THE LISTENING POST

● I know that business is better, that business men are more hopeful of the future by one certain sign. That is, I have received more calendars this year than for many years. Calendars from local business firms and from those in other cities have been far more numerous than for several years, and by this sign I know that business is better.

● Back in the early part of the Thirties, just as the depression began to take deep bites out of all lines of business, the tide of calendars began to ebb alarmingly. Never before in this office had there been any real shortage of calendars. Always plenty of all kinds were received. We received the sort which I really like—the ones with figures two inches high and which can be read from across the office. We received the small desk kind, which are always convenient when work is going on which requires constant consultation of the calendar. We always had plenty of the sort which show the current month, the past month and the next month—and these are a blessing to a newspaper worker when he is posting his books and requires checking of all three months. I thought there would never be any shortage of calendars, but found about 1931 and the following three or four years how convenient these calendars had really been. For during those terribly lean years we received few calendars. Such few as we received were merely calendars, made as cheaply as possible and offering none of the luxuries of the three in one sort; although mercifully one whole calendar kept on carrying out a calendar which carried all twelve months on a single sheet. No newspaper could exist without at least one of these calendars.

● The picture calendar completely disappeared during those years, and indeed, it has not fully returned. Now and then I see one at some place with a beautiful damsel appearing in attractive colors and abbreviated costume, but a casual check reveals that none of these came to me this year. But of the strictly utilitarian sort, with no art work I have received plenty. I have had enough this year to adequately care for the front office and then several to place on the walls of the back shop. Everybody around a newspaper office needs calendars, and this year I can see that we are adequately supplied. It is a certain sign of business. (As I write these lines I am conscious of a feeling that I have written them or similar ones before, and I guess some reader with a long memory will tell me of it before many days.)

● Speaking of calendars I am reminded that the old time calendars are now beginning to attract attention from antique lovers and hobby horse riders. In recent issues of Life many old calendars have been reproduced and several of them have been familiar to me. I can remember certain old calendars which hung on the walls of certain personages, and it comes as quite a shock now and then to have one of these remembered pictures leap up at me from the pages of a modern magazine. There was quite a bit of art mixed up in some of the old time calendars, although the artists of that date did not go in much for the scantily clad ladies. Rather, they preferred pictures of old homesteads, of little children, or faithful dogs and cats, with now and then some stirring picture of a deer or some other wild animal. I believe I saw more calendars with snow scenes than any other, although this may be merely a case of remembering those better than others.

● In any event, I am quite confident that unless another depression comes along or unless we become too engrossed in war matters, next year will see the calendars back in full tide again—not only the strictly useful calendar, but the ones with art work.

Preliminary Plans Are Laid For Presenting Claims Of Section To Government At Meeting Here

Delegations From Surrounding Towns Meet With Chamber Of Commerce And Young Men's Business Club—Further Work Is Under Way Today

About eighty men from Fulton, Union City, Hickman and Clinton attended a joint meeting held here last night of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce and the Young Men's Business Club, and an enthusiastic meeting resulted as plans were unfolded which will present the claims of this section for one of the government defense plants. Walter Howell, prominent business man of Union City, was the principal speaker and gave a pointed talk on the many advantages which are offered in this section. Pointing out the fact that no one town is large enough, or has influence enough to swing one of these projects alone, he urged that the towns of Fulton, Union City, Hickman and Clinton pool their efforts in an effort to attract one of these federal plants. Mr. Howell has made a close study of the situation, knows the resources and possibilities of this section intimately, and his talk was an inspiration to the large group of men.

Mr. Howell was introduced by Joe E. Davis, a friend of many years, and Mr. Davis also acted as program chairman.

Hickman was represented by Messrs. Johnson, Davis, Dobson, Henry and Walts. Union City sent Messrs. Howell, Phillips, Byer and Harper, and Clinton sent Messrs. Waterfield, Alexander, Griffey, and Briggs.

Following Mr. Howell's address several men from the other towns discussed the subject and all were highly enthusiastic. Mr. Johnson from Hickman stated that his town was ready to follow the plan as outlined by Mr. Howell and cooperation from Union City was pledged by Walter Phillips of the Union City Rotary Club, and Harry Harper of the Chamber of Commerce.

In the discussion which followed it developed that Clinton was already far along in individual efforts to secure a defense or arms project in Hickman county, and a committee had already been named, these men being scheduled to leave Wednesday morning for Washington, where federal officials will be interviewed. This situation was outlined by Mr. Waterfield, publisher of the Hickman County Gazette, who agreed that perhaps they had acted hastily, adding that he had not believed it possible to secure the cooperation which

Bulldogs Have Three Games This Week

With a 500 per cent average in games won and lost, the Bulldogs will renew its rivalry with the Hickman netmen tonight at Science Hall, preliminary game beginning at 7:15. No matter how strong either team, the Hickman-Fulton basketball games are always good for the rivalry is keen and anything can happen when these teams meet. Fulton has two games on schedule with the Hickman boys. The Pups, who have dropped only one game this season, will play the second stringers from Hickman in the preliminary game. Luther, golden gloves contender, and Bolino will fight in an exhibition match between the two games tonight.

The Bulldogs have two other games on schedule this week and will go to Mayfield to play the Cardinals Wednesday night. Friday night they will play the Cayce team at Science Hall.

BRIDE PLUNGES TO DEATH FROM HOTEL WINDOW

Chicago. —A woman identified by police as Mrs. Leona Martin, 29, Madison, Wis., a bride of a week, plunged to her death Saturday morning from the heart of the hotel.

Mrs. Martin was here with her husband, C. C. Martin, police reported. She seemed to be possible under Mr. Howell's plan. The Clinton delegation asked the aid of the other communities in their efforts, and promised that if nothing came of the present trip they would line up solidly with the proposed four town and two state arrangement which is being formed at present.

It was finally agreed that committees would meet in Union City this afternoon from the four towns and go over the situation carefully. From this committee meeting definite plans for action will be charted, and it may be that committees from the other three towns will meet the Clinton delegation in Washington.

Johnson Is Replacing Many Of Chandler Holdovers In Frankfort

Frankfort, Ky. —After more than a year in office, Gov. Keen Johnson is replacing inherited State officials with aids of his own choosing, and a number of his 1939 campaign managers now appear on the payroll.

For a full year observers wondered how long Johnson would permit Chandler-appointed officials to retain office, and there were reports that some of the Governor's supporters likewise were wondering how long they would have to wait.

Several Resign Posts But in recent weeks, Johnson has obtained the resignations of several key officials and appointed his men to the vacancies. Several State departments, however, still are full of Chandler men.

A rumor that W. C. Burrow, Louisville, would be dismissed as State Industrial Relations Commissioner, however, was nipped by Highway Commissioner J. Lyter Donaldson, the Governor's patronage adviser. Burrow's removal is not contemplated, he said.

Among campaign managers—county, district and State—now on the State payroll are:

William Blanton, Paris, director of motor transportation; Dr. E. M. Brown, Hazard, Seventh District advisory highway commissioner; Luther T. Goheen, Calvert City, superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home at Lyndon; Charles G. Franklin, Madisonville, member of the Workmen's Compensation Board; Mrs. Nelle Vaughan, Glasgow, director of State parks; Rival Pugh, Vanceburg, parole and probation officer.

Refuses to Fire Plummer G. Moss Patterson, Pineville, director of the State Department of Mines; James B. Milliken, Newport, member of the Workmen's Compensation Board; Lane Bertram, Albany, State highway patrolman at London; R. V. Smith, Jr., Irvine, secretary of the Division of Professional Regulation; A. P. Plummer, Flemingsburg, Eighth District advisory highway commissioner; Zellner L. Peal, Mayfield, Johnson's executive secretary, and Donaldson.

Milliken and Plummer were Chandler appointees, although Johnson refused to discharge Plummer when an Eighth District delegation asked him to do so.

Speed-Check Machine's Debut Is Greeted With Mixed Reaction

Cincinnati. — Cincinnati's new speed-check machine, an electric stop watch connected to two cables laid some distance apart across a street, had its official debut today, with mixed reaction from its first three "catches."

Arthur Pennak, 26, the first motorist stopped, admitted he had been speeding in a 35-mile-an-hour zone, but said he did not know how fast. The device said 52 miles an hour.

Gordon Ingram, a University of Cincinnati student, and Charles Schroeder, 28, said they did not believe the thing was accurate. They got citations just the same for 42 and 44 miles an hour, respectively.

The watch itself is set up in a police cruiser at the upper end of the check zone and 200 yards down the street is another cruiser. A patrolman sitting there watches for a red light signal from the first cruiser and then stops all traffic so the alleged speeders can be picked out.

They in turn are taken to watch the operation of the device on other passing cars.

Former Fulton Woman Dies In Paducah Monday

Mrs. S. L. Brown and daughter, Frances, were called to Paducah yesterday on account of the death of Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Harry Evans, formerly of this city. Mrs. Evans passed away Sunday night at her home in Paducah.

Mrs. Evans had many friends in Fulton, who will regret to learn of her death.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in Paducah at 10 o'clock and the body will be taken to Illinois for burial.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The North Star Patrol of Girl Scouts opened Monday's meeting with a song, "God Bless America," followed by the Girl Scout Promise and the Pledge to the Flag. The roll was called by the treasurer, Betty Ann Davis. We repeated the Girl Scout laws and talked more about the party we are going to have in February.

Mrs. Durbin gave out of us a card and savings plan by means of which we can buy uniforms. When all openings are filled and covered with stickers, a Girl Scout picture is completed.

We sang "Taps" and were dismissed.

Jane Huffman, Scribe.

Troop 1 of the Girl Scouts met at the Woman's Club last night. The meeting was called to order by Miss Nell Luten Bard, leader of the Nags. Following the usual order of business, Mrs. Robert Bard, sponsor, made some announcements and we then went into our patrol meetings.

Reports were given on the work done. In the Blue Grass Patrol, Jackie Matthews reviewed a book she used as material for her badge. In the Nag's session, Nell Luten Bard, Gene Bowden, Ann Graham, and Sammie Lee Williams took turns in demonstrating work in first aid.

The Thoroughbred Seniors had charge of the recreation which was enjoyed by all of the girls. At 8:30 we were dismissed after repeating the Allegiance to the Flag.

South Fulton To Play Troy Here Tonight

Coach Jess Haynes' Red Devils of South Fulton will play the Troy five tonight at 7:30 at the South Fulton gym. The girls team, which is improving rapidly, will play the Troy lassies in the first game.

This year's team is one of the best turned out at South Fulton in several years and only two games have been lost this season—Rives and Dresden having won two encounters. Rives is the only conference rival that has won a game from Haynes' team and it looks as if South Fulton may have a championship team this season. Haynes, who turned out winning basketball teams at Milan, seems to be continuing his good record here.

Brother, Sister Again United After 27 Years

Los Angeles. —They have lived within two miles of each other for two years, they have even attended the same church services, yet Lee Roth, 47, and Mrs. Emma Hertzberg, 59, met Sunday for the first time in twenty-seven years.

Roth, who left his Brooklyn home when he was 20, learned from an Eastern friend a few days ago that his sister was living in Los Angeles. He traced her through a directory.

College Head Blasts At Life's Story On Leg Exposure In School

Salt Lake City. —George Thomas, 74-year-old president of the University of Utah, is in a fine rage over publication in Life Magazine of a well-illustrated story showing efforts of a sorority to impose a "leg exposure curfew" on co-eds.

"Abominable" and "degrading" were only two of the words used by Dr. Thomas in giving his opinion of the article.

The story described efforts of Chi Omega sorority to regulate the amount of silk-clad legs visible on the campus. Several eye-arresting "misdemeanors" were pictured, as well as the punishment meted each offender. The sorority paddle figured largely in the matter, while several knees were seen in the form.

Reason for the curfew, the article explained, was to prevent "unfair" flirtation on a campus already overpopulated by male students.

"It's a despicable piece of publicity," said Dr. Thomas. "Parents and townspeople are protesting, and the girls are in tears."

Sorority officers admitted they were in difficulties with their parents, the university and the National Sorority office. They charged the photographer had promised to use neither the name of the sorority nor names of the co-eds pictured. They added that the story of the conduct code was a complete "farce."

Ruth Gleave, whose dimpled knees featured three illustrations, was angry, but for a different reason. She declared:

"They said I was a Chi Omega, but I'm a Tri Delta."

MEN CHANGE—NOT THE PATTERN

There must be many times these days, as Adolf Hitler appears to rule the entire Continent of Europe, when he and others begin to compare Germany and Hitler with that other man who ruled Europe—Napoleon. The latter did rule Europe completely for a time, and at that time England stood alone against him, as she now stands alone against Germany and Hitler. Men have changed, but the pattern in Europe has been constant. For centuries it has apparently been England against the Continent, and over all those centuries the star of England, while demand many times, has never faded.

Consider a period one hundred and thirty five years ago. The year before, at Austerlitz, Napoleon had won his most famous victory. He followed that up with another crushing defeat of the Prussians at Jena. An inventory of that period that Napoleon's brother, Joseph, was King of Naples, his brother, Louis, King of Holland, and Napoleon himself was President of the Confederation of the Rhine, which he had forced from the Southern German States. He planned next to annex Northern Germany, this closing Europe to English commerce. From Berlin he sent out the Continental Blockade which in effect closed all doors against Britain.

Only those of high and lasting courage could see any hope in England. The future seemed dark indeed, for Britain stood alone, cut off from Europe and facing virtual extinction. Napoleon seemed indeed the master of the world, for that time Europe was the world. This country was barely existing, for independence had been won only a few years before, and the Thirteen Colonies were still struggling with internal politics, and there was no military or naval power here worth considering.

It was in the autumn of that fateful year of 1806 when Wordsworth, the Great British poet, wrote his famous poem which still lives in English literature. It was a stirring call to arms. It was the faith of the British Isles expressed in vivid and tingling words. It expressed the spirit of the stolid Britishers of those days—and of the Britishers who today see their familiar world crashing about their ears. It was the voice of Britain speaking:

Another year!—another deadly blow!
Another mighty empire overthrown!
The last that dare to struggle with the foe.
'Tis well! from this day forward we shall know
That in ourselves our safety must be sought;
That by our own right hands it must be wrought:
That we must stand unpropped, or be laid low.
Oh dastard whom such forebode doth not cheer.
We shall exult, if they who rule the land,
Be men who hold its many blessings dear
Wise, upright, valiant; not a servile band,
Who are to judge of danger which they fear,
And honour, which they do not understand.

That was in 1806. The future was black. There seemed no hope. Yet half a dozen years later Napoleon has been broken completely and was confined on a lonely island. Hitler might study this history, for it may catch up with him before half a dozen years. This time there is more hope for Britain than in 1809, for across the seas a mighty nation is preparing to take a decisive part.

WHERE RECONCILIATION CARRIES A THREAT

The reconciliation of Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval is a decidedly unfavorable augury for unoccupied France. It is probably the prelude to the inclusion in the Vichy Cabinet of its former Foreign Minister and Vice Premier. It is a victory for Otto Abetz, Hitler's spy and foreign agent, who on December 13, forced the release of Laval from protective custody and since then has demanded his reinstatement. There is little doubt that the rugged old Chief of State yielded to Nazi pressure in making up with the man who sought to override him and to cause France to go over completely to the Reich.

There is an unavoidable similarity between Petain's visit on Sunday to occupied France and the visit to Berchtesgaden of Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria three years ago. In both instances the heads of Cabinets were ordered to make friends with their political enemies who were closely aligned with the Nazis. Petain shakes hands with Laval as Schuschnigg promised to give over the control of the Austrian police and gendarmerie to Seyss-Inquart. Independent Austria, it will be remembered, survived only a month after the two-hour meeting in Hitler's mountain retreat.

What will follow the Petain-Laval reconciliation can only be conjectured. If Laval is not restored to power Sunday's meeting was meaningless. Germany is not interested in a simple exchange of amenities. If his influence is not to be felt in the Vichy regime the negotiations of the last month have been futile so far as Germany is concerned. The obvious purpose of Germany's force diplomacy is to break down the resistance of the aged Field Marshal to the Nazi demands for the French fleet and French naval bases. Boring from within is the usual Nazi method.

But Hitler still must reckon with Petain. The old soldier is obstinate where questions of national honor are concerned and he regards surrender of the fleet and naval bases as dishonorable.—Courier-Journal.

Draft Head Gives Warning On Removals

Washington — Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, selective service director, Saturday warned draft registrants against failure to notify their local boards promptly of changes of addresses.

Dr. Dykstra, in a statement, said the Justice Department had found many failures to respond to summons for military service resulted from unreported changes of addresses.

The draft law provides that mailing a summons to the last reported address constitutes formal notice, regardless of whether it is actually received.

Ford Faces

N. L. B. Blow

Washington. — A proposed order which would require the Ford Motor Company to reinstate with back pay 1,021 workers at its Kansas City plant was issued today by the Labor Board.

The company had been accused of discriminating against the workers because of union activities.

The proposed order is based on tentative findings alleging that the plant refused to re-employ 975 workers and discriminated against forty-six strikers to discourage membership in the A. F. L.'s United Automobile Workers Union during the fall of 1937.

The board said the company and the union would have thirty days to file exceptions and briefs and twenty days to request oral argument before a final order is issued.

N. M. (BOOK) CULLUM, SOCIETY EDITOR—OFFICE 24

FIRST GENERAL MEETING OF W. S. C. S. YESTERDAY—AND TWO GROUP MEETINGS

The first session for the new year of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church was observed with a well-planned luncheon and general meeting yesterday at 12:30 o'clock in the church, with over one hundred members in attendance.

A spring-like atmosphere prevailed in the dining room with yellow candles in green and crystal holders being placed at intervals on the tables. Bowls of jonquils, tulips and freesias, by courtesy of Scott's Floral Shop, gave of their beauty and fragrance to the decorations.

After the luncheon, Mrs. Warren Graham, the newly re-elected president, presided over the program which followed. Rev. Loyal O. Hartman, the pastor, and Rev. J. H. Feltz were introduced and in special words of praise for the W.

S. C. S. spoke to the members. Words of welcome were extended to the following visitors: Mrs. E. B. Eucker and Mrs. F. D. Hicks of Conway, Ark., and to five new members—Mrs. L. O. Hartman, Mrs. R. R. Palmer, Mrs. Ben Saxon, Mrs. G. C. Dinnitt and Mrs. Harold Thomas.

Reports of the recording secretary, Mrs. Leon Browder, and of the treasurer, Mrs. Abe Jolley, were read and accepted, as were the reports of Mrs. Smith Atkins, chairman of the finance committee, and of Mrs. Alf Hornbeak, secretary of local church activities. Mrs. J. V. Freeman, as chairman of the committee on resolutions, in words of eulogy and prayer, paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. R. M. Redfern, an ardent member of the society.

After the business portion of the meeting, Mrs. Louis Weeks, as chairman of the program committee, presented Mrs. T. J. Kramer who gave a very inspiring devotional service and Mrs. M. W. Hays, who conducted the pledge service in a very impressive manner. A secret number, "Take My Heart and Let It Be," was rendered by Mrs. Eldridge Grymes, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Maddox at the piano. The program was concluded with singing of the hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

The monthly meeting of the Unecued Circle was held last night in the church and hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Edgar Bell.

Mrs. Evelyn Simpson, Mrs. W. L. Taylor, and Miss Margaret King. Thirty-two regular members and one visitor, Mrs. Leonard Melching of Salisbury, Md., were present. The program was devoted to a pledge service which was most impressively conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Snyder. In presenting the program, Mrs. Snyder was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Melching of Salisbury, Mrs. Jean Moon and Mrs. John Daniels. Mrs. Daniels charge of a very interesting Bible lesson.

Following this most inspirational service, a social period was pleasantly enjoyed and the hostesses served dainty refreshments.

The Wesleyan Guild met at 6:30 o'clock last evening at the church. A pot-luck supper was served to fourteen members and one visitor, Mrs. T. J. Kramer, early in the meeting.

Mrs. Lawrence Shelton, chairman, presided over the business session and later presented Mrs. Kramer who conducted a very impressive pledge service.

Hostesses were Mrs. Harold Owen and Mrs. C. Genung.

Agents Use Movies To Trap Moonshiners

Memphis, Tenn., —Moonshiners in Kentucky and Tennessee have no learning to be stars of motion pictures, especially those taken by agents of the alcohol tax unit.

As if repeal of the Elizabeth Amendment were not enough, moonshiners have another big worry. The "revenue-ers" are employing motion picture cameras with telling effect in building their cases against wildcat whisky distillers. Using a telescope lens, agents hide near an illicit still while it is operating and shoot motion pictures. At a signal, other agents conduct a raid. The pictures are preserved for evidence when the defendants are brought to trial.

Tennessee Bills Seek Gross Tax On Newspapers

Nashville, Tenn., — Two bills proposing a 3 per cent gross receipts tax on newspapers and other periodicals and radio stations were introduced in the Senate Monday by Damon Headen, Ridgely, who estimated they would raise $1,000,000 annually for education. Signing the bills with Headen were J. Roy Hickerson, administration floor leader, and twelve other Senators representing rural areas, all event one of whom voted with the administration last week to reject three poll tax repeal bills strongly advocated by many daily newspapers of the state.

U. S. To Probe Tools Supply

Washington, —The Office of Production Management backed up a plea for industry's co-operation in a census of equipment and resources by announcing today that it would investigate whether defense plants actually needed new machine tools they ordered.

Object of the investigation would be to spread the Nation's limited machine tool supply as far as possible and make sure that no industry engaged in unnecessary retooling at Government expense, officials explained.

They said prices for use machine tools were high and that some might sell their old equipment, buy new and include the cost in the price of defense products.

Knudsen O. K.'s Plan William S. Knudsen, director general of Production Management, asked industry for "all out performance" yesterday in a letter endorsing a census of plants and equipment sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers and affiliated organizations.

Knudsen wrote Walter D. Fuller, N. A. M. president, that he counted on "every manufacturer and machine shop proprietor in the Nation—no matter how large or small—considering it a patriotic duty to supply the information requested."

Man Ignores Broken Neck For Ten Days

Raton, N. M., —Men are men in the wide open spaces of New Mexico.

A truck driver walked into a Raton hospital and asked for treatment for a "stiff neck." After preliminary examination a doctor decided there was more wrong with the man's neck than the patient thought. He discovered the sixth and seventh vertebrae were fractured. If the man had moved his neck he might have died.

The doctor said the injury had been suffered ten days previously when the man was struck by a slamming door.
