'She was just such an ambitious kid.' Gator victim was Murray State grad

By The Associated Press

MIAMI (AP) — Florida had seen just 17 confirmed fatal alligator attacks in the previous 58 years. In less a week, there appears to have been three.

The bodies of two women were found Sunday some 130 miles apart.

ville, Fla.

Annemarie Campbell, 23, of Paris, Tenn., was attacked while snorkeling in a secluded recreation area near Lake George, said state wildlife spokeswoman Kat Kelley. The lake is about 50 miles southeast of Gainesville.

"The people she was staying with came around and found her inside the gator's mouth," said Marion County Fire-Rescue Capt. Joe Amigliore.

By poking the alligator's eyes and trying to open its jaws, the men were able to free Campbell's body, AP but she was dead when they found

Campbell graduated from Murray State University in December with a degree in printmaking. Nicole Hand, an associate professor at the school, described Campbell as a creative thinker who loved to paint and cook and dreamed one day of going to culinary school in New York.

"She was just such an ambitious kid," Hand said. "She just had a really great energy about her that would light up a room." Campbell, who grew up in Louisville, Ky., was a member of the Organization of Murray Art Students and auctioned off art pieces to raise money for Hurricane Katrina victims.

"It's really tragic because she would have done big things for sure," Hand said.

In Pinellas County, the body of another woman apparently killed by an alligator was found in a canal 20 miles north of St. Petersburg, authorities said.

Heavy voter turnout expected

By TOM BERRY Staff Writer

With four contested magistrate races drawing county voter interest, Calloway County Clerk Ray Coursey Jr. said there could be a greater than expected turnout at the polls today for the May Primary.

Coursey said there was a rush of voters going to all 28 precincts this morning before 7 a.m. and polling was going as expected.

"I expect there to be a pretty good turnout," Coursey said this morning. "With the local magistrate races being on the ballot, I believe it will be a little heavier than what it normally is out in the county, but it's supposed to be about average. Given the fact that 2005 was an off-year in which there were no elections, we're happy to get things in 2006 going the way they are."

Coursey said voting usually come in three waves — before 7 a.m.; between noon and 1 p.m., and from about 4 p.m. until the polls close at 6 p.m.

However, Murray Precincts 11 and 12 got off to a slow start when the delivery of voting machines was delayed.

"Twenty six out of 28 precincts were up and running at 6 a.m.," he said. "We had a little bit of a situation where the people that deliver our voting machines delivered Murray 12's machine to Murray 11 and Precinct 11's machine to No. 12, and that cost us about 20 minutes at one precinct and about 30 minutes at the other."

Election officers Rachel Adams, foreground left, and Susan Hussman, pointing, check ID's and direct incoming voters to polling booths at Christian Community Church this morning. County Clerk Ray Coursey Jr. said turnout for the May Primary is expected to be about average with county races possibly drawing more voters to the polls. Coursey reported 336 absentee votes registered by the clerk's office as of Monday afternoon with 213 of those voters coming into the office and an additional 133 sending their ballots in by mail. About 1,100 absentee voters were counted during the 2004 General Election.

There have been some problems with new electronic voting machines set up at all 28 precincts under state and federal law; primarily provided to assist handicapped voters.

The 43-year-old Dunedin woman suffered animal bites that were consistent with an alligator, which "did play some part in the victim's death," according to a preliminary autopsy. The cause of death was pending and the medical examiner's final report will not be released for at least four weeks, the sheriff's office said.

"We don't know the condition she was in when this happened," state wildlife spokesman Gary Morse said.

It was not immediately known why Cooper was in the area where wildlife officials said alligators are frequently spotted.

Cooper's family had not heard from her for about three months and she had a history of drug abuse, her sister, Dannette Goodrich, told The Orlando Sentinel.

Gary Goodrich, Cooper's brother-in-law, told the newspaper that officials said her purse was found near the water and drugs may have played a factor.

Authorities were baiting traps in their searches for both gators Sunday.

On Wednesday, construction workers found the dismembered body of a Florida Atlantic University student in a canal near Fort Lauderdale. A medical examiner concluded that the 28-year-old woman was attacked near the canal bank and dragged into the water.

On Saturday, wildlife officers captured an 9-foot, 6-inch alli-

The opening ceremonies were held Monday morning with host Jim Pollard of the "Fabulous Fifties & Beyond" regional cable show as host. An invocation by the Rev. Dale True, minister at the Mt. Carmel Baptist Church in Fulton, was followed by a welcome to Murray from Mayor Tommy Rushing, Calloway County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins and Kentucky Sens. Fred Nesler from Mayfield and Ken Winters of Murray.

A Presentation of Colors was conducted by the Civil Air Patrol Squadron of Paducah. A musical patriotic medley honoring veterans was played and a balloon release was also held. The Kentucky Senior Games oath was recited by Betty Gore of Murray and a lighting of the torch for the local Senior Games was performed by "Bo" Beckett of Gilbertsville.

Williams said the games are open to those ages 50 and older who compete within their own age brackets in five-year increments. Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded for the competitive events and blue, red and white ribbons are given for the fun games such as cookie stacking, marble shoot, putt-putt golf, etc., she added.

Board of directors consisting of 24 members along with another 100 volunteers from businesses, sponsors, MSU students and athletes and area senior centers work tirelessly each year to help guarantee the event's success, it was reported.

"As long as I'm involved in the prosecution or investigation of Ernie Fletcher, then I cannot be a candidate against him," Stumbo told reporters at his Capitol office. "And I would not, nor did I ever, plan on being a candidate against him as long as those matters were pending and this office was involved."

For the past year, Stumbo's office has been involved in a Franklin County special grand jury probe into whether the Fletcher administration illegally rewarded political supporters with state jobs after he took office in December 2003.

That grand jury last week indicted Fletcher for three alleged misdemeanors - charging him with criminal conspiracy, official misconduct and violating a prohibition against political discrimination. The grand jury has returned a total of 29 indictments in the case — 14 of which remain sealed by the court.

Political observers had considered Stumbo a Democratic contender in next year's elec-

Fletcher spokesman Brett Hall said the administration still believes Stumbo was "turning up the temperature" in considering a run for governor in 2007. Hall claimed Stumbo had been considering a bid for governor throughout the investigation until Monday.

"We believe that from the beginning he had gubernatorial aspirations," Hall said.

Stumbo, Hall speculated, was trying to preserve his office's position on the personnel case.

"It's been a nice little dance and all of a sudden he wants to take himself out of it because basically he knows that he's endangered his investigation," Hall said.

Still, Stumbo said the question of his possible candidacy was "not part of the equation. Stumbo maintained he knew of the ethics opinion and knew he would have had to withdraw from the case if he wanted to run for governor.

"I don't want that issue to cloud the investigation or compromise the investigation any onger," Stumbo said. "These people have worked too hard the grand jurors, everybody involved in this case has worked too hard."

STUDYING CAREERS: Fourth grade students at Murray Middle School have been studying careers for the past few weeks. They have had several guest speakers with presentations of various career opportunities. Randy Lewis, a staff member at MMS, recently met with students to talk about the school systems water and electrical processes. Each student received their own yellow hard hat to wear during the presentation. The program is sponsored through the Build Up Program and the AGC (Association of General Contractors). School kits with videos and supplies, developed by Scholastic, were donated to the school. Students learn math, science and language skills during these acitivities. The students will now use the skills they have learned to build skyscrapers. Pictured are: Courtney Vanover, teacher (left); William WInchester (center); and Jenny English, teacher.

SCIENCE FAIR AT MSU: Amberly Munsey, P1 teacher at Murray Elementary, was excited to have two of her students enter the Murray State Science Fair held recently at the Regional Special Events Center on the Murray State University campus. Sara Ann Bazzell and Maddie Pfannerstill completed a project on The Water Cycle after studying the subject in the class-room. They created an environment for plants to see if they could observe how the water cycle works. They were successful in creating condensation, precipitation and evaporation. They will share their project with their classmates.

TRANSITION ASSISTANCE: Angie Jones, Murray Middle School librarian, works with Ashlee Edminster, a fourth grade student in Ms. Hayman's class, on a project for STLP (student technology leadership program). STLP is an after school program for students interested in technology. Students help teachers and other students with projects such as powerpoint presentations. Edminster is working on a powerpoint presentation for the P4 students who will be visiting the school to help with the transition from the elementary school.

RECYCLING - THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION: Scott Pile, seventh grade science teacher at Calloway County Middle School has reported that the school-wide paper recycling project has been a tremendous success. His environmental education class is reflective of lessons he learned while studying in Bregenz, Austria. The students took the information learned, and wanted to set up a recycling program in the school. The class designed a plan of action, which included equipping each classroom with recycling containers, finding a place to take the paper and designing signs to advertise the project. They even made morning announcements and gave group speeches to every single classroom. Thus far the students have successfully saved nearly 4,000 pounds of paper. Pictured above are students working on the recycling project.

PONY RIDES: Students at the Room to Grow Preschool on South 13th Street were recently treated to rides on Midnight, a five-year-old pony. The event was held to celebrate spring. Regina Bean, director at the facility, said Midnight was furnished for the students by Barbara Page, right, from Cozy Critters Farms in Farmington.

AP News Analysis Overreaching for advantage on immigration

By CALVIN WOODWARD Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Bush took credit for a boost in border security that was largely the work of Congress, and boasted about illegal aliens caught on his watch even though those numbers have fallen for much of his presidency.

Bush's TV address Monday night laid out an immigration policy in broad stokes that obscured the fine print of his record and plans on the subject.

Indeed, all sides in the fast-unfolding election-year debate have overreached in "exploiting the issue of immigration for political gain," as a scolding president put it. Bush, of course, is among those hoping that debate will deliver political dividends.

He asserted in his speech that "we have apprehended and sent home about 6 million people entering America illegally" over five years. Indeed, deportations rose sharply.

But overall apprehensions fell for three straight years before rising in 2004 to 1.1 million, still well below the 1.6 million caught in the last year of the Clinton administration, 2000, and in several years before that.

Parts of Bush's speech will be chewed over in debates over semantics, including what to make of his denial that the U.S. is militarizing the Mexican border. He is proposing to send 6,000 National Guard troops there; they will be armed but not dispatched to arrest illegal immigrants, still the job of the Border Patrol.

Bush's rationale for sending the guard is that the U.S. is not fully in control of its borders, a point no one seriously disputes. In stating that challenge and asking for more money to deal with it, however, he did not acknowledge any lapses on his part. "Since I became or GOP leaders. Last year, for example, Bush's budget proposal to Congress would have provided enough money only to pay for about 200 new border agents. This despite a 2004 law that required the addition of 2,000 agents a year.

And this month, the White House was standing firm against lawmakers who wanted to divert more money to border protection and hurricane relief from a $67.6 billion White House request for Iraq and Afghanistan military operations.

The tendency to overreach on facts has typified many voices in the debate.

A Spanish-language radio ad sponsored by the Democratic National Committee asserted without evidence that a proposed House crackdown on illegal immigrants would criminalize "even churches just for giving communion" to them.

That wasn't found in the bill, and the bill's sponsors and the administration said nothing in it could be interpreted to provide for the prosecution of religious leaders or doctors who offer humanitarian assistance to illegal immigrants.

Democratic Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton had sounded a theme similar to the ad's when she asserted the bill would probably criminalize "even Jesus himself."

On the other side, those who argue the country is being overrun by immigrants have sometimes overlooked the historical perspective. About 12 percent of people in the U.S. are foreign-born, a rapid increase in recent years and a 70-year high. But in the early 1900s, onethird of the people in America were born in another country.

Bush's faith in the ability of his proposed temporary guest worker program to stem the spread of illegal immigrants in the U.S. was not fully explained in his speech.

For citizens of western Kentucky, House of Representatives Bill 5252 -- the Communications Opportunity, Promotion and Enhancement Act of 2006 (COPE) -- is relevant in several ways: First of all, U.S. Rep. Ed Whitfield is one of its cosponsors. Second, the law has the potential to affect public access to electronic information in terms of cost and speed of delivery. Last but not least by a long shot, any proposed law with that many buzz words in its name warrants rigorous examination. As I understand it, COPE HR5252 addresses issues associated with local cable services; national broadband policy; 911 emergency provisions for Internet telephone services; and something called "seamless mobility."

If this bill becomes a law, it will create a national franchise for cable services. These franchises might translate into having a choice of local cable providers (as opposed to the non-choice we have now), if the franchisee pays various fees and complies with mandates from something called an LFA, or local franchise authority. As a result, franchisees would have the right to pick and choose the market segments they want to serve. In major metropolitan areas with dense populations and deep pockets, this could mean a wider range of choices for the consumer. In rural areas like ours, howeve er, we could find ourselves

"red-lined" by service providers who prefer selling to wealthier and more densely populated areas. Fred Johnson, a founder of Kentucky's Media Working Group and director of University of Massachusetts at Boston's Community Media and Technology Program, sees COPE as a means of circumventing public interest requirements that have been part of the industry for years.

"The telcos will get regulatory privileges through COPE," he says, "and they will be able to enter video markets. When that happens, local cable companies are likely to sue their way out of the public responsibilities they already have, and cable will want the same set of deregulation rights to compete with the phone companies

In Johnson's estimation, the losers are the users, particularly in rural markets like much of Kentucky.

An article about COPE from the Atlanta Journal-Constitution contends that lawmakers "admit their goal is not to pass definitive legislation in public in the ally supply . the language that fleshes out the law in their favor.

A fear associated with passage of these bills is that Internet service providers -the Goliaths of the industry can set fees that would relegate Websites of small businesses, non-profits, individual entrepreneurs with Web-based operations and the like, to a lower tier of service that would make their sites harder to access and slower to navigate. Moreover, providers would be able to block access to smaller competitors unable to pay for preferred services.

On the contrary, according to a commentary by Robert E. Litan of the Brookings Institution, published in the /Washington Post/, COPE's detractors are unwilling to pay for ongoing development of the high speed networks of the future, and are thus throwing obstacles in the way of technological advancement that relies on reliable, and expensive, broadband networks. In any case, COPE – HR5252 can be an agent of immense change in the way individuals, non-profits and educational institutions use the Internet. If we are not careful about the way this legislation evolves, we may unwittingly get government off our backs at the same time corporate powerhouses take control of the information superhighway, extracting tolls from users and blocking websites and services they don't like. able through Brent Dolen at Congressman Ed Whitfield's D. C. office, at 202-225 3115. An article entitled "Broadband 'Net Neutrality in Ouestion: Free Speech, High Finance at Issue" is available online http://www.artsandmedia.net/c gi-bin/dc/newsdesk/2203/12/02_net_neutrality.

There is sitcom man, who is usually plain or ugly and weighs much more than his wife. He is an idiot, who is unable to do the simplest task and should feel lucky any woman would have him:

My kind of guys

There is pro athlete man, whose boorish behavior is Thoughts By Cal Thomas exceeded only by his sexual conquests and Syndicated ridiculous salary demands.

There is Playboy man, represented by the fossilized Hugh Hefner who, were it not for what he pays the blonde bimbos who hang on his arm and the little blue pills he takes so he might convince himself and others that he is still desirable, would long ago have been stuffed and put in a museum

There is soldier man; not the hero who gives his life for the freedom of others, but the few the media pay attention to that commit atrocities.

There is "Brokeback Mountain" man and we know their story, whether we've seen the movie, or not.

Where can one find real men these days? One place is in Bob Greene's new book, "And You Know You Should Be Glad," published by William Morrow. The title is taken from The Beatles' 1963 hit, "She Loves You" and the sentiment is taken from an era in which men were less confused about who they were. This is the best book I have ever read about male bonding.

It is the story of five boys who meet in kindergarten in Bexley, Ohio, a suburb of Columbus. They remain close friends for 57 years. When four of them discover the fifth, Jack Roth. has cancer, they return to Bexlev to be with him. They help him relive his life and their own.

If you are a man and after reading this book you don't cry and feel more a man than you've ever felt before, you have no heart. You will cry because you either have or had friends like this, or you wish you had had them.

Greene is a master at transporting strangers into lives and places you have never visited, but he makes you feel at home. He taps the difficult realm of male emotions as few men I've known. He calls this book "the biography of a friendship." And he says even though we may not have known Jack Roth, "there is someone in your life very much like him."

As Greene describes Roth, I am reminded of a lyric from the musical, "Show Boat" about a man named Bill: "an ordinary guy; he hasn't got a thing that I can brag about." Except in this case, this ordinary man is a friend of Bob Greene, Chuck Shenk, Danny Dick and Allen Schulman.

Their bond is something all of them regard as greater than their careers. They even created an abbreviation for their friendship from the first letters of their first names: ABCDJ.

Remember what innocence once looked like? You'll rediscover it in Greene's book. It is sweet. It is wholesome. It is, or ought to be, a place every grown man should try to visit at least once more during his life.

The tenderness the four display toward Jack reflects behavior and attitude we associate almost exclusively with women. But male emotions are felt and expressed differently and Greene taps into them in a wonderful way. When Chuck cries as he visits his dying friend, he is never manlier.

As Jack tours Bexley with his friends, recalling favorite places some of which have ceased to exist physically, but are embedded in memo-- Greene writes of him, "He was tasting his life. He was savoring who he was, and where he had been, who he had known . he was tasting it with a fierce and pervading kind of appetite. It wasn't nostalgia; this was much more profound than that, this, in my eyes, was something that bordered on holy."

What brought me to tears after living their lives with them through Greene's recollections was his description of Jack's funeral, which their kindergarten teacher, "Miss Barbara," attended. Greene told me when he sent her the manuscript, she cried.

Anyone looking for a perfect Father's Day gift should get "And You Know You Should Be Glad." I have rarely been touched as deeply by a modern work. Even women will love this book. But guys, this one's primari-ly for you. When you've finished it, I know you will be glad.

Mrs. Annie Ruth Rutledge Walls

Mrs. Annie Ruth Rutledge Walls, 94, Union City, Tenn., died

Thursday, May 11, 2006, at Baptist Memorial Hospital, Union City. She attended elementary school in Rives, Tenn., and completed high school, at the former Miles School. She later moved to Gallatin, Tenn., where she met and married Artie Walls, and they opened a restaurant and grocery business there in 1948.

Mrs. Walls and her husband moved to Murray, Ky., in 1952, and opened another restaurant and grocery business. Mr. Walls died Sept. 26, 1956. At that time, she became a nanny for Carol Hibbard in Murray until the family moved to Knoxville, Tenn., and she then became a nanny for Betty Sue Vinson in Murray until she retired.

A former member of Winchester Missionary Baptist Church, Gallatin, she later joined St. John's Missionary Baptist Church, Murray, where she served as usher, Sunday school teacher and chairman of the kitchen committee. After moving back to Union City, she joined Pilgrim Rest Missionary Baptist Church, where she was a member of the senior choir.

Born May 5, 1912, in Union City, she was the daughter of the late Eugene Rutledge and Mary Bishop Rutledge. Preceding her in death were her husband, Artie Walls; one sister, Mamie Rutledge; one brother, Porter Rutledge.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Mary Gardner, Gary, Ind., and Mrs. Orleana Kennedy, Merryville, Ind.; three brothers, Harvey Rutledge, Gary, Glenn Rutledge and wife, Geraldine, Gallatin, and Wallace Rutledge, Merryville, Tenn.; one niece, Connie Rutledge, Flint, Mich.; and four nephews, James Clay and wife, Angela, Merryville, Anthony Clay, Gary, Eugene Rutledge, Flint, and Hollis Rutledge, Gallatin.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Pilgrim Rest Missionary Baptist Church, Union City. Rev. A.E. McCadney will officiate. Nephews will serve as pallbearers. Burial will follow in the East View Cemetery there.

Visitation will be at Beard and Sanders Funeral Home, Union City, from 5 to 7 p.m. today (Tuesday).

Clarence Woodrow Herndon Sr.

DO YOU WANT TO BE SAVED?

Tuesday, May 16, 2006 • 5A

Only one time, in the entire Bible, is the question asked. "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30). In the next verse (Acts 16:31) the question is answered, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

Remember:

Hell's Hot Life's Short Death's Sure Eternity's Long and, "There Ain't No Exits In Hell."

NO MAN KNOWS, HOW SOON IT IS TOO LATE

Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His Name in vain. Exodus 20:7

Any way that you use God's Name, the Lord's Name, Jesus' Name, other than in a Holy manner, is taking His Name in

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

John 3:16

Acts 2:21 and Romans 10:13 indicate that, "whosever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." In the next verse, Romans 10:14 it says, "How then, shall they call on him in whom they have not believed?" Believing precedes calling upon The name of the Lord, Jesus Himself said in John 14:6 "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." God reaffirms this truth in I Timothy 2:5 saying "for there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus." When someone says "repeat this prayer after me to be saved" it is making people feel like they have to "do" something to be saved other than belleving. If someone is asked to say a prayer to be saved, the person who says the prayer is still on his way to hell, after repeating the prayer, if he hasn't believed in his heart. Nowhere in the Bible is it found that a person has to pray a prayer to be saved. God does not hear a prayer unless you go to God in the name of Jesus Christ The Only Mediator between God and man. Jesus Christ is not your Mediator unless he is your Lord and Savior. So according to God, the steps are, first, you believe in Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior. By believing as Acts 16:31 indicates, you are saved! Acts 16:30, 31 is the only time in the Bible where the question is asked, "what must I do to be saved?" God answering through Paul said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. By being saved, Jesus Christ is your Lord, Savior, and Mediator between God and yourself. Now you can pray to God, because you have the Mediator, Jesus Christ.

believe that when a person "prays" to God, without being saved, his prayer goes no higher than the ceiling, and God probably says, "Who do you think you are, to think that you can come to Me, without coming to Me in the only possible way that I have set out tin My Word? For you come to Me, through My Only Begotten Son, Jesus Christ, the One and Only Mediator between you and Me." You don't just pull Jesus Christ out of the air, and say today I want You to get me to God, be my go between for God! It doesn't work that way Jesus Christ is either your Lord and Savior, making Him your Mediator, or, if Jesus Christ is not your Lord and Savior, He is not your Mediator. I believe it is very important to stress that you are saved by believing only. John 3:16, probably the most quoted verse in the Bible, says that, "whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Again, this passage clearly prescribes believing, not repeating a prayer. In John 3:4 Nicodemus asks Jesus, "How can a man he born when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?" He was asking this in regard to Jesus' statement in John 3:3, that a man needs to be born again. Jesus' answer in John 3:5 and following is "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Nowhere does Jesus say, pray to be saved, it is always believe.

Years ago, I heard Dr. Donald Gray Barnhouse say "I'm deeply offended when I hear a prayer that does not end with the idea that God must be approached only through the Name and the Being of the Lord Jesus Christ." Ephesians 1:13 says "In whom (Christ) ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise." Romans 10:9 tells us "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth (first) unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession (next) is made unto salvation." How many people have gone to hell or are going to hell by putting their trust in the ungodly "pray the sinners prayer" or "repeat this prayer after me", instead of believing John 3:36: "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

Luke 23:39-43 tells us "And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us. But the other answering rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done nothing amiss. And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." In these verses in Luke, we see that a man was saved by believing only. The malefactors did not, and was not instructed by Jesus, to pray, to receive salvation. He said unto Jesus, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in paradise." You don't fool Jesus, Jesus knew that this man believed in Him; that this man believed that this Jesus that he was talking with was the Lord, The Messiah, the Only Begotten Son of God, the Savior, and in believing, the man was saved. Now if you think that you have to pray first, repeat first, or anything first, before believing, why did Jesus tell him "today thou shalt be with Me in paradise?" OR if there is a need to do for anything to go along with believing, why didn't Jesus tell him what that was? Jesus doesn't make mistakes! God's Word is true. You don't (really you can't), add to or take away from God's Word, and it be true. Just leave His word alone, and do what God said, believe. Psalm 119:89 "For ever O LORD, thy word is settled in heaven." Revelation's 22:18, 19 "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of prophecy, God shall take away his part of the book of life, and out of holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." Take your Bible and check the references that we contained herein --- nothing added to and nothing taken away; and when you hear "the plan of salvation" from anyone, get your Bible out and see if it is God speaking or "someone's" idea. I can't see "ten steps" to salvation, I can see only one step: Believe. The malefactor on the cross had but one step, and he took it. You, I, we all have "one step, believe. Please take it, and believe in the Lord Jesus Christ of your salvation activities, because a busy happy child is less likely to become involved in unsafe behavior. Give the sitter a tour of your home to point out safety precautions such as baby gates and child-resistant locks and the locations of telephones, first-aid supplies, fire extinguishers, flashlights and planned fire-escape routes. Be sure to point out the list of emergene bers adjacent to each telephone including your cell phone or another number where you can be reached fire and police departments, poison control center, emergency services, your doctor, a neighbor and a relative. The home tour also should include the locations of protective gear for a bicycle, skateboard, scooter or in-line skates. Further, the sitter should insist that your child wear a helmet, knee and elbow pads and other protective gear. Certain areas of the home should be off limits to infants and toddlers. Since there are many hazards in the kitchen and bathroom, a child should not be allowed to play in these areas. If the sitter may have to give your child medications, provide clear, written instructions on the appropriate dosage and schedule. The sitter should understand the importance of constant supervision, know what to do in an emergency and accept your guidelines for child care.

It is equally important to communicate with the sitter regarding safety procedures, off-limit areas and medical instructions.

There is no substitute for constant supervision so instruct the sitter never to leave your child alone; especially in the bathroom or kitchen, around playground equipment or near water.

The sitter also should pay attention to what the child is doing. It is helpful for the sitter to have some good lem of alcoholism or addiction in a relative or friend

Singles will meet tonight

Bush plans to send National Guard to Mexican border

WASHINGTON (AP) President Bush, trying to build support for a major overhaul of the nation's tattered immigration laws, said Monday night he would order as many as 6,000 National Guard troops to secure the U.S. border with Mexico and urged Congress to give millions of illegal immigrants a chance at citizenship.

"We do not yet have full control of the border and I am determined to change that," the president said in a 17-minute primetime address from the Oval Office.

Bush gave strong support to a plan that would give many of the 12 million illegal immigrants in the United States an eventual path to possible citizenship - a move derided by some conservatives in his own Republican Party as amnesty. He rejected that term.

"It is neither wise nor realistic to round up millions of people, many with deep roots in the United States and send them across the border," he said. "There is a rational middle ground between granting an automatic path to citizenship for every illegal immigrant and a program of mass deportation."

The Guard troops would mostly serve two-week stints before rotating out of the assignment, so keeping the force level at 6,000 over the course of a year could require up to 156,000 troops

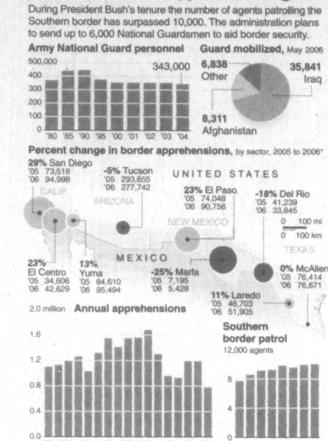

Still, Bush insisted, "The United States is not going to militarize the southern border.'

The White House wouldn't say how much the deployments would cost, but said the troops would paid for as part of $1.9 billion being requested from Congress to supplement border enforcement this year.

The president timed his speech hours after the Senate began intense debate on an immigration bill that has been getting increasing attention in a year when all House seats and one-third of Senate seats are up for election. The rare televised, prime-time Oval Office address signified the high stakes for Bush, who has been asking for an immigration overhaul since his the 2000 campaign.

House Majority Whip Roy Blunt, R-Mo., indicated Bush may have some trouble getting some conservatives on board with his overall plan.

The review started with the following sentence. "Tuberculin skin testing is a crude procedure, fraught with potential error at every step, from application to interpretation, and requires 2 visits to a health care provider. Its use has persisted, nonetheless, because it remained, until recently, the only means of detection of latent infection with (tuberculosis)"

The CDC states that the blood test can be used in all circumstances in which skin testing is now utilized. Such circumstances include investigation of people exposed to TB, screening of health care workers and certain professionals, and testing of immigrants from TB-prone countries

This is good news for anyone who finds the skin test to be a nuisance and for professionals who are concerned about the lack of precision in the traditional Purified Protein Derivative (PPD) analysis.

This information has yet to reach many health care workers (and policy makers), so be patient. But remember that you read about it here first.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've heard rumors there may be a product that will take the place of insulin in type I diabetes. Am I being taken for a ride?

DEAR READER: You are, but it is a good ride for diabetics. The product to which you refer is called Exubera, marketed by Pfizer, and it is an inhaled, dry powder containing insulin that can, if necessary, be used with insulin shots or with glucose-lowering pills.

Initial studies have confirmed that Exubera is both an effective therapy for diabetes as well as a treatment that gets high marks in patient satisfaction and convenience. The inhaled insulin should not be used by people who smoke (or recently stopped) or have lung disease.

Although I am certain that, over time, Exubera will be modified . upgraded. and improved, it is still in its infancy. Consequently, its use is not recommended across the board for all diabetics. In addition, my usual recommendation that readers check with their family physicians would be inappropriate because the product is so new that few doctors have had any experience with it.

If you believe that you are a candidate for Exubera therapy, first obtain information from your physician (if he or she can help), your diabetes specialist or a pharmacist about the pros and cons. Stay tuned.

ready-made, and the play would essentially be over.

But if the defenders function efficiently, they can win the race against time and defeat the contract. Assume West leads the four of diamonds and East wins dummy's queen with the ace. (The purpose of the queen play by declarer is to get East to return a diamond, which East might not do if the queen remained in dummy.)

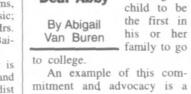

But if East is alert, he does not return a diamond. He views the queen play with a jaundiced eye and returns the spade three instead. With the deuce and three of diamonds in view in his own hand and dummy, he concludes from the lead of the four that West has at most four diamonds and South therefore also has four.

The spade shift beats declarer fair and square. South plays the six, whereupon West takes the king and returns a spade. East ducks, of course, and South wins with the ace. Declarer can cash eight tricks but is then finished.

Finding declarer with only two ades might be viewed as a lucky shot by East, but actually it is not that unlikely on the bidding. Since South has four diamonds and opened with one club, he might easily have five clubs. Declarer's other four cards are then almost certain to be divided 2-2. which means he has exactly two spades.

BARDWELL, Ky. Bradley Cobb and the young Murray High Tigers appear to be rounding into form at just the right time.

The sophomore right-hander and the Tigers stayed red-hot yesterday with a stellar effort in a 2-0 shutout of Carlisle County

Cobb struck out 18 of the 28 Carlisle hitters he faced, allowing just five hits and only one walk in a complete game victory, lifting Murray to its fourth straight win and its ninth in the last 11 outings.

The contest remained scoreless through four innings, but the Tigers (16-12) gave Cobb all of the run support he would need with a run in the top of the fifth and another tally in the seventh.

Carlisle (10-10) committed four errors in the game. But the two most critical miscues came in the fifth, when Tanner Richerson reached on a

Twist of fate fortunate for Johnson

SOCCER STANDOUT TO CONTINUE CAREER AT CAMPBELLSVILLE

By SCOTT NANNEY Sports Editor

Jessi Johnson is like any other high school student-athlete when it comes to taking advantage of an opportunity at the next level.

The Calloway County High School senior is ready and willing to continue her soccer career next fall at Campbellsville College — even if the sport wasn't a priority when she selected the small Kentucky school for her college education.

A twist of fate is what led Johnson to the Campbellsville women's soccer program.

Johnson, who was already planning to attend the school on a presidential scholarship, felt she just couldn't say no to an offer from Campbellsville head coach Abbie Parish, who coincidentally was looking for a few good players.

"I wasn't really sure if soccer was something I would have time to do (in college)," said Johnson, who also considered Georgetown, Belmont and Union University in Jackson, Tenn., for academic purposes before settling on Campbellsville. But, when I was away (from soccer), I found out that I missed it. ... (The offer) was just too good to pass up."

The availability of Johnson was a stroke of good fortune for Parish, who was in desperate need of players after watching two of her own leave the program in the offseason.

"We had some players who decided to leave, and we had a couple of spots that were open," explained Parish, who accepted Johnson sight unseen. "I just happened to come across her a couple of weeks ago. I talked to her admissions counselor and found out that she had played soccer in high school.

"Jessi is someone who has the experience, and she was already coming to Campbellsville anyway. I haven't seen her play, but all of her coaches had good things to say about her. I feel like she's a good addition to our program," Parish added.

Speaking of coaches, Johnson has had her share of them during her four-year varsity career at CCHS.

Moss, a senior who was a four-year point guard for the basketball team, is pursuing his first and only year of eligibility as a football player.

"I'm really disappointed, but I'm going to stick to my commitment to play football," Moss said.

Also Monday, the football team announced it was dismissing senior cornerback Bo Smith because of an undisclosed team rules violation. Smith played in 32 games, starting five of them in his Kentucky career. He had 133 tackles and three interceptions.

Calloway's Tyler Brockman (left) and Murray's Hugh Rollins will walk-on the Murray State University football team when the team opens up camp in July. Both players, who have been keys to their respective schools' fortunes on the gridiron the past few seasons, turned down scholarship offers to other schools for the chance to suit up for their hometown Racers.

GRIFFIN ALLOWING LOCAL FOOTBALL STANDOUTS TO JOIN RACER FOOTBALL PROGRAM

By SCOTT NANNEY Sports Editor

There will be a local flavor to the Murray State football team's Class of 2006.

New Racer head coach Matt Griffin has recently agreed to allow Murray High and Calloway County standouts Hugh Rollins and Tyler Brockman to join the program as walk-ons when the team opens fall camp in late July.

Both players, who have been keys to their respective school's fortunes on the gridiron the past few seasons, turned down scholarship offers to other schools offer was rescinded when former head coach Joe Panfor the chance to suit up for their hometown Racers. nunzio was fired following a 2-9 campaign in 2005.

U.S. OPEN

"I've always wanted to play at Murray State," said Rollins, who, at quarterback, served as one of the Tigers' key offensive weapons during a 5-7 finish last fall that included a trip to the second round of the Class A state playoffs. "I turned down some scholarship (offers) because I had my mind set on going there. I don't think I could've gone anywhere else.'

Rollins - who also considered Austin Peay, Eastern Kentucky, Kentucky Wesleyan and Campbellsville before settling on the Racers - was actually close to receiving a scholarship offer from MSU. But that Griffin did not offer the Tigers' signal caller a scholarship, but he made enough of an impression on Rollins that the MHS seniors elected to stay home for his college football career and an education in the field of criminal justice.

"My first impression (of Griffin) is that he is a great coach," said Rollins, who is listed on Racers' roster as a 6-foot-3, 205-pound tight end but could. also see time at linebacker and possibly even at quarterback. "I think he's the guy that's going to turn this program around."

Wie trying to be first female to qualify for Open GOLFER SHOOTS EVEN-PAR 72 MONDAY AT LOCAL QUALIFIER

KAHUKU, Hawaii (AP) — Michelle Wie has been competing against men since she was 12, and still feels slightly uneasy about it.

But Wie looked totally comfortable Monday when she moved a step closer in her long-shot bid to become the first female player to qualify for the U.S. Open, shooting an even-par 72 to win a local qualifier

"Playing with the men, I'm not sure what's going to happen. It puts me in an almost uncomfortable place," she said. "That's what makes me a better player.

The USGA believes she is the first woman to get through local qualifying for the U.S. Open. Wie and two other players advanced to sectional play next month, with Wie saying she will play in the June 5 36-hole sectional at Canoe Brook in Summit, N.J.

"The possibility of playing at Winged Foot? It's the U.S. Open, the name speaks for itself," Wie said. "It's one of a kind.

After the sectional, Wie will play in the LPGA Championship in Havre de Grace, Md.

Playing on her home island of Oahu in front of about two dozen people, Wie was steady for most of her round on the breezy, oceanside Palmer Course at Turtle Bay Resort, but missed a couple of short putts. She had four birdies and four bogeys.

Joe Phengsavath of Honolulu was second with a 1-over 73. Fifteen-year-old Tadd Fujikawa, a high school freshman from Honolulu, holed a 60-foot birdie putt on the third playoff hole to earn the third spot.

Wie opened with a birdie, sinking a 15-foot putt, but three-putted the 543yard third to give back a stroke. She then birdied Nos. 7, 9 and 14, but followed each of them up with a bogey.

"I made the birdies where I should have," she said. "I made a lot of stupid mistakes, though.'

Wie made the turn at 1-under 35 after holing a 20-foot, slightly downhill putt that hung on the lip and dropped. Her father jumped, shot his fist in the air and screamed, "Yes! Whoo!" as the small gallery cheered.

On par-4 14th, Wie drove 290 yards, easily clearing the right-side marsh and then stuck her approach shot for a tapin birdie. On the next hole, she hit a line drive off the tee into the short bunker. She blasted out of the sand to 3-feet, but missed for bogey.

Michelle Wie moved a step closer in her long-shot bid to become the first female player to qualify for the U.S. Open by shooting a 72 Monday at the 2006 US Open Championship local qualifier at Turtle Bay Resort in Kahuku, Hawaii.

PREP SOFTBALL Lady Tigers brush back Fulton City

Staff Report

A pair of big innings helped the Murray High Lady Tigers to a doubleheader sweep of visiting Fulton City during prep softball action Monday at MHS.

The Lady Tigers (10-17), who have now won three in a row and four of their last five, earned both victories in five innings, winning 7-1 and 9-2. In Game 1, the two squads were deadlocked in a 1-1 tie through 3-1/2 innings of play. But Murray took control of the contest with six runs in the bottom of the fourth. Kaitlyn Carpenter delivered the big blow for the Lady Tigers with a two-run single in the frame. Haley Thomason picked up the pitching victory for MHS. In the nightcap, Murray used a three-run second inning and a five-run fifth to win by seven. The Lady Tigers led just 4-2 after four innings of play, but put the game out of reach with their big fifth frame, which included five hits.

Shannon Elias paced the Murray hitting attack with a 2-for-3 effort at the plate that included two RBIs. Jordan Huston, Megan Snow, Christina Dunn and Chelcie Winchester were all 2-for-3 with an RBI apiece Haley Armstrong earned the pitching win for Murray.

The Lady Tigers were scheduled to visit St. Mary today before closing out the regular season on Thursday at Graves County

LAKERS SNAP TWO-GAME LOSING SKID TO BEAT MAYFIELD

Staff Report

MAYFIELD, Ky. - Colby Starks paced an 18-hit attack and Josh Reynolds did the rest on the mound as the Calloway County baseball team hammered Mayfield 13-0 on Monday

Starks went 4-for-5 to lead the Lakers (24-6), who snapped a two-game losing streak that included losses to Daviess County and Warren East during last weekend's Wooden Bat Tournament at Franklin-Simpson High School.

Starks' day included two singles, a double the team's Senior Night.

and a home run. Pete Thackston followed with three hits in five plate appearances. Several other Lakers added two hits apiece, as CCHS scored blew the game open with five runs in the fifth inning and four more in the sixth.

That was more than enough for Reynolds, who allowed just eight hits and struck out five in a complete-game victory.

The Lakers were scheduled to host Lone Oak today at 5 p.m. The contest will serve as

3rd player indicted in Duke lacrosse case

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) - A Duke University lacrosse team captain became the third player indicted in the rape scandal Monday and the first to speak out, blasting the charges against him as "fantastic lies

"I look forward to watching them unravel in the weeks to come," said David Evans, a justgraduated 23-year-old economics major from Bethesda, Md., who was one of four team captains.

At a news conference, Evans

The charges followed a March 13 party at an off-campus house, where a 27-year-old black student at nearby North Carolina Central University told police she was raped and beaten by three white men after she and another woman were hired as strip-

Evans also proclaimed the innocence of sophomores Reade Seligmann, 20, of Essex Fells, N.J., and Collin Finnerty, 19, of Garden City, N.Y., who were indicted last month on the same charges,

District Attorney Mike Nifong said he did not expect any more indictments in the case, saying the three players facing charges were the only ones implicated by the evidence.

Tryouts for Murray Junior Legion Baseball will be held on Sunday, May 21 at 3:30 p.m. on the field at the corner of 8th and Payne streets. To be eligible for tryouts, players must be between the ages of 15-17. Those interested in playing are required to be at the tryouts. For more information, attend the tryouts or contact Rhonda Burks at 293-6451 or Justin Garland at 293-1618.

The second annual Calloway County Laker Football Camp will be held May 22-25 at the Hoke Athletic Fieldhouse on the CCHS campus. Camp will be held from 9 a.m. to noon May 22-23 for students in grades 2-5. Grades 6-9 will participate in the camp from 9 a.m. to noon May 24-25

The camp will include non-contact fundamental instruction, competitions, free T-shirts, guest speakers and chalk talk sessions. The cost of the camp is $20.

Applications may be picked up at any Calloway County school. Preregistration is recommended. However, interested persons may register at 8:30 a.m. on the first day of camp. For more information, contact CCHS head coach Josh McKeel at 762-7374. Ext. 309 or 762-7397.

ray High head coach Lee Edwards.

"I think the world of (MSU's) new (coaching) staff and I think the world of Hugh. Murray State is getting a good player."

Over at Calloway, Brockman found himself in a similar situation as his crosstown counterpart.

The 6-1, 215-pound tight end, who was an integral part of the Lakers' rebuilding project under first-year head coach Josh McKeel in 2005, was also being recruited by Pannunzio. But the monetary offer was taken off the table when the former MSU coach was dismissed last Novemand Kentucky Weslevan - didn't sway Brockman's desire.

However, the coaching change

at MSU - as well as scholarship offers from schools such as

Centre College, Campbellsville

"Murray State made a really good academic offer," Brockman said. "That, along with some other money, made it a good choice for me.

Although the Lakers' tough 1-9 finish last fall may not have reflected it, Brockman's play and his influence on younger players paid dividends for McKeel, who is attempting to bring winning football back to the CCHS program.

"Tyler brought exceptional leadership to our team," recalled the Laker coach. "He played an important part on both the offensive and defensive sides of the ball.

"With the change in the coaching staff (at MSU), it kind of changed his situation there. But he really wanted to be a Racer," added McKeel, who is a former MSU tight end himself. "I think they'll be pleasantly surprised with what they get out of Tyler."

Johnson admitted the constant coaching changes were a nuisance, but, at the same time, it helped her grow into the player she's become.

"That kind of made it hard to maintain stability, but it was not really a burden to me as a player," she said. "It just challenged me to work harder.

The past changes in her soccer career may also help Johnson make the big adjustment to life as a college student.

"I've learned to keep a good attitude no matter what happens," she said. "I think it's good to be placed in new sit-
