SALOONS WILL NOT EXIST

Several prominent Mechanicsburg promoters on Monday night publicly endorsed the steps taken by Judge Reed to prohibit saloons. Speaking in the Presbyterian Church, Judge Reed declared that the bill authorizing the sale of intoxicating liquors in Mechanicsburg was unconstitutional and that he would do all in his power to prevent its passage. He also urged that the bill should be repealed as soon as possible.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

There is an art in fitting artificial limbs to the leg which is as important as its size and shape. This is the work of the surgeon who, after the amputation, must decide how much of the leg should be preserved and how much must be removed. The surgeon's decision is based on many factors, including the patient's age, the cause of the amputation, and the patient's general health.

ARTIFICIOCRACY OF ITALY.

Among the many people who have been active in the promotion of artificial limbs in Italy, the most notable is the Italian government. The government has been working for many years to promote the use of artificial limbs, and has established several institutions to provide assistance for those who need them. The government is particularly interested in the development of new and improved artificial limbs, and has supported many research projects in this area.

Winter Flower Hunting.

One of the most delightful scenes on the Mid-West is the winter flower hunting. The winter flower hunters are a group of people who go out in the winter to search for flowers. They are particularly interested in finding rare and unusual flowers, and will often spend hours or days searching for them. The winter flower hunters are often guided by maps and compasses, and will use various techniques to find the flowers they are looking for.
The wind bell, in my present humble, is made to ring by the pressure of the wind. The bell is of a kind composed of a number of rings, which are directly in contact with each other, and are stopped one from another by means of the wind. The wind bell is also of another kind, composed of a number of rings set one above the other, which are stopped by means of the wind.

Since wind bells produce noise that is not always pleasant, an attempt has been made to construct devices which will strike the bell and give it the same sound, but without the noise. Some of these devices have been placed in public buildings, and others have been placed in private houses.

Wind bells range in price from $5 to $500, the price depending upon the size and material of the bell. The largest wind bells are usually built in Japan.

The wind bell is a beautiful example of the skill of the Japanese artisans. The bell is made of bronze or copper, and is often decorated with designs of flowers and figures of gods.

The wind bell is a symbol of the god of wind, and is often placed in the entrance of houses to protect them from evil spirits. It is also used in temple bells, and in the bells of ships. The wind bell is a symbol of the god of the sea, and is often placed on the poop of ships to protect them from evil spirits. It is also used in temple bells, and in the bells of ships.

Everything Prepared for Big Event.

Mr. W. H. S. Brown, one of the English-speaking people here, is organizing a lodge for the E. S. F. lodge here. He and a number of others have promised financial assistance. This lodge will be the fifth of its kind in the state, and the second in the county. The lodge will be organized at a meeting to be held next week, at which the officers will be elected.

THREE POLICEMEN DROPPED

Detective Inspector feels they do duty in the police department, and they are well satisfied with the manner in which the bureau is conducted. He says they have given the department credit with the public of the city.

Select district making arrangements.

The order taking them off duty was made by the bureau, and the position of detective is not created by the city. A detective is simply a ranking officer of the police department, and may be appointed or removed by the mayor at pleasure.

OLD FELLOWS PARADE.

During the week, the old fellows of the city will be paraded through the streets, and the parade will be led by a band of music. The parade will start at the police station and proceed to the courthouse, where the old fellows will be addressed by the mayor.

First Commandant's Ball.

The First Commandant's Ball will be held at the Elks' temple, and the guests will include all the old fellows of the city. The ball will be opened with a toast to the old fellows, and the speeches will be made by the mayor, the city council, and other officials.
