STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

Young Paul Ellis Wonders Away From His Father's Home.

Paul Ellis has disappeared and his whereabouts are unknown even to his immediate family.

He has been seen by no one since Monday morning, when he left his father's breakfast table and started down town.

The suspicions of his family were not aroused until Tuesday, when his protracted absence became a serious matter.

His father and brother at once instituted enquiry among his companions but failed to learn anything which could possibly aid them in their search for the missing young man.

Judge Winfree reported having seen him Monday morning walking slowly out the Palmyra road, but he had attached no importance to the circumstance.

It was not until Tuesday that it was learned his father left the city following the Palmyra road almost to its terminus, but his search was fruitless.

His father and brother were joined by several other relatives and friends of the young man this morning and a thorough search is now being conducted.

Paul Ellis is a son of Mr. Allen Ellis, a leading citizen of Hopkinsville.

He is about 18 years of age and during the past two years has been in the employ of Judge J. M. Carroll as Secretary and stenographer.

He had acquired wonderful proficiency in stenography and was well known as a rule, poor, living in rather rude dwellings and only cultivating sufficient land to satisfy their primitive wants.

But all of this is now changed. In no part of the country has such rapid and substantial progress been made in the last fifteen years as that surrounding Crofton.

The mode of living has been succeeded by the nice frame cottage with its white walls and green blinds, surrounded by neat palms, where flower beds and lawns are cultivated.

Such are the changes that have come over the people north of us generally and around Crofton particularly.

As showing the spirit of the times, the citizens of Crofton are now building by the way, and are now maintained by district and city taxation as supplemental to State aid.

This school is now under the efficient management of Prof. C. B. Piman, who has two assistants in the work.

The average attendance is 140 pupils. The most conspicuous feature of the school is the establishment of which Crofton can boast, is a large flouring mill owned by J. E. Croft, and operated by Mr. Esmerling.

This mill contains all the modern improvements and supplies a large area of country with meal and flour.

Crofton has also quite a number of stores. The most noticeable being that of Mr. J. E. Croft, a large two-story brick building, filled with all the goods which go to make the complete stock of a general supply store.

Mr. C. A. Brauer, the New York correspondent, is also among the leading merchants and presides over the distribution of Uncle Sam's mail.

He is a live and progressive citizen. V. H. Martin and Long & Brauer have each well equipped drug stores, and carry large stocks.

The hotel is presided over by Mr. C. M. Day, an excellent hostler. Mr. Day is also a prominent citizen and a member of the Christian and Methodist churches.

There are three churches in town representing the three great denominations, Baptist, Christian and Methodist.

A Masonic lodge and John Boyd Post, G. A. R.

Six miles north of Crofton is a place of considerable historic interest. It is known as Salt Lake, and is said to be the first place in the Mississippi Valley where salt was manufactured.

The tradition is that in 1783, Daniel Boone and another man whose name is not known, in 1783, and that they visited the spot. The man who was with Boone located there and built a well about thirty feet deep, walling it up with puncheons.

The kettles in which the salt was boiled were floated down the Ohio river from Pittsburgh, then up the Cumberland from whence they were brought overland. Salt was made here for about ten years at the rate of eight or nine bushels per day.

At this point oil exudes from the earth, and there are also indications of natural gas. At one time efforts were made to secure oil, and the result was that the salt stream was ruined by oil being turned into it.

A company of Eastern and Kentucky capitalists are, at this time, engaged in prospecting in this locality with a view to ascertaining if oil can be found in paying quantities.

This company is headed by Mr. T. B. Atkinson, of Lexington. If they succeed in oil being piped to Crofton for shipment, and then the place will have a boom in earnest.

East Wheeler's Good Luck. Ticket No. 88,455 drew the capital prize of $400,000 in the December drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery.

One-fourth of this ticket was held by Earl Wheeler, living at No. 10 Grove street in this city.

A Democratic reporter to-day called upon Mr. Wheeler and learned that the ticket had been placed in the hands of Banker J. V. Morris for collection, and agent H. F. Oliver of the American Express Company.

Mr. Morris has the amount—$100,000—less $100.55 express charges on the 10th inst., and $100.55 for the ticket.

THE LEGISLATURE.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. BILL FOR THE BENEFIT OF MINERS PASSED.

The Judge Jackson Matter and the Constitutional Convention Bill Postponed.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 6.—The House made another stagger at the Jackson reports yesterday, but again postponed action until Friday week, on account of the absence of Mr. McClure, who is especially interested in the supplemental majority report.

The Constitutional Convention bill was also delayed again. It was ordered printed last Saturday, and yesterday a further order was entered postponing action on the bill until Friday, March 7.

Mr. Shouse, of Woodford, offered a resolution calling on the Auditor for information as to the amount of money paid out during 1887 and 1888, for the support of the Bureau of Agriculture, Horticulture and Statistics. The resolution was adopted.

Having shifted to a future day the important matters of the Constitutional Convention, the House got to work on the bill to require corporations operating mines and manufacturing to pay their employees in lawful money, prohibiting the use of scrip or merchandise checks, and requiring full settlement at least every two weeks. The bill has had a hard time to get to a vote on its passage.

It was once more reported yesterday from the Committee on Mines and Mining, who expressed the opinion that it should pass without any of the amendments that had been offered.

The fight over it was the main feature of yesterday's session. Mr. Cooper offered a substitute which was the original bill divested of the clause making it a misdemeanor to use the scrip or checks.

Mr. Richardson offered a substitute which prohibits the use of scrip, but does not require settlements every two weeks. It requires settlement within thirty days from demand.

Mr. Cooper made a feeble attempt to hang up the bill by raising points of order at every step, and by making motions to adjourn. His calls for yeas and nays couldn't get a second and both Mr. Settle, who was in the chair, and the House sat upon the gentleman.

The amendments were all rejected. Mr. Richardson withdrew his substitute, and Mr. Cooper's substitute was rejected. The bill was then passed, and is one of the most important that has yet passed the House, affecting millions of dollars of invested capital.

The gentlemen who voted nay on the passage of the Miners' Wages bill were: Blacker, Cooper, Green, Kinkead, Moore, McClure, Petty, Riley, Settle, Stephenson, Tomlinson and Triplett.

The bill passed by yeas 60, nays 12. The bill offered by the Prison Committee vesting the control of the State prisons in a Board of Commissioners of Prisons and Charities and taking it from the Sinking Fund Commissioners, came up to-day. The board is to consist of five members appointed by the Governor, who shall act without compensation. It shall appoint a Secretary at a salary not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars, who shall have an office at Frankfort.

A further consideration of the bill was postponed to Friday next week. Ashby Warren, son of the member from Lincoln, was added to the list of pages. Several other names were offered, but the House thought this enough for the time.

The hour for the orders of the day brought the Committee on Education forward again. Several local bills were reported and passed, when the House adjourned for the establishment of State normal schools, was presented with the recommendation that it pass. The reading of the bill was called for, and before it was completed the hour for adjournment arrived.

PREFERRED LOCALS.

I have opened up a first-class saloon, opposite Schmitt's restaurant, and propose to keep at all times the choicest brands of liquors, wines, beer &c., and will be pleased to have my old friends and the public give me a call. Next door to Bowles' saloon.

Persons knowing themselves indebted to H. B. Garner are requested to call at the saloon and settle where they will find either myself, J. Sol. Fritz or James Wallace who are authorized to receive for same.
