BING CROSBY AND MARY CARLISLE IN "DOCTOR RHYTHM" OPENS SUNDAY AT FULTON THEATRE, RUNS FOR THREE DAYS

VOLUME SIX.

FULTON, KY., FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1938.

NUMBER SEVENTEEN.

COOKING SCHOOL IS SPONSORED BY NEWS

It's the talk of the town!

Women throughout the community are planning to attend the friendly class for home-makers, the Motion Picture Cooking School, scheduled to open at the Fulton Theatre on June 6th.

A welcome invitation to the wise is sufficient, and the only invitation needed for this novel cooking school is that extended to every woman by The News. There is no charge to see any of the showings of "Star in My Kitchen."

Because this newspaper stands ready to sponsor all progressive developments, particularly when they affect the homes of the community, it is presenting this motion picture romance of home-making entirely free.

"If I could only see exactly how she mixes and handles her pie-crust."

That comment has been heard from beginners and from more experienced cooks at many cooking schools. Craning necks and anxious eyes, trained on the stage from the sides and back of the demonstration hall, have failed to catch all of the important steps in pastry-making and other culinary arts. Only the early birds in the very front row have had a close-up of the stage in the past, and even they couldn't peer directly into the mixing bowl.

Now the wizardry of the camera has solved the problem, making it possible for every person in Fulton Theatre to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending, and baking in practical, up-to-the minute kitchens.

Keeping pace with the baking, roasting and frying, a series of salads and frozen delicacies will parade in and out of the adaptable electric refrigerator, which will reveal its host of possibilities for simplifying labor and marketing, and contributing to good health and good food.

What to do with left-overs? How to take the gloom out of laundry day? How to save time energy and temper in meal preparation? How to be attractive in spite of the daily rush? How to make the pie crust that men love to eat? How to give first-aid to fallen cakes?

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for expert home specialists have anticipated these very problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housekeeper, because it is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

Fun, novelty and entertainment are joined throughout the feature picture, for it is always fair weather when neighborly cooks get together. Home-making has a universal appeal, and every woman is eager to learn the newest news of her craft.

Cooking, romance, modern kitchens, and clever actors and actresses do not tell the complete story of this 1938-model cooking school. The picture is a whole laboratory of modern ideas and wise counsel, touching on latest developments in home equipment and accessories, including laundry methods, ways to prepare left-overs, beauty secrets, hints on saving time and labor, and fresh suggestions on how to entertain graciously, as well as how to be thrifty.

It won't be necessary to carry pad and pencil and try to scribble measurements in the darkened theatre, because free receipt sheets, with complete formulas for many of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture Cooking School will be distributed daily.

INTEREST GROWS IN OHIO RIVER BRIDGE

The new $3,250,000 bridge now under construction across the Ohio river from to Kentucky from Cairo, Ill., is scheduled to be finished and open to traffic by July 4th. The completion of this bridge will direct much traffic now going by other routes through West Kentucky and West Tennessee, and form a closer link between this section with Illinois and Missouri.

With the recent completion of a paved route through the State of Mississippi to the Gulf Coast, the opening of the bridge at Cairo will form the final link of a shorter and better all-season route between northern and southern points, the Great Lakes and the Gulf.

When the program is completed, Fulton will be on the hub of several important cross-country highways between St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Louisville, Memphis, New Orleans, Gulfport, Florida, and many northern and eastern points. Fulton is strategically located on highways and railroads, providing ideal shipping facilities to markets in all directions. Shipments of livestock, poultry, dairy and farm products here run well up into millions each year.

So the opening of the new bridge across the Ohio river at Cairo is attracting wide interest throughout this section. It is a project that meets with the hearty approval of the populace of this territory.

BUSINESS HOLDS OWN DURING PAST WEEK

Trends, both in retail and wholesale trade for the past week were mixed, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities just received by its Louisville District Office. While substantially all of the cities showed declines in retail trade from 1937, the declines were small in most cases and were largely due to unfavorable weather. Based on the preceding week, there was about an equal division between cities reporting losses and gains, with a number of the places indicating no change. The reports throughout were a mixture of lights and shadows, with the suggestion that general business is neither advancing nor retreating to any appreciable extent. Wholesalers received a moderate call for most lines of goods in the New York market. Manufacturers of various lines reported some evidences of increased inquiries, although few materialized into sizable orders.

Louisville reported that considerable improvement in movement of large items, such as furniture, refrigerators, etc., reported by department stores, substantial gains being shown in general over preceding week. So far little response seen in wholesale trade with no increase yet noted over previous week and year ago.

Employment services reported 1,922 placements during April, gain of 14.7 per cent over March; 709 during last week, gain of 57 per cent over preceding week.

Bank clearings 22.7 per cent under same week year ago.

Scattered rains propitious for transplanting young tobacco plants, but scarcity reported due to cold. Kentucky Wool Growers Cooperative Association announced advance on current crop will be 22 cents a pound.

Heavy shipment of strawberries going out from Western Kentucky. Kentucky Highway Commission awarded road and bridge contracts totaling more than $1,000,000.

SERMON SUNDAY AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Using as his text the words of Jesus: "Why Call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say," Rev. Wm. Dunn Ryan spoke on the above subject at First Christian Church, Sunday morning.

"How easy it is to say complimentary things about Jesus, and how hard it is to obey Him," said the pastor. Almost everyone will admit the singular loftiness of his character and the wisdom of his teachings, but how many will obey his words and practice his way of sacrificial living? He rare but little what we say about Him, but He is tremendously concerned about what we do toward living his kind of life and toward promoting his program.

If he is my Lord and Master then it is not mine to change nor evade his precepts. Any profession of devotion I may make will not justify that. It is mine to obey. He tells us definitely what is necessary for one to do to make one's life acceptable to God and to become a citizen of His Kingdom. "You must be born again. You must be born of water and the Spirit," He says. Shall we not unquestioningly obey Him? He urges us to pray, privately and with groups of other Christians. Shall we not unquestioningly obey Him? He lays down the principles for a program of daily living: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." He says: Can we, in view of this command give God's work a secondary place in our program of life? He assures us that our attitude toward the future must be one of unfaltering trust in God. Of what avail will it be, then, to give Him faint praise and then worry and fret about what tomorrow may bring?

If this old world is ever lifted out of its tragic sufferings it will not be by people who profess to admire Jesus; it will be by people who pay the price in sacrifice and do His will.

People Take Interest In Plan For New School

Interest is increasing in the proposed plan for construction of a new grade school building in West Fulton to replace the old Carr Institute, it is reported this week. An investigation is now being made by the school board and citizens to determine the requirements necessary to obtain aid through the PWA, as is being done in many communities needing new school buildings.

After full particulars have been obtained, in order that the plan may be thoroughly outlined to the people, a mass meeting will be called. It is believed that with federal aid, it will be unnecessary to raise money by bond issue or by increasing the school tax levy as this method has been followed by other cities.

Carr Institute was built in 1883 and is not only overcrowded but badly in need of repair, it is pointed out. Even if the building were repaired, it lacks many of the wholesome features of ventilation, lighting and heating that a modern building should have. It is contended. Members of the Parent-Teachers Association, the Board of Education and a group of local citizens are interested in the proposal to erect a larger and modern grade school now while government aid can be secured, inasmuch as it will be necessary before long to enlarge the present capacity of the school buildings. It is a public improvement that is needed, and one that will have to be made now with federal aid, or later with taxpayers bearing all the expense.

OWEN M. WALKER

Nationally known director of religious music who will be heard by Fulton people at the First Christian Church in a revival meeting beginning Sunday, May 29th.

Since a large amount of the payment to farmers who are participating in the Agricultural Conservation program this year can be earned by using lime, phosphate and sowing seed, these demonstrations show very clearly some of the results that can be expected from doing good farming practices and at the same time get part of the cost of the materials returned through the conservation program.

FARM BUREAU
The Palestine Homemakers and Farm Bureau members are having their regular monthly meeting on Saturday night, May 21 at Palestine school house. A good program has been arranged and it is hoped that all of the members will come.

CORN ALLOTMENT
It is still impossible to tell any one the acreage of corn that they will be allotted to grow this year, but since corn planting time is here farmers should plant about what corn they think they would be allowed to grow then if the allotment is large enough to take care of what has been planted it will be growing. It might be too late to plant if one waits until the allotments are received.

HISTORY OF OBION COUNTY

In the war with Mexico Obion County mustered a company, organized by Major S. W. Cochran and William Motheral.

The first company recruited for service in the Civil War was Company H of the Fourth Tennessee Regiment, which was organized at Union City May 1, 1861, with J. H. Dean as captain, M. M. Merritt, first lieutenant; L. Brown, second lieutenant; T. L. Nailling, third lieutenant; N. L. A. Curlin, orderly sergeant.

One of the best known and most gallant companies organized for service in the Confederate cause was Company H of the Ninth Tennessee Infantry, better known as the "Obion Avalanche." It was recruited in the vicinity of Troy and was organized at Jackson, Tenn.

Company B of the 27th Tennessee

Infantry was organized at Troy on August 20, 1861, with A. W. Caldwell as captain; J. M. Wright, first lieutenant. Company A of the 47th Regiment was organized at Troy, December 1, 1861. Company L of the 47th Regiment was raised in the vicinity of Kenton where it was organized. W. H. Hollomon became captain.

Of the 33rd Tennessee Infantry five companies were composed almost exclusively of men from Obion county, while portions of two other companies were thus formed. Company D of this regiment was organized with W. H. Frost as captain. Company A, with Ellison Howard as captain. Company E was organized at Union City about Sept. 1, 1861 with T. R. Hutchinson as captain.

Company K of the Second Tennessee Cavalry (Bartow's regiment) was organized at Oxford, Miss., in the fall of 1863. It was made up of men from Gibson and Obion counties, who had stolen away after these counties had fallen into the hands of the Federals. A part of the company had been partially organized at South Gibson, and had gone out with Russell's cavalry. In the early part of 1864 a company of about 40 members, known as King's Scouts, was organized in the vicinity of Kenton, for the purpose of maintaining order and punishing lawlessness. It acted under orders from General Forrest. The officers were George King, captain; J. W. Norton, first lieutenant; Samuel A. Thomas, 2nd lieutenant; John E. Thomas, orderly sergeant.

A cavalry was also recruited in the western portion of the county and with Oliver Farris as captain, served in Russell's 20th Regiment.

Schools were established in Obion county very soon after its organization. The most of them at first, were taught in private houses and numbered but few pupils. The teachers, as a rule, were poorly qualified for the work and possessed but the merest rudiments of an education. One of the first schools, of which there is any record, was taught in a house on the farm of Col. W. M. Wilson, three miles southwest of Troy, by William Rochford. He was succeeded by Thomas Bacon, who taught at the same place as early as 1832. At about the same time Rev. Eleazer Harris had a school about two miles north of Troy, and a man by the name of Hargis taught at what was known as Beulah church. The latter was succeeded in 1839 by Nathaniel Macon, a man of more than ordinary ability, but possessing a strong penchant for the "flowing bowl." Early in the forties John Crockett taught a school in what was then known as the Wolverine neighborhood. The first school in Troy is said to have been taught by S. N. Martin, in a house standing on the site of the present Presbyterian church. About 1845 an academy was established one and one-half miles west of Troy. It was built by Walter Caldwell and was known as Westbrook Academy. This continued to be the school at which the youth of Troy were educated for many years. In 1860 George B. Wilson assumed charge of the academy with Ira P. Clark as assistant. Both were very excellent teachers. At the beginning of the Civil War they suspended the school and entered the army, but at the close of hostilities resumed the work and continued for one year, after which Wilson resigned his position and Clark continued for another year. He was then succeeded by Profs. Sample and Underwood. In 1876 Obion College was established in a handsome building erected by the co-operation of the citizens of the town, aided by a munificent gift from J. S. Moffatt. The school was the best in the county and well supported for many years.

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs.

What you should try is a particularly good woman's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than that world-famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature calm your shrieking nerves, tone up your system, give more energy and make life worth living again.

More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's Compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling thru" trying times like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? IT MUST BE GOOD!

A COUNTRY PARSON

Today I would like to add another character sketch to the many that have appeared in this column for the man I am to tell you about represented a whole generation. He was a retired Methodist preacher who made his home in old Fidelity. He had been a dentist in his earlier years before he was a preacher. After his superannuation he took up his earlier calling and lived to a ripe old age, becoming for many of us youngsters a sort of modern representative of the elder prophets. He was quite tall and strong of build, with a long, flowing beard. Older ones told us it used to be red, but we remember it only as snowy white and very ample. Service in the Confederate Army had given him a dignity and military bearing that even advanced age could not overcome.

When the regular circuit rider failed to appear, he would preach for us. Sometimes he would also preach on the Sunday nearest his birthday. I still remember some of his birthday sermons. Like most of his generation, his sense of humor was a bit dim, but he could see great truths and present them greatly. He had a slow, dignified voice, and his gestures suited his bearing in every way. When he raised his hand and slowly uttered some condemnation of ornery living, I thought of the picture of Elijah in the old family Bible.

One of his interesting habits that was once a part of all circuit riders and preachers in general was his singing. Not only did he join lustily in the songs that he lined for us, but he also sang a solo just before his sermon, a hymn that helped interpret the Scripture he was to use as a text. Evidently in his younger days he had been a good singer, for even advanced age could not wholly take away the charm of his big, impressive voice. The younger generation sometimes smiled very broadly when he sang, but their elders were respectful, for they could remember other times when the old gentleman could hold his own with the best in the singing school and the camp meeting.

We were told by those who knew that his false plates were among the best, or that was his specialty. Since I had no occasion in those days to judge such things, I remember only his public appearance in his other role of superannuated minister and elder prophet. And there are few more pleasant memories than those of him in the pulpit of our little country church on some spring morning, when the birds were singing in the woods, and when odors of spring flowers drifted in through the windows.

The first school in Union City was taught by James Fuzzell in 1856, in the law office of Charles N. Gibbs. In the winter of 1860 a house was erected at a cost of $1,600 and a school opened. It continued until the beginning of the Civil War, when it was taken by the Federals as a hospital. The origin of the present school system of Union City dates from 1874 when the board of directors, consisting of G. Kimberlin, W. R. Niblett and A. J. Wyatt, decided to organize a graded school. Two small houses were rented and fitted up and the schools opened under the directions of M. Liles as principal with W. W. Hall, assistant. Schools were thus continued the greater part of the time until 1879 when a contract was entered into with the trustees of Union City College an institution just opened by which upon payment of $250 per month by the directors, the trustees of the college agreed to receive all children between the ages of 6 and 21 and furnish them instruction in the common branches free of charge. This arrangement was continued until May, 1881, when the trustees of the college transferred the building to the directors of the district, upon the latter's assuming indebtedness upon it amounting to about $3,500. In order to meet this indebtedness the public money was withheld for two years, and the school was sustained by public youth subscriptions. Then came the free schools maintained by taxes.

Academy established at Kenton in 1874, at which time a two-story brick building 40x60 was erected by the Masonic and Odd Fellow fraternities in cooperation with a number of citizens. Lower part of the building was occupied by the school, while the upper part was used as the lodge room. A very excellent school was maintained until 1833. In that year, the district having become involved in debt, the public schools were suspended and so continued until the fall of 1886, when they were once more reopened, under the management of Prof. Thorp. A very good school was also conducted for a while at Kenton by Miss Ida Flynn.

During the period from 1850 to 1860, the two most important schools in the county were Bell Forrest Academy situated about three miles north of Union City and the academy at Pleasant Hill. The latter institution, during the last two or three years of that decade, was under the management of George B. Wilson, and attained a high reputation. Since the adoption of the present school system in 1874, the education status of Obion county has greatly improved and in every neighborhood a school is now maintained. The first superintendent of public instruction was W. F. Shropshire, who continued to fill the office until 1889, when he was succeeded by W. A. Harrison, W. B. Stovall, elected in 1884. The steady advancement of education in Obion county is shown by the following statistics: In 1875 the scholastic population was 6,248; the enrollment 4,900; the number of teachers 75, and the total expenditures for school purposes $14,273.36. In 1885 the scholastic population was 8,237, enrollment 6,894, number of teachers 102, total expenditures $18,235.

"I use my Ford V-8 '60' in a country without modern road improvements. After 10,000 miles, much of it through mud and tough going, I brought it in for a check-up ...

"Not a thing had to be done to it. This car to date has not cost me one penny for repairs or replacements ... not once have I had to add oil between changes."

"Mileage has ranged from about 23 miles per gallon over bad roads to several miles more on good roads. From my experience, I cannot recommend the Ford V-8 '60' too highly."

THE HORN HONKER

It seems that one of the hardest things a Fulton car owner has to learn when he first starts in, is what the horn is for. In fact, so many of them throughout the country never have learned that laws have had to be passed to guide them. Observe the careful motorist and you will note that he seldom finds it necessary to resort to his horn. He doesn't glide easily up to a pedestrian crossing a street and then suddenly issue a loud blast on his horn. Nor does he, in passing the car ahead of him rend the air with loud and unnecessary long blasts. He uses the horn, as it was intended to be used, for the purpose of giving signals and then only when they are absolutely needed.

The horn is subject to more abuse than any other part of the auto, when in fact it should be the least part of it to be resorted to. There's a right and a wrong way to use it, the same as there is to use anything else. And it is hoped for the nerves of the community, at least, that this year's crop of new drivers learn that early.

THEY COME BACK

No one ever outgrows his boyhood. If he was born and grew up in a rugged, hill country he will have traces of that country in his soul to the balance of his days. The man from Texas can never be like the man from Vermont—there are always boyhood ties they cannot sever. That's why Fulton residents are glad when those who were born and reared around here come back for a visit. That's why the hand of welcome is always extended them—we know that there is something worth while in a heart that always retains a respect and veneration for the place in which childhood's days were spent. Maybe we are not growing up as fast as the big cities in which they now make their homes; but that doesn't matter. The man or woman whose heart is right comes back to see the places and faces they first loved. Since it gladdens their hearts and gives them happiness then we are all glad, in a way, that the place of their birth hasn't changed so much.

HERE'S ANOTHER WAY

Using whitewash is still another way of killing two birds with one stone. You not only beautify and brighten whatever you apply the solution to, whether it be residence, garage, outbuildings or trees but you at the same time lessen the danger of contagious diseases in the community.

Lime has come to be recognized as the very best disinfectant that can be used around the house. Spread on the yard in proper amount it also feeds the soil and helps the grass to grow, though care should be taken when using it for this purpose to see that the quantity is not too generous.

It furnishes protection from the weather for fences and buildings and insects that feed upon wood steer clear of lime when it is applied in the form of whitewash. And there's still another advantage, too, not to be overlooked—it costs so little. No other disinfectant, and of course no kind of paint, can be had for so little money. No other brings such a widespread return on the investment.

TOO MANY LAWS

Practically everyone will concede that there are too many laws and too many office holders drawing big pay at the expense of taxpayers.

When wise old Moses was on earth, and had a prominent part in running it, he found that only ten laws were needed for the regulation of its conduct. Woodrow Wilson believed that the famous 14 points submitted to the Versailles peace conference was sufficient to save the world for democracy.

Keeping these figures in mind, it should interest taxpayers of this vicinity to learn that the legislatures of our 48 states passed during the year 1937—in one single year alone—more than 19,000 new laws as they joyously assumed the burden of regulating the lives and activities of our people. Either the world has grown to be a terrible place since it accepted the Ten Commandments? Surely the average taxpayer, who has to go down into his pockets for the cost of all these laws, has an interesting answer to those questions.

DON'T BE SUCKER.

Postal officials at Washington say that after nearly every one of those big English horse races where millions of dollars are wagered in betting pools, there comes an influx of inquiries, especially from residents of small towns, requesting information about where such "tickets" can be purchased. We've no way of knowing if Fulton residents have been among those seeking such information, but we imagine they have since these are about the same amount of "sucker bait" to be found around here as around the usual town of its size.

Here's both sides of the picture. The recent English race at Aintree paid sums ranging from $1,000 to $150,000 to 1700 winners. That is the pretty side of the picture. Against those 1,700 winners, however, there were 5,500 losers. Every one of these wagers their hard-earned cash and never got a penny in return. There were just three winners in every 1,000 ticket buyers. Even a professional gambler who would play such odds as that would be considered crazy.

Viewing both sides of the picture it would seem that the best advice that can be given Americans interested in this new sucker game of horse racing is a road to sudden wealth is this—Keep your money in your pocket. Don't be one of the five and a half-million suckers.

Our Country

THE constructive citizen has a vital interest in his country. Animated by patriotism and loyalty, he desires to be of service to his country at all times. Recognizing honest purposes and straightforward practices as paramount, he endeavors to push beyond merely sentimental and superficial issues, and to adopt sound views and sound doctrine. Thus his efforts are invaluable. Through systematic right thinking, he aids in accomplishing right results. Said Emerson, "That country is the fairest, which is inhabited by the noblest minds."

The concept of one's country involves not only boundary lines, inhabitants, and countrymen, but also a controlling power or government. Consequently, an aggregation of inhabitants and their government is definitely regarded as a country. But, in order to have a good, responsible country—a country which is noble and fair—there must first be a correct estimate of the qualities which are fundamentally necessary to build up and sustain such a country. In other words, there must be a perception and understanding of that invisible, underlying spiritual force or intelligence which inspires and directs all worthwhile activity—that divine power which provides wisdom and strength both for those who represent the government of the country and for those who are governed.

"The kingdom is the Lord's; and he is the governor among the nations," declares our highest authority—the Bible. This plain, positive statement is the key to the entire situation, the answer to every problem confronting the countries of the world now and always. This supreme fact regarding government demands careful, undeviating consideration on the part of true, progressive thinkers. When practically applied it will work wonders for peoples and governments everywhere.

It goes almost without saying that the progress, harmony, and true contentment of any country are directly proportionate to the individual and collective welfare of its inhabitants. But here is the momentous fact, and it needs to be emphatically stressed: this welfare is primarily spiritual. It is the product of Mind, not of matter. It is born of God, not of man. Therefore, the root and branch of real welfare are primarily in divinity.

The greatest demonstrator of this mighty fact was the Man of Galilee. His works, correctly apprehended, were designed, above everything else, to bring perfect peace and concord not only to individuals, but also to nations; and this sense of peace and bliss was intended to silence and blot out forever the evils of strife and warfare. But on all sides today, even among Christian peoples, there are violent discussions of war, aggressive suggestions of it, and general preparation for it. Can we possibly think or say that this procedure promotes genuine welfare for one's country? Can there be helpful feelings of love and brotherhood behind this attitude? Can any nation be happy and contented, and can it demonstrate the prosperity and success it is seeking, without first establishing peace in its own ranks, and then reflecting that peace toward other nations? Is war capable, in any degree whatsoever, of bringing lasting good to one's country? The Master gave the inclusive answer (Matthew 26:52): "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

No better method exists for establishing peaceful, harmonious well-being than to adapt and to practice the art of self-government. Why? Because unadulterated democracy has for its chief cornerstone the Golden Rule, which is the best precept yet devised for human conduct. A leading American educator and university president has written: "The future of this nation (United States), as the future of the world, is bound up with the hope of a true democracy that builds itself on liberty."

"True democracy!" That is an arousing thought! Built on "liberty," such a democracy promises real freedom, that is, fairness, justice, equality, security, protection, for peoples and governments. It forecasts safety, satisfaction, and serenity for all the world.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, says on page 106 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience. Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love."

"That country is the fairest, which is inhabited by the noblest minds." And the "noblest minds" are ever those which are exalted in character and quality—lifted high above the world, debasing things of mortal experience, and glimpsing the realm of spiritual things, where goodness, mercy, probity, predicated upon an unbounded love for God and man, are the controlling influences. "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."

When our country—every country—finally comes to see that in reality God is the governor in all things; when every country comes to know Him and His government aright, and to understand that man reflects this government, then will individual and collective welfare and security, peace, democracy, judicial procedure, politics, prosperity, and success fall into line with the divine government. Then will the nations, under God, march on as never before in the history of the world.—The Christian Science Monitor.

It Probably Was Pittsburgh

By IRVIN S. COBB

IF YOU are a resident of Chicago you must claim the thing started in Pittsburgh, but if you live in Pittsburgh why then, in that case, you plant the tale in Chicago or in any other fairly smoky metropolis.

For convenience's sake, let us say that the principals were a couple of Chicago men. On the same day and within a few hours the pair passed away and shortly thereafter they met in the Great Beyond. The first to arrive already had made some inquiries touching on his whereabouts. His friend, meeting him and feeling fairly satisfied with the prevalent atmospheric and climatic conditions, said: "Well, Bill, Heaven is a pretty nice place after all, ain't it?" "It'll do," said Bill, "but, Jim, you've made one mistake. This ain't Heaven!"

Apple Slump—Pare and slice apples, sweeten to taste, add cinnamon and a little salt. Prepare a crust as follows: 2 cups flour; 2 level teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt, sifted together. Mix thoroughly with 2 tablespoons of shortening, wte with milk or water until you have a soft dough; place over apples. Make three or four cuts in top to allow steam to escape. Serve with molasses sauce, or with sugar and cream.

ON IRONING DAY

On ironing days when you have a great number of woollen garments to press, instead of laboring over them with an iron, do this: Place each garment on a hanger by itself and then suspend it from a rod over a boiler full of steaming water on the range. Wrinkles disappear like magic and all you have to do is press the pleats and creases. Half a dozen garments can be hung above the boiler at the same time.

"Ye have need of patience"

MANY persons are ready to admit that they have need of patience. Some are earnestly striving to cultivate it, and occasionally someone may feel that he has measurably succeeded in realizing it. One engaged in any legitimate pursuit may exercise this quality in the sense of perseverance or endurance in working toward some desired end. But in other respects it enters into one's attitude toward affliction, provocation, or any evil, either as a negative, passive endurance or else as a positive spirit of fortitude, meekness, and unconquerable trust in good. It was in the truer sense that the writer of the epistle to the Hebrews, after referring to the great fight of afflictions which they had endured, said to the Christian converts: "Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise" (Hebrews 10: 32, 35, 36).

The world has witnessed many fine examples of forbearance of one toward another, in view of another's seeming faults, infirmities, or need for comfort or care; examples of courage necessary to face difficult conditions with a calm expectation of some desirable outcome, and of a kindness maintained under vexatious stress. Indeed, in all such instances of discipline patience is equivalent to an undaunted confidence in something higher and better than the troublesome error. And this shows that good is ever present, and that it is in some measure grasped and manifested by right-thinking persons.

Much greater, then, is the impetus toward "patient continuance in well doing" (Romans 2:7) when, through Christian Science, good is discerned as divine Principle to be understood and demonstrated; when it is seen that we need patience toward ourselves, as we seek in calm perseverance to know the spiritual reality, so that after we "have done the will of God" we may "receive the promise."

What is the will of God, and what are the promises to be fulfilled, as our thoughts are conformed to His will? These are questions we need to consider, that we may learn wherein we "have need of patience." Cultivating a calm, steadfast character is praiseworthy; but gaining true patience means more than this. It means persevering in the effort to understand God and man, so that in all our common or unusual experiences we may express the truth which we know to be real, and thus face all things not only with kindness, but with power, the power of reflected love, which heals discordant conditions.

This view of patience as a quality we need in working out our own salvation from material self and sense, helps us to be truly forbearing toward others, for in striving to conform to divine Principle we more clearly see as unreal the conditions which tempt us to impatience, discontent, weariness, resentment. And in healing our own thoughts we are in that measure bringing the healing truth to discordant conditions and to all involved therein.

Our great need is to understand God and man and faithfully apply our understanding, looking to good with unquenchable hope and love. This we must do; this alone helps us to overcome our difficulties. Mary Baker Eddy says in Science and Health: "The key to the Scriptures, 'The Divine Being must be reflected by man,—else man is not the image and likeness of the patient, tender, and true, the One 'altogether lovely'; but to understand God is the work of eternity, and demands absolute consecration of thought, energy, and desire."

We must not be impatient with ourselves when we feel that our footsteps in knowing God are halting and our progress slow. We must remember the perfect beauty of the goal. And since we are working out this great problem of being in association with others in all manner of human affairs, we have need of patience as kindness of heart which furthers our own realization of good and our own release from false belief, while it also extends the healing influence of divine Love to all concerned and ameliorates the friction of human will.

In his epistle James speaks of the husbandman who "waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain;" and from this lesson he draws the admonition, "Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh" (James 5:7, 8). The great purpose to know God and man aright, to lay aside the false sense of self, calls for the sublime serenity which is ever upborne by the assurance that whatever is unlike God is being conquered. . . .—The Christian Science Monitor.

"Jimmie, Give That Dog of Ours a Kick an' Send Him in the House!"

Electric Chick Brooders Are Simple, Safe and Economical

Counterbalanced on a rope, this electric colony-type hover easily can be inspected, cleaned and adjusted.

ALTHOUGH the hen was and is the natural brooder of her chicks, modern mass-production methods have resulted in the development of numerous substitutes including those heated by coal, oil, wood, gas, steam and hot water. But, where high-line service is available, brooding with electricity is preferable for several reasons:

It requires little time to install and regulate the hover; the fire hazard is practically eliminated; the temperature under the hover is automatically controlled; less labor and attention is necessary; mortality usually is lower; the chicks healthier, stronger and better feathered; and the overall cost generally is less than that of other sources of heat.

There are two distinct types of electric brooders—colony and battery. The colony brooder is commonly used by the average poultryman as well as the farmer who raises only a few chicks each year. The battery brooder is used chiefly by custom hatcheries and broiler producers.

As a great deal of moisture is given off by the chicks through respiration and from droppings, adequate heat and some system of ventilation is necessary to keep the litter dry under the colony-type electric hover. Two kinds of ventilation are used in such brooders: The gravity, or "natural," and the fan forced-air system.

KITCHEN KINKS

Left-over rice blends well with cooked meat and can be shaped into small cakes, browned in bacon fat and topped with tomato or mushroom sauce. Grape juice sauce makes a pleasant change when served over baked, spiced or cottage pudding. Beet skins can be removed quickly if beets are put in very hot water for a minute or two. Drain off hot water and quickly place beets in cold water.

A STYLE HINT

A bright navy blue that is variously named by the different style creators is looming up as a rival of the regulation navy shade. This is a clear tone similar to the skipper hue of several years ago and it looks especially flattering with white goods. Suits and printed frocks are being made up in the bright tone, many of them of the style to appeal to gray-haired persons.

The Need for Unity

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

In America we observe many anniversaries, commemorating important dates in our history. Many others we forget. Among the latter is included May 14. Yet that day is well worth recalling. It was the date set early in the year 1787 for the opening of the Convention that wrote our Federal Constitution.

Although the difficulties of travel in that period so delayed many delegates that the formal opening had to be postponed until May 25, Washington and others met at Independence Hall on that day prepared to take the important steps that would unite a disorganized people.

In their great objective lies the significance of those dates. For out of the Convention then assembled evolved a plan and a spirit of national unity and cooperation which has made the United States one of the greatest nations on earth.

As with all historic anniversaries, there lies in this a lesson and an inspiration to our nation. In that convention long enemies were still by a readiness to see opponents' points of view, and by a willingness to subordinate certain sectional or group demands to the welfare of the nation as a whole.

Here is an example which America might follow with benefit today. As this is written there are evidences of the teamwork which built a great nation out of thirteen struggling states and made that nation the symbol for liberty, for opportunity and for progress now known over all the world.

In unity and mutual understanding still lies our strength.

SUMMARY OF GAMES PLAYED BY EAGLES

On Thursday night of last week, the Fulton Eagles played the Greyhounds at Union City, dropping the decision 4 to 1. Errors by Padgett, Zanter and Ulinsey were costly. Each team garnered eight hits. Pearson and Long did the hurling for Fulton.

Game with Union City on Friday was rained out.

Saturday night the local club journeyed to Mayfield where they defeated the Clothiers 6-3, in a 11-inning battle. Fulton used two pitchers, Pickel and Wenning. Bats connected for three hits in four trips up.

Sunday afternoon the Fulton Eagles played Mayfield a double-header at their park. Fulton won the first game in 12 innings, 14 to 13, after knotting the count in the ninth with a four-run rally. The second affair of five and a half innings, was called on account of darkness, and went to Mayfield 5 to 0. The Eagles garnered only one hit.

OWENSBORO AT FULTON

After a ragged game, featured by a galaxy of hits by both teams and numerous errors by Fulton, the Eagles dropped a 16-10 decision to the Owensboro Oilers here Monday night. Fulton held a 10-8 lead as the game went into the ninth, when Owensboro ran wild scoring 8 runs in three half of that inning. Three pitchers were used by the Eagles in an effort to capture the decision.

The Fulton Eagles bowed to the Jackson Generals 7-3 Wednesday night in the first game of their play. Dacus, General pitcher allowed eight hits and Pickel, Eagle hurler gave eleven. The home team started a rally in the eighth but failed to catch up.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GROUP ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

An all day meeting of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Sunday School Association was held in Louisville on May 11th for the purpose of discussing the Association's general program of activities and to consider plans for a State Convention. By unanimous vote it was decided to hold a state convention in Louisville, around the middle of October, this year, the final date to be left to the administrative committee of the Association. It will be a two-day convention and the whole program will deal with present day issues and ways of meeting them. At least three forums on methods, with a resource leader for each, will be held, and, if present plans carry, some of the outstanding religious leaders of the country will participate in the program.

Information was to the effect that the promotion of Go To Sunday School Day this year, resulted in a fine increase in attendance throughout the state. Observance of the day for 1939 was approved and it was voted to ask the Sunday Schools, for Go To Sunday School Day in 1939, to strive for a minimum goal of 20 per cent increased attendance over this year.

FSA AIDS FARMERS TO CONTINUE ON FARMS

Settlements between farmers who are debtors and their creditors have aided approximately 6,089 farm families in this 5-State Region to stay on their farms. This word was received here from regional Farm Security Administration offices by G. C. Dyer, County Rehabilitation Supervisor of the FSA.

"Farm debt adjustment does not always mean reduction of the amount owed," Dyer said. "Very often it simply means new repayment arrangements, with an extension of time granted by the creditor. Sometimes such arrangements necessitate a longer term lease for the farmer, or a definite plan of farm operation satisfactory to debtor and creditor alike."

The service is rendered without cost to debtor or creditor, Dyer said, and is beneficial to both parties inasmuch as it enables the farmer to go on with his operations and assures the creditor of receiving as much of his investment as the farmer can possibly pay. The work is done by a county committee of local citizens, and the FSA

Now Get This Straight, Bill!

"What this country needs"—according to this emphatic young citizen who emulates his father in discussing the economic situation—"is plenty of ripe bananas!" Bill, the listener, seems to be taking it in between big bites of the delicious fruit. A rugged individualist, he agrees a fellow likes to eat his own.

When your Junior or Jane takes time out to eat his favorite fruit, that's one time you need not worry. Bananas—the fully ripe ones with the brown flecks on the peel—are "good as gold" for the children and thoroughly digestible. The famous Dionne quintuplets were fed mashed ripe bananas before they were a year old. Doctors advise giving babies thoroughly ripe bananas as one of their first solid foods. The bananas are mashed, strained, whipped into milk or fed with a spoon.

Bananas contain four valuable vitamins—A, B, C and E. They are rich in minerals, natural fruit sugars, and they have an alkaline and slightly laxative reaction in the body. Combined with milk, bananas make an almost perfectly balanced meal. Besides, they taste so good and are just right for small hands to hold because they come in nature's own germ-proof package, which makes the best of all possible "handles" for eating the delicious fruit.

supervisors, and consists of bringing the debtor and creditor together to talk over their mutual difficulties. No action is taken unless it is satisfactory to both parties and the committee has no power to force any sort of an adjustment.

The local debt adjustment committee consists of leading business men who are interested in public affairs of their community, and prominent farmers.

Farmers who are not FSA borrowers, as well as those who are, have received debt adjustment service from this agency, Dyer pointed out. The Regional report showed that almost half of the 6,408 farmers aided were FSA borrowers, while 3,185 were not. Many of the latter were undoubtedly able to secure credit elsewhere after debt settlements were made, or were able to operate under their own financial power, he said.

In Kentucky, the farm debt adjustment record shows that settlements have been effected for 1,129 farmers. Other states in this region are, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

First Christian Church Revival Starts May 29th

First Christian Church is bringing to Fulton two of the outstanding musicians of the disciples of Christ, who will have full charge of the music of the evangelistic campaign from May 29 to June 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Walker have travelled in every state of the union, and have worked in the largest churches of America. They were selected last year to direct the music of the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ at Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Walker has won many honors because of his voice, and his lovable personality has helped him to teach America to sing. He will direct the large chorus choir. His solos which are sermons in song, will be featured each night of the campaign.

Mrs. Walker has been called an artist of the ivories; very few people ever completely master the piano as she has done. Her interpretations of the hymns of the church through the medium of the piano are different, unique, and inspirational. Audiences of five to ten thousand people have thrilled at the musical talents and abilities of Mr. and Mrs. Walker.

Fulton is indeed fortunate to secure them for these two weeks, and First Christian Church is to be congratulated on bringing them to our community. Besides their regular activities in the public service each night the Walkers will conduct a training class for children and young people. Parents, who are anxious to promote the musical abilities and strengthen the character of their children, will be anxious to avail themselves of this opportunity. Two weeks under the training and influence of Mr. and Mrs. Walker will add much to a child's education.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker will be glad to confer with any of the Fulton people, who are interested in music either as a hobby or by profession. Any person genuinely interested in music will be welcome to their choir regardless of religious affiliations. When people of this caliber are working in the community all who are interested should profit by their presence. Mr. and Mrs. Walker will be at First Christian Church on May 29 for their first service.

The Way To National Progress By RAYMOND PITCAIRN National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

Recent news dispatches from Washington contain numerous promises that the "little fellows" in industrial and other activities are going to be consulted in current endeavors to clear the roadway toward sound recovery.

By this is meant that the average merchant or small producer and employer will have a chance to tell his story and outline his needs to the men who make and enforce the laws which control our well-being as a nation.

It's an excellent idea, which all Americans who feel a sincere concern with our national progress will approve. It could, with real benefit, be carried still further. It could, with real benefit, extend to all types of workers and producers, who compose the body and strength of our Republic.

Washington might, for example, consider the problem of the average wage-earner, who feels the toll that heavy taxes—direct and indirect—levy on the contents of his pay envelope.

It might, for example, consider the wishes of the average insurance policyholder or other prudent saver, who wonders what effect huge public debts—with their constant threat of inflation—may have on the thoughtful provision he makes for the future security of his family.

It might, for example, consider the situation of the housewife, struggling to provide balanced meals on a family budget constantly unbalanced by rising prices due to public extravagance and impractical economic experiments.

These are the people to consider, rather than the blatant pressure groups or the expert fishers for votes, whose voices appear so often to drown out the modest demands of the average worker and earner.

Yet it is on these average citizens that the strength and stability of America depend—today as in the past. They represent not only the thews and sinews of our country, but its hopes as well. It is they who built America and will carry it to still greater heights—if given a chance.

They are, moreover, the real voice of the Nation—and if Washington only heeds that voice, America cannot fail to resume her progress.

SENATE CAMPAIGN IS WARMING UP

The month-old campaign between U. S. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and Governor A. B. Chandler is now well underway. Both are seeking the favor of the voters, who will decide which one shall represent Kentucky in the Senate for the next six years.

It is believed that Barkley will officially open his speaking campaign on June 4, but naturally the definite date depends on how much longer the Congressional session will continue. Barkley is a mighty busy man at Washington directing the course of legislation in the Senate right now.

Governor Chandler has made several speeches recently, but declares that he has not yet made his "opening" speech. However both Chandler and Barkley have perfected organizations which are busily engaged in preparing for the campaign ahead.

Between now and June 7 both the Chandler and Barkley organizations will strive toward the registration of all eligible persons to vote in the August 6 primary. The date for the close of registration books in Kentucky's 120 counties was advanced to June 7 under the registration and purgation act which was passed by the legislature in February. This legislation did not change the law under which a person who was registered as a Republican at the last November election cannot change his party affiliation and vote in the Democratic primary.

Persons who have never registered may do so now. Then they will be able to vote in the August primary, provided they have lived in Kentucky one year, the county six months and the precinct 60 days by August 6. Young citizens who will be 21 years of age by next November 8 can register now and vote in August. A person who has changed his residence from one precinct to another or within a precinct should change his registration before June 7. A trip to the office of the county clerk is all that is needed.

DUGOUT DIGS

(By B. V. N.)

Johnson, Owensboro short stop received the dollar and chicken dinner for the first home run over the fence this year. There are more chicken dinners for more home runs, so let them fly!!!!

How did you like the double of Padgett's with two men on Monday night?

To say nothing for the four hits for Batts at five times at bat!!!!

What player wants a date with a Blonde or a release?

What caused the fire in Brandon's car Sunday night. He would like to know.

Cooper and Brandon were out of the game Monday because of sore knees.

House shoes seem to be the style among the players. Even on rainy days.

Willard Padgett, short stop from Granite City, Ill. He has had three years in pro ball. He is five foot nine weighs 167 lbs. with dark hair and blue eyes. He came to Fulton with Bill Cooper from Greenwood and belongs to Dayton Ohio. He has the pep and speed our team needs, and we hope he will be here all season.

Notice that O'Connell, first baseman for Mayfield last year is with Owensboro this year.

So much comment has been made about the umpires I should like to add my bit. President Hannephill hired them and he must know what he's doing. If they are good enough for him, they're good enough for me and I think we should give them time enough to prove just what they can do before condemning them. I'll admit I would have made different decisions on some plays, but I didn't see them from the same angle that they did. So come on folks give them a chance to do what they can do before we condemn them.
