THE LISTENING POST

● The moral of this little yarn is that all things come to him who waits, and that a fellow can stand anything once the cup is placed to his lips. This latter thought comes to me as a pleasant memory of the pre-Christmas period when I was confronted with the necessity of taking a liberal slug of castor oil. I was asked if I preferred that it be mixed with orange juice, and bravely I said no, I would take it as was. I did, and that proved that a fellow can stand anything once the cup is placed to his lips.

● Now my social education has been sadly neglected in past years. I have been to few parties in my time and never played bridge and never expect to. No criticism of those who do; that is all right to me, but I never expect to take up the game. Privately I know I do not have enough sense, or the right sort of sense, to play the game and it is missing nothing by my lack of attention. However, failure to dance in my youth and play bridge in my manhood has caused my social side to be utterly neglected and has many times brought fear and chills to me. For instance, there is the well known receiving line which frequently occurs in society. I have read of it, have heard of it, have seen it through windows and every time I thought of going down a receiving line I had a one hundred point drop of blood pressure and could feel my face and the back of my neck burning at the same time. I just could not see myself going down a receiving line.

● But I can and I did and lived to tell the yarn. My memories of the occasion are vague and blurred; coming to me only in snatches of color and background. What I did there, what I said, I will never know, save in the whispered gossip that I may hear accidentally—the sort of talk which stops abruptly when I appear in sight—but I have an idea that I must have left a trail of utter confusion as I lightly skipped down the reception line—like a gazelle, like a snail, or more probably, like a goat. I guess I will be remembered all right.

● It all came about by having friends. Mrs. Lon Bradford is a friend of mine and when she was observing her silver wedding anniversary, she notified me to be present. Mrs. Bradford is always enthusiastic in her manner and she left the impression that her soiree would be quite spoiled if I did not attend. I had no desire to spoil her soiree (gosh, what a dollar and a quarter word I have unearthed here), and so I told her I would be there. At the time I really believed I would be sick with flu on the appointed date, but I got well, more or less, and there was no excuse. So, like a couple of lambs going to the slaughter, I set out for the soiree and the receiving line.

● It wasn't so bad as I feared. To begin with Ernest Fall and Abe Jolley, dressed up like plush horses, met me at the door and I know what to say to these lads. I'm used to them and by giving them some snappy talk, I managed to get my Adam's Apple three inches deeper into the throat and faced the other gauntlet with a little tighter nerve. There was the registration desk. A hotel clerk can usually make me feel like a worm of the dust, and here was a desk with a lot of good looking ladies around and I trembled with awe and had two chills right then and there. I got the Authority in Charge to register and so escaped that danger. Then came the receiving line, but by this time I was in a daze and I am told by members of my family that I did a fair job here. "You did look a bit like you were drunk and talked more that way," I am told, "but on the whole you did rather well." Personally I have no memory of the matter. I remember starting, remember saying something to Mr. and Mrs. Bradford and after that the mist

Lyon Named Head Of State Mental Clinics

Succeeds Wilson Who Quit Post; Given Free Hand

Frankfort, Ky.—Dr. A. M. Lyon, superintendent of Western State Hospital at Hopkinsville, was appointed state director of hospitals and mental hygiene today and assured by Gov. Keen Johnson there would be "no interference, political or otherwise, with your performance of your duty as you see it."

Dr. Lyon, 52, succeeds Dr. J. G. Wilson, who resigned and later made public a letter charging "political interference" with operation of the state hospitals.

Dr. Lyon has engaged in private practice and public health work since 1912.

Between 1923 and 1925 he was county judge of Elliott county, the only doctor in the county, the coroner, the county health officer and vice-president of the Sandy Hook Bank.

Born In Roscoe
Born in Roscoe, Ky., he studied medicine at the University of Louisville and located at Sandy Hook. He stayed there 14 years and then came to Frankfort. He was superintendent of the feeble minded institute here for 10 years. Later he engaged in public health work for two and a half years at Louisville, Ky. He became head of Western on February 15, 1939—his birthday.

In announcing the appointment the state's new welfare commissioner, W. A. Frost, said Dr. Lyon was one of the three men recommended, as required by law, by the Council of the Kentucky Medical Association—a group elected by physicians in the association's 11 districts.

Dr. Lyon was elected unanimously from among the three nominees by the medical association's advisory committee, Governor Johnson revealed in confirming the appointment. He said "the commissioner and the Governor did not feel competent to make a choice."

Other Nominees
The other two nominees were Dr. F. K. Foley, superintendent of Eastern State Hospital at Lexington, and Dr. Isham Kimball, member of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital at Gulfport, Miss.

Dr. Lyon upon becoming state director of hospitals and mental hygiene today said Dr. Isham Kimball would become superintendent of Central State Hospital and Dr. W. R. Summers now there would head Western State Hospital.

Gayda Gives United States Fair Warning That Limit Is Nearing

Rome.—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, replied to President Roosevelt's fireside chat today with a warning that the "tolerance" of the Rome-Berlin Axis is limited. He called the President a "man of undeclared war" fought against the Axis.

Writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, Gayda cited two specific actions which, he said, would mean "open United States intervention for which no excuse could be created." But he indicated the Axis would not take any action until they had been put into effect.

The steps which Gayda said would bring America close to war were any attempt by American flagships to force the Axis' counterblockade or the cessation to Britain of German and Italian ships now taking refuge in United States harbors.

"Nothing New" Verdict
Gayda asserted that, in itself, the President's speech had produced "nothing new." He said it only

J. P. Cavendar Is Graduated From Air School

John P. Cavendar, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cavendar, 112 Cedar street, was graduated from the Air Corps Primary flying course on December 27. This course is given the Flying Cadets at Spartan School of Aeronautics, Tulsa, Okla., Cavendar graduated from Fulton high school and received his degree at Southwestern college, Memphis.

He has been with the air corps for 10 weeks and has now completed what is known as the primary stage of instruction. This consists of sixty hours of flying in Air Corps training airplanes and over 200 hours of classroom instruction in such ground subjects as Navigation, Meteorology, Theory of Flight and other allied subjects required first class military pilots.

Those who graduated will now proceed to Randolph Field, known as the "West Point of the Air," to receive an additional ten weeks training and if successful there will then go on to Kelly Field, also near San Antonio for the final ten weeks of advanced training.

Raw Materials Swap For Guns Considered

Washington.—The possibility of receiving payment in raw materials for some of the war implements that may be loaned or leased to Great Britain was raised Tuesday by President Roosevelt, as Congress squared away from a battle-royal on the whole lease-lend program.

At a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said that rubber, tin and other commodities might prove acceptable repayment for American fighting machines sent to England and destroyed beyond repair by Nazi bombs. The principal problem just now, he indicated, was drafting legislation which would assure the return of the implements or their equivalent in other goods.

May Discuss Plan Monday
He thought it would prove particularly difficult to include language covering the details of future contingencies, and was inclined to believe that general provisions would prove the most workable.

A little earlier the President's secretary, Stephen T. Early, told reporters that Mr. Roosevelt probably would discuss the lending-lease plan in his annual message to the new Congress, to be delivered in person on Monday. But, he added, Mr. Roosevelt probably had not decided whether to go into detail or cover the subject in a general way. In any event, he added, the entire proposal would be put before Congress soon after the session begins.

Donaldson And Cutler Picked For Border Talks

Frankfort, Ky.—State Highway Commissioner J. Lyter Donaldson and State Highway Engineer Thomas H. Cutler were appointed Tuesday by Gov. Keen Johnson as Kentucky's members of the joint commission to determine the exact boundary line between Indiana and Kentucky in the vicinity of Green River Island, near Henderson.

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana and Governor Johnson agreed to name two commissioners each at a recent conference here.

The general impression was that the speech added little to the situation, only "reiterating more explicitly the concept and idea the President personally or the American press already had exposed."

"It is not without significance, however, that President Roosevelt showed he gives due consideration to that current of American public opinion which manifests considerable reluctance to be involved in war," one high Fascist said. Some sources said the President's call for more aid to Britain put them on guard for specific proposals in his forthcoming message to Congress which they might regard as virtual acts of war.

United States Plane Production Is Now About 700 Per Month

Washington.—The Defense Commission today reported the Nation's arms output was up to 2,400 aircraft engines, 700 planes, more than 10,000 semi-automatic rifles and 100 tanks a month.

The defense program the commission said, already had put 1,000,000 persons to work in the last two months and "several million more will be needed by next November."

The agency likewise reported that it had approved contracts totaling more than $10,000,000,000 and that the Army and Navy had awarded nine-tenths of these, including $3,300,000,000 for ships, $1,500,000,000 for factory expansion and housing, $1,500,000,000 for planes and parts, $600,000,000 for ammunition, $500,000,000 for guns and $400,000,000 for trucks and tanks.

50,000 Planes
These contracts, plus those placed by the British and other nations, commit American industry to produce 50,000 airplanes and 130,000 airplane engines, 9,200 tanks, 2,055,000 guns of all kinds and their ammunition, 380 navy ships, 200 mercantile ships, 210 camps and cantonments, clothing and equipment for 1,200,000 men and 50,000 trucks.

Also under contract are forty Government factories, among them the first mass production tank factory in the world, five explosive plants, six ammunition plants and five machine gun plants.

Gun contracts embrace 400,000 automatic rifles, 1,300,000 regular rifles, 17,000 heavy guns, 25,000 light guns, 13,000 trench mortars and 300,000 machine guns. Other contracts call for 33,000,000 loaded shells.

Ship Output Hiked
Another item was that a new fighting ship slides down the ways every twelve days to join the Navy. The report, designed to give the public a summary of the commission's work since its formation last May, was released not many hours after President Roosevelt informed the Nation last night that armament production to date was "not enough" to meet the heavy demands and that "more of everything" was needed fast.

Liberty Church To Celebrate "Loyalty Week"

Liberty Baptist church, located several miles West of town on the Middle Road, is beginning Sunday, January 5th, to have regular service each Sunday, instead of just part-time. Rev. L. M. Bracher, Jr., is the pastor of this church. This marks the first time in the history of the church that full-time work has been done—heretofore services having been held every other Sunday.

Much progress has been made by the members of this church during the past year and a new basement to the church has just been completed. A picture will be shown Sunday morning to celebrate going into full-time work.

"Loyalty Week," which begins with the service Sunday morning will be held throughout the week with services being conducted each evening at 7 p. m. A large crowd is expected to attend these services. The sermons for the week, which will be delivered by the pastor, are as follows:

Sunday morning—"Marching On."
Sunday night—"A Missionary Challenge."
Monday night—"God's Eternal Word."
Tuesday night—"Training for Service."
Wednesday night—"A Praying Church."
Thursday night—"Challenge of Visitation."
Friday night—"Personal Evangelism."
Sunday morning—"Why Go to Church."
Sunday night—"Christ the King."

Man Builds Boat Inside Basement Has To Wreck Wall

St. Paul.—Probably you thought it really never could happen, but—Police Detective A. M. Soderberg built an eighteen-foot boat in his basement, and now has to remove twenty-two cement foundation blocks to get it out.

Soderberg insists he "planned it that way."

Reactions Not Working Fast In Office Today

The old reactions were not working properly in the Leader office this morning. The publisher was sitting in for the society editor and taking the calls. The bell rang and one of these vibrant charming feminine voices asked: "Is this one nine four one?" The old reactions failed the publisher. "No," he answered, "this is 30." "Sorry, but this is one nine four one," the charming voice insisted. "Happy New Year."

Anyhow, thanks to the unknown and charming voice, and the many others who called with the more formal New Year wishes. All were appreciated.

Naming Aggressor In Tomcat Fight Is Too, Too Much

Seattle.—Police Judge William F. Devin says the question of which tomcat starts a backyard brawl hardly is one for his court.

He acquitted Adolph Meissner of the illegal use of firearms in killing a neighbor's cat on the technical point that an air rifle is not a firearm. High point of the trial was Judge Devin's statement.

"I refuse to decide who the aggressor was in a battle between two cats. We have enough trouble trying to pick the human fights without enlarging our jurisdiction."

Senator Charges Davis Has Stake In Nazi Victory

Lee Says "No Foreign War Committee" Backer Is Rich Oil Merchant

Washington.—Striking out at the No Foreign War Committee, Senator Lee (D., Okla.), asserted today that its "angel" is a wealthy oil merchant with a "great financial stake" in Nazi victory.

He said in a statement that "the story came to light with the revelation by the chairman of this miscalled committee, Verne Marshall of Cedar Rapids, Ia., that the committee's angel is a rich, international oil merchant. The record of this man Davis shows conclusively the great financial stake he has in a complete Nazi victory."

Marshall told reporters in reply to questioning here yesterday that W. R. Davis, New York oil operator, had offered financial assistance to the committee if needed but said that his (Marshall's) newspaper, the Cedar Rapids Gazette, had underwritten the committee at the outset with a $100,000 guaranty.

Davis himself issued a statement in New York today saying that "it is true that I am tremendously interested in any movement that might bring peace to the world" and "have from time to time contributed to organizations directed to that end."

"It is with emphasis that I endorse all the purposes of the No Foreign War Committee in its vigorous effort to keep the United States out of unnecessary wars," Davis added. "The No Foreign War Committee stands for America first, last and forever."

Marshall further said, in reply to reporters' questions, that Davis had sold expropriated Mexican oil to the axis powers but only prior to the war and said that the Standard Oil and Royal Dutch Shell Companies had done likewise.

Mrs. Glass Dies At Martin, Tenn.

Mrs. W. R. Glass, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. Fry, died at her home, 204 Poplar street, Martin, Tenn., Monday night at 10:30 following a long illness.

Her husband, Buck Glass, preceded her in death several years ago. She was a member of the Methodist church at Martin.

Funeral services were held this morning at the residence, conducted by Rev. W. C. Waters. Burial, in charge of W. W. Jones & Sons, was at East Side cemetery.

She leaves one brother, J. L. Fry of Union City; one sister, Mrs. Sadie Chamber of Fulton. Nieces and nephews are Malcolm Chambers of Martin, Robert D. Fry of Union City, Mrs. Key of Memphis, Mrs. Walter Williamson, Mrs. Mike Fry, and Mrs. Essie Herrin of Fulton and Mrs. E. E. Shore of Rives.

Classroom Whisperers Are Told That They Have The Right Idea

Washington.—Boys and girls in his schoolroom—how to win friends and influence people. If our schools had been doing their job properly Dale Carnegie could never have made a fortune.

Alan H. Monroe of Purdue University, president of the Association, said:

"An operating democracy demands clear and thoughtful speech on the farm, in the factory and government. Speech can and must go to work. Labor controversies must be settled by talk and not by force.

"Farm policies must be co-ordinated by discussion and agreement, and government policies must gain their sanction from a people who have thought and debated them."

ENGLAND'S GOLGATHA IS HERE

President Roosevelt's recent address to the nation will have the effect of loosening all the blind fury of which Adolf Hitler is possessed during coming days and weeks. For the President's talk left no doubt of the temper and of the intentions of this nation. Our way is now clearly marked out, and even Hitler can realize this. For months he has hesitated to loose all the fury of his bombers against the great cities of England; thinking perhaps sentiment in the United States might not turn heavily against Germany if restraint should be used in attacking non-military objects. Now Germany and Hitler know this is a vain hope; that the United States is firmly set against Nazi aggression and is determined to follow Britain's destiny even to its final setting. It was not coincidence that on the quiet night when the United States listened to the President German bombers rode the skies above London, raining down fire and explosive on the stricken capital. It was Hitler's answer to the United States and Germany's defiance of world opinion.

It is an open question as to whether such bombing can win a war or not. It is quite true that the destruction of churches, historical shrines and business houses should have little effect on military morale. But greater than military morale is the morale of the public. It is well known that destruction of civilian morale usually precedes a crackup of military power. In the first World War civilian morale in Germany cracked first and the army, although unbeaten in the field, could carry on the war no longer. So it remains to be seen what the all-out bombing of London and other great cities will do to British morale on the home front. If it brings stern anger, which in turn brings determination to see the thing through, these bombings will make stronger the British arm. But if it brings fear, wishful thinking for peace at any price, an overwhelming yearning for anything which will remove this nightly menace—then such tactics might win the war for Hitler. All these things remain to be seen. Only the future can write the answer.

If Britain's air arm can be made strong enough to carry the war to Berlin British people can be satisfied. If they can feel that Berlin is suffering as London is suffering; if they can believe that British airmen are dropping bomb for bomb on German cities, they may be content to wait until better days come. But if they must continue to cower in bomb shelters and know that Berlin is feeling none of these terrors, there will arise a great feeling of dissatisfaction. That feeling may have a profound effect on the continuance of the war.

In any event, it is readily apparent that London and all England face the darkest days of the war. Hitler now has nothing to fear, nothing to wait for; and his time grows increasingly shorter. If he is to win the war he must do so within the next few months. A year from now will be too late for him to win. Whether he will attempt an invasion of England remains to be seen. If he tries that it will be a clear indication that he is willing to gamble on almost one throw of the cards. If he tries a troop invasion of England, and is beaten back he will never be able to hold public opinion in Germany and his overthrow will be swift. But the card has fascinating possibilities. He might win. His troops might win a bridgehead in England; they might march into London and other great cities. Yes, the card has possibilities.

Or, Hitler might be more cautious

A first page story tells of the stirring development of Fulton High School, with particular reference to the beginning of the Commercial Department.

This Department was in charge of Miss Ethel Fisher and is proving a great asset to the school.

Cowgill Rogers died at his home in Miami last Tuesday and was buried in that city. He was a former Hickman citizen and the husband of the former Miss Oral Hackett of this city.

The Fulton fire department reported that it made a total of 76 runs during the year 1924, with a total property loss of $21,000.

Dr. C. H. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was the speaker this morning at the chapel exercises of Fulton High School.

The Rotary Club, in their first meeting of the year, discussed plans for the coming year. Gus Bard and Enoch Browder were on the program, which was in charge of Hoyt Moore.

Miss Katherine Williamson has returned to her school duties in Ramer, Tenn., after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Williamson.

Russell Rudd returned to school in Cincinnati today after spending the holidays with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Rudd.

HELD IN ABEYANCE

With most of Europe and a large part of Asia at war, the incongruity of awarding a Noble Peace Prize for 1940 is apparent to everyone. Even last year the honor was withheld, though if Neville Chamberlain had been successful in his appeasement policy he undoubtedly would have been designated. This year the failure of that policy is so conspicuous that Norway, herself one of Hitler's victims, could scarcely find the heart, if she had the will, to bestow a citation of such unpleasant implications.

There are a number of incongruities about the Nobel Peace Prize itself. It is one of five awards, amounting to about $40,000 each, established by the Swedish chemist Alfred Bernhard Nobel. The others, in the fields of physics, chemistry, medicine and literature, are conferred by Swedish agencies. The Peace Prize, most widely publicized of them all, is at the grant of the Norwegian parliament, the Storting.

The ironic part is that Nobel is the man who invented dynamite, first of the "safe" explosives. The scientist was deluded into thinking that his invention, because of the tremendous havoc it could cause, would eliminate war. Instead, dynamite and the still more powerful explosives which followed it, were seized upon by the military men of the world to add to war's "schrecklichkeit." The World War dissolved the mirage.

In 1935 a new chapter was added to the award's strange history. In that year the Peace Prize was conferred on Carl von Ossietzky, a German. At that time Hitler was already firmly established and was plotting his campaigns of aggression. Ossietzky himself was under Nazi surveillance and later languished in prison while Hitler fulminated against the choice of an anti-Nazi as recipient of the prize.

In 1938 the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to the Nansen International Office for Refugees at Geneva instead of to a single person, and this too was resented by Hitler, whose persecutions had necessitated establishment of refugee assistance.

But the Nobel Peace Prize still stands, a monument to an aspiration which now seems even more improbable of fulfillment than ever. In all likelihood, it will be withheld for the duration of this war as it was during the World War.—Mayfield Messenger and try merely to pound London to pieces with his air squadrons, thinking thus to break British spirit and win a negotiated peace. Coming weeks will reveal the pattern clearly.

overtook and covered me.

● I came to, however, at the refreshment place. Ah, me, how pretty girls can be these days! I saw here two of my favorites, and a modicum of sanity came back to me. Virginia Meacham and Lillian Cooke are two of my long time favorites. I have a crazy way of being reminded of certain unrelated things when I see people. There is no sense in it whatever, but whenever I see Virginia I always think of the Cedars of Lebanon, which I never saw, and when I see Lillian I always think of a clear and lovely mountain lake, which I never saw. So, I saw these two lovely lassies, had my beautiful thoughts, and then was gently pushed on my way by competent and capable Hazel Scruggs. I came to when I found myself out in the yard and shuddered when I thought of the things I might have said or done while in the house.

● But this society stuff has something. I may go for it in a big way, and break out in a suit of tails or a tuxedo before long.

Battle Forecasts Prosperous Year For Coal Industry

Washington.—Greater increase in coal production bringing more jobs, more regular employment and resultant prosperity in the coal fields were forecast today for the new year by John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association.

"The bituminous coal industry," he said, "enters 1941 with prospects of further increases in mine output in pace with the steadily expanding activity in war industries as well as with increased demands for fuel coal in almost every channel."

"Mine operations are being geared to meet promptly and efficiently whatever demands for coal may eventuate, but conditioned, as always, upon the sufficiency of transport facilities and the continuity of mine labor."

RAF OFFICER BELIEVES NEW WEAPON TO BREAK UP NIGHT AIR RAIDS

Ottawa, Ont.,—Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding of the British Royal Air Force declared today a new method has been found which he believed would shortly take "all the weight and sting" out of the Nazi night bombing attacks on Britain.

Sir Hugh said at a press conference that equipment for the new method of air fighting was being rapidly completed by gave no details. He said also he expected the worst of the night bombing menace would be over by spring.

Sir Hugh arrived today for meetings with Canada air officers, to be followed by conferences in Washington and other places in the United States.

OUR ANNUAL WORD OF APPRECIATION

Operating a business in Fulton is always a pleasure, for we have grown to know people, so intimately and well that we always feel that we are living with warm friends. We have seen the young people grow up; we have served more than one generation, and we trust that we will be able to serve others yet to come.

As the year comes to a close we feel that it is fitting to express our sincere appreciation to the many who have helped us make our business what it is. Without these friendships life would be a dull affair; with them it is a happy and glorious adventure through all the days that come. To all we extend our best wishes for a—

Japan Is Facing Difficulties In War Goods Buying

Washington.—Japan faces increasingly service difficulties in purchasing vitally needed raw materials and supplies abroad in 1941, according to a survey of its financial status after the strain of 43 months war in China.

Japanese purchasing power in the United States, the survey indictated today, already has been restricted to about $200,000,000 annually—a sum which represents most of the money derived from sales of Japanese goods here and their newly mined gold.

The extent of future Japanese buying in the United States will depend, trade experts here believe, on the volume of Japanese-made goods sold to the American market, and also on the extent Japan is able to increase its gold production.

Commerce department figures for the first ten months of 1940 show imports from Japan amounted to $122,667,000, a slight decrease from the 123,312,000 worth of silk and other products purchased by Americans in the equivalent period in 1939.

From time to time proposals have been made that the United States embargo the import of Japanese silk—a major commodity in Japanese sales here—as a retaliatory measure against Japanese acts considered detrimental to American interests in the Far East. No such action, however, is believed imminent at the moment.

27,700 Homes
Being Built For Defense Labor

Washington.—The National Defense Commission was informed today that 27,700 Federally-financed dwelling units for defense workers were under way and that private housing projects for similar purposes were going ahead rapidly.

The information was submitted to the commission by C. F. Palmer, defense housing co-ordinator.

Palmer estimated that the first 50,000 family dwelling units completed by both public and private agencies would be ready for occupancy early in 1941.

"It is anticipated," he added, "that the number of houses under construction and completed will total at least 100,000 by March."

New Income Taxes
Put In Must Class
By Two Senators

Washington.—Heavy new income taxes were put in the "must" class today by Senators Connally (D-Tex.), and Johnson (D-Colo.), who said higher rates were needed to help finance defense.

Connally estimated that the new Congress would have to raise at least $1,000,000,000 in additional revenue from all sources. He listed personal and corporate incomes, electricity, cosmetics and luxury products generally as the probable fields.

Specifically, the Texas Senator told reporters that substantially higher rates should be imposed in the tax brackets from $4,000 to $100,000 or $150,000.

"Persons with incomes of $10,000, $15,000 and $20,000 should make a very substantial additional contribution," he declared.

Both Connally and Johnson are members of the finance committee, and will play a part in drafting any new revenue legislation.

Senator Johnson expressed the belief that "there will have to be heavier taxes on everybody."

We Look Ahead With Hope!

Benjamin Franklin once said, "Our Constitution is in actual operation; everything appears to promise that it will last; but in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

Of course, no one knows our destiny as individuals or as a nation in years to come. But we look ahead into 1941 with new hopes—hopes that we may remain at peace as a nation; hopes that we as a business firm may enjoy a continuation of your goodwill and patronage.

Our pledge of Honesty and Fair-Dealings is as old as the name itself—

Christmas Mail For Britain Declared Lost

London. —Ordinary letters and parcels posted in the United States for Britain between November 11 and 14 and between November 18 and December 6 have been lost "through enemy action," the British General Postoffice announced Monday.

JUDGES' PENSION ACT DECISION DELAYED BY JURIST'S ABSENCE

Frankfort, Ky. —Decision in the much delayed Appellate Court judges' $5,000 annual pension act was deferred again today when Circuit Judge Joseph P. Goodenough, chief justice of the special court considering the case failed to arrive for final consultation.

The Covington man wired asking the other six special judges to hand down the opinion, which it was understood was ready, but they declined to act in his absence. They fixed January 17 as the date for meeting again. Goodenough's telegram said he was ill.

Consideration of the constitutionality of the measure was delayed last fall when Attorney General Hubert Meredith objected that two members of the special court named by the Governor to decide the issue had "sponsored" the bill's passage through the 1940 General Assembly. They resigned and two new members had to be named. The judges were to have met here last Friday, but when it was learned not all could arrive, the meeting was postponed until today.

SPORTS COMMENTATOR DOESN'T KNOW SIGNALS

New Orleans. —The weekly luncheon of the Monday Quarterbacks Club today was crowded with visiting officials of schools represented by Sugar Bowl teams, and a local radio sports commentator was obtaining "thumbnail sketches" of guests at the head table.

"Are you with Tennessee?" he asked the fourth man from the left.

"Yes," replied the guest. "What is your name please?"

"Cooper."

"What do you do at Tennessee?"

"I'm the Governor," replied the visitor, "Prentice Cooper."

LEAHY'S CRUISER ARRIVES AT LISBON

Lisbon. —Delayed three hours by a dense fog, the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa carrying Admiral William D. Leahy to his new post as U. S. Ambassador to Vichy, France anchored in the Tagus River today after exchanging salutes with a shore battery.

It was announced Admiral Leahy probably would remain in Lisbon until the new year.

MORGENTHAU SAYS FEDERAL RESERVE PLANS MOVE

Washington. —Secretary Morgenthau said Monday an important move, apparently of a monetary or banking nature, would be taken soon by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Treasury Secretary declined to give reporters any hint of the exact nature of the action to be taken by the board.

Imminence of some move was divulged by Morgenthau when he was questioned by reporters about the purpose of a meeting he held Monday afternoon with Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board, and Lauchlin Currie, administrative assistant and economic advisor to President Roosevelt.

MAN JAILED FOR HELPING FRIEND TO END LIFE

Denver. —For aiding his "best friend" to commit suicide, James H. Shears, 41-year-old railroad worker will spend the next 60 days in jail.

Shears was sentenced Monday when he admitted he had lifted his friend, Merrill R. Nolin, 44, to a window ledge from which the latter leaped four floors to his death.

Shears said he and Nolin went on a "drinking bout" after losing their jobs. Nolin became depressed, Shears said, and expressed the desire to die.

INFLUENZA INCREASING AT ARMY STATIONS

Washington. —An increasing number of cases of respiratory diseases and influenza was reported by the War Department today at Army stations on the West Coast and in Southwest and Central States.

The infections were described, however, as being of "mild character" and not important from the viewpoint of mortality.

The department said the illnesses were considered at their height in Kentucky, Oklahoma, Iowa and Colorado. San Antonio, Texas, was listed for the first time in reports just received for last week.

Vatican Guards To Get New Guns— Muzzle-Loaders

Vatican City. —The Vatican's fur-helmeted Palatine Guards are to be given "new" guns as soon as they can be cleaned of the last century's rust.

No reason was given by Vatican sources for replacing the guards' modern rifles with an 1840 model of the muzzle-loader which Napoleon found effective, except that it appeared to conform to the Pope's wish to restore the uniforms and equipment of antiquity.

Two men are needed to handle the "new" gun, one to fire it and the other to reload. Ballistics experts say it can carry 1,000 yards.

Norton L. Upson, Pioneer Oil Man Dies At 93

Buffalo, N. Y. —Norton Lowrey Upson, 93, one of America's pioneer oil producers, who once refused to join in business with the late John D. Rockefeller, died Sunday of a heart ailment.

Upson, veteran of the War Between the States and a fighter with Gen. George Custer against the Indians, formerly headed the Commercial Oil Company of Parkersburg, W. Va., the Pease Oil Company, Buffalo, and the Upson Oil and Soap Company, Parkersburg.

It was in the 70's that he refused the Rockefeller offer because his own business was too good.

"That was one of the big mistakes of my life," his son, Henry T., quoted him as saying.

Texas Advises British To Eat Peas For Luck

Amarillo, Texas. —Sheriff Bill Adams is so certain that black-eyed peas bring good luck if eaten on New Year's Day that he telegraphed the British Legation in Washington a bit of advice:

"Urge Prime Minister Churchill and all Britishers to eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day."

Eight years ago, the Sheriff began eating black-eyed peas as his New Year's invitation to fortune. Each election since, he has been returned to office.

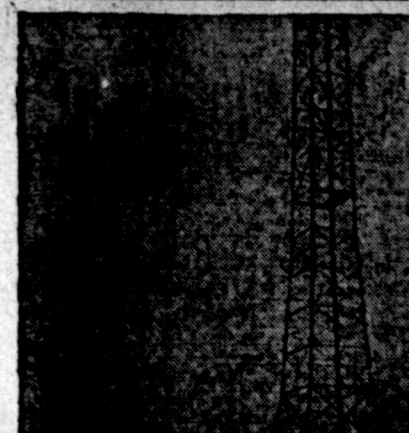

Townfolk followed his example. Last year, grocers said black-eyed pea sales for four days preceding New Year's surpassed the total pea sales in Amarillo for two previous years.

COPPER, the oldest metal of commerce, was discovered by a half-savage tribe on the island of Cyprus centuries ago. Through the flight of centuries it has been man's most useful metal. Recently, there have been found many new uses for the red metal.

When the engineers of the National Broadcasting Company started to improve the broadcasting of programs so that there would be better reception in all parts of the country, they decided that some metal should be used in the Tuning Houses which could be properly grounded and shielded to give a satisfactory performance of service.

At the new WFLA Tuning Station, located with the broadcasting towers at Port Washington, L. I., cross crimped copper panels were used. These panels are made of 16 oz. copper and weigh only about two pounds a square foot of wall surface. Their construction provides for a very simple erection and the elimination of caulking of any kind means a complete copper-to-copper assembly. These panels are easy to install and are fire-proof.

The engineers of the National Broadcasting Company have also used these copper panels in the Tuning Station of WRC in Washington, D. C. Radio listeners have sent in thousands of congratulatory letters on the reception of their programs since the installation of these copper panels.

These copper "panels" were first used by the General Electric Company on its large building at the New York World's Fair. They gave an excellent performance of service under the most severe atmospheric conditions possible for a period of two years and when the building was dismantled, the panels were removed and found to be in excellent condition. They will be used for other construction.
