The Agricultural Outlook for Kentucky

General Conditions

The relative price of farm products has shown a downward trend since 1929, while the value of farm products has continued the downward trend started in 1928. These trends have been more pronounced in the case of manufacturers' products than in any year since 1921. The increased price in 1922 has been about 1,500 per cent, while the price in 1923 has increased 50 per cent more than in 1921.

In a time of deflation or falling prices as in 1923, the prices of raw materials, such as farm and industrial materials, will fall because they are raw materials. The value of manufactured products depends on the prices of raw materials, and if raw materials are falling in price, the value of manufactured products is not necessarily falling. If the price of raw materials begins to rise, the value of manufactured products begins to decline. This is what we mean by the behavior of the Federal Reserve Board when it says the price of manufactured products is falling.

Other factors are involved in the determination of the price of manufactured products, such as the price of labor, the price of energy, and the price of raw materials. These factors may affect the price of manufactured products in different ways, and the result may be affected by the price of raw materials.

The price of labor and the price of energy may be affected by the price of raw materials, and the price of manufactured products may be affected by the price of raw materials. However, the price of manufactured products is not necessarily affected by the price of raw materials. The price of manufactured products is affected by the price of raw materials, but the price of raw materials may not be affected by the price of manufactured products.

Guiding Your Children

Bad habits lead children astray. Good habits guide them solely into the path of character, uprightness and independence. You can start them right by teaching them to save money. Set them an example by saving yourself. Make them admire them.

Once started, the saving habit helps to form other good habits. It provides experience for them in handling their own funds.

This is the right direction but is a simple step. Bring children to the bank when you start them to school.
