KENTUCKY TRADE IS MAKING PROGRESS

General trade conditions, as indicated by reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office, moved into the New Year under somewhat mixed conditions. In New York City, retail trade began the New Year with a very good comparative showing. Department stores, though up against a period of strong business a year ago, topped last year's sales by 1.3 per cent. The Chicago report stated that although customer response to clearance sales in the popular priced stores is only moderate, the stores handling higher priced quality goods reported good business. St. Louis department stores reported sales 6.5 per cent below the same week last year, with the post-holiday lull more acute than the average during several past years. Retail merchants in Memphis, on the other hand, were reported as being somewhat encouraged over the tone of business since the holidays, while wholesale lines have been considered accelerated during the past ten days. Louisville reported that with post-Christmas sales close to par set by preceding year, volume of retail sales in Louisville district for 1937 registered a gain estimated at 7.5 per cent over 1936. Wholesale volume showed a gain of 11 per cent over last year.

Bank clearings showed a gain of 22.7 per cent over same week year ago, while gain for year was 11.1 per cent. Clearing in Lexington, Ky., were $9,300,000 higher in 1937 than in 1936.

More than $24,360,496 has already been paid out to Buell tobacco growers of Kentucky.

Kentucky farm income continued impressive gains over 1936 to close of 1937, with increase estimated at 25 per cent.

Kentucky Distillers' Association estimated that 35,000 have been given employment by revival of distilling industry.

WPA director has asked assignment of 3,000 additional jobs in Kentucky in February; 3,000 were added in December bringing quota to 39,000.

Public Employment Service reported 368 placements last week, a decline of 30.1 per cent from preceding week. Total placements for December, 2,555, a decrease of 7.6 per cent from November.

Preliminary estimates showed average monthly industrial employment in Louisville 33,500 against 35,500 in 1936, with industrial payroll at $44,000,000 compared with $38,000,000 in 1936.

I. C. railroad paid to 1,100 employees at Paducah, Ky., $1,900,000 in wages in 1937.

Notwithstanding Ohio river flood of January, precipitation in Louisville during 1937 was 49.07 inches, only 6.41 inches above normal and 6.43 inches less than the record of 1882, not a flood year.

Large increases in all major crops in Kentucky, except soybeans, registered in 1937.

Increased growth of Burley tobacco and income from it and One-Sucker type bringing $700,000 per week into Bowling Green, Ky., trade area during auction sales.

THIEVES RAMSACK OFFICE OF PIERCE-CEQUIN & CO.

Early Friday morning thieves attempted to rob the safe at the office of Pierce-Cequin & Company, but fled when a tear gas bomb exploded as they broke into the vault. Entrance to the yard was gained through a back door, then by prizing open a window leading to the office. In the past two months three attempts have been made to rob this safe.

TRIAL DATE IS SET IN OBION COUNTY

The trial of Luther Johnson, former Obion county deputy sheriff charged with the recent slaying of his wife, has been set for January 19 on the Obion County Circuit Court docket. The case will probably be tried this term of court as Johnson is charged with first degree murder and is being held in jail.

Lottery charges against a number of Union City merchants were nolle prossed by the court. These charges grew out of the use of bank night and drawings by these merchants as a trade stimulant last summer. Merchants named in the charges were Red Young, W. E. Reece, Kenneth Woodruff, A. J. Cox and Walter Mayes.

Malcolm Gilbert of Morrilton, Ark., where he managed the Rialto theatre, has arrived in Fulton to take charge of the local theatres.

Mr. Waltmon has been in Fulton since 1930, and during that time he has demonstrated by his labors that he is one of the outstanding showmen in the South. His efforts have been instrumental in building up attendance at the local theatres and in the erection of the new Fulton theatre. Although the Bulldogs came back in the second half and fought hard for a victory their goal shooting was poor, hitting only seven out of 36 attempts. Thomas was high scorer for Fulton with nine points, while Odum led Mayfield with thirteen.

In the opening game Fulton's second team won over the Mayfield B team 18 to 15. This game was colorful and full of interest and seemed to be generally enjoyed more than the varsity game.

FSA LOANS OFFERED DISTRICT FARMERS

The Farm Security Administration now has money in hand to lend to enable small groups of farmers to buy or secure the use of heavy farm equipment, pure bred sires and other such services which will help them to do better farming but which a farmer cannot afford to buy solely for his own use. A statement to this effect was issued by G. C. Dyer, County Supervisor of the FSA from his office in Mayfield, which is located in the Stovall building. Mr. Dyer has charge of the Farm Security work in Calloway, Fulton, Graves and Hickman counties.

Work of county supervisors includes help in adjusting farmers' debts, making of supervised rehabilitation loans to individual farmers for purchase of seed, fertilizer livestock and needed farm tools, and making of these group loans referred to above. In addition they handle the tenant land purchase program in counties selected to receive tenant purchase loans.

Mr. Dyer said that while made for the use of a group of farmers, these group or service loans are usually made to one individual farmer in the group. He is known as the "master borrower." He agrees to provide the service when needed and the others, his neighbors who decide to join in, agree to use the service and pay the charges specified for the service.

When the loan is paid the equipment belongs to the master borrower. The only rules are that he agrees to provide the service at a reasonable service charge during the life of the equipment. This is only good business and the master borrower would naturally want to do this even though such an agreement were not made.

The rate of interest for the group loan is three per cent and the length of the loan depends on the probable useful life of the animals or machines used to provide the service.

"It is the purpose of the Farm Security Administration to work in close co-operation with all agricultural agencies and it welcomes suggestions as to the placing and use of these services. The aim is to develop better agricultural practices and all agencies working toward this end can doubtless effect great improvement over present conditions," Mr. Dyer said.

IF WAR COMES

Everyone around Fulton able to think back to 40 years ago will recall a battle-cry that sprung up as a result of a tragedy whose anniversary is now near at hand. We refer to the battle-cry, "Remember the Maine!" with which the nation went to war.

These older residents have doubtless by this time made a few comparisons of that historic occasion with events recently recorded in Chinese waters in which this country was, as it was in Havana harbor 40 years ago, an innocent victim. It recalls that only a spark was needed to touch off the guns of war almost a half-century ago, and the battleship Maine furnished that spark. Knowing the horror of war through experience, and not hearsay, these older citizens cannot help but wonder if history is now about to repeat itself, with the Orient instead of Cuba the scene of a flash which will set the whole world in fire.

Every sane man dreads war. Every good American abhors it. For that reason, and remembering as most people do the terrible price this nation paid as its price in the last one, the average American insists that if we must again be dragged into conflict that it be through far more violent and far more destructive sparks than those which touched off the last two in which we were engaged. American life must, of course, be protected at all costs. But today, 40 years after there is still a doubt if the Maine was actually destroyed by enemies of this republic, and today, over 20 years after the sinking of the Lusitania, there is disagreement over whether or not it was actually engaged in transporting arms to the allied nations.

America enters the new year hoping and praying for peace. And if war outweighs her prayers, then this time she wants no shadow of doubt to exist as to war's justification.

WORDS OF WISDOM

Nobody knows, and probably never will, just who originated what we know in the business world today as "credit." It seems to be as old as barter and trade itself, and there has been barter and trade since the human race first came upon the earth.

Credit, as old as the business world itself, has in its more modernized usage become the largest part of business. Money we have, of course, as a medium of exchange, yet in actual comparison with credit money is really secondary. Today credit is money. Every business and profession, every individual, today computes and values credit on a basis of actual dollars and cents but what he is "good for" from a credit standpoint. If his credit is good, he need not have a dollar in actual cash to make a desired purchase, but if his credit is gone, so is his reputation and his future is measured by how long his cash holds out.

Here at the turn of the year, when the average Fulton man is endeavoring to balance his accounts and start a clean slate—an old custom but a good one—is a fine time to keep this thing we call "credit" in mind and a good time to renew your determination to protect it and keep it good. After all, in rain or shine, in bad times or good, in sickness or health, credit is your greatest asset and your best protection. A wise man keeps his credit good because he knows that in an emergency his credit will keep him.

After all, the best way in the world to cure the itch for money is to scratch it.

A child taught good manners at home needs no book of etiquette when it grows up.

Divorce is like war. It seems wicked and inexcusable if you don't need it.

But, alas, if they can't buy from us in time of war, they must establish other sources of supply in time of peace.

Five thousand years of cultural development, resulting in a civilization that honors the man who can jump fartherest.

How painless and exciting the business of paying taxes would be if the government had tact enough to call it a numbers game.

JUST HUMANS

BE ON YOUR GUARD

Quite a few weeks remain before old King Winter packs up his kit and begins his return to Polar regions, and quite a few things can happen in the interval. One thing especially that can happen, and a thing every Fultonian must still guard against is death through that greatest menace to winter mooring—carbon monoxide gas. Warnings against it have already been sounded in these columns earlier in the winter season, but it is still so great a hazard to human life that space can well be afforded to it now. Pick up a daily paper and you will realize from the frequency of deaths recorded the danger in starting a car in a closed garage on a cold day. This year the toll of death from this cause will run into the thousands, and yet there is no occasion for it. Just keep constantly in mind that you are safe so long as doors and windows of garage are open when you start the motor in cold weather. Otherwise your name, too, may yet be added to this year's casualty list.

Most girls like to see a man smoke a pipe until they are married to a pipe smoker and have to help him remember where he laid it.

When the average Fulton man is out in town he is interested in how a woman's clothes look, but when he's at home he's only interested in what they cost.

Where the Tax Burdens Fall

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Current reports from Washington again quote Congressional leaders as favoring a brake on the rising toll of taxes.

Despite earlier disappointments, the American people will hope eagerly that, this time, the promises are translated into action.

Why? Because, as recent events emphasize, high taxes are clipped out of every worker's earnings, in the form of higher costs of living.

And for this indirect levy on the average citizen's pocketbook they give little in return.

Heavy taxes raise the rent of homes—but they add neither room nor comfort.

Heavy taxes jump the price of land—but they add nothing to the crops it can grow.

Heavy taxes boost the costs of fuel—but they add nothing to the amount of heat or power it produces.

Heavy taxes inflate the price of food—but they add nothing to its nutritive values.

Heavy taxes increase the cost and upkeep of equipment—whether on the farm, or in the home or factory. But they add nothing to the work it can perform.

Wherever applied, heavy taxes take much and contribute little. However disguised, they are still produced in "the sweat of the man who labors."

All citizens realize that a reasonable volume of tax income is necessary to the proper functioning of government. But they also realize that wages raised to unreasonable heights, taxes become not so much a necessity as a burden.

They ask their elected representatives in Congress to realize this too—and to act upon that knowledge.

SOUTHERN BELL telephone employees are constantly training to keep pace with a changing business. They work individually, yet as cooperative parts of an organization, knit together by loyalty to the service. In these respects they are like a vast army, an army for public service.

Their ranks numbered some 20,500 men and women at the end of 1937, growing by 1,600 over 1936. Their payroll was four million dollars higher than for the previous year, reaching close to $26,000,000, most of which was spent in their home communities.

During the year, this army not only maintained the telephone "plant" for you use, but constructed over $27,500,000 worth of new facilities to meet the increased demand for service. At the end of the year, there was about $235 invested in your telephone "plant" per telephone.

An average of 8.6 local calls per day per telephone were handled in 1937, or nine million calls a day. In addition, some 43,500,000 toll and long distance calls were completed in 1937.

A gain in telephones in 1937 brought the Southern Bell Company's total to 1,080,000 by the end of the year.

Taxes increased by about $575,000, amounting to $7,900,000 paid to Federal, State, County and Municipal governments in 1937.

Important figures, these. But more important to telephone users is the army for service, whose sole aim is to give the "most telephone service and the best, at the lowest possible cost consistent with the financial safety of the business."

ON THE SMELL OF BOOKS

Much has been made of the contents of books, but I cannot recall having ever seen any discussion of their odor. Emerson says something about the odor of good needs. This is rather far-fetched as a figure of speech, but the smell of books,
a sort of distinctive one for every book, is a matter of common experience. You practical minded ones will hasten to tell me that this odor arises from the kind of ink used, the paper itself, or the musty places where the book has been stored. I suppose you are right, but I just must believe that some of the odor comes from the contents of the book itself. If there is an odor of sanctity, why not an odor of literature, or religion, or even politics (God save the mark)?

Our old family bible has an odor
all its own. When I used to look at its pictures, which I thought to be photographs, I noticed the odor
and unconsciously associated it with some of the rather lurid pictures of Hell. Even today, when I accidentally encounter a book with a smell like that, I find myself reviewing such scenes as Abraham's sacrifice of Isaac, Adam and Eve's flight from Eden, with a very kind faced angel in pursuit, or of the last Judgement. This last picture is especially vivid. A rather wily old fellow is inviting a group of people wading a river to come in his den, from which smoke, apparently not from cookery, is issuing. Especially did I associate the smell of that picture with the smell of smoke.
Many times since childhood I have smelled burning flesh, horseflesh, chiefly, and it has always reminded me of that old half-tone plate
in the family bible.

One day our teacher brought to the little country school house

a copy of Shakespeare's complete works. My, how that odor mystified us! I heard the teacher say strange words about somebody named Shylock and somebody else called Hamlet, but I remembered the odor of the book better than the names and still associate Hamlet's spectacular career and Shylock's pound of flesh with that old book and its smell.

In the bureau drawer we kept a package of old letters. Letters used to mean so much more than they do now that families rather prided themselves on the number and the age of the letters on hand.
On sacred occasions some of them were brought out and read, painfully for the writing with a quill pen was probably none too plain to start with, and the years had faded the ink, too. What they were about at our house I cannot remember,
but I know that there was a smell about these old letters that many years cannot destroy in memory.

Recently I re-read my dog-eared copy of Thoreau's WALDEN, a copy that I owned when I lived in the country near old Fidelity. This experience took me on many an excursion into my boyhood, for the odor that I first detected in that book when it came through the mail is still there. Besides, from numerous trips to the woods with me it had acquired the smell of fallen leaves and moss and spice-wood and numerous flowers that were pressed in it. And a lot of invisible things got mixed up with the little old volume, so that a whiff of its distinctive odor brings back trees, landscapes, hills, streams and all my boyhood. You probably would say the books smell musty,
and you would probably be right;
but you do not have my memories.

slowly for 2 hours. Remove ham bone, press the rest through a puree sieve, and return to soup kettle. Blend butter and flour, moisten with some of the soup and add to the soup kettle. Stir until smooth.
Serve in cream soup dishes with a sprinkling of parsley on top.

Kitchen Kinks

Place cookies about two inches apart on the baking sheet and it will allow plenty of room for spreading. . . . Try spiced peach halves under a veal loaf to add a new and different flavor. . . . A pinch of salt added to egg whites

before they are beaten helps stiffen them.

Quick Cleaner

Try using now as a quick cleaner for heavy garments, for felt hats and even rugs. It is best to choose a day when it is not too cold. Take the garments, one at a time, outside and give them a good rubbing
in a bank of clean snow; brush off
bits of lint or snow that remains,
then press and you will be surprised at the results.

4-H Club Work

Plans have just been completed for what looks like one of the biggest years in club work the county has experienced. Community clubs have been organized and directors of the Farm Bureau have agreed to furnish prize money for a show next fall for both the boys and girls. Plans have also been made to have a show and sale of fat pigs and beef calves for those members who wish to sell their animals. A show will be held for the members who are raising pure bred hogs and dairy heifers.

Now that we have the assurance of a show some real fun can be had in seeing who can produce the best club work between now and August or September.

Sheep

Lambs are now beginning to be dropped and if not docked and trimmed before they are over two weeks of age, may not recover as quickly.

Grain given to ewes and lambs now will pay big returns.

Hybrid Seed Corn

Utopia club boys are able to sell corn for ten times the value of feed corn. Yopp Seed Company has just purchased 20 bushels of corn.

Agricultural Conservation Program
Next week a survey will be made by members of the community committees in an effort to determine the land use on farms that were not in the Agricultural Conservation program this year. It is hoped that the farmers will give the information when members of the committee visit their farms, even though you have not been in the program. The reason for this survey is to get information on the total acreage of different crops that are given in the county, in order that the acreage allotted them for different crops in 1938 will be in line with the normal planting. The co-operation of the farmers will be greatly appreciated and the figures will only be used for the above mentioned purpose, therefore it is hoped that information will be given when visited by the committeemen.

FARMERS RECEIVE POULTRY DIVIDENDS

For the past five years Swift's Hatchery here has been doing intensive breeding work with poultry in the Fulton territory. Amazing results have been accomplished. In talking to the local management it was found that quite a few of their hatchery flocks of different breeds are now producing as high as 80 percent winter production over an extended period of time. Wing banded, R. O. P. cockerels are now in use in some of the key hatchery flocks that have reached the ultimate in production obtainable by careful breeding without aid of trap nests. Swift & Company is making steady efforts to improve the poultry industry in this territory. They urge all farmers to take advantage of their free field service. Trained, practical field men are always at your service to advise you on all poultry problems.

SPARKS of WISDOM

Six public officials have been shot in Russia for wasting tax money. It might be a good idea for all American papers to copy this item and run it in a prominent place.

There were more auto accidents but fewer fatalities in 1937. Maybe the pedestrians are getting tougher.

Allies are nations that may or may not stand by you through troubles that you wouldn't have if you had no allies.

If a Fulton man's conscience bothered him as much as a bunion or an aching tooth his reformation would startle the community.

The government has reduced stock market margins, which is a good deal like throwing a life preserver to a swimmer after he has disappeared.

Two wrongs never make a right, but you can't sell that brand of arithmetic to the average Fulton citizen.

An optimist is a Fulton man who thinks he'll feel better next week, pay up all his debts next month and begin getting rich next year.

A Kansas man has had removed from his ear a bug that got in it 40 years ago. Little things like that can become aggravating after awhile.

The age of discretion is that time of life when you would know how to live if you hadn't finished living.

Most Fulton citizens can remember when Sunday was a day of rest, but now they have to spend a part of the other six resting up from Sunday.

Another advantage of the radio is it enables you to listen to some scalawag you'd be ashamed to listen to in public.

While the younger generation may not be going to the dogs it is, nevertheless, a bone of contention.

When a Fulton man's son develops dishonesty it's hard to make the neighbors believe that he didn't come by it honestly.

Our idea of a "horrible example" is the man who runs into debt trying to keep up with his neighbors.
