Funeral services were conducted at a Louisville church recently for a resident of that city. At the conclusion of the services, relatives and friends of the deceased filed solemnly out of the church and loaded into cars for the trip to the cemetery. One driver, noticing a little old lady standing alone on the sidewalk, asked her if she would like to ride to the cemetery in his car. She thanked him and got in the back seat with two other mourners. It was a long, silent ride, broken occasionally by a sob from one of the bereaved persons. As the funeral procession reached the cemetery at last, the little old lady turned to the woman sitting next to her. "Excuse me," she whispered, "whose funeral is it?"

Local citizens have been circulated this week with theatre programs from the new Ritz and Rex houses in Hickman, Ky. Humph, doesn't do much good, every major picture contained on the announcement has already played here. For instance: Easter Parade, B. F.'s Daughter, The Bride Goes Wild, State of the Union and Gentlemen's Agreement, to name only a few.

From now on through the winter, Fulton merchants will be open Thursday afternoons. The summertime policy of closing at noon on that day ends on October 1st.

All of you railroad folks will no doubt be happy to learn that at last report (Sept. 20th) the Mississippi Division is leading the I. C. system in the annual fuel campaign and, should they win, will get the trophy for the fourth straight year. The 350 tons of coal which the collapsed chute dumped all over the tracks earlier this week has been carefully collected and stowed away.

We add our thanks to those of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis and their family of triplets for the support given the fund-raising campaign by Andy Anderson, columnist of the Union City Messenger and Eldon Roark, "Stroller" for the Commercial Appeal. Both carried accounts of the family and requested for help.

In case you have been wondering . . . they haven't given up the idea of finishing that underpass project in front of our office . . . nobody's doin' nothin' now because it takes 21 days to "cure" the slab that's laid, after which they will start on the other side. That will make the grand opening of the whole job around November 10.

BAND UNIFORM DRIVE

Sampson reported to police that he had hired Crittenden to drive him to Cairo on Saturday and that on returning to Fulton in the early hours of Sunday, the accused drove on a gravel road off the Union City highway and allegedly hit him over the head with a blunt instrument, robbed him of $100 and left him unconscious in the weeds near the road.

Crittenden has denied the charges made against him by Sampson. The plaintiff failed to appear at the hearing scheduled for Tuesday, causing the postponement until today.

Without even a ragged band uniform on, Little Phoebe just laughs and laughs everytime she hears the news that a new band uniform has been donated.

Triplets Get Gifts; More Is Needed

With donations from as far away as Salem, Ohio and an announcement that the Pet Milk Company would furnish milk to the triplets for a year, the drive for funds for Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, parents of the youngsters born at the Haws Hospital recently is gaining momentum. Little donations and big donations have come from every walk of life, and indications from a part of the donors listed below show that Mrs. Paul Butts and Mrs. Paul Jolley have solicited funds from any and all persons who could spare a little money for their less fortunate neighbors.

The amount needed to help the Lewises is still far short of the total needed to "get them back on their feet." If you have not sent in your donation to Mrs. Butts, Mrs. Jolley or the Fulton News, do so today. You will never miss it and the returns are great in gratitude.

Besides the amounts in money listed below the following have sent gifts to the hospital: Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Boulton, Paul Nailing Implement Company, Mrs. W. N. Wortham, Mrs. W. E. Phipps, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Jake Alfred, Mrs. Stanley Parham, C. D. Jones, U-Tote-Em Grocery, Mrs. Lon Pickle, Mrs. Easley, Mrs. J. A. Burrows, Mrs. Paul Butts. Acknowledged last week:

LOCAL CAB DRIVER AWAITS HEARING IN UNION CITY

Earl Crittenden, 35, local taxi driver is scheduled to appear before Justice of the Peace John F. Semons in Union City today, after an earlier hearing was postponed, an Obion County Deputy Sheriff reported today. Crittenden is being held in the Obion County jail for allegedly robbing and assaulting O. B. Sampson of the Sassafras Ridge Community after the latter hired him to drive him home early Sunday morning.

Sampson reported to police that he had hired Crittenden to drive him to Cairo on Saturday and that on returning to Fulton in the early hours of Sunday, the accused drove on a gravel road off the Union City highway and allegedly hit him over the head with a blunt instrument, robbed him of $100 and left him unconscious in the weeds near the road.

Crittenden has denied the charges made against him by Sampson. The plaintiff failed to appear at the hearing scheduled for Tuesday, causing the postponement until today.

Loyal Order Of Moose Organized For Humanity

With the announcement by the Loyal Order of Moose that they would defray the hospital expenses of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis in the birth of the triplets born at the Haws Hospital recently, the News has been besieged with queries as to just what are the functions of the Moose. A philanthropic organization of the highest order it has as its mission the care and well-being first and foremost, of children.

Ernest Lowe, past governor of the local lodge has handed the News a heart-warming resume of the principles of the fraternal order, which the News is privileged to print.

OPEN HOUSE AT YOUTH CENTER

It will be "open house" at the Youth Center tomorrow night and every stockholder in that corporation of youth should attend to see first hand the remarkable work that is being done by Miss Pauline Thompson, supervisor, and her workers on the adult and junior boards of directors.

Highlighting the evening's activities will be a program of game-playing and folk dancing under the direction of Graham Wright, expert recreational worker of Obion County. Mr. Wright lead the young people in such enjoyable dances as the Virginia reel, square-dancing, polkas and other forms of entertainment.

The Youth Center has grown steadily since its organization last Spring. With a total of 192 members already on the rolls, the membership is growing with each meeting night.

Recently the adult board of directors met and reviewed the operations of the center. Only highest praise can be given for the steady progress of the project. Funds expended from the general fund have been to take care of the supervisor's salary and other minor items. Nearly $50 has been earned from the juke-box and the concession stand.

New games have been added, such as shuffle-board, volley ball and an additional ping-pong table.

The center is open each Friday and Saturday night from 7:00 to 10:30 and after each home foot ball game.

All officers of the Fulton Youth Center have been re-elected to serve the coming year. Curtis Cates, a senior at South Fulton high school, is president; Walter Mischke, a Fulton High senior, is vice-president; and Janette Stark, a junior at South Fulton is secretary-treasurer.

Members of the adult board are Mrs. J. L. Jones, chairman, Charles Gregory, treasurer; Bert Pigue, Slayden Douthitt, Louis Weaks, Mrs. Joe Davis, Mrs. Howard Strange, and Mrs. Maxwell McDade, directors.

The public is urged to visit the Youth Center tomorrow night for its first open house.

FRANK COLE DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS; IN BUSINESS HERE MORE THAN 50 YEARS

When Fulton County was in its infancy and the daguerres type was in vogue, Fulton Countians were trekking to the studios of Frank Cole to have their portraits made. As modern trends in photography came into being, this beloved citizen continued his very expert method of picture-taking and today many of Fulton's homes still cherish the handiwork of Frank A. Cole, as intact today as the day he snapped it.

Death came this week to that well-known citizen as hundreds of citizens in and around Fulton mourned his passing. Up until two years ago he worked with the profession he loved, but because of his illness he was forced to put away his camera and his tripod. He bore his affliction with the Christian fortitude that was characteristic of his views. On Monday of this week with most of his family around him, Frank Cole passed away, devout in his faith to the end.

Most of his life was spent in Fulton County; he watched with enthusiasm and devoted much of his time to the growing of Fulton.

Mr. Cole was born Feb. 6, 1888 in Seacary, Ark., was the son of John A. and Lavinia Cole. He was married to Miss Sallie Edmonds October 18, 1893.

Mr. Cole united with the First Methodist Church in Fulton in 1905 and was active in the church and Sunday School until recently. He was a charter member of the Busy Mens' Bible Class and at one time attended for four years without missing a Sunday. He was a charter member of and was honored with a life membership in the Elks Lodge and was active in the Odd Fellows Lodge until his death.

Surviving are his widow, Sallie E. Cole and four children: one son, Allen B. Cole of San Antonio, Texas and three daughters, Mrs. C. L. Maddox, Fulton, Mrs. James A. Holderman, Decatur, Ill., and Mrs. W. L. Durbin of Water Valley. Also, one grand daughter, Mrs. Bettie Long of Decatur, Ill., and two great-grandsons, Charles Randle Long, and James Allen Long.

Services were held from the First Methodist Church, Tuesday Sept. 28, at 3:30 p. m. with the Rev. W. E. Mischke officiating. Pallbearers were Will Whitel, Frank Brady, Abe Jolley, Smith Atkins, Will Holman, Ernest Fall Sr., Honorary pallbearers; members of the Mens Bible Class and the Odd Fellow Lodge.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR W. G. SHIRLEY HELD IN ST. LOUIS

Funeral services for W. G. Shirley, 48, whose untimely death was a shock to Fultonians, were held Wednesday at the Jay Smith Funeral Home in St. Louis. Mr. Shirley was found dead at his hotel in St. Louis early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Shirley had been freight traffic representative with the Missouri Pacific Railroad in St. Louis for the past six years. He was a native of Horse Cave, Ky.

In addition to his wife and three daughters, Patricia, Nancy and Sue, Mr. Shirley is survived by one brother, Dr. Paul Shirley of Campbellsville, Ky., and two sisters, Mrs. Norman Crabbe of Owensboro, and Mrs. Claybourne Walton of Munfordville, Ky.

McMillan Services Pending Arrival Of Son From Overseas

Funeral services for H. L. McMillan who passed away at Jackson, Miss., on Sunday afternoon are incomplete pending the arrival of his son Captain Richard McMillan, who wired from Frankfurt, Germany that he was flying to Fulton for the funeral. The body arrived in Fulton on Wednesday and reposes at the Whitel-Hornbeak Funeral Home.

Mr. McMillan was a resident of Fulton about twenty-five years ago. He was employed here as an office clerk at the old division office of the Illinois Central.

Survivors include his wife, formerly Mary Katherine Milner of Fulton, one son, Captain Thomas Richard McMillan in Frankfurt, Germany, two sisters Mrs. Otis Norman, Fulton, and Mrs. Louise Howard, Hot Springs Ark.

One son, Robert, preceded his

JUDGE LON ADAMS IS LAID TO REST

A beloved and familiar figure will be sadly missed in Fulton. A man who has lived in Fulton County all of his life, who knew he was to die and was prepared.

Funeral services for City Judge Lon Adams, 65, who died Tuesday afternoon at his home after a long illness were held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at Paul Hornbeak Funeral Home with the Rev. J. C. Mathews officiating. Burial will be in Palestine cemetery.

Mr. Adams was born Nov. 11, 1882 in Fulton county, the son of who started canvassing yesterday, it is a pretty good investment to bet that before many more publication days all sixty of the uniforms will be procured. The new uniform drive was launched with a cash balance of $150 carried over from the tenure of office of Mrs. Leo Green-grass, who set aside this amount as a future insurance that the new uniform fund would be taken up at some later date. The fund was secured from a dinner served by the ladies to the district meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, which met here last Spring.

Mrs. Wright has taken up the baton of the majorette and has made talks, appeals, and solicitations from any and everybody who is a potential donor . . . and with good results, too.

Serving with Mrs. Wright on the atomic-charged committee that will canvass the city to make up the new uniforms are: Mesdames Gilson Latta, Sara Bushart, Louise Binford, Ward Johnson, Ruby McDade, Nell Green-grass and Ernest Cardwell. Contributions so far are as follows:

Good Deeds By Great Folks

It's such a pleasure to write an editorial about good things that happen in the world, and the joy goes beyond calculation when good things happen here in Fulton. We have reference, of course, to the heart-warming response to our appeal for help for the triplets born at the Haws Hospital recently.

The old saying "every little bit helps" has never had so much meaning. From every walk of life nickles, dimes, quarters and dollars have poured in, and then comes the great privilege to us to acknowledge the donation of the Loyal Order of Moose who made it known that they would pay in full the hospital bill incurred during Mrs. Lewis' confinement.

When this fraternal order was organized just a short time ago we had the pleasure of talking at length with their representative and suggested the names of many persons who would be interested in such an order. He told us of the magnificent work being done by the Moose to aid humanity, and of the homes maintained for the widows and children of its members. But frankly, we had no idea of the magnanimity of its principles. We cannot tell you how grateful we are to embrace this organization into the fraternal life of this county.

When you consider that the group was formed in June of this year, that the treasury could not possibly have been increased to any great amount, then the sacrifice is all the greater. The members are to seek contributions from the individual members, and when they meet in regular session at any early date, the amount lacking to meet the commitment will be taken from the treasury. This is charity in its fullest meaning and personifies the biblical passage "what you do to the least of my brethren you do to me."

When the last little coin is collected for the Lewises we will tell you then the story of two great ladies, Mrs. Paul Butts and Mrs. Paul Jolley, who made this contribution possible.

In the meantime, send in your donations to either of these ladies or to The Fulton County News. The need is urgent.

Explanation Due

Vengeance will not cure this world's ills, but neither will the hiding of evil. If law is to grow in the international field, there must be justice—justice tempered with mercy but not adulterated by expediency. These reflections are impelled by the apparent trend of officials in Germany to minimize or excuse completely the offenses of Nazis and their tools.

Dr. Hjalmer Schacht, who was Hitler's financial wizard, goes free. So do the directors of the Farben empire, whose help was indispensable to the Nazis and was given even before war made its call for patriotism. And now American Military Government has commuted to four years the life sentence of Frau Ilse Koch, wife of the butcher of Buchenwald, a lady set apart by her taste in lampshades. She liked them made of human skin, preferably well tattooed.

The British hanged Irma Grese and Juanna Dornmann for their part in the atrocities at Belsen. If Frau Koch was wrongly convicted, if there is new evidence or extenuating circumstances, this commutation may be just. But the weakness of the de-Nazification effort, the whole recent trend toward "forgetting" the evils which men gave their lives to stop—all this conveys an uneasy feeling that something less clean than justice, less blessed than mercy, is at work. If an explanation would remove this impression, it should be made.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

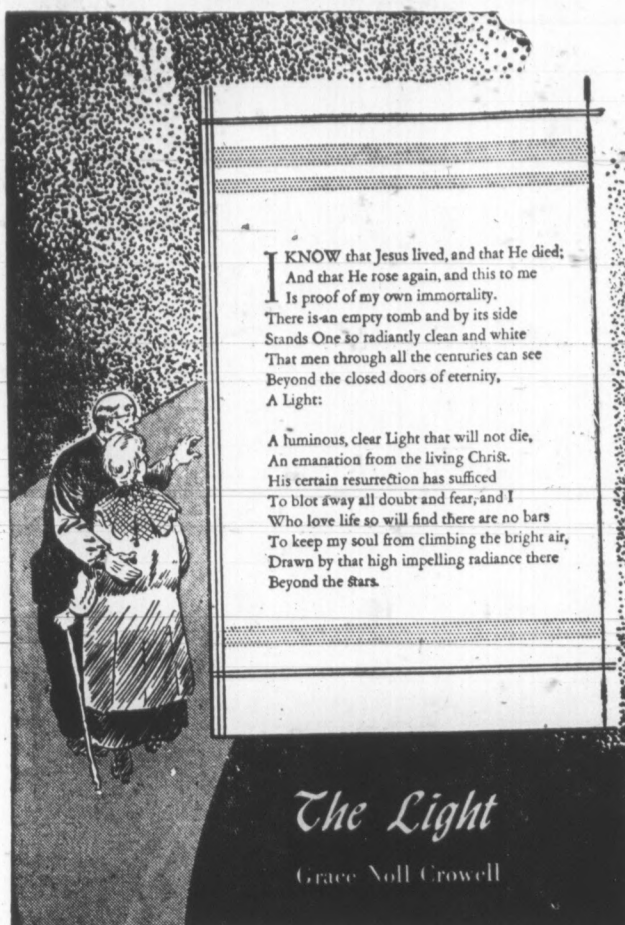

A DRY MOON

A short time ago I asked a friend of mine what he thought about the prospect of our having an outdoor program on a certain evening. He replied that everything was favorable; that there was a "dry moon." Since I had been raised with the moon, as it were, it was not necessary for me to ask him to explain. And the funny thing about it all was that the program went off as scheduled, out of doors, and no rain or threatening clouds disturbed us. You see, a dry moon, is a dry moon in spite of what the so-called learned say.

It has been a matter of great surprise to me to find many people who are ignorant of books but who know "signs and seasons and days and years." My mother's father, a pioneer in the Jackson Purchase, who probably could not read and write or could barely spell out verses in his Bible, was said to be able to recognize all the planets that can be seen with the naked eye and was a walking encyclopedia of moon lore. How did he learn all this, with no formal education? Some would say that plain ignorance is better than false learning, but who am I to say where the line is to be drawn between real moon lore and imagined lore? Anyway, the old-timers often had uncanny weather sense and acted on it, even acquiring a local reputation that was almost infallible. The few times that their weather lore failed to hit the bull's eye were no more numerous than wide-range weather prophecies of today—for a whole state like Kentucky, for instance—and intensified the local weatherman's predictions rather than caused them to be questioned. Even my old friend, Mr. Knight, who stoutly maintained that rain never falls at night in July, did not lose caste when we had a washout some July night.

In addressing a Farm Bureau chapter not long ago I made a wild guess that 60 per cent of the gardens planted inside Bowling Green in any given year were planted according to the moon. I have no positive way of knowing the truth of this guess, but in talking with all sorts of people I have found a widespread trust in moon lore. It is not confined to any special class, for some of the believers are college graduates, whereas others are illiter-

TOWN & FARM NEWS IN THE WASHINGTON NEWS

BY THE AGRICULTURAL NEWS SERVICE

Truths and Half Truths

Make no mistake about it: much current criticism of high farm supports boils down to a drive against the entire farm program.

Proof of this is to be found in editorials such as one which appeared last week in the Wall Street Journal. This editorial states: "Price support based on percentages of parity prices means that the Treasury must be a connecting link between wage and price scales, in manufacturing and a calculated fair earning power in agriculture."

"Its advocates insist that a government machine does the equalization job better than free markets do. The government machine never has . . . Farm prices are bolstered at the taxpayer's expense."

Inference of this editorial seems to be: scrap farm supports and ate, so far as puzzling out queer marks of print is concerned. And meanwhile the gardens grow, some well, some poorly. It may be the soil, it may be the condition of the soil when the seeds were planted, it may be the fertilizer or the lack of it. Who knows? It may be the moon or whatever it is that makes seeds sprout and come forth and produce after their kind. And it would be a queer gesture of mine to laugh at all these people, who outnumber little me so overwhelmingly. And it would be especially unkind and unwise of me to cast doubt on the protecting care of an All-wise Providence Who is manifested to so-called simple people in making plants grow tall if the seeds are planted in the light of the moon and short in the dark of the moon. Anyway, as I have already said, the plants grow, a big enough miracle for anybody, whether he believes in the moon as a crop director or merely a pretty object in the sky for lovers to rave about.

Rural Health

One major goal for agriculture in this nation should be improvement of farm health facilities and opportunities.

This point was made last week by Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator, in a report on the nation's health, submitted to the President. The report should dispel the illusion of many city dwellers that the countryside is a haven of health.

It reveals, for instance, that each year thousands of people in rural areas die who could be saved with present day medical skill. Only one-fifth of our population are able to afford medical care. Whole rural counties throughout the country are without a resident physician; in many others number of doctors is woefully inadequate.

Few predominately rural states have enough hospital beds to meet minimum standard of 4.5 beds per 1,000 population. No state has enough acceptable beds to meet this figure. Only seven million people live in communities with adequate local health units.

AFBF has taken no position on the health program outlined in this particular report. However, the Farm Bureau has stood consistently for improved rural health. The new FSA report underscores need for such improvement.

Farm Mobilization

When war struck last time, agriculture, like industry, was largely unprepared. Government is now preparing stand-by mobilization plans for agriculture, in the event of another war.

National Security Board has been studying farm mobilization for some time. A general plan is merely developed. It involves accumulation of food reserves maintenance of greatest output consistent with sound conservation, swift application of new scientific discoveries to agriculture, and controls necessary to expedite mobilization. Officials are attempting to anticipate necessary shifts in production and dietary habits in case of war.

Once this program is completed, it will have to be ok'd by all Board members (including the Agriculture Secretary). Board will then call on Agriculture Department to work out specific mobilization details. New war mobilization program will be kept flexible as possible, and subject to change every six months.

Farm Credit

This week the Washington spotlight is on farm credit.

Executive committees of AFBF the Grange and National Co-op Council are meeting to discuss consolidation of farm lending agencies and farmer ownership-control of the whole farm credit system.

On September 8, the three groups discuss tentative legislation to integrate credit agencies

HIGHWAY

There is an east-west highway in Kentucky which for three hundred miles from a straight line between the terminals, which line bisects six county seats or goes through their immediate suburbs. It enters the State at its most scenic spots in both the east and west and is already built and blacktopped and in excellent traveling condition its full length.

Which highway is it? Well, it has not one but three designation. From the east to Edmonton, almost halfway across this long State of ours, it is marked Ky. 80; from Edmonton to Aurora, just west of the Tennessee river, it is U. S. 68; from Aurora to Columbus it is Ky. 8. It's really behind the "8" ball now, as you may see, but it has possibilities that might easily make it one of Kentucky's most popular thoroughfares.

In the west it takes you to the long famed "Iron Banks of the Mississippi," planned and subdivided and its sections sold at high prices as the future Capital of the United States, Columbus. In the east are the "Breaks of the Big Sandy," once proposed as a National Park, which proposal is still supported by a large number of people as having the most magnificent scenery in Eastern Kentucky and Western Virginia, and that is saying a whole lot.

Nor is the scenery of the route limited to its extremities, it is full of scenic spots from one end to the other. Four of Kentucky's sixteen active State Parks are directly on this highway or immediately adjacent to it: Columbus-Belmont, Jefferson Davis, Kentucky Lake and Levi Jackson. Three other State Parks and Mammoth Cave National Park are of easy access from it: Cumberland Falls on an alternate route adding 33 miles to the distance, Mammoth Cave the same adding approximately 26 miles; Pennyriple State Park and Forest, a side trip of about 32 miles for the round trip; Kentucky Dam the same, on a 35 mile boat trip. The highway passes through Kentucky Woodlands Wildlife Refuge.

Cumberland Falls and Mammoth Cave are seven miles and approximately a half hour nearer over this route than any other.

The full length of the route affords spacious carpets of beautiful and restful forest green in all its various shades, in the Spring, and in the Fall a riot of color that must be inspiring to the most casual soul. Short Creek, between London and Somerset, comes from under one cliff only to disappear under another about a hundred yards away, but not until after it has furnished power to a typical water-power grist mill; while Lost River, near Bowling Green, is a similar and larger phenomenon with added attractions of a dance floor where it enters a cave and other amusement facilities.

Two of Kentucky's five new tuberculosis sanitariums are on the highway, at London and Glasgow; as is one of its four regional State Colleges, at Bowling Green, with a second at Murray on an alternate route adding not more than ten miles. Among other colleges along the way are Pikeville College, Sue Bennett College at London, Lindsey-Wilson at Columbia, and Bethel College for Women at Hopkinsville. The Bowling Green Business University ranks high among those of the Nation and is the largest in the South; while the work of the Hindman Settlement School has received wide recognition and support.

Historically, Kentucky's worst Indian massacre occurred in Levi Jackson State Park, while their last attack on a white settlement was at the Goose Creek Salt Works near Manchester; the Provisional Government of Kentucky which became a part of the Southern Confederacy, was established in the court house in Russellville while Bowling Green was designated as the provisional capital; there was a Shaker village near the Warren-Logan county line, which now is the center "of the most beautiful stock farms anywhere, not excluding the Blue Grass;" many places along the route are rich in historical facts and legends of early Kentucky romance, including stories of the Long Hunters, first pioneers, Indian raids, Civil War engagements—and politics.

The highway is through the famed Kentucky River coal field with Hazard its center, where there are many interesting operations to which the public is always welcome, the largest wooden tippie in the world, one of the largest strip mines, and many other large operations. In this section also might be cited the Frontier Nursing Service at Wendover, near Hyden in Leslie county, organized and still headed by Mrs. Mary Breckinridge; "Home Place" experimental mountain farm, shop, community center and hospital near Hazard operated under a trust fund; and

Robinson Forest on Buckhorn creek.

Both the Burley and Dark Tobacco belts, some of the finest farm lands, industrial cities and commercial centers are on the route. There are the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, the vast plains of Western Kentucky, and all the variations in between.

Fishing and hunting abound, and other recreation and tourist attractions that can not be fully covered in such an article as this. To mention a few: Mill Springs National Cemetery and Zollicoffer Park at Nancy, east of Somerset; Wolf Creek Lake, in the making in Pulaski and

Russell counties; Russell Springs is a principal access to Dale Hollow as well as to Wolf Creek Dam; Sulphur Wells summer resort near Edmonton; Duncan Hines home and office at Bowling Green; Cerulean Springs; old iron works and paper mill and other spots about Cadiz, not excluding Golden Pond; the Woolbridge monuments in a Mayfield cemetery, etc.

Surely a route so direct, through territories so diversified, with sites so beautiful and serving such great industries and so interesting, deserves consideration in the selection of a southern east-west through-designated highway, which is generally accepted as needed by Kentucky. What should that designation be? I don't know, but it might well have an "8" in it.

BULLDOGS CLICK, BEAT GREENFIELD 19-6; CONFERENCE GAME AT MARION TONIGHT

The Fulton High Bulldogs were "right" last Friday night as they romped to a 19 to 6 victory over the Greenfield High Yellowjackets at Memorial Stadium.

After a scoreless first half the Bulldogs came to life in the third quarter to go ahead. The Yellowjackets tied it up but the Bulldogs tallied twice in the last quarter to sew up the game.

Fulton kicked off to start the game but the Yellowjackets couldn't gain through the Bull dog line and were forced to punt. The Bulldogs drove down the field to within the Greenfield 10 yard line but the Yellowjackets held and took the ball on downs.

The Yellowjackets kicked out of danger and the two teams spent the rest of the quarter dueling in midfield.

The Bulldogs threatened again in the second quarter but again the Greenfield line held and the Yellowjackets took the ball on downs.

HEARTS and FLOWERS By PATRICIA LATANE

I am sorry to have had to disappear for a few days but am now back on the job so sit down and write your problems to me and I will do my utmost to answer it within a few days after you write me.

Dear R. A. H.
I would suggest your forgetting this married man as it could never mean anything. Find a single boy to go with. All you are doing now is giving the public something to talk about.

Dear J. H. M.
I do not think this girl cares for you, if she did she wouldn't be running around with every Tom, Dick, and Harry that comes along. A girl that cares anything for you will sit at home and find something to do or else go to the show with a girl friend. She won't be out running around.

Dear A. L.
If he wants a divorce give it to him. Don't be silly. You don't intend to live with him anymore so give him a divorce. You will want to marry again within the next 6 months so my advice is get things settled with him so you will be free to do as you please.

The third quarter as Johnny Hyland passed to Jerry Forrest who raced 50 yards for a touchdown. Charles Shupe drop-kicked the extra point but the Bulldogs had twelve men on the field and the kick didn't count.

Greenfield tied the game in the third quarter when Grooms skirted his end from the fifty yard line for the only Yellowjacket score of the game. The try for the extra point was blocked. The Bulldogs went ahead in the last quarter when Aubrey Glasco went over from the five after a sustained drive down the field. Don Mann made the extra point on a buck through the line.

The Bulldogs last score came when Leon Mann went over from the eight after Jim Hodge had intercepted a Greenfield pass to set up the score. The try for the point after touchdown was low. Every man on the Fulton squad was in the game during the last minutes after the last touchdown.

The passing combination of Johnny Hyland to Jerry Forrest picked up 306 yards during the game as the lanky end caught 11 passes. Forrest was also spectacular on defense as the Yellowjackets were able to round his end but once.

Big Aubrey Glasco, running from the fullback slot, showed tremendous drive as he ran roughshod over tacklers and blasted holes for the other backs. Leon Mann, at left half, showed some fancy broken field running on wide plays.

The entire Fulton line played a bang-up defensive game as many Greenfield plays were broken up behind the line of scrimmage.

The Bulldogs play their first West Kentucky Conference game tonight against the Marion, Kentucky Blue Terrors at Marion.

The Marion team in their only game of the season dropped a 19 to 0 decision to Sturgis, Ky. The Bulldogs return here October 8 for the annual homecoming game against Murray High.

Dear J. W.
I think if you would sit down and have a talk with mother like girls are supposed to do she wouldn't object to your dating. The only thing is, you will have to remember and do what she says. Do this, it will obtain for you your wish.

Dear W. C. J.
I think if I would have done the things you say you have I would go to the church and ask God to forgive me for being such a fool. You said you did them so you would be popular, well, just remember that doing those things won't make you popular. Its the girls that don't do things like that, that are popular. So always remember to say no. You will have the chance to marry, who you want to if you always remember to say "no."

Dear W. K. S.
You are still a young woman. I do not feel sorry for you. You are able to get out and get a job and support yourself and things will not be any better until you do.

Dear J. N. P.
Your mother isn't ill. She just has these fits when you are with a certain girl. Think hard and see if this isn't so. She never calls anywhere else for you. She only has a heart attack when you are with this person. Watch out she just doesn't like the girl, that is all that is wrong. If you don't believe me call a doctor unbeknowning to her and you will find out that this is true.

All this without bluing or scouring. How's it done? By adapting the housewife's soap, sash, wring, rinse, wring technique to commercial laundering, plus of course new chemical soaps and detergents.

The new commercial way, which is a lot quicker and easier on clothes, is to take the soap-filled laundry, place it in a whirling basket and while it is rotated, direct streams of warm water on it. This approximates the housewife's technique; and it replaces a long wash in hot water, then a long rinse, and then a drying operation. It's expected to make big headway in the laundry business this year.

Need For Officers Is Critical, Carleton Says

Colonel Don E. Carleton, Executive, Kentucky Military District announced today that under the Selective Service Act of 1948, which is beginning to take effect, the need for officers is still critical. One reason is that the Selective Service Act does not empower the Department of the Army to order Reserve Officers to active duty. For the time being officers for the expanding Army must be obtained by the volunteer service of the men who hold Reserve Commissions.

Any officer under the age of 28 may compete for a regular commission in the U. S. Army. Medical officers and persons in such specialized fields may be commissioned directly into the Army at varying ages depending upon past experience, educational qualifications and other factors. To secure officers in the older age brackets, age and grade restrictions have been relaxed and former officers drawing pensions and disability allowances may waive these pensions for periods of active duty provided they are otherwise qualified to perform the duties.

ward Wednesday night, September, 22.

The presentation was made at the Founders Day banquet of the Illinois Central Supervisors' Clubs in Memphis at the Peabody.

Ned H. Dearborn, National Safety Council president, presented the award. It was received by S. F. Lynch, Illinois Central general manager and honored guest. The award was a plaque and the Council's "S" pennant now bearing three stars in evidence of the fourth award.

C. R. Young, of Chicago, director of personnel in charge of the company's safety program, was master of ceremonies. Officers from each of the 13 operating divisions of the railroad were present.

The award went to the I. C. because the railroad to reduced its casualty rate from 27.52 in 1923 to 1.95 in 1947, equivalent to 93 per cent. This is the greatest reduction of any Group A railroad (those having 50,000, 000 or more man hours per year) in the same period.

First of the three other awards for Distinguished Service to Safety was made to the Illinois Central on Dec. 8, 1943. It was given for making the greatest reduction in total employee casualty rates of any major railroad in the United States in 1943 as compared with 1942.

Because of continued improvement subsequent to the award made in 1943, on June 15, 1944, the Illinois Central was presented with the National Safety Council's "S" pennant. It bore a star indicating that the railroad had twice merited recognition for an outstanding safety effort in time of war.

The third award and second star on the pennant, was presented June 15, 1945. It was won for ending 1944 with a casualty ratio of 6.28 and a fatality ratio of .27.

It was Mr. Lynch's activities when chief clerk to the superintendent at Vicksburg, Miss., 20 years ago which resulted in the establishment of the railroad's first Supervisors' Club. Now there are about 1500 members of supervisors' clubs on the I. C. in all ranks from foreman upward.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 3, 1948.

The Golden Text is: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness and let us put on the armour of light." (Rom. 13:12)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?" (I Cor. 1:20).

All are welcome to our service.

Job Is to Out-wit Weather When It Comes to Making Hay Without Sun

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Weather never remains neutral on the farm. It is either "for or ag'in" you. Rain can be of the welcome "million dollar" variety or the frustrating sort which starts just as you are bringing in the hay and continues for two or three days. Such a prolonged downpour has ruined many a valuable hay crop. For years farmers accepted such conditions as being beyond their control. They made or lost on their hay crops according to the whims of Old Man Weather.

Fortunately, the nation's agricultural experts became interested in the problem. They believed that something could be done to outsmart the weather and, at the same time, help farmers to produce a better quality of hay. Their research led to the development of several different types of hay curing systems. Of these, slatted floor and lateral duct systems predominate. Curing is accomplished by charging air through the hay. Usually, this is done by means of blowers or 36-inch fans, operated by horsepower motors.

Essentially, most mow curing systems start with a main duct which extends from the fan chamber through the center or along the side of the barn. Large barns may use two fans and two central ducts. In each case, air is blown into the central duct and released through side openings under the slatted (false) floor in one system and into lateral ducts in the other system. Air passes upward through the hay which is piled in layers on the slatted floor or laterals. If laterals are used, air is released through openings located in the top or bottom of each section.

Tests show that deeper layers of hay can be cured with a slatted floor system. Curing time, however, is about the same for all types, averaging from a week to ten days per layer. Hay can be cut in the morning and, under average conditions, put in the barn in the afternoon. Long, baled or chopped hay can be cured in the mow. It is safe to store if its moisture content is 20 percent or less.

The use of a time switch provides for automatic operation of the hay curing equipment. Barn cured hay is greener, tender and has more food value than field-dried hay.

The cost of a typical system averages from 25 to 35 cents per square foot of barn floor area. This includes lumber, blower, labor, motor and automatic controls. Electricity costs vary from 75 cents to $1.50 per ton for the complete curing period.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

by Irving Galtberg

Tom Gregory, managing editor of the weekly Central Record furnishes me with the text for today's little piece, which is about Lancaster's method of inviting a second small factory needed to absorb its surplus male labor. I take the Lancaster invitation because it is both candid and honest.

The Garrard County Board of Commerce got a work clothing plant for the county seat town, but 95 per cent of the 250 employees are women. So the next move was for a factory employing men. The clothing manufacturing concern, with approximately 100 applications of men in its files, cooperated with the Board of Commerce in making a survey.

Cards were mailed all over the county and thorough canvass was made in Lancaster. A check-up showed there were easily 150 male laborers available.

In its general statement the Board of Commerce gives its own census figures, based on a house-to-house canvass. The population is 2,327. No exaggerated claim. No empty boasting. A new county hospital is under construction, and the town has good schools and active service clubs. I'll lay you a ten-to-one bet Lancaster gets the factory it wants.

In recent years, boards of trade in Kentucky towns and small cities have learned a lot about bidding for new industries. One of the first things they do nowadays is to ascertain their labor resources. Electricity comes second maybe. Then schools, hospitals and recreation facilities. After which they try to publicize what they have to offer-make their message reach possible factory builders.

When I was a newspaper reporter in Henderson forty years ago, the methods of a board of trade were quite different. Every now and then local business men would work themselves in to a lather. Their enthusiasm was admirable but their procedure was pitiable. They were eloquent in praise of their city. They chartered trains and went on booster tours. Maybe they would get 100 miles from home. The crowd had a good time, of course. But they reached nobody who would even think of building factories in their town. Naturally, nothing happened. Enthusiasm would sag and in all probability the board of trade would fade out completely. Then in two or three years a bunch of business men would organize under another name and repeat the performance. The trouble was that these men didn't know how to put their message across. That, however, was a long time ago. Today Henderson is a rapidly growing city.

Ten years ago I urged a board of trade manager to write the industrial advantages of his city in a 60 word classified advertisement.

FARMERS WARNED ABOUT HAZARDS IN FARM LIVING

Increased use of electrical equipment on farms has also introduced new fire hazards, the State Fire Prevention Week Committee pointed out today in appealing to the farm families to observe Fire Prevention Week beginning October 3. Fire, the Fifth Horseman, annually kills 3,500 persons and injures thousands more on farms alone.

Farmers were cautioned to check their wiring, particularly extension cords, and to clean and oil their electrical equipment regularly to prevent overheating. They were admonished to see that all electric lights and wiring are placed out of reach of animals and are equipped with metal guards.

The use of dangerous substitutes for fuses, such as coins or wire, is a frequent cause of fire. The committee in urging each farm family to check its fuse box to see that it contains only the correct size—usually 15 amperes—explained that the only approved fuse of this size is hexagon shaped.

To combat the ever present ment and run it in a magazine like Business Week, or some other periodical reaching industrialists. A periodical with 125,000 circulation would reach 50,000 industrial executives. If the advertisement cost $50, that would mean reaching possible factory builders at a cost of one dollar per thousand. The suggestion is as good now as when I first made it.

The 100 or more Kentucky cities and towns seeking new industrial plants must make themselves heard beyond their county lines. The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce will help these towns be heard.

menace of fire due to matches and smoking. "No Smoking" signs should be posted in numerous places about the farm. Other reminders issued by the state committee were: Don't burn leaves; put them in a compost pile. Observe the old rule against burning over land on a windy day. Don't use "open" wiring and don't tack drop cords to walls. Home-made wiring causes many fires, so call in an electrician when there is any wiring to be done around the house.

Roundhouse Round-Up

By Alice Clark

Well folks, here we are again with the Roundhouse Roundup and all the news that I know.

The womanless wedding was quite an affair. There were 142 present and all of them seem to enjoy it, and we want to thank all of the members of the cast. There aren't enough words to express our appreciation for them taking a part in it, and we now think that the men would make pretty little girls with their blond and red hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rumley of Chicago have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith.

Cleo King and son Jim have returned to their home in Mt. Clements, Mich., after a visit with his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith.

We are glad to hear there wasn't anyone hurt at the home of retired coal chute operator, G. E. Allen's home when an oil stove exploded at his home last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Browder and son Joe are here visiting Mr. Browder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Browder.

Mr. Lucian Browder has returned from Chicago after going after his grand daughter, Linda Sue Standford who has been visiting there.

We are glad to hear that Division Boiler Foreman L. A. Hussey is getting along nicely in
