PROGRAM HELD AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday night at five o'clock college students of the First Baptist Church presented a program at the church. College students who are members of that church include Louise Altom of Western State Teachers College, Idelle Batts of Murray, Joe Clapp, Jr., of Union University, Warren Clapp of Union University, Ellsworth Crawford of Murray, Jane Lewis of the University of Kentucky, Martha Melton of Mississippi State College for Women, Alton Riddle of Murray, Billy Tayloe of the University of Tennessee and Ann Valentine of Christian College.

The theme of the Student Night Program was "Today and Tomorrow With Christ." The opening songs were "All Hail the Power" and "Onward Christian Soldiers," followed with prayer by J. O. Lewis. A scripture lesson taken from the sixteenth chapter of Matthew was read by Miss Ann Valentine. Miss Jane Lewis read a very appropriate poem entitled "God In Every Tomorrow." For the offertory an instrumental quartet, composed of Phyllis Kramer, Jane Dallas, James Burton, and Elmus Lynn Houston, rendered "Silent Night." Articles on "Today's Marks of a Maximum Christian" were given by Idelle Batts, Jane Lewis, Ann Valentine, Billy Taylor, Louise Altom, Waymon Altom, Ellsworth Crawford, and Maurice Bailey. The pastor then presented Maurice Bailey who is president of the Baptist Student Union Council at Murray State Teachers College and Joe Clapp, Jr., president of that group at Union University. Mr. Bailey, using as his subject "My Church First, Choosing and Following Christ Regardless," spoke briefly of the various activities of the B. S. U. on its particular campus. Mr. Clapp, Jr., very ably discussed "Broadening My Spiritual Horizon through State, South-wide and World Outlooks," and also explained the work done by the B. S. U. on the Union campus.

The closing number of the program was a violin duet, "Living for Jesus" by Miss Margarette Stephens and H. L. Hardy, Jr.

After the program informal reception was held at the pastor's home for the students.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

SUNDAY, JANUARY 2

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, January 2.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else." (Isiah 45:22).

This includes Christian Science Society, Fulton, Ky., which holds regular services Sunday at 11:00 A. M. and Testimonial Meeting Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Reading Room at 211 Carr Street is open Wednesday and Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and to visit the Reading Room where the Bible, and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

Rev. S. B. Dameron, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, 119 Church Street, announces a zone rally which will be held at the church Saturday, January 1. The program, which will be in charge of the pastor, will begin at ten o'clock in the morning and will close at three-thirty. A lunch will be served at noon. Everybody is invited.

There may such thing as killing the goose that lays the golden eggs, but nobody has to be goose enough to let that happen.

The old-time dances may return to popular favor in Fulton but the old-time family photo album seems to have disappeared forever.

ROBBERY SERIES STRIKES FULTON

Tuesday night the fifth robbery of the week occurred at P. H. Weaks Clothing Store when the plate glass window was crashed and an overcoat and a scarf were taken. Officer Fred Dunn, who was on duty at that time, heard the crash and as he came on to Lake street he saw a negro running across the street from the store. He shot at the negro two times and finally chased him into South Fulton where he was caught at his home. He is being held in the local jail.

Sunday night between two-thirty and three o'clock thieves crashed a 7x8 plate glass window at the Miller-Jones Shoe Store and took into their possession only one pair of $2.98 shoes. A night police passed the store about two-thirty o'clock and finding everything all right walked on to the end of the line. But upon his return about twenty minutes later he found the glass shattered. It is believed that the watchman scared the thief away as there were a number of other articles, such as shoes, socks, and hose, within reach.

At the Fulton Wall Paper and Office Supply Store probably the same thief broke an 8x10 plate glass and looted the store of a new L. C. Smith typewriter valued at $115.50, a life time fountain pen, valued at $12.00, and a stapling machine, valued at $10.00.

James Lacey and N. G. Cody, colored boys who reside in Misshony Bottom, are being held in the local jail, after being caught stealing coal from an Illinois Central car Christmas Eve. They were arrested by a Special I. C. Agent and are awaiting a trial before Squire Bowers in Magistrate's Court, and Judge Walker in juvenile court.

Hobart Tucker, age 15, and Wallace Latham, age 16, were arrested here last week on a charge of grand larceny. During Christmas the boys stole a shot gun, shells, and cigarettes from the automobile of John Harpole. They were tried before Judge Adams and were held over to await the action of the grand jury under a $300.00 bond and were taken to the county jail in Hickman, Ky.

DENMARK TESTING RADIO TELEPHONES

Experiments with the use of ultra short waves for radio telephone conversation are being conducted by the engineers of the Danish Department of Posts and Telegraphs, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. It was stated that the use of ultra short wave telephones will obviate the objections formerly encountered in ordinary short wave telephone which permitted conversations so transmitted to be heard by operators of ordinary radio receiving sets.

A Chicago expert says auto traffic will some day become so dense it will drive people underground. It's putting a lot of them there now.

THE NEW YEAR

Just what the new year will bring forth in the way of living and working conditions is a subject everyone around Fulton is now deeply interested in. Of course speculation is rife as to what it holds in store for the farmer, first of all, for it is an undisputed fact that the business run along smoothly for him it is bound to be pretty bumpy for the balance of the country.

From scattered reports, covering the country as a whole, it is understood that the farmers do not look for the bumper crops they had in 1937—it's hard to have two years like that in a row—but they are, as a rule, of the opinion that prices will be better and that from an actual money standpoint 1938 will be a better year than 1937.

The inclination of the government to get in closer touch with industry and to cooperate heartily in launching a building boom and further reducing relief rolls through employment is also an optimistic note for the new year. If for the labor situation, with its many strikes and constant turmoil, its own ranks split asunder by factional fights and clash of leadership, everything would look mighty fine for 1938. If some way can be found to keep labor at peace with industry, then the one great threat to better times will be wiped out. Whether the new year at the mercy of capital and labor. If they can be brought together in a reign of peace and understanding, then agriculture and transportation and finance and trade will keep their affairs in shape.

The fate of 1938 seems to lie in the hands of the man with the dinner pail and all the rest of the country can do is hope and pray that he eats soberly and sensibly and with the best interest of his fellowman at heart.

MODERN RUSTLING

We may expect in the near future a new type of wild west novels of cattle rustlers and rustlers and heroes and heroines, with the southwest as the scene and the present year as the time. The stream of stories will start to flow as soon as fiction writers hear about the state of affairs in Texas and adjoining states. It may be hard for the average Fulton reader to realize it, but due to the high price of beef cattle thieves are on a rampage. In fact says the commander of the Texas Rangers, there is more livestock being stolen right now than at any time for the past seventy years.

In place of the bronze, cayuse and mustang which sped the rustlers on their way in the old days the rich business of stealing another's cattle is now done by motor truck and the trucks guided by overhead planes. The gasoline cowboys who covet their neighbor's property on the hoof are giving honest men plenty of trouble. But virtually all of the rustlers end up in the jailhouse, which cattle raisers have reluctantly accepted as a substitute for the old-fashioned hemp rope and tree limb as punishment for the thieves. The reason they are being captured is the crude old branding iron, which today as in days of yore, marks the route to stolen cattle. Ever since the first long-horn steer crossed the Rio Grande into Texas there have been cattle rustlers and branding irons. Long-horns have changed into beefy, white-face shorthorns, but the old branding iron remains constant and unchanged marking ownership as it did a century ago and furnishing still the evidence which eventually traps the rustler.

Picked-Up About Town

Lon Adams says it's usually the case that the more a person knows the more he knows he doesn't know.

"An inventor has assembled ten common garden tools in one," says Henry Collier, "and that ought to make it possible to lose them all under one pile of leaves."

The man who got a Bible for Christmas should read it. We once read of a man who lost a $100 bill in one.

"Maybe you've also noticed," asserts Roy Adams "that as a man grows older he spends less time on his pleasures and more on his ailments."

Herman Sams says his idea of a religious man is one who never swears when he hits the side of the stove door with a shoveful of coal.

It very often happens in this world that the optimist has to borrow the pessimist's umbrella.

Livingston Read says it has been his observation that the average man can do a full day's work by noon if he is going to get the afternoon off.

"Come to think about it," asks Vernon Owen "did you ever hear of a man starting a shooting affair on pop on a ginger ale?"

As Bob Binford sees it, we've so many laws in this country that even crooks forget now and then and observe some of them.

A "crisis" is a very sensitive thing. It soon dies of neglect when people quit talking about it.

If you want to explain what a dictatorship is like don't waste any time on the Fulton man who has been married for quite awhile.

The fellow who wrote about "the silent watches of the night" never had to listen to a dollar one ticking on the dresser.

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS INCREASED THIS SEASON

As Christmas buying approached its climax, retail trade throughout the country registered substantial gains over the preceding week but for the most part failed to advance over the preceding year, according to Department of Commerce reports from 35 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. In about half of the reporting cities the volume of trade ran slightly behind last year, losses ranging from 1 to 15 per cent. In others distinct gains over 1936 were noted, while in several large centers, including Chicago and New York, there was little change. Wholesale trade in New York, it was reported, was not up to a year ago and in some cases orders were running at a very slow pace. Retail trade fell behind the corresponding period of 1936 in Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, while gains were reported from New Orleans, Louisville, Baltimore and Cleveland.

Louisville reported that holiday buying came back strong after two days of bizzard weather. Department store sales 1 to 3 per cent above year ago. Local newspaper survey indicated retail business for 1937 will exceed that of 1936 by 7.5 per cent; wholesale by 11 per cent. Wholesale orders have been tapering off but aggregate for month is well up with December, 1936.

Kentucky Employment Service reported 481 placements in jobs past week, 8.9 per cent decrease.

Bank clearings showed 12.6 per cent decrease under year ago. Debts decreased less than 7 per cent.

Season's high record for Burley tobacco recorded just before Christmas when average of Kentucky sales ran up to $26.71. Records also being established for volume offered on floors this early in season, offering so far exceeding all periods for 32 years.

Louisville Municipal Housing Commission plans for $400,000 bond issue to supplement $4,000,000 Federal funds for low-cost housing and slum-clearance project.

State bridges being completed on main highways at cost of $1,005,000. Survey indicated industrial output of Jefferson county, for 1937 will exceed 1936 by $34,000,000.

Steel workers residing in Greenup county, Ky., thrown out of work by closing of 23 sheet mills of Wheeling Steel Company at Portsmouth, O., due to obsolescence; total of 1,500 dismissed.

Farm sales are tapering off but a few are reported; 400 acre tract of late J. M. Coyle in Perryville section of Boyle county, Ky., sold for $11,000.

89-acre N. B. Triplett farm in Laurel county, Ky., sold to G. W. Triplett of Harlan county, for $10,400.

Capital Comments

Governor Chandler is making himself just as nifty as the new almanac. . . He has told the Legislative Council just about what he wants the 1938 General Assembly to do and his telling it what he wants it to do is equivalent of such coming to pass. . . In placing his three point legislative program before the council, Governor Chandler indicated in one of his points, that despite the pressure that is being brought to bear to delay the full payment of the state debt until another administration, he will go forward to retire all mortgages before he quits office in December 1939. . . He told the Legislative Council that he did not want any additional taxes imposed and that he did not want any changes in the existing tax laws and that he wanted a $24,000,000 budget for each of the next two years. This last point is the one indicating that he will let the debt retirement line and let the chips fall in the governmental wood-box. . . This business of retiring the state debt is political dynamite. . . Some are inclined to believe that it is bad business for a state to be completely out of debt. . . It is the opinion of this writer that these people who labor under such a belief do not know from whence they speak because the chances are 48 to 1 that they never lived in a state completely out of debt. . . Some other factions, who are going along with the Governor and his administration, are trying to convince him that he should expand his building program and let the state debt stand as is. . . In the $24,000,000 budget he asks for a million a year for building, which under the circumstances, is enough. . . This $24,000,000 per annum is approximately a million a year more than he asked for at the last General Assembly. . . He pointed out that Old Age Assistance would need about $500,000 more a year than before and that the increase in the number of school children would necessitate the hoisting of the ante about $600,000 more than last time in order that there would be $12 for each school child. . . The State of Kentucky is a big business. . . It takes in, under the current revenue set-up, between twenty-eight and thirty millions each year. . . This leaves between four and five million each year for payment on the debt. . . At the rate the Governor's great desire to leave office with the Commonwealth back on its feet and the next Governor equipped with a perfect right to lower some of the taxes. . . Governor Chandler, in his talk to the council, also expressed a desire to keep the school per capita at $12. . . The Educational department is asking for $15. . . Kentucky's school per capita is one of the highest in the nation. . . As you peruse this pillar remember that all of the above is what the Governor suggested to the Legislative Council and the Council next has to suggest it to the General Assembly which, after all, will take the actual steps. . .

for 1937. . . It was undefeated and boasts of two great players who merited all-America on most any team. . . After all a school's athletic prowess is one of its greatest advertising assets. . .

Since the opening of the tobacco market on December 6, the price of the weed on the floor, is gradually increasing. . . Although the sales were considered slowed up last week by the sleet and slippery roads which kept many a stick in the barn, the average gradually went above 27 cents. . . The market opened with an average of slightly less than 23 cents a pound. . .

While the State's solons are cheying the fat over the proper kind of legislation to curtail the activities of the countryside road-houses which operate without police observation, Joe Scholtz, Louisville's new mayor, went before the council with a plea for lower state rates on whiskey licenses in the city. He asks that the state tax be reduced from $700 to $250. He wants to lower state tax so that he can boost the city tax. If the legislature will lower the tax from $700 to $250 the Louisville city council will immediately boost the city license from its present level of $250 to $700. Mayor Scholtz declared that the city needed the extra revenue. If the rate is changed for Louisville the barkeeper will not feel it. It's going to cost him $950 a year any way he pays it. . .

RANDOM SHOTS—You haven't heard anything about it yet but you will later on. I mean a scrap for the minority leadership in the House. . . Claude L. Hammons, Barbourville, Republican floor leader in the last session is likely to be beaten by Garland Embry, Leitchfield, for the post this coming session. . . Despite the sleet that covered Kentucky last week there were few serious accidents reported in the central section. . . Already the New Senators and representatives have started moving on Frankfort. Just getting acclimated. . . Speaker John Kirtley has taken up his temporary abode here and will remain until after the session is over in March. Seating arrangements for the members of the house are now being made. . . The representatives will have their desks assigned to them upon arrival. . . Blue prints of the arrangements are being struck and can be found at the state Librarian's office. . . The State educators have a bill in mind to be enacted at the 1940 session of Legislature, whereby the aging teacher can retire on an annuity. . . These same Educators wanted the bill passed his session but Governor Chandler declared that under present conditions, it was not advisable. . .

Quite often you can tell where a Fulton man gets his opinions by listening to his wife.

The State of Kentucky has two Negro Colleges. . . Kentucky State Industrial College, with a student body of about 500, is at Frankfort. . . Western Kentucky State Industrial College at Paducah. . . The Frankfort school is near top ranking. . . The Paducah school, which has 165 students and operates at a cost of about $45,000 a year, is not so hot. . . It is the hopes in Frankfort that some legislation can be enacted to consolidate the two schools at Frankfort and make it a top ranking institution and give the buildings of the Paducah school to the Welfare Department for a Feeble minded institution for Negroes. . . Already the Frankfort school has gained national fame in an athletic way. . . It is claiming the National Negro Collegiate football championship
