James the Brown's eighth, Fulton then came back with a four run rally in the ninth. Long relieved Pierson in the first and held the Browns to eight hits. Tate, was appointed at the regular weekly meeting of the Union City Chamber of Commerce at noon Tuesday to work with a committee from Hickman on plans for getting the Walnut Log—State Line road, distance of 2½ miles, paved. The Hickman committee, which appeared before the club last week, is composed of W. A. Johnson and Messrs. Dobson, Amberg and Baird.

Skating Rink Moves To Union City

Elvis Myrick stated here this week that he had moved his skating rink from Trenton, Tenn., to Union City, where it will be in operation immediately.

Local skaters will remember that this is the rink that was located in Fulton for a while.

"I can remember," asserts K. P. Dalton "when men boasted that their wives were the best cooks in town, instead of the best auto drivers."

Louis Kasnow says still another good thing to take out of politics would be some of the fellows who are in it.

CHANDLER BRINGS MESSAGE TO PEOPLE

Governor A. B. Chandler who opposes Senator Alben W. Barkley for the office of United States Senator, made his initial talk to the people of this county Wednesday night at the City Hall. A good crowd heard him set out his platform, and reasons for his election.

G. W. (Biff) Carr of Louisville made the first talk here Monday night in interest of the candidacy of Governor A. B. Chandler, candidate for United States Senator. The speaker was introduced by Thomas Goldsmith, American Legion commander of this city.

Mr. Carr gave an interesting talk, pointing out some of the things that Governor Chandler had done for the state, and declaring him one of the greatest leaders since Abraham Lincoln.

He alleged that Chandler's opponent, Alben W. Barkley, had done little for the state, seeming content to remain in Washington while Governor Chandler had labored incessantly for the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

"Womanless" Wedding Believe Or Not

A "womanless" wedding will take place Saturday night, June 25, at eight o'clock at the Beeler-ton high school building. And, that is something!

Ray Pharis, the charming bride, will be beautifully dressed in white satin. She has chosen for her attendants, John Howell, as maid of honor, who will wear yellow lace; for bride's maid Hamp Clapp, Wesley Beard and Will Weatherspoon, who will wear pink lace over white and big picture hats. S. J. Walker, ring bearer, will wear white linen and will carry the rings on a satin pillow. Lowell Weatherspoon the flower girl, will be dressed in white organdy.

Other men will participate, dressed as women. The entire community is expected to turn out for the wedding, and to hear Homer Weatherspoon sing "O Promise Me." Proceeds from the wedding will be placed in the fund of the Wesley Church.

Suit Filed In Graves Against Local Option

Doyle Hutchinson, Graves county malt beverage dealer, has filed suit against Will J. Slaughter, Jim Crosby and Sheriff Charles Waggoner, election commissioners, contesting the May 21 local option election, which the dries won by 421 votes.

Hutchinson claims that the election was not legal, allowing that only 800 names signed to the petition calling for the election were valid. This number does not represent the 25 percent required by law. A total of 2,191 names were signed to the petition.

The plaintiff states that the county judge had no authority to call an election unless the petition asking for it was signed by more than 25 percent of the persons who cast votes in the preceding general election. He says that the order calling for the election states that the petition contained the names of 2,191 residents and legal voters of Graves county, but that, in fact, the petition does not contain more than 800 valid signatures. He charges that hundreds of the names were names of the persons whose names the signatures represent nor by anyone having the authority to sign their names, that many of the signatures were those of persons under 21 years of age, that some signatures were those of non-residents and that others who signed the petition had not lived in their communities the length of time prescribed by law as necessary for the right to vote.

JUNE 27 PHOSPHATE AND LIME WEEK

Declare June 27th, to July 2, 1938 as lime and phosphate week for Fulton County.

During the past two years approximately 100 cars of limestone have been bought and used by farmers of the county each year and since the increased yields of crops is as great as they are, we the above named organization, wish to cooperate with the County Agent and assist in every possible way to impress upon the farmers of this county the need of using more lime and phosphate and also show them that they cannot afford not to use these soil building materials, when the Government through the Agricultural Adjustment program is making payment to farmers for their soils through the use of good farming practices.

Since all experiments and demonstration show considerable increase in yields when lime and phosphate are used together it is hoped that every farmer who uses one of these materials will have a test made of the soil and if either lime or phosphate is not abundant, both plant food elements will be applied to the same field at the same time. For the convenience of the farmers of the county a meeting to discuss the importance of lime and phosphate has been arranged for each community and it will be possible at these meetings to make soil tests which indicate the amounts of lime and phosphate that are required to improve soil conditions.

THE CHALLENGE OF CHRIST TODAY

The following sermon was delivered Sunday by Rev. Louis M. Evans at the Harris Methodist Church.

Canon Donaldson recently said, "We suffer from politics without principles, wealth without work, pleasure without conscience, knowledge without character, industry without morality, conscience without humanity and worship without sacrifice."

Endlessly we could find the evils of mankind, but out of this chaos does one thing appear to brighten our outlook on life.

Nearly two, thousand years ago a man was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never had a family. He never went to college. He had nothing to do with in this world except the naked power of his divine manhood. While still a young man the tide of popular opinion turned against him, his friends ran away. One of them denied him. He was nailed on a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth. When he was dead he was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Many portraits of Jesus show his gentleness, his tenderness, his radiant beauty but he was one dominated by courage, resolution, high and help purpose, fixed unalterable determination to do the fathers business at whatever the cost. I cannot think of Jesus without seeing the muscles in the jaw, the vigorous modeling of a face by the resoluteness of a will behind it, the light of heroic courage shining through it that knew no fear and brooked no compromise.

Out of the carpenter's shop he came, his vocabulary was that of a carpenter. He talked of yokes and plows, and beams of timber, but there is no mistaking his meaning, his purpose, his high calling, his divine vocation for he had one great theme, the building of the Kingdom of God.

We have two extremes of thought about Jesus today. Some say that his gospel is helpless; life in our day is too complicated for the Bible to work; our civilization is so far superior to that in which he lived that his way of doing things has been outmoded; now with science and invention we have outgrown Jesus. Others say that he will Sassafras Ridge, Friday night, July 1st.

Paul Farlo who is agricultural agent for the I. C. railroad will attend most of the above meetings and talk on the results that can be expected from lime and phosphate.

Now that allotments for corn and cotton have been issued many farmers would like to know how the payments are figured, if they do not exceed the allotted acres and what penalties will be if they do not have more crops planted than has been allotted.

Since cotton should be destroyed before the bolls form, if the acreage exceeds the allotment, it is very important that every farmer knows as much about the program as is possible for him to learn.

Soil building payments will be one of the main topics discussed and how phosphate can be ordered through the program and earn part of the payment.

Farm Bureau and Lime

The Farm Bureau is sponsoring a contest between the community organizations and giving to the organization that gets the largest number of farmers in that community to order lime and phosphate during the month of July, a $15.00 prize to be used as the members of that community wishes. This contest will only last for one month and this is a chance for one of the community Farm Bureau to win almost enough money to have an ice cream supper picnic for their members.

This should be an interesting contest as well as a very profitable one because the members can earn part of their soil building payment by using both of these materials and thus get paid for using both by increased production from their crops.

SERMON

bring his Kingdom upon earth no matter whether man help or not, because he is divine. The truth lies between these two extremes.

Jesus came to us and lived as a man. In his short life he met and conquered every important problem that we face today, as a man. He called Zaccheus down from the tree and went up to his house to his house to show man how to bring together in perfect harmony our great opposing forces of today, capital and labor. In becoming a carpenter until the Jewish law would allow him to begin his ministry he showed us how the problem of working at a job for which one is not fitted could be solved. We think we have a great race problem but he showed us how to solve it when he was friendly with the woman of a hated race at the well. Rather than use our methods of condemnation he saved the criminal on the cross. Endlessly we could give examples.

What were the eternal elements in the personality of Jesus by which he accomplished these things which gave inspiration to the early Christian movement, and which continue to challenge and inspire men today? To Paul, Jesus was the power of God. His capacity to care, his interest in, his sympathy with, his love for the individual can be seen in almost every story in the Gospels. A certain inward peace and poise was his. He makes little appeal; he is humble. With the power of these things of weakness; gentleness, consideration and lowliness of mind, Jesus went forth to conquer the world.

The most daring adventurer of history was Jesus. He talked of a kingdom and stirred the imagination of centuries. He staked everything on the capacity of the least. He ventured everything on the hazard of his own death. He went away, and twenty centuries of the worlds best thinking believing, and loving have not brought the world abreast of him. He is still out on the mountain top where his venturesome spirit took him. He walked out of the cumbersome theodolite of his day, out of the customs, ethics, and morality of his time. He is always better than our best, higher than our highest, purer than our purest, awakening new hopes, stirring new motions, arousing new ambitions; and now his challenge is "Follow Me."

RETAIL TRADE MOVES INTO HIGHER GEAR

Aided largely by more favorable weather, retail trade moved into higher gear in substantially all parts of the country during the week ended Wednesday according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 36 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office. While the curve headed upward from the previous week, it lacked sufficient vitality to attain the levels of the previous year. Roughly, retail trade trailed behind the comparable 1937 period by something like 15 percent. Omaha and New Orleans, however, reported gains of 8 percent over the like period of last year, while the survey indicate that more than half of the reporting stores in Dallas showed business on a par or slightly above last year's levels.

Louisville reported that more seasonable weather increased buying and some stores registered considerable advances. Wholesale markets still dull, though dry goods showed some activity.

Employment Service reported 669 placements, 26.2 percent under the preceding week.

Bank clearings 18.4 percent under year ago.

Excessive rains have interfered considerably with young corn and tobacco; 10,000 acres of Western Kentucky corn ruined by high backwaters from Mississippi river.

Speaking of balances, no Fulton man can equal the political candidate who carries water on both shoulders and a pint flask in his pocket.

The longer you stick around on this old sphere the plainer it becomes that no candidate for office paves the way for it by throwing bricks at his opponent.

With the very best support it is possible for you to give, no one team can be sure of winning all their games. Only half of the teams in any of the big leagues can break better than even when it comes to getting out of second place. There is no team, little of big, that gets all the breaks, even though there are some that seem to sit in the lap of old Lady Luck throughout the baseball season. If the team itself is willing to fight for a victory then you ought to be a good enough sport to lay aside the hammer pick up the horn and help put the home team across. Is it more interesting to see a team win merely for sake of a high score or to see a game that may be lost with a display of good baseball tactics,

WORTHY OF PRAISE

Of all camps and recreational outdoor activities that have been devised in modern years to interest and instruct the youth of the land, none are more worthy of public ad parental endorsement than the National 4-H Clubs of boys and girls. None are doing a finer work for the future of the country than the camps now conducted during the summer months in all sections of the U. S. by the members of these clubs. Directed by men and women individually noted for their clean, high moral dignities, these young people from the highest type of farm families to be found in all the land not only are combining the enjoyable forms of social contact to be secured in no other way, but they are at the same time nadd with equal enthusiasm getting the rudiments of agricultural life in all its phases. They enjoy the elements of social mingling that will be so necessary to them in after years regardless of what pathway in life they may proceed. It may be a sacrifice to many parents to make a camp seasonal possible for their boys and girls, but it is a sacrifice so bountiful later on that it is one no wise parent hesitates to make. This is one activity of the kind to which every Fulton citizen can lend his moral support as well as his time and money whenever he may be called upon. Give three cheers for the 4-H Club camps at every opportunity.

NEW TREE PROGRAM

The nation as large hasn't heard much about organized tree planting since the failure of the ill-conceived shelter-belt of two or three years ago, quickly abandoned by the government when it proved to be a colossal waste of money. Nevertheless, the U. S. Forestry Service, acting in co-operation with the farmers of the plains states, has been increasing its activities year by year. So far this year more than 20,000,000 trees have been planted in Middle-Western states under agreements whereby farmers take the responsibility of fencing, cultivating and caring for the tree shoots. Experience proves that with such care more than 80 percent of tree planting survive, whereas scarcely less than 30 percent of shelter-belt plantings have escaped the droughts and hot winds of that section. The result is that many farmers are establishing their own wood lots worth money to them in years to come, and at the same time the government is embarking on a serious forestry program in a part of the country that needs it.

A FARM WOMAN'S WOES

The arrival of the warm season summer with its sunshine, flowers and vacations of carefree days, may mean a lot to some people, but to the average farm wife around Fulton it only means a lot of additional woe than on other season brings her.

The farm wife can't reckon her time in so many straight hours of labor, with Saturday afternoons and Sundays off. Nor can she, and here is where her greatest woe comes in, even count on Sunday as a day of rest with her family, a day of peace and quietude about the house, with maybe a few hours to spend in social conversation with neighbors from nearby farms who come in for a little while along in the afternoon. No. So far as the farm woman is concerned all of that is "out". Pass most rural residence nowadays on a Sunday and you'll quickly see why. Lolling about in the yard and playing all over the barnyard you'll see from half-dozen to a score or more men, women and children, and the two or three—often a half-dozen autos parked in the driveway, noisy evidence as to why "the good old summer time" isn't so good for the farm wife who is the victim of "city cousins" who have spent a big part of the week figuring out where they could drive to on Sunday for a Chicken dinner. Maybe she hasn't laid eyes on them during the fall and winter months, but just as soon as summer approaches she knows her so-called days of rest, and often a big part of her Saturday in addition, is going to be spent in a red-hot kitchen cooking up a big dinner for a lot of people whose friendship always seems to take on a warmer glow as chicken dinner days draw near.

While they're moving heaven and earth at Washington to do something for the unemployed they ought to do something for the one who is too much employed—they ought to try to find some sort of relief for the farm woman whose woes begin when the "city cousins" start their season of chicken dinner chasing.

TRY HIS WAY

They've called in experts and brain-trusters from far and near in their efforts to solve the nation's puzzling, nerve-wrecking problems of finance, industry, trade and employment. But seemingly every time a solution to one problem appears another of equal importance and just as vexing breaks out in a new spot. "They've tried everybody's else's plan" writes the editor of a Georgia weekly paper in a serious-minded way, "now why don't they turn to the old-fashioned methods of those who up to a few generations ago turned when all else failed—why don't they try God's plan of working out some of their problems?"

To the average Fulton citizen this may not be accepted as a workable solution. But look at the fate of Rome, and scores of other nations when they junked His plan and went pretty much as we are running it now, on an "every fellow for himself" basis. Look what happened to those nations that turned their backs on the Golden Rule. They crumbled and perished. And history still has a way of repeating itself.

When men lose sight of the welfare of their country in a selfish hope for political power; when men lay aside the Golden Rule and adopt instead the $ as a yardstick for measuring the way to human betterment, then the suggestion of the Georgian editor becomes not only worth thinking about but worthy of a trial. Get men back to the old-time methods of dealing honestly with their fellowmen and many of the problems new besetting the land will solve themselves. Most of them originate from a spirit of greed, anyhow. Most of them were unknown until men began losing their faith in the Golden Rule and putting a price mark on it. Why not turn back to rules that did work. Why not try His way?

ARMY AND NAVY TO END A FIGHT

Man whose greatest game is war! The game on which no gambler would wager, because the victor gains no spoils. Yet mna loves to play at it. He gambles his life and in this modern day the life of his women and children. All for what? For a moment of false glory.

Then the theory resolves itself into the fact that it is the nature of the beast to put everything at stake to try and become the "big shot" of this little globe we call ours. Small nations are not content to stay that way even though they know to do otherwise will bankrupt them. Strong nations strive to become stronger. Germany, Italy, and Japan are striving in a most bloodthirsty and blood-spilling manner to lord over the rest of this earth. Typical examples of the mercy they show the unprepared and the weak are China and Loyalist Spain. (Germany and Italy are openly fighting on the side of the Insurgents in Spain; testing their war machines on human beings). Is it reasonable then to believe that they are experimenting with those machines of death for nothings. Is it reasonable then to believe that they would show more mercy to an American than a Spaniard or a Chinaman. Nay! Our cities would be bombed in the same manner.

The only answer to the problem that immediately arises in every American mind when thinking of the above facts is that we must meet force with force. If Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito can only understand bullets and blood lets be able to send the bullets, if necessary. Sinister answer, but it may be the only one. Therefore, using the words of a famous news commentator, "lets have an army and navy equal or surpassing the best, not to start a war but to finish one."

Picked Up About Town

"At any rate," declares J. B. Cook "I'd rather listen to some man talking about themselves than have them running around talking about me."

A man over in a nearby town inherited a fortune from his father and started out to run through it but Roper Fields says he only ran through a windshield instead. A Boston editor says China hasn't awakened yet. Well, she seems to be doing fairly well for walking in her sleep.

"Now and then you meet a man who doesn't bother about having a good conscience," says Mel Simon "so long as he has a good lawyer."

HORSE, BRIDLE, AND SADDLE

We have so changed our standards of values that only the middle-aged will know what today's essay is about, before reading it. There was a time rather long one, when every boy of respectable parents was given a horse, a bridle, and a saddle on his twenty-first birthday. This was his start in the world; he could saddle his nag and ride forth to conquer the world, like a knight of old. Society regarded this as a handsome start for a young man, and it was. With his strong arm and his horse he could make his way in the world. Land was abundant and practically free. The frontier was calling to all the restless younger generation. Given this start, almost any boy might soon be the owner of a quarter section of land, which he might hope to add to as his own family grew up about him. And to each successive boy who became a man there would be given a horse, a bridle and a saddle. Each boy expected it; few families of the middle class could not afford it.

How delightful the old custom of setting up the newly married couple in their first housekeeping! Her parents usually gave a cow and some chickens; both families gave feather-beds and pillows and quilts and sometimes furniture. The dowry as such had long ago vanished, but a family pride saw to it that each new couple had an even break with the world.

Some of us lived just when this ancient custom was passing. Since I was the youngest boy, I barely got in on this tradition. But my steed was a little red mule named Jenny, and I bought the saddle myself with money I made raising onions. Anyway, I was able to cash in on the custom a bit early, for I sold Jenny when I was eighteen and went to school on the money. Thus, Jenny was the steed I rode away to distant lands beyond the horizon, not a very beautiful or valuable one but connected with a fine old tradition.

Many fathers that I knew as a boy would talk with pride in their declining years in some such fashion: "Me and Mary was purty pore when we got married, but I had my horse, and she had her cow and some chickens. We started keeping house in a log cabin, with jest a jacob fer a bed. But we worked hard, and, I gum, I give ever' one of my boys a horse, a bridle, and saddle when he was twenty-one years old." A familiar formula to the old-timers, a strange rignmarole to youngsters; but only another illustration of how impossible it often becomes for one generation to talk understandingly to another. How can you and I make our children understand the value of a buggy, when they are used to the family car? What would they think to hear Grandpa brag about buying a new surrey?

Human affection for children has in no way changed; we have merely changed the ways of showing it. Your boys and girls go forth to conquer the world today, not on a horse properly bridled and saddled, but equipped, well or poorly, with an education that must be their means of finding their way in an age when tree land no longer exists. And, let us hope, has again taken the place of the place of horse, too will provide whatever has taken place of horse, bridle and saddle for those who come after them.

DUGOUT DIGS

(By B. V. N.)

One Fulton fan enjoys good ball playing when he sees it. After Sunday's game some fan went to the Fulton Club house and presented Mike Ulsney with a dollar bill.

Bill Cooper and Glen Burns are talking of going to Hollywood. Bill, they still have a good Slim Summerville and Glen do you think you could compete with Bob??

We certainly had the visitors in the press box over the week end, Bruce Dudley of the Courier-Journal of Louisville spent two days with us. Sam Livingston of the Sun-Democrat in Paducah came up Saturday night to see the so-called slaughter. And last but not least came Turk Massie of Union City and brought his snake with the fur collar. Mr. Speck came to our rescue Sunday and did the announcing for the high voiced fems.

Wednesday night I walked into the Mayfield grandstand and proceeded to get my li-u-erpfmon ceded to get my line-up from "Fatty" Yates. The night was hot but I was cool, little did I know that before the night was completed I would have cold, chill, fever, and convulsions. Anyway, out of a clear blue sky comes a very excited fellow and yells, Louis knocked out Schmeling in the first round. Then the Mayfield officials decided to make us wait fifteen minutes for the rest of the fans to come to the game. I didn't like that, I went to see a ball game, but I waited just the same. Finally, at eight-twenty-five we started. Fulton came to bat and was put out in a hurry. Then the Browns scored three runs. I just couldn't say a word, I was so disappointed. Things went on smoothly for three more innings, when Summers got a hit, gained second on an error, and third on a pass ball, one man out and him on third. Oh, Oh, Fulton would score. We did-on Burn's long drive to right field. Mayfield comes to bat, the first man walks, the second gives a sacrifice, the next man walks, I tho't, and us with only one run. Then, Long, Padgett, and Burns pulls a fast double play. The next inning we scored three runs, Cooper was hit by the pitcher, Batts gets a beautiful single, and Clonts, doubled, scoring two runs, and Summers got single, scoring Clonts, but was thrown out on second. I was beginning to get warm. Zachery was up in the seventh and got a single. Clonts threw him out on second. The next two men struck out. Zanter doubled and scored in the seventh. In the eighth, James knocked a beautiful home run over the right field fence. The breeze stopped and I was sweating. Francy singles, Baker hit into a double play. Oh, Boy. I was cooling off. The eighth, Cooper singled, Batts got a fielder's choice retiring Cooper, Clonts, got a fielder's choice, Batts, hit the second baseman's arm. He didn't like it, he fussed and fumed, Clonts went to see what he could do. Then lo and behold, here come all the Mayfield reserves. Here comes all the Fulton team. I saw a white streak in front of me. The next thing I knew the white streak was on the field. Then Cooper was on the ground, but not for long, back in the crowd he plunged. Yep, he hit him. At least when the white streak came back to the grandstand his cheek was very red. I asked "Fatty" who he was, He's our first baseman, Locke, he is suspended because of a spring ankle. I had to leave, I was mad. I was going to say something I didn't mean, if I didn't. I had seen Locke in the stands, he was having words with one of the Fulton fans, the fan talked on, Eckels, the Mayfield club president, sat down by the fan, asked him to please not talk and yell so much, he then went down to the dug-out and asked Clonts not to start anything. This happened long before the fight. I got in the game on a press pass, but the fan paid his admission, he has a right to say what he pleases as long as he keeps inside the law. If you noticed, Fulton has had at least 150 people attending the games in Mayfield, when Mayfield comes here we have about twenty-five fans from there. I did at least think the Mayfield club would have welcomed us instead of telling us to keep quiet. I hate to see such fevelery between two clubs, if it keeps on we will go prepared, 'cause we will go again, with our brass knuckles, and blackjacks. Anyway, in the ninth, Padgett, Veae, Cooper, Batts and Clonts got hits and scored four runs. I could say more but right now while writing this, again I am getting hot. And to think some people paid as much as $100 to see Louis and Schmeling fight.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Brown and children spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Rob Taylor.

Miss Gertrude Howard spent Monday afternoon with Miss Arleen Yates.

Miss Gladys Childers spent the week end with Mary Lou Stinnett. Miss Helen Rice spent Friday nite with Mrs. J. W. Noblin.

Mrs. Louis Holly and children and Mrs. Bill Holly of Fulton spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Monroe Holly.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

There is almost a plethora of optimistic predictions concerning the future business activity. However, there is likewise almost a complete lack of tangible factors on which to base a forecast that the indexes will show any substantial rise for many months to come. It will be a miracle, even if the pump-prime program goes through as scheduled if conditions change for the better in the next three months.

The experts are watching the commodity price structure. Prices have been weakening slowly but steadily for six or eight months, and during this decline about half of the gains registered in raw material prices since the 1932 low have been lost. A committee of the National Association of Purchasing Agents recently announced that "there are many who are of the opinion that this month (May) is witnessing the low point of commodity markets for the current movement and that by fall noticeable betterment will have occurred in most price trends." The day after that rather sanguine forecast was issued the commodity markets showed unusual weakness, and two of the leaders, wheat and cotton, made their sharpest breaks in a number of months. On the basis of figures running into the first of June, the commodity price structure still has a downward tendency. And while it is not generally expected that there will be any sudden drops, that possibility is present. It is certain, of course, that in the event of anything resembling a panic coming to pass, prices would shrink like a punctured tire. Demand is still the most important arbiter of price, and the current state of demand is definitely not good.

The annalist points out that there may be a least one highly favorable factor in the commodity price declines—that cheaper wheat, for example, is very possibly the reflection of opinion that a European war is less imminent than it was, conflict will not result. Hitler's surprising backdown, when Czechoslovakia, faced with imminent attack by Germany, mobilized and refused to give in, has certainly improved the world outlook.

Looking at other phases of the business picture, little that can be honestly characterized as strongly favorable can be found. Stock and bond prices continue to sag lower, with market turnover at extremely low levels. Steel production for a recent week was at 29 per cent of capacity—off two points from the side are the old-line Democrats who are basically opposed to many Administration objectives, activities and methods. During the early years these Democrats said little, and followed the White House line for the most part. But they have licked over the traces now.
