Coach Carter of Fulton High stated that although his team was not very successful in winning, that they were real fighters with courage. Glenn McAlister, who has been named captain of the basketball team for next year, was introduced.

Votes Decrease As First Period Ends April 5th

Only five days remain to the largest vote-getting period of The News Big $3,300.00 Trade Extension Campaign. Go today and see the beautiful new car the winner will own. It is on display at the Bob White Motor Co., Fulton, Ky. This wonderful new Plymouth deluxe 4 door Touring Sedan will belong to the candidate who gets only one more vote than any other candidate. Sounds rather easy doesn't it. Only a little work and consistent effort on your part and you can own that car. Never before in this territory has a campaign so liberal been offered to the public.

On Tuesday night at 10:00 April 5th, the largest vote-getting period of the Fulton County News $3,300.00 Trade Extension Campaign comes to a close. There are only five days left for the candidates to cash in on their many promises. In the five days that remain, a prize can be won or lost.

To The Subscriber
Now is the time to help your favorite candidate win. Your subscription may be the one that decides the race. If you will turn to the ad and study the decrease in votes you can easily see why.

Most of the candidates have more than they can do calling on all of their friends. The time is very short. If your favorite candidate does not find time to call on you, don't wait until it is too late. Just drop into the News office and leave your subscription to your favorite. The ranks are thinning out fast. The ambitious hard working candidates are forging ahead. Sooner or later in this campaign, a candidate or candidates now entered, or one or more who will enter, will get their stride and the drones are going to find themselves weeping in sackcloth and ashes at the roadside, while the winners will walk off with the big prizes won through consistent effort. What are you? A drone or a worker?

Life Story of Casey Jones To Be Told At Cayce Banquet, April 8th

CASEY JONES

MRS. CASEY JONES

Plans are complete for the celebration and banquet to be held at the Cayce High School auditorium Friday night, April 8, in memory of Casey Jones, famed Illinois Central engineer who was killed 38 years ago, as his train was wrecked at Vaughn, Miss. The entire proceeds of the banquet are to go toward the erection of a memorial to Casey Jones, famed engineer of legend and song.

Sim Webb, negro fireman with Mr. Jones the night of the fatal wreck, who is 66 years old and lives in Memphis, will attend the banquet.

Sid Law, Illinois Central engineer and noted safety expert, who was Mr. Jones' fireman the night before the accident, will be principal speaker on the Cayce program, according to J. E. Attebery, who is in charge of arrangements. He will tell of the character of famed Casey, who is said to have set a record of 100 miles in 100 minutes. Mr. Law will report on his efforts at Memphis to assist in the drive to raise funds to erect a marker to the memory of Casey Jones near his old home in this county.

The memory of Casey Jones has lived for 38 years after his death. There are two reasons for this, say people who knew the engineer. First because he was the people's idea of a typical engineer—the story of his life and death exemplifies the romance and death and the tradition of the railroad. And Casey's story was put into song.

"All the switchmen knew by the engine's moans
That the man at the throttle was Casey Jones."

Everybody knows about the song. Here is a simple story of his life and death as a railroad engineer:
Born near Cayce, Ky., 1863, he was christened John Luther Jones. He grew to stalwart manhood, weighing around 200 pounds, six feet-four in height. At the age of 27, in 1890, having just been promoted, for the first time laid a caressing hand on a throttle he could call his own.

Casey had "a lot of git-up and go" his negro fireman, Sim Webb stated, and was born with a rare gift of "throttle touch." He was wrapped up in his work, heart and soul. Whatever he had he put it into the driving wheels of his big engine. Time after time he made record runs, and his name was on the tongue of railroad men wherever they gathered.

Along the line from Jackson, Tenn., to Water Valley, Miss., people felt they knew him, for they were familiar with his engine's long-piercing whistle. For ten years Casey rode high. From freight train to passenger trains to the I. C. special, the "Cannonball."

Then on April 29, 1900, a friend became ill and Casey said he would take the run. With Sim as fireman at 11 p. m. he pulled out of Memphis for Canton, Miss., as he opened the

SPRING RAIN BRINGS FLOOD TO FULTON

Heavy spring rains above Fulton brought an overflow of the Harris Fork Creek, which runs through the city, and flooded the business district in the vicinity of Fourth-st extension. The water did not reach sufficient height to flood any of the stores on Lake-st. The deluge came after a continuous downpour Monday night, with the hardest rain fall coming around three o'clock.

The waters flooded Hotel Fulton, Bennett Electric, Wilson Shoe Shop, The Smokehouse and the Fulton County News. Considerable damage was done at Bennett Electric where the bases of several radios were covered by water.

The flood was not as severe as some that have occurred, but local citizens are anxious that a flood relief program be inaugurated, for with every heavy rainfall some sections are flooded.

FAIRNESS NOT ENOUGH FOR CHRISTIANITY

The following sermon will be preached by Rev. Louis M. Evans at the New Hope Methodist church this Sunday:

The most dangerous possibility in the life of any church member is that he accept the standards of fairness. In his sermon on the mount Christ says to us, "And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain." This has reference to a custom of the Romans. When the Romans, who ruled Judea at the time of Christ, crossed the country they forced Jewish men to carry luggage one mile. Many Jews refused. This became a constant source of conflict. It was fair for them to refuse to aid a foreign invader. It was even fair for them to make war on the Romans. But Christ instructed them to seek brotherhood and fellowship with the Romans by carrying the packs two miles instead of one.

The religious leaders in the day of Christ were fair. The scribes were students and teachers of the law. The Pharisees were the professed examples of obedience to an d zealots for the law. They were the puritans of the Maccabean period. Their law was fair. It said "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." The descendants of the scribes and Pharisees are with us today. These traditionalists are great sticklers for details, forms and words. Their chief concern is for conformity to custom and regularity to the neglect of their own spiritual lives. Like the Pharisee Jesus told about praying in the temple, they have a good opinion of themselves, are socially and commercially moral, and are notably strict in religious performances but they are proud, selfish, and unbrotherly, and so go down unjustified, weighed and found wanting. Christ came not to destroy fairness. Fairness of the Jew is above the ideal of aggressive brutality of the rest of the world but Christianity must go beyond fairness.

When the prodigal son had dishonored his fathers name and sunk to the lowest position in Jewish life it would have been fair for his father to have disinherited him, but it was Christian for him to shout to his servants when he saw his son afar off: "Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet; And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat and be merry: For this my son was dead and is alive again." This was not fair to the father or the son who hadn't spent his share in riotous living, but it was Christian.

Paul Britt was an Arkansas negro 54 years old. He noticed a slide of earth at one end of a railway bridge which spans a river near Fort Smith. A train was rapidly approaching on tracks of the Kansas City Southern. The slide was rapidly breaking down the bridge approach and carrying with it the railroad tracks. Britt sensed the danger and dashed across the bridge shouting a warning. He attracted the attention of men on the other side of the river. They flagged the train. It stopped in time. Then Britt fell dead of heart failure.

Regardless of what creed Paul Britt may have had Christ has a reward for the man who loses his life in the service of others.

What are we worth as Christians? Are we worth 97c worth of chemicals that make up our bodies? Are we worth the amount of physical strength we possess? Are we worth the amount of money we can make? Are we worth the amount of education we have? No. We are worth as much as we put into life more than we demand back; as much as we go the second mile; as much as we go beyond fairness.

We must go beyond fairness to be Christian. "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your father which is in heaven."

Mrs. W. H. Gordon of Greenville, Miss., and Mrs. L. G. Ellis of Columbus, Miss., spent several days this week with Mrs. Malcolm Gilbert on Third-st.

EDGAR BERGEN AND CHARLIE MCCARTHY STAR IN PICTURE

Edgar Bergen is a clever chap. Even Charlie McCarthy will sometimes admit that. About the best he will say, however, is that when Bergen created him he showed a flash of real intelligence.

They have gone a long way together—from second-rate vaudeville to the big time, from vaudeville to the swank night clubs, from the night clubs to radio and from radio to motion pictures. Featured today in Samuel Goldwyn's Technicolor musical, "The Goldwyn Follies," which comes to the Fulton Theatre Sunday, they're sitting on top of the world, the most unique team in all entertainment history.

Bergen, as every one knows, is a ventriloquist extraordinary. Charlie is his extraordinary dummy.

They've been together for seventeen years, since Bergen had Charlie carved into a weird semblance impudent life in a Chicago carpenter shop. During these years, Charlie has become a very real person, not only to the millions he has helped Bergen entertain, but to Bergen himself.

Bergen was born in Chicago, the son of Swedish parents. Bergen says that he "just stumbled" onto ventriloquism. When he was a youngster of about 13 he discovered he had a voice with which he could do strange tricks.

He got the idea for Charlie McCarthy from an Irish newsboy who had a stand near his school. The boy's name was Charlie. The name of the wood carver who created the dummy's head from Bergen's sketches and explicit directions was Mack. Bergen gave it an Irish twist and called his dummy Charlie McCarthy.

He paid $35 for Charlie's head and made the body himself. He has since spent hundreds of dollars trying to get duplicate heads to serve as doubles—and since the movies, stand-ins—but has never been satisfied. He still works with the original Charlie McCarthy.

THE HUMBLE PENNY

Quite a few Fulton people are inclined to look down on the humble penny and ignore it on the ground that "it won't buy anything." Now they have occasion to change their mind. A big eastern concern that does a nation-wide business in chewing gum and candy through penny vending machines has just issued its yearly report to its stockholders, and it shows that more than three and one-half billion pennies passed through those machines in 1937.

Here is proof that the penny is among the country's greatest circulating mediums, and that the individual or the company making a special drive for it can get rich. When we reflect how many newspapers the pennies buy every day, how many millions of letters and postcards it carries around over the nation every hour, then its value takes on new significance. But it takes a special report of a big concern dealing wholly in penny merchandise to make us see tremendous buying power back of it.

By itself, in these days of high prices, the penny really does seem insignificant. But there are $47,000,000 worth of them in circulation at this very minute, and that's worth striving for.

"Save the pennies and the dollars will save themselves" is a saying as truthful as if it had appeared in Holy Writ. And the happiest and wisest citizens are those who recognize it, instead of tossing the penny away as something "that won't buy anything."

TRY IT AND SEE

We overheard a woman in a Fulton store the other day insisting on having a certain brand of coffee. In fact, she was so insistent that no other brand of coffee would answer her demands that we asked her about it; asked her just why she insisted on that particular kind of coffee. "I see it advertised in everything I pick up," she answered, "and if it wasn't all right they wouldn't be advertising it." And we are constrained to believe that the same rule works with everything else sold over the counter. The best advertised goods move fastest—every merchant knows that and yet there are merchants who fail to take advantage of this knowledge and advertise the goods they have in stock that they would like to see moving off the counters faster. It's a poor rule that won't work more than one way—and the columns of this paper are wide open to the merchant who wants to make a test of it.

WELL SPENT

It would be a good idea for Fulton home owners, as the season for spring repairs draws near, to bear in mind that a dollar expended in this way means far more than a good investment in comfort and appearances. It means, in addition, an added value to the property itself—a dollar you get back through the comfort it buys and which you also get back, with interest, at any time you dispose of the property. Nothing declines in value more rapidly than residential property that is allowed to fall in a bad state of repair; and nothing enhances its value more than keeping it in good condition and looking good. Always paint a house before selling it. The difference in appearances alone will bring you an increase in price that will more than pay for the paint job. Appearances, in a house as well as an individual, count for a great deal. Bear that in mind as you plan to give your house the spring repairs that should not be neglected.

MAKING IT PAY

The motorist who gets 100 per cent dividend out of his car is the one who utilizes it to get out to meetings and conferences held to further the improvement and development of his community; meetings that are directly in his interest since his own property is always involved when such plans are under discussion. He gets some more out of it when he attends social gatherings, gatherings that bring him in to closer and happier reunion with his neighbors. He reaps dividends by giving pleasure to those who do not have a car of their own by taking them out for an occasional pleasure ride. He gets a return on his investment when he uses it to take a vacation jaunt into some distant community, where he can see how others work and play and live, where he gets a broader vision of the nation he lives in and a better understanding of those who are helping him to make it what it is. The Fulton motorist who uses his car for these things can actually be said to come mighty close to getting 100 per cent dividend out of his car.

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY

Chas. A. Williams

AN INDUSTRIALIZED SOUTH?

You Southerners who criticize the South, have you found a better place to live? You who would have the glories of nature which the South envelopes dulled and blackened by factory smoke, have you thought of the consequences? Shall we live in the South and enjoy the splendor of natural beauty or are we going to trade it for the puny efforts of unnatural gaudiness? Are we going to trade the joys of living for bristles of a mechanized world? With an industrialized South will we have time to pause along life's highway and enjoy the glory of living of shall the very industrialization envenom our own souls until nothing will seem beautiful unless it has a yellow glint?

It is not my purpose to argue whether this is the only life or whether there is a second, but if this be life, then I do say, make the most of it. The example would life more than anyone who has been the one who probably enjoyed sojourned on this earth—and who had less of worldly goods but the greatest love of natural things. We honor that life by dividing our time by it—either B. C. or A. D.

Will the South leave something for those to come as did He? Or wrap the gaudy industrialized usurpation about itself to be immune from that thing called life; or will it stick to love and beauty and those things that go to make an abundant life. As said Keats, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever, its loveliness shall never pass into nothingness."

● READ - REMEMBER

It's pretty safe to wager that the Fulton man or woman who buys without asking prices never had to work for the money.

Another reason for so many divorces is that too many girls get hitched up before they are able to support a husband.

When a married woman falls out with her sister-in-law the sister-in-law sees to it that the neighbors learn the real age of the married woman.

Sometimes a Fulton woman gets so hard up for something to brag about that she will boast that her husband once had his picture in a patent medicine ad.

A German prisoner, now starting in to serve a prison sentence of 21 years will probably find the first 100 the hardest.

Some people make you wonder what they would get out of life if everything was so perfect that they couldn't find anything to knock. It's a dangerous age when a Fulton girl gets so she doesn't care any more about what the neighbors say than she does about what her parents say.

We have also noticed that much of the advice people offer us shows no signs of having been used.

There's this much to be said in favor of airplane over auto travel—the noise of the airplane motor drowns out all comment from the back seat.

Our idea of an optimist is any Fulton motorist who can smile at a flat tire while being thankful that it isn't a broken axle.

There is no use in talking economy to the man who pays two dollars for getting the car washed when his wife is doing the family washing at home.

A business letter is a letter that is dictated by a man who can't write to a stenographer who can't spell and mailed to a man who usually doesn't know the difference.

Another expression you seldom hear around Fulton any more is that old one about a horse being perfectly safe for a lady to drive.

The greatest ambition of some parents is to get their children to do something they tell them to do.

A London scientist says the world will last 50,000,000 years longer. Yes, but the pedestrians won't.

There was a time, believe it or not, when if some girls had appeared on the streets with no more on than they wear now their fathers would have been arrested for failure to provide.

It has about reached the point where instead of Fulton parents thinking their children need a chaperon the children think the parents need a guardian.

In this country the voters have nothing to do with cooking up a presidential candidate but they have a lot to do with settling his hash.

Maybe more grocers would spend the winter in Florida if so many of their customers didn't forget to pay their bills before they left for that state.

Kitchen ranges can now be had in a wide variety of colors but it takes more than a pink stove to make the average Fulton girl love a kitchen.

Why is it that some fellows imagine a neighbor woman is interesting in hearing them tell things about themselves that their own wives got the carache from listening to 20 years ago?

If skirts ever got so long that they don't have to be pulled down every six seconds the nose will get powdered oftener.

Most Fulton women get as much satisfaction knowing they are not behind the times as their husbands get from knowing they are ahead of their bills.

No matter how flashy they paint a new auto, it never looks surprising enough to scare a locomotive at a grade crossing.

They say about 80 cents out of every dollar we pay in taxes goes for war. That leaves just 20c out of each dollar for congress to fight over.

There is nothing funnier in this world than the 15 year old boy or girl who is "tired of it all."

Come to think of it women are the cause for all of our wars. They supply the cannon fodder.

Some Fulton men never hunt for a rheumatism cure because they lose their best weather indicator.

Girls have about quit studying the art of cooking and gone to start figuring how they can marry a rich movie actor.

About the only thing the average Fulton wife knows about the perfect husband is that her's is a long long way from being one.

A French woman has been denied admittance to the U. S. because she shot a man. There's nothing like protecting home industry.

It's easy to swap compliments, but how tremendously hard it is to tell somebody you don't like that he did a good job, when he did.

Kentucky whiskey warehouses stored 166,218,551 gallons as of January 31, 40.5 percent of the nation's supply, statisticians reveal.

Tobaccoists estimate that 75 per cent of the dark fired tobacco in the Western district of Kentucky and Tennessee has been marketed. Receipts this season have reached 7,339,247 pounds for $560,027.34, an average for the same period last year was $7.91 as 5,194,329 pounds sold for $410,721.33.

What has become of the old-fashioned Fulton boys and girls who could spend a pleasant evening playing Old Maid or Authors.

It used to be a woman could make her husband a necktie out of one of her silk shirts but now it's just about the other way around.

The greatest faith any Fulton woman can show in her husband is to sit quietly in the back seat and let him do the driving.

If eating is a necessity, then why didn't nature arrange it so all women could enjoy cooking and dishwashing?

We heard a few days ago of a man who is on the verge of a nervous breakdown because his wife is always telling him how nervous she is.

Annual Live Stock Day For West Tennessee

B. P. Hazelwood, Superintendent of the West Tennessee Experiment Station, has announced that the annual meeting of livestock farmers and dairymen of West Tennessee will be held at the Station Friday, April 1.

Invitations have been sent out to livestock feeders, dairymen and farmers throughout the section and a record attendance is expected, he said. Over 1,000 farmers attended the meeting last year.

The object of these annual meetings is to study and hear discussed the experimental work on livestock feeding and winter crops which have been underway during the past year.

In addition to winter cover and pasture crops there will be on exhibition a number of groups of beef cattle, dairy cattle and hogs that have been fed on different rations. These will be discussed by Dr. M. Jacob, dean of the U-T College of Agriculture and head of the animal husbandry department; Prof. C. A. Moore, director of the Tennessee Experiment Stations, and Mr. Hazelwood.

During the afternoon a purebred beef cattle sale will be held at the Fair Grounds in Jackson.

3000 Children Will Parade In Blue Ribbon Event

Governor Browning and a number of state officials have accepted invitations to be in Union City April 21, when approximately 3000 Blue Ribbon children of Obion County will take part in the Blue Ribbon Health Day festivity.

Other state officials who have accepted invitations are Dr. W. C. Williams, state commissioner of health; J. N. Smith, state commissioner of education, and A. D. Holt, executive secretary of the State Teachers' Association.

Roy C. Manchester of Paducah, scout executive of the Chief Paducah Area Council, also will be present.

More than 2000 North Carolina farmers are making tests with fertilizer produced by the TVA project.

A Beauty Hint—

A sudden breaking out on the face usually is caused by some digestive disturbance. Constipation is the most common cause of such blemishes. ### THE BLACKSMITH SHOP

As the horse is becoming less and less important, the blacksmith shop so intimately connected with horses is becoming rare. There was a time when the shop shared with the general store the honor of being a loafers' joint. Ostensibly the people who gathered at the blacksmith shop had come on business, but one was in no hurry to get his work done and leave the fascinating conversation that was always going on.

The blacksmith shop had its own peculiar odor. The coal used in the forge was a semi-powdered, vile-smelling stuff that made a heavy smoke. Soon the whole building was saturated with this odor and the smell of horses' hoofs. This odor was as distinctive for the shop as was the odor of the smoke-house or the livery stable. No one seemed to mind it and probably was not aware of it.

The blacksmith was a man of all work. His stock in trade was, of course, shoeing horses and welding iron; hence his name. There was still, a generation ago, something of the mediaeval wonder at the blacksmith's art; not everyone could weld iron or do the many other skillful things that the blacksmith found a part of the day's work. Most blacksmiths were pretty fair cabinet makers and could repair or even make any of the furniture in the average home. Making V harrows was just an ordinary part of the art of working in iron. Our Fidelity smith also ran a grist mill on certain days so that his shop could turn out nearly everything not grown on the farm or bought at the general store.

The small boy who went along with an older brother or his father to the shop was sometimes allowed the privilege of working the bellows. How big he felt as the horse-shoe or bit of iron became red and then nearly white with heat, while the flames danced among the cinders! Then the sport continued with the blacksmith hammering on the hot metal, while the sparks flew in all directions, sometimes falling on bare feet. How the iron sizzled when it was dropped into a tub of water to temper it!

All blacksmiths could "tickle the anvil," that is, add a lot of grace notes by striking the anvil between beats on the iron being hammered. Nothing sounded any more like music of the numerous noises associated with old-fashioned ways of working. If one had not developed this form of skill, he was still regarded as an amateur.

Our blacksmith was a sort of philosopher. I suppose that his daily association with horses and mules gave him a goodly portion of horse sense that we all admire, whether it is borne by man or beast. He had the rare gift of laughter. Many a man would have cursed man and the earth for what he had drawn as his lot in life, but he laughed his weak little giggle and went ahead. When political or religious prejudice got others in a stew, the blacksmith laughed again, often clearing the atmosphere for the rest of us. One Sunday morning at the country church, when some fine point of theology was about to disrupt the community, again he laughed, making some of the brethren feel sheepish for such outbursts of fervor (another name of temper). Who knows but that the philosophy of the toiler at the forge was just what we all needed? For some reason I remember the simple smith and have forgotten many another person who owned more and who had more notice.

House Cleaning Hints—

To remove wallpaper from plastered walls first wet paper thoroughly with a sponge dipped in soapsuds, then loosen with a putty knife. . . . To clean white wicker chairs first brush off all loose dirt, then wash with lukewarm suds to which has been added a little salt, not wetting chair any more than necessary. Rinse well with cold water to harden the wicker. To whiten the wicker, use a little lemon juice in the rinse and dry out of doors, never near a hot fire.

An Inspiration—

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city."—Bible.

The average Fulton man wouldn't object to having company for Sunday dinner if he could sit so far away that his wife couldn't kick his shins under the dining table.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, April 3.

Among the citations is the following from the Bible: "Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not?" (Proverbs 23:5).

This includes Christian Science Society, Fulton, Ky., which holds regular services Sunday at 11 A. M., and Testimonial Meeting Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Reading Room at 211 Carr St., open Wednesday and Saturday from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and to visit the Reading Room where The Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

4-H Baby Beef Club

Sixteen club members of Fulton County 4-H Club have purchased and are now feeding seventeen Hereford Calves averaging 500 pounds each, which they will show as baby beeves some time in August. Plans are being made to have a 4-H stock show and sales in connection with the annual Farm Bureau barbecue picnic to be held in Fulton some time in August. The calves will be sold at this time as baby beeves. The calves will be fattened in pasture and grain mixture according to the recommendation of the University of Kentucky, and records on cost will be kept by each boy.

The following boys and girls already have calves on feed: Bud Lee Adams, Sassafras Ridge; Billy Williams, Crutchfield; Robert Adams, Cayce; Richard Adams, Cayce; Paul Garrigan, Cayce; Ann Garrigan, Cayce; Maxine Garrigan, Lucy Garrigan, Billy Harrison, Cayce; Joe Campbell, Cayce; Billy Campbell, Cayce; Joe Taylor, Cayce; Glynn Dean Bard, Palestine; Billy Wade, Palestine; Tolbert Dallas, Lodgeston; James Burton, Lodgeston.

Where Authority Belongs

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Within recent weeks there have been encouraging indications at Washington of a readiness to heed the needs and the purposes of the people themselves, rather than the demands of bureaucrats and theorists.

Certain members of Congress have urged a more reasonable exercise of the taxing power, to restore a lagging confidence. Others have reminded colleagues that their responsibilities to the constituents who elected them should outweigh loyalties to political office-holders.

In many ways the trend appears to be swinging from a policy of recklessness and haphazard economic experiments, toward one of encouragement of production and recovery.

Americans will hope that such members of Congress continue their efforts in behalf of the nation and its citizens. For they realize that it was the American worker and producer, with his eyes on the American scene—not the theorist, with his eyes on Europe—who built our nation into greatness.

They realize that the American insistence on the right of every man to enjoy a high standard of living, to exercise full freedom of religion and of speech, and to look forward to improving his work and his condition was established, not by political and economic theorists, but by the workers and citizens themselves.

As a result of their power and their labors, America achieved a record of progress and of well-being for all its people, unique in history. Bureaucratic ideas, borrowed from overseas, have hindered rather than helped such progress.

The efforts of those representatives at Washington who are striving to restore authority to the people merit support and encouragement.

Under our American form of government, that's where authority belongs.

"Love one another"

IN A world where warriors of every nation have won the plaudits of mankind it is well worth one's time to consider the greatest warrior that history has ever known—Christ Jesus. Unequipped with material armaments, girded only with love for God and His creation, he went forth singlehanded to do battle with every phase of evil. His remarkable success in conquering error culminated in his personal victory over death.

The gentle Nazarene's conflict with beliefs of materiality was not prompted by avarice, jealousy, pride of power, or resentment; nor did he instill thoughts of such things as the Way-shower and his little band of followers faced undaunted the battle cry of materialism.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, in her Message to The Mother Church for 1932 has written (p. 3), "It does not follow that power must mature into oppression; indeed, right is the only real potency, and the only true ambition is to serve God and to help the race." The spiritually unenlightened individual might well be at a loss to know just how to go about serving God and helping the race. Possibly he may find much food for thought. Even if "home" is nothing more than a lodging house, a cheery, "Good morning," and an encouraging smile, may help to determine whether the day is to be a profitable or a non-profitable one in the experience of another. On the other hand, how often indifference, jealousy, or greed has been the basis of bitter conflicts between individuals and nations!

The Bible tells us (Song of Solomon 8:6), "Jealousy is as the grave; the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a most vehement flame." One might ask: "How can I control jealousy? I have tried to do it, but it seems stronger than I." The solution is to be found only as one resolutely turns to God, humbly seeking release from belief in that which is unreal, because it is without spiritual foundation.

Avarice and pride of power have no place in the consciousness of spiritual man. All the sons of God are equal. Each one is a complete idea of Mind, governed by divine Principle, and amenable only to the laws of Life, Truth, and Love. Indifference has no more place in man's consciousness than any other argument of the supposititious mortal mind. The fervent desire to help another, coupled with love for God, will reveal hitherto unseen opportunities to destroy all belief in these erroneous traits for ourselves and others. And destroyed they must be. Love makes no truce with evil.

The banner of victory over evil in every form will indeed be raised when men have learned the truth of Mrs. Eddy's words on page 39 of "No and Yes," where she says: "True prayer is not asking God for love; it is learning to love, and to include all mankind in one affection. Prayer is the utilization of the love wherewith He loves us."—The Christian Science Monitor.

CONSIDERATION OF MCCRACKEN REA

The Rural Electrification Administration has given preliminary consideration to an application for an additional loan to build rural lines centering in McCracken County, and has outlined the steps which must be completed before an allotment of funds can be made. REA is corresponding with C. D. Harris, project superintendent.

It will be necessary for the project sponsors to obtain signed applications for membership in the cooperative as well as applications for electrical service from it. Also obtain signed easements for the right-of-way for the power lines.

Although no retail rate for selling electricity can be established until all cost factors have been determined, a rate has been tentatively suggested, under which each customer will pay a minimum bill of $2.50 per month regardless of the number of kilowatt hours consumed.

Speed in development of this project depends very largely on prompt compliance by local leaders and the community with the REA requests for information and action. If the information is satisfactory and the local organization adequate, REA expects to be able to allot money to meet the entire construction cost. No money will be lent to pay for rights-of-way.

DO YOU NEED CASH?

The rose is red, the violet blue,
Your little bill is overdue!
So pay it now—don't wait till then
The rose and violet bloom again.
For if you delay it thus,
No violet will bloom for us.
Unless you pay, the rose will rest
Upon a fair and manly chest;
The birds will sing, but what of that?
We will not hear here we are at.
So come across, we need the dough,
Not in the spring, but now, you know.
The rose is red, the violet blue,
Do we need cash? "I'll say we do!"
—from The Railway Conductor

TO A BUSINESS MAN

Sock him on the kisser,
Put him on the pan,
Roll him in the gutter—
He's a business man.
Pillory the sucker,
Pike him in the eye,
Jump upon his torso—
He's a business guy!
Has he built a business to enormous heights?
Brand him as a cheater—
Never mind his rights!
Does he give employment?
Is the payroll big?
Put the bum in irons!
Toss him in the brig!
Does he pay in taxes what the law calls for?
Why, the dirty reptile should be paying more!
Blast him in the headlines,
Charge some crooked acts,
Let this be your slogan:
"Anything but facts!"
Has he made some money?
Get his scalp today!
Say, where does he think he's living, anyway throttle of the famed "638." It was a foggy, rainy night. Visibility was poor. Casey leaned far out of the cab to keep his eye on the route ahead. The train was late, and sickling to his motto "Casey Jones is always on time" he opened up the throttle to speed on his way. But down the line, one freight had pulled into a siding—and another hadn't hardly cleared the man line. Casey saw a caboose and three cars in the path of his engine. He yelled "Jump, Sim!" But he stood by his throttle his strong, lean hands on the air brakes to the last. Casey was dead. But not a passenger injured.

"Casey Jones mounted to his cabin; Casey Jones, with his orders in his hand; Casey Jones mounted to his cabin. Took a farewell trip into the Promised Land."

The bandit car will be brought to Fulton through the courtesy of the Ford Dealers and will be exhibited free to the public.

The "Death Car" is now on a nation wide tour, working in conjunction with the president in a nation wide drive to prevent crime.

With this exhibition, a lecture will be given by C. Wiley Stanley, nationally known criminologist and long connected with the Associated Anti-Crime Union of America. Mr. Stanley gives a brief talk at the car, explaining what happened at the time the bandits were snuffed out by the officers, detailing something of their careers and answering questions that he gives the audience the privilege of asking.

This exhibition shows the result of our government's ruthless drive against crime.

A special invitation is tendered public officials, police officers, school teachers and ministers.
