BENTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1895.

Number 47.

Well, Mr. Editor, as soon as something is said of our little town, I hope it will be said here and not at some other place. Mr. Harris, the postmaster at his town, owns a bright young man and will make a good legislator. He has already shown his ability to his constituents and they are sure to make him a benefactor. Mr. Harris is a man of principle and will not yield to pressure. He is a man of action and will not be talked down. Mr. Harris will do his duty and will not be swayed by the wishes of others.

FAIR DEALING.

Well Mr. Editor, as soon as something is said of our little town, I hope it will be said here and not at some other place. Mr. Harris, the postmaster at his town, owns a bright young man and will make a good legislator. He has already shown his ability to his constituents and they are sure to make him a benefactor. Mr. Harris is a man of principle and will not yield to pressure. He is a man of action and will not be talked down. Mr. Harris will do his duty and will not be swayed by the wishes of others.

One of the old families that have been here for generations is the Johnson family. They have been here for more than 100 years and have always been a prominent family in the community. They have always been active in the community and have done much for the town.

Mr. Johnson, the patriarch of the family, has just celebrated his 100th birthday. He is still active and does much for the community. He is a true patriarch and is loved and respected by all.

While we have many who are not active in the community, we also have many who are. Mr. Johnson is one of them. He is a true patriarch and is loved and respected by all.

In his capacity as Governor of Kentucky, he is responsible for the administration of state affairs, including the enforcement of laws and the maintenance of order. The Governor also serves as the commander-in-chief of the state's military forces and is responsible for the procurement and maintenance of state-owned property. In addition, the Governor is responsible for the administration of state agencies and departments, including the Department of Education, the Department of Transportation, and the Department of Natural Resources.

The Governor is elected to a term of four years and can serve a maximum of two terms. The Governor is assisted by a cabinet of state officials, including the Attorney General, the Auditor of Public Accounts, the Commissioner of Agriculture, and the Commissioner of the Department of Education.

The Governor is also responsible for the state's budget and is required to submit a budget to the General Assembly each year. The Governor has the power to veto legislation passed by the General Assembly, but the legislature can override a veto with a two-thirds vote of both houses.

The Governor is also a member of the Kentucky Board of Education, which is responsible for the oversight of public schools in the state. The Governor appoints the members of the Board of Education, and the Board is responsible for setting policy for the state's public schools.

The Governor is also responsible for the state's corrections system, including the parole and probation boards. The Governor appoints the members of these boards, and the boards are responsible for making decisions about the release of prisoners from state prisons.

Finally, the Governor is responsible for the state's workforce development programs, including the Kentucky Career Center and the Kentucky Workforce Development Board. The Governor appoints the members of these boards, and the boards are responsible for identifying and addressing the needs of the state's workforce.
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains no Opium, Morphine or other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Syrups, Washing Syrups, and Curare Oil. It is Palmaris. Its properties are thereby preserved, and the present drug is made with it. Castoria produces a soothing effect on the heart muscle, and on the tissues of the body. Castoria is also a valuable remedy for the stomach and intestines, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.
