It is becoming increasingly clear that the sport of football is now able to be played in the United States, and that such activity is becoming increasingly popular among the youth of the nation. The change in the attitude of the public towards football is a reflection of the growing acceptance of the sport as a legitimate and healthy form of recreation.

The growth of football as a sport in the United States is due in part to the efforts of dedicated coaches and players who have worked tirelessly to promote the game. This growth is also due to the increasing availability of facilities and equipment, as well as the growing popularity of the sport among fans of all ages.

In many respects, football is a microcosm of American society. It is a sport that has the capacity to bring people together, to foster teamwork and cooperation, and to instill values of discipline and hard work. It is a sport that has the potential to inspire and motivate young people to achieve their goals and to become productive members of society.

As the sport of football continues to grow in popularity in the United States, it is important that we continue to support and promote it. We should do all we can to ensure that football remains a positive and healthy influence on the lives of our young people, and that it continues to be a source of pride and inspiration for all Americans.
KENTUCKY LAGS BEHIND AN EXPANDING SOUTH

An article on the continued industrial expansion of the South, appearing this month in the Harvard Business Review, stresses once again the Kentucky advantage and potential which offers the State, if utilized, the opportunity to help local industries, to expand South. Perhaps it would serve local sources of the State, of helping local industries, to expand the potential labor supply urgently. In the midst of potential resources, is well sold the precious and irreplacable raw timber, flourspar to Northern factories.

Because he was not wanted in the organization, George Sylvester Viereck signed the Overmans for the Overseas Press Club, saying the demand for his reputation, which must be recognized, reflects mass hysteria in this country.

He compares his situation to that of a man lynched.

If Mr. Viereck were in Russia, Italy or China, and so much out of time, with sentiment of the ruler as he is with sentiment of the majority in this democracy he would be lynched.

Vioreck is only half in the writh with a feather, and the blow is not delivered by any unit of government, but by millions which is the responsibility of the qualifications of its members.

GOOD CORN YEAR IN RATHBON COUNTY

Farmers in Bath county, Kentucky, experienced one of the best corn growing seasons in years, despite spring rains that damaged crops along creeks and rivers. Farmers who tried hybrid corn almost without exception harvested better yields than those produced by common varieties. J. L. Stovall reported an average yield of 105 bushels of Kentucky No. 69 on 20 acres of bottom land. Agent Joe Thompson believes hybrid corn brought increased yields worth $150 per acre. Kentucky farmers have received only local prices because of the weather.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Breakfast county farmers are considering a large acreage of commercial potatoes. Growers have produced the major crop grown in the area. Christian county plans include a goal of 100 acres of potatoes.

One Wolfe county poultry raiser reported a profit of $875 last month.

Whitley county farmers report the sale of 1,950 tons of commercial potatoes in 1940.

Henry county farmers used 17,000 tons of liming material in 1940, which is the highest percent increase over 1939.

By a delay of 15,000 pounds of witch was needed in Russell county last fall. A feed-mix improvement campaign in Butler county included an increase of registered acres.

Mr. And Mrs. L. O. Bradford
Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary
At A Beautiful Reception Yesterday

Beautifully planned in every detail was the reception yesterday, December 29, in celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Bradford. The very unique furnishings of the Bradford home, third street, were accentuated with colorful flowered cover cloths, greenery and matching draperies. Floral arrangements on the table included an arrangement of lovely garden roses, gills on the blossoms of white and pink, lilies, all-natural arrangements, and especially eye-catching were the large floor arrangements, large flowered and greenery in arched windows and doors. The Bradford's silver wedding anniversary was given a perfect setting.

Among guests in the reception were Mrs. Bert One of Union City, who served as hostess for the event. Mr. Bradford's wedding dress was designed by Miss Patsy and Mrs. Woodson who arranged the decorations. The reception was attended by Mrs. L. O. Bradford and Misses W. T. Fagan and O. Woodson, both of Union City.

IN CLOSING THE YEAR

As the old year comes to a close we would feel ungrateful if we did not express our deep and sincere appreciation to all those friends who have helped to make it a good year for us. Through all the years we have appreciated our friendships, and as 1940 comes to its close we think of the many friends and wish for all a HAPPY AND PROSPECTUOUS NEW YEAR.
