Crisp To Head Scout Work In This District

D. D. Crisp of Paducah is taking charge of Boy Scout work in the district of the Chief Paducah Area Council, which includes Fulton, Mayfield, Hickman, and Union City it was announced this week. He will work full time on this job as Field Executive under Roy C. Manchester, Scout Executive of the Chief Paducah Area Council.

Mr. Crisp has been principal of Heath school near Paducah, until accepting this position, and has engaged in volunteer Scout work for a number of years. He has also worked with the Future Farmers of America in that section.

An effort is being made to revive Scouting in Fulton, through the cooperation of the Young Business Men's Club of this city. Training received by youths who belong to active scout troops has definite bearing on the character and initiative of boys, and Scouting is a very fine movement that needs the full support of the parents of the community, it is pointed out.

1938 B. B. SEASON SWINGS INTO ACTION

Sport fans are eagerly awaiting the opening of the Kitty League season on May 12. The baseball season on May 12. The baseball season when Skipper Ray Clonts, manager of the Fulton Eagles, opened the Spring training camp at Fairfield park with approximately 100 players on the grounds for try-outs. Boys came into Fulton from every direction seeking a berth on the local team, and from this collection, a club will be made up for the 1938 season just ahead.

Work has been underway at the park for some time on improving the grounds and diamond. The grandstand has been reconstructed, and new bleachers built to take care of larger crowds expected to attend as the result of installation of lights for night games this year.

It is too early yet to predict which players attending the school will be chosen for positions on the Eagle club, but it is certain that not many of the old players with Fulton aggregation last season will be on deck again this year. So, all in all, most of the faces seen on the home team this year will be new so far as local fans are concerned. However, with such a goodly number to choose from, there is every indication that the Eagles will be a strong team and provide plenty of competition in the pennant race.

Kitty League Officials Met Here Monday Night

Final plans for the opening of the 1938 Kitty League season were made here Monday night, when presidents and officials of the various clubs gathered at the Rainbow Room with President J. E. Hannephin presiding.

President Hannephin gave a report on the financial condition of the league, pointing out that all indebtedness is being cleared and everything is shaping up well.

With most clubs playing at night this year, it was agreed that lights be turned on thirty minutes before game is called to allow players to warm up. Schedules and form in making reports were made familiar to all officials in order to facilitate record keeping.

Among officials present besides President Hannephin were: Shelby Peace, vice-president; H. G. Gilliland, Jackson; Boy Myer, Paducah; Cecil Moss, Union City; Hunter Wells, Owensboro; J. M. Eckles, Mayfield; K. P. Dalton, Fulton. "Red" Smith, manager of the Hopkinsville club and Benny Tate pilot of the Mayfield Clothiers, were also present.

Fire Damaged Store Of A. C. Butts & Sons Here

Fire of undetermined origin did considerable damage to the A. C. Butts & Sons store on State Line street early Friday morning. The blaze was discovered by passengers in a bus from Murray. Assisted by a truck driver they broke into the store and started fighting the blaze. D. J. Jones, employee of the store who resides near the grocery, heard the burglar alarm touched off when entrance was forced to the building, and came up and helped extinguish the flames which were under control when the fire department arrived.

The room and walls were badly burned and a considerable quantity of merchandise was destroyed.

"Practicing what you preach," declares Joe Kasnow "should not be made an excuse for always preaching."

SERMON SUNDAY BY REV. J. J. REYNOLDS

The sermon below was given by Rev. J. J. Reynolds at the Church of Christ, Sunday, April 24. Beautiful Antithesis. Text: 2 Cor. 4: 16-18.

"Wherefore, we faint not: but though our outward man is decaying, yet our inward man is renewed day by day. For our light affliction, which is for the moment, worketh for us more and more exceedingly an eternal weight of glory; while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal but the things which are not seen are eternal. This along with Rom. 6:23 and many other passages, shows that the antithetical method of presenting truth was a favorite method with the apostle Paul. We have in this passage before us the largest number of antithetical ideas to be found in any one place in all of the New Testament.

First, we have the outward versus the inward. The outward man is decaying, weakening, growing old under the weight of the rapidly passing of years. In Ecc. 12: 1-7 we have a wonderful description of age. But the inward man is renewed day by day. By communion with God in prayer, by participating in the public worship or by going about doing good this renewing goes on. When by reason of infirmity we are hindered from attending the public worship, or being actively engaged in doing good, the memory of having lived and loved, and labored for the glory of God, when we were able to labor, will renew the inward man to the end of the journey.

Second, we have affliction versus glory. There are the light afflictions contrasted with the weight of glory, and momentary afflictions contrasted with glory eternal. This is a wonderful contrast, and a beautiful thought when contemplated in its fullness.

And finally, there are things that are not seen. With the physical eye we look at physical objects. These are transitory. These are all to pass away. They should occupy only a second place in our lives. With the eye of the heart, by faith, we see the invisible, the eternal things. "Moses endured as seeing Him who is invisible." Heb. 11:27. Amid the restlessness, the turmoil, and strife of this life, we are able to endure, as we look at the eternal blessings that await us. So, let us guard our faith. "For we are partakers of Christ, if we hold fast the beginning of our confidence firm unto the end." Heb. 3: 14. "We are not of them that shrink back unto perdition, but of them that have faith unto the saving of the soul."

Homecoming At Walnut Grove Well Attended

From places distant and places near, people who spent their childhood days in the Walnut Grove community gathered to commemorate the founding of the community church Sunday, which was founded one hundred years ago. Many church leaders of prominence from other locations who once held membership in this church were present.

The program for the day was inaugurated with preaching in the morning by Rev. Waters of Martin. After a well-prepared dinner on the ground, singing was enjoyed for a while. Then Rev. Louis M. Evans, pastor narrated the colorful history of the church since its foundation in 1838. Then many old people arose and told of their childhood days there, and of the religious life of the church fifty years ago. Special music for the occasion was provided by Miss Melba Jackson, the Sellars family and the Men's Chorus of the First Baptist church of Fulton.

Vaughn Quartet At South Fulton School

Approximately 500 people enjoyed a musical program given at the South Fulton gymnasium Monday night by the Vaughn Quartet. The program was well arranged, including sacred, popular, and humorous numbers.

Easter Buying Boosts Retail Business Here

Retail trade generally throughout the country for the periods immediately preceding and following Easter was disappointing, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. While Easter work compared favorably with the corresponding calendar period of last year, only five cities—New Orleans, Honolulu, Kansas City, Buffalo and Minneapolis—reported actual gains over the 1937 Easter period.

Sales in local stores just preceding Easter took a sharp trend upward, Fulton merchants report. In the Louisville district a rush of Easter buying swelled volume of retail sales considerably above a year ago. However, not so much impetus was manifested in "larger ticket" merchandise or installment commitments. Little improvement shown as yet in most wholesale categories.

Employment services reported 379 placements—6.9 per cent under preceding week.

Bank clearings 21.7 per cent under same week year ago.

Warm rains reported beneficial to young tobacco plants. Usually large strawberry crop estimated for Western Kentucky. Over 100,000 acres of lespedeza planted in Breckinridge county this season.

HISTORY OF OBION COUNTY

The original act establishing Obion County was passed October 24, 1823, and was entitled "an act for the establishment of a new county in the northwest part of the state." It was given the name Obion (an Indian word signifying "many prongs") from Obion river, and until 1870 it included what is now Lake county. It was organized on January 19, 1824, at the house of William M. Wilson, three miles southwest of Troy. The first county court was composed of the following justices: John McKee, Seth Bedford, Joseph Taylor, George C. Davidson, Rice Williams, William M. Wilson, William Wilkinson, Samuel D. Wilson Jr., John Parr and Stephen Mitchell, of whom Seth Bedford was elected chairman.

An election of officers for the county then took place, which resulted as follows: Clerk of county court, Samuel D. Wilson, Sr.; sheriff, Fletcher G. Edwards; register, Asa P. Hurt; trustee, Obidiah Roberts; ranger, James Bedford; surveyor, Robert B. Harper; coroner, John T. Abington; and Josiah G. Clark, Wyatt Bettis and William McKinney, constables. At the same time Stephen Mitchell, Rice Williams and John McKee were appointed to make out the tax lists for their respective neighborhoods. Provision was made for the laying out of various roads in the county.

The court continued to meet at the house of Col. Wilson until the following January when it met for the first time at the court house in Troy. This court house was a round, log structure, 18x20 feet, with one window and one door. It was built by William B. Hutchinson, in the fall of 1825. The public square had been cleared by James Harper, who received the sum of $23. He also built the first jail, a round, log building, for which he received the sum of $270.42. The second jail was built of hewn logs about 1844. This, after a few years was succeeded by a brick structure, which in turn was replaced by a framed building. The latter was burned, and another of similar style was erected. This, too, was destroyed by fire and about 1881 a large brick jail, which still stands, was built at a cost of $9,000.

In 1831 a brick court house, fifty feet square and two stories high, was erected. This building was so badly injured by an earthquake shock in the 1842, that it was taken down, and a one-story building constructed from the same materials. On January 24, 1848, an act was passed by the Legislature loaning to Obion county the state taxes for the years 1848-49-50 for the purpose of building a court house; the revenue thus loaned to be repaid in three annual installments, the first to be made Oct. 1, 1852. Accordingly, a two-story frame building was erected in 1852 for a court house.

Troy dates its existence from March 16, 1825, when it was located by Rice Williams, John Parr, William Terrell, G. W. Adams and Joseph Taylor, commissioners appointed to fix the seat of justice for Obion county. Fifty acres of land were donated as a site by William Polk of North Carolina, who afterward added fifteen acres to be used forever as a public commons. The site was covered by a heavy growth of timber. In 1831 ninety-six lots had been sold for an aggregate of $3,936.50. The first house, a double-log-house, was erected by Rice Williams on or near the present site of the Bright House, and there he kept a tavern until his death in 1829. The first store was opened by Col. Lysander Adams, who for more than half a century continued a prominent and honored citizen of the town. For the first year or two he had a partner by the name of Dreibelis. They occupied a double log house which had been built by a man by the name of Culp, on the northeast corner of the square. Adams continued to do quite an extensive business for a number of years, and it was he who shipped the first bale of cotton and the first hogshead of tobacco from the county. The next merchant of note was W. S. S. Harris, the father of a son who bore his name and was a druggist. J. H. Moran, of Dresden, also did an extensive business, through a branch house at Troy, for several years. D. Glas was another prominent merchant. The firm of Polk, Crockett & Co., composed of Thomas A. George and Alexander Polk and John M. Crockett, at a little later date controlled a large share of the business. They were succeeded by J. S. Moffatt, who operated as one of the leading business men of Obion county for many years.

Other early business interests at Troy included: George B. Wilson and Cave J. Crockett, general merchandise; E. S. Walton, dry goods; J. A. Roehell, John Bennett and Jerry Stephens, groceries; W. S. S. Harris, drugs; S. E. Lyons, blacksmith shop and grist mill; Harris and Murphy, blacksmith and wagon shop; D. H. Dalby, livery stable; Dr. W. Brice, News-Banner; J. H. Hildebrand, Bright House, and Charles Inman, Inman House; W. M. Bright, W. Brice, A. W. Caldwell, A. B. Weddington and William H. Coover, physicians.

The first physician to locate in Troy was Samuel L. Teator, who practiced his profession for several years. Next was Dr. Wilkerson, brother-in-law of William H. Wilson.

The first newspaper established in Obion county at Troy was the Western Advertiser, in 1853. The type, press and other material were purchased by a joint stock company composed of many of the leading citizens. The first publishers were Cowan & Parsons, the former of whom withdrew in a short time. In about a year Parsons was succeeded by D. A. Chambers, who continued the publication under the name of the Troy Times, until the beginning of the Civil War. After the cessation of hostilities it was revived by S. M. Howard and J. B. Maxwell, who were succeeded by Sumpter Baker. Baker published the Signal of the South for a short time, after which the office material was sold to a firm in Fulton, Ky. The next journalistic enterprise in Troy was the Obion News, established by Thomas A. Batte, who was succeeded by Sherrill & Doughty. They continued until January, 1879.

when they sold the office to Dr. W. Brice and T. P. Walker. In June, 1881, the News was consolidated with the Troy Banner, a paper established by the Banner Publishing Company a short time before, and continued as the News-Banner with Dr. Brice as editor. The New Era, established in May 1885, by the New Era Publishing Co., and edited by W. B. Stovall and J. W. Bransford was suspended about Sept. 1, 1886, and the subscription list transferred to the Obion Democrat of Union City.

Western Sun Lodge No. 88, A. F. & A. M.—first secret society established at Troy, charter granted Oct.

16, 1839, to A. M. Chamberlin, W. M.; H. W. Wright, S. W., and Jethro L. Byrd, J. W.

Troy was not incorporated until 1852. Officers elected were Alfred M. Bedford, mayor; J. S. Moffatt, Dr. David Bright, Allen Hord, Dr. Horace Head, S. W. Cochran, aldermen.

we will work all the harder

It was hoped and expected that an increase in freight rates would make it possible to spend more money on the railroad—to increase payrolls and purchases.

These plans have been upset by refusal of an adequate increase in rates and by continued decline in business and consequently in traffic and revenues.

Instead of increasing expenditures, it is necessary to reduce them in order to live within income.

That payrolls and purchases have to be reduced is a matter of deep regret that is shared by all who work for the railroad and by our neighbors.

This temporary reversal will not stop our railroad. We are determined to work all the harder to maintain the prestige of the Illinois Central System.

JOB KILLER!

The Number 1 job killer! That is the way the Businessmen's Tax Advisory Committee characterizes the Federal Tax on Capital Gains.

The reason for that is clear. Jobs depend on investment. And the capital gains levy, because it prevents putting savings to work, by exacting excessive tax penalties from those who are fortunate enough to make a profit on a business or investment venture, retards and stops investment—the source of all jobs and all productive wealth.

This organization also points out a fact that is startling and is not widely known. According to U. S. Treasury data for the year 1935, the capital gains levy is a "soak the little fellow" tax. In that typical year, aggregate capital gains were much larger in the lower income than in the higher income brackets. And the ratio of capital loss (for which little credit is given in making tax returns) to capital gains was highest in the lower income brackets. It's the "little man" who gets stuck hardest!

Businessmen aren't the only ones who are fighting the capital gains measure. An army of distinguished economists are fighting it. Publicists by the score are describing its dangers. Thus, Mark Sullivan recently wrote: "If America is to be kept a going concern, the capital gains tax must be repealed or greatly modified." That is a strong statement—but no stronger than the subject justifies. What sane man will take a chance on financing a new endeavor, whether it be a grocery store or a steel mill—knowing that if he loses his investment, he must bear the entire loss—but that if he makes a profit, a large part of it will be taken from him by this tax?

All the evidence can be summed up in one sentence: We must change the capital gains tax if we are to encourage recovery and progress in this country.

RUIN BY REGULATION

Had the federal government, deliberately and with malice aforethought, sought to conceive a regulatory policy for the railroads that would ruin them swiftly and surely, it could hardly have done better than it has done!

In other words, largely because of a transportation policy that was supposed to guarantee the lines a fair return on their investment, and to protect the interests of shippers, workers and investors alike, the entire railroad industry is today on the verge of bankruptcy, with a substantial part of that industry already in the hands of receivers.

A simple set of statistics is all that is needed to reveal the shocking plight of the rails—our greatest single industry. The industry is capitalized at a little less than $23,000,000,000—and almost $5,500,000,000 of this is now in the hands of receivers. The industry operates 253,183 miles of line—of which 77,183 miles is now in the hands of receivers. To put it another way, 30 out of every 100 miles of track and one dollar out of every four of railroad capitalization is today in the hands of receivers.

A bad situation? Yes, and it seems certain that it will become worse, unless swift and decisive remedial action is taken. The Association of American Railroads says that nearly 50 per cent of the roads operated in the red last year—a condition that is bound to lead to more failures, more receiverships. And the RFC estimates that 27 more Class 1 roads may be forced into receivership before the dawn of 1939.

The decision of the ICC, which gave the railroads but little more than a third of the 15 per cent rate increase requested, was a bombshell to the hopes of investors, to the hundreds of industries which are dependent on the rails for all or part of their sales, and to the cause of re-employment in industry in general.

This great problem, which in some way touches the life and means of LITTLE WILLIE had been misbehaving and his mother caught him in the act. She turned him face downward across her knee and applied the back side of a family hairbrush where it was calculated to do the most good. Upon being released, the culprit presently checked his sobbing to put the question: "Mamma," he asked between sniffs, "did Grandpa ever do this to my daddy when he was a little boy?"

"He certainly did," answered his mother. "And did his papa spank him?" "I'm sure of it." The child considered for a moment. "Well," he said at length, "what I want to know now is, who started this darn thing anyway?" (American News Features, Inc.)

livelihood of every American, can only be solved by an awakened, aggressive public consciousness that will demand a deal for the railroads.

H. C. OF L.

That old demon, the high cost of living, is again in the headlines. The tremendous slump in business has made it a very real problem to million of families.

In the light of that fact, it would seem that this is a very poor time for the proposal of legislation to destroy merchandising methods whose cardinal principles of operation is to give the buyer more and better goods for less money.

And yet laws are being proposed, aimed at bigness and efficiency, which would levy so excessive a tax against mere size that increased prices, dissolution, or both, would be forced. Whatever the politicians say, measures like these hit straight at the poor—at those who have the greatest stake in economical merchandising. The great need of today is a lower cost of living—not a higher.

KITE DANGERS

To the average Fulton boy a kite is nothing more than a few sticks and some paper and twine. It appears on the surface of it to be just about the most innocent toy ever invented. And yet, newspapers in various parts of the country have found it necessary to issue warnings to kite flyers, especially since several fatalities have resulted from it. The kite, so long as it consists of only paper, sticks and string, is not dangerous. It is when a few feet of wire to form the frame or a light strip of copper to help form the tail are added that the kite becomes dangerous, and the danger is traveling in every electric wire that runs above the head of the boy who is flying the kite. Coming in contact with the "live wire," the kite that contains metal of any kind becomes a conductor of electricity, and if it happens to be a high-tension wire enough electricity can be carried down the kite string to kill. Children are not expected to know this, and the kite-flying season is at hand and parents should see that they are cautioned without delay.

AN APRIL FREEZE

Uncle Sam has not had time to make a complete survey of the damage done fruit and other vegetation by the recent April snow and ice storm which swept over the entire Middle-west and a large part of the western area, but since the advance discussion of it is not widespread and newspapers in but few sections actually report death-dealing conditions there appears no reason why housewives should start worrying for fear they are in for a poor preserving year. This much is known for sure—the great volume of the fruit crop in this country is not far enough along the first week of April to be wiped out. It may be a total loss in a few sections, but it seems safe to assert that the great bulk of it wintered the storm and will, with the help which old Mother Nature always renders in the niche of time, be in abundance. That canning bridge is still another one that need not be crossed until you get to it.

A FINE INVESTMENT ALWAYS

There is no excuse for anyone with a plot of ground large enough for growing vegetables not having a garden, and no matter what the weather conditions are at this moment, it is not too late to start one that will prove a fine investment before the coming summer is over. Not only is it a good investment, but a garden affords healthy and big cities of many manufacturing concerns is detrimental to both themselves and the country.

This decision, and the results now evident in carrying it out, are going to mean much to towns like Fulton all over America. It is bound to result eventually in a decrease in size and importance of the big cities of the country and the growth of our smaller towns and cities as industrial centers. The southern states, for instance, already have shown plenty of proof of this. The growth of towns between 1,000 and 5,000 has been remarkable through the south in the past 10 years. Will these towns not become the fair-sized cities of the next 10 years?

No, say the wise ones. Industry has learned its lesson. It prefers to do business in many small towns rather than in one large city. Not only is this seemingly the wisest way for industry, but best for the American people.

'THE NEWS' WEEKLY SCRAPBOOK

Week's Best Recipe—

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE—Sift together 1 pint of flour, 1 teaspoon of salt, 4 teaspoons of baking powder (level), chop 2 tablespoons of butter. Wet with milk for a soft dough (about 1-2 usually). Bake 12 minutes. Split and butter and put the following between and on top: one cup of crushed strawberries, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg white. Beat all together until firm. Then trim the top of cake with whole berries or some cut in halves.

The Flowergrower—

Roses are often injured by too early removal of their winter protection. Wait until serious danger of frost is positively passed—at least until grass has taken on a fairly strong color. Then on a cloudy or damp day remove the protectors. Thus, the stems will have a chance to harden before sun and wind strike them in a possibly damaging way.

In The Laundry—

If you are trying to remove spots from clothing with a cleaning fluid, it is most important to have the right sort of cloth for the job. A piece of wool or a piece of old sweater is splendid to use on dark materials as it holds the fluid and still has good resistance in the rubbing, leaving no lint. If you have a piece of knitted goods try it in your next cleaning.

On Ironing Day—

When something prevents finishing of the ironing after you have the starched clothes dampened for ironing and the weather is hot, there is danger of them becoming mildewed if you leave them rolled. Try slipping the roll into a heavy paper bag and put in the refrigerator until you have time to iron them. They will keep indefinitely without mildewing and be in fine shape for ironing when removed.

Kitchen Kinks—

To improve the flavor of carrots, turnips, cabbage, onions and peas add a fourth of a teaspoon of sugar for each three cups of water used in cooking. . . . Meat rubbed well with vinegar before cooking is less likely to be tough. . . . Fresh rhubarb needs little water when it is cooked as a sauce and none at all when it is used in a pie.

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY

HITLER'S AMERICAN BUND

Only a few days ago a group of Hitler's Storm Troopers (called the American Bund) assaulted and practically killed a handful of American Legionnaires, part of them Jews, in New York, under our flag, in this country, our America. In any other country those men would have been summarily lined up before a wall and shot. In America they were arrested and tried for breach of peace, a small fine placed upon them, and permitted to go on their Swastiking way. An oddity is that one of them was tried before an American War Veteran and a Jewish Lawyer volunteered to defend him, successfully defended him and set him free to go back to his WPA job. That is the American way. In open defiance he did the Hitler salute and cried "Heil Hitler." That is typical of the ingratitude which typifies Hitler himself. It all happened here.

Until now this group of individuals who goose-stepped around in America wearing their brown shirts, doing the Nazi salute, and crying "Heil Hitler" have been tolerated as any other group of harmless insects. But when insects become obnoxious they must be exterminated. To quash this fanatic bunch no law is needed—only a thorough public disapproval. No law can so effectively operate as that invoked by public distaste, every true American (including the many good Americans of German blood) should seek to condemn such anti-Americanism.

Such condemnation would be commendable. We in America love our own American way, our own American flag, and most of all American

FOLKLORE DOCUMENTS

Frequently some of the indulgent readers of this column ask me how I get the data for my tidbits of folklore. My reply has always been that I lived through the time when these things were going on. Recently I have been re-reading some old diaries of mine that ought to convince even the most skeptical that these experiences are not second-hand. Here are a few extracts from my diaries for the first four months of 1906, just thirty-two years ago. Put them together in your own way and draw your own conclusions.

January 23—"I whittled out a lot of hickory bark today for toothbrushes."

Toothbrushes, other than those made of blackgum or hickory, were scarce a third century ago. A hickory bark toothbrush was a very select present for a young blade to give his lady love.

January 26—"I received my January comfort today."

COMFORT was a small monthly magazine, published in Augusta, Maine, that many rural people read in those days. It was in it or the AMERICAN WOMAN, I cannot recall which, that we read ST. ELMO, in twenty-two monthly installments, waiting breathlessly from issue to issue. Others read the same thing. I am sure, as nearly every year I enroll someone named for the heroine, Edna Earle.

January 30—"This eve we cut and hauled five white oak and chestnut telephone poles which are to be used on our new line."

That telephone line was the first one in our neighborhood, the one I have referred to as uniting sec-liberty. For those who do not like it, we would say betake thyself to tions that had formerly been separated by creek bottoms and hills. "Eve," of course, is poetic for evening, the time after noon.

February 7—"According to ancient weather signs there will be more snow, two frosts having fallen on this one and the fire keeps an almost continual noise like one treading on snow."

How seriously I believed this is now impossible to prove. The entries in the next several days fail to show any additional snow.

February 8—"This morning I bot-tomed a chair with white oak splits, my first work of this kind."

I am sure that my first effort was no worse than many another first effort. Anyway, I learned how this work is done and acquired a respect for those who can do it skillfully.

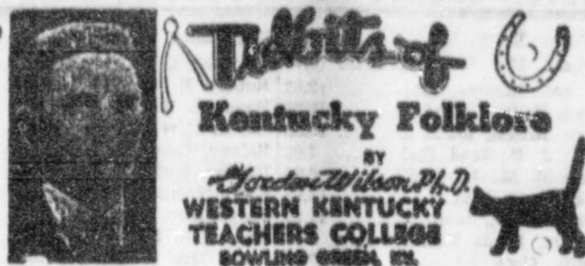

March 20—"This evening I attended three trials in Magistrate's Court. The offense was running horse on public highway."

Talk about being born thirty years too soon! I had seen one of the rash offenders of the majesty of the law, but I was too far away in the fields to make a competent witness. A further reading showed that one was proved guilty and fined $10 and costs, the other two acquitted.

April 14—"This eve I went to a log-rolling down in the bottom on —'s land. There were some fifteen hands, and we rolled until 5:30 P. M."

I note that I attended two other log-rollings within two weeks. I could go on for weeks. These small items were set down as the most natural things in the world; now they have begun to have some historical and folk value.

the land of the Swastika, become a Storm Trooper, goose-step, be careful of what you say lest you be shot, and don't think for you are supposed to carry a gun. Last but not least, we may need missionaries but certainly not your kind. And too, we would remind you that this is a land where all men are considered equal, even you and the Jews.

You have also probably noticed before this that the less a man knows the easier it is for him to make up his mind.

Some few Fulton girls have a fine sense of humor, but most all of them have a fine sense of rumor.

BURN DISTILLATE in Your Farmall 12 Tractor for Economy and Performance

The McCormick-Deering Farmall 12 Tractor gives top-notch, economical performance on other fuels, but it is at its very best when operating on No. 1 distillate or No. 1 tractor fuel. Actual tests and field experience show that your fuel dollar goes farther when you use distillate in your Farmall 12.

This fuel economy, together with balanced design and sound engineering, makes the Farmall 12 a leader in its field.

There are two other Farmalls—the F-20 for farms up to 200 acres and the F-30 for larger farms and ranches of 300 acres or more. All models burn distillate with unexcelled efficiency.

STEAMER CAPITOL COMING FOR FIRST EXCURSION

The Streckfus Steamer Capital, largest stern-wheel excursion boat on the inland waterways, will put its first visit of the season to Hickman Saturday, May 7, for a moonlight dance outing before continuing its northward cruise to St. Paul. The local outing, sponsored by the Elks Lodge 1294, will leave Hickman at 9 p. m. and return at midnight. A new 11-piece novelty dance band—Pichon's "Pepper Uppers," described by Capt. Roy Streckfus as one of the "hottest, snappiest" troupes of negro music-makers carried by the Capitol in many years, is furnishing dance music on the steamer's up river cruise. Its leader, according to the veteran skipper, is known as "Fats Waller's double from New Orleans."

A $13,000,000,000
Tax Bill

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

A recently published forecast of the 1938 tax bill now piling up for the American people to pay, sets the total at more than $13,000,000,000. That estimate, the forecast continues, is 35 per cent higher than in 1935, 30 per cent higher than in 1930, and 60 per cent higher than in 1921. It will be collected through many agencies, Federal, State and local, but always from the same source—the public. It represents 20 per cent of our anticipated national income. In other words, it will take one dollar out of every five earned collectively by the American people. That is the heavy load on American enterprise and American earnings that extravagance in government—whether Federal, State or local—inevitably entails. Announced with the opening of the New Year, the estimate introduces a discouraging note. It comes at a time when America has expressed its determination to spare no effort which would check recession and forward the progress of a healthy recovery. But recovery cannot be attained by loading both labor and enterprise with heavy and disproportionate costs of government. It can be aided by lightening that burden and by encouraging both labor and enterprise to progress. Promise of relief from unreasonable taxation would be one of the most constructive steps that any Congress or any State Legislature could take. Many public men realize this truism as recent developments at Washington and throughout the country have indicated. To them, the public should give encouragement. And to legislators who fail to realize it—whether at Washington or in State Capitals—is due a reminder that even a dollar of wasted public money is a dollar out of some constituent's earnings. Money raised by taxes is the people's money—and to spend that money carelessly without waste is the people's right.

A LONG STEP

Congress has passed and the president has signed the new housing bill, and it is now up to every citizen of Fulton and surrounding territory who is anxious to secure a home on the lowest and easiest possible terms ever devised to go busy and learn all about it. The purpose of the measure is to make possible vastly increased business in the building of modest homes by government financing and at the same time provide work for the huge army of building trades workers. The new plan attracts and its possibilities are great. It's invitation is extended principally to residents of the smaller towns of the country, for the present law gives little attention to a continuation of slum clearance. There is one thing that Uncle Sam will have to bear in mind, however. When a man invests $500 or $600 in a new home and undertakes to pay the balance in the next 20 years, he must have some confidence in the future. He is a working man, he must feel that his job is secure; if he is a small merchant, he must believe that business is not going to be hedged about with so many restrictions that he cannot continue. Congress has taken a long step forward by creating and passing this new bill providing for more and better and cheaper homes. Now it can help this nation-wide program to become still more effective by creating a confidence
