KEITH OF THE BORDER

A TALE OF THE PLAINS

SYNOPSIS

Jack Keith, a Virginian, now a border platoon, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming bands of savages. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team of horses and a wagon and at full gallop pursues them. When he reaches the camp he finds the riders have murdered two men and departed. He searches the victims' pockets and finds a letter and a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers. Keith is arrested at Carson City, charged with the murder, his accuser being a ruffian named Black Bart. He goes to jail fully realizing the peril of swift border justice. A companion in his cell is a negro, who tells him he is Ned and that he knows the Keith family back in Virginia. Ned says one of the murdered men was John Murphy, the other Dr. Williams. Ned, formerly an officer in the Confederate army, the planman and Ned escape from the jail, and later the two fugitives become lost in the sand desert. They come upon a cabin and find an old woman to be a young girl, whom Keith recognizes as a sister of his brother. Ned explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. A Mr. Hawley, however, had come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother. Hawley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as Black Bart. Hawley tries to make love to the girl. There is a terrible battle in the barbed room in which Keith overcomes Black Bart. Hawley is appropriated, and the girl who says that her name is Hope, joins in the escape. Keith explains his situation and the fugitives make for Fort Larned.

CHAPTER XIII.—(Continued)

It was noon, the sun pitiless and hot above them, before they straggled within the partial shelter of the sand dunes, and sank wearily under the meager lunch. Their supply of water was limited, and the exhausted pioneers must wait until they reached the river to quench their thirst. Yet this was very far off now, and Keith had seen enough of their surroundings to locate the position of the ford. Slow as they moved, three hours more would surely bring them to the bank of the stream. They discussed their plans briefly as the three sat together on the warm sand, revived both by the food and the brief rest. There was not a great deal to be determined, only where the girl should be left, and how the two men had better proceed to escape observation.

Fort Larned was the nearest and safest place for their charge, none of the party expressing any desire to adventure themselves within the immediate neighborhood of Carson City. What her future plans might be were not revealed, and Keith forebore any direct questioning. His duty plainly ended with placing her in a safe environment, and he felt convinced that Mrs. Murphy, of the Occidental Hotel, would furnish room, and, if necessary, companionship. The sole problem remaining—after she had rather hesitantly agreed to such an arrangement—was to plan the details as to permit the negro and himself to slip through the small town clustered about the post without attracting undue attention. No doubt, the story of their escape had already reached there, embellished by telling, and serious trouble might result from discovery. Keith was surprised at the slight interest she exhibited in these arrangements, merely signifying her acquiescence by a word, but he charged it to physical weariness, and the reaction from her night of peril; yet he took pains to explain fully his plan, and to gain her consent.

This finally settled, they mounted again and rode on through the lanes traversing the sand dunes, keeping headed as straight as possible toward the river. The ford sought was some miles down stream, but with the horses' thirst mitigated, they made excellent progress, and arrived at the spot early in the evening. Not in all the day had they encountered a living object, or seen a moving thing amid the surrounding desolation. Now, looking across to the north, a few gleaming lights told of Fort Larned, verched upon the opposite bluff.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Landlady of the Occidental. Keith had crossed at this point so frequently with cattle that, once having his bearings, the blackness of the night made very little difference. Nevertheless, in fear lest her pony might stumble over some irregularity, he gave his own rein to Ned, and went forward on foot, grasping firmly the third woman's skirt. It was a long stretch of sand and water ascending from bank to bank, but the water was shallow, the only danger being that of straying off from the more solid bottom into quicksand. With a lowering cottonwood as guide, safely shaped and standing out gauntly against the slightly lighter sky, the planman led on unhesitatingly, until they began to climb the rather sharp uplift of the north bank. Here, though a plain trail, pounded into smoothness by the hoofs of cavalry horses ridden down to water, and at the summit they emerged within fifty yards of the village.

The few lights visible, some stationary, with others dancing about, like the flames of various bonfires, but Keith turned sharply to the right, anxious to slip past without being challenged by a sentry. Beyond the brow of the bluff other lights now became visible, flickering here and there, marking where a straggling town had sprung up under the protection of the post—a town garish enough in the daylight, composed mostly of shacks and tents, but now with its deficiencies mercifully concealed by the enveloping darkness. The trail, easily followed, led directly along its single street, but Keith circled the outskirts through a wilderness of tin cans and heaps of other debris until he halted his charges beside the black shadow of the only two-story edifice in the place. This was the Occidental, the hospitality of which he had frequently tested.

A light streamed from out the front windows, but uncertain who might be harbored within, Keith tapped gently at the back door. It was not opened immediately, and when it was finally shoved aside the merest crack, no glow of light revealed the darkened interior. The voice which spoke, however, was amply sufficient to identify its owner.

"Is that ye again, Murphy, a playin' av yer dirty tricks?"

"No, Mrs. Murphy," he hastened to explain, "this is Keith—Jack Keith, of the 'Bar X'."

"The Lord deliver us!" was the instant exclamation, the door opening wide. "They do be after tellin' me to-night av the trouble ye was in over at Carson, an' Oi tought maybe ye mought turn up this way. It was turn av huntin' her. Oi'd loike ter take one slap at the spalpane."

Fully convinced as to Mrs. Murphy's good-will, Keith slipped back into the darkness, and returned with the girl. Introductions were superfluous, as the mistress of the Occidental cared little regarding ceremony.

"An' is this you, my dear?" she burst out, endeavoring to curb her voice to secretive softness. "Shure, Jack Keith has told me all about it, an' it's safe it is yer goin' ter be here. Come on in; Oi'll give ye number forty-two, the next behint me own room, an' we'll go up the back stairs. Hilloo, the young lady, Jack, fer shure ye know the way."

She disappeared, evidently with some hospitable purpose in view, and Keith, clasping the girl's hand, undertook the delicate task of safely escorting her through the dark kitchen, and up the dimly remembered stairs. Only a word or two passed between them, but as they neared the second story a light suddenly streamed out through the opened door of a room at their left. Mrs. Murphy greeted them at the landing, and for the first time saw the girl's weary white face, her eyes filled with appeal, and the worn Irish heart responded instantly.

"Ye poor little lamb, it's the bid ye want, an' a drap av whiskey. Jack Keith, why didn't ye till me she was done up wid the hard ride? Here, honey, sit down in the rocker till Oi get ye a wee drink. It'll bring the a nice trick ye played on the lokes av 'em, Jack, but this is a dom' poor place for ye ter hide in. Bedad, there's a half-dozen in the parly now talkin' about it, wid a couple av officers from the fort. In the name av the Lord, ye

"Yes, but we have no intention of hiding here. I'd rather take my chance in the open. The fact is, Kate, we started off for the 'Bar X'."

"Av course, ye did. Oi was shure av it."

"But down on the Salt Fork we ran across a young girl whom Black Bart had inveigled down that way on a lie. We had a bit of a fight, and got her away from him. This is what brought us back here—'tis the girl where she will be safe out of his clutches."

The door was wide open now, and Mrs. Murphy, outside, her interest at fever heat.

"Ye had a fight wid Black Bart? Oh, ye divil! An' ye licked the dirty spalpane, an' got away wid the girl? Glory be! And would Oi take her? Well, Oi would. Niver doubt that, me boy. She may be the quane av Shaba, but the lokes av 'em, had better kape away from Kate Murphy. It's gine Oi an' ter do it! Bring her in, Oi don't want ter hear no more."

"Just a word, Kate, I didn't know she was as good as gone. An' it's safe for me to leave her."

"Oh, the girl take her pin. She'll have the best in the house, anyhow. An' Oi'm only hopin' that fellow will

Strengthen of the New-Born

Mucos of the Forearm Especially Seem to be Perfectly Satisfactory

The myth of the infant Hercules, who strangled two serpents in his cradle, may not have been a myth at all. But a fact, says the London Telegraph. Modern science has proved that it is quite a possible feat. The new-born babe is relatively much stronger than a full-grown man, according to the report of medical men. "The muscles of the forearm are surprisingly vigorous. A few hours after birth a baby, suspended by its hands to a stick, or so the finger of a person can hold itself in the air for ten seconds, and in the case of particularly strong infants, for as long as half a minute. At four days old the child's strength has increased, and the time is two and a half minutes for 85 per cent of babies. The maximum is attained at a fortnight. Few infants can hang out for more than one and a half minutes, though one exceptional young Hercules remained suspended for two minutes and 38 seconds by his right hand. After that he still hung on with his left for 15 seconds longer. It is not stated whether these babies were put through these feats before or after a fortnight. "Woman rarely uses either vinegars and oils in her dressing until she is past her salad days."

Too Late to Change. "A man can no more change his reputation than he can change his face or his arms," said Senator La Follette at a banquet in Madison. "There was once a wicked old Madison millionaire who took his pastor aside and said: 'I am going to devote the remainder of my life to doing good.' 'Dr. Thirly, outspoken man, retorted: 'Do you mean John H. Good, the wealthy farmer, or young Sam Good, the Socialist millionaire?'"

The Awakening. Dignified mother of prospective bride (to social editor)—And little Dorothy, sister of the bride, who is to be flower girl, will be dressed like a Dresden shepherdess, with golden crook festooned with rosebuds and Young voice from the stairway—Ma, where is the washrag?—Judge.

The girl's glance wandered over the plain, neat furnishings, and the rather pathetic attempts at decoration, yet with apparently no thought for them. "You have not told me where you were going." He laughed, a little uneasily, as though he preferred to make light of the whole matter. "In the matter of recognition, and in this very room, too."

"But I am interested," resenting his tone of assumed indifference. "I would not want to feel that our acquaintance was to wholly end now."

"Do you really mean that?" "Why should I not? You have been a real friend to me; I shall remember you always with a gratitude beyond words. I want you to know this, and that—that I shall ever wish to retain that friendship."

Keith struggled with himself, doubtful of what he had best say, swayed by unfamiliar emotions. "I don't know now which direction we will ride, but I'm not going very far until I clear up that murder out yonder on the trail; that is my particular job just now."

Before she could answer, Mrs. Murphy re-entered and forced her to drink the concoction prepared, the girl accepting with smiling protest. The landlady, empty glass in hand, swept her eyes about the room. "Bedad, but the place looks better than ever Oi'd believed, wid the gyrl Oi've got tandin' to it. She's that laxy she goes ter slape swappin' the shure. Jack, would ye mind hilpin' me more the bid, shure, it's rale marnin' an' so heavy it breaks me back intirely to push it round."

He took hold willingly enough, and the two together ran the heavy counter across the room to the position selected. Once a leg caught in the rag carpet, and Keith lifted it out, bending low to get a firmer grip. Then he held out his hand to the girl.

"It is not going to be good-bye then, Miss Hope, I'll find you."

She smiled up into his eyes, much of the weariness gone from her face. "I am going to believe that," she answered, "because I want to."

Mrs. Murphy lingered until his steps sounded on the stairs, as he slowly felt his way down through the darkness.

"He do be a mighty fine boy, Jack Keith," she said, apparently addressing the side wall. "Oi wish Oi'd a knowed him when Oi was a gyrl; shure, it's not shurely me noime'd be now, Oi'm t'inkin'."

Left alone, the girl bowed her head on her hands, a hot tear stealing down through her fingers. As she glanced up again, something that glittered on the floor beside the bed caught her eyes. She stopped and picked it up, holding the trinket to the light, staring at it as though fascinated. It was the locket Keith had taken from the neck of the dead man at Cimmaron Crossing.

Heavens! Her nerveless fingers pressed the spring, and the painted face within looked up into her own, and instantly clasping it within her hand, she sank upon her knees, burying her face on the bed.

"Where did he get that?" her lips kept repeating. "Where did he ever get that?"

She Probably Was Worth It. "I proposed last night and today I have to see the girl's father." "A painful ordeal!" "Yes; I feel morally certain that he is going to borrow at least $50."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

So combines the great curative principles of Roots, Barks and Herbs as to raise them to their highest efficiency; hence its unequalled cures.

Readers of this paper—send in your column should limit upon having what they ask for, relating all substitutes or imitations.

Honored by Women. When a woman speaks of her ailments, suffering, she trusts you. Millions have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who suffer from blood impurities, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only remedy that cures them. It makes weak women strong. It makes sick women well. No woman's appeal was ever misdirected or her confidence misplaced when she wrote for advice to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Rayo Lamps and Lanterns. The strong, steady light. Rayo lamps and lanterns give most light for the oil they burn. Do not flicker. Will not blow or jar out. Simple, reliable and durable—and sold at a price that will surprise you. Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps and lanterns, or write to any agency of Standard Oil Company (Incorporated).

Grapefruit Greenery. Effective greenery for the dining room table may be made by planting the seeds of grapefruit. Sow them thickly, and in two weeks, if the earth is good and has been kept moist, a warm place, the little shoots appear. Two weeks more and the leaves unfold, and very soon there is a mass of rich, glossy green, which is not affected by gas or furnace heat.—Suburban Life.

Modern Pharmacy. We have a very fine course in pharmacy, says the president of the college to the father of the student who is entering. "I'm glad to hear that. My boy expects to become a druggist."

Not If He Knew It. "That's a nice little game you played on that girl in not showing up at the church when you were to be married to her."

"Well, it wasn't a tie game."

A dollar saved is often a dollar loaned.

If You Have a Sickly Youngster Try This Free

The family with young children that is without sickness in the house now and then is fairly, and so it is important that the head of the house should know what to do in the little emergencies that arise. A child with a serious ailment needs a doctor. It is true, but in the majority of instances, as any parent knows, the child suffers from some intestinal trouble, usually constipation. There is no pain in giving it a pill—a severely suffering infant, or even a comatose, rather give it a small dose of a mild, gentle laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, by clearing out the bowels and strengthening the liver, stomach, and intestines, will immediately correct the trouble. This is not alone our opinion, but that of Mrs. N. H. Moss of Proctor, Kansas. Recently and of Mrs. E. C. Witting of Iowa, who gives it to her child, fifty cents and one dollar bottles at every drug store, but if you want to test it in your family before you buy it send for a sample free of charge. For the free sample address: Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 324 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER. In every cold weather emergency you need a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater. If your bedroom cold when you close your windows? Do you wake pipes frozen in the night? Is it chilly when the wind whistles around the exposed corners of your house? A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater brings comfort and warmth to your room. It burns kerosene, and is made for burning kerosene. It is the best heater for the bedroom. Ask your dealer to show you a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater or write for descriptive circular to any agency of Standard Oil Company (Incorporated).

Last week the Beech brothers shades had been drawn and my-adjusted their "thinking caps" and decided to get on the "spur of the moment" to rearrange the and otherwise clean up their place of business. The place in which their business is conducted has undergone a decided change and as a result of their labors, ably assisted by their corps of clerks, the house has been overhauled from front to rear in every detail and presents a decided contrast over former appearances. Counters and shelving have been moved, arranged and repainted, a beautiful linoleum now covers the floor, clean and white covers grace the once bare tables, new up-to-date spin-top stools replace the old wooden affairs, new paper placed on the wall, the front painted white, beside other numerous changes. The Beech brothers have since acquiring possession of this restaurant, succeeded in building up a good patronage and pride themselves on giving their many patrons a square deal at all times. These gentlemen are to be congratulated on the changes wrought and now have one of the cleanest and up-to-date places of business in the county.

McDaniel Socialist Local.

We the members of the McDaniel Socialist local, met at Center Grove school house, located in Calloway county, and nominated Joe Bell to make the race for Representative on the Socialist ticket, being the only ones that had any right to nominate anyone on the Socialist ticket, since the rules of the Socialist party requires any one that votes in the nomination of a candidate shall be a member of a Socialist local. We did this in good faith thinking that our party would be strengthened by Comrade Bell's race, and with out any enmity to Mr. Melan, the Republican nominee or Mr. Chunn, the Democratic nominee, but simply because we knew that the Democratic as well as the Republican party did not represent the farmer or the working man, and knowing that J. L. Bell was a man of iron will and one who was never known to weaken from persecution or danger and a man that has the working people at heart, and not afraid to stand by his convictions, we nominated him and feel proud of him, because he is too much for any of you who haven't had better opportunities than he. There is no Democrat or Republican in the county who will discuss issues with him from the stump. We understand that some vile and undermining scoundrels have circulated a report that he was put out to defeat Mr. Melan, by a gang that Mr. Melan says is behind Mr. Chunn, the Democratic nominee. We wish to say that no one may be misled by that lie for it is as base as hell itself and done for the sole purpose to get you to vote for the interest of the liar and against yourself.

As far as Mr. Melan is concerned we have nothing for him or against him, more than any one who has read his correspondence to the Paducah Sun and other papers. Anyone knows that he was not our friend until he wanted votes, then we looked good to him. Because we refused to be dictated to as to who we shall vote for our man must be lied on.

There was a petition circulated and 172 farmers signed it, as good and honest citizens as your county affords. Could have got en two hundred more if it had been necessary. The law only requires one hundred to have the name of a candidate appear on the ballot.

So hoping this will satisfy anyones mind excepting the ones that started the lie. We wish to say further that Mr. Bell could have had the Republican nomination if he would have accepted it over Mr. Melan—unless Mr. Melan had gotten together more than another hundred that did nominate him. Mr. Bell was asked by several both Democrats and republicans to make the race, but he told them every time that he was a Socialist and would not accept any nomination from either of the old parties, although he had always been a Republican up till a year ago when he voted for Harney for congress, and his father was a federal soldier and wore as much of the blue as any man of his rank. Just when the other candidates became a republican and democrat we are all in doubt. Further more Mr. Bell protested against our nominating him and told us in his speech of acceptance he would rather lay down $200 than to accept it, but said further the working class had never handed him anything too hot, so he would accept it with a guarantee that our confidence would not be betrayed by him.

We sign as follows:
John Boyd W. A. Taylor
G. E. Rowlett Jim Bell
T. M. Garland S. A. Douglas

VOTE FOR PERRY MELOAN FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

HIS PLATFORM:

Initiative, referendum and recall.
Reforms in settling estates so that unreasonable fees and outrageous court costs shall not eat up the estate.
State aid in road building.
Repeal of burial permit law.
Liberal appropriations for schools.
Amendment of law creating director of welfare and measures.
For Olie James for United States Senator.
For the county unit relative to liquor law.
Favors the repeal of the exemption law passed by the last legislature, which protects an unfortunate party in a divorce suit, if he has any and leaves his wife and children without the absolute necessities of life. Henry Chunn voted for this infamous law.
I am not making this race for any political purposes other than that which would benefit our people. I am against machine politics and I will not make any deal with any party, but I will ALWAYS be at my post of duty and cast the vote of the people upon all questions. I will not side-step or dodge out when important measures come up, as my opponent has done. I ask for your vote upon these conditions:

HOUSEHOLD CARES.

Tax the Women of Murray the Same as Elsewhere.

Hard to attend to household duties.
With a constantly aching back.
A woman should not have a bad back.
And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills make well kidneys.
Murray woman should profit by the following experience.

Mrs. J. M. Johnson, Depot St., Paris, Tenn., says: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, I have been entirely free from kidney trouble and in much better health. I had severe pains in my back and sometimes it was almost impossible for me to do my housework. My limbs often pained me dreadfully and though I doctored, I rapidly grew worse until I became so bad off that I could scarcely get about. I thought that my kidneys were disordered, but had no idea that they were the cause of my trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I concluded to try them and procured a box. I am very grateful to them for the benefit received."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends who were so kind and loving to us during the long and continued illness of our wife and mother. Nothing that kind and loving friends could do was undone, and to them we desire to return our heartfelt thanks. We also desire to acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude the many evidences of love and esteem by those who brought her so many beautiful flowers to brighten and cheer her long hours of intense suffering. We also wish to thank Dr. Hart for his kindness to our loved one and for his many kind words of sympathy to us, who we believe did all in his power to relieve her of her suffering and for her recovery. May God's blessings ever rest upon each and every one of you is the prayer of the heartbroken family.
J. C. Patwell and children.
