Work On Swift Plant Started

Key-Langston Construction Co.
In Charge of Construction

One of the largest building projects of the new year in Fulton was started this week when the Key-Langston Construction Company, of Murray, started work on the Swift & Company building on State Line street.

The structure will be three stories high with more than 30,000 feet of floor space, built of brick and reinforced concrete.

It is estimated that one floor will take care of 15,000 chickens.

The Swift plant will be a big institution for Fulton and "Quality" products will be turned out only, maintaining the reputation enjoyed the world over by this gigantic concern.

FULTON'S PAVED STREETS COST AROUND $400,000

The Entire Paving Project Will Soon Be Completed, Says Supt. Roberts

With the opening of Spring Construction work and building activities begin to blossom in Fulton.

A large crew of laborers are at work in East Fulton on street paving, and Supt. Geo. R. Roberts says with favorable weather conditions he will complete the entire paving project within the next 60 or 90 days. Fulton will then have practically every street in the city, both business and resident sections, reinforced concrete. The cost of the entire paving of our streets will run around $400,000 but it is a good investment and well worth the price. When the project is completed we will have the best network of city streets in the state.

PAVE ALLEY IN REAR OF LAKE STREET

Now that we may boast of our paved streets, why not turn our paving activities in the direction of the alley or street in the rear of Lake street? Few thoroughfares in the city are used more than this one. Again, let us remind the merchants along this traffic avenue that we are on the eve of summer when back doors are opened to admit cooling fresh air and not dust clouds. Now is the opportune time to have this alley paved, while all the machinery is on the ground to do the work at small cost.

WORK ON NEW ICE PLANT PROGRESSING

W. M. Hill & Sons, Local Contractors on the Job

The building now under construction for the City Ice Company, corner Walnut and Plain streets, is progressing rapidly and Contractor Hill says he will complete the job within a short time.

The City Ice Company will equip their plant with modern machinery for turning out 17 tons daily and will be able to supply the demands of their trade within the next few weeks.

TOO MUCH DETAIL

A Chicago man collapsed and died in making his monthly rounds to collect interest from 35 different banks. Maybe Carnegie was right after all, when he said it was better to put all of your eggs in one basket and then watch that basket.

IMPROVEMENT RUMORS IN THE AIR

It is rumored in railroad circles that the biggest improvement program ever attempted in Fulton is outlined for the near future. What the improvements consist of we are unable to say at this time. No definite information is given out, but whisperings are heard here and there, leading us to believe a thrilling surprise awaits us in railroad improvements of a substantial nature.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY MAKING EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS AT CLINTON, KY.

J. P. Hicks, of Louisville, construction engineer for the Kentucky Utilities company, has arrived at Clinton with a corps of workmen and the actual work of constructing the structure which is to house a modern ice plant, has already begun.

The building is to be modern in every detail and will be practically fireproof. The ice factory will have a daily output capacity of fifteen tons.

In addition to these improvements, the K. U. Company will install an electrical switchboard system for the regulation and distribution of current in Clinton and new and additional pumping system and equipment for improved water service will be installed. An expenditure of $37,000 has been authorized for said improvements.

"THE DIAMOND MASTER" COMING AS THRILLER

Gripping Chapter Play For Weekly Showing at Orpheum Every Saturday

Of all the many types of photoplays turned out by Hollywood producers the greatest improvement in any field has been in that of the chapter play.

The latest chapter play to be offered to theatre goes is "The Diamond Master," the first chapter of which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre, Saturday. Heralded as the greatest serial ever produced, "The Diamond Master" will unquestionably set a new highwater mark in the chapter play field.

The featured players in this new serial are Louise Lorraine and Hayden Stevenson. Stevenson is well known for his work as the coach in the popular "Collegians" series.

Miss Lorraine needs little or no introduction to followers of serials. No stunt is too difficult and no scene too exacting for this clever and fearless young actress to attempt.

BEELERTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

On last Saturday night, Mar. 16, all the high school girls entered the declamation contest. Many excellent declamations were given. The judges chose the best three, which were: 1st, Pauline Davis; 2nd, Frances Byrns and 3rd, Hazel Latta. On account of bad roads there wasn't very many present, but we are hoping to have a larger crowd to our next program.

On last Friday night a play, entitled "Bonds on a String," was given here by the Palestine community. But as the weather was bad there were only a few present.

Our debaters and winners of the declamation contest are going to Murray this week end to attend the Interscholastic League District Tournament. We are sure this will mean a lot to each individual, for they will learn more about speaking and see what other schools are doing.

Howdy and So Long

All Former Sales Record Broken

ESSEX PLANS MONTH OF DEMONSTRATIONS, SAYS RALPH PENN

"Challenge Week" Success Over Entire Nation

So successful was Essex Challenge Week, March 4 to 11, that the Hudson Motor Car Company has decided to extend the program for a month, using the slogan "Essex Challenge Month," says Ralph Penn, Fulton dealer.

Record breaking performances from coast to coast, and from Canada to the Gulf marked Challenge Week. Speed in excess of 70 miles an hour was shown in every section of the country excepting where deep snow drifts completely blocked traffic.

Endurance tests revealed better than 60 miles an hour for 24 hours; hill climbing tests saw Essex annex cups offered for the speediest climbs up Mt. Baldy and Mt. Madonna. New records were established in both cases.

Brakeage tests showed that Essex the Challenger, could be brought to a stop from 50, 45, 30 and 25 miles an hour in almost half the distance required by the Underwriters' Bureau. Acceleration tests showed the car to be one of the flashiest performers. The outstanding achievement along this line showed Essex hitting 75 miles an hour from a standing start in 55 seconds. The average showed 45 miles an hour in 17 seconds from a standing start.

Gasoline mileage averaged 22 miles on the highways and 13 miles to a gallon in heavy traffic. A particularly noteworthy performance was reported from the Pacific Coast where a stock Essex sealed in high gear and with hood and radiator sealed, completed the round trip from San Francisco to the Mexican border, a distance of 3,490 miles, without changing oil or water. This trip, regarded as one of the most difficult ever accomplished, included 12 mountain ranges. The car, according to reports, could have gone several hundred more miles.

All of the tests were carried out under the supervision of newspaper men, police chiefs and safety heads and all interesting runs were checked by telegraph officials.

GREATER HUDSON, BEAUTIFUL CAR

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Coulter are enjoying the balmy breezes of Spring in their new Greater Hudson car. It's a beauty.

Some of the features that contribute materially to front compartment comfort is the fact that the forward and back adjustment of the seats acts on a linkage which automatically changes the cushion tilt in conformity with whatever lengthwise position may be chosen for the seat. Throughout the various body types windows and windshields are larger, giving improved vision, which is further emphasized by narrower corner posts. The windshield glass, set in chromium-plated frames, is shatterproof. Window glass is no longer held by springs, but by strips of live sponge rubber surrounding the glass on three sides. Doors are sealed by fabric-covered tube rubber. Other provisions for driving comfort include a new steering gear, entirely roller-bearing mounted; larger clutch and brake pedals; a new muffler that is said to be without back pressure, and a number of interior refinements too numerous to mention here.

ESSEX POPULAR CAR

After wearing out several cars, Dr. and Mrs. Seldon Cohn are now "breezing along" in a new Essex Challenger Town Sedan. It is a lovely car with grace and power.

Swayne Walker Is Dead

Passes Away in Memphis Following an Operation

As we go to press news reached Fulton that Swayne Walker, son of Col. C. L. Walker, one of the best known young men of Fulton county and ex-sheriff, died in Memphis Wednesday night following an operation.

Fulton friends sincerely regret to learn of Mr. Walker's untimely death and deeply sympathize with the bereaved.

ALABAMA AND FLORIDA SUFFER FROM FLOODS

Montgomery, Ala., March 20

Efforts were concentrated this week on aiding approximately 20,000 persons affected by flood waters in the south, which had caused 15 known deaths and property damage that was unestimated. Clear weather aided the rescue workers.

The 3,500 residents of Geneva were hastily removed to higher ground as the torrents poured down on Northwest Florida from Southern Alabama. These were established in temporary camps in the nearby towns of Samson, Hartford and Slocum, while the water in Geneva rose to a height of 20 feet.

Fifteen hundred persons had been rescued from Elba, farther north in Coffee County, which was suddenly inundated when the Pea River and White Water Creek went on rampages. These were taken first to cemetery Hill and later Gov. Bibb Graves announced they would be removed to Troy, where churches, schools and warehouses were made ready.

HICKMAN NOT WORRIED

Hickman, Ky., March 20

Hickman, "with business going on as usual," is preparing to take care of two or three more feet of water than during the height of the 1927 flood, on the city levee, Dorena levee, on the Missouri side opposite Hickman and Reelfoot levee, below Hickman, are all in good condition despite wave wash by high winds. The levees can withstand as much as 50 feet, four feet more than in 1927.

Seep water behind levees is not as much as anticipated, considering the height of water against the levees. About 35,000 acres of unprotected lands in Obion and Bayou de Chien bottoms above Hickman are flooded and back water is over the Fulton-Hickman highway for one mile or more.

The water is over Clinton street, in Hickman, unprotected by levees, and most of the stores on the north side of the street are flooded. These merchants have moved into stores on higher ground. No attempt is being made to scaffold goods as in former years.

In response to calls from W. L. Hampton, county judge of Fulton county, arrangements were made today by Adjutant General William H. Jones, Jr., for the immediate shipment of tents, cots and blankets to Hickman, Ky., in event they are needed to shelter flood refugees.

TOM AND TONY IN SMASHING NEW THRILL DRAMA

Tom Mix at Grand Theatre Friday and Saturday

Tom Mix and his cowboys in the attractive setting of the land of the Arabs on the edge of the great desert of North Africa, fighting bearded tribesmen in their flowing robes and turbans instead of outlaws of the western plains, is the novel presentation in the FBO feature, "King Cowboy," which is still on view at the Grand Theatre.

In this striking picture of action and suspense, bristling with attacks, captures and escapes, Mix portrays a role typical of his former screen successes—that of the leader of a band of cowboys who invade the country of the Riffs seeking to rescue an American ranch owner held captive by tribesmen. Their adventures are manifold and exciting, but in the end they fight their way to victory with the rescuee prisoner.

Sally Blane, noted screen beauty, has the leading role, posite the star as the daughter of the captive, who accompanies the expedition and has her own thrilling experiences, while Mix's famous horse, Tony, plays his part in the daring stunts of his owner. The picture was directed for FBO by Robert De Lacey and in the cast are included Barney Furey, Lew Meehan, Frank Leigh, Wynn Mace and Robert Fleming.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING NEARING COMPLETION

The new Christian Church building on Carr street is admired by all who see it. The finishing touches are now being given the interior and will soon be ready for occupancy. It is a handsome building and the interior decorations are beautiful.

W. M. Hill & Sons, local contractors, are to be congratulated on the artistic beauty given the finishing touches.

The architectural work could hardly be improved upon and is a masterpiece.

Coming to the Orpheum.

One of the most unusual film attractions will be shown at the Orpheum theatre for 2 days commencing March 28. It is entitled "Damaged Goods" a name familiar to thousands throughout this country. The new edition has become so popular that it is said it will break the record of its previous one. Fathers and mothers who profited by its lesson years ago demanded that this film be brought back.

Owing to the delicate scenes and boldness in treating this subject men and women can not be admitted together. Women only, with special reels, will be admitted on March 28, and men only, with special reels, on March 29. All children under the age of 16 will not be admitted. This picture is fully endorsed by the Health Department and those in the medical profession as a film that ought to do a great deal of good among the youth of today. Many clergymen, welfare workers and officers of women's clubs have sanctioned "Damaged Goods." It is 7 reels in length and stars Richard Bennett with a cast of well-known players.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The climax of the Fulton High basketball season will be reached next Friday and Saturday when the Interclass Basketball tournament will be held in the new Science Hall. Each team is confident of success and they are all putting on finishing touches in order to be ready for the big event.

Little W. I. Shupe of Carr Institute was with us in Chapel Monday morning. He gave a program of five readings which were all enjoyed. We welcome him back any time.

The preliminaries for the Murray Scholastic meet which will be held there March 22, and 23, will be held this week. Fulton high will have entries in oratory, debating, piano, girls' declamation, extemporaneous speaking, public discussion, voice (both boys and girls) and in English, mathematics and history. A large crowd is planning to go to Murray next week from Fulton. The winners of the contests at Murray will go to Lexington to represent this district in the state contests.

A thing of much interest has been added to the regular routine of the school. Each morning before classes are called, a student makes a report on the current events of interest to the world. In this way, every morning the students are well posted on the recent interesting happenings.

The paintings, "A Reading from Homer," by Alma Todena and "Aurora," by Rene, which were bought after the recent art exhibit which was held here, have arrived, and they are truly an addition to the High school. The Junior High school will receive "Harp of the Winds," and "Spring," by Sarat, Carr Institute bought "Blue Boy," by Gainsborough, "Age of Innocence," by Reynolds, "The Whistling Boy," by Duvenceck, and "Just Before Sunrise" by Carot. These paintings were bought to beautify the various public school buildings of Fulton and it is a splendid thing to let the school children of Fulton become well acquainted with these masterpieces of art.

Twenty-five Carter county farmers will sow Korean lespedeza this year, the first of this variety to be grown in the county. Seventy-five farmers sowed common lespedeza last year.

Mr. Collins has a good 4-acre orchard and six acres in strawberries on his 42-acre farm and is proud to report that the severe cold spell during February did not do as much damage to fruit as first thought for. In his orchard Alberta peaches suffered most. Quality fruit is the keynote of Mr. Collins' success and we may have something more to say about it later in the season.

Guiding Your Children

Bad habits lead children astray. Good habits guide them safely into the path of character, uprightness and independence.

You can start them right by teaching them to save money. Set them an example by saving yourself. Make them admire thrift.

Once started, the saving habit helps to form other good habits. It provides experience for them in handling their own funds.

This start in the right direction is but a simple step. Bring children to the bank when you start them to school.

The Matrimonial Flute

By AD SCHUSTER

TANBARK TOM stretched on the grass beside a creek listening to his partner play the flute.

"If I was you, Eli, I wouldn't be so proud of that there accomplishment. Maybe you never heard of what happened to Eli Nump, who was a friend of mine, and all because he up and played a flute?"

"I guess there's worse things than flute playing. Nobody ever got run in for it," Eli thrust out his jaw.

"No? Well, this here Eli got a life sentence, that's what, and for just playing the flute. Would you like to hear tell?"

Now this here Eli was a young fellow with a face of wandering here and there. Sometimes he was getting in the crops in Dakota and sometimes talking stuff on the wharves. Anyway he had a little town in Montana looking for a soft job and he got one.

Eli said he would stake him to a job and a little pay and all Eli would have to do was watch a flock of sheep. Eli thought of sitting around waiting for the sheep to eat their summer's food, calculating he might find some feeding and signed up. He took his flute and went up in the hills entirely surrounded by sheep.

Sometimes a job gets too soft and this one began to wear on Eli. But he was a kind-hearted fellow and couldn't bear to desert the sheep, so he took around playing his flute and thinking. "That for later he never did so much thinking in his life."

One night the moon came over the mountains all big and full and Eli sat up and discovered he was in love with the country. Something had come over him; he had been irritated and he didn't think any more. All he did was play his flute and let the time go by. He even sang a song. There were times when he thought of a girl back home.

One night he played a sort of love song on his flute, making it up as he went, and he was so interested in the effect he did not notice what was going on. When he did look up there was a big Indian buck motioning at him with his finger.

Eli took one gaze at the buck and followed. "What would a flute-playing sheepherder be doing trying to run away from a bird like this one? The Indian leads Eli into the circle of a campfire and gives him a shove and all the time Eli doesn't know whether he is to be eaten or just tortured. Then he sees a couple of shining lights which is the eyes of the Indian girl standing up straight in front of her wigwam and the girl is looking at Eli."

So does everybody else and they seem to be expecting something. The girl's eyes says, "How do you do?" and a lot of other things, and Eli, playing a bunch, walks up to her. When she held out her hand he took it and the Indians all begin to grunt. When the show was over Eli was left in on the secret that he and the Indian girl were married.

"But what has all that got to do with a life sentence for playing a flute?"

"Marriage is a life sentence, as I see it, and it was playing the flute, what was responsible. You see, that is the Indian way of courting, making music outside the camp."

The Dispute

Joseph F. Nicholson, the refrigerator man of Chicago, was talking in New York about a scientist's dispute.

"These two great scientists," he said, "have got angry and allowed personalities to creep in. Too bad, too bad, though it certainly makes the dispute more amusing at that."

"It reminds me of the fat conductor and the cranky passenger."

"Now, then?" the fat conductor asked, "you got to do one of three things and do it quick—show your ticket, pay your fare, or get off."

"Everybody in the car laughed, and the cranky passenger brought out his ticket. Then he tapped the conductor's big stomach with his knuckles and yelled back:

"And you've got to do one of three things quick, too—walk more, eat less, or lose it."

First Afro-American Art

The famous old wrought iron bar codes, grates and doorways of New England, now the delight of antique collectors, were the work of negro slaves. They brought the art with them from Africa. During the early days of that city, when there were no white craftsmen there, the slave craftsmen who worked at the iron took a hybrid collection of French and Spanish motifs and worked them into an art expression of their own. Although it was simpler than anything European, it was and still is a remarkable tribute to the craftsmanship of the slave smiths. Anyone who has visited the Gulf city is familiar with these simple but charmingly designed balconies, grilles, fireplaces, etc., wrought by slave labor without white direction.

Fascination of Words

Etymology, the science of words, teaches us that our symbols of speech are constantly growing, changing, reflecting history. In the development of the English language can be seen the influences of the Romans, Saxons, etc.

Lesson for March 24

STEWARDSHIP AND MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—ACTS 1:8-11; 11:1-3

GOLDEN TEXT—IT IS GOD'S WILL THAT A MAN BE SAVED BY FAITH.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Love Gifts for God

JUNIOR TOPIC—Love Gifts for God

INTERMEDIATE AND ADVANCED TOPIC—What It Is to Be a Christian Steward

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Self, Resources and Service

1. Witnessing for Christ (Acts 1:8-11)

This is the supreme obligation resting upon believers in this age. While we are not responsible for bringing in the kingdom, we are under solemn obligation to witness to the salvation which is graciously provided for all who believe in Jesus Christ.

1. The disciples' question (v. 8). They said, "Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" The phrase "this time" indicates their perplexity as to the time of the kingdom's establishment. They were entirely right in their expectation of the kingdom, for it had been predicted by the prophets, and announced by Christ as "at hand." However, they were in darkness as to the real purpose of God in calling and establishing the church. This is a matter concerning which there is much confusion today.

2. Christ's answer (v. 7, 9).

He turned their attention from the desire to know times and seasons, which belong to God, to their supreme duty. They were to be witnesses of Christ to the uttermost parts of the earth, beginning at Jerusalem. (11 Cor. 10:15).

11. Christian Stewardship (11 Cor. 8:1-2).

1. Examples of true Christian benevolence (v. 1-2).

The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every exalted principle and motive entering into the giving which has God's sanction.

(1) The source of true giving (v. 1). This is said to be the grace of God by which is meant that the disposition to give freely of our means is created by the Holy Spirit.

(2) They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2). Their limited means did not cause them to be stinted in their gifts, but their deep poverty abounded into the riches of their liberality. On the basis of this philosophy, our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return.

(3) Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (see v. 12, 13, 14).

(4) They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4). They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5). This is most fundamental to right giving, for when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not first give himself there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. We should first induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord.

2. Emulation of Macedonian benevolence urged (v. 6-15). Moved by the generosity of the Macedonian churches, Paul desired Titus to commend to the Corinthians the same grace. This he urged upon them.

(1) Not as a command (v. 8). Acceptable giving must not only be liberal, but spontaneous.

(2) As a proof of the sincerity of their love (v. 8).

(3) As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7).

The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, utterance, knowledge, diligence, and love for their ministers, but the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives.

(4) The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the test of love. All who have enthroned Him as the Lord of their lives, crowned Him Lord of all, will desire to imitate Him in all things.

(5) The true principle upon which gifts are acceptable with God (v. 10-12).

God does not estimate the value of a gift upon the ground of intrinsic worth, but of the underlying motive of the giver.

(6) Because of common equality (v. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is the ability of the giver.

His Presence

Many Christians cannot realize His presence because for them Christ lives in their heads or Bibles, but not in their hearts.

Helping God

There is but one way in which man can ever help God—that is, by letting God help him.—John Ruskin.

THE TRAGEDY IN MEXICO

The outbreak of civil war in Mexico is the more tragical because there is no adequate excuse for it. The rebel leaders are indulging in many high-sounding phrases in portraying the nobility of the cause they are serving, but the unvarnished truth is that the rebellion is occasioned merely by the feeling among the military leaders that Portes Gil is not a strong man, and that the time is opportune for them to overthrow his government and set up one of their number in power. It has been Portes Gil's policy to subordinate the military arm of the government to the civil. At his inauguration the army was conspicuous by its absence, and he presumed to convey the impression that the rule of Mexico by military chieftains had come to an end. It was a beautiful dream that the provisional president had, but as it turns out, it was too beautiful to be true. The military chieftains scattered about the country did not choose to be subordinated. Fighting and playing politics are their stocks in trade. Portes Gil, a civilian, in the presidency looked "easy." Therefore, the uprising. They say they are opposed to Calles' influence in the government. They would have started a revolution against the Calles government had they dared. A few ambitious ones did undertake to get a movement under way some time ago, but Calles but it down in the approved Mexican fashion. After viewing the leaders of the abortive rebellion standing against walls at daybreak, and crumbling before the crack of the marksmen, the other experienced a sinking in their temperature. Calles has been called back to on feet the Federal military forces, and he likely will be heard from shortly, and in a way that some ambitious malcontents in the army will understand.

THE MILKY WAY

There is no royal road to success and the milky way to prosperity is traveled by people who are not afraid of steady work. "Laying by" time never comes for the dairy farmer. It's a regular job, all right, but the pay is every bit as regular, and the one-crop farmer keeps just as busy worrying about whether he will get enough out of his crop to pay expenses.

The good dairy cow has no equal as a sure and regular dairy income producer. She pays a good price for the labor that is required in caring for her. For the soil improving legume hay and grain crops that she consumes she will pay better than market prices. Her products show another profit over and above the cost of her feed and keep. She is the balance wheel to the smoothly running farm machine.

14 cows net John Manning, of Montgomery County, Tennessee, $150.00 per month over labor and feed costs. George Goodman, who lives near Byhalia, Mississippi, says he makes more money from fifteen cows and with less trouble than he did from a six-mule share crop on cotton land. Robert S. Person, of Iberia Parish, Louisiana, milks an average of 35 cows the year around. His average gross income from milk is $1,000.00 per month.

In 1910 there were two struggling banks in Pendleton County, Kentucky, with combined deposits of $27,000, and it was next to impossible to borrow money on land. As a result of concerted effort to promote sideline dairy farming, the county now has an income of more than $45,000 per month from her 37 cows per square mile, and bank deposits that have grown at the rate of $200,000 a year to a total of more than $3,000,000 in her five banks.

Dairying has developed in Pulaski County, Arkansas, to the extent that $1,500,000 worth of dairy products are sold in the county annually, or at the rate of $3 per minute. The county's 1929 farm program embraces the elimination of every scrub bull, the purchase of purebred bulls and registered stock in every community, the production of at least two tons of legume hay for every dairy cow, and a permanent pasture of at least one acre for every dairy cow.

Sixteen years ago Mississippi's one creamery paid $4,423 for milk. Last year the state produced $14,000,000 worth of milk. Naturally, the tick-free sections are responsible for the greater part of this huge increase. Statewide tick eradication will result in greatly increased production of dairy products in Mississippi and other tick-infested sections.

Ticks take a heavy toll in blood and milk. They cut milk production at least one-third and set the table for buzzards by the thousands. It costs two and one-half times more to board ticks for one year than it does to get rid of them for all time. The South needs more purebred, tick-free cows converting home-grown feed into the products that are so essential to the health, wealth and happiness of our people.

MAN'S FAULTS
Atchison, Kan., Globe

Modern man is a busy creature. He is thoroughly imbued with business, and he plays his hobbies with real enthusiasm.

He is good at heart, but we fear that on account of his intense interest in business and hobby he isn't fair to himself.

We greatly fear he neglects his own health, and that is a grievous fault.

We believe that about once a day a man should stand before his mirror, and carry on the following frank discussion with himself.

"Hello, Jones, how are you feeling?"

"Have you been taking good care of yourself?"

"Have you been careful about your diet?"

"Have you been smoking too much?"

"How many cigars do you smoke in a day?"

"Have you been training your brain to think in terms of logic and sense?"

"Have you been neglecting your eyes?"

"Have you had your teeth inspected lately?"

"Have your thoughts been wholesome?"

"Have you thought of other?"

"Have you been hating? Of course, you realize that hating hurts your mind and your physical being."

"Have you been working too much, or are you lazy and shiftless?"

"Have you been broad-minded with other folks?"

"Have you wasted time arguing?"

"Have you admitted your mistakes?"

"Have you taken any steps to rid yourself of your conceit?"

"Have you been considerate toward your fellow workmen?"

"Have you been keeping your feet warm?"

"Do you keep your shoes shined? Little things count a lot, you know."

"Do you take as good care of your stomach as you do of your car?"

"Are you clean? How about your toenails? An ingrown toenail makes a man unreasonable."

"Are you keeping informed on general topics? You ought to."

"Do you thoroughly understand yourself? Sure, you do not. You never will. But try to understand yourself."

"Are you high tempered? If you are perhaps you have nervous trouble. Better have it attended to."

"You owe it to your family to live as long as possible. Are you doing all those wholesome things that tend to prolong life?"

"Jones, I say, how are you feeling? Do you feel physically and mentally fit? If you don't, Jones, you'd better have yourself inspected."

"Goodbye, Jones, take care of yourself."

BABY INSTANTLY KILLED

Former Fulton Couple in Fatal
Wreck Monday

Bobbie, fourteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jon-akin, who formerly lived in Fulton, but who now live in Memphis, was instantly killed late Monday afternoon on route 3, near Obion, Tenn., when their car collided with another car said to have been driven by a traveling man. The name of the driver was not learned, and it is not known whether any arrests were made.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonakin had been visiting their parents near Fulton. Mr. Jonakin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jonakin and Mrs. Jonakin the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Swig-gart. Monday they started on the drive back to their home in Memphis. Near Obion, Tenn., their car was struck by another machine and practically demolished. The baby was killed instantly and Mrs. Jonakin suffered minor injuries. It is understood that the occupant of the other car was not injured.
An ambulance brought the party back to Fulton.

DAIRY PROGRAM

By H. A. McPherson

When our county agricultural committee recently met with a representative of the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture and your county agent, a program was outlined for the Fulton trade territory.
This program consisted chiefly of dairy work which, of course included the growing of clovers, soybeans, alfalfa, putting in a permanent pasture, growing as much corn as the milk cows and other farm animals would consume. Another important part of the program was the displacement of every scrub bull and the purchasing of good Jersey bulls of high records. The committee also went on record as recommending that every scrub bull in the county be replaced with a pure bred.

This is the opportune time for every good farmer to make his plans for the coming season. Now if dairying, poultry and hogs are to be the chief livestock on the farm, enough good legume hay, corn and ample pasture should be had, as it is next to impossible for a farmer to purchase his feed and make a profit in the dairy business.

It might be of some interest to know that an effort is going to be made to place at least six good high testing bulls in Fulton county. This piece of work is going to take some hard work and I want every farmer to be thinking the matter over for it will be necessary that you help put it over. Several good farmers over the county have expressed themselves as wanting to purchase a good registered Jersey cow to start a herd from.

The banks of Fulton are ready to finance a reasonable number of good farm boys and girls to purchase a good registered bred Jersey heifer. This matter must be attended to as soon as possible if you want your boy or girl or both to get a bred heifer through the above plan, please notify the Chamber of Commerce at Fulton or myself. I think the above plan is a most excellent way for a boy or girl to get started in the Jersey business.

I am anxious to get at least 12 farmers to keep a record on their dairy work. I will furnish all requirements and it will take only a few minutes daily to keep these records. If you want records, please let me know.

DEDICATE OHIO BRIDGE, MAY 1

Irvin Cobb Hotel Opening Probably to Be Held Near That Date

Paducah, Ky., March 19 — Ceremonies dedicating the Paducah Ohio river bridge will be conducted on Wednesday, May 1, it was determined by the Bridge Dedication committee, which met yesterday, with Charles G. Vahlkamp presiding. It is understood that the Irvin Cobb hotel will be ready for opening at about the same date and it is believed the celebration to be arranged will cover both events, of large importance in the development of Paducah.

Members of the committee discussed with Mr. Vahlkamp, plans for a program, which will probably include the presence of both Governor Sampson, of Kentucky and Governor Emerson of Illinois. It is also hoped to bring U. S. war vessels or perhaps a dirigible from the army aviation base in St. Louis to the celebration. There will be many other features which will be announced later. Invitations are now being sent out to the editors and publishers of a hundred mile territory around Paducah in Kentucky, Illinois and Tennessee to attend the dedication ceremonies.

BARKLEY SPEAKS
AT IRISH MEETING

Addresses Society of Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at
New York

A defense of the federal government for centralizing control of activity was offered by Senator Alben W. Barkley in an address reviewing the growth of the United States and the part played in it by Irish and Irish descendants.

Addressing the 145th anniversary meeting of the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at the Hotel Astor, the senator said:

"Those who fought against the constitution because of their belief that its adoption and the creation of a nation under it would destroy the liberties they sought eight years to win, proved themselves shortsighted pessimists; for notwithstanding the cry that sometimes goes up from men of small vision and narrow horizon, we still enjoy about as much liberty as the complexity of our lives and our relationship to the world will permit."

Senator Barkley contrasted local problems with matters affecting national life, such as interstate commerce, interstate airplane travel, radio, and narcotics, and added, "These instances and evidences of the complexity of our lives and the gradual tendency through commercial and political proximity to draw all sections of the country and the world closer together, have made it dealing with these truly national problems. It is therefore incorrect to state that the national government by exercise of authority conferred upon it by the constitution has robbed states or localities of their rights in administrations and solution of these national questions."

Declaring it unnecessary to recount the difficulty of getting the necessary nine of the original states to adopt the Constitution, the senator said: "It ought to be said that no group or racial stock contributed more to the accomplishment of independence or the ratification of the new constitution or the marvelous history of the nation organized under it than men and women of Irish descent."

"A WINDOW IN THE CAN"

THAT the housewife should know whether the canned food she buys is of the highest grade, or below it, was the main purpose of the National Canners Convention held in Chicago this year. The most important thing that came out of the convention was the passing of the Pure Food and Drug Act, which will insure the quality of all canned foods which fall below these standards of "full standard."

The Pure Food and Drug Act is the housewife's answer to the government's guarantee that all canned foods now offered to her for sale are pure and wholesome and it does not provide that a distinction shall be made on the label between the different grades. If the amendment is passed, the consumers of canned foods will inevitably be told "what's what" on the words of the Government of the United States.

Canners Enthusiastic

"Pass that legislation!" "We are upon our honor!" "We must deal directly and openly with the consumer!" "This is a step which puts a window in the can!" All these were phrases of the delegates in the various industries in regard to this proposed legislation. They regard it as not only a boon to the housewife, but a boon to themselves in offering her fine quality goods at lower prices and the cleaner standard packs for their premier use.

The National Canners Association is a nation-wide organization formed in 1907, consisting of producers of all varieties of commercially sold canned foods which have been perfected by man. Its major product is not only for the benefit of the industry and the public, the best canned food, that scientific knowledge and human skill can produce, and it has made steady progress year after year.

Many Women Help

That the Convention was in deadly earnest about getting canned food before the public with the consumer's interests and desires in mind, was proved by the many women from whom they sought counsel as to how to accomplish this end. These women told in all directions what the housewife wants to know about canned foods, and the views of all of them concurred remarkably.

Margaret Justin, Dean of the Division of Home Economics of Kansas State Agricultural College, said that the two questions which the housewife wants answered are: "What is best for me and my family?" and "How can I get what I want and not it most readily?" She pressed earnestly for certain and labeling of canned foods and the standardization of products.

"Prudence Perry," Home Economics Editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, speaking on the subject of labeled beans, said that her daily letters from hundreds of women in newspapers and magazines that give them definite suggestions they can not to neglect use, and that her hundreds of thousands of inquiries during the past two or three years have been largely for recipes, food values, menus, special and general cookery help and foods for special occasions.

The Demand for Recipes

Ellen Rose Disney, Director and Announcer of Women's Programs at Station WJJD in Chicago, spoke on the subject of sauerkraut and how she had explained the advantages and possibilities of this food for women over the radio, and distributed thousands of recipes.

Ruth Atwater, Director of Home Economics of the Association, maintained that young women read carefully the labels on canned foods and that the more real information that can be put on the label the better women will be pleased. She also urged, in an address on canned foods, that helpful suggestions be made that will interest women in using this product in a greater variety of ways and that simple directions for using them be put on the label, and want also to find source in their buying of specific brands.

Erna J. Bertrams, Director of the Department of Food Economics of Armour and Company, also emphasized this demand for recipes, and urged that correct information, not only regarding the wholesomeness of the meat that goes into the can, but the economy in money, time and labor made possible by canned meats, be given to the school girl—the potential housekeeper—as well as to the housekeeper of today. Both, she said, should be given recipes and suggestions to prepare these canned meats. She, too, made a plea for more explicit labels.

All these and many other speakers elevated this sort of "a window in the can" and at its closing session, the Convention adopted a resolution heartily endorsing in principle the object of the McNary House canned food bill.

Our Thoughts in Action

We frequently hear persons wish for things—some of them unreasonable. They wish that they had this, that or the other thing. They wish for fine homes, large sums of money and many other things.

There are others who wish for talent. They would like to be artists, or perhaps they are interested in business, and are making extravagant wishes for high positions. They give little consideration to the preparation that is necessary to do the really worth while things, but they spend almost unlimited time in talking about things that they think they would like to have or to do.

The fact is, if they would practice doing first the things at hand they would, in a very natural way, soon be doing greater things. There seems to be a tendency among most persons always to wait until conditions are more favorable before beginning to do a thing. As a matter of fact, the only time that conditions are more favorable is when we have decided what to do and that we are ready to begin doing it.

The only time that conditions are not good is when our thoughts are vague about what we want to do. There have been few actual failures. True, it seems there have been numberless attempts that never brought about the results that were hoped for, but in almost every case this so-called failure was due to the lack of persistent effort. The only way to determine whether or not a failure has been made is to find out if the person in question has actually quit trying.

The Short-Cut to Happiness

Does happiness mean the immediate fruits of indulgence, or the ultimate harvest of achievement? When this is answered all may know how short is the way to happiness. Many people seek present joys, which is certainly worthy in motive. However, others remain steadfast in the belief that the only real and lasting happiness is that gained from self-sacrifice through long years of striving.

Contrary to the more or less popular opinion, the short-cut to happiness is the long road of perseverance. One often hears the expression, "O, well, we only live once; let's have a good time now." This is very well, provided the "good time" really is good and wholesome activity. Such a plea is persuasive, appealing and alluring. It contains a germ of wisdom. But when meant in the sacrificing future needs for present follies it becomes deception and an empty platitude.

Look about us and see the men and women of 60, 70, 80 and more. Can you pick those who have found the short cut to happiness? Do you see poverty or comfort? Do you see stalwart bodies bent with the fruitage of earlier dissipation? Perhaps not for that kind seldom reach that age. Ask these whether there is an EASY WAY to success, a pleasant pathway to peace, or an easy detour to life's fullest destiny. Their answers will ring true to experience.

Present pleasures, yes. All that can be crowded into the short span of human life. But let them be pleasures that hold the balance of power for good as against evil. Such attainments can be had in play and in work, and in health or in illness, in joy and in pain, in sports and in business, in the home and in the world.

Lawrence county banks are encouraging small fruit growing. 30 acres of strawberries and several acres of raspberries and other fruit will be set in the county.

The Wayne County Farm Bureau and the Monticello Chamber of Commerce co-operated with farmers in an agricultural survey of the county.

Todd county farmers have adopted a 5-year improvement program which calls for 5,000 acres of alfalfa and sweet clover each, the sowing of 3,000 bushels of lespedeza seed and 5,000 bushels of soybeans, and the saving of 10,000 bushels of lespedeza seed in the fifth year or 1934.

POULTRY

By J. T. Watkins

Last Thursday I had the pleasure of helping County Agent Cleland of Obion county organize some boys and girls club in his county, and the youngster certainly were enthused. At the Bowers school there were 20 enrolled some for corn and calf work, some for poultry, others for lamb clubs and some of the girls for canning. They say they are going to make a big showing at the Fulton County Fair this fall and have served notice on all other communities that they will lead the procession.

At the Hill Crest school, while the meeting was not so enthused with our talks as at the other, still we believe we will get good results from this place. Joe Davis made a wonderful talk at both places and I was almost ashamed to pit my oratory against his, but after I got started Billy Bryan didn't have anything on me even in his hey day. Of course I talked chickens and the poultry show at the County Fair and I think there will be some good poultry entered from these two districts.

Again I say hatch all the chickens you can this year for there will be a big demand for all classes of poultry next fall and winter. Anyway you can eat all your surplus birds and save on the grocery bill.

I had the pleasure of meeting the salesman for a preparation to eliminate lice on poultry. It is known as Black Leaf 40. I am going to test it out on my flock and if it does the work well certainly boost it for all its worth, for if we can secure something that will do away with lice we have stopped one of the worst leaks in the poultry game. I will also make two or three demonstrations on flocks here in the county so you can pass the word along.

William Duncan is one poultry raiser who does not brag about what he is doing. In fact he does not talk very much about it at all, but he sure is on the job. He has a flock of Single Comb White Leghorns of about 100 birds and he told me he was getting better than 90 percent egg production. He also has a small flock of Rhode Island Reds he uses for meat production and at the present time he has over 200 baby chicks beginning to feather out. His flock of Leghorns is headed by a cock bird from one of the best show flocks in the United States and at the Fulton Fair last year this bird as a cockerel won first in a class of about 25 birds. If he is in condition it is going to be hard to beat him as a cock bird this year if he is entered.

Another Leghorn breeder who is pushing his business is Cecil Barnett out on the Hickman road. He has a flock of about 200 hens and while he is not breeding strictly show birds he always manages to get some of the ribbons at the Fair. He is breeding more for eggs and has a wonderful bunch of layers. With the introduction of some good show blood he will have what Ted Hale calls a two-in-one bird; that is a show bird that will stand up with them as a layer.

Mr. Barnett also has a flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks that he is pushing for meat and egg production.

He tells me both flocks are laying the eggs by the dozens and he has his incubator running at full capacity.

Taylor County on Better Sires List; State Stays Ahead.

The completion of a purebred sires campaign in which Taylor county eradicated grade and scrub bulls is another record of agricultural achievement in Kentucky, the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky announces.

Only five counties in the United States have done away with scrub bulls, and three of them are in Kentucky. Union county was the first county in the country to completely eradicate scrub bulls. Russell county followed Union, and Taylor county now adds to the progressive record of Kentucky livestock farmers.

The clean-up of Taylor county was the result of a 3-year campaign conducted by farmers, business men and the county agent, C. V. Bryan. The bank of Campbellsville financed the campaign.

A total of 106 purebred bulls were placed on farms in the county in 3 years. This means that every grade and scrub bull was replaced with a purebred.

The drive while centering on bulls, carried along with it interest in other stock. 55 purebreds, 83 purebred rams and 215 purebred cockerels were placed on farms during the campaign. 285 purebred cows, 135 purebred sows and many purebred sheep and chickens have gone into the county.

As a result of the campaign, the value of livestock production in the county will be increased several fold, it is said.

Canned Pumpkin Pie

INTER time is pie time, and of all the pies that tickle our palates agreeably, pumpkin is one of the most popular. But how many of my readers know of the convenience of using canned pumpkin for this delectable dish? This saves you all the preliminary trouble of scraping out the pumpkin and boiling and mashing it. Here is the recipe:

Mix two cups of canned pumpkin with one and one-eighth cups of sugar, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons ginger and one teaspoon cinnamon. Beat three egg whites stiffly and fold in. Turn into a pie plate lined with pastry and bake in a moderate oven, but be sure to have enough heat at first to set the crust. The pie is done when an inserted knife comes out clean. It takes fifteen minutes to bake at 450° and about thirty minutes, or until set, at 325°. This recipe makes one large pie.

Or Try These Tarts

Here is another recipe for Harvest Pumpkin Tarts:

Mix one cup of brown sugar, a few grains of salt, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg and one-half teaspoon ginger with one cup of canned pumpkin. Add two beaten eggs and two cups evaporated milk, and pour into tart tins lined with pastry. Bake like any custard pie, having oven hot at first then moderate. This recipe will make from fifteen to twenty tarts.

The next time you yearn for pumpkin pie or tarts buy a gold-enamel lined can of pumpkin and try one of these recipes.
