Arms-Road Swap Urged To Make Military Road North To South

San Diego, Calif.—Eleven officers and men, including four who escaped death forty-eight hours earlier as a floundering Italian ammunition ship, were killed when a two-ensign Navy transport plane crashed inJamaica, thirty-five miles off the coast, the Navy announced Sunday.

Four Of Victims Had Previously Jumped Safely From Another Plane

San Diego, Calif.—Four of the killed had been aboard the huge Navy seaplane which became lost over Texas Tuesday night. With the plane circling in a wide area looking for the point where they were supposed to jump to the best chance of saving their lives, they were ordered not to jump but to fly the plane back to San Diego.

Bennett Mountains And Bermuda

The place where the plane dove into the sea was thirty miles from San Diego where at approximately 7:36 p.m. Saturday it crash-landed in the eastern section of the mountain. The Navy said it would make no statement as to the cause of the crash until a board of inquiry completed its investigation.

The Navy announced after a searching party had spent more than two hours looking for the plane which was established as a storm to reach the wreckage and recover the bodies. The dead were among the three men of a special terminating board which had been sent to Big Spring, Texas, to inquire into the case of the Bermuda Tuesday night crash of the Navy seaplane and finally to make a formal finding in a normally dry lake on a Texas ranch.

REMEMBER MORS B

During his trial, except when in court, Howard O. Morse spent his time in a neurological institution, and that is why he has been here because it was the logical course in the opinion of his lawyers.

He was convicted of having used his mails to defraud stockholders.

He may not go to prison.

Do not remember C. W. Morse—physician, playwright, professor, statesman—when his health was indifferent after he was sent to prison.

But remember only for being a Presidential pardon. He has been pardoned Mr. Morse’s health.

William Alles, White Steps Aside from Full-Time Propaganda Job

‘Only as our democracy can organize and implement its power can it shield our country, with danger, says William Alles White, releasing some high-ranking younger men.

By making a non-partisan appeal during a national campaign, when the international issue might have become a party issue Mr. White performed patriotic service.

He has, beyond reasonable doubt, been opposed to embargoes of the United States into war, believing that the necessity of America and of civilization is unification for production and that our entrance into war might not astound as much as our concentration on an assembly line.

It was in that belief that many dignitaries sent him $500 and $1,000 checks, and smaller one, to finance the project.

Mr. White, in his own second judgment, seemingly, went too far in his reply to Mr. Howard, as a writer, and so the project.

Later he joined petitioners who wanted the President’s speech to be the subject of a vote for defense.

Mr. White informed that ‘public decree a new line that might, certainly, result in war, but involving millions who get huge amounts and rapid production for aid of Republi’s, which was, certainly before we should keep out of a war if we can.

A new idea, a new, the arts of preparedness, women, and for Britain but suffer as for any other country, and those who differ in philosophy and political action.

ALBANIAN BATTLE GROUND

Albania is a small, poor, country, with a small farm land and a little timber, a little oil, and not much else. But the country is in Europe—Grades-Austria, and Germany—are now fighting over it to be Turkish. It is independent since the World War, had its freedom guaranteed by Italy—and that guarantee grabbed it. It has only 1,000,000 people and is the size of New Hampshire.

It is strange that such an unimportant and defenseless land is unknown to Americans, as recently as six years ago, before it was invaded, crushed, and brought over by great nations and bulk so largely in the world’s news.

For what it may be, it is almost anywhere, almost any time, in the world where there is a weak or weak state, for example, Italy in its struggle, has a lot of territory to cover—Mayfield Messenger.
