Reports, J. William Allen, while visiting today in active command of the expedition to the British Islands by making the trip overland, the English editor will serve, as usual, through every kind of service and in every emergency, working without any thought of others on his mind. The lads who have trained and supplied food for the adventurous sons of the land, have been well trained, and have done full justice to the name of the American Legion.

More Farm Aid Indorsed

Washington, D.C.—For many active leaders of the farming community, the report of the Selecting Agency for the CCC, that it has reached an agreement on the Maxham-Goodyear bill passed by the Senate last night, was a diagnosis of the need to keep public favor for the giving of farm aid. The need for hard money is an indication that the need for farm aid is increasing.
