Goalder Johnson Wins For Sheriff

Walter J. McMurry Elected County Judge and E. J. Stahr, County Attorney

Harrell (Big Boy) Hubbard Captures the Jailer's Office

Saturday's Democratic Primary election in Fulton county passed off without a ripple of excitement, but a few surprises when the final count was announced. It was a clean sweep and a decided victory for aspirants to office in the lower end of the county.

With 1,215 votes, Goalder Johnson, one of the best known politicians in Fulton county, passed under the wire a winner in the Sheriff's race, with Albert Smith, a general favorite in the upper end of the county, a close second. W. J. Fields and Abe Thompson ran neck and neck and Frank Crouch and Charles H. Moore held down the rear end of the sheriff's race.

Judge E. J. Stahr defeated Lon Adams, the Fulton favorite, by a safe majority for the office of county attorney. Mr. Adams was in the race for re-election the third time and while he received around 450 more votes than he did in 1925, with five in the race, it was not sufficient to beat Stahr single handed. Judge Stahr made an enviable record for himself during his term of office as County Judge, of Clinton, and after a resting spell of 3 years, re-entered the political arena with renewed energy.

Chas. L. Bondurant, who announced for re-election for tax commissioner, had no opposition and will continue to assess your taxes for four more years. Miss Effie Bruer, who announced for re-election for County Court Clerk, had no opponent and will continue to serve the people in her usual courteous and efficient way for four more years.

Walter J. McMurry led his three opponents a merry chase for the judge's office and passed under the wire with 1,313 votes, with W. C. Reed, second; Roney and Shankle next.

The jailer's race, with nine entries, was lively from start to finish. Harrell (Big Boy) Hubbard won by a nice margin and will succeed Tobe Jackson when his term expires in 1930.

J. D. Via, the Hickman county candidate for Representative defeated Dee McNeill, the Fulton county candidate by a safe margin. However, McNeill received a big majority in his home county.

C. J. Bowers defeated Mrs. Cora E. Nichols for magistrate of District No. 1.

Judge Stahr has the distinction of leading the entire ticket with 2,336.

Lon Adams, Albert Smith, W. O. Shankle and Henry Collier led the ticket in Fulton.

O. L. Bruce led the ticket by a big majority in his home community and Charles E. Roper led the ticket in his home community by an overwhelming majority.

The campaign throughout was the cleanest ever waged in Fulton county.

In Fulton T. H. Irby has the distinction of leading the city ticket for councilman with 723 votes.

While I was defeated in Saturday's primary election for Jailer, words cannot express my appreciation for the many courtesies extended me during the campaign, and for the vote you gave me.

Yours truly,

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this method of expressing my thanks for the many favors shown me during my recent campaign for sheriff. At the same time I wish to state that I have not a bit of ill feeling against any man or woman in the world. When I started the race early in the year I made up my mind that I would make the best campaign I could and that I would accept whatever result came with the best feeling in the world. I made the race and I lost, but I feel just as good over the matter as anybody in the world. I feel that I have made many new friends all over the county and I know that my old friends are closer to me than ever before. I know that I have many friends who did not vote for me, and this does not affect my friendship for them in the least. I am proud of the manner in which my friends worked and voted for me and they will never know how deeply I appreciate this. In making the campaign I have come to realize what fine people we have in our city and county, and this is worth every bit of time and money I put into the campaign. And so, with full appreciation for all, and with ill feeling toward none, I am,

Very sincerely,
ALBERT SMITH.

CARD OF THANKS

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY:

I take this means of thanking the good people of Fulton county for their vote and influence in the recent primary election. You have conferred upon me an honor for which I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Words cannot express my appreciation of the splendid majority I received in my race for jailer, and I shall do my utmost to make you a faithful official.

I also wish to thank the people for the courtesies extended me during the campaign.

Harrell (Big Boy) Hubbard.

CARD OF THANKS

To the People of Fulton:
I wish to herewith express my thanks and appreciation for the trust that has been reposed in me by nominating me for mayor for the next four years, beginning on January 1. I shall strive to render the very best that is in me to give the city a sane and practical administration during my term, and I ask that all the people of the city give me the utmost in cooperation in order that our desires may be fulfilled. I know, of course, that many voted against me, but I have no ill feelings against any man or woman in the city, for I believe in the right of the people to vote as they choose. In making me the choice for mayor they have placed a responsibility on me that I am going to try to live up to in the best possible manner, and if all the people will give me their fullest cooperation, I hope that our town can continue to make progress.

Again thanking one and all, and assuring all that I appreciate to the fullest the trust that has been placed in me, I am,

Yours sincerely,
PAUL DEMYER.

FARM TOUR AND PICNIC
By H. A. McPherson,
County Agent

At a director's meeting of the Fulton County Farm Improvement Association held at Cayce last Tuesday evening, it was decided that the Association put on a farm tour and catfish fry on Friday, August 16, at Beechwood Park. Each member of the Association will invite one or more farmers who are interested in the promotion of better agriculture.

J. P. Maddox, chairman of the association, appointed the following members to look after the dinner: H. A. McMurry, W. A. Johnston and Jim Thompson. The following committee was appointed to arrange the farm tour: Ed Thompson, Ed Williams, Enoch Browder and H. A. McPherson.

The speakers will be B. W. Kilgore, editor of the Progressive Farmer. He will talk on "The Master Farmer." E. J. Kilpatrick will speak on "Organization for West Kentucky Farmers."

The committee on the farm tour decided on the following program: Leave the Chamber of Commerce at Fulton promptly at 8 o'clock. Arrive at Enoch Browder's dairy barn at 8:10. Leave at 8:25, arrive at Ed Thompson's at 8:30. Leave at 8:50, arrive at Herman Roberts at 9:15. Leave at 9:30, arrive at Cecil Burnett's at 9:40. Leave at 10, arrive at Billie McGehee's cotton patch at 10:25. Leave at 10:50, arrive at Sylvan Shade school at 11. Leave at 11:30, make another short stop at Roscoe Stone's just before reaching the picnic ground at 12 o'clock. Dinner will be served at 12:15. After dinner Dr. Kilgore and Prof. Kilpatrick will speak. After speaking, a tour will be made through the bottom.

The tour should prove very interesting as we will be able to see a variety of good demonstrations. At Mr. Browder's we will be shown a modern, inexpensive dairy barn and a fine herd of registered Jerseys, as well as a good field of alfalfa. Mr. Thompson will show us a good field of tobacco and alfalfa. At Herman Roberts we will see two fine Jersey cows as well as a good club heifer and young bull. Cecil Burnett will show us two litters of pigs that are being fed in the ton litter contest. Also a fine flock of Barred Rock and White Leghorn chickens. He will produce records on both chickens and pigs showing cost of feeding and profit. From here we go to the cotton patch of Billie McGehee's. Here we will see a fine demonstration which is worth the trip. From here we go to Sylvan Shade school, where we will be shown some good club cows and heifers. The last stop will be at Roscoe Stone's farm where we will see probably the best four acres of canning tomatoes in Western Kentucky and also a fine acre of club corn. After dinner and speaking we want to drive thru the bottom which will take only a short time.

CARD OF THANKS

When a man goes into a political race, he must take what the voters decide. I entered the race for county judge at a late date and made the best race I could in the short time that I had. The voters have rendered their verdict, and I wish to take this method of stating that I receive their verdict with the utmost good humor. I feel that I did make a good race, considering the time that I had, and I thank the many who aided me in my efforts. It was a real pleasure to get out and mix and mingle with the good people of Fulton and Fulton county, and I believe that the time was well spent. I take the verdict of the voters like a man and like a Democrat.

Again thanking one and all for the many favors shown me, I am,

Yours sincerely,
W. O. SHANKLE.

Carey-Reed Co. Awarded Street Improvement Contract.

At a meeting of the city council Tuesday night Carey-Reed Company, of Lexington, Ky., was awarded the contract to construct the following streets, their bid being the lowest of the three bids submitted for six inch reinforced concrete.

Park Avenue, from Second to Fourth, Green street from Edgings to Park Avenue, Valley street from Carr to Edgings, Arch street for the full length, Cedar street for the full length and McComb street from Arch to Walnut, Burton avenue from the Fulton Ice Company under the viaduct, is also included.

Lee Roberts was given the contract for laying the new water mains and putting in the service lines. His bid was something less than $4,000 for the work. While engaged on this contract he will be only partially connected with the fire department. Around 3,000 feet of new mains will be laid.

Hand us a dollar bill and get your name on the Advertiser list as a regular subscriber.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this method of expressing my deep appreciation for the many favors and the splendid vote given me in my race for sheriff of Fulton county. During my short campaign I was unable to see many of the good people of Fulton, and I want to take this method of telling all these that it is my intention to give the people the best service that I can while I am sheriff of the county. When I held the office on a previous occasion I tried to be a sheriff for all parts of the county, and I want to assure the people of Fulton that I shall strive to be the same sort of sheriff again, for the four years beginning January 1, 1930.

It is a pleasure to again get into the harness to serve the good people of Fulton county, and I want to ask for the fullest cooperation on the part of Fulton people in order that I may really render the best possible service to the people of the entire county.

Again thanking one and all, both those who voted for me and those who did not, for the many favors shown me, I am,

Yours sincerely,
GOALDER JOHNSON.

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY

I am taking this opportunity to thank all of my friends for their splendid support accorded me in the recent primary on August 3. I want to especially thank all of those who so loyally backed me and voted for me in Fulton, Kentucky. Also to the Railroad men let me tender thanks for the splendid service and whole hearted cooperation rendered to me in my campaign. Although a man may not be successful in a political campaign he has every right to feel grateful for the support of his friends. Let me also say that I fought a clean fight and that though defeated I have nothing whatever to be ashamed of and it was only through the work of those who were friends to me that I came through as well as I did. I want to assure you one and all that if, in the future I can be of any service to you do not fail to call on me and I shall do anything in my power to show genuine appreciation for all of the services which you have rendered me.

YOUR HOME TOWN

On a billboard in the city of Louisville, there appeared some months ago, these words:

"Just what you think of your home town is that town's opinion of you."

How true!

Take it home; think over it.
Take the men of your acquaintance, look them over. If they are boosters, if they have faith in their home town, if they love their home town, what does that town think of them? On the contrary, if they are knock-ers, if they have no faith in their town, if they are natural born or self made pessimists,

what does that town then think
of them?

When a man loses faith in his country, when he gets so he can see nothing but the handicaps of his home town, when he can do nothing but knock,
kick and hold back the progress of that town, he should sell out and get out. Ordinarily he does not have more than a few thousand dollars at the outside invested, and can easily dispose of his property, for there are always some who will gladly pay a good price for his holdings to get rid of him. And in most cases a town can well afford to chip in a bit to eliminate such an undesirable character.

If you are not satisfied with your home town, if you have a bad opinion of it, sell out and get out. For nine chances out of ten that town thinks the same of you.—Eminence Ky.

HIGH STANDARD OF LIVING

Good health and high standards of living are among the important benefits of railway service in the movement of foodstuffs, according to President L. A. Downs of the Illinois Central System.

For every seventy-five persons in the United States, the railroads transport annually
one carload of perishable foodstuffs, on the average, and the movement is growing every year. Sources of supply are increased, and seasonal shortages are overcome.

Good living for the producers of these foodstuffs—the farmers—is likewise brought about in no little degree by such service. Mr. Downs points out in his public statement. In fact, he says, for real aid to the farmer, the transportation provided by the railroads for both perishable and non-perishable farm products can scarcely be outclassed. It increases the farmer's sources of income by enabling him to go in for crops that otherwise could not be marketed. It also enables him to get better prices for such crops, since they can be shipped to the most favorable markets, regardless of distance.

CLUB WORK

By H. A. McPherson,

The West Kentucky Club
Camp opens at Cold Springs, about 6 miles north of Paducah on Monday, August 5. Every club member who is in good standing, is invited to spend the week at the camp. There will be a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce, Saturday morning, and all club
members are urged to attend.
We must know, Saturday, how many members are going to attend camp.

During the week, four club meetings were held and a large number of members signed up to go to the camp. It looks as if we are going to have a larger number than last year.

Moving Food By Rail

The railroads of the United States annually transport one carload of perishable foodstuffs for every seventy-five persons in the country, on the average, and the movement is growing every year.

The benefits of this service are far-reaching. For one thing, it greatly increases our food resources. Many foodstuffs that can be successfully produced only in certain localities are transported great distances to places where otherwise they could rarely or never be had. Other foodstuffs, such as fresh vegetables, which are in season locally for but a short period of the year, are brought to our tables from distant regions at other times, thus making them virtually year-round articles of diet. This broadening of the nation's food supply has been instrumental in raising our standards of living and making for better health.

This service also is farm relief of the most practical kind. It increases the farmer's sources of income by enabling him to go in for crops that otherwise could not be marketed. It also enables him to get better prices for such crops, since they can be shipped to the most favorable markets, regardless of distance. The fact is that for real aid to the farmer the transportation provided by the railroads
for both perishable and non-perishable farm products can scarcely be outclassed.

These benefits are typical of the outstanding value of railway service as a national asset. The protection of this asset is one reason for patronage of the railroads and for helpful public policies in matters of their welfare.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

This is the sixth annual camp in West Kentucky.

Only members of 4H clubs who have their projects up to date are permitted to attend the camp and its growing popularity is shown by the fact that twice as many attended from Fulton county this year as did last year, the first time Fulton county had any 4H club members to send. HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE LONG DISTANCE BILLS

YOU can reduce your bills for out-of-town calls by using station-to-station service. It is cheaper than person-to-person service, and it's usually quicker, too. You merely ask for a certain telephone—by number if possible—but do not ask for a particular person. Station-to-station rates are reduced during the evening and night periods—about one-fourth in the evening between 7 and 8:30, and about one-half at night between 8:30 P. M. and 4:30 A. M.

To place a station-to-station call you merely tell the operator that you wish to be connected with a certain telephone at the distant point, for example, Baltimore, Home-wood 3627. If you do not know the num-ber, be sure to tell the operator that you wish to place a station-to-station call for the telephone of J. H. Brown, 707 Arling-ton Avenue, Baltimore.

The person-to-person rate—when you ask for a particular person—is the same at all hours and is approximately twenty-five per-cent higher than the station-to-station day rate.

In most cases, station-to-station service will answer every need, and you will be sur-prised at the saving in your bill.

Foot-Loose Ambition

There is no credit in ambition that has no better destination than to get on or get honor in the world. The obvious rewards of success are sufficient to account for such vague stirrings of good intention, and these are as common as humanity. But a genuine ambition is fortified with some definite purpose. It is not alone concerned to be on its way but it also knows where it is going.

Ambition that has its way hitched to a specific star can chart its course, count its gains and losses and need waste little time. Foot-loose ambition can wander the world over and be back at last where it started. Genuine ambition finds happiness as its neighbor, since it guides a man in the path of plain work and constantly measures his capacity and courage against a scale of perceptible progress. Undisciplined ambition keeps company with discontent, since its hunger is never satisfied with the daily bread of small accomplishment.

Sound ambition may miss its mark but will not fail of its reward. But the mere shapeless desire for more and better possessions, easier living and un-earned honor is liable to remain forever satisfied. At bottom it is usually no more than bad-tem-pered rebellion against the suc-cess of others.

Hidden Treasure

So long as there is work to be done and the will and strength to do it, men must be choosing what master they will serve. They may prefer to pay alle-giance to the past, where old standards, old beliefs, old ideals ask their loyalty and service, or they may heed the lure of the future, where all that is new and strange and changed lives wait-ing.

Men are of these two sorts: Those who look backward for security and assurance and those who will gladly give yesterday to oblivion and trust their fate and fortune to tomorrow.

Men are grown old when to-morrow loses its desires for the unknown future. Yet he who wishes to hold on to youth need never lose it altogether, since any day that is to come may prove richer and more fruitful than a year that is gone.

Hidden treasures lies beyond the horizon of every new day. All that a man has done and known and experienced is but a little compared to what awaits him in the treasure chest of Time. He who keeps his courage will not be content with past rewards while the future is so rich in promise and possibility.

In Debt for a Car

A business writer says that re-tail merchants have been deterred from stocking up as usual "by their knowledge of the obliga-tions that many of their best cus-tomers have assumed in order to buy an automobile that they use."

Buying cars on time has been encouraged so much that it has become a general practice. And once in possession of a car the average owner will deprive him-self of almost anything else rather than give up his car.

It is a curious situation. Here is one great reason why the au-tomobile industry has made such a fine record in recent years—its lavish extension of credit. An obvious recourse of the makers and sellers of other form of mer-chandise is to give more credit themselves. But that is a very dubious solution.

Dressing to Please

A few days ago much space was given in the news to the claim that styles and cuts in fem-inine raiment are largely con-trolled by men. Now it appears that, to a large extent, women select and buy men's attire for store trade. That makes it about 50-50—and why not an admirable arrangement?

As a rule, the object of fasti-dious feminine dressers is at least to pass muster with the male element at reviewing sta-tions, and with the masculine peacocks it is the feminine ob-server whose praise is sought. The matter standing thus, it is a logical arrangement for women to wear clothes that men have designed and for men to deck themselves in raiment that wom-en have selected.

AUGUST

August brings a touch of fall. The sun is perceptible on its way south. Earlier it takes its candles through the woods and goes to bed. Evening may bring a sug-gestion of chill and a thought of a log fire. The changing season is depicted in the wild growth in the fields and woods, and there'll soon be wild grapes to gather.

The silk of the sweet corn is brown. Thickets are growing yellow. Soon a dried leaf will come tumbling out of the tree top. The old wheel is on another turn.

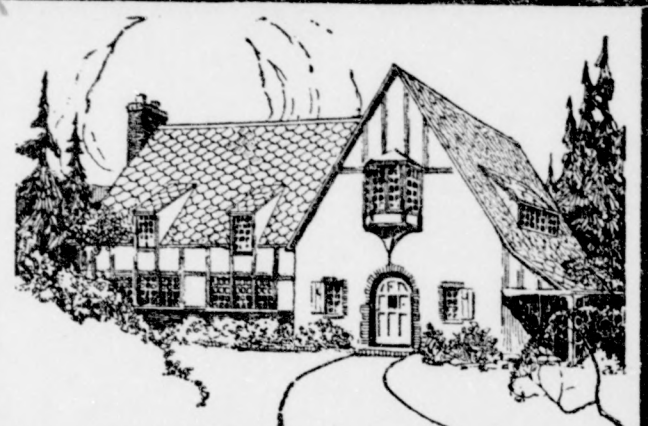

Alas! You couldn't enjoy the days of youth without the daze of youth.

The good old slogan, "Children first," would avert many a wreck on the sea of matrimony.

POULTRY

By J.T. Watkins

The Poultry Out-Look

Never before has there been such a brisk demand for standard-bred stock, eggs and chicks. The poultry industry has passed through a similar experience to that of the stock market of the past few weeks. Good stuff has been in great demand at increased prices. There is always a ready market for quality stock of every kind, whether in the stock market or in the poultry game.

Many circumstances have contrived to bring about this favorable situation in the poultry business. Climatic conditions contributed much to the cause. The severe cold weather lasting well up into March was a condition much to be desired. Hens went on a strike during the cold weather and thus forced the price of eggs, especially fresh ones, up to a relatively high position. The demand was good since the market was already quite depleted. The commercial hatcheries of the country found the eggs too high priced to experiment with and then, too, the cold weather made the experiment a dangerous one because the eggs were being incubated under unfavorable conditions.

In the case of the eggs hatched by the Agricultural Department of the Illinois Central System in South Mississippi 50 per cent or less of the eggs failed to incubate successfully. Many of the farmers along the Illinois Central System expected the condition to exist as last year, which did not materialize, and the disclosure of this was too late for those who had not placed their orders for chicks far enough in advance to secure any. Due to this situation the commercial hatcheries were overcrowded with orders for hatching and found themselves unable to take care of all the trade due to extremely poor hatches. Due to all these unfavorable circumstances, the hatcheries of the country found the biggest demand in years for their output.

The poultry industry like all other industries has found that the buying of bargain counter goods is poor business. Bargain counter chicks are no exception to the rule. It is a poor investment on the part of the farmer or poultry raiser. It pays in the end to buy quality poultry. The demand for summer and fall pullets is already manifesting itself. But where, oh where can the pullets be found? Who has a supply of high quality laying pullets for sale? If you have a supply for sale, write Farm and Factory advising what you have to offer. Every farmer should provide himself with a good flock of quality pullets, but he should not overdo the matter. He should take the matter well poised and with understanding.

The above editorial was taken from the July number of Farm and Factory, a monthly magazine printed and issued by the Illinois Central, and I am having it run to show you farmers that I am not the only one who is preaching the doctrines of Standard bred poultry. The poultry buyers for the large concerns realize the best carcasses to dress for the market comes from the Standard bred bird. They know if they can get a person interested in Standard bred poultry, they will take better care of their flock and produce birds for the market.

We haven't got very much to say this week about the show, but rather we would devote the space to preaching our two slogans to you, 100 Standard bred hens on every farm. Make Fulton County the BEST poultry county in the state. What do you think of these two slogans? Are you farmers in favor of it, and are you business men of Fulton and Hickman in favor of it? We can do it if we all pull together.

Save all the best pullets you can raise, mate them to a Standard bred bird of the same breed, and see how your flock will improve. Pick out a cock bird from some breeder who has a flock of BRED-TO-LAY and let him head your breeding pen for a couple of years and watch the improvement.

If you have a lot of scrub roosters on your farm sell them and save on your food bill. You know like begets like and if you breed from scrub roosters you will raise scrub chickens, so sell ALL the scrubs, and invest in some standard bred stuff and begin to prosper.

The cow, the hen, the sow is a combination that can not be beaten.

If you haven't paid your dues for the year 1929, get busy and pay up.

Dr. C. P. Coogle of U.S.P. A. Service in Fulton County

Dr. C. P. Coogle of the United States Public Health Service, stationed at Greenwood, Miss., and one of the foremost authorities on Malaria, was in Fulton county Monday and Tuesday of this week, starting a campaign to eradicate this disease from our community, in connection with a similar campaign that is now being conducted in the so-called Malaria belt all up and down the Mississippi Valley.

On Monday representatives of the Health Departments of other West Kentucky counties came to Fulton county to be with Dr. Coogle and learn the technique of Malaria control work, so that they could start the campaigns in their own counties. Those present were: Dr. Charles Hunt, health officer of Hickman county; Dr. R. K. Galloway, health officer of Carlisle county; W. A. Page, sanitary inspector of Ballard county; G. W. Nichols, sanitary inspector of Hickman county; and Eugene Weatherford, sanitary inspector of Carlisle county. Dr. H. E. Prather, Fulton county Health officer, Miss Clemens, Fulton county nurse and Mr. Yates, Fulton county sanitary inspector, accompanied the group.

Monday Dr. Coogle visited the Phillips colored school in the lower bottom and the Roper District school, and demonstrated to the health officers and inspectors, the methods of getting over Malaria propaganda to the children, and the methods of getting blood tests, in order to tell which children are infected with Malaria. Monday night Dr. Coogle spoke to the Hickman City council and the Advisory council of the Health Department. Tuesday he appeared before the Fulton county fiscal court; Tuesday noon blood tests were taken of 100 Mengel employees and Tuesday afternoon was spent in Fulton, taking blood tests and meeting various public officials and civic leaders.

The following resolution was adopted by the Fiscal court, the Hickman City council and the Fulton city council:

Be it resolved that, realizing Malaria is prevalent among our people, that it is a preventable disease and an unnecessary burden on the community, that, we go on record as approving the methods of Malaria control adopted by the Fulton county Health Department in their campaign to eradicate the disease, and that we call on our people to give them every possible cooperation and their moral support.

Whereas, it is known that malaria is transmitted by mosquitoes and that the Malaria mosquito must first get the infecting organism from a person who is a Malaria carrier, before it is a dangerous mosquito; it is necessary to protect everyone from the bites of these mosquitoes. Therefore people should live in houses properly screened and every effort should be made to destroy mosquito breeding places, and all persons infected with Malaria should be properly treated continuously until cured.

Dr. Coogle pointed out that only the spotted winged mosquito carried Malaria germs, that they bite only at night, when everything is quiet, and that proper screening of houses is the best, cheapest and most effective method of control. He pointed out that we have hordes of Yellow Fever mosquitoes here, we have no yellow fever, because there are no infected persons for the mosquitoes to bite, and that the same condition can be effected in regard to Malaria, if the people want to eradicate this disease, which takes such a heavy toll all up and down the valley each year, costing the various communities millions of dollars.

However, he also stressed the destruction of mosquito breeding places, such as stagnant ponds and sloughs, tin cans, bottles, dumps, rain barrels, and other places where mosquitoes lay eggs for the mosquito must have stagnant water to lay eggs in. In the campaign to wipe out Malaria in Lake county, Tenn., a screen factory was established at Tip-topville, and they have offered to make screens for Fulton county landowners at cost. The local Health Department will measure the houses, order the screens, transport them to the place and supervise their hanging. It is hoped ever person in the county will cooperate to make this campaign a success.

YOUNG OFFICIALS IN YOUTHFUL INDUSTRY

The announcement the other day of the list of officers for the Radio Victor Corporation of America, just formed to handle the sales and distribution of the products of the Radio Corporation and the Victor Talking Machine Company, shows a preponderance of youthful officials in this company which combines the interests of two of the biggest and youngest industries.

David Sarnoff, executive vice-president of the Radio Corporation, who is chairman of the Board of Radio-Victor, is 38 years old. Incidentally, he climbed to his present high position from a start as a messenger boy. An average of well under middle age is maintained by the other officials: J. L. Ray, President; L. E. Lambert, Vice-President and General Counsel; A. E. Roesch, Vice-President in charge of Production, Service and Traffic; H. C. Grubb's, Vice-President of the Victor Talking Machine Division; Quinton Adams, Vice-President of the Engineering Products Division; Meade Brunet, Vice-President of the Radiotron Division; E. A. Nicholas, Vice-President of the Radiola Division; E. C. Grimsley, Treasurer and Comptroller, and Francis S. Kane, Secretary.

RADIO ENTHUSIASTS WELCOME NEW TUBES

Radio amateurs have shown a quick response to the new rugged rectifier Radiotron with a low and constant voltage drop which just has been put on the market by the Radio Corporation of America. The new tube, Radiotron UX-366, is of the hot-cathode, mercury vapor type, and the makers assert it is establishing a new standard of performance for the amateur transmitter operating with a rectified plate supply.

A four electrode, screen grid tube, with new features.

It is ample in current capacity and, in half or full wave circuit connections, is especially suited for supplying the transmitter with stable rectified plate voltage—key up or key down. It operates at relatively low temperature, and no starting mechanism is required.

Two other interesting new tubes which just have been introduced by the Radio Corporation are Radiotron UX-245 and Radiotron UY-221. Radiotron UX-245 is a power amplifier tube for supplying large undistorted output to the loud speaker. It is capable of delivering a power output equal to that of the UX-219, but at a plate voltage not exceeding 250 volts. The tube can be used only with apparatus especially designed for it and is intended for use in the last audio amplifying stage of power line operated sets which supply not more than 2.5 volts to the last audio socket, as well as proper grid and plate voltages. The filament is of the coated ribbon type, which assures great strength and high emission.

Radiotron UY-224 is a four electrode, screen grid amplifier tube embodying a 2.5 volt heater element which permits operation from alternating current. It is recommended for use primarily as a radio frequency amplifier in circuits especially designed for it, but it may be used also in special circuits as a detector or as an audio frequency amplifier. The fourth electrode, the screen, in the new UY-224 makes possible the attainment of very high and stable amplification per stage.

FELLOWSHIPS FOR RADIO LAW WORK

A striking illustration of the rapid growth in the radio field is seen in the recent announcement by the Radio Corporation of America of three fellowships of $1,500 each at Columbia University Law School to provide for an additional year of study of the intricacies of Federal laws, especially those pertaining to radio problems.

The board of trustees at the university has approved and the fellows will be chosen soon to start work next Fall. The awards are offered for one year only as an experiment.

Shell Shock

HAVE you ever suffered from shell shock? No, we don't mean the effect of a war time barrage, but the weariness that comes from shelling a great part of peas. It's a hard chore during the summer, when all of outdoors is so bright and stirring. And it is a very disappointing one when, at the end of your toiling, you find that you have only half as many peas as you had anticipated, because so many of the pods were meagrely filled. In the words of the vaudeville song that is so much in vogue just now, "There ought to be a law against that!"

How to Avoid It

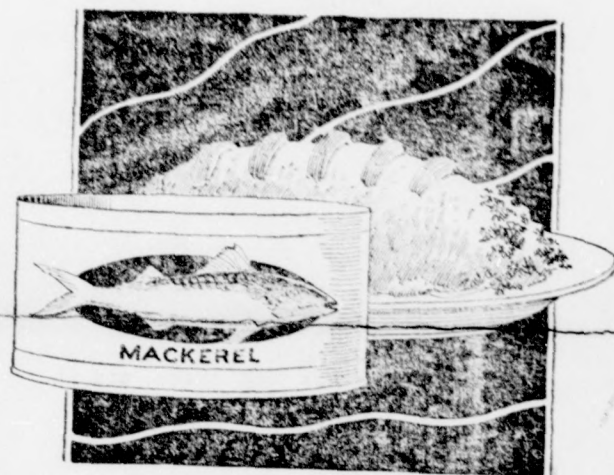

Fortunately, we can dispense with much of our shelling, certainly for all dishes that are flavored with peas. Canned peas are more satisfactory to use than fresh peas, for the former are always tender and good. Fresh peas are sometimes temperamental and often they will cook hard and tough.

Canned peas combine with other foods to make delicious salads and luncheon and dinner dishes. Here is a recipe of which your family will approve highly.

Canned Peas with Parsi: Because of their effective contrasting colors, carrots and peas are always a favorite combination. Cut in halves, lengthwise, large even sized carrots, and cook until tender, in boiling salted water. Drain. Scoop out the centers and sprinkle cavities with salt. Heat a can of peas, drain, season well with salt, pepper and butter, and pile in the carrot boats. Stick a parsley chip in one end to simulate a tail.

The New Mackerel Industry

AND now they're canning mackerel and having a hard time supplying the market. What will California be canning next? After two years of experiment, the canning of fish at San Pedro, Wilmington and San Diego has developed with great rapidity, and has reached a position recently which justifies its classification as a thriving new Southern California industry. The output for this season amounts already to more than 4,800,000 cans.

Fish Are Plentiful

It isn't lack of fish, but lack of machinery which makes it difficult to supply the demand at present. According to some packers and fishermen the fish are available the year round, immediately off shore, and in apparently unlimited quantities. One packer declares, according to the "Pacific Fisherman," that the catch can be doubled on a day's notice to those engaged in it.

Canning methods, though varying slightly, are almost identical with those used for salmon, employing the same procedure of exhausting and processing. Canned salmon is one of the staple foods of this country, and one reason for its popularity is its comparative cheapness. Scientists tell us that sea foods made by nature are cheaper than the foods cultivated by man on the farm. But, after all, taste is the test, and we wouldn't eat salmon or mackerel if they didn't tickle our palate as well as appeal to our purse.

For The Vegetarian

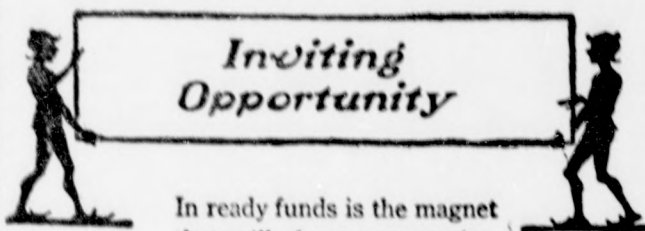

IT'S a long time since vegetarians have had to vegetate in the country to get their vegetables. Nearly all kinds of these succulent foods are now available ready prepared in cans. But it was not until some fourteen hundred years after Nebuchadnezzar was turned out to grass "like the kine" that the Frenchman Nicholas Appert, discovered the process which has enabled vegetarians to become city dwellers.

At the present time there are thirty or forty different kinds of vegetables canned, several combinations and varieties of many of them, and more kinds are being added to the canned menu every year. Some of the principal vegetables which are universally and always available in canned form in this country are artichokes, asparagus, beans, beets, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, corn, hominy, kale, lentils, mushrooms, olives, onions, peas, peppers, pickles, pimientos, potatoes, pumpkin, sauerkraut, spinach, squash, tomatoes, turnips and wholewheat.

A Healthy Diet

Not only can the city dweller get all of the canned vegetables he wants, but he has the assurance of scientists that they are equal in nutritive qualities and superior in vitamin content to fresh vegetables cooked in open receptacles by the usual home methods. This is because canned vegetables are processed in hermetically sealed containers, and the oxygen which attacks their vitamin content is excluded.

Promoting Safety

Ceaseless in its efforts to promote safety, the Illinois Central System has introduced a plan whereby that vital subject is placed upon a competitive basis, according to the August issue of the Illinois Central Magazine. The 20 divisions of the system are now engaged in a contest for a huge silver cup offered by President L. A. Downs. This cup will be awarded to the division making the greatest reduction in casualties during 1929 below the average number casualties on each division for 1926, 1927 and 1928. For succeeding years the comparison will be made with the year immediately preceding. If any one division succeeds in maintaining the greatest casualty reduction for three consecutive years, the cup becomes the permanent possession of that division.

Ballard Reports Dairy Progress

Production-bred bulls and better cows are helping further interest in dairying in Ballard county, according to County Agent L. C. Pace, who made the following report to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky:

"Purebred bulls pay on the farm of Hayes Wolfe, a member of the Ballard County Dairy Herd Improvement Association. He has five heifers by a purebred Jersey bull brought into the county a few years ago. These 5 heifers averaged 50 pounds of fat last month, with one producing 55 pounds. They are giving more milk and making more butterfat than their dams did when they mature. King and Lovelace, another member of the association, own a cow by this bull which produced 581 pounds of fat in a year.

"Three more registered bulls have been placed at the head of Ballard county herds. William Brockman bought a bull calf out of a state champion cow to head his herd of high producing cows. Calep Gray bought a four-year old Raleigh-bred bull that has high producing dams for three generations behind him. His 3 nearest dams averaged 525 pounds of fat. L. N. Trimble has bought a registered Holstein bull for a bunch of high-grade heifers.

"King and Lovelace have been notified that they own the senior three-year-old state champion Jersey, her record being 460 pounds of butter in 305 days. This means that two state champions have been produced in Ballard county. The other one is owned by Wayne Rudolph."

Robert Gill, a Todd county farmer, cut 3 tons of sweet and red clover hay to the acre.

Fischer Bros., Hardin county farmers, report a yield of 20 bushels of wheat per acre, in a rotation of corn, wheat and sweet clover, with a heavy growth of clover turned under. Corn in the rotation has averaged 55 bushels.

Forty-eight 4-H dairy calf club boys and girls in Christian county own Jersey calves. Six others own purebred Hereford calves, while 17 are raising hogs and 29 are raising poultry.

Farmers in Parksville community in Boyle county plan to expand their raspberries acreage to hold a show next year and to organize a marketing association.

One of the heaviest yields of clover and timothy hay ever harvested in Lee county was cut this year on the farm of Jake Howerton. It was on land that had been treated with limestone and phosphate a few years ago.

Jefferson county junior agricultural club members have organized a 4-H club certified potato association. Each member planted three barrels of certified seed.

Montgomery seed dealers sold 5,400 bushels of soybean seed, or enough to sow 3,600 acres, an increase of 53 percent over last year's acreage.
