MURRAY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1911.

T. W. THOMPSON IS RE-ELECTED.

Precinct Chairman of the Association Meet and Elect Officers For the Year.

A full attendance meeting of the newly elected committee of the tobacco association was had here last Saturday the regular time for the election of a chairman and secretary. The principal business to come before the body was the election of a chairman and secretary. Two names were presented for the place that of T. W. Thompson and A. J. Burke, and as a result of the balloting T. W. Thompson was re-elected to the place. He has filled the position the past several years and is well acquainted with the duties of the position and will fill the office to the satisfaction of every association man in the county. O. J. Jennings was re-elected secretary a position he has filled the past several years.

After the election of the officers the meeting was adjourned to convene the fourth Monday of this month at which time the pricing and storing contracts will be let for the year. Every prizer who expects to receive a contract must make application for same at this meeting. Do not overlook this matter.

Stock Barn Burned.

A stock barn on the farm of Reed King, near Swann, or between Swann and Lynnville, was destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock Monday morning. The loss is about $400, there being 20 barrels of corn and 1,200 pounds of hay in the barn. The fire is supposed to have started from the hands of an incendiary and a horse and mule tracks were noticed on the side of the barn next to the road and it is thought that a match was lighted and placed through the cracks of the barn igniting the hay. There was no insurance.

Mrs. Etta May Neal, through a petition filed in the circuit court, wants a divorce from her husband, Ellison Neal, whom she married in Tennessee August 9, 1904. They lived together until May 1, 1911, when he is alleged to have deserted her, and is supposed to be living now in Calloway. T. J. Murphy is her attorney. Mayfield Messenger.

ABOUT CURING OF TOBACCO.

The season of year has come again when the tobacco crop must go in the house, and as we have had rather too much rain for the past few weeks I fear that some farmers may make the mistake of cutting their tobacco before it has had time to grow out of the sappy state or fatten up. The tobacco is full of sap and the gum is all washed off, and even though the crop may seem to be ripe and it may be that it is, but it needs a few days of sunshine and the heavy dews to make a good article. You have some beautiful tobacco in the field, and with the proper care and attention you can have a good crop in the barn, which will command the highest market price if properly treated. Then there is a certain part of the crop that is late and which cannot mature and make good tobacco during this month, so don't get the frost scare and cut tobacco that is not ripe, because frost bitten tobacco is worth as much money as green tobacco, and it weighs more.

As for the curing we all want a nice brown to light brown color. Real dark black tobacco is not sought as it once was when the trade wanted what we call "black fats." For the re-handlers have learned how to take poor tobacco and make it black with the use of oils and chemicals and instead of this kind of tobacco being high it is cheaper than the brown and light brown. Don't get in too big a hurry to cure your tobacco when you get it in the house by making your barn to hot in the start. After the tobacco is put in the house and has begun to yellow start slow fires, and keep them slow for a couple of days, then you can increase your heat if you so desire, but my experience with curing tobacco is to not be in too big a hurry about it, but cure slowly and take more time for it, and if the weather is dry it is best not to cure it up entirely on the first firing, but cure the leaf and about two-thirds of the stem, and allow your fires to die, then open your barn and leave it for a few days. This will give the tobacco a chance to run and get some oil and coloring matter out of the stalk, however if your colors are just what you want while firing it will be well enough to cure stalk and stem before stopping, but generally the plan of only curing the leaf and part of the stem at first is the best policy, but when this is done it will be necessary to dry the tobacco out after it has hung a few days and had a chance to run. If the fall should be a damp, warm one it will be necessary to keep your tobacco dried out after it is cured to prevent mold and damage hanging in the barn.

I take the liberty of writing this because I expect to make some country purchases of loose tobacco and because I expect to buy largely of prized tobacco and am describing as best I can what is most desirable for the trade generally.

Yours very truly,
W. B. KENNEDY.
Hamlin, Ky.

MASS MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT.

Six Nominees for City Councilmen to be Named for Ensuing Term.

The citizens of Murray are called to meet Friday night in the court house in mass convention for the purpose of nominating candidates for city councilmen to be voted for and elected at the regular November election.

A democratic city committee was organized here the past week by the election of M. D. Holton, Chairman; K. Robertson, Secretary. While the mass meeting is called by the chairman of the city democratic committee it is understood that all white citizens of the city will be permitted to participate in the meeting. This is as it should be, because of the fact that a citizen votes a democratic or republican ticket upon state or national questions should not bar him as a citizen of the community, and each should feel the same interest in the welfare and advancement of the town. Murray is too small for these questions to make a difference and the Ledger hopes to see a full representation of the citizenship present at the meeting Friday night.

The Official Call.

The Democratic voters of the city of Murray, are hereby called to meet in mass convention at the court house Friday night, Sept. 15, 1911, at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of nominating six candidates for City Councilmen to be voted for at the coming November election. Done by order of the Committee. This Sept. 11, 1911.

M. D. Holton, Chairman.
City Democratic Committee.

COUNTIES BID FOR DAVIS WAY.

Large Delegation Was Present at Enthusiastic Hopkinsville Meeting.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 9.—With a large attendance from nearly every county along the tentative route an enthusiastic meeting was held here this afternoon in the interest of the proposed Jefferson Davis Highway from Bowling Green to Paducah, via Hopkinsville. The counties west of here, in which the matter has been agitated recently, sent big delegations and there was prolonged discussion as to the route to be adopted after the road left Hopkinsville. Each county wanted it extended its way.

The matter was finally left open for decision on "The Most Feasible Route," the inducements to be offered figured largely on this.

Colonel Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, President of the Jefferson Davis Home Association, which proposes to convert into a public park the birth-place of Jefferson Davis at Fairview, made a ringing speech advocating good roads in general and the proposed highway in particular. He stated that within the next eighteen months he expected to see the debt raised from the site that has been purchased at Fairview for the park and the memorial hall built and dedicated.

He also promised that when the Jefferson Davis Highway should be completed he would personally contribute enough capital trees to plant one on each side of the road fifty feet apart for the entire distance. Rush Watkins, of Louisville, was present and took an active part in the meeting.

The office of vice chairman had never been filled and W. V. Eaton, of McCracken county, was elected to the place. The offices of secretary and treasurer were combined and W. G. Davis, of Elkton, the present secretary, was elected to the position. Paducah was selected as the next place of meeting, this to be held on September 22.

A constitution was adopted under which the work will be taken up. This constitution calls for an organization in each county to actively prosecute the work of improving the road. It is patterned after the constitution of the Lincoln Way Association.

McCuiston School House.

Not having seen any items from our part of the county in some time I shall send in a few newsy briefs, hoping they will escape the waste basket.

Crops are fair in this section notwithstanding the extended drouth in the early season.

It seems now that we are likely to have too much rain.

Tobacco is fine and a good portion of it is pledged. Mr. O. J. Jennings, the farmers' friend, was through this section recently and spoke at Russell's Chapel school house last Friday night to a number of interested farmers. No doubt a greater number would have been in attendance but for another equally interesting speaking at McCuiston school house.

Miss Louis Boatwright, the most hustling little lady teacher of the east side of the county, gave an ice cream supper for the benefit of a school library, and invited our worthy Superintendent, Miss Lucile Grogan, to be present and address the patrons on the subject of a District Library. A more earnest appeal could not have been made to the parents in behalf of their children and the good they might derive from providing their school room with good literature than Miss Grogan made. She was so earnest and so sincere in her effort to establish a library that she seemed to make every listener feel as she felt and see as she saw on the library proposition, and succeeded in raising exactly $40.00 contribution. My! We are proud of old McCuiston, and prouder of our lady teacher and lady superintendent. Hurrah for the women! We are for 'em. Never before has such interest been manifested in this school district as we have had this year. With a house about large enough to seat fifty, we have an average attendance of 75 or 80. We trust the county board will soon see fit to give us an addition to our house since it is so badly needed. Success to the Ledger and its many readers. Red Bird.

ACCIDENTLY SHOOTSELF.

Jake Chapman, a well known young citizen of Kirksey, was wounded by the accidental discharge of a shot gun last Monday and as a result the right arm was almost entirely blown from his body. Chapman had placed a loaded gun on the bed and when he started to remove the weapon he took hold of the muzzle and in attempting to pull the gun toward himself the hammer hung in the bed clothing and was discharged, the bullet entering the arm just above the hand and the arm was almost blown entirely off. Dr. Otis Gingles was called to see the injured man and amputated the arm above the elbow. Mr. Chapman is about 22 years of age and is a man of family.

Opinion of the best experts at San Francisco is that there will be no strike of 25,000 shop employees of the Harriman system. The two main reasons are these: Vice-President Kruttschnitt is eager for a strike, as he believes this an opportune time to knock out for good the claims to recognition of federations, and lack of funds by the men.

"Back to the Farm."

Strikingly illustrative of the argument that "the back to the farm" movement should be inaugurated, were statistics made public by the census bureau indicating that during the last ten years the percentage of increase in number of farms has fallen far behind that of the increase in population. Not since 1850 has the percentage of increase been so small.

According to the census bureau, during the ten-year period, beginning in 1900, the population of the nation increased 51 per cent. During the same decade the number of farms increased from 5,737,372 to 6,340,357, only 10.5 per cent.

Most remarkable, however, was the showing of the increase in the value of the farms. Farm land, exclusive of the value of farm buildings, was valued at $13,068,008,000 in 1900. In 1910 it was $28,286,770,000, an advance of 117 per cent. The size of farms has increased, according to returns.

A big advance was noted in the value of farm buildings and implements. Lured labor in 1910 absorbed $345,612,000, an increase of 80 per cent over 1900. Sixty-six per cent of all farms were reported "free of debt."

Involves Half a Million.

An important corporation decision was filed in the United States court by Judge Cochran in the case of Knoxville Real Estate Co., for the use of W. S. Miller, involving over a half million dollars.

Miller and the defendants subscribed all the stock to the Knoxville Lake Park Springs Co., a Tennessee corporation, in 1890, the company being capitalized at $2,000,000. The company bought a lot of land, but never paid but a small part on the stock.

The Knoxville Real Estate Co. brought suit for the balance, and recovered judgment; the land was resold and bought in by the Real Estate Co. Later, the judgment was sold by the Real Estate Co. to Miller, who then filed suit to compel his fellow stockholders to pay up the balance due on their stock in order to satisfy the judgment he had bought against said company. Judge Cochran says that being one of the original stockholders, he cannot be allowed to sue the other stockholders for his own benefit. The amount Miller claimed was $522,000.

The defendants are residents of Kentucky, therefore the suit was filed in the United States court here.

Judge Got a Ducking.

Undaunted at the demand of Police Judge Herndon to stop sprinkling in front of her residence so as to let the crowd of horse traders and stock sellers use the street for their stock, Mrs. Jennie Cardwell, a society woman, turned the hose on Judge Herndon, giving him a "soaking." Complaint had been made by Judge Herndon that Mrs. Cardwell had given him a "soaking" because he refused to move his stock from in front of her house. Judge Herndon went to intercede, when he received his ducking. War was declared, but owing to the prominence of the parties the matter will be settled out of court.

GARDEN OF THE GODS

Great Scenic Feature of the Pike's Peak Regio

"Sentinel of the Plains" Stands Guard Over Section Where Titanic Forces Have Been at Play. Forces Have Wondrously Wrought.

Denver, Colo.—No scenic feature of the Pike's Peak region of Colorado has such a world-wide fame as the Garden of the Gods. Passing through its gigantic rock-ports, 330 feet in height, one enters a region where Titanic forces have been at play. Here are cathedral spires, and balanced rocks weighing a thousand tons; strange grotesque shapes, mammoth caricatures of animals or of spring from vantage points hundreds of feet in air or gleam oddly from the pines.

The gateway to the Garden rises to twice the height of Niagara's mighty fall, framing in terra cotta a superb picture of azure and tawny peaks. Earliest nest in the rocky crags. Purple ling brooks alive with mountain trout. Against the turquoise sky a flight of birds soars almost out of sight, wee bits of life amid the grandeur of mountain tops and lofty minarets.

Pike's Peak in a way stands sentinel over the Garden of the Gods. Pike's Peak is the historic beacon summit which guided the early explorers across the great plains, and it rears its snowy crest in the midst of a veritable wonderland. Here Nature is seen in her grandest as well as in some of her most fantastic moods. Great mountain peaks are here—massive, gigantic—lifting themselves into the regions of perpetual snow. Here are a half dozen stupendous canyons, each miles in length, where the granite mountains have been chiseled into a thousand forms of every size, shape and color; rising in airy phantasies like the spires of a Milan, or in solid shafts against which all the forces of modern engineering might beat in vain, or in lofty spires so slender that one almost fears to lean his puny weight against them.

From the summit of Pike's Peak the view is sublime. To the west is a mountain wilderness. To the east is a boundless plain. Against the western horizon stretches an unbroken sapphire haze and against a sky of great, rock-strewn region lies at the base, out of which gleam the windswept obelisks of the Garden of the Gods.

Steamboat Rock stands about the center of the Garden of the Gods and on top of it is a number of powerful telescopes. This rock is about 30 feet high and has the appearance of the deck of a steamboat.

A large rock about 25 feet high, standing in the Garden of the Gods, is called the Chinese temple because of its round shape and its temple-like appearance.

EARS LIKE BANANAS ON CORN

Freak Crop of Maize Grows in the Garden of an Arkansas Farmer.

Hermitage, Ark.—W. C. Pierson of this place had two short rows of corn in his garden that developed more ears to the stalk than ever heard of before in this country.

The corn was planted February 15, and at first the usual number of ears developed. Then came an extra supply, until some of the stalks looked like banana trees. The small ears were pulled off when partly developed and fed to the stock. As fast as the stalks were trimmed of their crop of small ears another lot came on. Some of the small ears grew in clusters like bananas.

Hermitage, Ark.—The corn of a woman here may cost Daniel Mack his eyes. Mack attempted to make his way through a dense corn. A small ear of corn struck his eye, and he was blinded.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waukegan, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I did not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and in a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help."

"I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I have saved my life."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female illness, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

As a result of the discussion of the death of Mrs. Browning, it is not generally known that the event occasioned one of the tenderest things her husband ever wrote. He tended her alone the night before she died, and wrote of her passing in the other words, in a letter addressed to their mutual friend, Mrs. Blagdon: "Then came what my heart will keep till I see her again, and longer—the most perfect expression of her love to me within my knowledge of her. Always engaged and with a face like a girl's, and in a few minutes she died in my arms, her head on my cheek. There was no lingering or acute pain, nor consciousness of separation. God took her to himself as you would lift a sleeping child from a dark, uneasy bed into your arms and the light."

BEATTIE GUILTY, YET HAS HOPES

WITH IRON NERVE UNBROKEN, HE CALMLY FACES SENTENCE TO DIE.

CLOSE GUARD ON PRISONER

Aged Father Who Has Encouraged Prisoner in Long Trial Finds All Comfort Gone and Suffers Collapse.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Sept. 11.—With a cynical indifference smile on his lips, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., sits in the valley of the shadow to await the day when he must pay the penalty for the murder of his young wife.

Not in recent criminal history has a murderer sat down to await death so calmly. Not a quiver of emotion or fear distorted the sharp featured face of the young man of 26, whose bright future has been darkened by crime and shadowed in the pall of death.

But an aged father, broken and sorrowful, his whole life shattered by his son's plight, is the figure of sadness in the case. With his other son and his 17-year-old daughter, he lay in his sorrow-stricken home in a state of almost total collapse.

All Comfort Gone From Him.

For three weeks he has sat beside his son while he made his fight for life, counseling, encouraging and comforting him. He bade him farewell after 12 stolid Chesterfield farmers had pronounced the doom of death—all comfort and encouragement gone from his soul. But the callous boy, facing death as calmly as he faced his fight for life, smiled with a bitter smile as he kissed the tottering father good-bye.

A respite until November 21 was the best the earnest lawyers could do for their client. Judge Watson granted a stay of execution until that date to allow the prisoner time to file an appeal. But all Virginia is satisfied that the application will be denied. Throughout the trial, Judge Watson and the shrewd attorneys for the prosecution inclined rather in favor of the prisoner and the result left the keen-witted attorneys for the defense searched almost in vain for an error on which they could rely with any degree of confidence in their contention for a new trial.

MAKE MORE GARY ARRESTS

Six Officials of Indiana Steel Town Charged With Corruption in Bribery Investigation.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 11.—Four of the nine members of the city council, City Engineer Williston, and a son of one of the councilmen, have been arrested, following the arrest of Mayor Knotts, and all are charged with soliciting and accepting bribes in connection with a heating franchise deal. All except Mayor Knotts, who was released on a cash bond of $10,000, are in jail at Crown Point.

T. B. Dean of Richmond, Ky., who was granted the franchise, now is said to be a detective engaged for the purpose of securing evidence against the mayor and councilmen, and it is charged the negotiation for the franchise were the means employed to this end. The mayor was arrested last May on charges of embezzlement, perjury, and malfeasance in office. It was charged he had appropriated $2,000 he is said to have collected while judge of the city court. The charge was dismissed.

SMUGGLERS MAY GO FREE

Powerful Influences Against Prosecution of Allen and Collins at Work.

New York, Sept. 11.—That very powerful influences are making concerted efforts to prevent the prosecution of Nathan Allen of Kenosha, Wis., founder of the leather trust, and John R. Collins, of Memphis, Tenn., organizer of the Southern Coal company, who are under indictment by the federal grand jury for smuggling many thousands of dollars of jewels through the port of New York, on testimony given by the beautiful Helen Dwell Jenkins, was stated to a high government official who has followed this remarkable case closely.

KIDNAPPED GIRL IS SLAIN

All Doubt as to Fate of Annie Lemberger, Missing Since Last Wednesday, Dismissed.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 11.—The body of Annie Lemberger, 7 years old, who was kidnapped some time Wednesday night, was found in Lake Monona. The child had been murdered.

Goes Over Dam to His Death.

Lebanon, Ill., Sept. 11.—When the gasoline launch engine gave out, Brook Ballinger of Bushnell, Ill., and a man named Matheny of Bernadotte, were carried over the mill dam at Bernadotte, a fishing and pleasure resort, ten miles west, and Ballinger was drowned. Matheny was rescued.

ASTOR MARRIED AT LAST

CEREMONY AT NEWPORT BY REVEREND CARPENTER-MINISTER.

Party, Heavily Veiled, Taken From Sea to Villa, and Then Returned to Boat.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 11.—Col. John Jacob Astor, 47 years old, and Miss Madeline Talmage Force, 18, were married at the Beechwood, the colorful handsome Newport villa, by Rev. Edwin S. Straight, carpenter-clergyman of Providence.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. William H. Force, father and mother of the bride, her sister, Katherine, Dr. Rufus E. Durrax and Vincent, 19 years old, son of Col. Astor, Rev. Joseph Cooper of the First Methodist church of Newport, was present to add ministerial dignity to a wedding he would not perform, but did not mind observing. The Astor license was taken out at 3:30, having been held up for formal proof of Astor's divorce for two weeks.

From Providence it was learned that Rev. Edwin Straight has not "worked regularly" as a minister since the early 80s, when he gave up the pastorate of the little Baptist church in Warren because there wasn't enough money in it for his support.

License Still in Good.

The license, however, which legalizes him to perform marriages, is still good, and he has long been known in and around Providence, Newport and nearby cities as the "elopers' friend." He was ordained to the Baptist ministry from his birthplace, North Swanton, Mass.

Immediately after the ceremony the party, all heavily veiled, were taken into waiting automobiles and at express train speed shot to the wharf at Wellington avenue, where two of the Noma's launches were ready.

The party boarded them hurriedly and made quickly for the Noma, where the guests sat down to a wedding breakfast.

TURN DOWN SUFFRAGISTS

Organization Is Called Political—W. C. T. U. Gets Place for a Display.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—"Is the Illinois Suffrage association a political organization?" The Illinois State Fair association contends that it is and has refused to allow the suffragettes a booth on the state fair grounds, at Springfield.

What makes the grievance greater in the eyes of the suffragists is that a booth is being donated to the Women's Christian Temperance Union which, they assert, has a part in every election.

Mrs. Alice Bright Parker, chairman of the publicity bureau of the suffrage association, declares that it is an unjust discrimination on the part of the state fair authorities.

"How can any group of women form a political organization, when they have no votes, indorse no party and back no candidate for office?" she demands. "We have argued for months and finally have sent a representative to Springfield; but to no avail."

HELD ON KU-KLUX CHARGE

Accused of Tarring and Feathering Lady School Teacher at Shady Bend, Kas.

Shady Bend, Kas., Sept. 11.—Nine men and boys have been arrested and placed under bond here for alleged connection with the tarring and feathering of Miss Mary Chamberlain, a young school teacher, ten days ago by a mob.

A strong effort was made to keep the matter quiet, but County Attorney McCandless refused to allow the affair to go uninvestigated. The trials of several of the alleged perpetrators have been set for next month.

The men arrested are Edward R. Cord, E. G. Clark, A. M. Simms, John Schmidt, Watson Scranton, Jay Pittz, Chester Anderson, Sherrill Clark and Delbert Kindersperger.

Missouri Awakes in Texas.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 11.—Awakening after a week's mental lapse, F. E. Cooper of Sedalia, Mo., discovered that he was on the poor farm here. He was picked up by the police in San Jacinto plaza in a dazed condition and, after being examined at the police station, was sent to the hospital connected with the poor farm. He is a traveling man from Sedalia and has a wife living there. He can not account for his strange lapse, as he had started to Arizona.

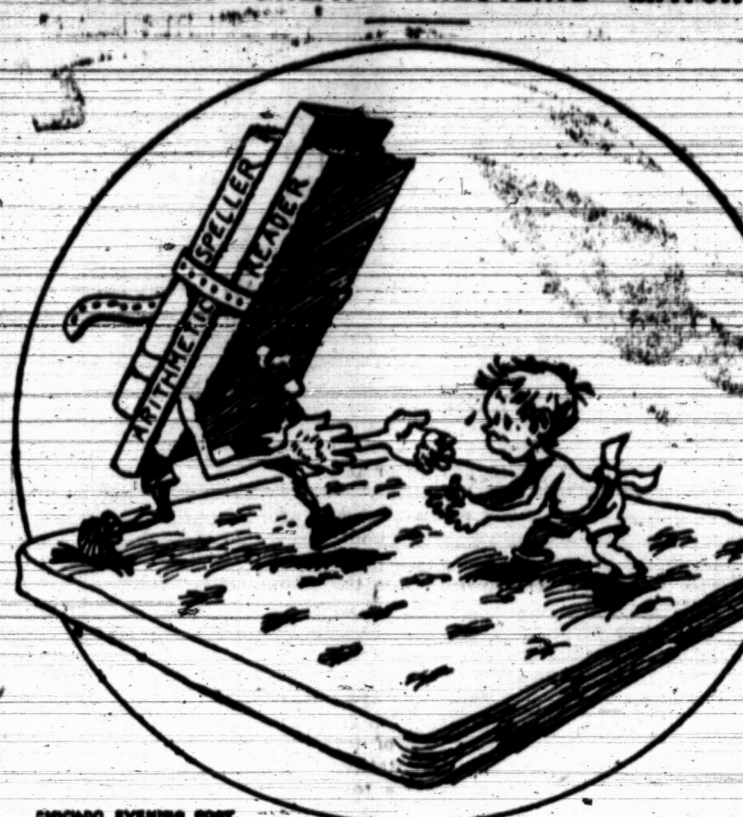

P. O. Banks for Missouri.

Washington, Sept. 11.—St. Joseph and Sedalia, Mo., are included in a list of fifty additional first-class post offices designated as postal savings depositories. The offices will be ready to receive deposits October 7. Other offices included are: Fort Smith, Ark.; Freeport, Moline and Rockford, Ill.; Leavenworth, Salina and Wichita, Kas.; McAlester, Okla., and Beaumont and Waco, Texas.

Paymaster Accused of Theft.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—Harry J. Holliday was arrested, charged with the theft of money which may amount to $10,000 from the Brown-Ketchum Iron Works. For seven years he was paymaster of Haughton plant. Holliday, it is said, has confessed.

ANOTHER GREAT WRESTLING MATCH

HARRIMAN LINES

LOOK FOR STRIKE

ADVISORY COMMITTEE DECIDES UNIONS CAN'T REDECE FROM POSITION.

Blacksmiths' President Says Sentiment Is Strong in All Quarters and at Present Sees No Way to Prevent Tie-up.

A WALK-OUT IS FAVORED

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—Officials of the five shop-keepers' unions comprised in the Federation of Shop Workers on the Harriman lines probably will determine definitely at a meeting to be held what they will do about the refusal of Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president and superintendent of maintenance of the system, to recognize the federation.

No one could be found who believed Mr. Kruttschnitt, who acted under full authority from Judge Robert S. Lovett, president of the Harriman system, would recede in the trouble from his position.

It was regarded as almost as fully determined at a meeting between the general advisory committees of the unions and their general officers that the union men neither will recede from their position, already taken, authorizing a strike, nor are they willing to temporize, either by preferring minor demands or letting the question of recognition of the federation go over for six months, three months, or any other time.

If there is anything to avert a collision, the general officers of the unions, who from the first have hoped to avoid a strike, declared themselves ignorant of it, although they said no one could predict safely what might happen.

Pressure for a strike, it was said, is insistent from points east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, but it is more insistent up and down the coast.

A report that the advisory committee had held a meeting without the knowledge of their officers was denied flatly by International President J. W. Kline of the blacksmiths' union, who said he had traced it to unfavorable sources.

"I was asked about the meeting and advised it," said Mr. Kline. "Later in the day we met together. We find that the strike sentiment among the men is stronger even than when the so-called strike vote was taken. That vote came near being unanimous."

"We hope to see some way by which this strike can be avoided, but we are prepared to insist upon recognition of the federation."

MAN WINS NEEDLE PRIZE

Embroidery Lunch Cloth, Product of Masculine Skill, Best of Kind at State Fair.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 11.—F. E. Brandt, of St. Paul, has won a premium in the woman's department at the state fair, being the only man who was awarded a prize in that department this year. Brandt won his prize on an embroidered lunch cloth five feet square. It took 83 skeins of embroidery floss to work the article. A large number of pieces worked by women were on exhibition.

Woman Ascends 1,000 Feet.

Hempstead, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Miss Matilda Molant, sister of the dead aviator, John B. Molant, ascended in a monoplane to a height of nearly 1,000 feet. It is believed to be the greatest altitude ever reached by a woman aviator. The flight was made in a puff wind which impelled other aviators to advise Miss Molant not to make the attempt.

Miss Molant, who is charged with attacking a schoolgirl at Weiner, was released on a $700 bond, given by her father, a well-to-do man of Evening Shade.

CHINESE BURN MISSIONS

THREE MISSIONARY CHAPELS DESTROYED.

Flood Sufferers Endanger Lives of Americans as Rioting Increases.

Shanghai, Sept. 11.—Three missionary chapels in the southern part of Kiang Su province have been burned by starving Chinese flood sufferers and rioting highlanders.

Along the Yellow river canal missionaries have been supplied with arms to defend themselves. Only meager reports were available, these being telegraphed from cities on the edge of the devastated zone to which place news had been carried by refugees.

Native dispatch bearers bring tidings that a great pestilence is sweeping the wake of the floods. Hundreds of dead bodies are being left on dry ground as the waters of the Yangtze Kiang and its tributaries subside. On account of the large amount of salt, soldiers who have been detailed to bury the dead are unable to carry out this work.

CONVICTS REFUSE PAROLE

Prisoners Are Learning Trades and Wish to Finish Study Before Freedom.

Hutchinson, Kas., Sept. 11.—Two inmates of the state reformatory have petitioned Superintendent M. F. Amrine against being pardoned or paroled before their terms have expired.

The two men are Carl Ralson, sent from Pittsburg, Kas., for burglary, and Sam Campbell. The sentences of each expire at the end of the year. Both are learning trades in the reformatory and desire to remain until they have finished their trades. It is expected that both will be recommended for parole at the next meeting of the reformatory board.

DESTROY LAST CIGARETTE

Students in North Carolina Town Carry on Crusade Against Tobacco.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 11.—With students, faculty and citizens praying and singing the last stock of tobacco and cigarettes in Marshall, N. C., was burned on the campus of Marshall college as the climax of the anti-cigarette crusade started by the Rev. F. W. Reese of Marion, Ill.

The college students had adopted resolutions calling on the merchants of the town to give up the sale of tobacco and cigarettes and raised money to reimburse them for their sacrificed stocks.

RECORD FOR BROOM CORN

Farmer Gets $160 a Ton and Predictions Are $200 Will Be Reached This Year.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 11.—The new crop of broom corn is moving and the sales recorded are the highest in 130 years. One farmer of Douglas county sold nine tons for $160 a ton. Harvesting will be in full blast by next week.

It is said that the supply of broom corn this season will be limited, and some growers are predicting that $200 per ton will be paid before the season is over.

Woman Ascends 1,000 Feet.

Hempstead, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Miss Matilda Molant, sister of the dead aviator, John B. Molant, ascended in a monoplane to a height of nearly 1,000 feet. CROP CONDITION REPORTED AS LOW

CORN SHOWS SMALL ADVANCE, BUT WHEAT IS BELOW TEN-YEAR AVERAGE.

OTHER CROPS ARE SHORT

Rice, Tobacco, Flax and Hay Show Heavy Falling Off in Both Condition and Indicated Total Yield.

Washington, Sept. 11.—While the weather conditions throughout the country were reasonably favorable to growing crops during the month of August, the crop report issued by the department of agriculture did not indicate generally much improvement in the condition of the crops over that of a month ago.

Some improvement was shown in the great staple crop of corn as of September 1 over August 1, but it only amounted to seven-tenths of 1 per cent in the aggregate. The yield of corn per acre this year, as indicated by the report, will be 23.6 bushels per acre, as compared with 24.4 bushels last year and an average of 27.1 bushels during the last five years.

The acreage of corn this year, however, is larger than it was last year, and the probability is that the crop, while it may be shorter than it was last year, will not differ greatly in quantity.

Wheat Condition Is Lower.

Wheat also shows a falling-off of approximately 10 per cent in condition as compared with the average for the last ten years and the yield per acre is about two bushels to the acre less this year than the average during the last five years.

Oats also shows a considerable falling-off both in condition and in average yield per acre. While the indicated yield for this year is 23.9 bushels an acre, the final yield for 1910 was 31.9 bushels, and the average yield during the last five years was 34.4 bushels, the indicated total yield for this year being approximately 16 per cent less than the average for the last five years.

Rice, tobacco, flax and hay all show a heavy falling off in condition and indicated total yield. Potatoes, as was indicated last month, will make a short crop. The condition of potatoes was a trifle more than 10 per cent below that of last year and nearly 3 per cent poorer than it was a month ago.

The total yield will be far below that of last year—practically 30 per cent—and nearly 22 per cent below that of the average for the last five years.

HOST STABS HIS GUEST

Charles Haney Visiting Athol Gale When Argument Leads to a Fight.

St. Louis, Sept. 11.—Charles Haney, 29 years old, was stabbed six times by Athol N. Gale, 50 years old, in the latter's room at 1136 North Broadway.

"He worked on me like a woodpecker," Haney said, as he was being taken to the city hospital. Gale told the police he used his knife in self defense after Haney had struck him. Haney, who lives at 1244 Franklin avenue, and Reux Russell of the Broadway address, were spending Friday evening in Gale's room when an argument arose which ended in the stabbing.

Haney was wounded in the left chest, right elbow, right thigh, left arm, right shoulder and left hand. His condition is serious. Gale was arrested.

HETTY GREEN IN POLITICS

Her Name Will Appear on Lima, O., Ballot as Democratic Candidate.

Lima, O., Sept. 11.—For council, Fourth ward, Hetty Green.

That is the way it will appear in the Democratic ballots in the municipal election here in November. The Democrats put up one candidate for nomination in the Fourth ward for the Tuesday primaries. At the official canvass of the vote it was found that Hetty Green, presumably New York City's woman millionaire, had received two votes and no other candidate received more than one.

Stops Tax Collection.

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 11.—In the superior court Judge Liedtke granted an injunction restraining the collection of the 5-mill school tax voted at a recent election by the city of Harthorne, Okla., over the statutory limitation on the ground that the election had been called by the county excise board, which was without authority to do so.

SETTLE "STRIP" DISPUTE

LAND INVOLVED VALUED AT A QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS.

Arkansas Legal Department Notified Oklahoma Will Drop Claim.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 11.—Attorney General Norwood has received information that Oklahoma has dropped its claim to the famous Choctaw strip. Assistant Attorney General Moore of Oklahoma, in a letter received, says that its "interest in the strip is too insufficient and remote to justify the expense of testing the matter in the courts."

Accompanying the statement is another giving complete relinquishment of jurisdiction to the State of Arkansas over the disputed territory, and announcing that the legal department of Oklahoma will recommend that no additional suits or claims be filed by citizens of Oklahoma or Le Flore county against the jurisdiction of the State of Arkansas.

The Choctaw strip was originally a portion of the Indian Territory. It was later ceded by a grant of congress to the State of Arkansas and incorporated as a part of the city of Fort Smith. The Arkansas legislature took the proper steps accepting the grant and extending its boundary accordingly.

Hadley was informed of the victory for good roads over the long distance telephone by E. W. Stephens, president of the Commercial club.

"I congratulate the people of Columbia heartily," said the governor. "It proves that the board of agriculture made no mistake in sending the cross-state highway through your community. Your overwhelming victory will prove a great help to the good roads movement throughout the state."

SELECTING A COUNCIL.

The citizens of Murray are called to meet Friday night in mass convention for the purpose of naming six men to serve as councilmen for the next two years, commencing the first of the year. It behooves the city to use care and judgment in the selection of these officials, and we hope to see a large meeting of the citizens at the convention. It is time to forget all differences, to lay aside political prejudices and convene with but a single purpose, and that purpose the best interest of the city. One man's desires, or a dozen men's desires, should not enter into the selection of councilmen and the Ledger does not believe that these obstacles will deter the purpose of the people. And again, the political beliefs of men should not be considered, but rather men selected because they feel and entertain the best interests of the town. If the spirit of the meeting is along these lines then there can be no doubt but that six men will be selected who will work diligently for the advancement of the town.

THE JEFF DAVIS WAY.

The importance of the proposed highway to be known as the "Jeff Davis Way," is becoming more apparent each day, and the interest being manifested by the citizens of Calloway county is very encouraging, and we hope that it will continue unabated. This highway, one destined to become of national importance, and which already is a basis of what we believe will eventually become a great chain of national highways, is worth more to Calloway than is properly credited by even the most enthusiastic.

The committee appointed by the Commercial Club last week attended the conference at Hopkinsville last Saturday returned home thoroughly imbued with the idea of concerted action upon the part of the people of this county, and as a result of their report a mass meeting has been called for Saturday and the Ledger hopes to see every good road advocate in the county present. Concerted action and very decisive action is going to be necessary to secure this coveted prize for Calloway and it now behooves every citizen to lend his aid and influence.

FOR THE DOMESTIC HUSBAND

Attractive Patterns Are Obtainable For the Man Who Will Do His Own Sewing.

Our new line of patterns for men will be found extremely useful for the sensible and thrifty young man who prefers to do his own sewing. For instance, No. 5853 is an easily made evening suit—Buy seven yards—say seven-and-a-half—of nice, black cloth. Lay it out on the floor and pin the pattern to it with the bias fold on the crease of the garment. All perforations are allowed, and the seams may be run up by hand. Trim with braid and a few buttons. This model may be carried out in pongee or tan linen if preferred.

Pattern 7836 is for a man's kitchen apron. This useful garment should be made of art ticking and bound with red and blue the triple notch on the stripe of the ticking. There is only one pocket pattern, but twenty-four pieces of the material are to be made by this, as a man requires a great many pockets. All seams allowed. Attach the pockets on any part of the apron until all are used up, catch them into place, and finish the top with a buttonhole bar. Attach tapes at the middle perforations to tie the thing on. It is handy to wear, the apron behind, as when worn in front it is apt to be in the way.

A knitted Tuxedo dinner coat is one of the latest and most fetching of the season's models. Choose a chinchilla worsted of good quality. Cut one hundred and ten stitches, put three, narrow two, slip, wide, bind. Repeat backward until it is finished. Crochet a white border in shell pattern and finish with a gilt cord and tassels.

DRIVING OUT PLANT SPIDERS

Water Is Best Remedy for Window Garden Destroyers, for it Drenches Moisture.

In overheated, dry atmospheres the red spider is sure to do more or less damage to the plants in less than a week. The best thing to do is to check. None of the emulsions, tobacco extracts or other applications prevent the spider from attacking the plant. The best thing to do is to use the only thing that will be of benefit—water. Just plain, undistilled water.

Here is where the sprayer comes into play. See that your plants are thoroughly wet, all over, at least three times a week—once a day is better. Be sure that the moisture gets to the under side of the leaves, where the spider likes to hide away. Most persons are not aware of the presence of the tiny but terribly destructive creature, because it is unnoticeable unless one takes special pains to seek him out.

But if they find that leaves on their plants are turning yellow and falling off, they will have good reason to suspect that the red spider is at the bottom of the trouble.

Time to Paint a Ship.

The latest thing in ship painting is to apply no paint at all, not until they have been at sea for some months at any rate. The constant repainting of armored ships and ships with steel hulls involves an enormous cost, and since it has been found that when a vessel is allowed to rust, the paint which usually comes loose under the paint and affords an opportunity for rust to attack the surface, the British government is experimenting with an anti-rust paint. The training ship Exmouth was the first one tried. It was given two months at sea with no paint and then given four coats in dry dock. At the end of five years there was scarcely a trace of wear except at the water line, and the bottom was in perfect condition. The idea was first suggested by A. C. Holzapfel, who had made a study of the Exmouth, and now the steel ships are all put out to sea before being painted.

Oxen in Lumber Camps. After nearly fifty years' retirement from active service the ox has again come into recognition as a motive power in the lumbering industry of northern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and among the frontier sections of these states. The reason is the high price of feed for horses.

There is little or no expense for the "pull" of oxen as compared with that of horses. It is estimated that there are now in northern Wisconsin and Minnesota 2,000 yoke of oxen used in hauling logs which have replaced the number employed a year ago. So satisfactory are these animals in proving in the utilization of land from which the timber has been cut that it is likely their use will become general and remain so for many years.

Evident Misunderstanding. "How is the doctor of your neighbor?" asked the city man.

"Fine!" replied the suburbanite. "I don't think he was ever better in his whole life!"

"What are you talking about, anyway?" said the doctor of your neighbor.

"Sure, I heard you—Flora—she's my wife!"—Yonkers Statesman.

After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone." MRS. LIZZIE PAINTER, 803½ 3d Ave., Evansville, Ind. All In a Day

By M. DIBBELL

Big Dan Franklin entered his wife's room with his usual rush, but instead of finding Kate waiting to welcome him with a smile and kiss, he beheld her lying in a miserable little heap on the couch, trying to wipe away her fast falling tears with a very much soaked handkerchief.

She heard his step, and at once sat up. "Oh, Dan, I am so thankful you have come at last. What do you suppose Lillian will say? I am sure Esther must have eloped with Lewis Davenport!"

Her husband stared at her for an instant in amazement, then dropped beside her on the couch and drew her head to his shoulder.

"You poor baby," he asked, "what has happened to give you such an idea? And I am sure if they have eloped it isn't worth one of these tears."

His soothing words comforted little Kate Franklin, and the tears soon ceased to flow.

"Now tell me what has happened, dearest," said Dan, when Kate grew calmer.

"About an hour after you left this morning Esther went down street to match some embroidery silks; she said she would not be gone more than an hour at most—but now it is nearly six o'clock and she has not returned. You know Lillian does not want her to marry for ever so long, and since Esther came to us Lewis has been calling so often I had begun to wonder if it wasn't my duty to tell her mother, but I did not want Esther to go home. Where do you think she can be?"

It looked as if a second flood of tears were imminent, and Dan Franklin hastened to reply. "I don't believe there is any elopement, and I am sure Esther is all right somewhere. Perhaps she met one of her old class friends—she said several of them lived here."

Before either of them could say more, the maid hastily entered the room holding a note and exclaiming, "Oh, Mrs. Franklin, here is a message from the hospital a boy just brought for you—he says some one wants to see you there!"

Kate turned white but her husband's encircling arm and loving word helped her to be brave, and with trembling fingers she took the slip of paper. It said: "There is a boy lying here who was knocked down by a horse this morning. He says he has a message to deliver to you personally and wants you to come at once."

"Thank heaven Esther is not hurt," gasped Mrs. Franklin. Immediately she began to make ready to visit the hospital.

"I am sure his message is about Esther," she told her husband, as they started out.

When they reached the side of the cot where lay a sturdy looking youngster, the first words he spoke were about the missing girl.

"Are you Mrs. Franklin—Miss Esther Roberts' friend?" he asked eagerly, and being assured of her identity continued: "This morning I went on an errand for mother, and coming back a big motor car stopped by me and a young lady asked if I would take a message for her. I said I would, and then she made me repeat it over several times to get it right. 'I am going to see two friends married. Will be back tonight.' He stopped a moment to rest. 'There was a girl and a man on the seat with her, and the man gave me a five-dollar bill. The young lady wrote her name and address on a piece of paper and said, 'Be sure and tell her Esther Roberts is all right.'"

"You are a brave boy to keep your word after such an accident," said Kate, patting the brown head. "You have taken a big load off my mind. I was dreadfully worried about Esther."

"I'm all right now," replied the youngster, "only it seemed to take me a long time to remember things after being stunned. Mother says I must always keep my word."

When the Franklins were comfortably ensconced in the drawing-room expecting Esther, a young man dashed in.

"What does this mean, Mrs. Franklin?" he asked excitedly. "We have met me out here at the corner and he says he saw the young lady who is staying with you, going into a minister's house out at Farling with a man whom he did not know and another woman—has Miss Roberts eloped?"

Remembering her own fears in connection with the very youth now addressing her, Kate Franklin smiled.

"No, Lewis," she said consolingly. "It was the other woman who was eloping. Sit down and I will tell you all we know."

Lewis Davenport received a full account of the day's occurrences. His face took on a look of intense relief as he listened, and when her story ended he gave Mrs. Franklin a shock by exclaiming:

"I am more than thankful to know the truth. I shall try my hardest to be the man who takes Esther Roberts to a minister!"

"Oh, Lewis," scolded the poor little woman, "have you got to spoil everything? Mrs. Roberts doesn't want Esther to marry for ages, and if you are going to talk like this I shall simply have to send her back home. Can't you be reasonable; you are both too young to marry."

"Esther is nearly a year older than you were, Kate, when you became my wife, so you hardly practice what you preach," remarked Dan Franklin.

"Trust a man for saying just the thing he shouldn't," sighed Kate, trying to look cross, but entirely failing in the effort.

At that moment Esther Roberts stood smiling at them. "Well, aren't you glad to see me after my long absence?" she had barely time to ask before Kate clasped her in a loving embrace.

At first Esther felt some surprise at their enthusiastic greeting, but when she had been informed of the day's mishaps, she looked very sober and said to Kate:

"I never meant to frighten you, dear. Jessie and Andrew positively forced me into going to see them married. Jessie's courage had given out and she said it was either for me to stay with her, or she would go back home. I knew what 'home' meant to the poor girl and I knew how good Andrew was; so I decided to see her safely married to him. We have had a lovely day, and now they are started on a 'many-moon long honeymoon'—so Andrew called it. Don't you think I did right, Kate?"

"Are You Mrs. Franklin—Miss Esther Roberts' Friend?" He Asked.

Mrs. Franklin could only approve of Esther's action, for she knew something of the unhappy home conditions of the eloping Jessie.

After Esther's explanation the younger couple drifted to the far end of the room; out of earshot. Soon after they were left alone Kate Franklin said to her husband, "I think I shall write to Lillian in the morning and tell her I believe that Esther requires a mother's protecting care if she is to continue single. That will place the responsibility where it rightfully belongs, and I shall feel I have done my duty."

"Just as you think best, my dear," answered Dan, "but don't you think it will be a sort of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen?"

"Why, what do you mean?" questioned the wife in startled tones.

Her back was toward Esther and Lewis, while Dan had them in full view. "Just look behind you, and I think you will see."

The two absorbed people had entirely forgotten they were not alone. Both of Esther's hands were imprisoned in Lewis' strong clasp.

Dan snatched a laugh. "How about the letter to Lillian?" he asked innocently.

Meddling Men

Sure Way of Success Is Mind Own Business

By REV. MADISON C. PETERS

THE busybody is a self-appointed inspector of social wars, a sort of supervisor of other people's domestic affairs, for the busybody generally begins by reporting domestic infelicities. From the frequency with which the Bible speaks of these people I take it that they may be considered the worst foes of society. Women generally get the credit for all the busybodies; but the men are as bad blabs as the women. Indeed, many women have become so useful to the community that they have retired from the gossiping business, and babbling, tattling, eavesdropping and impertinent meddling men have succeeded them and are trespassing constantly on the community with their tongues.

The busybody is remarkable for his health. He can live on anything; he usually carries with him a bag of reputations made up in cold hash so that he doesn't have to stop for meals. He has long legs and can go a thousand miles at a jump, while he has great genius for smelling. His peculiarity is acuteness of ear, for he can hear as much through a keyhole as from a door wide open.

When Commodore Vanderbilt was asked how he made so much money, he said he made half of it by minding his own business and the other half by not minding other people's business.

The reason why men succeed who mind their own business is because there is so little competition. There are many people so busy minding other people's business that I wouldn't be a bit surprised in the resurrection day to see some of these everlasting snoops getting out of the wrong graves.

Without any intention, perhaps, of doing injury to your neighbor, a careless remark may be seized by a babbler, and as a snowball grows by rolling it, so does a story by telling; it passes through the babbling tribe, growing larger and larger, and darker and darker, and by the time it has rolled through Babeltown it has assumed the magnitude and blackness of base slander.

Philip de Neri was visited by a woman, who accused herself of slander. He bade her go to the market, buy a chicken just killed and stand covered with feathers and walk a certain distance, plucking the bird as she went. The woman did as she was directed and returned, anxious to know the meaning of the injunction.

"Retrace your steps," said Philip, "and gather up, one by one, all the feathers you have scattered."

"I cast the feathers carelessly away," said the woman, "and the wind carried them in all directions."

"Well, my child," said Philip, "so it is with your words of slander; like the feathers which the wind has scattered, they have been wafted in many directions. Call them back now if you can. Go, sin no more."

Home Is Only Natural Place for the Child

By ANNIE G. MURRAY

doubt, practically the entire care through the day of children who are hardly more than infants.

The authority and affection of the home are in some measure superseded by those of the school, and it is well known that parents are tempted to take advantage of the kindergarten system to shirk parental responsibility.

For children of tender years the home influence, if it embraces what can be called a home, should be the controlling factor in instilling family love and unselfishness.

The old-fashioned child over whom parental authority was exercised much more effectively was quite as bright and good as the new-fashioned child for whom discipline has been so universally relaxed.

It is a hopeless plan to attempt to improve the mind or the moral nature of children under ten years of age by placing them in what practically are prisons.

The home is the only natural place for the child, and our efforts ought to be directed to making it in all cases the fittest place.

Children should never be allowed to pluck flowers, even in the field and hedges, merely to throw them aside; they should be early taught reverence for this floral beauty which is around them and never be permitted wantonly to break down boughs and branches, or fill their laps with buttercups and daisies only to leave them withered in the sun, discarded and forgotten.

The young should cherish their flowers as wisely as, and more tenderly than, they cherish their gold or silver pieces in their money boxes. The exquisite beauty of even the humblest blossom can only be appreciated by the eyes which gaze on it with attention and affection. If the wild thyme, or the shepherd's purse, or the cuckoo's eye, or any one of the tiny blossoms of the sward and hedgerow were but as rare as sapphires are, the whole world would quarrel for them; but nature has sown these little treasures broadcast with lavish hand, and scarcely any one is grateful.

The garden is a little pleasure of the soul; by whose wicket the world can be shut out from us. In the garden something of the golden age still lingers; in the warm alleys where the bees hum about the lilies and the violets, and also where the lilacs and the sea anemones wave joyously as the west wind passes.

A true lover of a garden counts time and season by his flowers.

THE APPETIZING APPLE. So many palatable dishes can be made from apples that one need have no monopoly in the use of this queen of fruits.

When short of a variety in the vegetable line, did you ever take a few tart apples, two or three onions and a slice of good salt pork, and make an appetizing dish which, if not very digestible, is most savory? Put the pork, sliced, into a frying-pan, and when a nice brown add the sliced onions and apples, with a very little water; cook until tender, add a dash of pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of sugar. If the apples are very tart, Apples put into a baking dish with a little water, brown sugar and butter make delicious apple sauce when baked.

Here is a fine filling for sandwiches or cakes, and the beauty of it is that it is ready without any preparation. For every pound of the fruit, peeled and sliced, take twice its weight in sugar, half a cup of water and the grated rind of a lemon. Cook slowly three hours, until thick, then add the juice of the lemon and cook fifteen minutes longer, stirring continually to avoid burning. Add chopped nut meats and no richer filling could be desired.

Brown Betty is perhaps too well known to repeat. It is a most dainty dish. Put a layer of chopped apples, brown sugar, cinnamon for flavoring and a layer of bread crumbs in a buttered dish; repeat, adding the crumbs, buttered by melting a tablespoonful of butter and stirring them in it. Moisten with water, and bake. One charm of this pudding is that it uses crumbs.

Another delicious cake filling is made from a cupful of grated apple and the whites of two eggs; flavor and sweeten to taste. Whip until stiff and smooth.

Apple dumplings are never too old-fashioned to be rejected. Wrap the short biscuit dough around a cored apple and bake. Serve with cream and sugar. This may be steamed as well.

A bird's nest pudding is an easy dessert to prepare. It is simply sliced apple put into a deep dish and covered with a batter and baked. When served turn upside down, sugar and butter the apple, dust with nutmeg and serve.

TRUE HOSPITALITY. Webster defines hospitality as receiving and entertaining strangers with kindness. To most of us the idea of hospitality begins and ends with our friends, forgetting that the good book tells us to be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.

"The more we give, the more we have," which may not mean of worldly wealth, but it certainly is true of true hospitality.

There always being two sides to a question, the entertained as well as the entertainer has requirements to meet in order to make a visit enjoyable.

For the Hostess. First, I shall invite my friend for a certain definite time.

Second, I shall allow my guest to have a little time to get acquainted with her own personality, not wear her out with entertainment.

Third, I shall endeavor to serve food that is both agreeable and digestible and not treat her idiosyncrasies as mere follies.

For the Guest. First, I shall observe the limit of my visit and not overstay my time.

Second, I shall be on time for meals and keep my belongings in my own room.

Third, I shall never allow my hostess to guess that it doesn't run in our family to like cabbage. I shall eat what is set before me, or perish in the attempt.

Fourth, I shall share in the daily duties of the household, the amount depending upon the number of maids kept by my hostess. I can at least care for my own room.

Fifth, I shall endeavor to prove to my hostess that I came to see her, instead of the scenery.

Sixth, I shall on leaving make some return for my entertainment, either an invitation or gift, and shall be careful to leave none of my personal effects to be sent after me.

For those who impose upon hospitality—that is another story.

"Here, I invited mamma to go away for a lovely time with me, but she wouldn't because it wasn't a place where we could take children, and she thought she'd rather be at home with you. But I don't blame her," as the wide eyes grew wistful, "for I think I'd rather stay at home also, if I had a nice little boy like you!"

"Why don't you get one?" queried the child, bravely. "I'll tell Dr. Johnson to bring you the next one he finds if you like!"

"I had occasion some time ago to write to the department about an Alaskan subject that had no bearing on the situation. I have just received an answer that does not commit anybody, but it had on it the initials of at least six persons, showing that the reply had been thoroughly considered and revised before it was started in my direction.
