Dee L. McNeill..... 924

Stanley D. Stenbridge.....

Heber Finch.....

The 1913 campaign in the county attorney's race was lively and ended in a horrible accident

when H. F. Remy who ran against J. W. Roney, while returning from a political speaking in West Hickman, drove a horse

over an embankment at Hickman and was instantly killed. It is presumed that in the darkness

Remy thought he had reached the turn in the road leading to is home when instead he drove the horse over the embankment.

In 1908 with three in the race,

J. W. Roney won with 751 votes, and in 1913 was re-elected.

In 1917 with five in the race,

Dee L. McNeill won with 693 votes.

In 1921 with two in the race,

Lon Adams won with 1,951, the largest vote ever given a candidate for this office, and in 1925

with five in the race Mr. Adams was re-elected with 1,253 votes.

NANCY CARROLL
STEPS UP AGAIN

Titian-Haired Actress Is in New Bancroft Movie Coming
Here Soon

Nancy Carroll, the New York show girl, whose part in "Chicago" brought her fame in Hollywood, has completed her cycle of success and has returned to Manhattan. She is cast as the ingenuous lead in George Bancroft's current starring picture, "The Wolf of Wall Street," which comes to the Grand theatre
next Monday and Tuesday.

It was Miss Carroll's success in the role of Roxy Hart, the publicity seeking gun-moll of the role of Roxy Hart, the publicity seeking gun-moll of the stage play "Chicago," that first brought her to the attention of Hollywood's picture makers, who saw her in a Los Angeles theatre during the run of the show.
From the role of Roxy, she stepped into screen features and then was chosen by Anne Nichols for the part of Rosemary in Paramount's picturization of "Abie's Irish Rose." Since that performance she has played in some of the biggest Paramount pictures of the year.

Nancy's most recent picture was "Manhattan Cocktail," in which she was featured with Richard Arlen. Her part in the Bancroft starring picture, "The Wolf of Wall Street," is that of a maid in the Bancroft home;
unusual in this case by reason of the fact that the maid of "The Wolf of Wall Street" is one of the principal players in the case
instead of being a minor character.

"The Wolf of Wall Street" was directed by Rowland V. Lee from a story and screen play by Doris Anderson. Bacalova, P. A. U.
Lukas and others play in support of Bancroft with Miss Carroll.

FORMER FULTON CITIZEN DIES IN CHICAGO HOME

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at her home in Chicago, the gentle spirit of Mrs. Anna Lewis Murphy took its flight to the "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Friends and relatives in the city had known for some time that she would soon be leaving for the home where partings never come and goodbyes are never said. However, when the message reached here that she had really gone, many who had known and loved her in bygone days were grieved and distressed. Each felt that the world would be lonelier because she was no more.

When affection would pay a tribute to a lost friend, words come not at our bidding.

Mrs. Murphy, who, before her marriage to Mr. Robert S.
Murphy, was Miss Anna Lewis Morris, was born and reared near here, and if she had lived until August 23, she would have reached 76 years of age.

Nearly fifty-two years have passed since she and Mr. Murphy stood at the bridal altar and plighted their troth. Methinks when she closed her eyes on this world to open them in a brighter and more beautiful one than this, that the husband stood waiting to again take her hand in his and bid her welcome to life eternal.

A friend remarked that "Anna Murphy never unburdened her worries on others, but was every ready to help others find the silver linings to their clouds of sorrows."

Gentle, refined and cultured, herself, she radiated an atmosphere of that kind in her home.

There is a lovely old Greek adage which reads: "God could not be everywhere, so he gave us mothers." She leaves three children, Mrs. J. D.
White, Miss Gertrude Murphy and Robert Murphy, to wear
white roses next Mother's Day, but to them Heaven will seem much nearer and much dearer than ever before. On next Decoration Day, perhaps, her children will place a cross of purple violets or a weather of immortelles on the little mound in beautiful Fairview, where Wednesday morning they left her under an avalanche of flowers. To them this little spot in God's Acre will be a sacred shrine until they join her where partings are unknown.

The remains arrived in the city Tuesday morning and were taken to the home of Mrs. Virginia Whayne, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, by the Rev. E. J. Cantrell. Interment followed in Fairview cemetery.

HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER CON CRAIG VISITS FUL- TON COUNTY

Renews Promises on Roads
Made Before

The following report of Commissioner Con Craig's visit to Fulton county by Editor Robbins, in the Courier, last week, should be of interest to the taxpayers who are carrying the burden of a $450,000 road bond issue and the "mistake of the state engineers."

"Highway Commissioner
Con W. Craig, of Paducah, visited the county Saturday, accompanied by one of his engineers, and in conference with county officials and magistrates, repeated the road promises he had made to a committee of the Lions club two months ago, and also promised to do some other work in the county during the next two years.

Mr. Craig arrived in Hickman shortly after 9 a. m., and after a brief stay here, went on to Cayce, where he addressed a meeting of Cayce citizens interested in obtaining the Cayce to Jordan road. Mr.
Craig told them that this road would be built during the next biennium, as well as the Dresden road, and that he would also raise the levee on the Hickman Fulton road.

"The situation in the county was canvassed thoroughly, and Mr. Craig agreed with the county court and County Judge W. L. Hampton, to place the flood relief money coming to Fulton county on the Dresden road, promising to complete this road, surface it and take it over next year. The road will have to be relocated and practically all of it rebuilt, he said.
Mr. Craig told the county officials that Fulton county had between $63,000 and $64,000 construction money coming to it, as well as the flood relief money, and said that the construction of the Dresden road and the Cayce to Jordan road would cost the county nothing except the obtaining of the right of ways and setting back fences.

"Of course, the raising of the levee on the Hickman Fulton highway, state road No. 94, would be taken care of by the state, as it was the mistake of the state engineers that the road was built so low it is covered with back water in time of floods. The engineers also inspected the highway just below Hickman and it is expected some work will be done there, where the drainage is bad and water sweeps over the road and ruins the fields nearby for farming purposes. Mr.
Craig stated that the state desired to keep the state highways up in the very best of condition and that Fulton county would be fully taken care of
in every way.

"After the meeting at Cayce
Mr. Craig returned to Paducah where he had engagements to meet other county delegations from the Purchase who also want roads and more roads.
The Lions club and the county officials have been working on these road projects for over a year, when a joint delegation was sent to Frankfort to appear before the Highway Commission, and it is a great victory for the county to have Mr.
Craig promise these roads, as it will give the county some 14
more miles of state highways, maintained by the state.

OF INTEREST TO ALL CONCERNED

In this issue of the Advertiser we are publishing the street assessment against each property owner in East Fulton on the new improved streets.
The footage and the exact amount each one is to pay is shown so there may be no misunderstanding when making settlements.

The city treasurer also has a notice published in this issue which should be carefully read by each property owner on the recent improved streets in East Fulton.

MORE STREETS ADDED TO STREET IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

At an adjourned session of the city council, held Monday night, the street ordinance calling for the improvement and paving of several other streets in various parts of the city, had its first reading. It must be read again in ten days, and it was said that the actual letting of a contract for the paving could be let after July 5. This will give ample time for finishing up the streets
this year.

The streets affected by the new ordinance are as follows:
Green street from Eddings to Park Avenue.

Park Avenue, from Second to Fourth.

Valley street from Carr to Eddings.

Arch street, from railroad to Cleveland street.

Cedar street, from railroad to State Line.

McComb street, from Walnut
to Arch.

Burton Avenue from Fourth street to ice plant.

PREACHING THE GOSPEL OF COOPERATION

Preaching the gospel of community building by cooperation, Ben R. Vardaman, nationally known lecturer on salesmanship and community and business development, Monday, at Paducah, delivered an address to the Retail Merchants Association which should be of interest to us.

"The modern method of developing business, cities, towns and communities is through the people acting cooperatively—as a man," Mr. Vardaman said at the Cobb hotel luncheon. "There is no exception to this principle," he continued. "It makes no difference how large or small the city may be, the people must work together to accomplish the greatest and most lasting results."

"Business conditions are changing so rapidly, the world is moving at such speed, that constant vigilance is needed by the individual business enterprise and the community, if they would succeed. The very life of a business or a community depends on ability to make quick readjustments to changing conditions," Mr. Vardaman said. "Everywhere business men are today asking for help in meeting their problems; they are realizing more and more that their problems today cannot be met with yesterday's methods," he declared. "There is not a man in business today who can successfully conduct his business through the use of methods that were sufficient yesterday."

"We are changing, and changing rapidly. The automobile, improved roads, better transportation facilities in general have brought to the local business man both problems—new and varied and increased opportunities. And what is said of the individual business man may be said of the city and community at large."

"Then, recognizing the fact that the problems before us are new, how can they be met to the best advantage."

"1. The first requisite is that the problems before us are real. And, from the standpoint of the individual business man it should be understood that no one man can conduct his business successfully ALONE as in former days. The sensible merchant today does not speak of 'my customers' in the same tone as he formerly did—he realizes that he has no monopoly on customers, they can and do go where they please.

"2. Collectively the business interests of the city should understand that their problem is a two-fold problem. It is first of all an internal problem—then it is an external problem. If the city is to get all the business that might be considered as belonging to it logically the business men must recognize the fact that they must—absolutely MUST—work as a unit from the INSIDE. Then they must go out collectively, rather than individually to appeal to the people outside."

"3. It must always be understood that the people outside do not feel that they have any obligation to the business of the town. The public as a whole has not been educated to the true philosophy of community development. That is, that in order to have the kind of a town they want, the kind of markets they desire, the kind of educational, religious and civic organizations they appreciate THEY must give their support to their upbuilding."

"In brief, the people on the inside of the town as a community center should fully appreciate their responsibility as leaders—and go out as a team to expand the borders, the influence of their city."

"No one man can do it—no ten men can accomplish all that is necessary—but when all or the major portion of those directly interested in expanding the influence of the city throw aside little personal differences and go out as a unit—as a team—they can accomplish anything worth while they wish to accomplish."

6 GRADUATES FROM COUN- TY AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Four hundred and seven men and women, not including the 108 students who received their degrees in December, were graduated from the University of Kentucky, Monday, with fitting ceremonies that marked the commencement program of the largest class in the history of the institution. Dr. Carl Van Doren, editor of the Literary Guild and associate in English at Columbia University, was introduced by Dr. F. L. McVey, president of the University as the speaker of the day.

Every county in the state of Kentucky was represented in the enrollment of students at the University of Kentucky this year, while 35 other states sent girls and boys to Kentucky's state institution. The complete enrollment reached 2,700 at the beginning of the second semester, the largest number of students ever in attendance at the University.

One hundred and fifty-five of the number that was graduated received degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences, 35 from the College of Agriculture, 55 from the College of Engineering, 19 from the College of Law, 44 from the College of Education, 21 from the College of Commerce and 41 from the Graduate school.

Among those who received degrees:

Nell Spradlin, Fulton.
Fred Neville, Hendon, Fulton.
Dora Mae Duncan, Fulton.
Jessie Marie Clements, Fulton.
Katie Mott McNeill, Hickman.
Mary Joe McNeill, Hickman.

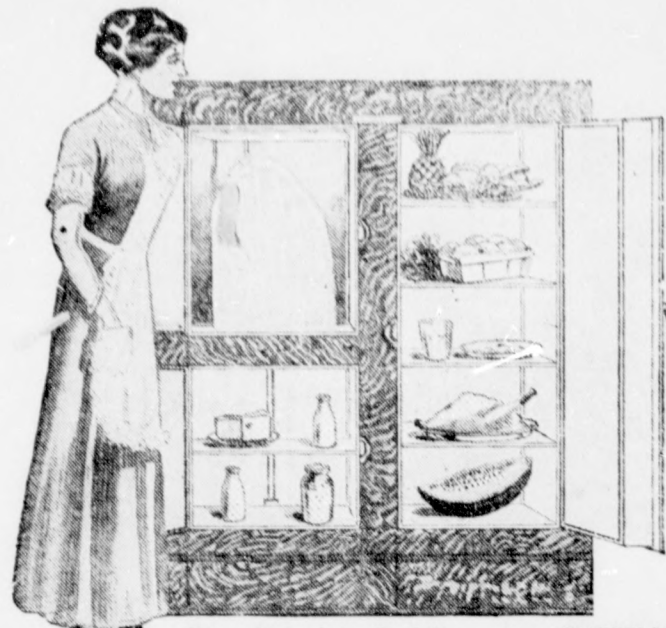

DEATH NEAR DUKEDOM

Mrs. Ivie Nelson, wife of L. C. Nelson, died Saturday night at her home east of Dukedom, Tenn.

She was the daughter of John W. Mar, who survives her. She is also survived by her husband, three children, several brothers and sisters and other relatives and friends. She was a member of the Bible Union Church of Christ and will be missed by the members of that body.

The funeral service was held Monday at 1 p. m. at Oak Grove church, conducted by W. W. Jones, of Martin, and burial was in the nearby cemetery, in charge of Winstead-Jones and Co.

A dozen dipping vats have been built or purchased by Grant county farmers, who are dipping, drenching and standardizing their sheep.

Eleven registered and bred Jersey heifers have been distributed to junior club members in Webster county, and the Providence Kiwanis Club will help obtain calves for 12 other boys and girls.

William Van Hornes, a Boyd county farmer, has eight acres of excellent alfalfa, sowed last fall on land that had been treated with four tons of limestone and 440 pounds of acid phosphate to the acre.

Twenty Simpson county farmers have completed six months of keeping records on their dairy herds. D. H. Roark's herd returned $15 per cow per month. The agricultural extension organization in Franklin county will supply nitrate of soda to tobacco growers who desire to test out this fertilizer by side-dressing a tenth of an acre.

Cooperative dipping vats are being used in an intensive campaign to rid Owen county of sheep scab. Farmers who fed grain to their lambs report satisfactory gains.

The Allen County Chamber of Commerce will finance the purchase of six ewes and a ram for each of 28 junior agricultural club boys and girls.

The Kiwanis Club of Somerset has placed 16 dairy heifers with as many junior agricultural club members in Pulaski county.

STRAWBERRY PRICES MAY REDUCE ACREAGE

Disappointing returns from strawberries this year may cause some Kentucky growers to plow up old fields and reduce their bearing acreage, according to economists at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. In the past, either high prices or low prices usually have affected the acreage of strawberries harvested two or three years later. The prices have not been satisfactory for the last two years and many growers are becoming discouraged.

The acreage of strawberries harvested in any year is determined largely by the acreage set the previous year and the number of old fields which are plowed up or carried over. In Kentucky, strawberry plants usually are set in March or April, and so the principal way in which the number of acres to be harvested in 1930 still can be affected is through the number of old fields that are plowed up or worked out this summer.

An estimate of 6,540 acres of strawberries in Kentucky in 1929 shows that a decided decrease from the 1928 figure of 8,720 acres already has taken place. In Missouri, also, the strawberry acreage became excessive and a readjustment from 26,490 acres in 1928 to 21,190 acres in 1929 has taken place. In Arkansas the decrease has been smaller. In the past, such readjustments have gone too far and production has fallen so low that high prices have resulted. High prices in turn have been followed by increased production.

If history repeats itself, Kentucky growers who take good care of their fields and produce high quality berries in 1930 and 1931 may expect favorable market conditions. The principal factor which points to the contrary is the fact that Missouri berries, which are going to market later than Kentucky's this year, are selling at good prices. This will tend to encourage production in that state, which normally competes directly with Kentucky.

TIME

Man spends much thought and effort in devising ways and means of saving time. Virtually all inventions are conceived as time-savers. A typewriter advertisement reads: "To save time is to lengthen life." All men are interested in living longer but they are more immediately interested in doing more in less time.

The fast clipper ship, and more recently the steamship, the railroad, the automobile and the airship were all conceived in the cause of saving time. The cotton gin, the farm tractor, the harvesting machine, the telephone, the radio—all the countless labor-saving and production-increasing machines in the mills of the world and the various stages of the printing press—were adopted by the world because they saved time.

During the early years of modern industrialism, labor opposed the adoption of labor-saving machines because workers feared the machines would deprive them of work. They soon learned that the machines were directly instrumental in creating more and better work. Today labor welcomes the invention of a machine which will perform a menial task quicker and perhaps better than can be done by hand.

Much is heard about the trend to the "white collar" job. Perhaps there has been a drift away from manual labor, but labor goes where it can find work. If there is a tendency toward the mental and clerical occupations it has been because there is more work of that kind. When a machine is evolved that produces the work of a hundred workmen it automatically increases the number of men required to market its product.

At least one day is spoiled for the man who discovers that his last year's suit cannot be made to do for another summer.

ON GETTING WORK

Every community has its members who cannot get along with their fellow citizens. Many offices, stores and factories have persons on the staff who are incompatible with their fellow workers. Every man and woman knows somebody he or she "can't bear."

No two persons are alike, and every nation and race has traits peculiar to itself. Sometimes the point of disagreement is opinion, such as religious, race or national prejudice. Between individuals attitude, habits, personality and tastes may be the cause for dislike. Sometimes people disgust others and often they even anger their fellows. Women are said to be even more prone to take personal dislikes to others than are men, but among men there is often heard the remark, "if it wasn't for the law."

But this is a large world and one person has no more right to it than another. Since it is no longer feasible to lead the life of a recluse or hermit or to retire to the recesses of a monk's monastic cell, people must learn to conquer their dislikes and aversions. It isn't easy and it isn't pleasant, but it is frequently necessary. Workmen have been successful in abolishing many undesirable working conditions, but they have never evolved a sure method of ridding themselves of undesirable working companions.

People make life easier and sweeter for themselves by seeing the one good trait in the person who has a dozen bad traits.

WOMAN IN NEW FIELDS

Woman, being sister to man, may be open to criticism for many things, but those persons do her injustice who would discount her efforts to attain proficiency in certain fields that have hitherto been preempted by her brother on the score of "cheapening" imitation.

Before woman's "emancipation" many activities were limited to the male sex, not because it was peculiarly and specially equipped for them, but because man-made custom so decreed. Now that the barriers are lifting, women should be free to enter any fields that appeal to them. The fact that such fields have hitherto been special preserves of man is immaterial. If woman can enter them and win out, she will have earned her position—and in such case it would not lie in the mouth of any man to criticize her.

Woman and man are subject to different limitations. But many lines of activity invite competition, and it is permissible for woman to "imitate" man in following them. Woman's entrance in a number of fields has been delayed by restrictions imposed by man, and the fact that the latter was in first does not give him the right to exclusive possession, now that such barriers have been removed.

The Three I's: Ignorance, Intolerance, Imprison. In these days of make-up, beauty is not even skin deep.

Many a young man who asks for a girl's hand, deserves the father's foot.

Speaking of tonics, there never can be any going back on sunshine.

Any man can figure out how generous he would be if he had a little more money.

There is no denying the fact that the female dancer has visible means of support.

Because a girl calls a young man a poor prune does not mean that she will not marry him.

A college youth who is reported to know 12 languages ought to be equipped for changing tires.

About the time the men start buying their summer hats, the women are selecting their autumn ones.

REFRIGERATION SAVER OF LIFE, DOCTOR COPELAND SAYS.

More deaths are caused by contaminated food than by disease, Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States Senator, told 4,000 women at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, some few days ago.

Speaking on "Health and Refrigeration," Dr. Copeland pointed out that since science has begun to exercise control over pneumonia, diphtheria, smallpox and other diseases, deaths directly attributable to impure foods have exceeded the number caused by these diseases.

The factor chiefly responsible for impure foods, the speaker said, is poor refrigeration. Housewives generally fail to appreciate the importance of the icebox, Senator Copeland declared, adding: "If I were to give you a brownstone house, an expensive car and every luxury imaginable, you would lack the most valuable agency for good health and happiness unless you had a good refrigerator. A good refrigerator is more important than anything else anyone can give you."

MUST BE BELOW 50 DEGREES
"I don't care whether it is cooled by ice, electricity or gas. The main thing is that the temperature be less than fifty degrees. And the farther below fifty degrees the better."

Senator Copeland pointed out that germs breed best in warm air. Food kept at a temperature of less than fifty degrees, he said, can stand for several days without decaying under the ravages of the fast-reproducing bacteria.

Doctor Copeland advised his listeners to test the temperature of their iceboxes. If they are not below fifty degrees, he said, they should be corrected or replaced.

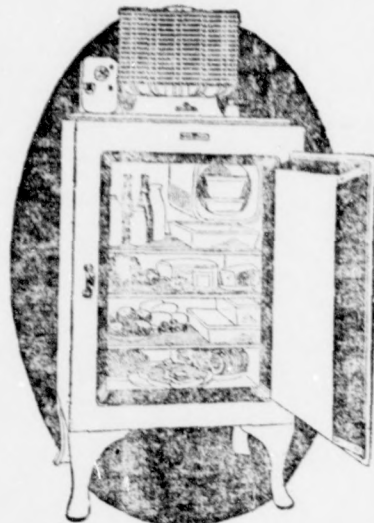

As an illustration of the importance of proper refrigeration, he showed the decrease in infant mortality since the adoption of the new system of milk delivery, under which milk is kept constantly at a cool temperature from farm to home. He said:

"Forty years ago, 247 out of every 1,000 babies died in New York. That was on account of bad milk. Now the rate has been reduced to 69 out of every every 1,000."

250,000 USERS AND
NOT A DOLLAR SPENT
FOR REPAIRS

Be sure to listen in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening from 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time over the N. B. C. network of forty-two stations.

If you want a refrigerator on which you can depend—one that operates without oiling, without need of costly repairs, the General Electric Refrigerator will be your choice. Such service is not merely promised—it is guaranteed. Among the 250,000 users of General Electric Refrigerators, not one has ever spent a dollar for repairs or service.

The General Electric Refrigerator keeps food always safely below the 50 degree danger point. In operation it is quiet, automatic, economic. Its hermetically sealed mechanism is dust-proof, permanently oiled and placed up on top. Its all-steel cabinet is warp-proof. It has an easily accessible temperature control for governing the speed of freezing ice cubes or frozen desserts.

See the new all-steel models at our display rooms and let us tell you of an easy payment plan. Prices are low, starting with $215 at the factory.

FIND KENTUCKY
DERBY LOTTERY

Louisville, Ky., June 17. — The operation of a lottery offering more than $100,000 in prizes in connection with this year's Kentucky Derby was revealed today through a letter to the Courier-Journal seeking "some information regarding the winners under the Kentucky Derby club association's drawing."

The letter was from L. Carl Berry, Indianapolis, advisory accountant and tax consultant.

Berry said over the telephone that the data he had showed the winner of the drawing would receive $30,000. Second prize was $18,000, third $8,000 and a number of others were in proportion.

"There must have been more than a million tickets sold," he said. They were offered at $1 each.

"Colonel Campbell" was said to be secretary and treasurer of the "association." The drawing was said to be the twenty-second. Barry said he learned today the third prize winner lives at Indianapolis and had been paid.

Local police said they had heard nothing of the alleged lottery. They said if it existed it must have operated in Indiana.

TO STATE CLUB CAMP

Some time ago a county contest was held at Cayce to select the healthiest club boy, and a terracing team to go to the state club camp. Thomas Stone was selected as the healthiest boy and Murrell Jeffries and W. P. Burnett was selected as the best terracing team. The above boys, accompanied by County Agent H. A. McPherson, left early Sunday morning June 8, for Lexington, arriving at the University late Sunday evening. After getting the 650 club members and leaders organized, Monday, the regular program began Tuesday morning. In the health contest, Thomas scored 95 and the winner scored 98. In the terracing contest the Fulton team scored fourth place in the state contest and was awarded one of the four big prizes. The team received a farm level outfit valued at $22.50 which was awarded by the Bostrum Farm Level Co., of Atlanta, Ga. The boys showed that they knew how to terrace and they were only a few points below the first team.

The boys were given instructions on livestock judging, shown over the experiment station and given lectures on various subjects pertaining to farm life.

Governor Sampson addressed the club members Thursday morning at chapel, and invited them to Frankfort Friday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon, the boys from Fulton County were taken to high bridge, Dix River Dam, and Harrodsburg, where they saw the old fort and the log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln's father was married.

Friday afternoon the L. & N. R. R. Co. furnished free transportation to Frankfort. The train consisted of eleven coaches. Governor Sampson received the club members and leaders at the capitol. Guides showed the members through the building and the Governor addressed the club members. He asked that the crowd assemble on the capitol steps for a picture. After getting the 650 lined up, a picture was made. The members were then served punch and went through the Governor's mansion where they were introduced to Governor and Mrs. Sampson. The crowd went from the capitol through the penitentiary, from there they went through the old state capitol where they saw many interesting things that go to make Kentucky rich from a historical standpoint. The train arrived in Lexington in time for supper. The Fulton county group left for home late Friday evening, stopping at "My Old Kentucky Home, Lincoln Birthplace, Mammoth Cave and Jeff Davis Monument. The boys report a wonderful time and the only regret they have is that they had to leave too soon.

COW FRESHENING
IN FALL FAVORED

Conditions Are More Favorable for Heavy Milking.

Cows which freshen in the fall make better production records than cows which freshen at other seasons, because conditions are more uniform for the fall cows while they are milking heavily, according to C. L. Blackman, of the animal husbandry department of the college of agriculture of the Ohio State university. Not only are the feeding conditions uniform through the period of heaviest milking, Blackman points out, but toward the end of the lactation period the fall cows are turned out on green pasture and receive an extra stimulus to their milk flow. When the flies and dry pastures of summer occur, these cows are giving so little milk anyhow, that these difficulties do not seriously affect their total milk production for the season.

"Since fall freshening cows produce more milk, every possible means should be taken to fit them for freshening," says Blackman. "Often, commencing dry toward the end of the pasture season are allowed to stay out in some back pasture very late, and as a result come into the barn late and in low flesh. While this practice may temporarily save feed and labor, in the long run it is uneconomical.

"Dry cows should be carefully watched from now on, and should receive extra feed, either grain or roughage or both, sufficient to get them in good flesh at freshening time. They should be stabled as soon as the milking herd, and not unnecessarily exposed during the frosty nights or cold storms."

Take Every Precaution
to Keep Stable Clean

Dust in the stable air is liable to get into milk. For this reason every precaution should be taken to have the air pure during milking. Handling dry feeds, especially hay, should not be done just before or during milking. Sweeping the stable during these periods is equally objectionable. If the stable is built with tight ceilings and smooth walls, it will be easy to clean, and dust will not readily collect in sufficient quantities to contaminate the air heavily.

The milker's hands should be washed thoroughly and kept clean during milking. If they are allowed to become dirty they are liable to be a source of dirt in the milk, especially if "wet-hand" milking is practiced. The clothing of the milker should be free from dust, which may fall into the milk pail.

Care is necessary to protect the milk from dust and dirt after it is drawn. Except when the milk is actually being poured into the strainer, it should be kept covered at all times to prevent the entrance of dust and insects. Much fine sediment is often blown on to the strainer if the latter is left uncovered during the intervals between straining.

Dairy Cow Profitable
With Big Production

A dairy cow will not pay her expenses, in the opinion of Prof. J. H. Fuller, head of the dairy department, University of New Hampshire, unless she produces at least 7,500 pounds of milk per year. This production which he considers necessary to meet such charges as feed, labor and overhead is nearly 3,000 pounds greater than that of the average cow in the United States.

Professor Fuller suggests a minimum of ten cows for each full-time worker, assuming that the man who cares for ten cows will also do some other work about the farm. He says that a man with fifteen cows can well afford a milking machine and recom mends the use of litter carriers and drinking cups to keep labor costs on the dairy farm to a minimum.

Sterility of Cattle Is Great Loss to Dairying

Sterility of cattle or their failure to reproduce is one of the greatest sources of loss to the dairy industry. Experiments have shown that some forms of sterility in cows can be overcome by feeding sprouted oats. Sprout of grains together with regular exercise, are effective also in prolonging the active service of valuable sires. Other experiments show that when roughages of the proper quality are available, cows of more than average producing capacity obtain sufficient nutrients from a ration consisting entirely of roughage.

Cause for Stale Butter

The stage of lactation and season of year are two factors which tend to cause butter made from cream produced during the advanced lactation periods, and in the winter, to be stale in flavor. The lack of volatile flavor producing elements in milk also adds to staleness. This is more pronounced as the cow advances in lactation. The stale flavor defect may be overcome by using a good starter, or adding cream produced by cows recently freshened.

"DEAREST MOMS:"

"Would you be very disappointed if I brought a friend of mine along when I come on my vacation? I've talked so much about you and dad that she's crazy to meet you. I know you'd probably rather have me all to yourself, but—well, don't fail me, Mom. I've already invited her and she has accepted. Her folks live out in California and with only a week off she could hardly have time to get there and back.

"We're playing Durban next week, then Williamson the first half of the week after and Garlington the last half, then—Home!"

"Love from,

"CHARLES."

When Mrs. Wilson had finished reading the letter she took it out to her husband.

"Read that," she told him. "Charles is the same open-hearted boy he always was. I reckon this is some lone some little nobody he's met some where."

Mr. Wilson dropped his hoe, dusted his hands off on his overalls.

"I guess we'll have to let her come mother. She's probably a pretty nice little girl or Charles wouldn't take up with her."

"Wonder what she does?" Mrs. Wilson mused.

"Actress probably."

"Oh, I hope not. I'd hate to have an actress in the house even for a week."

Once they had decided to let her come Mrs. Wilson put heart and soul into her plans for the visit. She cleaned the shining old house from cellar to attic. She put up fresh fly curtains in the windows and planned menus that would tempt the faded appetite of an epicure. When at last the day came for the arrival of her visitors she put on her best dress and went down to the station with her husband to meet them. Almost before she had seen him Charles had enveloped her in an enthusiastic hug, then turned and introduced the girl beside him.

"Mother, this is Hazel Smithers," he said. "And there's dad! Gee what a welcome!"

Mrs. Wilson looked at the demure little figure standing beside her huge son and she checked the impulse to feel sorry for her. "Probably a dreadful little vamp and I bet she is an actress, too," she thought, so she repressed her natural cordiality and greeted the girl with a cool dignity.

The trip home was rather silent. Hazel was uncomfortable. Charles was wretched. Mr. Wilson wanted to apologize for his wife. Perhaps Mrs. Wilson was the least miserable of the group. Later Hazel was so appreciative of every little thing and praised the supper so extravagantly that Mrs. Wilson melted a little in spite of her self.

"We actors have such a hard life," the girl said, "and it's always jump from one cheap hotel to another! A good home-cooked meal is like a bit of heaven to us."

After supper Mrs. Wilson sent them all out and started clearing away the dishes. Mr. Wilson went to the front porch to smoke, and Charles and Hazel wandered down in the back yard. Out of the kitchen window Mrs. Wilson watched them eagerly. Charles dropped down on an old tumbledown bench and lit a cigarette. Hazel sat beside him, but not romantically close. Mrs. Wilson sighed with relief and went back to her work.

At last it was over, they went away. But a week later Mrs. Wilson nearly collapsed when she received a wire from Charles reading:

"Hazel and I were married this morning. We love you."

"CHARLES."

She found Mr. Wilson out in the garden and showed him the message. "He's married her. He's married an actress! I knew what would happen," she sobbed.

"Well, mother," he soothed, "I know it's hard on you, but she's a sweet little trick."

On the heels of the telegram came a letter postmarked Ogleton, Calif.

"Dear Mrs. Wilson (it ran):

"Hazel has wired me her intention of marrying your son, Charles, next Monday. At first I was dreadfully grieved at the idea of my only girl marrying an actor, and I cried myself sick over it; then my husband said, 'Hazel's an actress herself. I don't see why you're making such a fuss about it. There are good men who are actors just like there are good women who are actresses.' Then the humor of the situation dawned on me and I couldn't help laughing. I guess they'll be happy because they're in the same kind of work."

I want to meet you soon and most especially my new son.

"Very cordially,

"CORA D. SMATHERS."

"Well, after all, isn't life funny?" laughed Mrs. Wilson to her husband. "Here I was looking down on Hazel for being on the stage and it never once struck me that our Charles was doing the very same sort. . . . Six of one and—"

"Half dozen of the other," Mr. Wilson ended quietly. "Folks are like that."

CITY ORDINANCE

"An ordinance accepting the improvement of the streets and parts of streets designated as Improvement District Number Four, provided for by ordinance adopted by the Board of Council of the City of Fulton, Kentucky, on June 29, 1928, entitled 'An ordinance providing for the improvement, construction and reconstruction of certain streets and parts of streets, including curbing and guttering, in the City of Fulton, Kentucky,' and confirming the estimate of the cost thereof made by Messrs. Black and Veatch, consulting engineers of said city, and apportioning the cost of said improvement to be paid by owners of the abutting property, and assessing and levying a local tax on the parcels of abutting property sufficient to pay the same."

WHEREAS, the Mayor of the City of Fulton, Kentucky, has transmitted to the Board of Council of said city the copy of the estimate of the cost of the improvement of the streets and parts of streets designated as Improvement District Number Four in the city of Fulton, Kentucky, done under the ordinance of said city adopted June 29, 1928, which estimate was prepared by Messrs. Black and Veatch, consulting engineers of said city, and delivered by them to the Mayor of said city; and,

WHEREAS, the Street Committee of said Board of Council has made its report to said Board accepting said work or improvement as having been done and the cost thereof estimated in accordance with said ordinance and contract therefor; and,

WHEREAS, all protests against the acceptance of said improvement and the estimated cost thereof have been duly considered and disposed of; and,

WHEREAS, the members of the Board of Council of said city are of the opinion that said work or improvement has been done and the cost thereof estimated in accordance with said ordinance and contract;

THEREFORE, be it ordained by the Board of Council of the city of Fulton, Kentucky, as follows:

Section 1. That the work of the improvement of said streets and parts of streets, including curbing and guttering therein, designated as Improvement District Number Four, done under ordinance adopted by the Board of Council of the city of Fulton, Kentucky, on June 29, 1928, entitled "An ordinance providing for the improvement, construction and reconstruction of certain streets and parts of streets, including curbing and guttering, in the city of Fulton, Kentucky," is hereby accepted, and the said estimate made by Messrs. Black and Veatch, consulting engineers of said city, is hereby in all respects approved and confirmed, and is as follows:

Total cost chargeable to abutting property owners, including cost of curbing and guttering $77,542.92
Total cost to be paid by city of Fulton, Kentucky $ 929.35

Bad habits lead children astray. Good habits guide them safely into the path of character, uprightness and independence.

You can start them right by teaching them to save money. Set them an example by saving yourself. Make them admire thrift.

Once started, the saving habit helps to form other good habits. It provides experience for them in handling their own funds.

This start in the right direction is but a simple step. Bring children to the bank when you start them to school.

HOME AGENT TO STAY NEXT YEAR

County Board of Education Aids the Homemakers Clubs

The Hickman Courier says: "Miss Myrtle Jackson, Fulton county home agent, will be retained next year, it was definitely decided this week after the County Board of Education had appropriated $400 toward the work to supplement the amounts being pledged by the various Homemakers Clubs of the county."

"Miss Zelma Moore, assistant state leader of home agents came to Hickman from Lexington, and accompanied the committee of women, headed by Mrs. George Newton, county president of the Homemakers Clubs, who appeared before the Fiscal Court and asked for a small appropriation but had been turned down."

"Miss Jackson was sent into Fulton county last fall, at no expense to the county, under the emergency agriculture act passed by Congress, which appropriated funds to aid the states in the flood area to employ county and home agents, without local assistance. Miss Jackson has been very successful with her work, organizing seven Homemakers Clubs, all of which have been active, and a large number of Junior Clubs with a large number of girls throughout the county as members."

"The Homemakers Clubs wished to continue the work, and the state made a very generous offer to the county, so that by raising only $650 and providing office room and stenographic help, which will be taken care of by the Fulton County Farm Improvement Association, the county would be able to retain the services of the home agent. The various Homemaker Clubs pledged some $300 and sought aid from the Board of Education to finish the amount necessary. This was given as much of Miss Jackson's work is in the rural school girls something of the home economics training that city schools have."

QUARTERLY REPORT

Dr. P. E. Blackerby, Director, Bureau County Health Work, State Board of Health, Louisville, Ky.

My dear Doctor Blackerby:

I submit the following brief report of some of the activities of the Fulton County Health Department for the months of January, February and March, 1929.

During this period, the Director and Public Health Nurse made 655 visits in the interest of public health. In addition to these 14 visits were made in attendance of public welfare meetings, 5 to medical societies and 133 school visits.

1,001 school children were examined with special attention to weight, vision, teeth, throats, glands, hearts, herniae (in boys), joints, spine and skin.

60 persons were vaccinated against small pox. 1,059 doses of typhoid vaccine, 528 doses of diphtheria toxin-anti-toxin, and 9 other vaccines were given.

16 Child Health Conferences were held in various communities in the county but because of bad roads and bad weather only 84 children were examined and mothers instructed.

In venereal clinics (26 in all) held each week in both Fulton and Hickman 123 treatments were administered. 33 specimens of various kinds were sent to laboratories for examination. 6 nuisances were abated. 3 dairies and 1 laundry were inspected. 318 bulletins were distributed and 71 letters were written in the interest of public health.

620 cases of communicable diseases were reported as follows: tuberculosis, 13; influenza, 544; whooping cough, 10; measles, 37; scarlet fever, 1; chicken pox, 7; typhoid fever, 2; ophthalmia neonatorum, 1; and new venereal cases, 5.

Many friends to the Health Work have given us valuable assistance. We are especially indebted to the three newspapers published in Fulton County for their able, courteous and gratuitous support and to those splendid citizens and representatives of our various civic organizations for appearing before the Fiscal Court and urging its annual appropriation to the budget of the Health Department and to the Court for so doing, promptly and unanimously.

Trusting that this report will receive your approval, I am, Very sincerely yours, HUGH E. PRATHER, Director Fulton County Health Dept.

OIL WELL

Preparations Now Almost Complete to Start Drilling

(Hickman Courier)

Final preparations are now being completed at the oil well on the Rogers farm south of Hickman and drilling will start in a very few days. J. M. Todd, oil man, who is promoting the well, told The Courier, yesterday. As announced in last week's Courier, the derrick has been completed and the machinery and tools are being put into shape for immediate operation.

A large crowd of visitors swarmed around the site of the well last Sunday, and the big derrick towering so high up in the air can be seen for miles around. Indications that oil will be struck, if nothing unforeseen happens, seems to get stronger each day and Mr. Todd and his associates are anxious to start drilling. The drilling will be started in the hole that was previously drilled some years ago, but only reached a depth of some 1,800 feet when it was abandoned.

JUST LIKE HOME FOOD

Smith's Cafe is in reality a home-like restaurant because it has been trying to overcome the prevalent idea that restaurants can't serve food like you get at home.

Scores of patrons will testify that there is no difference between our meals and the meals they get at home. That's the reason they eat here so regularly.

Years spent in catering to the appetites of particular people make it possible for us to serve wholesome, tasty meals.

The next time you feel like eating away from home, bring your family here.

Section 2. That the cost of said improvement is hereby apportioned to the city of Fulton, Kentucky, and to the several lots or parcels of land on each side of said streets and parts of streets and blocks thereof abutting on said improvement and to the owners thereof in the respective amounts set forth in Section 1 of this ordinance, and at the respective rates per abutting foot of said improvement, street paving and curbing and guttering, as set forth in said Section 1; said apportionment of said cost having been made in accordance with the ordinance of said city providing for the improvement of said streets and parts of streets adopted June 29, 1928. And there is hereby assessed and levied a local tax on the several lots or parcels of abutting property on said improvement as set forth in Section 1 hereof at the respective rates per abutting foot as set forth in Section 1, and in the respective amounts as therein set forth, and sufficient in amount to produce the part of the cost of said improvement hereby apportioned to each of such abutting lots or parcels of property.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall become effective from and after its adoption and publication as provided by law.

Approved, this 12th day of June, 1929.

Board of Council of City of Fulton, Kentucky.

NOTICE

From City Treasurer

Whereas, The Board of Council of the city of Fulton, Kentucky, has by ordinance adopted on June 12, 1929, and published in the issue of the Fulton Advertiser of said city of date June 21, 1929, assessed and levied local taxes against the property abutting on certain streets and parts of streets in said city, known as Improvement District Number Four, improved under an ordinance of said city adopted June 29, 1928, entitled "An ordinance providing for the improvement, construction and reconstruction of certain streets and parts of streets, including curbing and guttering, in the city of Fulton, Kentucky";

Therefore, Notice is hereby given that all persons upon whose property said local taxes have been assessed and levied shall pay same in cash without interest within thirty days from June 21, 1929, or, at their option, they may pay in ten annual installments as follows: One-tenth of the tax, with interest on the entire tax, at the time fixed by law for the payment of general city taxes occurring next after the expiration of the thirty days allowed for payment in cash, and annually thereafter one-tenth of the entire tax, until the whole is paid; at the end of each six months from the time the first installment of the tax becomes due interest shall be due and payable for such six months on all unpaid installments of the tax, provided that any person may, at any interest-paying period after the fifth annual installment of his tax becomes due, pay the entire assessment of tax against his property with accrued interest.

However, any property owner who desires to exercise such privilege of payment by installments shall before the expiration of the said thirty days allowed for payment in cash enter into an agreement in writing with said city, and filed with the City Treasurer, that in consideration of such privilege he will make no objection to any illegality or irregularity with regard to the taxes against his property, and that he will pay the same in the manner herein set forth with specified interest. Forms for such agreement may be obtained from the City Treasurer or City Clerk of said City.

In all cases where such agreements have not been filed with the City Treasurer within the time limit of thirty days allowed for payment in cash, the entire tax shall be payable in cash without interest before the expiration of said thirty days; and such tax not paid within said thirty days shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum from June 21, 1929.

This June 18, 1929,
GEO. T. BEADLES,
City Treasurer.

The News Editor

turned to the Telephone

When floods isolated southern Alabama, and press time approached with little definite news of the disaster or the extent of the damage, the news editors of the Birmingham, Alabama, Age-Herald naturally turned to the long distance operators.

They knew from experience that the telephone service would not fail if loyalty, courage and human ingenuity could maintain it. The story of what happened is told in this letter from Harry C. Frye, assistant managing editor of the paper:

"May I express the appreciation of the Birmingham Age-Herald for the one hundred per cent cooperation and effectiveness of the long distance service during the southern Alabama flood disaster. . . . In twenty-five years' experience in the newspaper business I have found that I can meet and overcome most any difficulty in gathering news beyond the local borders simply by turning the responsibility over to the telephone operators. They have never failed me, and in the flood crisis your operators performed not only true to form, but met and overcame new problems with an ingenuity that is beyond all understanding of a humble newspaper man."

The telephone organization appreciates this tribute which encourages them in their determination that service shall not fail.

The DAIRY

PROPER FEEDING REDUCES FLAVORS

Milk Containing Offensive Tastes Is Rejected.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While milk producers are giving considerable attention to preventing losses due to sour milk, they too rarely recognize that other flavors and odors also cause an annual loss probably as great as that from sour milk. Milk containing abnormal flavors and odors is rejected by dealers and consumers.

Abnormal flavors result mainly from four causes, according to C. J. Babcock, of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture. They may be due to the physical condition of the cow, to highly flavored feeds and weeds, to the absorption of odors by the milk after it is drawn, or to biological changes in the milk.

Due to the condition of the cow or to feeds the objectionable flavors and odors will be noticeable just after milking, but usually will not increase with time. Those caused by absorption develop only when the atmosphere is permeated with pronounced odors, whereas those due to biological changes become more apparent after some time has elapsed.

Feeds and weeds impart flavors and odors to milk mainly through the body of the cow, although feed-tainted barns may have some effect. The time of feeding, therefore, is an important factor to consider in preventing undesirable flavors in the milk, according to Babcock. In most cases feeds do not flavor the milk except for a few hours, although some feeds, such as cabbage, when consumed in large quantities may still be noticeable in milk drawn 12 hours after feeding. For this reason, he says, highly flavored feeds should be fed immediately after milking—never just before. When fed as short a time as one hour before milking, such feeds as silage made from corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, or soy beans; and such feeds as green alfalfa, cabbage, turnips, rape, and kale seriously affect the flavor and odor of milk. Green rye, green cowpeas, potatoes, dried-beet pulp, and carrots affect the milk only to a slight degree, whereas green corn, green oats and peas, green soy beans, pumpkins and sugar beets have practically no effect on the flavor and odor of milk.

Weeds that cause abnormal flavors should be eradicated from pastures. Until this is done, cows should be removed from infested pastures as long as possible before each milking. It is necessary to remove cows from cattle-infested pastures four to seven hours before milking to eliminate entirely the garlic flavor from the milk.

Lesson for June 23

A PSALM OF PRAISE

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 102:1-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—Bless the Lord, O my soul.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Song of Praise.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Song of Praise.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Privileges of Worshipping God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Habit of Thankfulness.

This beautiful psalm of praise follows one of the importunate pleadings for help in time of great need. Andrew Bonar calls it "A Song of a Redeemed One by the Redeemer's Side." It is entirely given up to praise; not a single supplication being found in it.

I. Adoration for Personal Benefits (vv. 1-5).

The Psalmist calls upon his soul to bless God's holy name. Man's whole nature, intellectually and spiritually, is called upon to adore God. Note the benefits recognized by the Psalmist:

1. "Forgiveth all thine iniquities" (v. 3) Pardon of our sins is the most important of all God's benefits.

2. "Healeth all thy diseases" (v. 3). Healing here refers to that of the body and the soul. Renovation of the entire nature, especially the moral, follows forgiveness of sins.

3. "Redeemeth thy life from destruction" (v. 4). The sinner is in the position of a debtor. All the demands made against him because of his sins, were paid by Jesus Christ.

4. "Crowneth thee with loving kindness" (v. 4). The redeemed one not only has forgiveness of sins, but is invested with the full rights of heavenly citizenship.

5. "Satisfieth thy mouth" (v. 5). When one enters into saving relation with Christ he does not incur loss, but great gain. He is not deprived of any rights.

II. Praise for God's Excellencies (vv. 6-13).

The Psalmist now looks away from the benefits bestowed to the very quality of the being who bestowed them.

1. His Justice (v. 6). "He executeth righteousness." God is always against the oppressor and on the side of the oppressed. This points to the time when Messiah's reign shall extend over the whole world.

2. He reveals Himself (v. 7). This He did in a peculiar way to Moses and the children of Israel. The very name Jehovah means Self-revealing One (EX. 3:14). God created man in His likeness and image in order that He might not only reveal Himself, but that He might share His goodness with the creature.

3. Merciful and gracious (v. 8). As a sinner man needs pardon and favor. God in His mercy pardons the sinner who calls upon Him and through His grace He bestows favors upon him.

4. Not always contending (v. 9). God's love for His children moves Him to contend with them. When they turn from their sin, He ceases to chasten them. God holds no grudges. He forgets our stubborn follies as soon as we turn from them.

5. God's forgiveness (vv. 10-13).

This forgiveness is manifested in His not dealing with us according to our sins. In showing supreme mercy, in putting away sin as far as the East is from the West, and in fatherly pity. We usually think to praise God for what He has done. How much we ought to praise Him for what He has refrained from doing.

III. Man's Frailty and God's Eternity (vv. 14-19).

1. His frailty (vv. 14-16). (1) He is but dust (v. 14). God constituted man's body out of the dust of the ground, therefore He knows his frailty. (2) His days are as grass (v. 15). He flourishes as the flower of the field. As the grass disappears under a blighting wind (v. 16), so a small blast from God will destroy man's life.

2. God's eternity (vv. 17-19). God's goodness and mercy are from everlasting to everlasting. This goodness and mercy He shows from generation to generation.

IV. Call to Universal Thanksgiving (vv. 20-22).

Since His dominion is over all, it calls for recognition by all.

1. Angels (v. 20). Intelligent spirits that bear His messages and go on His errands are called upon to praise and adore Him.

2. His hosts (v. 21). By hosts here is likely meant the sun, moon and stars. They are called upon to give Him due praise (Ps. 19:1).

3. His works (v. 22). Whatever He has done, whether in creation, providence or redemption, His works made known his goodness.

Belief and Faith

And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith. Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them. —Mark 11:22 to 24.
