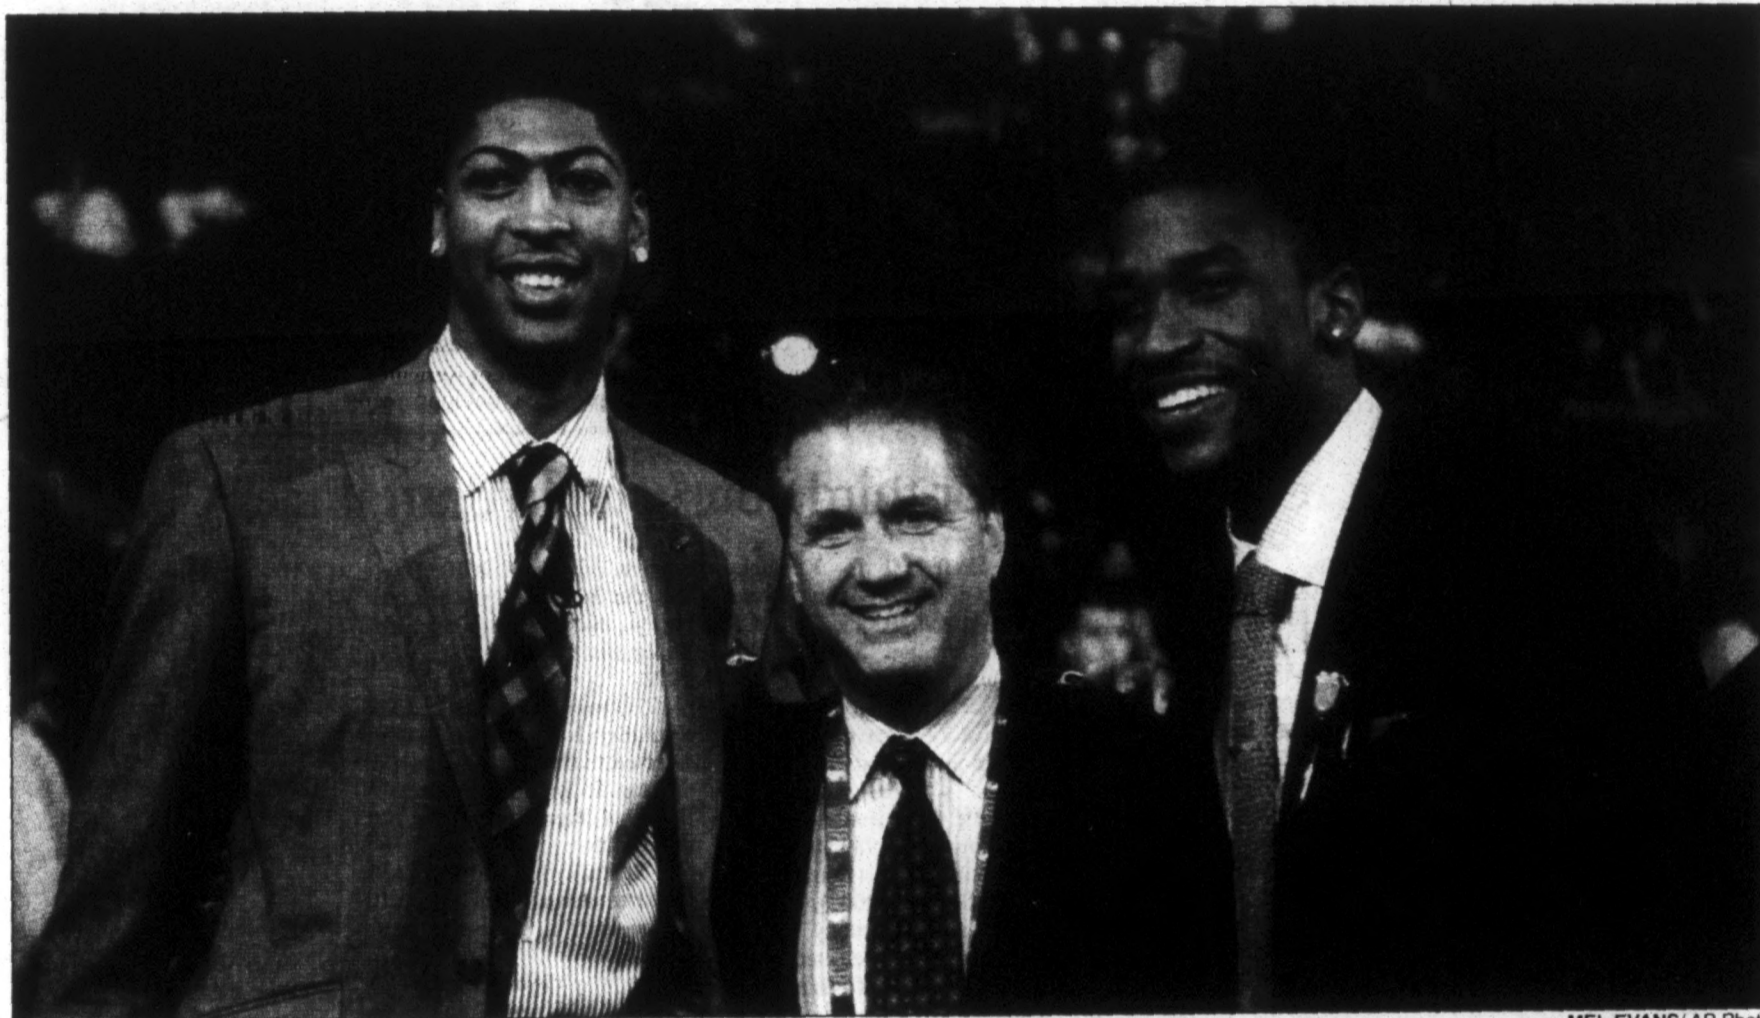

According to several talent evaluators, Daniel had plenty of 'wow' moments during his trip to Chicago, and was one of the more active post players, especially on the defensive end of the floor.

Daniel, who also spoke with Ranken, said his primary objective this summer has been to expand his game.

"I just want to add new moves to my game and get better on defense," Daniel said. "I am a power forward, but I am working on adding to my game so I can move out some."

BRIAN MAHONEY

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Best in the country and No. 1 and 2 in the NBA draft. The celebration goes on for Kentucky's kids.

The Wildcats became the first school to have the top two picks and tied a record with six players taken overall Thursday night.

After the New Orleans Hornets made the long-expected selection of forward Anthony Davis with the first pick, Charlotte followed by taking fellow freshman Michael Kidd-Gilchrist.

"It's crazy," Davis said. "Michael is a great player. We have two down and four more to go. Hopefully, all of them will go in the first round."

They didn't, the only disappointment for the Wildcats. They settled for four in the first round and a tie with North Carolina, which won the race to four picks — all in the top 17 selections.

Harrison Barnes (No. 7, Golden State), Kendall Marshall (No. 13, Phoenix), John Henson (No. 14, Milwaukee) and Tyler Zeller (No. 17, Dallas) all went between Kidd-Gilchrist and the next Kentucky player, Terrence Jones at No. 18 to Houston.

Zeller's rights were later traded to Cleveland for a package that included No. 24 pick Jared Cunningham of Oregon State.

Otherwise, it was the Wildcats' night, starting with a hug between Davis and Kidd-Gilchrist after the first selection.

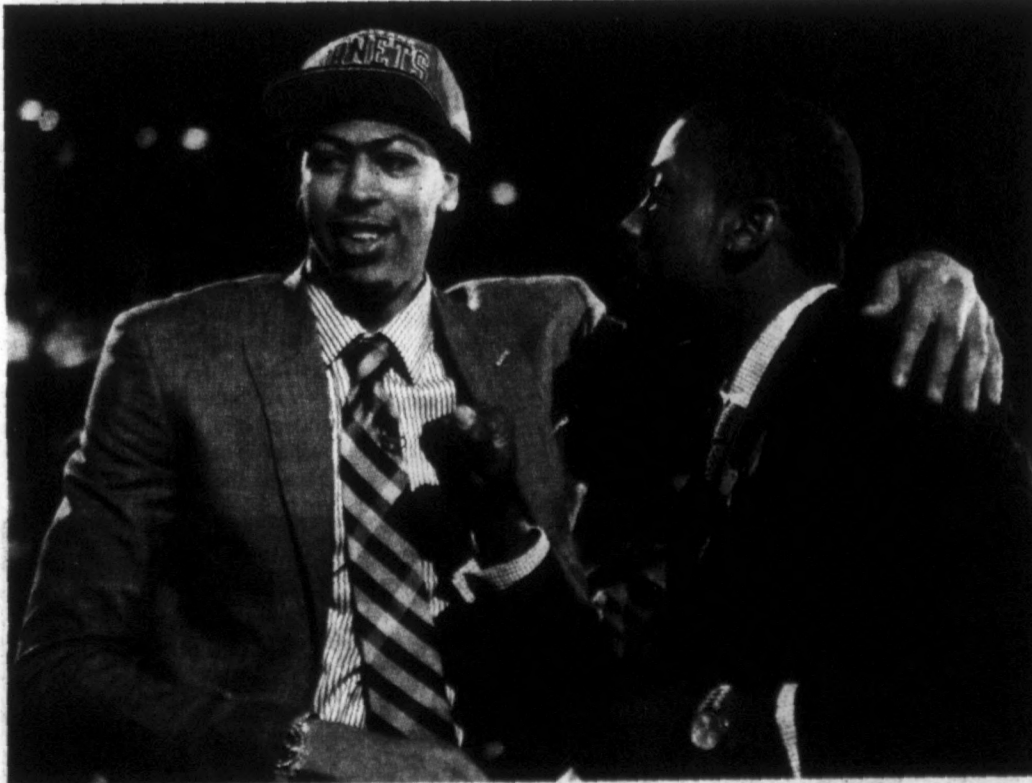

"My arm was shaking and my hands were sweaty. Got up and hugged Michael, my best friend, wanted to hug him for a minute," Davis said. "When my name got called, wanted to make sure he stayed close."

He did — following Davis as the next player to climb onto the stage and shake Commissioner David Stern's hand.

Kentucky got its fourth first-round pick at No. 29 with Marquis Teague, another freshman, who is headed to Chicago as a possible replacement for the injured Derrick Rose. Doron Lamb went 42nd to Milwaukee and Darius Miller was 46th to New Orleans.

Only UNLV in 1977 had six players drafted — but none in the first round.

John Calipari has been criticized for recruiting "one-and-done" players, they stay the required one year and leave, but he looked thrilled hugging his two stars at the start of the night. It's been a long time since a school made such an impact at the top of the draft.

UCLA had the Nos. 1 and 3 picks in 1969, when Milwaukee took Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — then Lew Alcindor — and Lucius Allen went third to the Seattle SuperSonics.

Davis will begin his pro career in the same city where he ended it with a national title.

College basketball's player of the year as a freshman was the Most Outstanding Player of the Final Four despite shooting just 1 for 10 from the field in the championship game, grabbing 16 rebounds and blocking six shots in the victory over Kansas.

Davis slipped on a blue and purple Hornets hat above a conservative gray suit that took no attention away from basketball's most famous eyebrow. Davis even attempted to capitalize on the attention his unibrow gets, trademarking "Fear The Brow" and "Raise The Brow" earlier this month.

On the floor, Davis has the agility of a guard — and he was one only a few years ago.

OLYMPIC TRIALS

Love advances to semifinals as 'wildcard' in 200 meters

RACER RACES TODAY FOR SHOT AT OLYMPIC FINALS

From MSU Athletics

Murray State sprinter Alexis Love started her second run in her attempt to make the London Olympics when she advanced to the 200 meter semifinals at the USA Olympic Track & Field Trails Thursday evening at Hayward Field at the University of Oregon in Eugene, Ore.

LOVE

On another rainy and cold evening in Oregon, Love ran from the inside lane three in the first heat and advanced to the semifinals with a run of 23.15, which was just off her Murray State/Ohio Valley Conference record of 23.08.

Love finished fourth in her heat and had wait through five more heats to see if she advanced by having one of the next three fastest times in the six heats of those finished outside the top-3 in each heat.

"I am just speechless," Love said minutes after learning she was into the next round. "I just want another chance to run here and now I get to do that!"

So the best sprinter at Murray State in many years is still running and it's almost the fourth of July! Love's remarkable season continues as the Ohio Valley Conference Female Track and Field Athlete of the Year had already shown that she belongs in this meet. She made the semifinals of the 100m last week.

"I'm so excited for Alexis and I can't wait to see what happens tomorrow," MSU Head Coach Jenny Severns said. "She just gave herself another opportunity to run fast."

Love's heat and lane assignments for the 200 semifinals will be posted later at the home of USA Track & Field at: tracktown12.gettracktownusa.com. The semifinals begin at 5 p.m. CT in Eugene on Friday.

Tianna Madison had the top time with a 22.57, while Carmelita Jeter was second at 22.63. Sanya Richards-Ross was third at 22.67.

NBA DRAFT

Tennessee State's Kevin Murphy selected in second round

BECOMES FIRST GOLDEN EAGLE TAKEN SINCE 1993, NINTH IN SCHOOL HISTORY, AND SECOND OVC PICK IN TWO YEARS

From The OVC NEW YORK - Tennessee Tech's Kevin Murphy heard his name called a little after 10 p.m. Thursday night, the 47th overall pick during the second round of the NBA Draft, when he was selected by the Utah Jazz.

Murphy's selection at No. 47 is the third-highest in school history behind Jimmy Hagan, the 18th pick in 1960 by the Minneapolis Lakers, and Best, the 36th pick by the New Jersey Nets.

A finalist for the 2012 Tennessee Tech Outstanding

Male Athlete award, Murphy shattered numerous school, conference and national records over the duration of his senior season. He finished season with 2,019 career points in 128 games overall (14th in OVC history) en route to becoming just the 16th player in conference history to score 2,000 career points.

Nationally, Murphy finished the season ranked No. 10 in scoring, while his 20.6 points per game led the OVC. He now holds the No. 2 spot on the school's all-time scoring list, and became Tech's all-time leader in games played during the Ohio Valley Conference tournament quarterfinals. In 33 games played during his senior season, Murphy led the team in scoring 20 contests.

A member of the OVC All-Tournament Team for the past two years, Murphy garnered the OVC's Player of the Week award twice this season (on Dec. 19 and Feb. 6) and was also a finalist for CollegeInsider.com's Lou Hensen Player of the Year award.

Murphy's best game of the season was arguably his 50-point performance against SIU-Edwardsville on January 30, which earned him the Capital One Impact Performer of Week award. That effort worked to remain the most points scored by any DI player this year, and the most since Jimmer Fredette scored on March 11, 2011. It is the first time that an OVC player scored 50 points since the 1991-92 season, and the most points scored by any TTU player in school history. His 16 field goals made in that outing also tied the Eblen Center high for most field goals made in a game.

Over the course of Murphy's career, he has racked up 2,019 points to become just the second player in Golden Eagle history to have surpassed 2,000 career points. Ahead of him is Earl Wise (1986-90) with 2,196 career points.

Murphy averaged 15.6 points per game from 2008-12, played in 128 games (the most of any Golden Eagle in history) and started in 100. He tallied 533 rebounds and 252 assists on his career, and shot at a .437 mark from the floor. He also shot over 40 percent from behind the arc in his last two seasons as a Golden Eagle, finishing his career with a .366 accuracy from downtown.

Draft

The 6-foot-10 Davis averaged 14.2 points, 10.4 rebounds and 4.7 blocks, becoming a dominant defender after growing 7 inches from the start of his junior year of high school.

A season after the Hornets traded longtime star Chris Paul, Davis is ready to be their centerpiece, since playing for the Wildcats means he's already accustomed to plenty of attention.

"Like I said, at Kentucky we had it all the time, especially the six who played, we had the spotlight all the time," Davis said. "I think it really prepared me."

Charlotte, coming off a 7-59 season and the worst winning percentage in NBA history, had been open to moving the No. 2 pick if it found the right deal. Instead, Michael Jordan's team went with Kidd-Gilchrist, whose selection by the Bobcats was loudly cheered, a sharp contrast from the boos Stern received when coming out to announce the picks.

The new Charlotte swingman played in high school at nearby St. Patrick's in Elizabeth, N.J., and fans chanted "MKG! MKG!" as he walked off the stage. Though he and Davis talked before the draft, they didn't discuss the history the Wildcats were about to make.

"No. 1 was shocked at first," Kidd-Gilchrist said. "I was shocked. But no, we didn't. We didn't at all."

Florida's Bradley Beal went third to Washington, making it three SEC freshman in the first three picks. Cleveland followed with the surprisingly early pick of Syracuse sixth man Dion Waiters at No. 4.

Thomas Robinson of Kansas, who hoped to go second, fell to Sacramento at No. 5. Portland took Weber State's Damian Lillard at No. 6 with its first of two lottery picks, and Barnes was taken seventh by Golden State.

After Washington's Terrence Ross went to Toronto and Connecticut's Andre Drummond to Detroit, the Hornets rounded out the top 10 by taking Duke guard Austin Rivers with a pick they acquired in the Paul trade. Rivers hugged his father, Boston coach Doc Rivers, who came to be with his family instead of with the Celtics, who owned two later first-round picks.

Davis was the only clear-cut pick entering the draft, and there were some early surprises. Players such as Waiters and Ross went higher than expected, while Robinson dropped to the Kings.

"I really didn't know where I was going to end up at, but it is a bit of a surprise," he said, tearing up when talking about his difficult journey that included the deaths of multiple family members in college. "I didn't work out for Sacramento at all, I probably talked to them about once. But I'm here, so I'm meant to be here."

Houston took Jeremy Lamb of Connecticut at No. 12 with its first of three top-20 picks. But the Rockets, who also had the Nos. 16 and 18 picks, were hoping not to use all of them, instead packaging them for an established player after their pursuit of the Lakers' Pau Gasol fell through last year.

The Rockets tabbed Iowa State's Royce White at No. 16 and Terrence Jones two picks later.

Jared Sullinger, once considered a top-10 pick, ended up in a draft free-fall over concerns with his back but was finally taken at No. 21 by Boston. The Celtics followed with Fab Melo of Syracuse, giving them two potential replacements if Kevin Garnett doesn't return.

The NBA champion Miami Heat took forward Arnett Moultrie of Mississippi State at No. 27 with their first-round pick, but traded his rights to Philadelphia for the rights to LSU center Justin Hamilton and a future first-round pick.

Kentucky Basketball breaks out record books for third consecutive draft under Calipari

UK BECOMES SECOND SCHOOL SINCE 1977 WITH SIX PLAYERS SELECTED, FIRST SCHOOL IN CURRENT TWO-ROUND FORMAT

From UK Athletics

LEXINGTON, Ky. - Six former Wildcats made history tonight as all six players were selected in the NBA Draft, led by Anthony Davis, the second Wildcat selected as the first overall pick in the last three years.

Davis was selected No. 1 overall by the New Orleans Hornets, followed by Michael Kidd-Gilchrist at No. 2 by the Charlotte Bobcats. Davis and Kidd-Gilchrist are the first teammates to go No. 1-2 in NBA Draft history.

Terrence Jones went 18th to the Houston Rockets, while Marquis Teague went 29th to the Chicago Bulls. Doron Lamb was the 42nd overall pick (12th pick in the second round) by the Milwaukee Bucks, and Darius Miller ended the night for Kentucky when he was selected 46th (16th pick in the second round) by the Hornets joining teammate Davis.

Anthony Davis-New Orleans Hornets - First Overall

Michael Kidd-Gilchrist-Charlotte Bobcats- Second Overall

Terrence Jones-Houston Rockets- 18th Overall

Marquis Teague-Chicago Bulls-29th Overall

Doron Lamb-Milwaukee Bucks-42nd Overall

Darius Miller-New Orleans Hornets-46th Overall

It marks the first time that six players from the same school were selected since the NBA Draft went to two rounds in 1989. UNLV is the only other team with six players selected in a single draft which the Runnin' Rebels achieved in the 1977 10-round draft.

Davis joins John Wall (Washington Wizards, 2010) as the only overall No. 1 picks in Kentucky history.

2012 NBA Draft Notes

Following the 2012 NBA Draft, Kentucky has had 106 guys drafted 108 times (Johnny Cox '58 and Roger Newman '60 both drafted in Jr. eligible draft, but returned for senior year and were drafted again).

Anthony Davis (No. 1) and Michael Kidd-Gilchrist (No. 2) are the first teammates to be taken No. 1 and 2 in the history of the NBA Draft.

As of 2012, UK has had 31 players selected in the opening round (11 have come in the last three years) of the draft.

Following the 2012 draft, UK has had 15 players selected in the draft over the last three years. The Wildcats set a new single-draft high for Kentucky players drafted in a single year. The 2010 draft had five UK players selected, and the 1984 draft also had five Wildcats.

The only other school in draft history to have six players selected in one draft was UNLV in the 1977 10-round draft. Since the draft went to a two-round format in 1989, there have been four schools (Connecticut-2006), Florida (2007), Kansas (2008) and Kentucky (2010) with five players selected in the same draft. Kentucky is the first school to post five or more picks in more than one draft class.

It would mark the first time in the history of the program four or more Kentucky players have been selected in three consecutive seasons.

With Anthony Davis selected as the No. 1 pick, Kentucky is the only school since the 2000 draft to have two No. 1 picks (John Wall - 2010).

With Davis going No. 1 overall, John Calipari will have coached three No. 1 picks in the last five years. And his three No. 1 picks are the most by one coach in NBA Draft history.

Anthony Davis became the second No. 1 overall pick in school history. John Wall became the first Wildcat selected first overall in 2010. Davis was the third SEC player taken No. 1 overall which includes Shaquille O'Neal of LSU in 1992.

Following the 2012 draft, Kentucky has had six players selected in the top 10, seven in the top 15 and 11 in the first round of the draft in the last three years.

Kentucky has had four pairs of teammates taken in the top 10 of the draft in the same year: (Sam Bowie - 2nd, Melvin Turpin 6th in 1984; John Wall - 1st and DeMarcus Cousins 5th in 2010; Enes Kanter - 3rd and Brandon Knight 8th in 2011; Anthony Davis - 1st and Michael Kidd-Gilchrist - 2nd).

In 2010 Kentucky became the 12th school with a No. 1 overall draft pick in both basketball and football as John Wall (2010 - men's basketball) and Tim Couch (football - 1999) were UK's picks. With Anthony Davis going No. 1 overall, Kentucky now becomes one of just six schools with three or more No. 1 overall draft picks in football and basketball. UK joins Ohio State, Oklahoma, Utah, Michigan and UCLA as the others to achieve the feat.

Kentucky became one of 15 schools with multiple No. 1 overall picks in the NBA draft. With Davis earning the No. 1 overall pick, Kentucky's two-year gap between No. 1 overall draft selections from one school is second only to Duquesne which had No. 1 overall selections in back-to-back years in 1955 and 1956.

UK is one of 43 different universities to have a player selected No. 1 overall in the history of the draft.

With multiple picks in its third consecutive NBA draft, Kentucky joins two other schools in having two or more players selected in three consecutive drafts since 1992. Calipari is one of only two coaches to have three consecutive NBA drafts be coupled with multiple players from his school since 1992 joining Mike Krzyzewski from Duke.

Kentucky - 2012, 2011, 2010
Memphis - 2010, 2009,

2008
Duke - 1995, 1994, 1993, 1992

Coach John Calipari has had two or more players selected in five consecutive NBA drafts dating back to 2008 with Memphis. He has three players who have been taken No. 1 overall. Following the 2012 draft, Calipari has had eight players taken in the top 10 of the draft in the last three seasons and 11 taken in the first round of the draft.

Since 2000 only 15 coaches have had multiple players taken in the NBA Draft in more than one draft. Calipari is the only coach to have multiple players selected in five consecutive drafts.

With Marquis Teague taken by Chicago in the opening round of the draft, Coach John Calipari has had point guards taken in the first round of the draft for five consecutive seasons (Derrick Rose, Tyreke Evans, John Wall, Brandon Knight and Teague).

With eight first round picks in the opening round of the NBA Draft, it is a new record for the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky led the conference with four first-round picks.

Anthony Davis and Michael Kidd-Gilchrist are the highest pair of teammates taken in the NBA draft in the history of the NBA Draft. UK has now set a record with the highest pair of teammates taken in a draft with three consecutive drafts consisting of teammates from Kentucky. No school had previously had consecutive drafts with the highest pair of teammates before UK achieved the feat in 2010 and 2011 since the inception of the two-round draft format began in 1992.

God saw he was getting tired and a cure was not to be. So he put his arm around him and whispered, "Come with me."

With tear-filled eyes we watched him suffer and fade away. Although we loved him deeply, we could not make him stay.

A golden heart stopped beating, hard-working hands put to rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us he only takes the best.

Parents orchestrating son's love life win scant praise

DEAR ABBY: My sister has decided to let her 14-year-old son have a girlfriend. This is contrary to every value we grew up with as kids into adulthood.

She has met the girl's parents and says they "immediately clicked" and she knew right away that they share the same morals.

The parents now set up situations where the two kids can get together. Not only have my nephew and the girl bonded, but the parents have become fast friends.

I see no problem with a little puppy love that happens in school, but is it asking for trouble when parents start to create dating situations when kids are so young? What happens if they are eventually allowed to be alone? Or one of them wants to break up but is afraid to hurt not only the other, but also the parents?

My sister says she's "guiding her son through his first romance." I say an eighth-grader is too young and she's inviting a myriad of problems. We have fought over this because she says I'm not being "flexible" and because this hasn't happened to my child yet. I offered my opinion only after I was asked what I thought of my nephew's girlfriend after she posted pictures on the Internet. Am I right to think this is crazy, Abby? -- SANE AUNT IN GEORGIA

DEAR SANE AUNT: Let's just say it is ill-advised rather than crazy. But I agree that your sister is headed for trouble because she isn't allowing her son's "first romance" to develop naturally.

First love often peaks and burns out quickly. When there are two sets of intermeshed parents involved, it can lead to lasting hurt feelings and sometimes enmity.

However, if you think your sister is going to listen to either of us, you're dreaming. So quit offering unsolicited advice and stay tuned for what's coming because there are lessons to be learned for everyone involved.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married this year and I'd like to challenge the notion that it's rude to ask for gifts toward a honeymoon or other big-ticket items such as home improvements or a car. My fiance and I own our home and we don't need a lot of the traditional items couples receive at their wedding.

Our families have been very understanding, but I'm sick to death of hearing or reading that it's rude to ask for money. Shouldn't wedding guests be happy to celebrate the couple in a way that they need and not force them to register for a bunch of material things they won't use? -- ALREADY HAS A BLENDER

DEAR ALREADY HAS A ... Your question is very common. I receive variations on this theme in every batch of mail that arrives. It is considered rude to ask for money on a wedding INVITATION, just as it is considered rude for brides and grooms to raise the subject themselves. When a wedding invitation is accepted, the guests usually contact whoever issued the invitation to inquire where the couple is registered. Once asked, it is then appropriate to reply, "They're not registered for gifts because they already have everything they need, but monetary gifts would be appreciated."

Some couples set up financial registries for this purpose with their bank or other financial institution, and there are also honeymoon registries and charitable gift registries if guests would prefer to donate to a worthy cause.

Managing stress can minimize its effect on heart health

DEAR DOCTOR K: I'm under a lot of stress at work. My doctor warned me that if I don't get my stress under control, it could affect my cardiovascular health. Is this true?

DEAR READER: Yes, it's true. Long-term, constant stress can harm many aspects of your health, including your cardiovascular health.

Stress is the body's way of responding to threat. Our distant prehistoric ancestors had a pretty stressful life, but it was different than the stressful lives we have. They knew that at any moment they might be killed. Back then, it was lions that were the threat.

Today's "lions" don't threaten to eat us; they just threaten to take our jobs. Today, there's a lot to do, and a lot of hassles that make it hard to do all the things that need to be done. We have the drip-drip-drip of multitasking; sometimes we need to be in three places at once.

Cardiovascular disease (CVD) includes a range of ailments that affect your heart and the blood vessels that transport blood throughout your body. Two examples of CVD are heart attacks and strokes. How might stress contribute to CVD? To begin with, stress appears to increase cholesterol levels. People with high levels of "bad" cholesterol are more likely to develop atherosclerosis. As fatty deposits accumulate on artery walls, the channel that the blood flows through becomes progressively narrower. Eventually, blood flow is obstructed. The blockage can cause angina, a heart attack or stroke.

What's more, repeatedly arousing the body's stress response can cause blood pressure to rise and platelets to become stickier. Stickier platelets make blood clots more likely. And ongoing high blood pressure damages the heart, blood vessels and other organs. It greatly increases your chances of developing heart disease. Stress may also contribute to inflammation. Chronic inflammation plays a key role in the process leading to cholesterol-clogged arteries and heart attacks. Inflammation also influences the formation of artery-blocking clots. Clots are the ultimate cause of heart attacks and many strokes. Stress can negatively influence behaviors that affect cardiovascular risk. People who are stressed are more likely to smoke and less likely to engage in physical activity. And I, for one, tend to eat more when I'm stressed.

Read more about strategies to manage your stress in "Chicken Soup for the Soul: Say Goodbye to Stress: Manage Your Problems, Big and Small, Every Day" by Dr. Jeff Brown of Harvard Medical School. (You can learn more about this book at AskDoctorK.com.)

On a more positive note, managing your stress can lower your risk of developing CVD. Whether you're struggling with financial worries, marital discord or, as in your case, work-related stress, talk to your doctor about strategies to help you relax.

Today in History

By the Associated Press Today is Friday, June 29, the 181st day of 2012. There are 185 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On June 29, 1972, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Furman v. Georgia, Jackson v. Georgia and Branch v. Texas, struck down a trio of death sentences, saying the way they had been imposed constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

On this date: In 1767, Britain approved the Townshend Revenue Act, which imposed import duties on glass, paint, oil, lead, paper and tea shipped to the American colonies. (Colonists bitterly protested, prompting Parliament to repeal the duties — except for tea.)

In 1954, the Atomic Energy Commission voted against reinstating Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer's access to classified information.

In 1956, actress Marilyn Monroe married playwright Arthur Miller in a civil ceremony in White Plains, N.Y. (the marriage lasted 4 1/2 years.)

In 1967, Jerusalem was re-united as Israel removed barricades separating the Old City from the Israeli sector.

In 1988, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Morrison v. Olson, upheld the independent counsel law in a 7-1 decision (the sole dissenter was Justice Antonin Scalia).

Ten years ago: Singer Rosemary Clooney died in Beverly Hills, Calif., at age 74.

Five years ago: The first Apple iPhones went on sale. Death claimed movie critic Joel Siegel at age 63 and George McCorkle, a founding member of the Marshall Tucker Band.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise

SAFETY HINT Dear Heloise: Now that we can print out airline boarding passes at home, I always print out extras to stick into my luggage, especially the pieces I'm checking. If the luggage gets lost, the boarding pass in one of the outside pockets will let handlers know what the destination was supposed to be. So far, I haven't lost any luggage, but you never know! -- Adrienne C. in Virginia

A good precaution. Also, be sure that each piece has a luggage tag (or two) on the outside, and always check the destination tag that the airline puts on at the airport. -- Heloise

CELLPHONE ETIQUETTE Dear Readers: What's with people who have POOR CELLPHONE MANNERS? Here are some hints to make you (and hopefully those around you) aware of your surroundings:

* Lower your voice and watch your language! People usually can hear everything you are saying! * If your phone must be on in a business meeting or restaurant, put it on "vibrate" or "silent." * Do not text while in class, at a meeting or driving (which is illegal in most states)! * If you are in a meeting or at lunch and must answer the phone, excuse yourself and step away.

CLEAN CANISTER

Dear Heloise: I have a set of canisters for my kitchen that are terra cotta on the outside (like flowerpots). They have grease spots on them (only on the outside). I have tried everything I know to get the grease out. I've tried the dishwasher and soaking in vinegar and bleach. Can you recommend anything else I can try? I hate to get rid of them, because I do love them! -- Jenny, via email

What an icky situation! Try using a little dish soap (one that cuts grease), warm water and a hard-bristle scrub brush to get the spots out. Scrub and let sit for 30 minutes or so. Make sure to rinse them well to remove soap residue.

If you can't get spots out, try the next best thing: disguise them! You can do this in several ways. Try painting on decorations, use those new rub-on transfers or mosaic them. Hope this helps your beloved set of canisters. -- Heloise

OLD PHONE DIRECTORY

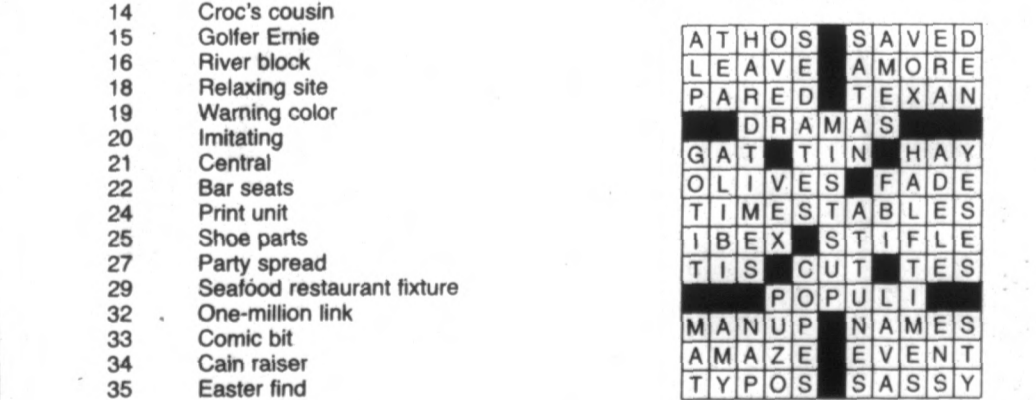

Dear Heloise: When my new phone directory(ies) arrives, I take the old one and put it under the front seat of my car. Then I toss the one that's two years old. They don't change too much in one year's time. Since the majority of drivers have a cellphone, this ensures that they never have to leave the safety of their car to call for auto service, a tow truck, etc. Also, most phone books now include local maps and other information that may be valuable at some time. -- Annette S., Davie, Fla.

Great idea! Just be sure to put it under the passenger seat. It isn't safe under the driver's side. -- Heloise
