Why Not Advertise Your Community?

By Robert S. Clay

Advertisements are the lifeblood of our newspapers. They pay the bills, support the services we offer, and help us to provide the information you need. If you want to reach a large audience, why not advertise in the Fulton Advertiser? We have space available for businesses of all sizes and can work with you to create an ad that fits your budget and meets your needs. Give us a call today to learn more about advertising in the Fulton Advertiser.

John Wilmath Out For Jailer

The Advertiser is pleased to announce the appointment of John Wilmath as the new jailer in Fulton. Wilmath has extensive experience in law enforcement and is well respected in the community. He will be responsible for maintaining order and ensuring the safety of inmates. The Advertiser wishes Wilmath the best of luck in his new role.

Holiday Wedding

On the evening of December 24, the community of Fulton gathered to celebrate the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith. The ceremony took place at the First Baptist Church, and the reception followed at the Civic Center. The couple is planning a honeymoon in Europe and will return to Fulton to make their home. The Advertiser congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Smith and wishes them a lifetime of happiness together.

Oldest Citizen Dies

Fulton's oldest citizen, Mr. Charles Johnson, passed away on December 15. Mr. Johnson was a beloved member of the community and will be greatly missed. The Advertiser extends its deepest sympathy to Mr. Johnson's family and friends.

ELECTRIC POWER IS REVOLUTIONIZING AMERICAN INDUSTRY
By L. E. Bunting, President, Kentucky Utilities Company.

A careful survey of economic conditions in Kentucky indicates that the electric power business will be better in 1928 than it has been in recent years, although 1928 was a season of depression. The value of industrial machinery is not reported with electric power; for the coal and oil industries in Kentucky alone will fairly reflect a party of the business conditions throughout the nation in the methods of its operations. Even the croakers were in time converted. The time was in Kentucky, as in many other parts of the country, when the farmer had to be self-sufficient, had to grow his own food, and to tend his own horses and cattle, before the iron bed became the property of the neighbors. Now no one thinks there is any need of an iron bed. The electric power is revolutionizing the home and the farm.

Inviting Opportunity

In ready funds is the magnet that will draw opportunity, not once but many times to the thrifty man's door.

The funds need not be large. There are opportunities of all sizes. But the possession of capital, no matter how limited, implies the presence of other desirable qualities—such as business sense, stability, ambition.

By starting a savings account with us now you will soon have sufficient savings accumulated to enable you to welcome Opportunity when she next knocks. Without money you may not even recognize her.

TONGUES

Many a life of plenty has been ruined by the careless utterance of some idle word that never came to man. Plenty is never safe as long as gossip is at large.

As gossip is at large, even the croak of the crow, aided by the owner of the croak, is heard as a whisper, and is not forgotten. Even the croak of the crow, aided by the owner of the croak, is heard as a whisper, and is not forgotten.

The estate, which, besides the crook of trees, contains 5,000 acres of land, was specifically mentioned in the will of Charles W. Judd, passed by the county court of Oktibbeha County in 1879, and is situated in the vicinity of Starkville, Mississippi.

The transaction was the result of extended negotiations between the representatives of the Farmers' Cooperative and members of the association, as follows:
