NUMBER TWO.

WATER TANK URGED FOR CITY OF FULTON

Fulton citizens and taxpayers are facing a problem of revamping the present water works, and changing from steam power to electric power to pump and distribute water through the mains to the consumers. The old plant which has been in operation here for many years is said to be breaking down, with a neutral ascendancy in cost of operation and repair, so the city council has its hands full in providing plans and means by which these improvements may be made. An engineer's report estimates that it will cost $18,000 to erect a water tower. But, on the other hand, with the improved system, it is said that pumping costs can be reduced $4,214 a year, and that insurance rates will scale downward.

Members of the Fulton City Council and directors of the Chamber of Commerce met jointly in special session Monday night to discuss plans for the erection of an overhead tank for the water works plant here, at an estimated cost of $18,000.

Two diesel engines are now being installed at the water works to replace an obsolete steam plant and to provide electric power for pumping water and lighting the downtown area. In connection with the new factory here, it was pointed out that an overhead tank will have to be erected at an estimated cost of $4,000, and that if this city can arrange for this equipment it not only will fill this need, but will provide definite savings to the people of the community, for with such a system the insurance rates can be lowered to bring about approximately $50,000 savings in insurance premiums. The overhead tank set-up meets the approval of the Fire Underwriters who stipulate the insurance rates according to safety and prevention features available in a community.

Councilman Lowe spread before the meeting an engineer's report on the water works and its operation, which set out many pertinent facts pertaining to the requirements and approximate cost of erection of the overhead tank system. This report made in 1936 stated:

"Since 1927, when the first test was conducted on the pumping equipment, there has been a gradual increase in the amount of water pumped. In 1927 the average pumpage was 925,000 gallons per day. Recent checks indicate this consumption has increased to an average daily pumpage approximating 1,100,000 gallons. Among other things, the audit of the city books shows that operating costs of the present steam plant have risen from $5,205.89 in 1933 to $7,661.77 in 1934, and proportionately in the following years."

Book records show that the present pumping costs are $11,600, while the estimated costs under electric operation with an overhead tank would be $7,386.00, which would give a savings of $4,214.00 over the present steam pumping system. As the governing body of the city is interested in the effect any changes in the water system might have on future benefits to the citizens in insurance rates, facts pertaining to the report were worked out very closely with the Kentucky Actural Bureau.

The report made in 1936, proposed that the installation of either a 150,000 or 250,000 gallon elevated storage tank at the high point in western part of Fulton, near Fourth and Pearl streets, on a 100 foot lubricated tower, which normally should provide 4 to 6 hours supply to the entire system.

EAGLES TO JOIN FARM OF VOLS-DODGERS

Following several weeks of effort on the part of the directors of the Fulton Baseball Association, an agreement has been reached with the Nashville Vols and the Brooklyn Dodgers, who will use Fulton as a farm for players during the coming season. H. H. Bugg, treasurer of the local association stated this week. At a meeting of the directors held here Tuesday, Ray Clonts, catcher, who has been with the Eagles here for the last two seasons will act as manager of the team this year.

This will be the best season the Kitty League has enjoyed, Jimmie Hamilton, who has charge of all the farms of the Dodgers and Vols, said recently. The outlook for the 1938 season is very bright, with all clubs of the loop well organized and ready to put up a stiff pennant battle.

Father Of Union City Man Killed In Crash

Harry Grove, father of Paul Grove of Union City, the wife of the younger Grove is near death, and a third critically injured, as a result of a crash between two trucks near Dyersburg Monday night.

The dead man, Harry Grove, was knocked from the truck and killed instantly. Mrs. Grove suffered a brain concussion and two broken legs above the knees. Reeves, driver of the other truck, who was standing beside his truck parked on highway, escaped uninjured.

Holland Roberts of near Union City, driver of a county highway truck, narrowly escaped drowning early Monday when his truck skidded into the Obion river on Turnpike levee and overturned. Mr. Roberts was able to open the door and crawl from the sinking truck before he was submerged. He walked half a mile to a nearby farm house. His clothing froze to his body in the bitter cold weather.

Ollie Nichols, age 57, a prominent resident of Union City was killed Monday morning when his automobile collided with the M. & O. passenger train at the crossing on the Martin-Union City highway. The impact of the collision hurled Mr. Nichols car from the highway. A railroad crossing warning sign had been struck and broken at the ground and a huge telegraph pole was broken off at its base.

Officers believed that the sun shining through a frosted windshield might have blinded Mr. Nichols so that he did not see the approaching train.

Four persons narrowly escaped death Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided with a bus at Rudds Crossing, about five miles south of Martin. Occupants of the car were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gardner, all of the Public Wells Community.

Mrs. W. B. Gardner was the most seriously injured and was taken to the Weakley County Hospital at Martin. She suffered cuts and injuries about the head. Her son, Russell, suffered serious injuries about the hip and back. W. B. Gardner and Mrs. Russell Gardner were only bruised.

Mrs. J. D. Holesonburg will spend the week end in Memphis visiting her sister and attending the opera at the Auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murphy, Jr., moved Tuesday from 304 Carr-st. to the Lamb apartments.

Mrs. Hubert Bennett is in Obion County, where she was called by the death of her brother, Ollie Nichols.

SOUTH FULTON SPLITS TWIN BILL WITH DIXIE

South Fulton and Dixie divided honors in a double header here Tuesday night. The Dixie girls, last year's county and district champions invaded the local court with the odds in their favor, and defeated the Angels 66 to 28, with Brown and Neely bagging 23 points each. The South Fulton girls fought brilliantly to check the onslaught, and slowed down the scoring of the Dixie aggregation in the third quarter, making 11 points while the visitors tallied 18. Bell and Hastings sunk 14 and 12 respectively, but were unable to overcome the clever guarding of Campbell and Roberts and centerfire shooting of Brown and Neely.

In the boys' game, the South Fulton Red Devils continued their long string of victories by turning the Dixie quintet back with a score of 39 to 19. The southside team held the visitors scoreless in the first quarter, while they ringed 11 points. Dixie tallied five points in both the second and third periods, and held South Fulton to 8 and 7. But in the final South Fulton played stronger, sinking 13 points as Dixie added up 9. Jolley and Omar led the scoring for the Red Devils.

South Fulton basketballers journeyed to Obion last Friday night, where the Angels and the Red Devils won a doubleheader. The boys won their game 44-33, while the girls defeated Obion 55-10. Both games were easy victories for the South Fulton squads, and demonstrated once more that the local teams are striving to establish themselves as champions of Obion County.

REV. FULLER SPAKS OVER STATION WPAD

Rev. Woodrow Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, used as his subject, "Opening Our Understanding," in a talk over station WPAD at Paducah, Wednesday morning, during the Baptist Hour which is conducted over this station each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Taking his text from Luke 24:45, Rev. Fuller quoted: "Then opened he their understanding that they might understand the Scriptures." He explained that first, we need to clearly understand that all men are lost; to understand that Christ is the only Savior; and to understand our responsibility as a Christian to send out this message. A quartet from the church choir, composed of Clarence Bailey, Donald Hall, Leon Hutchens and Hugh Rushton, with Miss Ivora Cantrell accompanist, rendered several numbers during the program.

FRANKLIN'S ROBBED TUESDAY MORNING

Franklin's Quality Shop was robbed again early Tuesday morning after a thief had hurled a rock through the shop window. Five overcoats, five hats, trousers and other merchandise, valued at $150 were stolen. This robbery was the latest episode in a series of crimes occurring here since December 17, and was the second for the Franklin shop.

Several weeks ago Ernest Hatten, 26, colored, was arrested at Memphis and was jailed at Hickman after confessing to the crimes. But while awaiting the action of the January term of court he broke jail by knocking his keeper in the head and has not been apprehended. Police, who have reports that he is in this vicinity, believe that this negro broke into the Franklin Shop but have been unable to catch the burglar yet.

Bulldogs Lose To Clinton Cagers 25-24

Tuesday night the Fulton Bulldogs journeyed to Clinton, where they battled a dangerously close game only to lose 25-24. From the starting whistle to the final gun, it was a furiously fought tilt. The first quarter ended 7-7, the half still found the game tied 9-9. In the third quarter, Clinton managed to gain a four point lead, but the Bulldogs rallied as Allison and Thomas staged a scoring spurt.

In the game between the cub teams, the Fulton Pups lost 16-14, to give Clinton both ends of a doubleheader. However, both games were unusually exciting, and were decided in the last minute of play.

JIM WEAVER JOINS ST. LOUIS BROWNS

Jim Weaver, whose impressive height of feet 6 inches and 230 pound displacement ranks him as one of the biggest pitchers in major league service, will be back with the St. Louis Browns this year. He was purchased from the Pittsburgh Pirates last week. This is Weaver's second term under the Browns' standard. His return is just about as surprising as was his release in 1934. With the Browns only a few weeks that season, he appeared in five games and was credited with two victories without a defeat. However, to retain him the Browns had to hand over $12,500 more to Newark of the International League on a certain date, so they turned him back to Newark. But no sooner done than the Chicago Cubs grabbed him for the remainder of the 1934 season.

Weaver is a product of Fulton, Ky., and now a resident of Covington. He was 31 years old last November 25. His professional pitching career dates back to 1928, and that, incidentally, is the only season during his career in which he did not compile a won and lost record above the .500 mark. He was with Chattanooga in the Southern League in 1928, moved to the Senators late in the season. The next year he was with New Haven in the Eastern League, finishing up that summer at Baltimore. Pitching for Baltimore in the International League in 1930 Weaver won 19 and lost 11. The Yankees grabbed him for 1931, but sent him back to Baltimore later in the year.

In 1932 with Newark of the International League, Weaver had 15 victories and six defeats. Then when he won 25 games and lost only 11 for Newark in 1933, the Browns bought an option on him, only to let him go early in 1934. Since then he has been with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Weaver's American League record of games is four won and one lost; his National, 47 won and 30 lost. His total record, major and minor, is 130 won and 77 lost, but since that first poor season of 1928 he has won 127 and lost 65.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, February 6th.

This includes Christian Science Society, Fulton, which holds regular services Sunday at 11 A. M. and Testimonial Meeting Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and to visit the Reading Room where The Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh." (Galatians 5:16).

Favorable Poultry Season Indicated

A favorable season for Kentucky poultry raisers is indicated by current conditions affecting the industry, declares E. A. Johnson of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Feed cost are lower than a year ago and no marked changes in feed prices are expected during 1938. Prices for both eggs and poultry are favorable as compared to feed costs. These factors make for larger returns from poultry flocks and will encourage farmers to enlarge their poultry raising during the year.

Most important development during the past few weeks was the large sale of storage eggs. This helped the egg situation by clearing the way for the fresh eggs now coming to market. Egg prices are now about the same as a year ago and it is generally believed that prices during the next few months will hold close to last year's level. Egg production is lighter than a year ago in almost every section of the country and receipts are small at the leading markets.

The number of hens on farms is nearly 10 percent less than at this time last year and it is the smallest in many years. Egg production per hen was the highest on record for January 1, but total production was less than last year because of the smaller number of layers. With fewer hens on farms and a favorable ratio between feed prices and egg prices, it is likely that hatchings will be increased this year and that the number of hens will be larger next year. This would bring lower egg prices as well as lower prices for poultry at that time.

Other favorable developments include a strong demand for turkeys and other poultry, small cold storage holdings of frozen poultry and small supplies of other meat. Some improvement in business conditions from present levels is expected and this would give additional support to the demand for eggs and poultry.

UNMARRIED WOMEN HAVE HARDEST JOBS SAYS MARJORIE HILLIS

"I take my hat off to single women," writes Marjorie Hillis in this month's Woman's Day magazine. "No," answers Pera Connolly in the same issue, "the married woman has the harder job."

It all started in the editorial staff rooms a month ago. Exactly, one-half of the women on the magazine staff are married—the other half single. Words began to fly, at first good-natured jibes, but soon heated arguments.

"We'll settle it in public," said Mrs. Haydie Yates. She promptly engaged Marjorie Hillis, of "Live Alone and Like It" fame, and Vera Connolly, long champion of the married woman, to represent the two sides—on two facing pages of the February issue.

Suggest Farmers Raise Work Stock

The suggestion that farmers consider raising mules and work horses instead of buying them is made by Prof. W. S. Anderson in a new circular "Workstock" published by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Farmers are buying horses shipped in from other states, he says, "a practice which seems unwise when it is evident that horses of a more excellent quality can be produced on Kentucky farms for less cost than is being paid for the imported ones."

He points out that the number of horses and mules on Kentucky farms dropped from 675,000 in 1920 to 450,000 in 1937. This means that there now are less than two head of workstock per farm. While there has been increased breeding in the last two years, not enough foals are being produced to replace loss by death and other causes.

Prof. Anderson's circular, which can be had from county agents or by writing to the college, deals with all phases of raising horses and mules on the farm, including the kind of mares to use, care and handling of stallions and jack stock feeding horses and mules, and concludes with questions which the Experiment Station receives about the breeding, handling, breaking and feeding of workstock.

THE GROUNDHOG

Despite his natural modesty and dislike for publicity, the groundhog always manages to come in for his share of it along about this time of every year. Once more he is again furnishing the topic for a good many conversations among citizens around Fulton. No one openly admits with any degree of seriousness that he has any faith in His Hogship as a weather forecaster. And yet they always manage to call him to mind along about the second of every February.

This year the groundhog is not alone in coming forth with a prediction for the remainder of winter, and the fact that he has an expert competitor adds interest to the event. Now comes Prof. Selby Maxwell, noted Chicago weather shark, with a prediction covering the balance of the year—and an offer to bet that he hits it 80 percent correctly. In view of the fact that Maxwell, who bases all his forecasts on the moon, has made some startling long-distance forecasts in recent years what he has to say now is worth listening to. So try to forget your old friend the groundhog for a moment and listen to these words from the Chicago expert:

"There will be no serious floods in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in 1938. June rains will relieve unfavorable growing conditions in southern Canada. The dust-bowl and middle-western states also will receive beneficial rains, but farmers all over the nation must be careful to conserve as much of the moisture as possible. The balance of February will be cold, with heaviest precipitation in Texas and the dust-bowl, and snow over the Atlantic states."

IT'S ALL WRONG

There may have been times when American business completely dominated the policies of the American government. And that, of course, was wrong. But when things are reversed, and we find business and government at loggerheads and lined up in battle array, it is not only just as wrong but a bad thing for the whole country. Every fair-minded Fulton citizen will have to subscribe to that, regardless of his political beliefs or affiliations.

Neither our economic society nor our political society should dominate the other. Such a situation is not fair in the first place, and it cannot make for success and prosperity. It is only when these two powerful forces co-operate in harmony that we progress. Business and government should become reconciled and keep that way. There is nothing inherently wrong with our capitalistic system. It is the foundation on which we have built the might of America. Where in the world today is there a better system? Where are there people better off, or as well off, as we are here in America.

There is nothing better in the world than the American system of government, no people who even approach the American standard of living. This being the case, why not continue the system under which we have grown great, and under which we live so well. Let us correct its errors, iron out its injustices and its inequalities, and add to it any improvements that are absolutely sound and good for the whole people. The best way to do this is by the whole-hearted co-operation of everybody concerned, regardless of political beliefs. Continued quarrelling isn't doing isn't going to get us anywhere—except into deeper trouble.

COST OF STRIKES

If the average Fulton citizen realized what strikes cost him in actual dollars and cents he'd probably want every "sit-downer" taken out and hung. Ernest Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corp., says the cost of strikes has risen in this country from $375,000,000 in 1936 to $5,000,000,000 in 1937. Those figures are probably far too high, but if they were cut in half it still would leave a sad picture. The cost of strikes affect everybody in the country, though the price paid by the working people is the heaviest. And any system which permits such waste and such losses is not a good system. Need of greater co-operation between capital and labor was never before as great as now. If our present system won't permit of such co-operation, then let's get busy and devise one that will. This is the challenge to industry, labor and government alike, and a challenge that the American people would like to have answered during the year now well started on its way.

THE "PERFECT" AUTO

Prophecy is always risky especially when it prophesies perfection. Many auto makers thought their cars were perfect 25 years ago. Away back in 1912 John N. Willys said: "Never will the auto be better made than it is today. Motor cars are as near perfect as mechanical genius, human brains and automatic machinery can make them. They will never be made any better because better wood will not grow, because the earth will never yield up better ores, because cattle will not produce better hide for upholstery, and because human brains and energy will never be at a higher development than now." Now if you want the answer to Mr. Willys' prophecy of 1912, just run a car of that model up alongside one of the 1938 models and compare them point by point. And yet, any Fulton motorist who thinks these beautiful new 1938 models are "perfect," will be wise to remain from boasting. Someone might reserve his words and make another comparison 25 years from now.

AN EVEN BREAK

We're tired to a good many rural residents and we've reached one conclusion that the main reason why a man or woman buys from a mail-order catalogue is because somebody was enterprising enough to send them the catalogue. In running through it they discovered something they would like to have, and since the price suits them, they sit down and order it, without ever thinking that the same thing can be secured right here at home, at just as fair a price, and with a saving in time. So we have also come to believe that the old idea of fighting fire with fire is a good one—that the only way home merchants can hope to hold home trade is to meet the catalogue man half way—to put his message into the same homes the catalogue is going into. There is one way it can be done—one way you can get your message into the home and keep it there. That is through your home-town paper. You are entitled to an even break with the catalogue man—the columns of your home-town paper will provide you with it.

A half-million acorns were planted on Oklahoma farms the past year.

There is hope for every man around Fulton except the ones who think they know all there is to be known about raising chickens.

USE OF SCRUB SIRES LOWERS FARM INCOME

Were farmers on the 224,157 Tennessee farms reported as owning cattle to use only purebred registered bulls, of approved type, they would receive about $7,453,543 more in increased value of cattle produced than is now being received, states L. A. Richardson, U-T Extension Livestock Specialist.

There are now 677,595 cows and heifers of breeding age on Tennessee farms, according to the latest available information, and the average annual increased return would be $11.00 per calf if sired by a purebred bull of approved type, Mr. Richardson says.

During the depression, when cattle values were low, farmers neglected to keep up breeding efficiency. In one county a survey showed that farmers were using 86 bulls and that 36 of them carried a predominance of beef breeding. This same situation holds true in too many counties of the state.

Of 2,000 farms in 36 states enrolled in a "Better Sire, Better Stock Campaign" an average of 48 percent increase in financial returns were reported traceable to the use of purebred sires. In Illinois a total of 673 farms were inventoried. On 124 of these farms a purebred registered bull was used. Grade bulls were used on 466 farms and the annual return per farm was $734. Scrub bulls were in service on 83 farms and the farm income amounted to $368.

A few years ago at the Tennessee Experiment Station steers classed as very good in conformation made an average daily gain of 1.76 lbs. Those classed as good feeders gained 1.60 pounds daily and those of medium to poor conformation gained only 1.37 pounds daily.

While good beef type bulls are plentiful and at values which farmers can afford no time should be lost in a community in getting one. Cattle number are now regarded at the bottom of the cycle. As cattlemen increase these numbers it should be with improved breeding through the use of better sires, Mr. Richardson advises.

Bronchial Coughs

Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm. The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed, and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. ADV

Planting The Garden

An annual event that always brought much joy to the smaller farm children was the planting of the garden. After the boys grew up and could work in the fields, gardening was regarded as sissy. How romantic seemed the very soil as it was turned over after its long winter rest! The plowing, the making of ridges, the opening of the small furrows for the seeds, and the dropping of the seeds themselves became a species of poetry, common but mysterious and mystical. I always liked to observe the various forms and sizes of seeds. It was hard to keep me from opening the packages before planting time, for I was eager to see and feel these potential little bodies that produced accurately "after their kind."

From the earliest planting to the latest several weeks intervened. Lettuce, cabbage, and mustard could be sown on the tobacco plant-bed, and peas, potatoes, beets and radishes could soon follow in the open garden. But tender things like beans had to wait until danger of frost was over. Good Friday was our neighborhood's official day to plant beans. The late summer, after all the spring garden had been used up, was the time to plant mustard, winter and summer turnips, and sometimes other vegetables. One old man of my acquaintance set July 26, rain or shine, for the day to plant turnips.

Poetic as all of this is, there is another side quite as poetic, the folk side. Nearly every vegetable was planted according to some folk rule or custom. Potatoes and root crops should be planted in the dark of the moon; vegetables that grow above the ground are light-of-the-moon plants. Corn, however, grows a stalk according to the time of its planting: heavy and short is planted in the dark of the moon; slender and all in the light of the moon. If any one gives you vegetable or flower seeds, do not thank the giver; to do so will prevent the seeds from doing well. When you get ready to plant pepper, be sure to get thoroughly angry if you want the pepper to be hot. (Parenthetically, it was usually easy enough to get up a little temper when the burden of planting the garden fell on the heel, or heads, of the household.) It is not advisable to plant watermelons and pumpkins near each other, for the bitter taste of the pumpkins will invade the sweet of the watermelons. Lettuce grown on a plantbed will taste like tobacco. Plenty of it does so, anyway. The odd-shaped grains of corn at the stem will produce odd grains and should not be allowed in the seed corn. Similarly, the smaller grains at the end of the ear will produce small grains. Only the regular grains in the middle are to be planted.

It would be a great study for some one if he would test all these strange beliefs, some of which are evident superstitions, others with a grain of truth. Good Friday as a time to plant tender things is not so bad, for there is seldom much severe weather after that day. Like signs of rain, all garden signs fail sometimes, but that does not render them invalid to most people. One weather prophet of our time said acid it never rained at night in July. There is enough truth in this to prevent most people from testing it, for summer rains are usually afternoon showers. However, some of the hardest rains I have ever recorded on July nights, even in the neighborhood where the wiseacre lived. Probably the gardeners do not want to be convinced and would rather attribute success or failure to the light or dark of the moon.

A board of directors was also named as follows: Mrs. V. C. Adams, McKenzie; Mrs. R. B. Priestley, Greenfield; Elmer Berryhill, McKenzie; Hilliard Poynter Martin; M. E. Chandler, R. L. McNatt, G. W. Gibbs, Z. R. Shanklin, Robert Simmons, Carmon Speight, L. E. McElroy, J. C. Galey and L. L. Olds.

At the annual meeting of the Graves County Farm Bureau in Mayfield Monday, Joe L. Payne was re-elected president, Ed C. Ray, vice-president and H. C. Spillman, treasurer. The directors of the farm organization are: V. G. Cavender, P. B. McNeely, Frank Adams, J. J. Turnbow, W. H. Cash, Hart L. Smith, B. B. Mason, W. H. Mack, and Charles Schmidt. The directors will select the secretary of the bureau. Cecil Alderice is the present secretary.

There is a fortune awaiting the Fulton man who will invent a device for making both ends meet.

Being a husband is like any other job—it makes it a lot easier if you learn to like your boss.

It would surprise some Fulton wives to be kissed as much as it would some of our modern girls not to be.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

A meeting for farmers who are interested in sheep production should remember that R. C. Miller, sheep specialist from the Agricultural Experiment Station will be at Cayce school building Thursday February 10 at 1:30 P. M. Now is the time of the year that sheep troubles usually begin and the discussion of production problems at this time should prove helpful.

Sheep should be given some green feed if possible at this time in addition to all of the legume hay they will eat and a grain mixture of one part corn, one part bran or oats when fed at the rate of one-fourth of one-half pound daily will make larger lambs and also increase the amount of milk the ewe will produce.

Lambs will soon begin to eat grain if placed in a trough where the old sheep cannot get to it, and a mixture of six parts corn, four parts oats or bran, when given to the lambs according to what they will eat.

Early lambs that are standardized and fat and placed on the market during the last of May and early in June usually bring the best price.

BUSINESS DECLARED ON 'COME-BACK'

Evidences of improvement in the country's retail trade picture were to be found in the Department of Commerce's reports from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District office, although those manifestations of better conditions were no very pronounced. Offsetting them, came a continuation of the unfavorable tabulations made in a number of important centers. In view of the generally downward trend of retail sales in recent weeks, however, there is food for comfort in the fact that the majority of reporting cities his week were able to say that trade was on the mend.

Louisville reported that although buying is improving, retail sales in Louisville are still under pre-flood figures of 1937. Furniture sales in December reported 60 per cent ahead of November but slightly under December 1936. Wholesale trade following retail figures.

Government Employment Service reported 427 placements last week, a gain of 29 per cent over preceding week.

Bank Clearings down 13 per cent compared with same week year ago.

New construction is picking up. PWA has approved 33 grade crossing elimination and street construction projects to cost $3,000,000, of which PWA's portion is $1,091,581.

POULTRY POINTERS

The poultry outlook is good for 1938. Feed has gone down considerably from last year's high prices, and though egg prices have gone down some as a result, they are still high enough to allow a reasonable profit from good production birds. The cost of raising a flock of chickens this year will be much less than it was last spring.

The number of birds in the laying flocks of the country is far below that of last year. This means higher meat prices which is already being evidenced. Heavy hens are now five or more cents higher than they were last year at this time.

Lastly, and the smallest cost of any in the raising of a flock of chickens, is the original cost of the baby chick, which is no higher than last year's price.

Those who know how to raise chickens and take the proper care of them, will find poultry a profitable business.

Dan Cupid Reports On Marriages, 1937

Marriages during the first part of January in the new year have been about on par with those during the same period last year, according to records at the office of the county court clerk of Fulton county Up to last Sunday sixteen weddings were reported. During 1936, October led with 37 weddings, with December runner-up having 35. September led in 1937 with 35, while October and December tied for second place with 34 each. In 1936, 261 marriage licenses were applied for, with 278 being reported during 1937.

Many of these licenses were issued to Tennessee couples.
