Reasons for Supporting O'Rear

(Rev. H. B. Taylor, in News and Truths.)

Practically every decision of our highest court upholding the constitutionality of the county unit law has been written by Judge O'Rear; at Ashland, Richmond (Gov. McCreary's own town, where he not only did not speak but in three elections did not vote) and other East Kentucky points Judge O'Rear spoke for prohibition; in his Conference some years ago he introduced a resolution favoring state-wide prohibition; in his own party he fought the allied liquor interests and won the nomination in spite of their efforts and money; one the floor of the convention which nominated him, he refused to accept the nomination unless a trustworthy friend of the county unit was put on the ticket for Lieut. Governor; and he is making his fight on this and other state issues, in which the people of Kentucky are or ought to be a great deal more interested than national ones of 1912. They charge him with insincerity. Judged by his past record (the only thing a man can be rightly judged by) the charge is baseless. But when did any reformer ever run for office that they did not charge him with insincerity? They charged Joe Folk with insincerity as to enforcement of the Sunday-closing law, but they found out he meant it. They charged Frank Cheney with insincerity as to his fight on grafters and with the money of the grafters they beat him. They charged Beckham with insincerity in his support of the county unit and with whisky money, if with anybody's, they beat him. They charged Ed Carmack with insincerity and with whisky money they beat him but he camped on their trail until they killed him. Name one man in America in recent years that has stood out against the "powers-that-be" for a cleaning up and it can be easily shown that they made exactly the same kind of a fight on him that they are making on O'Rear today. If they really think the whisky interests are back of him, why don't they accept his challenge for show down ten days before the election? If they think the whisky interests have contributed anything to his campaign fund, why don't "Marse Henry," Urey Woodson, Ollie James or some of the other leaders agree to compare receipts of county and state campaign committees ten days before the election? Democrats like Mr. Bryan claim to believe in publishing of the receipts for campaign purposes both before and after the elections. Strange that Kentucky Democrats should be "limping" so far in the rear on this cardinal Democratic doctrine, especially when challenged to it by a Republican, unless they are afraid to let the people see their receipts, for fear their books will show that J. M. Atherton, Frank Fehr, John Whallen and many other notorious whisky men are the largest contributors to their campaign fund.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

I Submit a Few Views on Important Matter of The Day.

In last weeks issue of the Ledger I made my announcement and told the people I had declared myself a Socialist. I don't think anyone should be anything without having some good reasons for same, therefore I gave some of my reasons for being a Socialist but not all of them and as I have no paper behind me it will be impossible for me to give scarcely any of them in this way. I wish to say my argument is backed by the best authority we can find. I give one here. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the United States Treasurer, under Theodore Roosevelt made the following statement in an address to the students of Chicago University on March 1, 1907:

"When our manufactures grow bigger than the United States then there will be war, the bloodiest war in the history of mankind. The time is coming when the manufactures will outgrow the country, and men by the hundreds of thousands will be turned out of factories. That of itself is not so bad, but when we realize that we pay out in wages as much as all the rest of the world put together, we begin to see the seriousness of the situation."

"The factories are multiplying faster than our trade, we will shortly have a surplus with no one abroad to buy, and with no one at home to absorb it, because the laborer has not been paid enough to buy back what he created. What will happen then? Why, these men will be turned out of the factories. Thousands of them—hundreds of thousands. They will find themselves without food. Then will come the great danger to the country, for these men will be hard to deal with."

"The last century was the worst in the world's history for wars, I look to see this century bring out the greatest conflict ever waged in the world. It will be a war for markets and all the nations of the world will be in the fight, as they are all after the same markets for the surplus of their factories."

"Our great source of danger is in the unearned increase of our wealth. I admit that I have profited by that source myself but I realize now that it is all wrong. I remember the first time I was guilty of getting something for nothing. I bought a piece of land in Iowa and sold it in a short time for a large advance. I admit that those dollars looked good to me then. Now I know that no lasting good can come from the possession of wealth that was not earned."

By public ownership we can save this conflict Mr. Shaw prophesies will come. So vote the Socialist ticket and save your boys' life in a bloody war."

YOUNG GLOVER TAKES OWN LIFE.

Becomes Despondent And Swallows Morphine Saturday Night.

Sam Glover, a young man 23 years of age, a resident of the community of Hazel, Ky., committed suicide Saturday night at the home of relatives in Duke-doin, by swallowing a quantity of morphine.

Glover had been in Duke-doin for the past few days on a visit with relatives and seemed to be in a cheerful mood.

The rash act was committed some time Saturday night, it not being known till Sunday morning, when the body was found in bed.

The young man was a prominent young farmer of his home community. No reason for the taking of his life has been ascertained, no note or anything being left to give the slightest clue.

Glover had been married but at the time of his death was a widower.

The funeral services took place Sunday afternoon at Lawrence graveyard and was attended by a large number of friends of the deceased.

The tragedy was an unusually sad one, as the young man was a very bright fellow and made many friends wherever he went. —Fulton Leader.

Damaged by Lightning.

About 7 o'clock Monday morning during a thunder shower the homes of Clay G. Beale, on Institute street, and Herbert Wall's new home, on South Curd street, were struck by lightning and both damaged to considerable extent.

A chimney on the Beale residence was struck and the volt was conducted down into the house and a mantel was dislodged from the wall and the plastering was also damaged.

The damage to Mr. Wall's residence will amount to about $150. It is fortunate that the house was not occupied at the time as the bolt caused damage in each room and was of sufficient force to kill any person who might have been in the building at the time.

ADMIT DEFEAT OF M'CREARY.

When He Harked Back to Goebel Trouble Defeat Was Result.

A special news item sent out from Louisville and published in the Memphis Commercial-Appel one of the leading democratic newspapers of the south, is open admission that McCreary will be overwhelmingly defeated by Judge O'Rear. We publish following the article which appeared last Sunday:

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14.—After having an apparent lead of a few thousand votes over his opponent, Edward C. O'Rear, Republican nominee for governor, former Senator James B. McCreary, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, has hazarded his chances of election next month, according to Democrats, by harking back to the days of the Goebel trouble and in asserting that Judge O'Rear had made a statement to the effect that armed men should oppose the contest of Senator Goebel.

Up until the time of the statement of Senator McCreary he was enjoying the prospect of being elected by a comfortable majority, but even Democratic leaders are grave over the situation which is confronting the party at present.

After the speech of Senator McCreary in which he made the above statement Judge O'Rear entered a denial and now Senator McCreary is, according to the Republicans, trying to make the best of a grave mistake. The speeches which have been made during the past week have been filled with references to the notorious contest during which Gov. Goebel was assassinated. Apparently Judge O'Rear has made a number of votes through the Goebel speech of the Democratic nominee and it will be with only a great amount of labor that the state may go Democratic this fall.

Up until this week, according to every report, the Democrats were gaining steadily and with clear sailing would be able to carry every state office in November. Twice before Senator McCreary has weathered some grave questions, and if he had followed the advice of one Democratic leader, the Madison county politician would have stuck to national issues alone and merely touched upon a few of the points laid open by Gov. Wilson through his administration during the past four years.

Every effort is being bent toward getting harmony within the ranks of the party again before election day. Twice during the campaign a split has threatened the Democrats and both times it has been bridged over and it is feared that another breach will cost the Democrats the state this fall and again in 1912 unless the leaders can get Senator McCreary to leave several issues alone.

The state during the past week has been the scene of one of the most vituperative fights which has been seen in Kentucky in many a year and the outcome of statements which have been made freely by both sides will be watched with great interest all over the country. Every indication points toward a bitter struggle from now until the election next month. The campaign is now bordering on the "waste-basket" variety and new charges are being made daily by both candidates for governor.

Senator McCreary, after touring the bluegrass section, went down into the western part of the state, in the "Pennyrite" district, to ask the aid of the First district Democrats in redeeming the state from the hold of the Republicans. It was while there that he created a sensation by stating that in a conference in January, 1900, at the old Galt House in Louisville, of a number of Republicans and Democrats who had been called together by Gov. W. S. Taylor to ask what should be done regarding the contest of Senator Goebel; that Judge O'Rear had advised the use of arms in advocating the rights of the Republican nominee, who had been given the commission as governor by the election board. Following up his statement, Senator McCreary said that he had two men who were in the conference who would bear out his statement regarding the speech of Judge O'Rear. He mentioned Judge Alex P. Humphrey, of Louisville as one of the men present.

When Judge Humphrey, who was out of the city when the charge was made, and who is a rank partisan and exceedingly enthusiastic in his support of McCreary, returned to Louisville he absolutely refused to either affirm or deny the charge made by McCreary, and by his refusal has given the McCreary charge the lie.

Pity that McCreary, bowed and bent with the years of three quarters of a century, with a hoary head whitened by the frost of as many winters, should desecrate the grave of Gov. Goebel and bring forth his skeleton with the hope of again arousing the prejudices of the people and blinding them to the issues of the present campaign. The time of the bloody shirt is forever buried in the recesses of the past.

He Has Changed, Also

When O. J. Jennings, of Murray, the recently converted (?) Republican nominee for the State Senate in this district, comes into this county the last of this month asking our people to vote for him, just ask him how much the Republican Campaign Committee gave him, besides the Republican nomination, to make this race. —Cádiz Record.

The Record is fast becoming a peer of the Calloway Times in editorial brilliancy. If we mistake not it was the editor of the Record who some short season back was so solicitous that Jennings and Keys carry the Calloway county committee election steal to the state central committee that the Record editor might have honest opportunity to make the race in this district for the nomination for state senator. When we consented to aid Mr. Lawrence in every honorable way possible he knew our position regarding the matter and knows that we declared in his presence that we never would support Glenn because his nomination was stolen for him by a gang of political pirates, and if we mistake not Mr. Lawrence acquiesced in our declaration. In the face of all that we did for you Mr. Lawrence, in the face of your promised friendship and fidelity it becomes you to make the insinuation that we have been purchased.

We favor honest nomination, honest elections and before we will be a traitor to such declarations, be a traitor to friends and the masses of the people we will desert, for the time being, any political party and seek refuge where there is opportunity of redress.

Mr. Lawrence you are as well versed in the travesty upon common decency that was pulled off in this county, this district and by the state central committee in the name of democracy as is the editor of the Ledger. You know that more than 2,000 as good democrats as ever cast a ballot were disfranchised by as corrupt a political gang as ever existed here in Calloway; and then you also know that S. R. Glenn owes his nomination to the same political theft. You further know, better than we, the action of the state central committee in sustaining the action of Berry, who made this steal and shame possible. You know better than we that Newman, state central committeeman from the Fifth district, was compelled to resign by John Whallen and Frank Fehr, who are behind the whisky combine of Louisville, and how other members of the state committee were purchased like sheep, in order that Berry's decision in this county be sustained and your ambition to be senator be thwarted. You know that all of this political debauchery was committed for the single purpose of electing Glenn to the state senate, and, sir, we fail to understand how you can honestly and conscientiously fail to support our candidacy, and why you would fling personal insult toward our integrity.

For the Hostess

The Yarn Charm to Find Partners.
One of the oldest stunts for Halloween was to find one's future mate by the aid of a ball of yarn. A maiden was to take a ball of yarn and toss it through an open window and then hold the end in her hand and walk away. If she was to carry with her the ball would be picked up by the man inside, who began to wind up the yarn and thus draw her back to him. A young matron should use this method of finding partners for her Halloween supper, which is to be served at 8:30. Knowing the preference of her guests, she will have the right man for each maid concealed in the garage. One at a time the girls will be given a ball of yarn, there being one ball for each girl, and she is to go alone through the yard, which is to be lighted only with "jacks" in the trees. When the man winds up his maiden, who is instructed not to drop her end no matter what happens, they will go out a rear door of the garage and into the house by a side entrance. Then the next man is slipped into the hiding place and another girl started to meet her fate. There are to be ten couples, so this will add much to the fun and mystery. If the details as given here are not practical, the same scheme may be worked by throwing the ball over a transom or over a banister door stairs.

Recipe for Chop Suey.
I give the recipe for chop suey which is fine to serve at Halloween feasts. The rice is to be eaten with chop sticks, which are to be retained as souvenirs, each pair being tied with red ribbon.
One five-pound chicken.
One pound and a half of tender beef.
One pound of celery.
Two pounds of bean sprouts.
One ounce of Chinese sauce, known as soy.
One can of mushrooms.
Salt, thickening.
Cook the chicken and beef together till they are very tender, take out all the bones, add the mushrooms, onions sliced in very thin slices, the celery sliced in thin pieces, and do not cook very long; then add the bean sprouts and the thickening, and last the soy. Enough for ten people.
To obtain the bean sprouts soak beans in water till they absorb it all, then keep them damp and in a very warm place. The sprouts come very quickly, so there is plenty of time to prepare them. Soy may be purchased at a large grocery or at a Chinese store, lacking this, use Worcester's shire sauce. Serve the chop suey in bowls with rice and the tea in cups without handles. For the table centerpiece have a witch's kettle with incense burning inside.

New and Old Tricks.
"We are tired of bobbing for apples," said a young devotee of the department who was asking me for new stunts for Oct. 31. But did you ever bob for them prepared in this way? In a light zinc tub which may be brought from the laundry put at least a dozen red apples, and in four of them conceal a ring, a thimble, a button and a coin. Just press the apples, carefully into the fruit, and the mutilation is not discernible in the water. The boy or girl getting the ring will be married or engaged with in the year. The thimble means no such luck; the one getting it must remain single or unmarried for another twelve months. The coin means wealth and the button means one's own exertions.

Who remembers the old trick of trying to get a coin out of a pan of flour with the teeth, the hands being tied behind the back? This is a laughable sight. Sometimes a wedding ring is concealed in the flour, and the one getting it will be married within the year. Of course, the coin denotes wealth.

Party Given in Barn.
I must tell you briefly of one party to be given in a barn, where the decorations will be branches of autumn leaves, which remain brilliant in the country far longer than in town. There are to be grinning "jacks" set on posts along the driveway, and inside the barn all the lanterns are to have electric lights to avoid possibility of fire. Cucumbers, squash and many other vegetables are to be made into lanterns and candle holders. The hostess is to dress as an old witch, and all the girls are to have witchy hats, surmounted by black cats, presented to them. The boys will wear hats of scarlet and adorned with horns.

A Chinese feast is to be served at a table where black and scarlet drag- on will run rampant. The part of the barn reserved for the party is to be gay with Chinese lanterns, fans, screens and parasols.

A Halloween Party Invitation.
Use a Halloween post card or a pumpkin-shaped card and write the following jingle for an invitation to a party on Oct. 31. It is appropriate for either children or grown-ups:
If you are on Monday night,
You will surely see a witch,
Ghosts and goblins, witches, too,
Are busy preparing fates for you.
The hour is 8, don't be late,
But come—be brave at any rate.

Halloween Cakes.
Often a few novel recipes have to creep into the department, so now for these very unusual and seasonal rules. First for "Jack o'lantern" cakes: From a plain loaf cake baked in a sheet cut pumpkin-shaped cakes about two and a half inches wide and two inches thick and ice with frosting colored yellow, with the yolk of eggs or with saffron. While the icing is still moist, insert two small red candles for the eyes and nose and a row of them for the teeth.
For the "clock faced" cakes, buy a few vanilla wafers, coat with vanilla frosting at 1 let them dry. With melted chocolate and a new small paint brush, you make the numerals of the clock, the hands in the center pointing to midnight, "the witching hour." Children adore these confections, which require only a little time and patience. I am sure every mother is more than willing to do this.

IN VOGUE

Green is the ruling favorite for evening gowns.
Three piece suits of serge are in great favor.
White serge has jumped into favor with a bound.
Skirts show a decided tendency toward drapery.
There seems to be no end of black velvet gowns.
Satin continue to hold a firm position in fashion.
Rows of tiny buttons are used on wraps and gowns.
The director coat may be a feature of fall fashions.

Invalid's Bed Shelf

Anything that tends to the comfort and ease of an invalid, who may for a long period be confined to bed, is well worth attention, and our sketch illustrates a capital suggestion that may be carried out without much difficulty.
The bed should be placed in the corner of the room against the wall, and a shelf about nine inches wide by two feet six inches long, fastened to the wall in the position shown. This may be easily done, and a piece of board of the size mentioned should be procured, and three brackets of the kind shown in the sketch fastened to the wall, and the shelf can then be secured by the three brackets, and the shelf can then be securely nailed to the wall.
Diagram "B" shows the under side of the shelf and indicates the position in which the three brackets should be fastened. For appearance sake, a little sounce of some pretty, cretonne can be tacked all round the edge of the shelf, and the material may easily be arranged so that it forms a tiny frill at the top with a flounce hanging down underneath.
A shelf of this kind will prove the greatest boon to an invalid, again it may be kept well within reach all these little things in the shape of books, papers, watch, glass, etc., are always so necessary for the invalid to have handy, and who may then obtain them with the least possible exertion.

Tenodera Sinensis Has Appeared in This Country.

Curiosity From the Orient, Said to Have Been Imported by Green House Owners to Destroy Insects.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Tenodera Sinensis or Chinese Mantid is in our midst nowadays and the insect experts at the Academy of Natural Sciences on Logan Square have been kept busy recently answering questions as to what the queer-looking insects are and where they come from. Philadelphia is about the only American city that is the home of the Chinese Mantid. About 10 years ago a number of the insects were brought to this city from China on some plants that had been imported by the Meehan Nurseries, in Germantown. Gradually the mantids spread through Germantown, and are now rather abundant north of Market street. That they will in time spread throughout the city and suburbs, and, perhaps, in time throughout the country, seems probable.

The mantid, according to Dr. Henry Skinner, of the Academy of Natural Sciences, has no sting, but has a rather large mouth and will bite if annoyed. Several weeks ago a woman living in Germantown became terrified when one of the insects flew against her arm. She declared that the bug stung her and that her arm was badly swollen for several days.

Not a day has passed that several persons with the insects in bottles have not come to the Academy to have their pets examined. The mantid lives on smaller insects, such as flies, mosquitoes and gnats. According to Dr. Skinner, the bug is really valuable. The eggs of the mantid are laid in autumn and hatch in spring. About the last of August the mantid becomes full grown and lives until cold weather. In size the bugs range from two to six inches long. They are very peculiar in appearance and are sometimes called Praying Mantids, Soothsayers and the Prophet Bugs. It is said the Chinese tell their fortunes from the actions of the insects. The name Praying Mantid comes from the fact that the insects hold their two front legs, which are very short, in a praying position, and often work them rapidly back and forth. The most peculiar parts of the bug are its eyes and long neck. The eyes are like miniature shoe buttons on the outside of the insect's head, and in proportion to its size are very large. The neck shoots out from the body and forms about one-third the length of the bug, ranging from one to two inches. The mantid can fly, has green wings, a brown glossy back and long feathery protruding from its head. All together it is not a friendly looking beast. Recently, it is said, the owners of greenhouses in this country have imported the insects to use in destroying insects in their greenhouses.

AGED LOVERS PART AT ALTAR

Kansas Couple Quarrel Over Property Within an Hour of Time, for Wedding.

Lawrence, Kan.—Instead of wedding bells for James W. Faxon, 67 years old, and Mrs. L. J. Speary, 61½ years old, there is to be a suit for breach of promise. An hour before they were to be married the preacher was notified he was not wanted.
The couple fell out over a pre-nuptial contract. Each is well-to-do and their comfortable homes are on opposite sides of the street. Mrs. Speary went east when the wedding was declared off and her attorney has just filed suit for her and has asked an injunction restraining Faxon from disposing of his property. Mrs. Speary estimates the damages to her heart at $10,000.

Gentlemen:
I will say in answer to your inquiry, that I am glad to recommend your remedy called PO-MO-NA for consumption. I was affected with a cough for fifteen years, and PO-MO-NA was recommended to me. I have taken about two bottles and am so much improved that I feel that one or two more bottles will entirely cure me. My cough is much better and I have gained quite a lot of flesh. I can safely say it is the best tonic and the greatest system builder on earth.
Yours truly,

Hillocks of Vegetables.

At this time of the year farmers are busy making miniature mountains on their holdings, mountains that will be scattered over the countryside before the winter is over.

The mountains in question are those formed of vegetable products that must be kept for several months and sold as occasion requires. Potatoes, beet roots, carrots and turnips are raised from the ground in September and stored.

The farmer calls his hillock of vegetables a "clump." He makes it on a piece of high ground near the homestead, so that it may not be flooded, and many a big grower has clamps a quarter of a mile long.

First a shallow ditch is dug on the piece of land selected. The base of this is lined with straw, and upon the straw the roots are heaped up firmly and carefully, till they resemble an elongated cone.

Over the sides of the cone more straw is laid, and on that again earth or better still, turf, with their grassy sides inwards. Bricks will not keep out frost, but straw will, and a well-made clump is frost proof and also damp proof.

Some Shakespeare Statistics.

A Shakespearean enthusiast with a turn for statistics has discovered that the plays contain 106,007 lines and $14,740 words. "Hamlet" is the longest play, with 2,320 lines, and the "Comedy of Errors" the shortest, with 1,777 lines. Altogether the plays contain 1,227 characters, of which 157 are females. The longest part is that of Hamlet. The part with the longest word in it is that of Costard in "Love's Labor Lost," who tells Moth that he is "not so long by the head as honor's flexibility of the brain."

POOR OLD HAS BEEN.

John S. Rhen, from somewhere in Kentucky, came down to Murray last Saturday to make a speech. He backed the Calloway fair and as a result about thirty-five or forty of the faithful gathered themselves together in the court house to hear John. His speech is reported the most amusing spectacle that was ever pulled off in Calloway. Poor old John made attempt to make a real, died-in-the-wool night rider speech, and to see the law and order (?) gang cheering him was a sight to sicken and disgust. Poor old John said that he never whipped any man's back, or burned his barn or his house or anything else but when he heard of this kind of thing being done he never cried nairy a whimper, and when he said it the gang yelled themselves hoarse. You know it was the same gang that took Gus Willson up in its arms when he came here some two years ago doing everything in his power to destroy the farmers organization by declaring that the members of it were all night riders, etc., and the same gang that was out to hear poor old John and cheered him when he attempted to make a real night rider speech cheered Willson when he came here. Is it any wonder that the people have no respect for such hypocrisy and such hypocrites?

OUR FIRST PLANK.

First.—I believe that the election of Hon. O. M. James to the United States Senate will be of greater benefit to the people of this district than the election of any other man and hereby pledge myself to vote for him in case of my election. The people of this district have so expressed themselves and I heartily concur in their expressed wishes.

Any man who says we have ever declared that we expected or anticipated voting for any other than Mr. James for the United States Senate, who says or intimates that we have been bought, hired or that we have even said that we expected to vote for any other than HONEST measures and measures that will be in the interest of the people we represent in case of our election to the state senate, is an infamous liar and wouldn't tell the truth if he was staring St. Peter in the eye. Take that and smoke it in your pipe, and upon the other hand, when any man says to you that we have ever betrayed any trust placed in our keeping, ever turned traitor to the cause of the people, the laboring masses, tell him the very same and you will tell him the truth.

WATCH THE TRAITORS.

If we are to be led by a political boss or gang, as a yearling is led with a ring in his nose, we would not express any choice as to who the leader should be. We are fighting boss and gang rule, and at the same time are keeping our weather eye on the traitors who have expressed such undying love for the people and who can be purchased like a pig in a poke. It is possible that such characters will spring up in Calloway county in this present fight, and we warn the people against them. If the cause of honest government, honest elections, including committee elections, is to be sacrificed in this county and state place Jennings and his candidacy for the state senate on the block, he can stand it and will remain here to damn and destroy the Benedict Arnolds, but vote for O'Rear, his field of usefulness is broad and Kentucky needs his services.

One good brother says he will vote for O'Rear because he believes him to be a trustworthy friend of the county unit. And yet this brother, sees, reads and hears it reiterated every day that O'Rear's chief chairman and grand mogul is the president and head of the whiskey interests of the State. Are not all these men, papers and citizens as much entitled to be believed as Mr. O'Rear?—Calloway Times.

Why don't you come out and say that Rev. H. B. Taylor, to whom you have reference in the above article, has been bought by the whiskey gang? You little short eared cross breed between a mule and a mare I believe Jim Edwards, high mogul and general instructor of how free Kentuckians should vote, was correct when he said that somebody didn't make any difference who it was, should be asked to write some for the Times before the campaign was over as they needed it very much.

THE ISSUES.

Judge O'Rear, the Republican standard bearer, is daily setting before the people of Kentucky the same progressive policies which have been adopted in several States, notably in New Jersey and California. In the Republican State of New Jersey Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, espoused the reform policies and the people elected him Governor. We can not recall an instance where the people have rejected the leader of these progressive policies, whether it was a Republican or Democrat who led the movement. If the people of Kentucky have the honesty and courage of the people of California, New Jersey and Ohio, there is no doubt about the election of O'Rear.

As a citizen of Kentucky we earnestly hope that the people may not be blinded by party bias. It is apparent to any intelligent man that the National phase given the present State campaign by the Democratic press, and speakers is to obscure the judgment and blind the vision of the voters. Why is this done? Because they dare not discuss the reforms needed for the cleansing of our State government because it would open to the people their record of duplicity and fraud. The issue is, "Shall we stick in the mud and refuse to go forward?"

There is nothing in the long life of McCreary, covering a span of three quarters of a century, to attract attention; inspire hope of gain support. Some say that "he is a grand old man," others say that "he is the nominee of the Democratic party." What a record. According to the message of his successor, Gov. Blackburn, and the records, his administration thirty-seven years ago was a miserable failure. What better are we to expect now? The only form of activity he has shown in forty years is that he is an adept scholar in bolting the nominee of his party for Governor. O'Rear is in the prime of life and full maturity and power for good. He has rendered the State valuable service. He has the honesty, purity and sincerity of Abraham Lincoln, and the courage of Roosevelt. He knows what the State needs and how to secure it. As Governor he will make the State clean, strong, potent and impregnable.

Do not be blinded by party bias, but for the good of the State and needed reforms vote for O'Rear. —Morgantown Republican.

At the recent meeting of the county committee of the tobacco association John Adams & Co., of Coldwater, secured a renewal of their contract to prize tobacco for another season at the same old stand. John Adams is one of the loyal association men of the county and has been ever since the first day of its organization and has remained loyal every year and will always be a loyal member. Last year they prized quite a large number of hogheads and sold every one of them at good prices and their work was always pronounced good and satisfactory to the people. We know John Adams and to know him is to like him, and the people of his section of the county can do no better than place their business in his care.

The Remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to this high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.

Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is carefully prepared so as to develop its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid. Without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible. The Carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store, Dale & Stubblefield.

Killed by a Negro.

Fred Gilliam, one of Mayfield's best known young men, was killed early Sunday morning in Memphis, Tenn., in which city he was making his temporary home.

He was killed by a negro, driver of a milk wagon, who struck him on the head with a five gallon milk can.

He has spent a portion of the past summer in Paducah, but has always claimed Mayfield as his home, having a number of warm friends there, and many relatives. He leaves a young wife, who is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hollifield, at Hazel, Ky.

SYNOPSIS.

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border planter, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming war parties of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then, some time later, a wagon and at full gallop pursued by many on foot. When the wagon reaches the riders, the savages have massacred two men and captured the woman. Keith, who is a Virginian, is charged with the murder of the woman. He goes to jail, realizing that the only way to escape is to kill his captors. He escapes from the jail, and later the two fugitives become lost in the desert. They come upon a cabin and find its lone occupant to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as being the daughter of the man who was killed. Keith explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Hawley, induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears and Keith in hidden excitement tells him that he has found his brother. Hawley tries to make love to the girl, but she is a Virginian and she is not to be won. There is a terrible battle in the darkness in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Hawley is captured, and the girl who saved her name is Hope, who is the daughter of the man who was killed.

"No, I have ridden this country for years, and there is no ranch pasturing cattle along the Santa Fe trail. Miss Hope, I want you to comprehend what it is you are feeling from within the last two years an apparently organized band of outlaws have been operating throughout this entire region. Often times disguised as Indians, they have terrorized the Santa Fe trail for two hundred miles, killing travelers in small parties, and driving off stock. There are few ranches as far west as this, but these have all suffered from raids. These fellows have done more to precipitate the present Indian war than any act of the savages. They have endeavored to make the authorities believe that Indians were guilty of their deeds of murder and robbery. Both troops and volunteers have tried to hold the gang up, but they scatter and disappear, as though swallowed by the desert. I have been unable to believe Hawley to be their leader."

"Then you will report all this to the authorities?"

"I am smiling grimly, his lips compressed. "I hardly think so; at least, not for the present. I am not blood-thirsty, or enamored of man-hunting, but I happen to have a personal interest in this particular affair which I should prefer to settle alone." He paused, swiftly reviewing the circumstances of their short acquaintance, and as suddenly deep down in his heart he rather wanted her to know. The fact of the matter is, that he and I here were the ones that particular posse were trailing."

"You!" her voice faltered. "He said those men were under arrest for murder, and had broken jail."

"He also said it was easy to convict men in this country if you only knew how. It is true we broke jail, but only in order to save our lives, it was the only way. Technically, we are outlaws, and now, run the risk of immediate re-arrest by returning north of the Arkansas. We came to you fugitives; I was charged with murder, the negro with assault. So, you see, Miss Hope, the desperate class of men you are now associating with."

"The slight bitterness in his tone stung the girl into resentment. She was looking straight at him, but in the gloom he could not discern the expression of her eyes."

"I don't believe it," she exclaimed decisively. "You—you do not look like that!"

"My appearance may be sufficient to convince you," he returned, rather dryly. "But would weight little before a Western court. Unfortunately, the evidence was strong against me; or would have been had the case ever come to a trial. The strange thing about it was that both warrants were sworn out by the same complainant, and apparently for a similar purpose—'Black Bart' Hawley."

"What purpose?"

"To keep us from telling what we knew regarding a certain crime, in which either he, or some of his intimate friends, were deeply interested."

"I don't believe it—you—you do not look like that," she exclaimed.

For that scene witnessed near the Cimarron Crossing, but making slightly clear his very slight connection with it, and the reason those who were guilty of the crime were so anxious to get him out of the way. The girl listened intently, asking few questions, until he ended. Then they both looked up, conscious that dawn was becoming gray in the east. Keith's first thought was one of relief—the bright sky showed him they were riding straight north.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Ford of the Arkansas. They were still in the midst of the yellow featureless plain, but the weary horses had slowed down to a walk, the heavy, hazy, depressing scene in the spectral gray light, a wide circle of intense loneliness, unbroken by either dwarfed shrub or bunch of grass, a barren expanse stretching to the sky. Vague cloud shadows seemed to float across the level surface, assuming fantastic shapes, but all of the same dull coloring, imperfect and unfinished. Nothing seemed tangible or real, but rather some grotesque picture of delirium, ever merging into another yet more hideous. The very silence of those surrounding wastes seemed burdensome, adding immeasurably to the horror. They were but specks crawling underneath the sky—the only living, moving objects in all that immense circle of desolation and death. Keith turned in his saddle, looking back past the boy who lay in his seat, with head resting on his breast, as though asleep, his horse plodding after the others along the slight trail they had made across the desert. So far as eye could reach nothing moved, nothing apparently existed. Frowning again to the north he looked upon the same grim, barrenness, only that far off, against the lighter background of distant sky, there was visible a faint blur, a bluish haze, which he believed to be the distant sand dunes bordering the Arkansas. The intense dreariness of it all left a feeling of depression. His eyes turned and regarded the girl riding steadily beside him. The same look of depression, the same stolid, apathetic face, and she was gazing off into the dull distance with lack-luster eyes, her slender form leaning forward, her hands clasped across the pommel. The long, weariness of the night had left traces on her young face, robbing it of some of its freshness, yet Keith found it more attractive in the growing daylight than amid the lamp shadows of the evening before. He had not previously realized the peculiar clearness of her complexion, the rose tint showing through the olive skin, or the soft and silky fineness of her hair, which, disarranged, was strangely becoming under the broad brim of the hat she wore drawn low until it shadowed her eyes. He was not a face to be easily associated with frontier combat, or any surrender to evil; the chin, round and firm, the lips full, yet sufficiently compressed, the whole expression that of pure and dignified womanhood. She puzzled him, and he scarcely knew what to believe, or exactly how to act toward her.

"Our friends back yonder should be turning out from the corral by now," he said finally, anxious to break the silence, for she had not spoken since he ended his tale. "It will not be long until they discover Hawley's predicament, and perhaps the welkin already rings with profanity. That may even account for the blue haze out yonder."

"She turned her eyes toward him, and the slightest trace of a smile appeared from out of the depths of their weariness."

"If they would only remain satisfied with that. Will they follow us, do you think? And are we far enough away by this time to be safe?"

"It is hardly likely they will let us escape without a chase," he answered slowly. "We possess too much information now that we have their rendezvous located, and 'Black Bart' will have a private grudge to revenge. I wonder if he suspects who asked him?" But don't worry, Miss Hope, we have miles the start, and the wind has been strong enough to cover our trail. Do you see that dark irregularity ahead?"

"No, the Arkansas sand dunes. I am going to try to keep the horses moving until we arrive there. Then we will halt and eat whatever Neb packed behind him, and rest for an hour or two. You look very tired, but I hope you can keep up for that distance. We shall be safely out of sight then."

"Indeed, I am tired; the strain of waiting alone that cabin, and all that happened last night, have tired me severely. But—but I can go through."

Her voice proved her weakness, although it was determined enough, and Keith, yielding to sudden impulse, put out his hand, and permitted it to rest upon hers, clasped across the pommel. Her eyes dropped, but there was no change of posture.

"Your nerve, in all right," he said, admiringly. "You have shown yourself a brave girl."

how useless it would be to explain and a little ashamed of her own ill-defined fears, and thus they rode on in silence. He did not notice that she glanced aside at him shyly, marking the outline of his clearest features. It was a mainly face, strong, alive, full of character, the well-shaped head firmly poised, the broad shoulders squared in spite of the long night of weary exertion. The depths of her eyes brightened with appreciation. "I believe your story, Mr. Keith," she said at last softly.

"My story?" questioning, and turning instantly toward her.

"Yes; all that you have told me about what happened."

"Oh, I had almost forgotten having told it, but I never felt any doubt but what you would believe. I don't think I could lie to you."

"It was no compliment, but spoken with such evident honesty that her eyes met his with frankness. "There could be no necessity; only I wanted you to know that I trust you—and am grateful."

She extended her hand this time, and he took it within his own, holding it firmly, yet without knowing what to answer. There was strong impulse within him to question her, to learn then and there her own life story. Yet, somehow, the reticence of the girl restrained him; he could not deliberately probe beneath the veil she kept lowered between them. Until she chose to lift it herself voluntarily, he possessed no right to intrude. The gentlemanly instincts of younger years held him silent, realizing clearly that whatever secret might dominate her life, it was hers to conceal just as long as she pleased. Out of this swift struggle of repression he managed to say:

"I appreciate your confidence, and mean to prove worthy. Perhaps some day I can bring you the proofs."

"I need none other than your own."

"Oh, but possibly you are too easily convinced; you believed in Hawley."

She looked at him searchingly, her eyes glowing, her cheeks flushed.

"Yes," she said slowly, convincing. "I know I did. I was so anxious to be helped, but—but this is different."

ALAS! THE POOR DUCHESS

She Thought Wealthy Couple Were Making Sport of Her Wedding Present.

Recently, when the wealthy Mlle. de R. was to be married, one of our good duchesses had to make her a present, just a little present. The duchess thought it would be useless to expend much money for a person so rich. She thought if she would look through her vast mansion she would be able to find something, some trinket, to which the addition of her card would give sufficient glory. She finally found in her writing desk an insignificant cameo that she had once worn.

The following day she received from her young friend a letter of enthusiasm. "Oh, you have been very foolish! This is too, too beautiful," etc.

"She is making sport of my little present," thought the good duchess. "Then came a second letter, this time from the husband who was to be. 'How can we thank you? We are delighted. This will spoil us.'"

"The impertinent fellow," said the duchess, "he wants me to understand that I have been negligent."

Nevertheless she went to pay a visit to the R.'s before the marriage. There in the midst of the presents, exposed in a most prominent place, she saw the little cameo placed upon her card. "An old gentleman," she said, "he was a member of the Academy of inscriptions and Belletristes."

"What a wonderful present you have given these children, Madame in duchess," he said. "For forty years we have been seeking for this very cameo. It is of the era of Trojan, and this trinket is valued at two hundred thousand francs."

Ab, the poor duchess—Le Cri de Paris.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

There are two ways to tell if you have weak kidneys. The first is through pain in the back. The second by examining the kidney secretions. If you suspect your kidneys, begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at once. Mrs. J. L. Warlick, 406 W. Mulberry St., Lebanon, Ohio, says: "No tongue can tell the agonies I suffered. My feet and limbs were lifeless and there were weeks when I could not put my feet to the floor or stand alone. As a last resort, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. In six weeks I was as free from kidney trouble as if I had never had it."

SUITED TO A TEE.

Fox (to bear)—Come over tomorrow and we'll play a game of golf on the links.

Bear—All right. I don't know what the game is, but if there's any job you can put up on the links I'm in with you.

For Cramps. A piece of old-fashioned candlewick worn around the leg in the garter place, next to the skin, will prevent, or cure, cramp in the calf of the leg or in the foot. I have proved this by personal experience—I believe this would prove effective in preventing swimmers' cramp; those liable to cramp while in the water would be wise to try it. Cottonbating, wrapped round the body from the arms pit downward, saved the life of a man suffering agony from painter's cramp; it gave almost instant relief—National Magazine.

A Fly Parade.

First Fly—Howdy, old pal? What sort of a season have you had?

Second Fly—Much the same as usual. Didn't take any outing this year. I'm at my old quarters in the livery stable.

First Fly—Pretty dull, I should say. I've been in clover. That's right. If there ever was a fly Eden I found it. Listen. No screens, baldheaded owner, baldheaded baby, flypaper easy to eat and three fat women who couldn't sweat an elephant. I'm going back there next summer.

It pays to be honest—at least it pays your employer.

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof. "I had my back hurt in the Rear War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of drugs without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am about as well."

OLD INDIAN IS ALL ALONE

Ishi, the Wild Man Recently Captured. Has Voice Tricks to Shout Animals.

Washington, D. C.—Officials of the Indian bureau here are wondering what they shall do with the lone survivor of the Yana tribe of Indians, popularly known as the Nogi, who was captured near Oroville, Cal., recently. A report was received from Charles L. Davis, one of the agents of the bureau, in which he recommended that the lone Yana be cared for by some member of an allied tribe. This, it was said, probably would be the course adopted.

"After a year or two," said Mr. Davis, "he doubtless would be able to look after himself, become a member of the band and live as they do."

This lone Yana, Mr. Davis believes, is the last of a group of four or five Indians who for years had lived in the virtually inaccessible haunts of canyons along the Feather river.

Several years ago a party of surveyors the reports adds, evidently drove them from this seclusion, and in the attempt to find another hiding place all of them perished, save the old man taken a few days ago. "He is an expert," Mr. Davis says, "in imitating the calls of wild animals, showing he preserved the wiles of the savage to allure the wild game to him."

"The capture of this man is of the utmost importance to anthropologists," says Professor Kroeber of the University of California. "He represents a dialect that we supposed was extinct. He is more of an aborigine than any of the Indians we have been studying for the last ten years."

Ishi is so densely ignorant that he does not know what money is, for money has been of as much use to him as it was to Robinson Crusoe.

Ishi is not very strong; his muscles are not well developed, and when he grips the testing machine as hard as he can he makes a low record. He talks in high keyed musical tones, which have something of the plaintiveness of a child. When he sits he squats on his heels. He dips up this soup with three fingers, which he crooks, and uses only two fingers for thick soup.

A PECULIAR NEW AEROPLANE
Its Unusual Shape is Expected to Obviate Present Difficulties—Inventor Claims Stability.

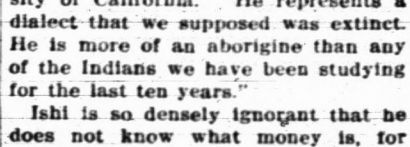

Paterson, N. J.—W. A. Gary, of Paterson, has built an aeroplane which looks as though it might easily "make a noise like a hoop and roll away." But it really can't. Moreover, Mr. Gary thinks it has solved the problem of stability, and that is the chief problem before the flying machine today.

Mr. Gary thinks his aeroplane has met the Wright patent and avoided any infringement of them, while all the other successful flying machines, it is claimed, must pay the Wrights royalty.

The Wright and other flyers meet changed conditions, caused by gusts of wind on one side or the other, by warping the main planes of intermediate planes. If they didn't their machines would skid sideways into the first air pocket and be wrecked. Mr. Gary's machine presents a side riding at the bottom of the hoop in which his three planes are enclosed, brings the center of gravity of the machine so low that it can't tip over. It is now awaiting the building of a heavy motor to have its final trial.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first, there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public."

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1914.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

EVER TAKE A MUSIC BATH?

They Are as Good for the Soul, Holmes Says, as Water for the Body.

One must be educated, no doubt, to understand the more complex and difficult kinds of musical composition. Go to the concert where you know that the music is good, and that you ought to like it whether you do or not. Take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons, and you will find that it is to the body, I wouldn't trouble myself about the affections of people who go to this or that series of concerts chiefly because it is fashionable. Some of these people whom we think so silly will perhaps find, sooner or later, that they have a dormant faculty which is at last waking up, and that they who came because others came, and began by staring at the audience, are listening with a newly found delight. Everyone of us has a harp under the bodice or waistcoat, and if it can only once get properly strung and tuned it will respond to all outside harmonies.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Rhode Island First to Have Navy.
Rhode Island was the first state to create a navy of its own, and captured the first prize, a British frigate, off Newport. Seeing its success, the continental Congress chose Rhode Island to execute plans for a colonial navy, and Essek Hopkins, the first command-in-chief, and three-fourths of all the officers were from this state. In the later war of 1812 it was another Rhode Islander, Commander Perry, who fought the immortal battle on Lake Erie, when he "met the enemy and they are ours!"—National Magazine.

This "first aid to the injured" is so efficient you will be tempted to leave it permanently.—National Magazine.

Every man hugs the delusion that sooner or later he will invent something that will make him rich.

Whenever you have a pain think of Hamlin's Wood Oil. For Headache, Toothache, Earache, Stomach ache, and many other painful ailments there is nothing better.

It's all right to help others, but it doesn't pay to be too busy to stop and help yourself.

Many a Murray Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Murray readers.

Tony Shaffer, 422 S. 9th St., Paducah, Ky., says: "The hard work I have done, together with the excessive stooping, no doubt, caused my kidney complaint. There was a constant dull pain in the small of my back and across my kidneys and my whole body was lame and sore, my kidneys were also very weak and their secretions passed too frequently. After having taken various remedies without getting relief, I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and procured a supply. To my delight the first few doses brought me relief and as I continued taking this remedy, I steadily grew better until every symptom of my trouble was removed. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of endorsement."
