Union City To Tap Natural Gas Line

Natural gas service for Union City in the not-too-distant future became a virtual certainty when word was received this week by City Attorney Paul Hudgins of the granting by the Federal Power Commission in Washington of a permit for the construction of a Texas-to-Ohio pipeline which will pass near Union City, and ordering that Union City be served from this line.

The permit was granted to the Texas Gas Transmission Corp. authorizing them to proceed with building a 26-in. pipeline from Panola county, Texas to Middletown, Ohio, which is to pass a few miles east of Union City in a southwest-northeast direction.

It was understood here that a good part of the line already has been laid, with the most of the new construction to be done on the link between Memphis and Middletown. The company has laid down pipe at numerous points through this area, and it is believed that work on completion of the pipeline will begin soon.

In the FPC order granting the permit for construction, the Texas Transmission Corp. was ordered to furnish Union City with 1,000 m.c.f. of natural gas per day for distribution here by the Tennessee Gas Co., present distributors of the butane gas used in the city.

The order also provided that the rate charged the Tennessee Gas Co. by the Texas transmission firm be subject to approval by the FPC. Local officials also pointed out that the rate charged local users by the Tennessee Gas Co., as usual would be subject to approval by the Tennessee railroad and public utilities commission.

In addition to Union City, Paducah, Dyersburg and two towns in Indiana, all close to the pipeline to be built, and all petitioners with Union City to the FPC for service from the line, were granted service with natural gas from the line in the FPC order made public today.

Action of the FPC today followed activity during the past several months on the part of Union City in an attempt to obtain natural gas service from the projected line. The city joined with other towns along the line in petitioning the FPC to order that they be served if the permit to build the line were granted, and City Attorney Hudgins has made several trips to Washington to appear before FPC proceedings in the case to further local interests on the matter.

Pitch Dollars in Kitty Fund

Army Day Brings 10,000 Here And Laurels To Boys In V.F.W.

Great Day Here For Second Event Honoring Army

Mayor Boaz rode the fire truck with Tootie Roberts. Commander Harry Bloodworth wouldn't ride at all because he wanted to see his tremendous Army Day celebration come to the successful close that it did . . . and he had to be ten places at once.

People came to town by the thousands. It was one of the most colorful, largest and interested audiences that has come to Fulton in a long time and they stayed and enjoyed the day to the fullest. They went home with "their shoppin' done," which was good.

Starting the day off with a flash of color was the appearance downtown of the "wonder horse" from Metropolis, Ill. The animal gave the folks a good show and gave just enough gaiety to the air to put the home folks and visitors in a mood for the full program ahead. Zeke Martin and his WENK hill-billy band and a radio broadcast by that station filled the morning calendar.

At two o'clock on the bandstand on Lake street short ceremonies there started off the afternoon program. Honored guest and principal speaker for the day was Chaplain (Capt.) John Betzold, of Fort Knox, who spoke with force on the meaning of Army Day and its significance in a world beset with international striving to gain a lasting peace. He was introduced by the editor of the Fulton County News, who acted as mistress of ceremonies. Other distinguished guests on the platform were: Capt. Acy Murray of Owensboro and Lt. Ira J. Nelson of Paducah, both of Army Recruiting Service; Col. John S. Corbitt, Tennessee National Guard; and Sgt. and Mrs. Nicholson, of Princeton. Sgt. Nicholson was on recruiting duty in Fulton last year when Fulton's first Army Day event was staged.

Highlighting the program on the platform prior to the parade was the presentation by Chaplain Betzold of achievement awards to honor students from the schools in this area. Presented for outstanding characteristics in citizenship, scholarship and at-

FARMERS URGED TO SIGN PLANS

Chas. E. Wright, chairman of the Fulton County ACA announced today that the County Office has received information from the State Committee stating that the 1950 county appropriation will be based on a percentage basis from the participating farms of 1949.

The county committee urges every farmer to sign his 1949 farm plans so that Fulton county might keep its share of the National appropriation flowing into the county.

The reduction in the 1948 conservation program funds reflects a small participation in the 1948 ACP program as compared to 769 listed participated in the 1947 program, whereas, in 1948 only 464 participated. The value of all conservation practices reported by cooperating producers in the 1948 program amounted to $30,000 as compared to $109,000 reported in 1947. A proportionate decrease in the application of soil building material was also reflected.

The final date for signing the 1949 farm plan is April 30th. Farmers who have not signed are asked to do so immediately to avoid a last minute rush.

Sun Shines Brightly On Huge Parade And Visitors Who Came To Visit City

By Mary Nell McD. Wright

Wednesday morning Fulton opened the blinds and let the sun stream in and smile with favor on the city's second annual Army Day parade. As the day wore on and the afternoon's sunshine filled the city's streets and warmed every heart with the joy of a parade, more than 10,000 on-lookers spilled over the pavements to celebrate the day-long celebration. It was a tremendous success.

Those words "I Love a Parade" from Irving Berlin's song written during World War I sum up the sentiments of the American people, and Fultonians in particular, as their regard to parades.

In Fulton parades have always been woven closely into the life of the city. As far back as one can remember, yes, a brief glance back shows that even a circus parade meant far more than the whole of the circus. Many who lined the streets yesterday were reminded clearly (and with a touch of nostalgia) of the beloved Amer. Legion Drum and Bugle Corps without which a parade in the early 1930's was certainly not complete.

It was a carefree day and a day free from care. It was a day to relax and most people did. Amid the tumult and din of the festive day a group of youngsters, lined the edge of the speaker's platform, and with feet hanging, read funny books. They had a good supply. A large receptacle on the speaker's platform that held the flags in place, contained many volumes. Completely oblivious to the serious speeches and engrossed in the escapades of Superman, Dick Tracy, Flash Gordon and the Green Hornet . . . they read on and relaxed.

They sat on the curb and in the trees. The pint-sized tree that grew on the railroad siding near the platform was laden with colored on-lookers who came to saturate the joy of that wonderful parade. Besides the suspense that filled the air anticipating the on-coming parade there was equal anxiety as to whether the skinny branches would bear up under the pressure of no less than ten colored youngsters who perched on the limbs.

This News reporter, from her vantage point near the speaker's platform saw contented human beings at their best. It's amazing how incomplete would be real contentment in a crowd of people minus that true American "comrade" the lowly stick of chewing gum. Estimating the crowd at 10,000; it is believed that roughly 2000 packages of chewing gum were purchased. This does not take into consideration the real early-birds who chewed more than one stick while they waited for the trick horse to lead the parade down Lake street. At any rate it was a great day for the Wm. Wrigleys of Catalina Island.

If the chewing-gum vendor was a busy man, he had nothing on little Jerry Pigue who wielded the mighty stick of the big bass drum. He practically had the crowd mesmerized . . . that little bit of a boy . . . and that great big monster of a drum.

It was a full day and a tiring day. It was a day that people came to town and the daintily starched dresses of the morning told a different story at the end of the day. As the crowds began to break up and the floats were being dismantled the attitude of one harried mother summed up the general feeling of the day. Seen weaving their way through the throngs on Lake street with a little tyke lagging behind in a frenzy of doubt, the conversation of the mother and child went something like this:

Little Tyke: "Mamma, where you goin'?"

Mama: (With a jerk on the arm) "We're goin' HOME. I'm wore out."

Whatta day. What — a — day.

MYATT JOHNSON IN SHERIFF RACE

Myatt (Mike) Johnson authorizes The News to announce in this issue that he is a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Fulton County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, August 6, 1949.

Mr. Johnson has held the office of County Sheriff for one four year term, from 1942 to 1946, and is thus well known to the voters and the people of Fulton County as a popular and courteous officer of the law. He rests his case upon the splendid record of those four years of service, secure in the belief that his experience as a former sheriff should qualify him to serve as well, if not better, in the future than in the past.

Having been in the taxicab business between Hickman and Fulton for many years, Mr. Johnson has made hundreds of warm friends through his courtesy, friendliness and prompt attention to passengers.

Mike's popularity with the people of Fulton County was proven in 1937 when he came within 84 votes of being elected sheriff in a field of five candidates.

He has been a life long Democrat, and has given much time to party work, and can be relied upon at all times to loyally support party nominees.

"I have no bosses to serve, no axes to grind" he said, in discussing his candidacy, "and I feel that I can make the people of Fulton County a satisfactory sheriff, and if elected, I will do just that. I have made no promises to anyone, hence I feel that I can make a good sheriff and discharge the duties of the office in a fair and honest manner and in the best interests of the people in general."

Between now and the primary, Mr. Johnson will endeavor to see all the voters in person but if he is unable to do so he wishes you to consider this his personal solicitation for your vote and influence.

In asking your support Mr. Johnson reiterates that he is in the race for himself, that he ex-

Some Well-Deserved Credit

Fulton's second Army Day celebration has now passed into history, but before its memories fade out, we want to pause for a minute and hand out some well-deserved pats-on-the-back to those who were responsible for this worthwhile affair.

Such a tremendous undertaking as this, drawing such throngs of visitors and building such good will for Fulton, was well supported by practically everybody in town, but the real spark-plugs behind it that moved heaven and earth to make it a success were Charles Dixon and Harry Bloodworth of the VFW . . . and to them we tip our hats.

These two talked it, ate it and slept it for the past two months. They wrote letters, made calls, sent telegrams and did everything in their power to give Fulton the biggest parade and the most interesting lineup of events that could obtain.

Other hard-workers for the affair who are due lots of credit, include:

The Junior Woman's Club for their handling of the Beauty Revue, in which the Queen and her attendants were selected.

The membership of the VFW who worked diligently to get donations.

The merchants who helped financially, and with floats. The schools in this area, who supplied the bands and the honor students.

The Tennessee National Guard, which, when the U. S. Army and the Kentucky National Guard declined representation, came right on up and gave the parade the "Army" flavor that it needed.

Well done, all of you. We hope that some of your enthusiasm spreads around to others, to the end that Fulton will put such vigor into everything worthwhile it tackles.

The Changing Years

Life is not static. Despite how much we wish things to remain as they are they will change with time. That is a rule of nature—a rule of life—and a good one.

Without it, progress would be unknown, monotony would smother our existence and life would be unbearable. Instead time changes all of us from day to day. We are constantly growing older and one has to accept this change too — not only with resignation but with contentment.

As the late Dr. Joshua L. Liebman wrote, "The truth is we die every day a little without fear; our skins change; the cells in our hands and in our brains perish and are reborn; our whole life is strewn with the bones of hopes discarded and dreams outgrown. We change and die every dawn and every sunset without dread."

Dr. Liebman knew that the change of growing old is nothing to fear — that the transition we call death is a long time project which actually begins the day we are born.

This subject of old age is fast becoming of great importance to Americans. Today there are more old people in this country than ever before. The average life expectancy has increased nearly 20 years since 1900. For men it rose from 48 to 65 and for women, from 51 to 70.

An increasing older population poses many problems too. Thousands of additional Americans are annually reaching the age when such diseases as cancer take their heaviest toll. To protect these oldsters as well as the thousands of youngsters who die of cancer, a great deal must be accomplished and at once.

Recently the American Cancer Society revealed that the cancer death rate has taken a serious upswing, far greater than had been anticipated. One reason for this is increased longevity. People have been saved from the infectious diseases, rampant in earlier life, only to find the spectre of cancer awaiting them later.

But this change has brought about another more encouraging one. The American people have been thoroughly aroused about cancer and they are beginning to put their resources in science and education to work to conquer this disease.

The best scientific brains in the country now are trying to find out what causes cancer and a vast program of education is under way to tell us that cancer, if detected early, frequently can be cured with surgery and radiation.

This is being done in a voluntary, American way, paid for out of subscriptions to the American Cancer Society which is holding its annual drive this month.

Things will continue to change throughout life and one change for the better will be the control of cancer which can be made a reality if all of us contribute what we can to this cause.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

WHAT THEN?

We who have had, by hook or crook, superior educational advantages sometimes, I fear, find ourselves discounting the brains of plain people around us who came up the hard way and do not have a diploma, except one from the school that Franklin says only fools will learn in. When we know where to find the expression of this or that philosophy and the name of its author or promulgator, we imagine that we thereby know the philosophy itself better than the man who might have trouble even in finding his own name in a telephone directory. I do not want to discount what books can and do bring, but even educators like me, from the soil and not the

Alice and I were wondering around in NEWSLAND the other day and we didn't have a thing to do so we just started thinking about poetry. That's one thing we really like a lot so we sat down on the bank (the same one we were sitting on when we first saw the White Rabbit) and opened a book of poetry. Now, somehow, it didn't quite make sense because this is what we read:

By the shores of Gitchee Gumees,
"Will you walk into the parlor?"
said the spider to the fly;
To be, or not to be; that is the question.
Tell me not, in mournful numbers,
What does he plant who plants a tree?
Listen my children and you shall hear
Quoth the raven, "Nevermore."

The best group of answers we've found on Teen Age problems of what to do, what to wear and how to act, is between the cover of "Teen Age Manual," by Edith Heal (Simon and Schuster).

Margaret Kennedy, famous author of The Constant Nymph has written a charming new novel called Star Song.

There is a new scented laquer which can be painted on the inside of drawers and chairs, then washed off with soap and water when you want a change of fragrance.

Children think of pictures as windows into a strange real world. They see them in a way that grownups never can.

When Arturo Toscanini heard the celebrated contralto Marian Anderson sing, he said, "A voice like hers comes once in a century!" Miss Anderson, who was born of poor Negro parents in South Philadelphia says that no program of hers is complete without her own songs, the Negro spirituals.

One of the greatest scientists of our day, Michael Pupin, came to America in 1874, a poor Serbian immigrant. Wherever electrical problems are being solved the work of Michael Pupin is being consulted. We can be proud of this immigrant who loved his adopted country and who contributed so much to her progress.

Our hats off to the left handed lady, who so successfully ladled punch with a right handed ladle, at the Woman's Club last Friday. Our compliments, Mrs. Fred Gibson.

An obscure little 89 year old Englishwoman, died recently. Her death has severed one of the last links with the era of Queen Victoria, yet she will enjoy an immortality almost equal to that of the Queen because she was the original of the ALICE IN WONDERLAND illustrations drawn by Sir John Tenniel for the Lewis Carroll classic.

Small World Department:

A letter from Gerry Thompson McMahan of Arcadia, Calif., told that she took her little daughter for a stroll in that western city recently and quite casually mentioned to a proud parent whom she met in the park that she was from Kentucky. Upon learning that Gerry was from this wonderful State he became quite interested and remarked that he knew a girl in Manhattan, Kansas who was from Fulton, Ky. . . her name Mildred Huddleston.

There are so many things that Alice and I want. However, one thing certain we don't want is to be Chief of Police of Evarts, Ky.

least bit ashamed of it, need to be reminded again and again the human beings who pass through life, with or without book learning, meet experiences that teach, sometimes more than courses of study that lead to diplomas and commencements.

The chief trouble with most of the public display of knowledge at Fidelity was its self-assurance. Seemingly anybody with a public ax to grind could say anything he wanted to and get away with it. For example, we were told every campaign that all the good people were Democrats and all the bad ones Republicans, that a great calamity would happen if we trusted our lives and our sacred honor to the opposing party. So far as I know, none of our neighbors made a record of these one-sided prophecies and checked them later with accomplished facts. In religion we were told, according to where we were, that this or that of our three denominations would lead us to Beulah Land and that any other faith would lead us astray. Again, there was no accurate way of finding out whether the facile prophets "knew their onions." Probably that accounted for the cocksure way in which the prophets kept up prophesying.

Some of those sure-fire fellows would probably have died of shock or humiliation if they had known that some of the respectful ones sitting, quietly before them and seeming to swallow their oracular words, inwardly questioned even as had many of our own people, there must have been others who knew how to suffer for what they thought right. Whittier, I early learned, was an Abolitionist, a horrible word in our little world. The truth to life in his "Snow-Bound" made me feel that he was not a false one but could tell the truth elsewhere. Without parading my belief, for fear of stirring up a fight, I went on my way, casting out many of the one-sided views for a broader tolerance. Sometimes I felt very lonely in this struggle, but in later life I have learned from some of the oldtimers, as I suggested in my last article, that the same silent fight was going on in many another breast in our little remote community. Outwardly we may have conformed pretty well to the narrow-mindedness of our neighborhood, but inwardly we were longing to be citizens of a little bigger world.

One of the astounding things that I learned early was that some of our so-called ignorant neighbors sometimes had progressed farther on a world view than some of the literate ones, even the leaders. Leaders have a way of becoming involved in things they have vested interests they might want to run for office, they might be afraid of running counter to social opinion. Some of our people, like the village wag I mentioned in Fidelity Folks, had no vested interests and could see straight and talk straight, regardless of the impression they might make. Since polls have become so common and often so misleading, maybe it would have been fine if we could have had an opinion poll after some cocksure fellow spouted off in Fidelity and left the community feeling that he had told the rustics some brand-new things. He might have been as surprised as Dr. Gallup or Mr. Roper or Mr. Grossley.

LIME YOUR PASTURES

Every year more and more farmers are learning that good pasture is one of the most profitable crops that can be grown. Pasture grown on fertile soil is rich in protein, minerals, and vitamins. It is perfect feed for milk or meat animals.

If you haven't applied limestone or fertilizer to your pasture recently, now is the time to do it. It may take a year or so to produce a noticeable difference but it will be there.

You'll notice the difference in several ways:

1. Clover and good grass will crowd out the weeds and poor grasses.
2. More milk and meat from healthier animals.
3. Longer grazing season and less barn feeding.
4. Lower production costs, more profits.

Start your pasture improvement now by first applying the needed amount of agricultural limestone. It's the first step.

Starting at approximately 2:30 the parade, with its bands from Murray, Ky. Milan, Tenn. Martin Tenn., Mayfield, Ky., and Fulton and floats from many cities in the territory passed in review before the judges stand. Prizes were offered for the first and second best band and for the first and second best floats.

Mayfield High School band was first among the competing bands and will receive $100. Martin High School was second, and will receive $50. The Fulton High School band and the Murray State College band did not compete for prizes.

Among the local floats the VFW Auxiliary float came in first to capture the $100 prize. Scotts Florist Shop entered the second place float.

The winning float depicted the Statue of Liberty with several soldiers and sailors and WAC's and WAVES holding American flags. Those on the float were Mrs. John Sharp, Sam Trince, Diana Trince, Teddy Barkley, Gene Vancel, Everett Perry and Frances Perry. To conclude one of the most successful events ever promoted here a street dance on Lake street attracted nearly 2000 dancers and spectators. Rain interrupted the dancing around ten o'clock, but no force imaginable could have dampened the enthusiastic gratitude held by local merchants and citizens for the wonderful good-will and public relations effort staged for Fulton by Commander Bloodworth and his boys.

NO hot-water baths!

NO arduous boiling for hours!

NO scalding of jars, rubbers and lids!

NO cooling jars to watch and turn!

Some day you'll wonder why you ever stood over a hot stove for hours to preserve, when it's so easy with a home freezer.

Just picture yourself preserving this modern, easier way:

1. You scald your vegetables.
2. Pack and seal them in sanitary, airtight containers.

3. Put them in your home freezer! And that's all!

We have the General Electric Home Freezer that's roomy enough to hold 280 pounds of food. There's also a smaller model—4-cu-ft—that holds 140 pounds. You can preserve foods the year round—and keep them delicious and fresh up to a year.

General Electric Home Freezers are available in 4- and 8-cu-ft models. Immediate delivery.

THE G-E Home Freezer is, we think, the finest home freezer you can buy. We say this after making comparisons throughout the field.

For one thing, it's dependable. In the General Electric Home Freezer is the very same type refrigerating system used in the General Electric Refrigerator. And, more than 1,700,000 of these systems have been in use ten years or longer.

The General Electric cabinet is called the "Perfect Seal." Repeated laboratory tests have proved that the cabinet keeps food frozen for several days after the current has been shut off.

After all, we don't have to sell you on the General Electric name. You probably have as much faith in this great electrical organization as we have.

With the General Electric Home Freezer, you get a written five-year protection plan, consisting of a one-year warranty against defective material or workmanship—plus an additional four-year protection on the sealed-in refrigerating system.

Remember, when you're buying a home freezer you're making a long-term investment. So invest in the best. Invest in a dependable, proved General Electric Home Freezer.

You may use our CONVENIENT PAYMENT PLAN to purchase your new G-E Home Freezer.

For quick-freezing foods at home...
For storing the frozen foods you buy.

Hardy... They are produced from strains noted for high livability, hatched and cared for under hospital-clean conditions. Many flockowners have reported that every Swift Chick they purchased lived.

Mr. Johnson has authorized publication of the following letter, attesting to his proven ability for this office. This letter is from Joseph G. Thornbury, Sr., of Louisville, public accountant and auditor, and is dated March 29, 1949:

Dear Mr. Johnson:

I have been informed that you are making the race for Sheriff of Fulton County and I have been asked by the party informing me that he would like to know what I thought of your records since he knew I made four audits during your last term as Sheriff of Fulton County.

I have notified this party that I am writing you just what I think of the records you kept and how you handled the business of your office and that if you desired him to have this information to contact you. I am therefore giving you a frank statement of what my audits revealed.

After an analysis of your audits I am of the opinion that there may have been some records in Fulton County as good as yours but none could have been better.

I visited your office for four consecutive years without notice to you and in every instance found the books and records in excellent condition, up to date and in correct balance. I also found all business of this office being conducted in a very efficient and satisfactory manner. Such information was passed on to the Bonding Company which I represent and I think you received from them a letter each year acknowledging such favorable reports.

It is not the policy of this office to give out any information regarding audits we make without direct authority from the person or firm we have audited, therefore I am giving you the information which I would have given the person inquiring had you authorized me to do so and you may use this information as you see fit.
